

THE TEXT OF THE NEW TESTAMENT OF IESVS CHRIST, TRANSLATED OVT OF the vulgar Latine by the Papiſts of the traiterous Seminarie at RHEMES. With Arguments of Bookes, Chapters, and Annotations, pretending to diſcouer the corruptions of diuers tranſlations, and to cleare the controuerſies of theſe dayes.

¶ VVhereunto is added the Tranſlation out of the Original Greeke, commonly vſed in the Church of ENGLAND,

WITH

A CONFVTATION OF ALL SVCH ARGVMENTS, GLOSSES, AND ANNOTATIONS, AS CONTEINE MANIFEST impietie, of hereſie, treaſon and ſlander, againſt the Catholike Church of GOD, and the true teachers thereof, or the Tranſlations vſed in the Church of England: Both by auctoritie of the holy Scriptures, and by the teſtimonie of the ancient fathers.

¶ BY WILLIAM FVLKE, Doctor in Diuinitie.

¶ Imprinted at London by the Deputies of Chriſtopher Barker, Printer to the QVEENES moſt excellent Maieſtie. ANNO 1589.

TO THE MOST HIGH AND MIGHTIE PRINCE ELIZABETH, by the grace of GOD, Queene of England, Fraunce, and Ireland, Defender of the faith, &c.

AT ſuch time as I publiſhed a defenſe of our Engliſh tranſlations of the holie Scriptures, againſt the malicious cauils of Gregorie Martine, and was bolde to offer the ſame vnto your Maieſties moſte honourable protection (moſt mightie and gratious Soueraigne) I thought my ſelfe diſcharged in duetie, from any further dealing againſt theſe Rhemiſh gloſes. Both for that I was perſwaded, that among ſo many learned Diuines, as doe now flouriſh in the Church of England, a worke of ſuch importance could not be altogether neglected: and eſpecially becauſe it was reported, that by other men of very good giftes, it was already, euen at the firſt vndertaken. But ſo many yeares hauing paſſed, and the expectation of many godly men not yet being ſatisfied with a full and generall anſwere (although their hunger hath been well ſlaked with ſundry learned diſcourſes, vttered partly by occaſion in other bookes, partly in ſpeciall Treatiſes directed againſt ſome portion of theſe Annotations, beſide often confutations of the ſame in publike Sermons) being ſolicited by men of good iudgement and qualities, I haue attempted to ſet forth by my ſelfe, that which I haue long looked for, and much rather deſired to be performed by others. Not meaning thereby, to preiudice the more learned labours, and longer ſtudied commentaries, of them that had taken the matter in hand before me, if they purpoſe at length to bring them to light: but to prouide in the meane time, that by a ſhort and ſufficient replye, the weake might be confirmed, the doubtfull ſatisfied, & eſpecially the inſolencie of the aduerſaries might be repreſſed. Who not content to quarrel at the ſinceritie & truth of our tranſlations, and to ſet out a farre worſe them ſelues: haue alſo indeuored to corrupt the ſenſe of the new teſtament (howſoeuer tranſlated) with hereticall notes and ſophiſticall collections. In which leſt their ſcope and purpoſe might be hidden in any point, they haue not onely ſought a colour for their vntrue poſitions in the controuerſies of this time, out of the holy Scriptures: but alſo they haue declared their ſpeciall malice againſt your Maieſties moſt lawfull and godly gouernment, not omitting in their traiterous intendement, to vndermine and ſupplant euen the foundation of your Maieſties moſt iuſt title of inheritance vnto the imperiall crowne of this Realme. Which their moſt vngodly intent, if it were at the firſt obſcure to any (as to wiſe men it could neuer be vnknowen) yet it hath ſince openly diſcouered it ſelfe to be the ſame, that was in ſending ouer of ſo many of their Circumcellion Ieſuits and Seminary Prieſts. Euen to prepare a way to thoſe moſt deteſtable practiſes, that ſince that time by ſecrete conſpiracies haue been attempted againſt your Maieſties moſt ſacred life (which by the miraculous pro-uidence of Almighty God hath hitherto been preſerued): & lately by open and inuincible force (as they boaſted) hath been aſ-ſaied, againſt the life and libertie, not onely of your moſt excellent Maieſtie, but alſo of all your faithful ſubiects, and to the vt-ter ſubuerſion of the happy eſtate of our moſt deere countrie for euer. But the Lord of Hoſtes our merciful father, in whom your Maieſtie hath alwaies truſted, and found helpe and deliuerance out of all your troubles, euen from your youth hitherto: and Ieſus Chriſt our Lord, whoſe Church vnder your moſt comfortable protection and gouernment, hath enioyed a long and happy reſt, to the ſaluation of many thouſand ſoules, hath mightely & merueloufly defended your Maieſtie and his Church. In which moſt glorious deliuerance, he hath ſo manifeſtly declared his gratious fauor toward vs, (that albeit nothing was omitted that by wiſe counſel ſhould haue been appointed, or by a valiant armie beene executed) yet he hath giuen vs euident occaſion to ſinge with the Prophet: By his owne right hande, and with his holie Pſal. 98. arme hath he gotten him ſelfe the victorie. And all the endes of the worlde haue ſeene the ſaluation of our God. Yea the whole Pſalme ſeemeth ſo liuely to expreſſe the Lordes mercie toward vs, and our duetie toward him, as if it had been ſpecially endi-ted for this time and occaſion. In which, with gratulation of your Maieſties moſt proſperous ſucceſſe, we may be bold to ſay, not only that which is in euery mans mouth and penne, out of

the Poet Claudianus :

O nimium dilecta Deo, tibi militat æther,
Et coniurati veniunt ad classica venti.

But also in imitation of an other elder Poet : Valerius Flaccus.

--- tua carbasa vexit
Oceanus, tumidos satis indignatus Iberos.

And whereas the aduersaries made no small accompt of that Astrologicall prediction, & perhaps trusted in it no lesse then Crœsus did in the answere of Apollo, we may now safely declare the accomplishment, by adding a Pentameter, and say :

Octogesimus octauus mirabilis annus
Clade Papistarum, faustus vbique pijs.

Thus hath the infinite goodnes of our Sauiour, not only giuen grace vnto your Maiestie, according to the heauenly oracle, Apoc.18,4. to leade the people of God with you out of Babylon : but also sufficient power and iust cause to render vnto her as she hath rendred vnto vs, and to reward her double according to her workes. Which great seueritie the spirite of God would not so streightly haue enioyned to his faithfull Church, and the cheife gouernours thereof, but that he foresawe, that the wickednes of Antichrist and his members would throughly deserue it.

A part of whose impietie against the Lorde, his worde, his Church, and your Maiestie his annointed, I haue endeuored according to my calling and abilitie, to lay open and ouetthrowe, by confuting these annotations : humbly beseeching your Maiestie graciously to accept my dutifull endeuour therein, not so worthy (I confesse) of your royall acceptation, as meete to be published in some respectes before mentioned.

The God of heauen who hath hitherto most abundantly garnished your Maiesties raigne, with all princely ornaments, equal to the best, and superior to the most of your noble progenitors, vouchsafe to continue the gratious light of his countenance toward your Maiestie for euer, and so blesse this Autumne of your Maiesties age, with most excellent fruictes of godly, prosperous, and victorious gouernment, that his glorie may be aduanced aboue all things, and your honour endure vnto all posteritie. Amen.

Your Maiesties most humble subiect

Omnia quæ leguntur in Scripturis ſanctis, ad inſtructionem & ſalutem noſtram intentè oportet audire: maximè tamen memoriæ commendanda ſunt, quæ aduerſus Hæreticos valent plurimùm: quorum inſidiæ, infirmiores quoſque & negligentiores circumuenire non ceſſant.

That is,

All things that are read in holy Scriptures, we muſt heare with great attention, to our inſtruction and ſaluation: but thoſe things ſpecially muſt be commended to memorie, which make moſt againſt Heretikes: whoſe deceites ceaſe not to circumuent and beguile all the weaker ſort and the more negligent perſons.

THE PREFACE TO THE READER, TREATING OF THESE THREE POINTS: OF the tranſlation of Holy Scriptures into the vulgar tongues, and namely into Engliſh: Of the cauſes why this Newe Teſtament is tranſlated according to the ancient vulgar Latine Text: And of the maner of tranſlating the ſame.

Rhem. 1. THE Holy Bible long ſince tranſlated by vs into Engliſh, and the olde Teſtament lying by vs for lacke of good meanes to publiſh the whole in ſuch ſort, as a worke of ſo great charge and importance requireth: wee haue yet through Gods goodneſſe at length fully finiſhed for thee (moſt Chriſtian Reader) all the NEWE TESTAMENT, which is the principall, moſt profitable and comfortable peece of holy writte: and, as well for all other inſtitution of life and doctrine, as ſpecially for deciding the doubtes of theſe dayes, more proper and pregnant, then the other parts not yet printed.

¶ The Confutation of this Preface.

Fulke. 1. IF the whole Bible hath beene tranſlated by you, and that long ſince, into the Engliſh tongue, it is maruaile, that it hath lyen ſo long by you, for lacke of good meanes to publiſh it. You haue publiſhed Bookes of as great charge, and much leſſe importance, within theſe 28. yeeres: but ſuch in deede, by which you had more hope to winne vnto your credit and cauſe, then you haue by the Holy Bible, though you peruerted it with neuer ſo partiall tranſlation, and poiſoned it with neuer ſo hereticall and blaſphemous Annotations, as you haue done your edition of the Newe Teſtament. You were wont to boaſt of the zeale of Popes, Cardinales, and other great Prelates of the Romiſh ſect, for the conuerſion of our Nation vnto their obedience. Were they all ſo ſtraight laced, that none of them can finde in their purſes, to beare the charges of printing a worke ſo neceſſarie, or at leaſt wiſe profitable, as you holde the tranſlation of the Scriptures to be, for maintenance of the Catholike Religion? Or doe you not rather, as the familie of Loue vſeth to doe, for their workes, craftely begge of your fauourers in England, larger exhibition, vpon collour of printing your tranſlation of the Bible? when it is not hard to gather, that if you were purpoſed in deede to ſet it foorth, and would vſe ſuch meanes as you may, in thoſe partes, the forbearing of the money, though your Printer tooke it vpon intereſt, might be payed for in the ſale of one impreſſion, although it ſo might happen, that a number of them were confiſcated, or miſcaried in the wayes, as chanced to ſome of theſe your bookes. But who ſo ſeeth what vnneceſſary charge you haue put your ſelues vnto, in printing this your tranſlation in ſo large a volume: may eaſily perceiue you ſet it not foorth for poore mens profite, and that by ſo exceſſiue price, of ſo ſmall a part of the whole Bible, you meane to diſcourage your friendes from wayting for all the reſt: What aduantage you haue in this part, for deciding the doubtes of theſe dayes, wee ſhall examine in the ſeuerall places, where you pretend to take it.

Rhem. 2. Which tranſlation we doe not for all that publiſh, vpon erroneous opinion of neceſſitie, that the Holy Scriptures ſhould alwayes be in our mother tongue, or that they ought, or were ordeined by God, to be read indifferently of all, or could be eaſily vnderſtood of euery one that readeth or heareth them in a knowen language: or that they were not often through mans malice or infirmitie, pernicious and much hurtfull to many: or that we generally and abſolutely deeme it more conuenient in it ſelfe, and more agreeable to Gods worde and honour or edification of the faithfull, to haue them turned into vulgar tongues, then to be kept and ſtudied onely in the Eccleſiaſticall learned languages: Not for theſe, nor any ſuch like cauſes doe we tranſlate this ſacred booke, but vpon ſpeciall conſideration of the preſent time, ſtate, and condition of our coūtrie, vnto which, diuers things are either neceſſarie, or profitable and medicinable now, that otherwiſe in the peace of the Church were neither much requiſite, nor perchance wholy tollerable.

Tranſlation of the Scriptures into the vulgar tōgues, not abſolutely neceſſarie or profitable, but according to the time.

Fulke. 2. You are afraid, to giue ouer your old impudent propoſition, that ignorance of the Scriptures, is the mother of popiſh deuotion? And therefore you hold it an erroneous opinion: That the Holy Scriptures ſhould be alway in our mother tongue, or that they ought, or were ordeined by God, to be read indifferently of all. Where as it is certeine, that the Holy Scripture of the olde Teſtament, was by Gods ordinance, firſt written in the mother tongue of the Iewes, and the newe Teſtament, in the Greeke tongue, which was the mother tongue to a great part of the world, and that language, which was moſt generally vnder-

Iohn 5.39. ſtood among the Gentiles, vnto whom the Goſpel was preached. Our Sauiour Chriſt commaundeth, not onely a reading (as you your ſelues confeſſe) but alſo a deepe ſearch of the Scriptures, vnto all the 2.Tim.3.15. Iewes indifferently. Saint Paul commendeth the education of Timothie, in knowledge of the Scriptures from his infancie. Which authorities proue, that the Holy Scriptures were ordeyned by God, to be read and knowen indifferently of all, and therefore ought to be tranſlated into the mother tongues of all nations, that all may reade and knowe them. An other erroneous opinion you accompt it, to thinke, that the Scriptures can be eaſily vnderſtood of euery one that readeth or heareth them in a knowen language, which if it were admitted, yet it followeth not, that the Scriptures ought not to be in a knowen language, becauſe they cannot be eaſily vnderſtood of euery one that readeth or heareth them, but rather, that euery one that readeth or heareth them, ought more diligently to ſtudie and exerciſe him ſelfe in them, more often heare and reade them, and more feruently pray to God for aide of his ſpirit, that he may vnderſtand them. And yet it is certeine, that albeit ſome places of the Scripture, are not eaſie to be vnderſtood of all men, yet are there many partes of them, and ſo many, as are able to inſtruct vs vnto ſaluation, ſo plaine and eaſie, as they may be vnderſtood of euery one that readeth or heareth them. And of this iudgement is S. Auguſtine, anſwering this obiection of the obſcuritie of the Scriptures: Magnificè igitur & ſalubriter, &c. Therefore hath the holy Ghoſt magnifically and holeſomely ſo tempered the holy Scriptures, that by plaine and open places, he might prouide againſt famine: by darke places, he might wipe away lothſomenes. For nothing almoſt, is gathered out of thoſe obſcurities, which is not founde moſt plainely vttered in ſome other place. De doctrina Chriſt. lib. 2. cap. 6. And in the Chapter immediatly before, hee ſheweth, that by reaſon of the diuerſitie of languages, the ſame ſounde of wordes not ſeruing all Nations, the Scriptures were tranſlated into diuers tongues, that they might bee generally knowen, Ex quo factum eſt, &c. whereof it is come to paſſe, that euen the Holy Scriptures (by which ſo great diſeaſes of mens wittes are helped) being proceeded from one tongue, which might conueniently be ſpread ouer all the worlde, through diuers languages of the interpreters, being diſperſed farre and wide, might become knowen of the Nations to their ſaluation: by both of which places, it is euident, that Saint Auguſtine deemed it more conuenient in it ſelfe, and more agreeable to Gods worde, honour, and edification of the faithfull, to haue the Scriptures turned into vulgar tongues, then to be kept and ſtudied in any learned language whatſoeuer. Nowe why you ſhould accompt any one tongue, more then other to be Eccleſiaſticall, you are able to giue no ſound reaſon, ſeeing God hath called his Church of all tongues and Nations, and ſanctified them all, to the preaching of the Goſpel, and the prayſe of his Name. As for the Latine tongue, which you would moſt willingly haue to be compted an Eccleſiaſtical tongue, was for many hundreth yeeres after Chriſt, the common vulgar and popular tongue, in moſt part of the Weſt Churches, of thoſe nations that were ſubiect to the Romane Empire. And why it is nowe Eccleſiaſticall, that then was vulgar, I know no cauſe, but that Antichriſt, whoſe tongue it is, blaſphemouſly Actes 2. chalenging to be the head of the Church, hath choſen and authorized it to be Eccleſiaſticall, in contumely of all other languages, which the holy Ghoſt deſcéding vpon the Apoſtles, in clouen tongues, hath conſecrated to the preaching of Chriſt Ieſus, and to the magnifying and ſetting foorth of the great prayſes of God. That through mans malice, or infirmitie, the Scriptures are often made pernicious and hurtfull to many: it is no greater reaſon, to keepe them from the knowledge of moſt men, then it were to depriue all men from meate and drinke, becauſe many doe abuſe them, to the deſtruction both of their bodies and ſoules. As for the ſpeciall conſideration, that procured this edition, when you doe expreſſe it, we may better iudge of it. In the meane time, we can conceaue none other, but ẏ which is the practiſe of many Heretikes, whé you could not altogether ſuppreſſe the knowledge of the holy Scriptures, whereby your errours are diſcouered: you thought it the next way for your purpoſe, by your partiall tranſlation, as much as you coulde, to obſcure them, and by your hereticall Annotations, to peruert them, that the one ſhould make them vnprofitable, the other alſo hurtfull.

Rhem. 3. *In this matter, to marke onely the wiſdome and moderation of holy Church, and the gouernours thereof on the one ſide, and the indiſcrete zeale of the popular, and their factious leaders, on the other, is a high point of prudence. Theſe latter, partly of ſimplicitie, partly of curioſitie, and ſpecially of pride and diſobedience, haue made claime in this caſe for the common people, with plauſible pretences many, but good reaſons none at all. The other, * to whom Chriſt hath giuen charge of our ſoules, the diſpenſing of Gods myſteries and treaſures (among which holy Scripture is no ſmall ſtore) and the feeding his familie in ſeaſon with foode fit for euery ſort, haue neither of olde, nor of late, euer wholy condemned all vulgar verſions of Scripture, nor haue at any time generally forbidden the faithfull to reade the ſame: yet they haue not by publike authoritie preſcribed, commaunded, or authentically euer recommended, any ſuch interpretation to be indifferently vſed of all men.*

The Churches wiſedome and moderation concerning vulgar tranſlation.

Fulke. 3. The wiſedome of the Popiſh Synagogue, and the Gouernours thereof, is the wiſedome of the olde ſerpent, and of the children of this world, which are often times wiſer in their kind, then the children of light, with whom it is an high point of prudence, to prouide for themſelues, by what vniuſt meanes ſo euer. So haue the Popiſh Cleargie alwayes indeuored, by depriuing the common people of the the keye of knowledge, of the ſame pollicie, that they did, leſt their wickednesſe being commonly diſcouered by the light, they ſhould leeſe that eſtimation, which through blind ignorãce they haue commonly obteyned. And they which haue made claime, for the common people in this caſe, whom of your charitie, you call the popular and their ſeditious leaders, of godly zeale and true ſimplicitie, not of curioſitie, pride, and diſobedience, haue both made it, and iuſtified it, with better reaſons then all the proud Papiſts in the worlde, are able to auoide. † For what greater reaſons can be alledged, then the authoritie of God in the olde Teſtament, and of Chriſt our Sauiour and his Apoſtles in the new, and the practiſe of the Primitiue Church, and the conſent of the moſt ancient and approued Fathers of the ſame, which haue bene brought, to proue that the holy Scriptures ought to be knowen of all Chriſtians? But the Gouernours of the Popiſh Antichriſtian Church, arrogating to themſelues the name and dignitie, of the diſpenſing of Gods myſteries and treaſures, among which the holy Scripture (as you confeſſe) is no ſmall ſtore, by mainteyning, that ignorance is the mother of deuotion, declare that they would willingly (if they could) aboliſh al knowledge of the holy Scriptures, frõ the common peoples hearts. And where as you ſay, that of olde they haue not euer condemned, all vulgar verſions of Scripture, nor generally forbidden the faithfull to reade them: Let the regiſters of Biſhops be ſearched, where it will appeare, that many haue bene accuſed and condemned as Heretikes, for hauing, reading, or hearing the holy Scriptures in the Engliſh tongue, without any exception taking againſt the trueth of the tranſlation. And that the Gouernours of the Popiſh Church, haue not by publike authoritie preſcribed, commaunded, or authentically euer recommended any interpretation of Scriptures into the vulgar tongue to be indifferently vſed of all men: They haue declared ſufficiently thereby, that they were not the miniſters of God and Chriſt, nor ſucceſſors of his Apoſtles, nor of the ancient fathers of the Primitiue Church: all which (as is noted before) haue, by publike and lawfull authoritie, alwayes preſcribed, commaunded, and authentically recommended (as the Holy Bible and the writings of the Fathers are moſt plentifull witneſſes) the holy Scriptures of God, to be knowen, read, and vnderſtood of all ſortes of Chriſtians indifferently, and without exception of any, which of neceſſitie emplieth the tranſlation of the ſame, into al vulgar languages, without which, it is not poſſible, for all ſortes of Chriſtians, to reade them, knowe them, and vnderſtand them.

The Armenians ſay they haue the Pſalter and ſome other peeces tranſlated by S. Chryſoſtome into their language, when he was baniſhed among them: and Gregorie the Patriarch, in writing his life, ſignifieth no leſſe. The Slauonians affirme they haue the Scriptures in their vulgar tongue, turned by S. Hierome, and ſome would gather ſo much by his owne wordes in his Epiſtle to Sophronius, but the place in deede proueth it not. Vulpilas ſurely gaue the Scriptures to the Gothes in their owne tongue, and that before he was an Arrian. It is almoſt three hundred yeeres ſince Iames Archbiſhop of Genua, is ſaid to haue tranſlated the Bible into Italian. More then two hundred yeeres agoe, in the dayes of Charles the fifth, the French King, was it put foorth faithfully in French, the ſooner to ſhake out of the deceiued peoples handes, the falſe hereticall tranſlations of a ſect called Waldenſes. In our countrey, notwithſtanding the Latine tongue was euer (to vſe Venerable Bedes wordes) common to all the Prouinces of the ſame for meditation or ſtudie of Scriptures, and no vulgar tranſlation commonly vſed or occupied of the multitude, yet they were extant in Engliſh euen before the troubles that Wicleffe and his followers raiſed in our Church, as appeareth, as well by ſome peeces yet remaining, as by a prouinciall Conſtitution of Thomas Arundel Archbiſhop of Canturburie, in a Councell holden at Oxford. where ſtraite preciſion was made, that no hereticall verſion ſet foorth by Wicleffe, or his adherents, ſhould be ſuffered, nor any other in or after his time be publiſhed or permitted to be read, being not approued and allowed by the Dioceſan before: alleadging S. Hierome for the difficultie and danger of interpreting the holy Scripture out of one tongue into an other, though by learned and Catholike men. So alſo it is there inſinuated, that neither the Tranſlations ſet foorth before that Heretikes time, nor other afterward being approued by the lawfull Ordinaries, were euer in our Countrie wholy forbidden, though they were not (to ſay the trueth) in quiet and better times (much leſſe when the people were prone to alteration, hereſie, or nouelties) either haſtily admitted, or ordinarily read of the vulgar, but vſed onely, or ſpecially, of ſome deuout religious and contemplatiue perſons, in reuerence, ſecrecie, and ſilence, for their ſpirituall comfort.

Fulke. 4. Seeing the Armenians were conuerted to the faith, long before S. Chryſoſtome came amongſt them: it is not to be doubted, but they had the whole Scriptures in their vulgar tongue, long before his time. And their confeſſion lately ſet forth, doth plainely argue, that they haue the whole Bible in their owne language at this day. To iuſtifie that the Sclauonians ſay, of S. Hieronimes tranſlation, into their tongue, his owne wordes are theſe. Tranſlationem diligentiſſimè emendatam olim meæ linguæ hominibus dederim. I ſay not this that I would bite my predeceſſors, or thinke that any thing is to be detracted from them, whoſe tranſlation, being moſt diligently corrected, I haue giuen long agoe to the men of my language. Nowe the Sclauonians, were the men of Hieronimes language, or mother tongue, as he teſtifieth himſelfe of the place of his natiuitie in Catalogo: for whoſe vſe he might tranſlate the vulgar Latine Bible, which was according to the Septuagintes, after he had moſt diligently corrected it. But if this place proue it not ſufficiently, at leaſt wiſe he ſaith plainely, that the Scripture was tranſlated into the tongues of many nations, præfat.ad Damaſum in 4.euangelia. Beſide theſe, the Syrians, Arabians, and Aethiopians, had of ancient time the holy Scriptures in their ſeuerall languages, as it is manifeſt by thoſe partes of them, which are at this day brought from them into this part of the worlde. The Spaniards haue the olde Teſtament tranſlated of ancient time, into their mother tongue. Walafridus teſtifieth, that the Dutch tongue, is the ſame which was the language of the Gothes and Getes, into which ſince the dayes of Vlphilas, by whom they were firſt conuerted, ſome wiſe men of that Nation, haue tranſlated the holy Scripture. De rebus eccle. cap.7. In our owne countrey, not onely the Saxon tranſlations of diuers partes of the holy Scripture, yet remaining, ſome in print, ſome in Libraries, but euen the teſtimonie of Beda, whom you quote and cite moſt impudently, for the contrary, doeth proue that vulgar tranſlations of the holy Scriptures, in his time were commonly vſed and occupied of the faithfull multitude: his wordes are theſe. Hæc in præſenti iuxta numerum librorum quibus lex diuina ſcripta eſt, quinque gentium linguis, vnam eandemque ſummæ veritatis & veræ ſublimitatis ſcientiam ſcrutatur & confitetur. Anglorum videlicet, Britonum, Scottorum, Pictorum & Latinorum, quæ meditatione ſcripturarum, cæteris omnibus eſt facta communis. This Iſland (ſayth Bede) at this preſent, according to the number of the bookes in which the Lawe of God is written, doth ſearch out, and confeſſe, one and the ſelfe ſame knowledge of the Higheſt trueth, and of the true height in fiue tongues, namely of the Angles, of the Britanes, of the Scottes, of the Pictes, and of the Latines, which in meditation of the Scripture, is made common to all the reſt. He meaneth that learned men of all the foure Nations, ſtudied the Scriptures by helpe of the Latine tongue, and ſuch Comentaries and Treatiſes of the elder Fathers, as were written therein. But he ſayeth expreſly, that the knowledge of the Higheſt trueth, which is not to be found but in the holy Scriptures, and according thereunto, was both ſearched out, and confeſſed in the mother tongue of the other foure Nations, by which hee meaneth the Chriſtians vnlearned in the Latine tongue. A manifeſt teſtimonie whereof, are many partes of Scripture in the Saxon language, yet remaining to be ſeene and read.

That the Scriptures were extant in Engliſh, both before and after Wickleffes time, and not of his tranſlation, beſide your coniecture out of Lynwod, it is manifeſtly prooued, by ſo many auncient written coppies of the Engliſh Bible, differing in tranſlation, yet to be ſhewed, of which Wickleffes tranſlation could be but one. Notwithſtanding, that the Phariſaicall Cleargie, condemned the reading of them for hereſie, let the acts of publike writings remaining in the Regiſters teſtifie. And of what deuiliſh policie, they kept the Lawes of God in ſecrecie and ſilence, which he commaunded to be vttered in all places and times, to the edifying of all ſortes of Chriſtians, howſoeuer you ſeeke to ſmooth it, Gods children doe plainely eſpie it.

Rhem. 5. Nowe ſince Luthers reuolt alſo, diuers learned Catholikes, for the more ſpeedie aboliſhing of a number of falſe and impious tranſlations put foorth by ſundry ſectes, and for the better preſeruation or reclaime of many good ſoules endangered thereby, haue publiſhed the Bible in the ſeuerall languages of almoſt all the principall prouinces of the Latine Church: no other bookes in the world being ſo pernicious as hereticall tranſlations of the Scriptures, poyſoning the people vnder colour of diuine authoritie, and not many other remedies, being more ſoueraigne againſt the ſame (if it be vſed in order, diſcretion, and humilitie) then the true, faithfull, and ſincere interpretation oppoſed thereunto.

The like Catholike and vulgar tranſlations in many countries, ſince Luthers time.

Fulke. 5. Howe pernitious, hereticall tranſlations of the Scriptures are, which poyſon the people vnder colour of diuine authoritie: If we had not learned ſufficiently by the corruptions of olde Heretikes, this tranſlation of yours, doeth giue plentifull teſtimonie, which being helped forward with hereticall Annotations, as it were with ſtings, to make way for the poyſon to enter, hath no ſmall force to deceiue the ſimple. But the beſt is, wee are aſſured, that they ſhall not preuaile finally, but in them whom the Lord acknowledgeth not for his. In the meane time, not onely the remedie of true and ſincere tranſlation, out of the fountaine and originall text, is to be oppoſed, but alſo the fraude of the aduerſarie, as occaſion ſerueth, to be diſcouered and layed open.

Rhem. 6. Which cauſeth the holy Church not to forbid vtterly any Catholike tranſlation, though ſhee alowe not the publiſhing or reading of any abſolutely and without exception, or limitation: knowing by her diuine and moſt ſincere wiſedome, howe, where, when, and to whom theſe her Maſters and Spouſes giftes are to be beſtowed to the moſt good of the faithfull: and therefore neither generally permitteth that which muſt needes doe hurt to the vnworthie, nor abſolutely condemneth that which may doe much good to the worthie. Whereupon, the order Ind. lib. prohibit. regula. 4. which many a wiſe man wiſhed for before, was taken by the Deputies of the late famous Councell of Trent in this behaiſe, and confirmed by ſupreme authoritie, that the holy Scriptures, though truely and Catholikely tranſlated into vulgar tongues, yet may not be indifferently read of all men, nor of any other then ſuch as haue expreſſe licenſe thereunto of their lawfull Ordinaries, with good teſtimonie from their Curates or Confeſſors, that they be humble, diſcreete and deuoute perſons, and like to take much good, and no harme thereby. Which preſcript, though in theſe dayes of ours it cannot be ſo preciſely obſerued, as in other times and places, where there is more due reſpect of the Churches authoritie, rule, and diſcipline: yet we truſt all wiſe and godly perſons will vſe the matter in the meane while, with ſuch moderation, meekeneſſe, and ſubiection of heart, as the handling of ſo ſacred a booke, the ſincere ſenſes of Gods trueth therein, and the holy Canons, Councels, reaſon, and religion doe require.

The Churches order and determination concerning the reading of Catholike tranſlations of the Bible in vulgar tongues.

Fulke. 6. The Popiſh Church, arrogating to her ſelfe diuine wiſedome, in reſtraining that which God hath left to bee moſt free and generall, declareth, that ſhee is the Babilonicall harlot, the ſpouſe of Antichriſt, who exalteth himſelfe aboue all diuine authoritie, and controlleth the wiſedome of God in euery thing, that is contrary to his deuiliſh preſumption: as in the vſe of images, of the cuppe in the Lordes Supper, of mariage in the Church Miniſters, of meates in times made by him more religious, and ſuch other. The true Church of God, teacheth the true vſe of the Scriptures, euen out of the Scriptures themſelues, and diſcourageth not men from reading of them, as it were from a dangerous diſcourſe, whereby they are like to take harme, knowing that none but ſpiders, can ſucke poyſon ſon out of holſome flowres, which poyſon yet is not in the good flowres, but in the euill nature of the ſpider. The holy Scriptures, learned euen from a mans infancie, are able to make him wiſe vnto ſaluation, and being well ſtudied, of the man of God, are able to make him perfect and redie, vnto all good workes, and to execute euery parte of his office. 2. Tim. 3. 15. &c.

Rhem. 7. Wherein, though for due preſeruation of this diuine worke from abuſe and prophanation, and for the better brideling of the intollerable inſolencie of proude, curious, and contentious wittes, the Gouernours of the Church guided by Gods Spirite, as euer before, ſo alſo vpon more experience of the maladie of this time then before, haue taken more exact order both for the readers and tranſlatours of theſe later ages, then of olde: yet wee muſt not imagine that in the Primitiue Church, either euery one that vnderſtoode the learned tongues, wherein the Scriptures were written, or other languages into which they were tranſlated, might without reprehenſion, reade, reaſon, diſpute, turne and toſſe the Scriptures: or that our forefathers ſuffered euery Schoole-maſter, Scholler, or Grammarian that had a litle Greeke or Latine, ſtraight to take in hand the holy Teſtament: or that the tranſlated Bibles into the vulgar tongues, were in the handes of euery Husbandman, Artificer, Prentice, Boyes, Girles, Miſtreſſe, Maide, Man: that they were ſong, played, alleadged, of euery tinker, tauerner, rimer, minſtrell: that they were for table talke, for alebenches, for boates and barges, and for euery prophane perſon and companie. No, in thoſe better times men were neither ſo ill, nor ſo curious of themſelues, ſo to abuſe the bleſſed booke of Chriſt: neither was there any ſuch eaſie meanes before printing was inuented, to diſperſe the copies into the hands of euery man, as nowe there is.

The holy Scriptures neuer read of all perſons indifferently at their pleaſure.

Fulke. 7. That the Gouernours of the Popiſh Church, haue taken ſtraighter order, for Readers and Tranſlatours of the Scriptures, then the Fathers of the Primitiue Church of Chriſt did: it is not to preſerue the worde of God from prophanation, or to bridle the proude curioſitie of the contentious, as it is pretended, but to ſuppreſſe the light of trueth, which diſplayeth their groſſe and palpable abuſes, both in doctrine and conuerſation.

But where you ſay, that the holy Scriptures were neuer read of all perſons indifferently, it is a moſt impudent aſſertion, ſet downe without any ſhewe of proofe, and contrary to moſt manifeſt arguments of antiquitie. We acknowledge, the Fathers of the auncient Church, were careſull to keepe the holy treaſure of Gods worde from abuſes, but that they did not by prohibiting or reſtrayning the reading of it, but by diligent teaching and exhorting of men, to the right vſe of it. Therefore where you ſay, we muſt not imagine that in the Primitiue Church, euery one which vnderſtood the Scriptures in the learned tongues, wherein they were written, or in other languages into which they were tranſlated, might without reprehenſion reade, reaſon, diſpute, turne and toſſe the Scriptures: it is vtterly falſe, for with reuerence of Gods myſteries, and to the ende they were giuen, euery man might not onely without reprehenſion, but with good liking and commendation of the godly Fathers, reade, reaſon, diſpute, and ſearche, which is to turne and toſſe the bookes of the Scriptures. It is recorded generally of all the faithfull in Berhæa, that they dayly ſearched the Scriptures, euen to examine the doctrine of the Apoſtles, by them, Actes 17. 11. Irenæus ſayth, That all the Scriptures both of the Prophets, and of the Goſpels, may be alike heard of all men. Chryſoſtome exhorteth all men indifferently to reade the Scriptures, and to call their neighbours to the hearing of them: In Gen. Hom. 7. Alſo hee taketh away the vaine excuſes of them, which alleadged that they were worldly men, had wife, children, and houſholde to looke vnto, and prayeth, that they woulde not deceiue themſelues, ſaying, That they which are entangled with ſuch cares, haue more neede, to ſeeke remedie, by reading of the holy Scriptures: in Gene. Hom. 21. And Hom. 2. Com. in Matth. he ſayth, The reading of the Scripture, is more neceſſarie for Laye men, then for the Monkes. And Hom. 5. he ſayth, The people ought as ſoone as they come at home from the Church, to turne ouer the holy bookes, and to call their wiues and children together to the conference of thoſe things, which are ſaid. Againe, it is no excuſe (ſaith he) to ſay, I haue not read what Paul ſaith, but a fault: in Epi. ad Heb. Hom. 7. Further where you ſay, we muſt not imagine, that our Forefathers ſuffered euery Schoole-maſter, Scholler, or Grammarian, that had a litle Greeke or Latine, ſtraight to take in hand the holy Teſtament. Saint Auguſtine is plainely againſt you, for he ſayth, That they which turned the Scriptures out of the Hebrewe tongue into the Greeke tongue, may be numbred, but the Latine interpreters cannot be numbred: For in thoſe firſt times of the faith, as the Greeke booke came into any mans hands, which ſeemed to himſelfe, to haue ſome skill in both the tongues, he was bold to tranſlate it. De doctrin. Chriſt. lib. 2. cap. 11. That the tranſlated Bibles, were in the hands, and godly vſe of all ſorts of men, women, children, how baſe ſo euer their degree and calling was, is partly ſhewed already: and more particularly Saint Hieronime ſaith, That in the countrey of Bethlehem, the Husbandman, the Ploughman, the Shepheard, the Reaper, the Vine dreſſer, did ſing the Pſalmes of Dauid, and made none other noyſe. Paul. & Euſtoch. ad Marcel. Chryſoſtome ſayth, the knowledge of the Scripture, is moſt neceſſarie for children, Pueris, boyes and girles, becauſe you ſo terme them, and exhorteth their parents, to cauſe them from their tender yeeres, to be exerciſed in the reading of the holy Scriptures: in Epi. ad Epheſ. Hom. 20. That the Scriptures may be read at the Table, he ſheweth: in Gene. Hom. 10. And that Players, Rymers and Ieſters, in ſteade of their lewde practiſes, ſhoulde be commaunded in recompenſe of their interteynement, to reade the holy Scriptures whereby the ſeruants, prentiſes, ſlaues and drudges of the houſe may be made equall with Angels: Com. in Matth. Hom. 49. Saint Auguſtine alſo exhorteth the people to reade the Scripture at the Table, and meales: de temp.56. As for boates and barges, which ſerue for mens trauell, ſeeing God commaunded his Lawes to be ſpoken of, in iourneys, and Chriſt himſelfe preached out of boates or barges, there is no cauſe why his holy Scriptures may not be read in them alſo. Neither did the auncient Fathers, accompt any true Chriſtian, or companie of Chriſtians, to be a prophane perſon, or companie, but rather, of a company of prophane perſons, by diligent reading of the Scriptures, to be made an holy Church of God. Chryſoſtome in Matth. Hom.49. And although there was not ſo eaſie meanes, before printing was inuented, to diſperſe the copies of the Bible, into euery mans hand, yet by the continuall labour of the Stationers, Notaries, or booke Writers, which in thoſe times ſupplied the want of Printers, there was a ſufficient number of copies for euery man that would buye them: or els Chryſoſtome ſhould in vaine haue exhorted all the Laye men of his time to buye them Bibles, or at leaſt the newe Teſtament. Audite obſecro ſeculares omnes, &c. Heare, I pray you allye Laye men. Prouide you Bibles which are the medicines of the ſoule, if you will nothing els, at leaſt wiſe get the newe Teſtament, the Apoſtle, the Actes, the Goſpels, continuall and diligent Teachers. in Epi. ad Coloſſ. Hom.9. It is a friuolous pretence therefore, of the ſcarſetie of copies, for whatſoeuer will be commonly ſolde, and well payed for, by diligence of workemen, will ſoone be made plentifull.

Lib. 2. cap. 35

Where and in whoſe hands the Scriptures were in the primitiue Church.

Rhem.8. They were then in Libraries, Monaſteries, Colledges, Churches, in Biſhops, Prieſtes, and ſome other deuout principall Laye mens houſes and handes: who vſed them with feare and reuerence, and ſpecially ſuch partes as pertained to good life and maners, not medling, but in pulpit and ſchoales (and that moderately to) with the hard and high myſteries and places of greater difficultie. The poore plaughman, coulde then in labouring the ground, ſing the Hymnes and Pſalmes either in knowen or vnknowen languages, as they heard them in the holy Church, though they coulde neither reade nor knowe the ſenſe, meaning, and myſteries of the ſame. Such holy perſons of both ſexes, to whom S. Hierome in diuers Epiſtles to them, commendeth the reading and meditation of holy Scriptures, were diligens to ſearch all the godly hiſtories and imitable examples of chaſtitie, humilitie, obedience, clemencie, powertie, penance, renouncing the worlde: they noted ſpecially the places that did breede the hatred of ſinne, feare of Gods iudgements, delight in ſpirituall cogitations: they referred them ſelues in all hard places, to the iudgement of the auncient Fathers and their maiſters in religion, neuer preſuming to contend, controule, teache or talke of their owne ſenſe and phantaſie, in deepe queſtions of diuinitie. Then the Virgins, did meditate vpon the places and examples of chaſtitie, modeſtie and demurenes: the maried, on conuing all faith and continencie: the parents, howe to bring vp their children in faith and feare of God: the Prince, howe to rule: the ſubiect, howe to obey: the Prieſt, howe to teache: the people, howe to learne.

How the lakie of thoſe dayes did read them, with what humilitie and reſpect, and information of life and maners.

Fulke.8. They were in all mens handes, that were deſirous to reade them, and were to be bought of Common Stationers, or Booke-ſellers, as it appeareth by the ſaying of Chryſoſtome, cited in the ſection next before: not onely in Libraries, Monaſteries, &c. and ſome deuoute principall Laye mens houſes, and handes. And as deuoute Laye men did vſe them well then, ſo doe ſuch men vſe them well nowe, learning out of them ſuch things, as be neceſſarie and profitable for them to know, and leauing higher myſteries, and hard places to the diſcuſſing of the learned. That the husbandmen of whom Saint Hieronyme ſpeaketh, ſang the Pſalmes in an vnknowen tongue, which they coulde neither reade nor knowe the ſenſe, meaning or myſteries of them, it is boldly affirmed, and vnpoſſible to be prooued. Such ſinging of Pſalmes with the lippes, not vnderſtood with the heart, no godly wiſe man woulde haue allowed, much leſſe commended, as he doeth, calling them their ſongs of loue, the ſhepheards whiſtles, the inſtruments of tillage. And as thoſe holy perſons of both ſexes, to whom S. Hieronyme commendeth the reading and meditation of the Scripture vſed them to the glorie of God, and the building vp of their ſoules in faith and godlineſſe: So God be thanked at theſe dayes, many thouſands of faithfull Chriſtians, with like zeale, reuerence, humilitie, and all other vertues requiſite, doe reade the holy Scriptures in their mother tongue, & by dayly reading, do greatly profit in pietie and charitie, as well virgins, as maried folke, parents & children, Princes and ſubiects, Paſtors and people.

The fathers ſharply reprehend as an abuſe, that all indifferently ſhould reade, expound and talke of the Scriptures.

Rhem.9. Then the ſcholler taught not his maſter, the ſheepe controuled not the Paſtor, the young ſtudent ſet not the Doctor to ſchoole, nor reproued their fathers of error and ignorance. Or if any were in thoſe better dayes (as in all times of hereſie ſuch muſt needes be) that had itching eares, tikling tongues and wittes, curious and contentious diſputers, hearers, and talkers rather then doers of Gods worde: ſuch the Fathers did euer ſharpely reprehend, counting them vnworthy and vnprofitable readers of the holy Scriptures. S. Hierom in his Epiſtle to Paulinus, after declaration that no handy-craft is ſo baſe, nor liberall ſcience ſo eaſie, that can be had without a maſter (which S. Auguſtine alſo affirmeth, De vtilitate cred. cap.7.) nor that men preſume in any occupation to Hiero. Epiſt.103. cap.6. teach that they neuer learned, Onely (ſaith he) the arte of Scripture is that which euery man chalengeth: this the chatting olde wife, this the doting olde man, this the brabling ſophiſter, this on euery hand, men preſume to teach before they learne it. Again, Some with poiſe of loftie wordes deuiſe of Scripture matters among women: otherſome (fie vpon it) learne of women, what to teach men, and leſt that be not ynough, by facilitie of tongue, or rather audacitie, teach that to others, which they vnderſtand neuer a whit themſelues, to ſay nothing of ſuch as be of my facultie: who ſtepping from ſecular learning to holy Scriptures, and able to tickle the eares of the multitude with a ſmoth tale, thinke all they ſpeake, to be the Law of God. This he wrote then, when this maladie of arrogancie and preſumption in diuine matters, was nothing ſo outragious as nowe it is.

Fulke.9. There were in thoſe times, ſome arrogant and preſumptuous abuſers of the holy Scriptures, and will be in all times, as of all other good giftes of God: whoſe misbehauiour, as it was ſharpely and iuſtly rely reprehended by the godly fathers(as appeareth by the places by you noted) ſo was it not thought any cauſe,to reſtraine the multitude,from the lawfull and neceſſarie vſe of Gods bookes,as it is nowe pretended by the Papiſts. For that as ſome ſwelled in pride and vaniſhed in curioſitie, ſo many profited in humilitie,and all other vertues neceſſary vnto true Chriſtianitie.And euen ſo the caſe ſtandeth at this time, ſome vnlearned and vngodly, peruert the Scriptures to their owne condemnation: yet many vſe them wholſomly, to their comfort and edification.

Rhem.10 In orat. de moderatio. in diſputa. ſeruanda. S.Gregorie Nazianzene made an oration of the moderation that was to be vſed in theſe matters: where he ſaith, that ſome in his time thought themſelues to haue all the wiſedom in the world, when they could once repeat two or three wordes, and them ill couched together, out of Scriptures. but he there diuinely diſcourſeth of the orders and differences of degrees: how in Chriſtes myſticall body, ſome are ordeined to learne, ſome to teach: that all are not Apoſtles,all Doctors, all interpreters, all of tongues and knowledge, not all learned in Scriptures and diuinitie: that the people went not vp to talke with God in the mountaine,but Moyſes, Aaron,and Eleazar: nor they neither, but by the difference of their callings: that they that rebell againſt this ordinance, are guiltie of the conſpiracie of Corè and his complices: that in Scripture there is both milke for babes,and meate for men, to be diſpenſed, not according to euery ones greedines of appetite or wilfulnes, but as is moſt meete for eche ones neceſſitie and capacitie: that as it is a ſhame for a Biſhop or Prieſt to be vnlearned in Gods myſteries,ſo for the common people it is often times profitable to ſaluation, not to be curious, but to folow their Paſtors in ſinceritie and ſimplicitie: whereof excellently ſaith S. Auguſtine, Pidei ſimplicitate & ſinceritate lactati, nutriamur in Chriſto: & cum parui ſumus, maiorum cibos non appetamus, that is, Being fed with the ſimplicitie and ſinceritie of faith, as it were with milke, ſo let vs be nouriſhed in Chriſt: and when we are litle ones, let vs not couet the meates of the elder ſort. *Who*in an other place teſtifieth, that the word of God cannot be preached nor certaine myſteries vttered to all men alike, but are to be deliuered according to the capacitie of the hearers: as he proueth both* by S.Paules example, who gaue not to euery ſort ſtrong meate, but milke to many, as being not ſpiritual, but carnal and not capable: and* by our lordes alſo, who ſpake to ſome plainely, and to others in parables, & affirmed that he had many things to vtter which the hearers were not able to beare.*

The Scriptures muſt be deliuered in meaſure and diſcretion, according to eche mans neede and capacitie.

De agone Chriſt.c.33. De bono perſeuer.c. 16. *1.Cor.3. *Io.16.

Fulke.10 Euery word of this ſection being graunted,to be as true as the Goſpel,it cannot be inferred,ỹ therfore it is not conuenient,ỹ the holy Scriptures ſhould be in the mother tongue, that they may be read of all ſorts of Chriſtians, without exception of any.For ỹ holy Scriptures teach,ỹ moderation,which Nazianzen requireth, that meaſure & diſcretion which Auguſtine commendeth,and reprehend that arrogãcie reproued by Gregory,& the raſhnes & intẽperance deteſted by Auguſtine. So ỹ by diligent reading of ỹ holy Scriptures,the Chriſtian may learne to embrace the vertues & to abhorre ỹ vices.

Rhem.11 In orat.de modera,in diſp. ſeruã,in fine. Hierom. in proœm. Commentar. in Ezechi. How much more may we gather, that all things that be written, are not for the capacitie and dies of euery of the ſimple readers, but that very many myſteries of holy writte, be very farre aboue their reach, and may and ought to be (by as great reaſon) deliuered them in meaſure and meane moſt meete for them? which in deede can hardly be done,when the whole booke of the Bible lieth before euery man in his mother tongue, to make choiſe of what he liſt. For which cauſe the ſaid Gregorie Nazianzen wiſheth the Chriſtians had as good a lawe as the Hebrues of olde had who (as S. Hierom alſo witneſſeth) tooke order among themſelues that none ſhould read the Cantica Canticorum nor certaine other pieces of hard Scriptures,till they were thirtie yeeres of age.

The Iewes law for not reading certaine bookes of holy Scripture vntill a time.

Fulke.11 Although there be many things in the Scriptures,vnmeete for all mens capacities, becauſe of the difficultie of them, yet is there nothing vnmeete to be read of any man, neither are there any myſteries of holy writte, vnmeete for Chriſtian men to knowe and vnderſtand, as you ſeeme to inſinuate. The Eunuche did reade the prophecie of Eſaye, which he did not vnderſtand, yet was he not in danger to take any hurt by it, and God ſending him an interpreter, ſhewed, as Chryſoſtom ſayeth, that it is impoſsible, that he which with great ſtudie and feruent deſire, is occupied in the holy Scriptures, ſhould alwayes be neglected, but although the inſtruction of man be wanting vnto vs, the Lorde himſelfe entring into our heartes from aboue, doeth lighten our minde, ſpreadeth his beames into our reaſon, openeth things hidden, and becommeth teacher of thoſe things which we know not,&c. In Geneſ. Hom.35. And ex Luc. cap.16. After moſt vehement exhortation vnto the people, to reade the Scriptures, which if they neglect,he ſaith it is not poſſible for them to atteine to ſaluation,he addeth. Maximè quidem,&c. Yea ſpecially, although thou doeſt not vnderſtand ſuch things as are hidden in them, yet of the very reading much holines groweth. Therefore Gregorie Nazianzen, wiſheth not to haue the Iewes tradition, for not reading of the Scriptures, or any part thereof (if you marke him ſpeaking in his owne language) but a like order, to reſtraine young men from being to bolde in expoſition, and contentious in diſputing of the myſteries of the holy Scriptures. Neuertheleſſe Dauid, wiſer then all the auctors of that tradition,asking whereby a yong man ſhall clenſe his wayes, anſwereth,by ſtudie, meditation and keeping of the Lawe of God,Pſal.119. Neither doeth Hieronym commend the tradition of the Iewes,which permitteth not the beginning of Geneſis,the Canticles of Salomon, and the beginning and ende of the Prophet Ezechiel to be read of young men,being vnder thirtie yeeres of age, but onely ſaith, that the difficultie of the prophecie of Ezechiel is proued by that tradition.

Rhem.12 *And truely there is no cauſe why men ſhould be more loth to be ordered and moderated in this point by Gods Church and their Paſtors, then they are in the vſe of holy Sacraments: for which as Chriſt hath appointed Prieſtes and miniſters, as whoſe handes we muſt receiue them, and not be our owne caruers: ſo hath he giuen*vs doctors, prophets, expounders, interpreters, teachers and preachers, to take the law & our faith at their mouthes: becauſe our faith and religion commeth not to vs properly or principally by reading of Scriptures, but (as the Apoſtle ſaith) by hearing of the preachers lawfully ſent: though reading in order and humilitie, much confir-*

Fulke. 12 No true Chriſtian, will bee loth to bee ordered by the Paſtors, Doctors, Prophetes, Expounders, Teachers, and the Preachers of the Church, which Chriſt hath giuen vnto vs, that we ſhould take the Lawe and inſtruction of faith at their mouthes: And although faith come not principally by onely reading of the Scriptures, but by hearing of the Preachers lawfully ſent, yet you muſt giue them leaue, to ſearch the Scriptures dayly, as the Berhæans did to ſee, whether thoſe things which their Paſtors, Preachers and teachers do deliuer, be euen ſo. Acts. 17. 11 ſeeing alſo you confeſſe, that reading in order and humilitie (and none other reading doe we allowe) doeth much confirme and aduaunce our faith. That the booke of Scripture, is called of S. Ambroſe Liber Sacerdotalis, you muſt giue vs a better quotation then Lib. 2. ad Grat. not ſo much for the terme, but for that you inferre thereof, that wee muſt take and vſe it at the handes and diſpoſition of Prieſtes. Ambroſe wrote fiue bookes de fide ad Gratianum, and three de ſpiritu ſancto, I feare your note booke deceiued you.

The popular obiections of withholding the Scriptures from the people, anſwered.

Why the church permitteth not euery one at their pleaſure to reade the Scripture.

The holy ſcriptures to carnall men and Heretikes, are as pearles to ſwine.

Fulke. 13 That the Scriptures were made for al Chriſtian mens inſtruction, whē you haue wrangled as much as you can, you are driuen in the ende to confeſſe. That Popiſh prieſts, not only of enuie, but alſo of deuiliſh pollicie, leſt their falſe doctrine, and wicked life might be reproued, haue kept that holy booke from the people, though you will not acknowledge, yet the children of God, whoſe eyes he hath opened, doe plainely ſee and perceiue. Your compariſon vnto the deuils ſuggeſtion, will then ſeeme to be like, when you can ſhewe Gods prohibition from reading the Scripture, as our parents could, for eating of the tree of knowledge. But when Chriſt ſaith expreſſely to all Chriſtians, Search the Scriptures, Your cauilling is like the Serpents ſuggeſtion, which contrary to the expreſſe word of God, ſaid, you ſhall not die, but God knoweth, &c. So you would beare men in hand, that albeit God commaund them to ſearch the Scriptures, yet there is great danger in reading of them, and therefore they were better not to reade them: Yea your Predeceſſors haue condemned for heretikes, ſuch as did reade them, though now you goe about to excuſe the matter, and ſay, that you meant nothing, but that the people ſhould beware of blinde preſumption, and learne to be wiſe vnto ſobrietie: as though theſe leſſons are not better learned, by reading them in the booke of God, then by your reſtrayning them, from reading them at all, or not but at your pleaſure. But let vs conſider, why the Popiſh Church permitteth not euery one at their pleaſure, to reade the Scripture, She knoweth (ſay you) the Scriptures be ordeined for euery ſtate, as meate, elements, fire, water, candle, kniues, ſword and the like: we knowe by the Scriptures the word of God to be ordained, as meate and other things moſt neceſſary and comfortable, but not as fire, water, candles, kniues, ſwords, and like matters of danger, whereof men ſhould be rather afraid to medle with them, except it were for neceſſitie. And yet there is as great neceſſitie

In Gen. Hom. 9. of the holy Scriptures, as of any thing you haue named, and in them (as S. Chryſoſtom ſaith) we may not ſuſpect any danger to be, as is in fire, water, candles, kniues, ſwords and ſuch like. All the danger, is in the affection of him that abuſeth them to his owne condemnation, where as fire, water, ſworde, kniues, cannot alwayes be ſo gouerned by the wiſeſt, but that they prouc hurtfull ſometimes to the occupiers of them.

Where as you ſay, the Popiſh Church forbiddeth not the reading of the holy Scriptures in any language, it is falſe: For whatſoeuer ſhe doeth nowe, certaine it is that her Miniſters hath forbidden it in times paſt, and immediately before, you ſhewe reaſons, why ſhe doeth not permit euery one to reade the Scriptures: So ſoone you haue forgot your ſelfe, Except perhaps you wil ſay, ſhe forbiddeth not ſuch as vnderſtand them in Latine, to reade them alſo in Engliſh, which is a poore permiſſion: but if ſhe enuieth no mans cõmoditie (as you ſay) why doth ſhe not permit all men, to take that commoditie which they may receiue by reading of them? you anſwere, ſhe giueth order how to do it to edification, and not to deſtruction, it were well if ſhe did ſo, for that care were ſeemely for the ſpouſe of Chriſt. But as you affirme before in the ſixt Section, ſhe hath taken order, that the holy Scripture though truely tranſlated into vulgar tongues, yet may not bee indifferently read of all men, nor of any other, then ſuch as haue expreſſe licenſe thereunto, of their lawfull Ordinaries, with good teſtimonie from their Curates or Confeſſors, that they be humble, diſcret, and deuoute perſons, and like to take much good and no harme thereby: by which order it appeareth, that they which haue moſt needs to reade the Scriptures, are vtterly debarred: many other by the difficultie of obteyning licenſe diſcouraged, and eſpecially that none, but ranke and obſtinate Papiſts, may bee allowed, for thoſe onely of the Popiſh Curates, Confeſſors and Ordinaries, ſhall be compted humble, diſcreete, and deuoute perſons. Let all godly wiſe men iudge, therefore, whether the Popiſh Church, although you profeſſe that ſhee enuieth no mans commoditie, yet by this order, hindereth not as much as in her lyeth, the profite of all men. But you anſwere, that carnall men and heretikes, be hogges and dogges, to whome pearles and holy things, ſuch as the Scriptures be, are not to be caſt, which if it were a right interpretation of our Sauiours commandement, it were not lawfull to attempt the conuerſion of heretikes, by preaching the trueth, nor to procure the repentance of carnall men by exhorting them to the loue of heauenly things. But as by preaching and exhortation, ſo by diligent reading and meditation of the holy Scriptures, many heretikes are made Catholikes, many carnall men are made Spirituall. Therefore not all that be carnally minded, or infected with error, but onely deſperate, prophane and malicious contemners of the trueth, are thoſe hogges and dogges, to whome the precious holy myſteries of the Goſpell, are not to be any more offered, when they haue plainely declared themſelues to be ſuch. Chryſoſtome, whome you cite, ſpeaketh expreſly of ſuch, and not of all carnall men. For in the next Section, you deſcribe the people of Conſtantinople, whome he exhorted to the reading of the Scriptures, to be very carnall men, and ſo they were in deede, yet he iudged the reading of the Scripture, moſt neceſſary for them, And Hom. ex Luc. cap. 16. after a moſt vehement exhortation, to reade the Scriptures, hee addeth, Magna aduerſus peccata, &c. The reading of the Scripture, is a great defence againſt ſinne, the ignorance of the Scriptures, is a great downefall and a deepe dongeon, it is a great loſſe of ſaluation, to knowe nothing of Gods lawes, this thing hath both bread hereſies, and brought in corrupt life, this hath turned all things out of order vpſide downe, Thus ſaith Chryſoſtome. But euen that ignorance, which hee ſo deteſteth, is of you Papiſts, compted good Catholike deuotion, or the mother thereof. And what other was the ſtate of the moſt, in the blinde dayes of Poperie, but euen a groſſe ignorance of all the holy Scriptures? Where the people might not knowe what they beleeued, what they prayed, what God commaunded, or any thing perteyning to Chriſtian religion, but either of dombe images, or of dombe prieſtes, except once in ſeuen yeeres perhaps, of ſome prating Fryer or other Popiſh preacher, which rather turned them from Chriſt, then ſhewed the right way to God by him.

You adde further. that you would haue heretikes quite diſcharged, from all occupying and poſſeſſion of the holy Teſtament. It muſt firſt be prooued who be heretikes, and which is the true Church that hath right & intereſt in the Scriptures, for neither your challenging of the name of the Church, will be ſufficient to proue you ſo in deede, nor the terming of any other to be heretikes, except you be able out of the word of God, to conuince them to be ſuch.

Finally, for the right vſe of the holy Scripture, the Paſtors of the true Church of Chriſt, doe diligently inſtruct their ſheepe, out of the holy Scriptures, with what moderation, humilitie, reuerence, deſire to profite by them, and inuocation of Gods Spirite, they ought to reade them, howe carefully they muſt auoyde all preſumption, curioſitie, raſhneſſe, prophaneneſſe, and ſuch like vices, which may not onely hinder their profite in the Scriptures, but alſo cauſe all their trauell in them to turne to their vtter deſtruction.

Theſe things, the true Paſtors and Gouernours of the Church can teache, without arrogating vnto themſelues any preſumptuous authoritie, to reſtraine or permit according to their iudgement, that which our Sauiour Chriſt hath left generally, to all the members of his myſticall body, which is his holy Church, and to euery one of them.

Rhem. 14 *Wherein, the varietie of circumſtances cauſeth them to deale diuerſly: as we ſee by Saint Chryſoſtoms people of Conſtantinople, who were ſo delicate, dull, worldly, and ſo much giuen to dice, cardes, ſpecially ſtage playes or Theaters (as Saint Gregorie Nazianzene witneſseth) that the Scriptures, and all holy lections of diuine things were lothſome vnto them: whereby their holy Biſhop was forced * in many of his ſermons to crie out againſt their extreme negligence and contempt of Gods worde, declaring, that not onely Eremites and Religious (as they alleadged for their excuſe) but Secular men of all ſortes might reade the Scriptures, and often haue more neede thereof in reſpect of themſelues, then the other that liue in more puritie and contemplation: further, inſinuating, that though diuers things be high and hard therein, yet many godly hiſtories, lines, examples, and precepts of life and doctrine be plaine: and finally, that when the Gentiles were ſo ſtunning and diligent to impugne their faith, it were not good for Chriſtians to be ſo ſimple or negligent in the defence thereof. as (in truth) it is more requiſite for a Catholike man in theſe dayes when our aduerſaries be induſtrious to empeache our beleefe, to bee skilfull in Scriptures, then at other times when the Church had no ſuch enemies.*

Saint Chryſoſtoms exhortations to the reading of holy Scriptures, and when the people is ſo to be exhorted.

Chryſoſtome

Fulke. 14 Chryſoſtome not in reſpect of ſuch varietie of circumſtances, as you ſpeake of, but abſolutely, and moſt vehemently, commendeth, not onely the lawfulneſſe, but alſo the neceſſitie of reading the holy Scriptures by the Laye men, as it appeareth in many places before cited and quoted, out of his Homilies, and many other, which for tediouſneſſe, are omitted, ſeeing the matter by you is partly confeſſed. Yet one or two, ſhall not be amiſſe, to proue that I haue ſaide: Firſt, he doth not onely exhort the people of Conſtantinople, which were ſo worldly minded, as you write, but alſo the people of Antioch, whom he greatly commendeth for their vertue and godlines, he calleth vpon very earneſtly, to be diligent in reading of the holy Scriptures. ad Pop. Antioch. Hom. 22. 42. &c. Againe for the neceſſitie of ſtudying the Scriptures, he ſayeth. Qui ſalutem conſequi volunt, &c. They that will attaine to ſaluation, let them exerciſe them ſelues in the Scriptures, in epi. ad 1. Cor. Hom. 6. Where you thinke it requiſite in theſe times, for a Popiſh Catholike, to be skilfull in the Scriptures, I woulde many of them were of your mind, for then I would not doubt, but ſome of them, by Gods grace would become Chriſtian Catholikes.

Ad pop. Antioch. Hom. 3.

Rhem. 15 To this ſenſe ſaid S. Chryſoſtome diuers things, not as a teacher in ſchoole making exact and generall rules to be obſerued in all places and times, but as a pulpit man, agreably to that audience and his peoples defaults: nor making it therefore (as ſome peruerſely gather of his wordes) a thing abſolutely needefull for euery poore Artificer to reade or ſtudie Scriptures, nor any whit fauouring the preſumptuous, curious, and contentious iangling and ſearching of Gods ſecrets, reproued by the foreſaid fathers, much leſſe approuing the exceſſiue pride and madnes of theſe dayes, when euery man and woman is become not onely a reader, but a teacher, controuler, and iudge of Doctors, Church, Scriptures and all: ſuch as either contemne or eaſily paſſe ouer all the morall partes, good examples, and precepts of life (by which as well the ſimple as learned might be much edified) and onely in a maner, occupie themſelues in dogmaticall, myſticall, high, and hidden ſecrets of Gods counſels, as of Predeſtination, reprobation, election, preſcience, forſaking of the Iewes, vocation of the Gentiles, and other incomprehenſible myſteries, Languiſhing about queſtions of onely faith, fiduce, newe phraſes and figures, euer learning, but neuer comming to knowledge, reading and toſſing in pride of witte, conceite of their owne cunning, and vpon preſumption of I can tell what ſpirit, ſuch bookes ſpecially and Epiſtles, as S. Peter foretolde that the vnlearned and inſtable would depraue to their owne damnation.

S. Chryſoſtom maketh nothing for the popular and licentious reading of Scriptures vſed among the Proteſtants nowe a dayes. Euery ſimple artificer amõg them readeth much more the deepeſt and hardeſt queſtions of holy Scripture, then the morall partes.

1. Tim. 6. 2. Tim. c. 3. 2. Peter 3.

Fulke. 15. All that Chryſoſtome ſaith, to this purpoſe, is wiped away with this reprochfull gloſe, that he ſpake, not as a teacher in ſchoole, making exact and generall rules to be obſerued in all places and times, but as a pulpit man agreeably to that audience and his peoples defaults. Belike pulpit men, with you, doe more regard their credite before a fewe captious ſchollers in their ſchoole, then they doe reuerence the preſence of Chriſt, before whom they ſhould prepare to ſpeake, when they preach in the Church of God. And therefore, albeit in figures, and phraſes, and manner of handling, there is ſome difference, betweene a preacher before the people, and a reader before the learned, yet no learned godly man, ſuch as we acknowledge S. Chryſoſtome to haue beene, will ſo aduiſedly, ſo vehemently, ſo often times as hee did, vtter any thing in the pulpit, before the ignorant, the trueth whereof, he is not able to iuſtifie in the ſchooles before the beſt learned. Beſide that your reſtriction of his rules vnto his audience, and peoples default of Conſtantinople, is before prooued to be both friuolous, and falſe, ſeeing he commendeth the ſtudie and reading of the holy Scriptures, no leſſe generally to the people of Antioche, which were not a litle more ſpiritually affected, then they of Conſtantinople. And to that you ſay, he maketh it not a thing abſolutely needefull, for euery poore Artificer to reade or ſtudie Scripture, as ſome peruerſely gather of his wordes. Let his owne wordes teſtifie for him, both already cited, and other beſide.

He ſpake in the pulpit, that he was able to iuſtifie in the ſcooles.

In epiſt. ad Coloſſ. Hom. 9. Audite quotquot eſtis mundani &c. Heare all ye that be Secular or Lay men, and haue the gouernement of wiues and children, howe the Apoſtle commaundeth you ſpecially, to reade the Scriptures, and that not ſimply, nor as it were by occaſion, but with great diligence. Doth not omnes mundani, all ſeculer men, include, as well euery poore Artificer, as euery rich merchant, or landed gentleman? Or is not a thing abſolutely needefull, which the holy Ghoſt commaundeth all men to doe? I might adde hereunto, that he ſayth in an other place, It cannot poſſibly be, I ſay, it cannot poſſibly be, that any man can attaine to ſaluation, except he be cõtinually conuerſant in ſpirituall reading. But heare you would quarrell, that he maketh no exact rule, becauſe many men attaine to ſaluation, which cannot reade at all. Yet his meaning is plaine, and his wordes agreeable, that none can be ſaued, but by that knowledge, which is gotten by continuall reading of the Scriptures, whether a man reade them himſelfe, or heare other.

Ex Luc. Cap. 16.

That he fauoreth not preſumptuous, curious, and contentious iangling, and ſearching of Gods ſecrets, it is true, no more doe wee, and much leſſe the pride and madnes of them, that will be teachers, comptrollers and iudges of Doctors, Church, Scriptures and all.

Neither are you euer able to proue, that euery Artificer among vs, readeth the deepeſt and hardeſt queſtions of holy Scripture, rather then the morall part, albeit that ſeeing whatſoeuer is written, is written for our learning, that through patience and comfort of the holy Scriptures, we might haue hope: no ſimple Artificer amongſt vs, is forbidden reuerently to reade any queſtion of the Scripture, which is either neceſſarie, or profitable for him to knowe. If there were in the Apoſtles time, vaine minded men that languiſhed about queſtions, and peruerted the Scriptures to their owne deſtruction, it is no meruaile though there be ſome ſuch in theſe daies. But as the Apoſtles neuer reſtrained or forbade the reading of the holy Scriptures, for the misbehauiour of ſuch as abuſed the ſame, no more do we. And ſurely this Argument of yours (though it came from Rhemes) taken of mens abuſe, will carie leſſe wayght in the ſchooles, againſt the generall libertie for all men to reade the Scriptures, then the authoritie of Chryſoſtome, though he in your iudgement, were but a pulpit man, for the contrary.

Where you accompt onely faith, and fiduce to be newe phraſes, and figures, the one, faith onely, may be ſhewed by twentie authorities, to haue bene vſed, more then twelue hundreth yeeres agoe, by writers of the Church, both Greekes and Latines: the other, fiduce, is a newe phraſe, and for ought I knowe, of your owne framing, and none of ours: as for the Latine worde, fiducia, and that which it ſignifieth, truſt and confidence, I doubt not, but they which are meanely read in the Scriptures, do know them to be both ancient and vſuall.

Rhem. 16 They delight in none more then in the Epiſtle to the Romanes, the Cantica canticorũ, the Apocalips, which haue in them as many myſteries as wordes, they finde no difficultie in the ſacred booke claſped with ſeuen ſeales. they aske for no expoſitor with the holy Eunuch. they feele no ſuch depth of Gods ſcience in the Scriptures, as S. Auguſtine did, when he cried out,* Mira profunditas eloquiorum tuorum, mira profunditas (Deus meus) mira profunditas: horror eſt intendere in eam, horror honoris, & tremor amoris, that is, O wonderfull profoundnes of thy wordes: wonderfull profoundnes, my God, wonderfull profoundnes: it maketh a man quake to looke on it: to quake for reuerence, and to tremble for the loue thereof. They regard not that which the ſame Doctor affirmeth, that the depth and profunditie of wiſedome, not onely in the wordes of holy Scripture, but alſo in the matter and ſenſe, is ſo wonderfull, that, like a man neuer ſo long, be he of neuer ſo high a witte, neuer ſo ſtudious, neuer ſo feruent to attaine the knowledge thereof, yet when he endeth, he ſhall confeſſe he doth but beginne. they feele not with S. Hierom, that the text hath a hard ſhell to be broken, before we come to the kernell. they will not ſtay them ſelues in onely reading the ſacred Scriptures thirteene yeeres together, with S. Baſil, and S. Gregorie Nazianzene, before they expound them, nor take the care (as they did) neuer otherwiſe to interprete them, then by the vniforme conſent of their forefathers and tradition Apoſtolike.

They preſuppoſe no difficulties, which all the learned fathers felt to bee in the Scriptures.

Fulke. 16 There hath bin euer ſome Scliſmatical heads, which haue fantaſied, that they could interprete the Scriptures by their owne wittes, without other ordinarie meanes of learning, or the grace of Gods holy Spirit: againſt whom this may be applied which you write. But that euery Artificer amongſt vs, that readeth the holy Scriptures, is thus preſumptuouſly affected, it is a moſt impudent ſlaunder. For many thouſands, with dewe reuerence of the worde of God and true humilitie of heart, doe reade to their infinite commoditie, comfort, and increaſe of godlineſſe. Where you ſay, they delight in none more, then in the Epiſtle to ỹ Romanes, I marueile, why you ſhould miſlike them that do ſo, ſeeing that the true faith of the Church of Rome, whereof you would ſeeme to be ſo great mainteiners, in no part of Scripture, is more plainely ſet forth, then in that Epiſtle, which the Doctor and Apoſtle of the Gentiles, did write vnto the Romanes, to be read, heard and vnderſtood, of euery ſimple Artificer, among them, as well as of the rich & learned, euen all that were in Rome, beloued of God, & called to be ſaints. Rom. 1. 7.

As for the Cantica Canticorum, I thinke all the braſen faces, that conſpired to write this preface, can not name three ſimple Artificers in England, that delight more in that booke, then any other of the Scripture: for my part, I knowe none. Neither is there any treatiſe of the holy Scripture, which is generally leſſe ſtudied, either of the learned, or vnlearned. But becauſe it is a continuall allegorie, the difficultie thereof ſerued well, to make a ſhew of your ſlaunder, before them whom you haue enchanted to beleeue, euery lie, that your impudent mouth is not aſhamed to pronounce. The Apocalips alſo, though it be hard to vnderſtand, and be full of myſteries, yet may it be read as other partes of holy Scriptures, and there are many things in it, that are plaine and eaſie to be vnderſtood of euery Artificer. But perhaps you are more vnwilling, they ſhould reade the Apocalips, becauſe it doth deſcribe the whore of Babylon, the Citie of Rome, ſo plainely, and the Epiſtle to the Romanes liketh you not, becauſe it is ſo plaine for iuſtification by faith without workes. The reſt that you ſay, of the difficultie of ſome part of the Scriptures, the ſimple and godly Artificers among vs, doe acknowledge, and either ſeeke the interpretation of them at the mouth of their learned Paſtor, or els are content to be ignorant in the expoſition of them, knowing as they are taught by the learned out of S. Auguſtine, that in thoſe places, which are plainely ſet downe in the Scripture, are found all thoſe things which concerne faith and good liuing. De doct. Chriſt. lib. 2. cap. 9. which is as much as is neceſſarie, for euery Chriſtian man to learne for his ſaluation.

The example of S. Baſil and Gregorie, in ſtudying the Scriptures thirteene yeeres, before they expounded them, perteyneth not to euery ſimple Artificer, but to the Paſtors & Teachers of the Church. And God be thanked, our Church hath many godly learned Teachers, that haue ſtudied more then 14. yeeres before they haue openly expounded the Scriptures, and which followe the vnderſtanding of them, not out of their owne preſumption, but out of the writings and authoritie of their Ancients or Elders, whom it is knowen to haue receiued the rule of vnderſtanding, by ſucceſſion apoſtolike, which are the words of Ruffine, whom you quote, who ſpeaketh not one word of vniforme conſent or apoſtolike tradition. If you alledge, that all our Preachers, are not of ſo many yeeres ſtudie, I anſwere, their example maketh no lawe, eſpecially where the neceſſitie of the Church requireth men of leſſe time, yet ſufficient to teache the trueth. Neither are the moſt of your ſeminarie Prieſtes, whom you ſende ouer to diſturbe the ſtate of gouernement, as well as the peace of our Church, of thirteene yeeres ſtudie in the Scripture, ſeeing we knew ſome of them, but the other day, runnagate vnlearned boyes, from our Vniuerſities, but being come to you, they are ſuddenly become great Clarkes, and profound Teachers, whoriſh impudence, ſeruing them in ſtead of all learning.

since this licencious toſſing of holy Scripture.

Fulke. 17 Gods name be prayſed, a great number of our Miniſters, haue had as good cogitation, and care, as is meete for that calling, and thereby haue brought our countrey into that floriſhing ſtate in Religion, that vertue and good life in them that diligently reade the holy Scripture tranſlated into the mother tongue, neuer more ſhined in any age, then it hath done ſince the light of the Goſpel hath driuen away the cloudes of Popiſh ignorance, as all that be indifferent, and know the experience of both times, cannot chuſe but confeſſe. Thinke you, the manners of the moſt perfect in the Popiſh times, are ſo forgotten, that you may with honeſtie, abide the compariſon, with the common ſort of Chriſtians in this time? But your drift is to deceiue young heads, of whom through your traiterous conſpiracies, you haue ſent a great number to London Bridge, that neuer knewe the former dayes and manners, and ſeeth in deede much wickednes in this time, yet puniſhed where it is detected, in all ſortes of men, and not openly permitted, as Stewes be in Poperie.

Rhem. 18 Looke whether your men be more vertuous, your women more chaſte, your children more obedient, your ſeruants more truſtie, your maides more modeſt, your friends more faithfull, your laitie more iuſt in dealing, your Clergie more deuoute in praying: whether there be more religion, feare of God, faith and conſcience in all ſtates nowe, then of olde, when there was not ſo much reading, chatting, and iangling of Gods worde, but much more ſincere dealing, doing, and keeping the ſame. Looke whether through this diſorder, women teach not their husbands, children their parents, young fooles their old and wiſe fathers, the ſchollers their maſters, the ſheepe their paſtor, and the people the Prieſt. Looke whether the moſt chaſt and ſacred ſentences of Gods holy worde, be not turned of many, into mirth, mockerie, amorous ballets and deteſtable letters of loue and leudnes: their delicate tunes, tunes, and tranſlations much increaſing the ſame.

Scriptures as prophanely cited as heathen poetes.

Fulke. 18 We yeelde humble thankes vnto God, that although the fruites of the Goſpel, be not ſo plentifull, as it were meete after ſo long teaching: yet the worde of God hath not beene preached and read in vaine, but that great and notable effectes thereof doe appeare, in the life and conuerſation of the faithfull. And that all ſortes and degrees of men, women, and children, which be diligent in reading, and hearing the word of God, be reformed in all vertue and godly behauiour. And that there is more religion, feare of God, faith, & conſcience, in all ſuch perſons, then was in any ſuperſtitious hypocrite, that liued in the darke dayes of Papiſtrie. Neither doe women teache their husbands, children their parents, young men the olde, ſchollers their maſter, and ſheepe their ſhepheard, except perhaps, where there is greater knowledge in the woman, then in the man, in the childe, then in the parent, in the young, then in the olde, in the ſcholler, then in the maſter, in the people then in him that occupieth the place of the Paſtor, in which caſe, it is not againſt Gods ordinance, that the inferiour ſhould inſtruct the ſuperiour. The Prophet Dauid ſayth, that he had more vnderſtanding, then his Elders, becauſe he ſtudied the Lawe of God, that he became wiſer then all his teachers, becauſe his meditation was in the Lordes teſtimonies. But where the husband, parents, olde men, maſters and paſtors, are as they ought to be, better learned in the holy Scriptures, then their inferiours, there is no ſuch diſorder amongſt vs, as you ſpeake of, if you except a fewe ſchiſmatikes departed from vs, and condemned of vs. Neither are the ſentences of Gods holy worde, by any of vs, abuſed into mirth, and mockerie, and ſuch other wickednes, but either by Papiſts, or prophane vnreligious perſons, which haue brought that horrible prophanation of the Scriptures, from the common practiſe in Poperie. Neither make we or allowe we any ſuch rimes, tunes, or tranſlations, as may giue iuſt occaſion to increaſe ſuch impietie.

All Heretikes pretend Scriptures.

Fulke. 19 Theſe Papiſts, are able to followe no argument againſt vs, with any apparence of trueth, but that which is grounded on petition or begging of principles. For who will graunt them, the fall of good life and prophaning the diuine myſteries, in and by them, which vſe to reade the holy Scriptures amongſt vs, as they are taught by vs to reade them? yet they ſay, euery body ſeeth it. And as for that which they call the great corruption, and decay of faith, in deede, is the true inſtruction, confirmation & increaſe of faith. That Heretikes, which ſeeke nothing in the Scriptures, but the confirmation of their error, muſt needes abuſe them to their damnation, it is confeſſed on our part. But that both Heretikes and euill men, ſeeking to know the wil of God in the Scriptures, by the promiſe of Chriſt, are aſſured to finde it. And the ſence of the Church, and of the doctors, if it be the true ſence of the Scriptures, is taken out of the Scriptures themſelues, according to that worthy ſaying of Clemens cited in the decrees diſt. 37. c. relatum. Therfore euen in the Scriptures with the aſſiſtance of Gods ſpirit, may be found that true ſence of the holy Church, and the doctors therof. But ỳ the ignorant & vnlearned, which know and folow nothing but their priuate fantaſie, may eaſily be deceiued, & that heretikes, wolues, and the deuils themſelues, pretende the holy Scriptures, it needed not ſo many auctorities to prooue, becauſe it is acknowledged of all men that haue but meane knowledge: Yet it followeth not which you conclude, that the vulgar or common people, in theſe dayes of general diſputes, cannot but be in extreme danger of error, by reading the Scriptures truely tranſlated, but rather by reading of them, may be preſerued from danger of error, if in humblenes of heart, and deſire to knowe the trueth, they ſeeke, knocke, and pray to him which hath promiſed that they ſhall finde, enter, and receiue.

Rhem. 20 But the caſe now is more lamētable: for the Proteſtants & ſuch as S. Paul calleth ambulantes in aſtutia, walking in deceitfulnes, haue ſo abuſed the people & many other in the world, not vnwiſe, that by their falſe tranſlations they haue in ſtead of Gods Law and Teſtament, & for Chriſts written wil & word, giuen them their owne wicked writing and phātaſies, moſt ſhamefully in all their verſions Latin, Engliſh, & other tongues, corrupting both the letter and ſenſe by falſe tranſlation, adding, detracting, altering, tranſpoſing, pointing, and all other guilefull meanes: ſpecially where it ſerueth for the aduantage of their priuate opinions. for which, they are bold alſo, partly to diſauthoriſe quite, partly to make doubtful, diuers whole bookes allowed for Canonical ſcripture by the vniuerſal Church of God this thouſand yeres & vpward: to alter all the authentical and Eccleſiaſtical words vſed hitherto: our Chriſtianitie, into new prophane nouelties of ſpeaches agreeable to their doctrine: to change the titles of works, to put out the names of the authors, to charge the very Euangeliſt with following vntrue tranſlation, to adde whole ſentences proper to their ſect, into their pſalmes in meter,* euen into the very Creede in rime. all which the poore deceiued people ſay and ſing as though they were Gods owne word, being in deede through ſuch ſacrilegious treacherie, made the Diuels word.*

Fulke. 20 You ſlander the Proteſtants, in ſaying they walke in deceitfulnes, and abuſe men by falſe tranſlations, corrupting, adding, detracting &c. the particulers whereof, as they occurre in theſe annotations, ſhal receiue their anſwer to your ſhame. And as for ỳ booke, wherein they are ſet foorth more at large, by which you meane, Martines diſcouery, the auctor did well to terme it an handmayd to this great gentlewoman, the gloſſe of your annotations, ſpecially in reſpect of her modeſtie, that being once rebuked of her laſciues, ſhe holdeth her peace and doth not reply. So that theſe fiue or ſixe yeres hauing none amongſt you, that dare ſet pen to paper, to defend her after the death of her father, ſhe hath kept ſilence to the ſhame of all Papiſts. Therfore for a large and particular confutation of all thoſe ſlanders, I referre the Reader to a booke ſet forth in confutation of that diſcouery, called A defence of the ſincere and true tranſlation of the holy Scriptures into the Engliſh tongue, &c. And that which you write in the margent, ſpecially againſt Beza, is confuted in the anſwere to Martines preface Section 18. 19. 20. 21. 22.

The laſt quarrell againſt our tranſlation, is, for adding whole ſentences to the Pſalmes in meter, and euen to the Crede in rime. By as good reaſon you might haue brought out all bookes that we write in Engliſh, to proue that our tranſlations of the Bible are faultie. For all reaſonable men know, that the turning of the Pſalmes into meeter, is no tranſlation, neither is the Crede any part of the text of the holy Scripture, although good regard ſhould be had as well in the one, as in the other, that nothing be added to the ſence (though the nomber of wordes can not poſſibly bee kept) as for the moſt part I hope it is. Where you ſay the poore deceiued people ſay and ſing thoſe meeters, as though they were Gods owne word, you meaſure their vnderſtanding by the blindnes of your ignorant Papiſtes. But aſſure your ſelfe, our people are not ſo ignorant, but they can diſtinguiſh the very text of the Scripture tranſlated into Engliſh from the paraphraſe of the Pſalmes brought into meeter, knowing that this later muſt bee conſonant in ſence vnto the former, or els it is not the diuine Scripture, no not although it be agreeable vnto it. That our tranſlation maketh of Gods worde the deuils word, it is a raylyng ſentence grounded vpon no trueth, nor argument ſounding like trueth, and therefore I paſſe it ouer.

Rhem. 21 To ſay nothing of their intollerable libertie and licence to change the accuſtomed callings of God, Angel, men, places, and things vſed by the Apoſtles and all antiquitie, in Greeke, Latin, and all other languages of Chriſtian Nations, into new names, ſometimes falſly, and alwayes ridiculouſly and for oſtentation taken of the Hebrues: to frame and fine the phraſes of holy Scriptures after the forme of prophane writers, ſticking not, for the ſame to ſupply, adde, alter or diminiſh as freely as if they tranſlated Liuie, Virgil, or Terence. Hauing no religious reſpect to keepe either the maieſtie or ſincere ſimplicitie of that venerable ſtyle of Chriſtes ſpirit, as S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh, which kind the holy Ghoſt did chuſe of infinite wiſdom to haue the diuine myſteries rather vttered in, then any other more delicate, much leſſe in that meretricious maner of writing that ſundry of theſe newe tranſlators doe vſe: of which ſort Caluin himſelfe and his pue-fellowes ſo much complaine, that they profeſſe, Satan to haue gained more by theſe new interpreters (their number, diuitie of ſpirit, and audacitie encreaſing dayly) then he did before by keeping the word from the people. And for a paterne of this miſchiefe, they giue Caſtalio, alluring all their churches and ſcholers to beware of his tranſlation, as one that hath made a very ſport and mockary of Gods holy worde. ſo they charge him: themſelues (and the Zuinglians of Zurick, whoſe tranſlations Luther therfore abhorred) handling the matter with no more fidelitie, grauitie, or ſinceritie, then the other: but rather with much more affectation, as (to vſe the Apoſtls wordes) cauponation and adulteration of Gods word, then they. beſides many wicked gloſſes, prayers, confeſſions of faith, conteining both blaſphemous errors* and plaine contradictions to themſelues and among themſelues, all priuiledged and authoriſed to be ioyned to the Bible, & to be ſaid and ſung of the poore people, and to be beleeued as articles of faith and wholy conſonant to Gods word.*

All this their dealing is noted (as occaſion ſeruеth) in the Antocariſons vpon this Teſtament: & more at large in a booke lately made purpoſely of that matter, A DISCOVERIE, &c.

* Caluin complaineth of the new delicate tranſlators, namely Caſtalion: himſelfe and Beza being as bad or worſe. Præfat. in nouum Teſta. Gal. 1567 Ioſias Simleius in vita Bullingeri.

Fulke. 21 All theſe quarels, and falſe accuſations, are anſwered ſufficiently in the booke before remembred, and as they ſhalbe touched in theſe annotations, they ſhall here alſo be confuted.

Thar Caluine, the Church of Zurich, & other, complaine of the licentious & prophane trãſlation of Caſtalion, it ſheweth indeed, that we approue none, but ỹ is ſincere & true, although without proofe you accuſe ours to be as bad or worſe. If Luther in his heat miſliked the Tigurine trãſlation, it is not ſufficient to diſcredit it, ſeeing trueth, & not ỹ opinion or authoritie of men, is to be folowed in ſuch matters.

The gloſes, prayers, and confeſſions, though they be printed, and bound in the ſame volume with the Bible, yet they be not priuiledged & auctoriſed to be ſo ioyned with ỹ Bible, as part of it, or yet ſo wholy conſonant vnto it, but that they are to be examined according to the text of the Scripture, and not otherwiſe to be received, then ſo farre forth, as they are agreeable therunto. Vnleſſe perhaps you thinke, that we vſurpe ſuch lordſhip ouer mens faith, as you do practiſe, which require all theſe your ſlaunders, conteined in your preface, and all other errors comprehended in your annotations, to be taken for articles of faith, wholy conſonant to the Catholike religion. The contradiction that you note in the fourth article of the creede in meeter, with the confeſſion of our faith denying Limbus patrum, if you were not malitious enemies, might be auoyded, either by acknowledging ỹ the auctor of that meeter is to be vnderſtood ſo, as his wordes may agree with the article of the confeſſion, or els, that he vttered his priuate opinion diſagreeing from the iudgement of the whole Church.

Rhem. 22 We therefore hauing compaſſion to ſee our beloued countrey men, with extreme danger of their ſoules, to vſe only ſuch prophane tranſlations, and erronious mens mere phantaſies, for the pure and bleſſed word of trueth, much alſo moued thereunto by the deſires of many deuout perſons: haue ſet forth, for you (benigne readers) the new Teſtament to begin withall, truſting that it may giue occaſion to you, after diligent peruſing therof, to lay away at leſt ſuch their impure verſions as hitherto you haue bene forced to occupie. How well we haue done it, we muſt not be iudges, but referre all to Gods Church and our ſuperiors in the ſame, to them we ſubmit our ſelues, and this, & all other our labours, to be in part or in the whole, reformed, corrected, altered, or quite aboliſhed: moſt humbly deſiring pardon if through our ignorãce, temeritie, or other humane infirmitie, we haue any where miſtaken the ſenſe of the holy Ghoſt. further promiſing, that if hereafter we eſpie any of our owne errors, or if any other, either friend of good will, or aduerſarie for deſire of reprehenſion, ſhall open vnto vs the ſame: we will not (as Proteſtants do) for defence of our eſtimation, or of pride and contention, by wrangling words wilfully perſiſt in them, but be moſt glad to heare of them, and in the next edition or otherwiſe to correct them: for it is trueth that we ſeeke for, and Gods honour: which being had either by good intention, or by occaſion, al is well. This we profeſſe only, that we haue done our endeuour with prayer, much feare and trembling, leſt we ſhould dangerouſly erre in ſo ſacred, high, and diuine a worke: that we haue done it with all faith, diligence, and ſinceritie: that we haue vſed no partialitie for the diſaduantage of our aduerſaries, nor no more licence then is ſufferable in tranſlating of holy Scriptures: continually keeping our ſelues as neere as is poſſible, to our text and to the very wordes and phraſes which by long vſe are made venerable, though to ſome prophane or delicate eares they may ſeeme more hard or barbarous, * *as the whole ſtile of Scripture doth lightly to ſuch as the beginning: acknowledging with S. Fulke. 22 Theſe fourtie or fiftie yeeres, being voyd of compaſſion, you haue ſuffred the people to be without a Popiſh tranſlation, while you had any hope to perſwade the world, that ignorãce of the holy ſcriptures is more meete for them, then knowledge in the ſame. But being beaten from that moſt impudent aſſertion by ſhame, and the conſcience of al Papiſts that are of any equitie or indifferent iudgement crying out againſt it, & ſeeing that you laboured in vaine to bring in blind ignorance, you haue yeelded by obſcure tranſlation, partly to dimme the light of the Scripture, & by hereticall annotations, to peruert the ſence of the holy Ghoſt, to the vpholding of the kingdom of Antichriſt. treaſons and murder of the moſt honourable Prince in the worlde, your naturall ſoueraine Lady and Queene, and the ouerthrow of your owne Countrey, which hath bred and nouriſhed you: we cannot be perſwaded that any heauenly wiſdome can enter into ſo malicious ſoules, or that there is any feare of God, regard, honour or loue of his trueth, that moueth you to any thing, whatſoeuer you pretend: But euen as the booke you lately wrote againſt ỹ murthering of Princes, had no other purpoſe of the ſetters forth, but to make our Prince & her Counſel ſecure of your deuiliſh practiſes, while you intẽded nothing ſo carefully, as the moſt cruel & vnnatural ſlaughter of her ſacred perſon, and of all her faithfull Counſellers and truſtie ſubiects, by that helliſh and Sathanicall conſpiracie of Sauadge, Ballard, Babington and the reſt, by Gifford & Allen principal pillars of that your Seminarie of Rhemes, enchanted & confirmed thereunto, openly teſtified by their owne cõfeſſions, at their arraignments. That in tranſlation of the ſcriptures, the very words muſt be kept, as nere as it is poſſible, and the phraſe of ỹ rongue into which we tranſlate wil beare, we do acknowledge w̃ S. Hieronym ad Pammach. That which you cite out of S. Auguſtine, is not to be found in the place by you quoted: but wherſoeuer it is writtẽ, it ſeemeth to be entended of termes vſual in ỹ Church, againſt heretikes, rather then of trãſlation. That the ancient doctors refuſed not the Barbariſmes and ſolæciſmes of the vulgar latin tranſlation, which they then had, it was becauſe they did write in Latin, to be vnderſtood of the cõmon people, to whom the Latin tongue was vulgar, and ỹ tranſlation familiar: not that thoſe Barbariſmes & ſolæciſmes by long vſe became venerable, or that it is any example for you, to bring in latine and Greeke words into the Engliſh text, neither vſed before, nor vnderſtood now of the Engliſh people. Although the place you cite out of S. Ambroſe, is by him defended to be a cõmendable phraſe, by auctority of thoſe which made choyſe of words & eloquent ſpeaches, of which one ſaid: loco editiore quã victoribus decebat. Neither doth S. Hieronym in the Epiſtle to Damaſus, ſay, ỹ he keepeth religiouſly theſe & ſuch like barbarous ſpeaches, although he vſe ſome of them in his Cõmentaries, for the cauſe before aledged, but rather he ſheweth, that recourſe muſt be had to the original trueth of the Greeke text. Neuertheles he ſaith, he hath ſo tempered his penne, that thoſe things only being corrected ỹ might ſeeme to change the ſenſe, he ſuffred ỹ reſt to remaine as they were.

De ciuitat. lib. 10. cap. 11.

Neither had S. Auguſtine any religion in falſe or barbarous latine, although he did beare with it, and was willing to vſe it where it was beſt vnderſtood, or did beſt expreſſe ỹ original Greeke. For in the firſt place by you quoted, he would haue ỹ original tongue, out of which the interpretation is made, to be looked vnto, & that which is barbarous and obſcure, to be corrected by it, as in ſtead of vinulamina, he would haue plantationes: that which is cõmonly vnderſtood, to be borne with, if it cannot be amended, & giueth an example of That, which now (ſaith he) we cannot take away from the mouth of the people, that ſing, Vpõ him ſhal my ſanctificatiõ floriſh, where the barbarous word floriet, doth nothing hinder the ſence: yet a cunning hearer had rather haue it corrected, that it might be ſaid, not floriet, but florebit. And nothing doth hinder the correction, but the cuſtome of the ſingers. But theſe things may be eaſily cõtemned. Lo this is the moſt religious care, ỹ he hath to keepe Barbariſmes & ſolæciſmes, this is the ſpecial pride and infirmitie ỹ he counteth in them, that would haue them corrected.

Pſal. 131.

In the ſecond place by you noted, for auoyding of ambiguitie, he ſaith, he had rather ſpeake barbarouſly, then purely: as where the text is, Non eſt abſconditum à te oſſa mea, becauſe oſſa ſignifieth a mouth & a bone, the certeintie muſt be learned out of the Greeke tongue, Wherfore many times (ſaith he) the vulgar cuſtome of ſpeaking is more profitable for ſignification of things, then the learned puritie. For I had rather it be ſaid with barbariſme, Non eſt abſconditum à te oſſum meum, then that it ſhould be therfore leſſe plaine, becauſe it is more latine like. His meaning is, he had rather haue a barbarous word vſed (that is vnderſtoode of the common people) then a pure latine worde, either not vnderſtoode, or vncerteine how it ſhould be vnderſtood.

Pſal. 138.

In the thirde place he ſaith, that ſanguines, in the plurall, is no good latine word, yet becauſe it is the plurall nomber in the Greeke, the interpreter did chuſe rather to expreſſe the trueth according to the ſound of words, though he ſpake not ſo pure latine, according to the Grammarians, for if he had ſpoken it in the ſingular nomber, he had not expreſſed the Apoſtles meaning: Therefore let vs ſpeake (ſaith he) and not be afraid of the Grammarians palmer, ſo that we may come to the ſound and more certaine trueth.

These things I haue examined particularly, though the matter be not weightie, that the reader may ſee how ſoundly and ſincerely, you gather out of the fathers, where no great neede enforceth you, that he may the rather ſuſpect your dealing with them, in matters of greater importance.

Rhem. 23 Now, though the text thus truely tranſlated, might ſufficiently, in the ſight of the learned & all indifferent men, both cõfounde the aduerſaries corruptions, & proue that the holy Scripture wherof they haue made ſo great vaunts, make nothing for their new opinions, but wholy for the Catholike Churches beleefe & doctrine, in all the points of differẽce betwixt vs: yet knowing that the good & ſimple may eaſily be ſeduced by ſome few obſtinate perſons of perdition (whom we ſee giuen ouer into a reprobat ſenſe, to whom the Goſpel, which in it ſelf is the odour of life to ſaluation, is made the odour of death to damnatiõ, ouer whoſe eyes for ſinne & diſobedience God ſuffreth a veile or couer to lie, while they read the new Teſtament, euen as the Apoſtle ſaith the Iewes haue til this day, in reading of the old, that as the one ſort cãnot find Chriſt in the ſcriptures, ye ade they neuer ſo much, ſo the other cãnot find the Catholike Church nor her doctrine there neither) & finding by experiẽce this ſaying of S. Auguſtine to be moſt true, If the prejudice of any erronious perſuaſion preoccupate the mind, whatſoeuer the ſcripture hath to ỹ contrary, men take it for a figuratiue ſpeach: for theſe cauſes, & ſomewhat to help the faithful reader in the difficulties of diuers places, we haue alſo ſet forth reaſonable large ANNOTATIONS, thereby to ſhew the ſtudious reader in moſt places perteining to the controuerſies of this time, both the heretical corruptions and falſe deductions, and alſo the Apoſtolike tradition, the expoſitions of the holy fathers, the decrees of the Catholike Church & moſt ancient Cõmu- cels: which meane, whosoeuer trusteth not, for the sense of holy Scriptures, but had rather folow his priuate iudgement or the arrogant spirit of these Sectaries, he shall worthily through his owne wilfulnes be deceiued. beseeching all men to looke with diligence, sinceritie, and indifferencie, into the case that concerneth no lesse then euery ones eternall saluation or damnation.

Fulke.23 Although the text be not truly translated by you, yet ye are not able by it to disproue the trueth of our doctrine, nor to defend your owne heresies. Whatsoeuer in your Annotations you haue obserued to charge vs with heretical corruptions or false deductions, hath for the one bene sufficiently confuted already, the other shall receiue answere now. As for the olde bragge of Apostolike tradition, exposition of fathers, decrees of Church & councels, shalbe declared now to be as vaine as euer it was. And whosoeuer with diligence, sinceritie, and indifferencie will vouchsafe to reade, as well your Annotations, as our answere to the same, I doubt not but they shal acknowledge more to be performed concerning this matter in the ende, then we promise in the beginning. As for the wilfull blinde, that wil be led by none other, but by your blinde Pharizaical guides, we must let them alone, to fall together with you, into the pit of euerlasting destruction.

Rhem.24 Which if he do, we doubt not but he shall to his great contentment, finde the holy Scriptures most clerely and inuincibly to proue the articles of Catholike doctrine against our aduersaries, which perhaps he had thought before this diligent search, either not to be consonant to Gods word, or at least not conteined in the same, and finally he shall proue this saying of S. Augustine to be most true. Multi sensus, &c. Many senses of holy Scriptures lie hidden, and are knowen to some few of greater vnderstanding: neither are they at any time auouched more cõmodiously & acceptably then at such times, whē the care to answer heretikes doth force men therunto. For then, euen they that be negligent in matters of study & learning, shaking off sluggishnes, are stirred vp to diligent hearing, that the Aduersaries may be refelled. Againe, how many senses of holy scriptures, concerning Christes Godhead, haue bene auouched against Photinus: howe many of his Manhod, against Manichaus: how many, of the Trinitie, against Sabellius: how many, of the vnitie in Trinitie, against the Arriās, Eunomians, Macedoniās: how many, of the Catholike Church dispersed throughout the whole world, and of the mixture of good and bad in the same vntill the end of the world, against the Donatists and Luciferians and other of the like error: how many against al other heretikes, which it were to long to rehearse? Of which senses and expositions of holy Scripture the approued authors and auouchers, should otherwise either not be knowen at all, or not so well knowen, as the contradictions of proud heretikes haue made them.

In Psal.67. prope finem.

Heresies make Catholikes more diligent to search and finde the senses of holy Scripture for refelling of the same.

Fulke. 24 We may see, there is no smal accompt made of these your annotations, ỹ you promise the diligēt reader, such satisfaction & contentment in them, as he could not find in all the Popish treatises, ỹ haue bene set forth these thirtie yeeres. Well, the triall is all. For my part, by the assistance of Gods grace, I nothing doubt, but as I haue in twentie other of your treatises, laid open the weaknes of your part, with the lewde meanes you vse to vphold it, in such sort as you haue no list to reply: so in this worke, I shall performe the like, that the saying of S. Augustine, by you set downe, shalbe foūd most true. That the cõtradiction of Papists (as of al other like heretikes) is ỹ occasion, that the true meaning of the Scripture, by diligent search is better vnderstoode, then it were like to haue bene, if no such heresie had arisen, and that the true Catholikes be better discerned from the arrogant heretikes, according to the saying of the Apostle. There must be heresies, that they which are approued, may be made manifest. So the malice of Sathan the father of lies, is by the inuincible power of God, conuerted to the auouching of the trueth, and to the benefite of the Church, which by heresies the deuil seeketh to ouerthrowe.

Rhem.25 Thus he saith of such things as not seeming to be in holy Scriptures to the ignorant or heretikes, yet in deede be there. But in other points doubted of, that in deede are not decided by scripture, he giueth vs this godly rule to be followed in al, as he exemplifieth in one. Then do we hold (saith he) the veritie of the Scriptures, when we do that which now hath seemed good to the Vniuersal Church, which the authoritie of the Scriptures themselues doth commend: so that, forasmuch as the holy Scripture cānot deceiue, whosoeuer is afraid to be deceiued with the obscuritie of questions, let him therein aske counsel of the same CHVRCH, which the holy Scripture most certainly and euidently sheweth and pointeth vnto. Aug. lib. 1. Cons. Cresc. c. 13.

Fulke 25. Your application of S. Augustines place, is as true as your quotation: for you quote, cap. 13. in stead of the 33. cap. And he speaketh not of points of doctrine, that in deede are not decided by Scripture, for of the point of doctrine in controuersie betweene him and the Donatists, that such as were baptized by heretikes might not be rebaptized, he saith in the Chapter going before, Sequimur sanè nos in hac re etiam Canonicarū auctoritatem certissimam scripturarum. Truly we folow in this thing also, the most certaine auctoritie of the canonicall Scriptures. And a litle before, he had alledged for the same question, among other auctorities of Scriptures, the saying of our Sauiour Christ to Peter: He that is once washed, needs not to be washed againe. But the matter that was not to be founde in the Scripture, was an example of one baptized by heretikes, receiued by the Church without rebaptisme. For hee had also before alledged the example of the Samaritanes, who being circumcised in schisme and heresie, were not circumcised againe, when they were conuerted to the true Religion of the

Iewes

Iewes: which proueth the point of doctrine inuincibly. But the contentious heretike, would ſtill vrge the like example to be ſhewed of baptiſme, whereupon S. Auguſtine ſaith, Proinde quamuis huius rei certè de ſcripturis canonicis, non proferatur exemplũ, &c. Therfore although in deede, an example be not brought forth of this thing, out of the canonicall Scriptures, yet in the ſame thing alſo, the trueth of the ſame ſcriptures is holden of vs, when we do that, which hath now pleaſed the whole Church, whom the auctoritie of the Scriptures themſelues doth commend, that for as much as the holy Scripture cannot deceiue, whoſoeuer feareth to be deceiued with the obſcuritie of this queſtion, let him aske counſell of the ſame Church, which the holy Scripture without all ambiguitie, doeth demonſtrate or ſet out. The obſcuritie of this queſtion, grew by the contrary iudgemẽt and practiſe of S. Cyprians time, which the whole Church, by auctoritie of the Scriptures, had reformed in S. Auguſtines time. He ſaith not therfore, that of points not decided by Scripture, the Church muſt be conſulted, but where queſtion of contrary iudgement & practiſe doth ariſe, the iudgement of the whole Church muſt be enquired, what is agreeable to the holy Scriptures, and preferred before the particular opinions and practiſes of any other, though otherwiſe godly and learned, as Cyprian was.

The Church therefore, hath wiſdome to decide queſtions by Scripture, not auctoritie to determine of points of doctrine, not decided by the Scriptures, for there are none ſuch neceſſary for Gods people, to know or practiſe.

Rhem. 26 NOW to giue thee alſo intelligence in particular, moſt gentle Reader, of ſuch things as it behoueth thee ſpecially to know concerning our Tranſlation: We tranſlate the olde vulgar Latin text, not the common Greeke text, for theſe cauſes. Many cauſes why this new Teſtament is tranſlated according to the ancient vulgar Latin text.

It is moſt auncient. 1. It is ſo auncient, that it was vſed in the Church of God aboue 1300. yeeres agoe, as appeareth by the fathers of thoſe times.

Fulke. 26 You tranſlate the vulgar latine text, and not the originall Greeke text, for tenne cauſes. The firſt is the antiquitie, that it was in vſe in the Church of God, aboue 1300. yeeres agoe. This is more boldly affirmed, then it can be ſoundly prooued: for it appeareth not by the fathers of thoſe times, that any one tranſlation was generally vſed. S. Auguſtine as we ſhewed before, ſaith, there was an infinite varietie of latine tranſlations. S. Hieronym in effect ſaith as much in præfat. ad Damaſum in 4. Euang. Yea it will be hard for you to name any one father of the latine Church, that vſed it more then 1300. yeeres agoe.

Firſt Tertullian vſed it not, as appeareth by an hundreth textes that he citeth, differing from it: one or two ſhal ſuffice for example. Your vulgar latine hath Alter alterius onera portate, Tertullian citeth it: Onera veſtra inuicem ſuſtinete. Your text hath, prudentiam prudentium reprobabo, Tertullians text was, irritam faciam. Your text hath, Non enim erubeſco Euangelium, Tertullians text was, Non enim me pudet Euangelij.

Cont. Marc. lib. 5. In epi. ad Gal. c. 6. in 1. Cor. 1. c. 1. & Rom. c. 1.

S. Cyprian vſed it not, as appeareth by infinite textes which he citeth in his bookes of Teſtimonies ad Quirinum, and throughout his workes, whereof I wil ſhew a few examples. Your text hath Matth. 3. Non ſum dignus calciamenta portare. Cyprians text had, Non ſum idoneus ad Quirini lib. 1 num. 12. Againe Luc. 1. Your text hath Quia viſitauit & fecit redemptionem plebis ſuæ. Cyprians text was, quia proſpexit redemptionem populo ſuo. lib. 2. Num. 7. Againe your text Iohn 1. hath In principio erat verbum. S. Cyprians text had, In principio erat Sermo. lib. 2. Num. 6. Your text Rom. 2. hath, An diuitias bonitatis eius & patientiæ, & longanimitatis contemnis? S. Cyprians tranſlation had, An nunquid opulentiam bonitatis eius & ſuſtinentiam & patientiam cõtemnis? lib 3. Num. 35. The Clergie of Rome in S. Cyprians time, vſed not your vulgar latine text, as appeareth by diuers texts cited in their Epiſtles: As for example, Your text hath, Matth. 18. Omne debitum dimiſi tibi quoniam rogaſti me. The Romans text had, Donaui tibi omne debitum quia me rogaſti. Cler. Rom. epiſt. 31. Your text hath Rom. 1. Quia fides veſtra annuntiatur in vniuerſo mundo, Their text had, Quia fides veſtra prædicatur in toto mundo.

Irenæus or he that tranſlated him into latine, which is very ancient, folowed another tranſlation, then your vulgar latine. I wil forbeare examples which are many, becauſe it is not certaine of what time the tranſlator of Irenæus liued, who is thought to haue written in Greeke.

Com. in pſ. 67. In pſ. 106.

Arnobius an ancient writer vſed not your text, as appeareth by diuers places which he citeth. for example, Your text hath 1. Ioh. 2. Filioli nouiſſima hora eſt. Arnobius did read, Pueri nouiſſima hor. &c. Your text Luc. 22. hath, Satanas expetiuit vos vt cribraret. Arnobius did read ventilet. Your text ſaith, Ego autem rogaui, Arnobius ſaith, Ego autem interceſſi.

S. Hilarie vſeth not your vulgar latine text, as appeareth through all his Commentarie vpon S. Matthew, wherof take theſe examples: Your text hath Matth. 7. In quo enim iudicio iudicaueritis, iudicabimini. S. Hilarie ſaith, Iudicabitur de vobis.

Againe, cap. 11. Your text hath Arundinem vento agitatam. Hilary readeth vento moueri. Your latine text hath, Matth. 26. Extendens manum exemit gladium ſuum & percutiens ſeruum principis ſacerdotum amputauit auriculam eius. S. Hilary ſaith, gladium exerens ſeruo principis ſacerdotum aurem abſcidit.

S. Ambroſe you confeſſed before, to vſe a more ancient tranſlation, then your vulgar latine, and leaſt the vnlearned reader ſhould thinke it were in that one only place, I wil giue a fewe examples, whereby it may appeare, that he vſed not your vulgar latine in his whole Commentarie vpon S. Luke, which is his without controuerſie. In the Angels ſalutation, Luk. 1. your text hath in mulieribus. S. Ambroſe ſaith inter mulieres. In the anſwere of Mary, your text hath fiat mihi: Ambroſe ſaith contingat mihi. In the 12. chapter, where your text hath ager, Ambroſe hath poſſeſſio. Yours hath Quid induamini, Ambroſe hath, quid veſtiamini. Seeing none of theſe fathers of theſe times, vſed your vulgar latine text, I pray you tel vs in good earneſt, what fathers you meane: for theſe are the chiefe, & almoſt all whoſe workes remaine of thoſe times.

Sect. 22. Againe, where you ſay in the margent, it is moſt auncient, you forget what you ſaid before, that Ambroſe folowed an elder tranſlation,then the vulgar latine tranſlation.

Rhem. 27 2. It is that (by the common receiued opinion and by all probabilitie) which S.Hieroms afterward corrected according to the Greeke, by the appointment of Damaſus then Pope, as he maketh mention in his preface before the foure Euangeliſtes, vnto the ſaid Damaſus: and in Catalogo in fine, and epi.102. Corrected by S.Hieron.

Fulke 27. The places by you quoted,do ſhew,ỳ Hieronym did correct a vulgar latin text,that was much vſed before his time,at the requeſt of Damaſus,but the cõmon receiued opinion of Papiſts,which call it S.Hieronyms tranſlation,is no good argument to proue it to be ỳ ancient vulgar text of his correctiõ.Al probabilitie,is but your owne auctoritie.For it is againſt al probabilitie,ỳ Hieronym who corrected it,according to ỳ greeke,as he profeſſeth,would haue left ſo many places,ỳ are not warrãted by any greeke copy.

Againe there are in it, ſome of thoſe faults, which S. Hieronym did correct, as in Marke the firſt, the name of Eſay,which he thinketh to be the fault of the writers. Com. in Matth.c.3.The like is in ſome copies of the vulgar latine, Indea for Iude. Matth.2.and cap.6.He correcteth the word exterminans, which remaineth in your vulgar Latin text.

Alſo cap.16.4.it appeareth that S.Hieronyms text was vade retro me, yours is vade poſt me.

In the Epiſtle to the Galath.c.1. where your vulgar Latine hath expugnabam illam. S.Hieronym in his Commentarie, rehearſeth the text & deuaſtabam illam. Likewiſe for acquieui in the ſame chapiter, hee correcteth conſuli according to the Greeke. Againe vpon the 3. chapiter he ſaith expreſly Legitur in quibuſdam codicibus, quis vos faſcinauit non credere veritati? Sed hoc quia in exemplaribus Adamantij non habetur, omiſimus. In ſome bookes it is read, who hath bewitched you not to beleeue the truth? but becauſe it is not found in the copies of Origenes, we haue omitted it.But thoſe wordes which he ſaith he hath omitted,your vulgar text hath. Therefore with greater probabilitie,may I ſay,that your vulgar text is not that which S.Hieronym corrected, but rather the ſame text vncorrected, then you can affirme, that by all probabilitie, it is that which he corrected.

Many like examples might be brought out of his Cõmentaries vpon the Epiſtle to the Epheſians, and to Philemon, & to Titus,where he ſheweth his correction out of the Greeke, which is not obſerued in your vulgar Latin text. Therefore your vulgar Latine text is not that which he corrected.

Rhem. 28 3. *Conſequently it is the ſame which S.Auguſtine ſo commendeth and alloweth in an Epiſtle to S.Hierom. Fulke. 28. The antecedent being proued falſe,the conſequent cannot be true. S. Auguſtine commendeth S.Hieronyms labour & diligence in that correction of the vulgar Latine, but we haue declared before,this is not ỳ,which he corrected,therfore it is not the ſame which Auguſtine ſo cõmendeth. Neither doth Auguſtine vſe your vulgar Latin text,as I might ſhew by 500.examples,but a few ſhall ſuffice to giue a taſte. *Epiſt.10. Cõmended by S.Auguſtine.

In the 9.of S.Iohn, your vulgar Latin text hath, fecit lutum ex ſpato, & linuit lutum ſuper oculos eius. S. Auguſtines tranſlation was de ſaliua ſua lutum fecit & inunxit oculos cæci. Tract. in Ioan. 44. Alſo Ioan. 13. your vulgar Latine hath poſt buccellam.S.Auguſtines booke had,poſt panem,or poſt panem intinctum.In the 1.chapter of the firſt Epiſtle of S.Iohn, your vulgar Latin text hath,& teſtamur & annunciamus vobis,vitam æternam, quæ erat apud patrem, & apparuit nobis.S.Auguſtines text had,& teſtes ſumus & annunciamus vobis vitam æternam,quæ erat apud patrem & manifeſta eſt in nobis. Alſo in the ſecond chapter, to the fifth verſe he addeth theſe wordes, Si in illo perfecti fuerimus, which are not in your vulgar Latine text, in the ſame place,he readeth dilectio Dei,where your text hath charitas. In the 4.chapiter of that ſame Epiſtle, your text hath,Omnis ſpiritus qui ſoluit Ieſum.S.Auguſt.text had omnis ſpiritus,qui non confitetur Ieſum in carne veniſſe,&c.By theſe it is manifeſt ỳ S.Aug.folowed not your vulgar Latin text,which it is like he would haue done,if it had bene the ſame with S.Hieronym corrected,and which he ſo commended & allowed.

Rhem. 29 4. It is that which for the moſt part euer ſince hath bene vſed in the Churches ſeruice, expounded in ſermons alleaged and interpreted in the Commentaries and writings of the auncient fathers of the Latin Church. Vſed and expounded by the fathers, Fulke 29. You are not able to prooue your Church ſeruice to be ſo ancient as S.Auguſtines time, for many of your Church Leſſons are taken out of Beda, and other writers, which liued many hundred yeeres after S.Auguſtines age. And ſuch parts of the Scripture,as ſeeme to haue bene of moſt auncient time vſed in the Church of Rome, are not taken out of your vulgar Latine text. In the Lords prayer, it is panem noſtrum quotidianum,in your vulgar text ſuperſubſtantialem, Likewiſe for gloria in excelſis,your vulgar Latine hath gloria in altiſſimis.So out of Matthew 21.your Church ſeruice hath,Benedictus qui venit in nomine Domini,hoſanna in excelſis,your vulgar Latine hath in altiſſimis.

That it hath not bene euer ſince S. Hiero. time alledged, & interpreted in the writings and Cõmentaries of the ancient fathers of the Latine Church,ſhall appeare by theſe teſtimonies folowing.Your text hath Matth.16.portæ inferi non præualebunt.Optatus Mileuitanus alledgeth portæ inferorum non vincent. Alſo Matth.7.your vulgar Latine hath, conuerſi dirumpant vos. Optatus redde. conuerſi elidant vos. Againe Luc.18. in your vulgar latine it is thus written, dixit autem & ad quoſdam qui in ſe confidebant tanquam iuſti,& aſpernabantur ceteros. Optatus ſaith it is written, Dicebat Ieſus hanc ſimilitudinem propter eos qui ſe ſanctos putant,& contemnunt ceteros.

Fulgentius an other auncient father of the Latine Church, alledged not alwayes your Latin text, as appeareth Ad Traſimundum lib.1.c.5. Omnis ſpiritus qui non confitetur Ieſum Chriſtum in carne veniſſe, ex Deo non eſt. Your text hath qui ſoluit Ieſum.1.Ioan.4. Alſo lib.2.c. 18. his text had conforme corpori, where your text hath configuratum.Phil.3.

Primaſius an other old father of the Latin Church,in his Cõmentarie vpon ỳ Epiſtle to the Hebrues. c.1.hath Oleo lætitiæ præ conſortibus,where your text hath,oleo exultationis præ participibus. And c.3.ad Gal. in his expoſition he foloweth that,which he ſaith was ỳ latin text: Quibus ad horam ceſſimus,where as the Latin now is negatiuely neq; ad horam.And although ỳ writers or printers haue prefixed the vulgar Latin before his cõmentaries: yet it appeareth by many places of his cõmentaries,ỳ he folowed an other text.

Proſper Aquitanicus ſomewhat elder then he, alleadgeth Scripture,out of an other tranſlation, then your your vulgar Latine: as *de promiſſ.part.3.pro.*1 out of Ioan.1 dic.vt habeamus renunciare his, your text is, vt reſponſum demus. In ỹ ſame place, vox clamantis in eremo parate viam, &c. your text is in deſerto, dirigite. And out of the Acts 13. he citeth this text, Cum impleretur curſus Ioannes dixit, quem me ſuſpicamini eſſe, non ſum ego, ſed ecce venit poſt me, de cuius pedibus non ſum dignus ſoluere corrigiam calciamentorum eius. Your text is, cum impleret autem Ioannes curſum ſuum dicebat, quem me arbitramini eſſe non ſum ego, ecce venit poſt me cuius non ſum dignus calciamenta pedum ſoluere. It were follie to adde more examples, in a caſe ſo manifeſt.

Leo Biſhop of Rome, expoundeth not your vulgar Latine text, and therefore it is not like to be that which S. Hieronyme corrected: for in his Hom. in feſt.omn.ſanctorum, interpreting ỹ beginning of S. Math. Goſpel: next after Beati pauperes, he placeth Beati qui lugent, as it is in the Greeke, Poſt prædicationem &c. After the commendation of this moſt happy powertie, our Lord added, ſaying, Bleſſed are they that mourne. Your vulgar text placeth, Beati mites, quoniam ipſi poſſidebunt terram. And Leo when he commeth to that 3. beatitude, he readeth hereditate poſſidebunt terram, more expreſſing the Greeke word. Gregory in deede, who was three hundred yeeres after the time by you before named, vſed your vulgar Latin text, and that ſo preciſely, that where there is a manifeſt corruption, not of ỹ translator, but of the writers, Luk.15. exercitis domum for exercris, he neuertheleſſe expoundeth the text according to that corruption, although he confeſſeth that in an other translation it was emundat, which is more agreeable to the Greeke. But this error of Gregorie, you are content to giue ouer, for in your translation you ſay, ſhe doth ſweepe the houſe, according to the trueth of the originall Greeke, being aſhamed to followe the groſſe errour of the beſt Biſhop of Rome, of all the number that followed him.

Rhem.30 Sceſſ.4. 5. The holy Councel of Trent, for theſe and many other important conſiderations, hath declared and defined this only of all other Latine tranſlations, to be authentical, and ſo onely to be vſed and taken in publike leſſons, diſputations, preachings, and expoſitions, and that no man preſume upon any pretence to reiect or refuſe the ſame. Onely authentical, by the holy Councel of Trent.

Fulke.30 The prophane particuler chapter of Trent, hath no auctoritie to preferre any tranſlation, much leſſe one ſo corrupt and depraued as that is, before the originall text of the Apoſtles and Euangeliſts owne enditing: nor to forbid any man to reiect that, which is found diſagreeing from the originall veritie. No Councel although it were generall (which your good lords and maſters of the Popiſh French Church, will not acknowledge Tridentine to be) hath any authoritie againſt the trueth, but only for it, as S. Paul ſayeth of him ſelfe, and other Apoſtles. 2.Cor.13.

Rhem.31 6. It is the graueſt, ſincereſt, of greateſt maieſtie, leaſt partialitie, as being without all reſpect of controuerſies and contentions, ſpecially theſe of our time, as appeareth by thoſe places which Eraſmus and others at this day tranſlate much more to the aduantage of the Catholike cauſe. Moſt graue, leaſt partial.

Fulke.31 In grauitie, ſinceritie, and maieſtie, it is not to be compared with the authenticall Greeke text, beſide that in many places, it is ridiculous, vnſincere, vntrue, and conſequently of no auctoritie, much leſſe maieſtie. And although the tranſlator was not partiall in reſpect of the controuerſies of our time, yet his vnapt tranſlation ſometime is abuſed of you, to the maintenance of your errours, as in anſwering your annotations it will appeare.

Rhem.32 7. It is ſo exact and preciſe according to the Greeke, both the phraſe and the words, that delicate Herezikes therefore reprehẽd is of rudenes: And that it followeth the Greeke farre more exactly then the Proteſtãts tranſlatiõ, beſide infinite other places, we appeale to thoſe. Tit.3.14. Curent bonis operibus præſſe. ἐπιστασθαι. Eng. bib. 1577. to mainteine good works. & *Heb.*10,20. Viam nobis initiauit, ἐνεκαίνισεν. Engliſh Bib. he prepared. So in theſe words, Iuſtificationes, Traditiones, Idola, &c. In al which they come not neere the Greke, but auoide it of purpoſe. Preciſe in following the Greeke.

Fulke.32 The tranſlator in deede according to his knowledge, did purpoſe to tranſlate exactly, both words and phraſes: but being neither very good Grecian, nor good Latiniſt, beſide that hee erred in many places from ỹ true ſenſe, he hath tranſlated many places barbarouſly, as is cõfeſſed by Lindanus, Iſidorus Clarius, & other of indifferent iudgement among you. What hurt is it then, if by learned men of theſe times, which haue exact iudgement in both ỹ tongues, that rudenes be amended? Is the Scripture of more credite in falſe latine, or in barbarous latine, then in true and cleane latine? No verily, but that you preferre olde errours, before old trueth newly reſtored.

If that vulgar tranſlation followe the trueth more exactly then ours, I would wiſh ours were reformed according to the Greeke. Concerning the examples you bring, I anſwere to the firſt, that your (præſte) doth not follow the Greeke more exactly, then our words, to maintaine, or, to ſhew foorth. For ἐπιστασθαι doeth ſignifie as wel ỹ which we tranſlate, as ỹ which your vulgar text hath. We tranſlate it alſo to excel, as Beza doth ſay, Præſtantes eſſe: and ỹ Greeke ſignifieth al three indifferently, as euery man ỹ is learned therein, wil confeſſe, and the Lexicons beare witneſſe. To the ſecond I ſay, The word, Dedicated, as Beza tranſlateth it, had bene more proper, then Prepared: yet, becauſe the worde ſignifieth, To renewe, and mention is made before of the newe way, it is no hurt to the ſenſe, to ſay, He prepared a newe way.

As for the wordes, Iuſtificationes, Traditiones, Idola, we expounde truely according to the Greeke, as is declared at large, in the booke of the Defence of our tranſlations, vnto which I remit the Reader.

Rhem.33 8. The Aduerſaries themſelues, namely Beza, preferre it before all the reſt. In præfat. no. Teſt. an. 1556. And againe he ſaith, that the olde Interpreter tranſlated very religiouſly. Annot. in Luc.1.v.1. Preferred by Beza himſelfe.

Fulke.33 Beza preferreth it before the licentious tranſlations of Caſtalion, Illyricus, & ſuch like, and it is not to be denied, that the olde Interpreter of the newe Teſtament, according to his knowledge, and after that copie which he followed, tranſlated religiouſly: yet, partly for want of knowledge, partly for lacke of conference of other copies, or iudgement to diſcerne them, he hath tranſlated many things obſcurely, many things vntruely, ſome things ambiguouſly, and often times barbarouſly.

Rhem.34 9. In the reſt, there is ſuch diuerſitie and diſſenſion, and no ende of reprehending one another, and tranſlating euery man according to his fantaſie, what * Luther ſaid, If the world ſhould ſtande any long time, we muſt receiue againe (which he thought abſurd) the Decrees of Councels, for preſeruing the vnitie of faith, becauſe of ſo di- All the reſt miſliked of the Sectaries themſelues, eche reprehending an other.

*uers interpretations of the Scripture. And Beza (in the place aboue mentioned) noteth the itching ambition of his fellowe-translatours, that had much rather diſagree and diſſent from the beſt, then ſeeme them ſelues to haue ſaide or written nothing. And Bezas translation it ſelfe, being ſo eſteemed in our countrey, that the Geneua * Engliſh Teſtaments be translated according to the ſame, yet ſometime goeth ſo wide from the Greeke, and from the meaning of the holy Ghoſt, that them ſelues which proteſt to translate it, dare not followe it. For example, Luke 3.36. They haue put theſe wordes,* The ſonne of Cainan, which he wittingly and wilfully left out: and Acles 1.14. they ſay, With the women, agreeably to the vulgar Latine: where he ſaith, Cum vxoribus, with their wiues.

* The neuve Teſta. printed the yere 1580. in the Title.

Fulke. 34 The diſſenſion of interpreters, muſt be decided by the originall Greeke, as S. Auguſtine ſheweth, and S. Hieronyme thinketh as much. Neither is there greater diſſenſion of our interpreters, then is of the copies of your vulgar Latine text: neither is it like, neither is there any cauſe why Luther ſhould ſo ſay, as you report out of his aduerſarie Coclæus. For ſo long as the Greeke text remaineth, the diuerſitie of translations cannot bring the trueth in vncertaintie, but they that be learned and louers of trueth, may plainely ſee it. Nor yet is Bezas translation ſo wide from the Greeke, that it is forſaken of vs: but we vſe our iudgement freely in thoſe points, and are not tyed vnto his authoritie. The ſonne of Cainan, though it be a ſuperfluous and falſe addition, yet becauſe it is in moſt of the Greeke copies, we are content to let it ſtand, as the name of Ieremie in S. Matthewes Goſpel, which yet we doubt not to be a corruption in ſteade of Zacharie, or els that there ſhould be neither of both named.

Cap. 27. 9.

Yet Beza by authoritie of Moſes, and of a very auncient Greeke copie, nowe remaining in the Libraric of the Vniuerſitie of Cambridge, doeth leaue it out in his tranſlation.

The other example, Cum vxoribus, with their wiues, is nothing wide from the Greeke text, but very aptly agreeth therewith, yet becauſe the word ſignifieth alſo women generally, and becauſe it might be, that there were other godly women, beſide the wiues of the Apoſtles, our tranſlatour thought good to tranſlate it by the worde women, which comprehendeth as well wiues as other women.

Rhem. 35 It is not onely better then all other Latine tranſlations, but then the Greeke text it ſelfe, in thoſe places where they diſagree. It is truer then the vulgar Greeke text it ſelfe.

Fulke. 35 This onely argument, if it were well proued, might iuſtifie your tranſlation out of the vulgar Latine text. The other nine reaſons, if they were all graunted (as there is not one of them all true and good) are not ſufficient to proue, that you ought to tranſlate out of the Latine, rather then out of the Greeke. Seeing the water is moſt pure out of the ſpring, and not out of pondes & ditches, that are deriued from it.

Rhem. 36 The proofe hereof is euident, becauſe moſt of the auncient Heretikes were Grecians, and therefore the Scriptures in Greeke were more corrupted by them, as the auncient fathers often complaine. Tertullian noteth the Greeke text which is at this day. (1. Cor. 15. 47.) to be an olde corruption of Marcion the Heretike, and the trueth to be as in our vulgar Latine, Secundus homo de cœlo cœleſtis, The ſecond man from heauen heauenly. *So reade other * auncients Fathers, and Eraſmus thinketh it muſt needes be ſo, and Caluin him ſelfe followeth it.* Inſtit. lib. 2. cap. 13. parag. 2. Againe, S. Hierom noteth that the Greeke text (1. Cor. 7. 33.) which is at this day, is not the Apoſtolicall veritie, or the true text of the Apoſtle: but that which is in the vulgar Latine, Qui cum vxore eſt, ſollicitus eſt quæ ſunt mundi, quomodo placeat vxori, & diuiſus eſt. He that is with a wife, is careful of worldly things, how he may pleaſe his wife, and is diuided or diſtracted. The Eccleſiaſticall hiſtorie called the Tripartite, noteth the Greeke text that nowe is (1. Io. 4. 3.) to be an olde corruption of the auncient Greeke copies, by the Neſtorian Heretikes: and the true reading to be as in our vulgar Latine, Omnis ſpiritus qui ſoluit IESVM, ex Deo non eſt. Euery ſpirit that diſſolueth IESVS, is not of God: and Beza confeſſeth that Socrates in his Eccleſiaſticall hiſtorie readeth ſo in the Greeke, καὶ ἑκάστου ἃ λύει τὸν Ἰησοῦν, &c.

Fulke. 36 The proofe is like your accuſtomed proues, where you heape on wordes with a litle apparence to deceiue the ignorant, which being rightly weighed, haue no ſubſtance at all of trueth in them. Your firſt argument is, that moſt of the auncient Heretikes were Grecians, which did corrupt the Scriptures in Greeke. A feeble reaſon, as though the prouidence of God, which cauſed the newe Teſtament to be written in Greeke, either could not, or would not, preſerue it from the corruption of Heretikes, in Greeke, as well as in Latine. But ſome of theſe corruptions (you ſay) remaine in the Greeke bookes vnto this day: it may be in ſome copies they doe, which yet are conuinced by other copies. But that you denie: and for example you ſay, Tertullian affirmeth the Greeke text, which is at this day, 1. Cor. 15. 47. to be an olde corruption of Marcion the Heretike, and the trueth to be as your vulgar Latine hath: but Lindanus whom you followe, miſtooke Tertullian greatly, and ſo doth Beza. For Tertullian layeth not Marcions corruption in that verſe, but in the fourtie fifth verſe, and by the authoritie of the Apoſtle in the 47. verſe, diſcouereth his corruption, as well as by the order of the ſame verſe. For after he hath proued out of the Apoſtle againſt Marcion, that the reſurrection perteyneth vnto the body, and not vnto the ſoule onely: he declareth that the Apoſtle confirmeth the ſame of Chriſt himſelfe, where he ſayeth. Factus primus Adam, &c. The firſt Adam was made a liuing ſoule, the laſt Adam a quickening ſpirit, although the moſt fooliſh Heretike would not haue it to be ſo: for he hath placed the laſt lorde, inſteade of the laſt Adam, fearing in deede, leaſt if he ſhall haue the Lord to be the laſt Adam, we alſo might defend Chriſt in the laſt Adam, to be of the ſame nature, whereof the firſt Adam was. But the falſhood doth plainely appeare: for why is there the firſt Adam, but becauſe there is the laſt Adam? There is no order of things one to another, except they be equal, and be either of the ſame name, or ſubſtance, or auctor: For although in diuers things alſo, there may be one thing firſt, and an other laſt, yet they muſt be of one auctor. But if the auctor be an other, he alſo may be called the laſt: yet that which he hath brought in, is firſt, but laſt, if it be it be equall to the firſt: but equall to the firſt it is not, becauſe it is not of the ſame author: after the ſame maner, he ſhalbe conuinced in the name of man. The firſt man (ſaith he) is of the earth earthly, the ſecond is the Lord from Heauen. Why is he called the ſecond, if he be not a man, as the firſt? or is the firſt the Lord, if the ſecond be? But it ſufficeth, if in the Goſpel he taketh Chriſt the ſonne of man, and man, and in the man Adam, cannot denie him. The wordes following alſo, doe preſſe him together: for when the Apoſtle ſaith, ſuch as he is, which is of the earth, namely the man, ſuch are the men earthly. Therefore ſuch as the man is, that is from Heauen, ſuch are the men which are from heauen.* This place of Tertullian being rightly vnderſtood, doeth not charge the Greeke text with any corruption, but rather reproueth the corruption of Marcion, in the fourtie and fifth verſe, and is a good teſtimonie for the antiquitie of that reading, which is nowe of that 47. verſe in the Greeke text. And where as in his booke, De reſurrectione carnis, it is now read, Secundus homo de Cælo: it ſeemeth that Dominus is left out, through fault of the Writers, ſeeing he addeth immediatly, id eſt, ſermo Dei, id eſt Chriſtus, which agreeth properly to Dominus, and addeth not Cæleſtis, as it is in the vulgar Latine. And although ſome auncient Fathers of the Latine Church, as Ambroſe, and Hieronyme doe reade ſo, and Caluine miſliketh not the ſenſe, which is true: yet all the Greeke copies, and auncient Fathers of the Greeke Church, Chryſoſtome, Damaſcen and Oecumenius, holding the Greeke text, and the ſence thereof, being good & godly, there is no reaſon why it ſhould be compted a corruption. An other corruption of the Greeke text, you ſay, is noted by S. Hieronyme in 1. Cor. 7. 33 Aduerſus Iouinianum, lib. 1. where in deede he ſayth, that the Latine bookes of his time, were as the Greeke is nowe, and that the Apoſtolike trueth is as your vulgar text is, and as he in that place tranſlateth: yet he confeſſeth, that he hath cited it otherwiſe, and ſo he doeth in his booke againſt Heluidius, and in Ep. ad Euſtochium de Virgin. cuſtodia. But ſeeing S. Baſil, that was ſomewhat elder then he, and a father of the Greeke Church, doeth often times cite the text, as we reade it nowe, and ſo doeth Chryſoſtome likewiſe reade and expound it, Oecumenius alſo, and Theophylactus: and almoſt all the olde Greeke copies doe agree in this reading, with that which was the auncient Latine text in S. Hieronyms time: it is rather like S. Hieronyms Greeke booke was faultie, and lacked the coniunction, then that all the Greeke Church was deceiued in it. The third corruption you ſay, is noted by the Tripartite hiſtorie, lib. 12. cap. 4. in 1. Ioan. 4. 3. and the true reading to be omnis ſpiritus qui ſoluit Ieſum, as alſo Socrates contendeth, affirming that text which we nowe reade, is a corruption of the Neſtorians, as Beza confeſſeth. But Beza telleth you alſo, that S. Cyprian lib 2. aduerſ. Iudæos cap. 8. citeth it in Latine, according to that we nowe reade in the Greeke, who ſeeing he liued certeyne hundred yeeres before Neſtorius: Socrates, or Caſſiodorus, which liued ſo long after him, doe vniuſtly charge him with corruption, although ſome olde copies in their time, whom your vulgar interpreter followed, might haue λύει ἢ διαιρεῖ as Socrates ſaith. Yet all the Fathers of the Greeke Church, as appeareth by Oecumenius, receyning the Greeke text, as it is nowe, and all the auncient copies thereunto agreeing, and the Syrian tranſlation confirming it, the teſtimonie of one no very auncient Hiſtorian, Socrates, and that manifeſtly falſe, is not ſufficient to conuince the Greeke Teſtament of corruption: eſpecially, ſeeing not onely Cyprian, and long before him Tertullian de præſcriptionibus aduerſ. hæret. and after them Auguſtine, and other ancient Fathers of the Latine Church, do acknowledge this reading, to be the true text & word of God.

Marcio denied the humanitie of Chriſt.

Marcion denied God to be creator of the world.

* Meaning, the apoſtle.

Rhem. 37

But the proofe is more pregnant out of the Aduerſaries them ſelues. They forſake the Greeke text as corrupted, and tranſlate according to the vulgar Latine, namely Beza and his ſcholers the Engliſh tranſlatours of the Bible, in theſe places, Heb cha. 9. verſe 1 ſaying, The firſt couenant, for that which is in the Greeke. The firſt Tabernacle. where they put couenant, not as of the text, but in an other letter, as to be vnderſtood, according to the vulgar Latine, which moſt ſincerely leaueth it out altogether, ſaying, Habuit quidem & prius iuſtificationes, &c. The former alſo in deede had iuſtifications, &c. Againe, Rom. 11. verſe 21. They tranſlate not according to the Greeke text. Tempori ſeruientes, ſeruing the time, which Beza ſaith muſt needes be a corruption: but according to the vulgar Latine, Domino ſeruientes, ſeruing our Lord. Againe, Apo. 11. verſe 2. they tranſlate not the Greeke text, Atrium quod intra templum eſt, the court which is within the temple. but cleane contrarie, according to the vulgar Latine, which Beza ſaith is the true reading, Atrium quod eſt foris templum, the court which is without the temple. Onely in this laſt place, one Engliſh Bible of the yeere 1562. followeth the error of the Greeke. Againe, 2. Tim. 2. verſe 14. they adde, but, more then is in the Greeke, to make the ſenſe more commodious and eaſie, according as it is in the vulgar Latine. Againe, 12. 5. 12. they leaue the Greeke, and follow the vulgar Latine, ſaying, leſt you fall into condemnation. I doubt not (ſaith Beza) but this is the true & ſincere reading, and I ſuſpect the corruption in the Greeke came thus, &c. It were infinite to ſet downe all ſuch places, where the aduerſaries (ſpecially Beza) folowe the olde vulgar Latine and the Greeke copie agreeable thereunto, condemning the Greeke text that nowe is, of corruption.

The Caluiniſts them ſelues often forſake the Greeke as corrupt, & tranſlate according to the auncient vulgar Latine text.

Fulke. 37

It is a ſhameles cauilation to ſay, we acknowledge the Greeke text to be corrupt, becauſe in ſome few places, where the Greeke copies doe varie, through the default of the writers, being deceiued by ſimilitude of letters, or otherwiſe, we chuſe that reading, which being moſt agreeable to the circumſtance of the text, is confirmed alſo by auctoritie of the vulgar Latin tranſlation: as in the firſt example you bring out of Heb. 9. 1. Some Greeke copies nowe extant, leaue out the worde tabernacle (which is in many copies) and ſo the circumſtance of the place requireth. The ſame is the iudgement of Photius, and Oecumenius, and before them of Chryſoſtome, in whoſe copie it was left out. The Syrian tranſlation alſo omitteth it, as wel as the vulgar Latine. Is the Greeke text then corrupted, (though many copies be corrupted) when we haue ſo good teſtimonie of the true reading thereof, both out of ſome auncient Greeke copies yet extant, out of the auncient Fathers of the Greeke text, and alſo out of the auncient tranſlations into other languages?

The

The ſecond, Rom.12. likewiſe, hath moſt of the auncient Greeke copies to warrant it, beſide the auctoritie of Clemens Alexandrinus, Baſil, Chryſoſtome, Photius, Oecumenius, Theophylactus, olde writers of the Greeke Church, the Syrian tranſlation, and the vulgar interpreter of the Latine: yet forſooth, we forſake the Greeke text as corrupted, when in diuerſitie of Greeke readings, we followe that which is ſo ſubſtantially aduouched.

The third example, Apo.11. beſide the Complutenſe edition, which doubtles followed ſome auncient Greeke copies, hath the auctoritie of Arethas, and thoſe auncients of the Greeke Church, out of whom he gathered his Commentarie, which is ſufficient to iudge of that diuerſitie, which is in miſtaking of one onely letter in the Greeke worde.

The fourth, 2. Tim.1.14. is no departing, or forſaking of any Greeke text, but only a neceſſarie explication of that Greeke according to our Engliſh phraſe. In ſo infinite a number of places, as you ſpeake of, in the end of this ſection, you had ſmall wit to bring this for one, but that you were come to the ende of your quarrels, though you place an other after it for a faſhion. You your ſelues haue other maner of additions then this is, in your tranſlation, whereof ſome are neceſſarie, and ſome needeles: yet you would not be charged to forſake the Latine text as corrupt, although ſome times you doe, and cleaue to the Greeke, wherein no wiſe man will blame you.

The laſt example, Ioan.5.11. hath alſo auncient Greeke copies, the Syrian tranſlation, and the iudgement of Occumenius, with ſuch auncient Fathers as he doth followe, together with the vulgar Latine.

To conclude, we forſake not the Greeke text as corrupted, when we forſake the fault of the Printer, or of the writer, and followe the Greeke text, which is warranted by auncient copies, written or printed, and by the auctoritie of auncient Fathers, the ſenſe of the holy Ghoſt, and the circumſtances of the places agreeing that to be the very true reading of the Greeke text, and the right Scripture of God, no more then you forſake the vulgar Larine text as corrupted, when you leaue ỹ common reading, & followe ỹ which out of ſome auncient written copies, is placed in the margent: as I noted before, of the text of Luke, euertit domum, for euerrit, and yet the errour of euertit, is aboue nine hundred yere old, as appeareth by Gregory. And you your ſelues acknowledge in the end of this Preface, that ſometimes you tranſlate the word that is in the Latine margent, & not that in the text, when by the Greeke, or the Fathers, we ſee is is a manifeſt fault of the writer thereof, that miſtooke one word for an other. And may not we do the ſame in the Greeke, which you do in ỹ Latin, without forſaking ỹ Greeke text as corrupted? O conſcience of Papiſts!

Luke 15.8. Hom.34. in Euang.

Rhem. 38 Againe, Eraſmus the beſt tranſlatour of all the latter, by Beza's iudgement, ſayth, that the Greeke ſometime hath ſuperfluities corruptly added to the text of holy Scripture. as Mat.6. to the ende of the Pater noſter, theſe words, Becauſe thine is the kingdome, the power, and the glorie, for euer-more. Which he calleth, nugas, trifles raſhly added to our Lords prayer, and reprehendeth Valla for blaming the olde vulgar Latine becauſe it hath not, likewiſe Rom.11.6. theſe wordes in the Greeke, and not in the vulgar Latine: But if of workes, it is not nowe grace: otherwiſe the worke is no more a worke. and Mar.10.29. theſe wordes, or wife, and ſuch like. Yea the Greeke text in theſe ſuperfluities condemneth it ſelfe, and iuſtifieth the vulgar Latine exceedingly: as being marked throughout in a number of places, that ſuch and ſuch wordes or ſentences are ſuperfluous. in all which places our vulgar Latine hath no ſuch thing, but is agreeable to the Greeke, which remaineth after the ſuperfluities be taken away. For example, that before mentioned in the end of the Pater noſter, hath a marke of ſuperfluitie in the Greeke text thus" and Mar.6.11. theſe words, Amen I ſay to you, it ſhalbe more tollerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrhe in the day of iudgement, then for that citie. and Mat.20.22. theſe wordes, And be baptized with the baptiſme that I am baptized with? Which is alſo ſuperfluouſly repeated againe, verſe 23. and ſuch like places exceeding many: which being noted ſuperfluous in the Greeke, and being not in the vulgar Latine, proue the Latine in thoſe places to be better, truer and more ſincere then the Greeke.

Superfluities in the Greeke, which Eraſmus calleth trifling and raſh additions.

See No. Te- Grec. Rob. Stephani in folio, and Criſpini.

Fulke. 38 It is not by and by trifles, whatſoeuer Eraſmus, or any other man, ſhall reiect out of the Greeke text vnder that name: and yet you doe him wrong, to ſay he calleth the concluſion of the Lords prayer trifles, abſolutely, but vpon condition, if it be not part of the auncient text: for confirmation whereof (beſide the moſt parte of auncient Greeke copies) Chryſoſtome in his Commentarie vpon S. Matthewes Goſpel, Hom.20. without any queſtion or controuerſie, doeth reade it and expound it. Therefore it may well be thought, that the Homilie vpon the Lords prayer in the fifth Tome, where it is omitted, was written by ſome Father of the Latine Church, rather then by Chryſoſtome. And ſo the ſtile in my opinion doeth argue with the mention of ſurſum corda, brought in alſo by S. Cyprian. Furthermore, Euthymius who gathered his expoſition out of many auncient Fathers of the Greeke Church, doeth in like maner reade it, and expound it. The Syrian interpretation alſo, which is very auncient, doth acknowledge it. So doeth the Hebrewe text, which if it be not the authenticall of S. Matthewe, yet it is very auncient.

The Latine Church in deede hath not vſed it in the forme of prayer, becauſe it is not a petition, but acknowledging of the power and glory of God, to whom the petitions are directed. Yet it ſeemeth, that Tertullian did reade it: for although in his booke, de oratione, where he handleth only ỹ petitions, he make no mention of it, yet lib.4. aduer. Mar. it is very like, he hath reſpect vnto it, whē after a ſhort conuiction of the Hereſike out of euery petition of ỹ Lords prayer, he addeth, Proinde à quo petam, &c. Therfore of whom ſhal I aske, that I may receiue? At whom ſhal I ſeeke that I may finde? At whom ſhall I knocke, that it may be opened vnto me? Who hath to giue to him that aſketh? but he whoſe are all things, whoſe alſo I am which doe aske.

And where as ſome ancient Greeke copies, whō it ſeemeth that ỹ vulgar Latin interpreter did follow, as the booke came into his hand, do lacke this cōcluſion, yet it followeth not that it is raſhly added in all the reſt, and ſo raſhly receiued of the Greeke Church, but rather it is moſt like, that the writers of thoſe copies omitted it, as a thing cōmonly knowen, and dayly rehearſed of euery man: by which meanes alſo, it is like the omiſſion of certeine petitions in S. Lukes Goſpel came.

Concer-

Concerning the ſecond example of ſuperfluitie noted by Eraſmus, Ro. 11. 6. Seeing all the Greeke copies, that we can heare of extant in theſe dayes (except one) do agree in this text: And ye ancient Fathers Chryſoſtome, in his Commentarie vpon this place: Likewiſe Photius, Oecumenius, and Theophylactus doe reade it, and the text requireth it to make a perfect antitheſis, we muſt rather thinke it a defect in your vulgar Latine text, then a ſuperfluitie in the Greeke: For the third ſuperfluitie of the worde wife, Mark. 10. 29. Eraſmus hath nothing but his bare coniecture, all the Greeke copies, none excepted, being againſt him. But it is a proper deuiſe that you haue found out, to make the Greeke text condemne it ſelfe of ſuperfluitie, and to iuſtifie the vulgar Latine exceedingly. Becauſe the Printers Steuen and Criſpine, doe ſet a marke at thoſe wordes or ſentences, which are found in the moſt of the written copies, yet not in all: that the readers may knowe, that ſuch wordes or ſentences are not found in euery written copie: which by no logike in the worlde, argueth the one of ſuperfluitie, more then the other of defect, but leaue it to the iudgement and diſcerning of the learned, whether is moſt agreeable to the trueth. Your owne vulgar Latine text, printed by Plantine, and corrected by Henteuius, hath more then 200. places in the newe Teſtament, marked with an obeliske, that are more then is found in diuers auncient copies. Wherefore if Popiſh logike be as good againſt Latine, as it is againſt Greeke, I may be bolde likewiſe to conclude, that the vulgar Latine text in theſe ſuperfluities, condemneth it ſelfe, & iuſtifieth the Greeke text exceedingly, as being marked throughout in a number of places, that ſuch and ſuch wordes and ſentences are ſuperfluous, in which our Greeke text hath no ſuch thing: for example, Actes 5. 8. this worde Mulier woman, hath a marke of ſuperfluitie. And in the ſame Chapter, verſe 15. this ſentence, & liberarentur omnes ab infirmitatibus ſuis, and might be all deliuered from their infirmities. And Chapter 15. 41. this ſentence is noted with a marke of ſuperfluitie, præcipiens cuſtodire præcepta Apoſtolorum & Seniorum, Commaunding them to keepe the precepts of the Apoſtles and Elders, none of all which is in our Greeke text, and therefore proue the Greeke to be better and more ſincere then the Latine. This is your owne argument, therefore you may not denie it.

Rhem. 39 Whereupon we conclude of theſe premiſſes, that it is no derogation to the vulgar Latin text, which we tranſlate, to diſagree from the Greeke text, whereas it may notwithſtanding be not onely as good, but alſo better. and this the Aduerſarie himſelfe, their greateſt and lateſt tranſlatour of the Greeke, doth auouch againſt Eraſmus in behalfe of the olde vulgar Latine tranſlation, in theſe notorious wordes. Howe vnworthely and without cauſe (ſaith he) doth Eraſmus blame the olde Interpreter as diſſenting from the Greeke? he diſſented, I graunt, from thoſe Greeke copies which he had gotten: but we haue found, not in one place, that the ſame interpretation which he blameth, is grounded vpon the authoritie of other Greeke copies, and thoſe moſt auncient. Yea in ſome number of places we haue obſerued, that the reading or the Latine text of the olde Interpreter, though it agree not ſometime with our Greeke copies, yet it is much more conuenient, for that it ſeemeth he folowed ſome better and truer copie. Thus farre Beza. In which wordes he vnwittingly, but moſt truely, iuſtifieth and defendeth the olde vulgar Tranſlation againſt himſelfe and all other cauillers, that accuſe the ſame, becauſe it is not alwayes agreeable to the Greeke text: Whereas it was tranſlated out of other Greeke copies (partly extant, partly not extant at this day) either as good and as auncient, or better and more auncient, ſuch as S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh of, calling them doctiores & diligentiores, the more learned and diligent Greeke copies, whereunto the Latine tranſlations that faile in any place, muſt needes yeelde. Lib. 2. de doct. Chriſt. cap. 15.

Beza præfat. No. Te. 1556. See him alſo Anno. in 13. Act. ver. 20.

The vulgar Latine tranſlation agreeth with the beſt Greeke copies, by Bezas owne iudgement.

When the Fathers ſay, that the Latin text muſt yeelde to the Greeke, and be corrected by it, they meane ye true and vncorrupted Greeke text.

And if it were not to long to exemplifie and proue this, which would require a treatiſe by it ſelfe, we coulde ſheare by many and moſt cleare examples through out the newe Teſtament, theſe ſundrie meanes of iuſtifying the olde tranſlation.

Fulke. 39 Howe good your concluſion is, I haue ſhewed before: but if you would conclude rightly, you ſhould ſay, that it is no derogation to the vulgar Latine text, to diſagree from euery Greeke copie, ſo it agree with the moſt, or the beſt. But to diſagree (as it doeth ſometimes) from all ſometimes from the moſt, and the beſt, it muſt needes be a great derogation vnto it.

The teſtimonie of Beza, which you cite, is nothing againſt himſelfe, neither doeth it iuſtifie your vulgar Latine text in all places, but onely where it followed the beſt and trueſt copies of the Greeke text, as ſome time it doeth: vnto which you doe well confeſſe with S. Auguſtine, that the Latine tranſlations that faile in any thing, muſt needes yeelde. But the chiefeſt matter is, to proue firſt, that it was tranſlated out of the more learned and diligent Greeke copies, partly extant, partly not extant. And ſecondly, that it hath ſo continued euer ſince, without alteration or corruption. The firſt you take vpon you to proue by eight reaſons, all which ſhalbe ſeuerally examined.

Rhem. 40 Firſt, if it agree with the Greeke text (as commonly it doeth, and in the greateſt places concerning the controuerſies of our time, it doth moſt certainely) ſo farre the Aduerſaries haue not to complaine: vnleſſe they will complaine of the Greeke alſo, as they doe. Ia. 4. ver. 2. and 1. Pet. 3. ver. 21. where the vulgar Latine foloweth exactly the Greeke text, ſaying, Occiditis: and Quod vos ſimilis formæ, &c. But Beza in both places correcteth the Greeke text alſo as falſe.

The vulgar Latine tranſlation, is many wayes iuſtified by moſt auncient Greeke copies, and the Fathers.

Fulke. 40 If it agree with the true and vncorrupted Greeke text, we will not complaine, but you muſt remember, that euery Greeke copie, either extant or not extant, is not ſufficient to excuſe it: Neither can you proue, that it agreeth with the true and vncorrupted text in all places, as where it is not onely againſt all olde copies extant, but alſo againſt the reading and interpretation of all the Fathers of the Greeke Church. Where you doubt, leaſt we wil forſake the Greeke, it is needeleſſe. Beza in Ia. 4. 2. with Eraſmus, ſuppoſeth a letter might be changed through default of the writers, in a matter of no controuerſie or aduantage aduantage againſt you. In the other place he maketh no queſtion, but ſheweth howe the Greeke worde is taken, euen in the ſame ſence, that your vulgar tranſlatour doth.

Rhem.41 2 If it diſagree here and there from the Greeke text, it agreeth with an other Greeke copie ſet in the margent, whereof ſee examples in the foreſaid Greeke Teſtament of Robert Steuens and Criſpin throughout. namely, 2.Pet. 1.10. Satagite vt per bona opera certam veſtram vocationem faciatis. διὰ τῆ ἐγκεῖσθαι ἐργοις. and Marc.8.v. 7. Et ipſos benedixit, εὐλογήσας αὐτοὺς.

Fulke.41 Some times it doth agree with other Greeke copies ſet in the margent, but not alwaies, and therefore this is no good argument to iuſtifie it to agree with the Greeke in all places. Secondly, if it did alwaies agree with that which is in the margent, it were not enough to warrant it, except you could proue, all that is in the margent, to be alway the true and vncorrupted, the more learned & diligent Greeke copy.

Rhem.42 3 If theſe marginall Greeke copies be thought leſſe authenticall then the Greeke text, the Aduerſaries themſelues tell vs the contrary, who in their tranſlations often follow the marginall copies, and forſake the Greeke text: as in examples aboue mentioned Rom.11. Apoc.11.2. Tim.2. Iac.5. &c. it is euident.

Fulke.42 You make very good concluſions all of particulers: we our ſelues doe ſome times follow the marginall copies, as the true text, and leaue the common reading, Ergo the marginall copies, be alwaies the true text. In the examples by you noted, I haue ſhewed you what reaſons we haue, to preferre theſe marginall copies. Bring you the like for thoſe which agree with your vulgar Latine, diſſenting from the common Greeke reading, and then your argument will be of ſome force, otherwiſe you may be aſhamed to vſe it.

Rhem.43 4 If all Eraſmus Greeke copies haue not that which is in the vulgar Latine, Beza had copies which haue it, and thoſe moſt auncient (as he ſaith) and better. And if all Bezas copies faile in this point, and will not helpe vs, Gagneie the French kings Preacher, and he that might commaund in all the kings Libraries, he found Greeke copies that haue it ſtill according to the vulgar Latine: and that in ſuch place as would ſeeme otherwiſe leſſe probable. as Iac 3.verſ.5. Ecce quantus ignis quam magnam ſiluam incendit! Behold how much fire what a great wood it kindleth! A man would thinke it muſt be rather as in the Greeke text. A litle fire what a great wood it kindleth! But an approued auncient Greeke copie alleaged by Gagneie, hath as it is in the vulgar Latine. And if Gagneis copies alſo faile ſome time, there Beza and Criſpin ſupply Greeke copies fully agreeable to the vulgar Latin as Ep.Iudæ verſ.5. Scientes ſemel omnia, quoniam IESVS &c. and verſ.19. Segregans ſemetipſos. likewiſe 2.*Epheſ.*2: Quòd elegerit vos primitias: ἀπαρχὰς in ſome Greeke copies. Gagn. & 2.Cor.9. Veſtra æmulatio, ἡ ὑμῶν ζῆλος. ſo hath one Greeke copie. Beza.

Codex veronenſis. ἀνίκεν πῦρ τόσσα, ἐλίη ἐσ. ἐαυτὸν

Fulke.43 This argument in effect, is the ſame with the former. Therefore except you proue that which any copie of Eraſmus, Beza, Gagneie, or any other man, hath agreeable to your vulgar Latine, to be a true, vncorrupted, and more learned and diligent copie, then the common Greeke text, you ſay nothing to the purpoſe. For the Latine text (as you ſayd before in the margent) muſt yeeld, and be corrected, according to the Fathers meaning, by the true and vncorrupted Greeke text, and by S. Auguſtines iudgement, by the more learned and diligent copies, therefore can not be iuſtified by following any Greeke copy, though it be falſe, corrupted, leſſer learned, and more negligent. And as for ſome Greeke copies, it is not vnlike, but they haue by ſome peruerſe writers, bene altered according to the Latine, or negligently bene written or copied out of more truer copies.

Rhem.44 5 If all their copies be not ſufficient, the auncient Greeke Fathers had copies and expounded them, agreeable to our vulgar Latine, as 1.*Tim.*6.20. Prophanas vocum nouitates. So readeth S. Chryſoſtom, and expoundeth it againſt Heretical and erroneous nouelties. Yet now we know no Greeke copie that readeth ſo. Likewiſe Io.10,29. Pater meus quod mihi dedit maius omnibus eſt. ſo readeth S. Cyril and expoundeth it li. 7 in Io.c.10. likewiſe 1.Io.4.3. Omnis ſpiritus qui ſoluit IESVM, ex Deo non eſt. ſo readeth S. Irenæus ..3.c.18. S. Auguſtine tract. 6. in Io. S. Leo epiſt.10.c.5 beſide Socrates in his Eccleſiaſtical hiſtory, li 7.c.22. and the Tripartite li. 12.c.4 who ſay plainely, that this was the old and the true reading of this place in the Greeke. And in what Greeke copie extant at this day is there this text Io.5 2. Eſt autem Hieroſolymis probatica piſcina? and yet S. Chryſoſtom, S. Cyril, and Theophylacte read ſo in Greeke, and Beza ſaith it is the better reading. and ſo is the Latine text of the Romane Maſſe booke inſiſted, and eight other Latine copies that read ſo. for our vulgar Latine here, is according to the Greeke text, Super probatica, & Ro.5.v.17. Donationis & iuſtitiæ. ſo readeth Theodorete in Greeke. & Lu.2.v.14. Origen and S. Chryſoſtom reade, Hominibus bonæ voluntatis, and Beza liketh is better then the Greeke text that now is.

The Greeke Fathers.

Fulke 44. This reaſon hath more pithe, then all the fowre that went before, therefore where as your vulgar Latine hath the conſent of the auncient Fathers of the Greeke Church, although there be no Greeke copy extant at this day, to warrant it, yet will we not condemne it, as diſagreeing from the Greeke text. As in the firſt example you bring, 1. Tim.6.20. Although Oecumenius doth read, as the common reading is now, yet he telleth you that Chryſoſtome did reade as your vulgar Latine hath. Beza addeth Baſil, and of the Latine Fathers Ambroſe, and Auguſtine, and confeſſeth that it hath a very good ſenſe, yet he preferreth the other, peraduenture being moued by auctoritie of the Syrian Interpreter, who tranſlateth it vanities, and not nouelties. But in your ſecond example of Ioan.10.29. you were fowly beguiled to ſay, So readeth *S. Cyrill, and expoundeth is lib.7 In Ioan.c.*10. For that ſeuenth booke, as the fifth, the ſixth, the eight, are none of S. Cyrilles bookes, nor of any auncient Fathers, but were added by Iodocus Clichtouius, a very late writer, becauſe theſe fowre bookes of Cyrill are loſt, and are no where extant, at this day. You ſhew your ſelues to be diligent readers of antiquitie, by this example. And yet you might haue bene admoniſhed, to beware of this ridiculous error at this time, if you would haue vouchſafed to peruſe my reioynder to Briſtow, ſometime one of your crew, who made ſporte with this authority of Cyrill, to defend the vulgar Latine ones before, and was well laught at for his labour, as you are much more, amõg all the learned, which by his ſtombling in ỹ darke, could not beware of falling in ỹ broade day light.

Your

Your third example is of 1.*Ioan.*3.Omnis ſpiritus qui ſoluit Ieſum,which Irenæus readeth ſo, but of Irenæus there may be a doubt,becauſe he did write in Greeke, and is tranſlated into Latine,by one that folowed the vulgar Latine text very much,and was not ſo preciſe in expreſſing the wordes of Irenæus, as may appeare by that parcell of Irenæus in Greeke,which is reſerued in Epiphanius,if any man will beſtow a little time in comparing them. As for S. Auguſtine in tract.6. in Ioannem, readeth this text before his treatiſe,according to the Greeke text that now is, and afterward diſcourſeth at large vpon it. But towards the ende,he repeateth the text according to the vulgar Latine, and doth briefly expound it,whereby it ſeemeth,that his booke had both the textes.Except we ſhould ſuſpect,that thoſe few lines which concerne the vulgar Latine,were interlaced by ſome,that would ſhew what ſence the wordes of the vulgar Latine,might haue.And in deed the wordes in the concluſion Quid nos docet, niſi vt facta interrogemus,verba non credamus, doe very aptly agree with the ende of the ſentence immediatly before thoſe lines,adeo vt noueritis,quia ad facta retulit.But let the truth of this coniecture, be examined by the auncient written copies of S.Auguſtine.Lodouicus Viues noteth diuerſe lines,inſerted in his booke de Ciuitate Dei,which in other auncient copies were not to be found.

Leo in deede,which liued after S.Auguſtine,and was a B.of Rome,folowed herein the vulgar Latine
Section 36. text. Socrates and the Tripartite ſtory,which is but a repetition of Socrates,I haue anſwered before. So that except you had Irenæus in Greeke,you haue gayned little certaintie out of the auncient Fathers. Tertullian and Cyprian being for the Greeke reading that now is, as I haue ſhewed before, with all the Greeke Church.

Touching your fourth example,*Ioan.*5.2.if you can be content to let Piſtina be the nominatiue caſe, and by probatica vnderſtand a gate of Ieruſalem,neere to the Temple ſo called,your vulgar Latin text is agreeable to the Greeke text,and needs not be altered. And this is Bezaes iudgement, for the name of that gate,citing Nehemiah 3.1.&c.And although Chryſoſtome and Cyrill, and Theophylacte deceyued by them,reade otherwiſe,yet Euthymius,who folowed other auncient Fathers of the Greeke Church, readeth agreeably to the Greeke text that now is,and to the vulgar Latine.

Concerning your fifth example,Theodoret (as Beza telleth you)readeth the copulatiue coniunction καὶ betwene the two Nownes,ſignifying gift and iuſtice,but it appeareth not ſo by his Commentary.And his reading is not ſufficient to controll all the copies, & all other the Fathers of the Greeke Church, as Chryſoſtome,Photius,Oecumenius,Theophylactus. Laſt of all,*Luc.*2.14. the vulgar Latine is mainteyned not onely by Origen and Chryſoſtome,but alſo by a moſt auncient copy which Beza had, now kept in the Libratie of the Vniuerſitie of Cambridge,and is not miſliked of Beza, although he followe the common reading warranted by all the reſt of his Greeke copies, and many other of the auncient Fathers. To conclude,if all the varieties of the vulgar Latine, had ſome auncient Greeke Father, or ſome olde copie,to aduouch them,as a great number haue not: yet were not that ſufficient to iuſtifie them,if the better learned and more diligent copies, be againſt them, and the ſence of the place doe plainly require an other reading.

Rhem.45 6 *Where there is no ſuch ſigne or token of any auncient Greeke copie in the Fathers, yet theſe later Interpreters tell vs,that the olde Interpreter did follow ſome other Greeke copie. as Marc.*7.3. Niſi crebro lauerint.Eraſmus thinketh that he did read in the Greeke πυγμῆ,often: and Beza and others commend his coniecture, yea and the Engliſh Bibles are ſo tranſlated,whereas now it is πυγμῇ, which ſignifieth the length of the arme vp to the elbowe. And who would not thinke that the Euangeliſt ſhould ſay,The Phariſees waſh often, becauſe otherwiſe they eate not,rather then thus,Vnles they waſh vp to the elbow,they eate not?

Fulke.45 We thinke verely,that the olde Interpretor did follow ſome Greeke copie which he had, in places where he hath not been depraued.But whether it was alwayes a true,& vncorrupted copy which he folowed,we muſt be bold to examine by other copies,by conſent of the Greeke Fathers, by diligent marking the ſcope of the text,and by the auncient tranſlations, which ſeeing they are often againſt your vulgar Latine text,although the Interpretor followed ſome Greeke copy,whether extant or not extant, he is not altogether to be excuſed,nor his tranſlation, according to ſome corrupt copy,to be embraced as authenticall.Beſide this,it is often times manifeſt, that when his reading was the ſame that ours is, yet ſome times becauſe he vnderſtoode not the propertye of the Greeke worde, or phraſe, ſome tyme becauſe he was not able to expreſſe it aptly in the Latine tongue, he hath committed many errors,meet to be amended,as in the annotations of Beza,Eraſmus,and other, a great number may be ſeene. This reaſon therefore is of no force,to make it better then the Greeke generally, though the truth of πυγμῆ for πυγμῇ,were graunted vnto you: no more then a beggars cloake with an hundreth patches in it, is better then a fayre gowne of veluet,that hath but one ſtitche amiſſe in it.Nowe as for the word in queſtion,if it ſignifie vp to the elbowe, as Theophylact and Euthymius doe take it, I ſee no abſurditye, although the popiſh Prieſt at Malle,waſheth onely his fingers endes (as ſuperſtition is ſome times nyce, ſome tymes inſatiable) if we thinke that the Pharizees waſhed their handes to the elbowes. And peraduenture it is more probable,that they waſhed to the elbowe, then that they waſhed often tymes before euery meale.But ſeeing the word commeth of πύγμες,which ſignifieth a fiſte, the meaning may be, they waſhed diligently,as they doe,which often times rubbe one fiſte in an other: and ſo it may be taken for often waſhing,as the Interpretor of Euthymius ſayth it is taken of all the Interpretors.

Rhem.46 7 If all ſuch coniectures,and all the Greeke Fathers helpe vs not,yet the Latine Fathers with great conſent will The Latine Fathers.
See Annot. Louan.in No.Teſt.& Annot.Lucæ Brugenſis in biblia. *eaſily iuſtifie the olde vulgar tranſlation,which for the moſt part they follow and expound,as Io.*7.39. Nondum erat ſpiritus datus.ſo readeth S.Auguſtine: li.4.de Trinit.c.20.and li.83.Quæſt.q.62.and tract.52.in Ioan.Leo ſer.2.de Pentecoſte.Whoſe authoritie were ſufficient,but in deede Didymus alſo a Greeke Doctor readeth ſo li. 2.de Sp.ſancto,*tranſlated by S.Hierom,and a Greeke copy in the Vaticane,and the Syriake new Teſtament.Likewiſe Io.*21.22.Sic eum volo manere,ſo reade S Ambroſe, in Pſal.45.and Pſal.118.octonario Reſh. S. Auguſtine ſline and Ven. Bede vpon S. Iohns Goſpell.

Fulke.46 The conſent of the Latine Fathers which followed the vulgar text, which S. Hieronym in his time confeſſed to be corrupted, will not iuſtifie the vulgar tranſlation, againſt all the Greeke copies, all the Fathers, all olde tranſlations, all circumſtances of the text, and that which you adde, all ſuch coniectures.

The former example is not agreeable to the rule, for (as you ſay) it hath a Greeke copie in the Vaticane, it hath the Syriake tranſlation, and a Greeke author to warrant it, beſide the authoritie of Auguſtine and Leo, Fathers of the Latine Church. And yet two make not ſo great a conſent, to carrye the matter from all copies, Fathers, tranſlations, circumſtances, and coniectures. But in trueth, your vulgar text, in ſome copies, hath according to the Greeke, Spiritus ſanctus, and leaueth out datus, yet indeede, this is not to be accompted a fault or varietie, though it be not preciſely according to the worde, which expreſſeth the true meaning of the text, as all men except Macedonian heretikes (which deny the diuinitie of the holy Ghoſt) will confeſſe.

In your ſecond example, you haue ſmall conſent, ſeeing Eraſmus telleth you, that Auguſtine is corrupted, and Hieronyme (as you confeſſe in the next ſection,) is againſt you, & ſo are ſome copies of your vulgar tranſlation. Then haue you no more but S. Ambroſe: for venerable Beda hath according to the Greeke, ſi eum volo manere, by whom the corruption of S. Auguſtine is plainly diſcouered, ſeeing he hath nothing in a manner of his owne, but the very wordes of S. Auguſtine vpon that place.

Rhem.47 8 And laſtly, if ſome other Latine Fathers of auncient time, reade otherwiſe, either here, or in other places, not all agreeing with the text of our vulgar Latine, the cauſe is, the great diuerſitie and multitude that was then of Latine copies, (whereof S. Hierom complaineth) till this one vulgar Latine grewe onely into vſe. Neither doth their diuers reading make more for the Greeke, then for the vulgar Latine, differing oftentimes from both as when S. Hierom in this laſt place readeth, Si ſic eum volo manere, li. 1. adu. Iouin. it is according to no Greeke copie now extant. And if yet there be ſome doubt, that the readings of ſome Greeke or Latin Fathers, differing from the vulgar Latine, be a checke or condemnation to the ſame: let Beza, that is, let the Aduerſarie himſelfe, tell vs his opinion in this caſe alſo. Whoſoeuer, ſaith he, ſhall take vpon him to correct theſe things, (ſpeaking of the vulgar Latine tranſlation) out of the auncient Fathers writings, either Greeke or Latine, vnles he do it very circumſpectly and aduiſedly, he ſhall ſurely corrupt all, rather then amend it, becauſe it is not to be thought, that as often as they cited any place, they did alwaies looke into the booke, or number euery word. As if he ſhould ſay, We may not by and by thinke that the vulgar Latine is faultie, and to be corrected, when we reade otherwiſe in the Fathers, either Greeke or Latine, becauſe they did not alwaies exactly cite the wordes, but followed ſome commodious & godly ſenſe thereof.

Præfat in 4. Euang. ad Damaſum.

Præfat. citata.

Fulke.47 I perceiue you will needes haue your vulgar Latine text to ſtand, though it haue neither Greeke copies, nor Greeke Fathers, nor good reaſon, which you call coniectures, nor the conſent of the Latine Fathers, to maintaine it. For the diuers reading of the Latine Fathers, maketh no more for the Greeke, then for the vulgar Latine (you ſay) differing often times from both. Admit it be ſo, when they differ from both, yet when they agree with the Greeke, as you can not deny, but often times they doe, they make more for the Greeke then for the vulgar Latine. And where you ſay, they differ often from both, that one example that you bring, argueth that you haue no great ſtore of examples, where they differ from both. For the place of Hieronym agreeth fully with the ſence of the Greeke, although he adde the worde ſic, which is not in the Greeke, yet maketh no alteration in the ſentence, which is conditionall, where as your vulgar Latine is abſolute, without condition.

But to put the matter out of doubt, that no readings of ſome Latine or Greeke Fathers, differing from the vulgar Latine, is a checke or condemnation to the ſame, Beza his authoritie is cited, ſaying, that whoſoeuer ſhall take vpon him to correct the vulgar Latine tranſlation, out of the auncient Fathers writings, Greeke or Latine, vnles he doe it very circumſpectly and aduiſedly, he ſhall rather marre then mende. This is your vſuall kinde of reaſoning, of a particular to inferre an vniuerſall. But what if he doe it circumſpectly, and aduiſedly? what if he haue not onely ſome Fathers writing, but alſo ſome Greeke copies, or all, or moſt that are extant? what if he haue good reaſons taken of the ſcope of the text, and circumſtances thereof? may he not then be bolde to correct ſome thing in the vulgar Latine tranſlation? As whenſoeuer Beza, or any other learned man reproueth the vulgar Latine interpreter, he doth it not vpon the onely writing of ſome Father, who had not alwaies the booke by him, when he cited places of the Scripture, but either all or ſome of thoſe proofes, leading him to approoue the reading of that Father, to be the true text, and eſpecially ſome Greeke copie to warrant it.

Rhem.48 Thus then we ſee that by all meanes the old vulgar Latine tranſlation is approoued good, and better then the Greeke text it ſelfe, and that there is no cauſe why it ſhould giue place to any other text, copies, or readings. Marie if there be any faultes euidently crept in by thoſe that heretofore wrote or copied out the Scriptures (as there be ſome) then we graunt no leſſe, then we would graunt faultes now a daies committed by the Printer, and they are exactly noted of Catholike writers, namely in all Plantins Bibles ſet foorth by the Diuines of Louan: and the holy Councell of Trent willeth that the vulgar Latine text be in ſuch pointes throughly mended, and ſo to be moſt authenticall. Such faultes are theſe, In fide for, in fine: Præſcientiam, for, præſentiam: Suſcipiens for, Suſpiciens: and ſuch like very rare, which are euident corruptions made by the copiſtes, or growen by the ſimilitude of wordes. The e being taken away, which are no parts of thoſe corruptions and differences before talked of, we tranſlate that text which we iuſtifie, and in our opinion, and as we haue proued, incorrupt. The Aduerſaries contrarye, tranſlate that text, which themſelues confeſſe both by their writings and doings, to be corrupt in a number of places, and more corrupt then our vulgar Latine, as is before declared.

The fewe and ſmall faultes negligently crept into the vulgar Latine tranſlation.

Fulke 48. They haue very dimme eyes, that thorough theſe groſſe paralogiſmes, can ſee the vulgar Latine tranſlation, ſlation,in all poyntes approued good, yea better then the true text it ſelfe of the Greeke,ſo that it may not giue place to any other text, copies, or readings, except it be in ſuch faultes as are euidently crept in by the negligence of the writers, which you affirme to be very rare. But if you would correct your bookes, but euen according to ſome auncient readings and copies, obſerued in Plantines Bible, which you ſpeake of, you ſhould reforme many hundred places euen in the Newe Teſtament, and make them to be more agreeable to the Greeke text, then that you take to be your vulgar Latine tranſlation. But except it be groſſe corruptions,that may be felt with the hand,you will not bende one ioynt to the Greeke text,ſuch malice you beare againſt the trueth. Neuertheleſſe you tranſlate that text (you ſay) which in your opinion is vncorrupt,we tranſlate the Greeke which we confeſſe to be corrupt, as you haue declared.What you haue declared,we haue I hope ſufficiently confuted: it is now time to ſee what you haue more to charge vs,with confeſſion of corruption in the Greeke text.

Rhem.49 And if we would here ſtand to recite the places in the Greeke,which Beza pronounceth to be corrupted,we ſhould make the Reader to wonder,how they can either ſo pleade otherwiſe for the Greeke text, as though there were no other trueth of the Newe Teſtament but that: or how they tranſlate onely that (to deface,as they thinke,the olde vulgar Latine) which them ſelues ſo ſhamefully diſgrace, more then the vulgar Latine, inuenting corruptions where none are,nor can be,in ſuch vniuerſall conſent of all,both Greeke and Latine copies. For example, Mat.10. The firſt Simon,Who is called Peter.I thinke (ſaith Beza) this word πρῶτος,firſt, hath bene added to the text of ſome that would eſtabliſh Peters Primacie.Againe Luc.22. *The Chalice,*that is ſhed for you. It is moſt likely (ſaith he) that theſe wordes being ſometime but a marginall note, came by corruption out of the margent into the text.Againe Act.7. *Figures which they made,*to adore them.It may be ſuſpected (ſaith he) that theſe wordes, as many other,haue crept by corruption into the text out of the margent. And 1. Cor.15. He thinketh the Apoſtle ſaid not νῖκος, victorie,*as it is in all Greeke copies,but νεῖκος,*contention. And Act.7.3 he calleth it a manifeſt error,that in the Greeke it is,400.yeeres,for,300.And Act.7.v.16. he reckeneth vp a whole catalogue of corruptions. namely Marc.12 v.42.λεπτὰ κοδράντης,Which is a farthing: and Act.8.v.26. ἔρημος, This is deſert. and Act.7.v.16. the name of Abraham,and ſuch like.All which he thinketh to haue bene added or altered into the Greeke text by corruption.

* In Annot. No. Teſt. an. 1556.

The Caluiniſts confeſſing the Greeke to be moſt corrupt, yet tranſlate that onely, and hold that onely for authentical Scripture.

Fulke.49. The Caluiniſtes (you ſay) confeſſe the Greeke text to be moſt corrupt, and yet tranſlate it onely: yes forſooth, they haue tranſlated the Syriake,and ſome partes of the Arabike,as they could get the copies.But who are they,that confeſſe the Greeke text to be moſt corrupt? You anſwer Beza,bringing in his ſuſpition onely,in 4. places.But a ſuſpition or opinion, is neither an affirmation nor a confeſſion. Yet let vs ſeuerally examine them.In the firſt place,he doth not ſo much as ſuſpect the matter,but onely maketh an obiection,and anſwereth it,approuing alſo with the ancient Fathers, the Primacie of Peter,the Primacie of order (I ſay) not of dignity. Yea he is ſo farre from ſuſpition of this matter, that Marke 3.16. he readeth Simon the firſt, where neither your vulgar Latine readeth ſo, nor the common printed Greeke text hath it ſo.

In the ſecond place,Luc.22.20.he ſayth it may be,that it came out of the margent into the text, but he doth not affirme it.He ſayth further, that Baſile readeth the Participle, with his article in the datiue caſe,which taketh away all difficultie,yet becauſe all the copies extant,haue it in the Nominatiue caſe, he concludeth in the ende,that the Soloeciſme may be excuſed by the propertie of the Hebrue tongue, expreſſed ſometimes in the Greeke,as I haue ſhewed at large in myne anſwer to Gregorie Martyne. ca. 2.ſect.37.38.39.

In the third place,he hath ſome light ſuſpition, that the words to adore them, might be remoued out of the margent into the text, as in all written bookes, many ſuch like words haue bene.The ground of this ſuſpition,is the authority of Iuſtinus Martyr, who citing this place againſt Tryphon the Iewe, leaueth out thoſe wordes, to adore them, yet he ſheweth how it may ſtande with the ſence of the Hebrue text of the Prophet Amos: and ſpeaketh neuer a word of corruption.

In the fourth place,he noteth the groundes of his ſuſpition, to be the Greeke text of Oſee, and the authority of Auguſtine In Ioan.Tract 12.who readeth, Vbi eſt mors contentio tua? whereby it appeareth that the tranſlation which he followed,did reade νεῖκος,and not νῖκος. So readeth S. Cyprian *ad Quirinum lib.3.cap.*58.and Tertullian *De reſur.carn.*yet becauſe of the generall conſent of all copies,and other writers,Beza reteyneth the vſuall reading.

Now come we to thoſe places,which are paſt ſuſpition, as being manifeſtly affirmed to be corruptions.Of the firſt (you ſay) he calleth it a manifeſt error,that in the Greek it is 400.yeeres for 300.yeeres, Act.13.But that is not ſo:for rehearſing many accompts,of Beroaldus,of Iunius,and other,he ſuſpecteth onely with Luther,that error to be in the number,he doth not affirme it to be manifeſt.

The next place is,Act.7.15.where he thinketh the name of Abraham, by ſome vnskilfull perſon to be added,as the name of Hieremye,Math.27.and of Eſaye,Marke 1.and Math.13. as Hieronym confeſſeth in ſteed of Aſaph,where neither of both is read, at this day. And certayne it is, that Abraham bought his fielde of Ephron,not of the ſonnes of Emor. And Iacob it was that purchaſed the fielde of Emor,the father of Sichem,as S.Hierom ſayth.Now if you can giue the true ſenſe, not leauing out the name of Abraham,you ſhall deſerue great commendation. In the meane time,Beza telleth you,it maketh no vncertaintie or corruption in the Scripture,if a name or two,by error of ſome bolde writers,not of the author,be placed amiſſe,which by conference of other places, may eaſily be eſpyed, and reformed. The place,Marke 12. 42. though he was long troubled, as he confeſſeth, about the reckning of it, yet in the ende he findeth out the true accompt, howe two mytes make a quadrant, and ſuſpecteth no manner of corruption at all.

Neither in the laſt place,doth he ſo much as ſuſpect any corruption or addition, but onely referreth the word *Deſert,*to the way,and not to the cityе: although the cityе of Gaza at that tyme was not inhabited.

habited. This ſection therefore proueth not, that the Caluiniſts (as you terme them) confeſſe the Greeke to be moſt corrupt. For here is onely one name certainly iudged to be vntruly added, as all men confeſſe, the name of Ieremye, Math. 27. to be, and 2. or 3. light and vncertaine ſuſpitions, about matters of ſmall weight, and ſuch as can make no alteration of doctrine, the reſt are falſe and vniuſt accuſations.

Rhem. 50 But among other places, he labourth exceedingly to proue a great corruption Act. 7. v. 14. where it is ſaide (according to the Septuagint, that is, the Greeke text of the old Teſtament) that Iacob went downe into Aegypt with 75. ſoules. And Luc. 3. v. 36. he thinketh theſe wordes τοῦ καϊνὰν, Which was of Cainan, to be ſo falſe, that he leaueth them cleane out in [a] both his editions of the new Teſtament: ſaying, that he is bold ſo to doe, by the authoritie of Moyſes. Whereby he will ſignifie, that is is not in the Hebrue text of Moyſes or of the olde Teſtament, and therefore it is falſe in the Greeke of the new Teſtament. Which conſequence of theirs (for it is common among them, and concerneth all Scriptures) if it were true, all places of the Greeke text of the new Teſtament, cited out of the old according to the Septuagint, and not according to the Hebrue (which they know are very many) ſhould be falſe, and ſo by tying themſelues onely to the Hebrue in the old Teſtament, they are forced to forſake the Greeke of the new: or if they will maintaine the Greeke of the new, they muſt forſake ſometime the Hebrue in the old, but this argument ſhall be forced againſt them els where.

They ſtanding precisely vpon the Hebrue of the old, and Greeke text of the new Teſtament, muſt of force deny the one of them.

Fulke. 50 He ſheweth out of Hieronym, that the Greeke text of the Septuagint, in his tyme, agreed with the originall of the Hebrue in the number of 70. and therefore he thinketh τεσσ is but in ſteede of πεντε. But all men be not of his opinion, therefore although the matter be not great, it is no reaſon, that the whole Church, (for that they meane by the Caluiniſts) ſhould be charged for one mans opinion (and that but in one matter of no moment, to change the doctrine) to confeſſe the Greeke text to bee moſt corrupt.

In the place, Luc. 3. 36. he iudgeth τοῦ καϊνὰν to be falſly added to S. Luke, not onely by authoritye of Moſes, which were ſufficient, but alſo by teſtimonye of an auncient Greeke copye, which now is at Cambridge. But all your quarrels, touching Quæſtio Cainan, I haue confuted in my Defence againſt Gregory Martyn, in the Preface Sect. 18. 20.

Rhem. 51 By this litle, the Reader may ſee what gay patrones they are of the Greeke text, and how litle cauſe they haue in their owne iudgements to tranſlate it, or vſers of it, as in derogation of the vulgar Latine tranſlation, and how eaſily we might anſwer them in a word, why we tranſlate not the Greeke: forſooth becauſe it is ſo infinitely corrupted. But the truth is, we doe by no meanes graunt it is ſo corrupted as they ſay, though in compariſon we know it leſſe ſincere and incorrupt then the vulgar Latine, and for that cauſe and others before alleaged, we preferre the ſaide Latine, and haue tranſlated it.

They ſay the Greeke is more corrupt then we will graunt them.

Fulke. 51 The Greeke text of the new Teſtament needeth no patronage of men, as that which is the very word and truth of God. The ſinceritie of our tranſlations, againſt all your friuolous cauillations, hath hitherto, thankes be to God, bene ſo ſtrongly defended, as you haue no liſt any more to aſſaile it. And as touching your eaſie anſwer that you can make, why you tranſlate not the Greeke, forſooth becauſe it is ſo infinitely corrupted, all men of reaſonable vnderſtanding may conceaue, how well you haue proued this infinit corruption. The ſumme of all your reaſons being drawen together, your argument is this: One man ſuſpecteth here and there, in 3. or 4 places, ſome depravation, or els in a name and a number, thinketh there is ſome corruption, ergo by confeſſion of all the Caluiniſtes, the Greeke text is infinitely corrupted. But you tell vs, you will not graunt the Greeke to be ſo corrupt, as we ſay, though you knowe it leſſe ſincere, and vncorrupt, then the Latine, and therefore you preferre it, and haue tranſlated it. Well, if you knowe the Greeke text that nowe is, to be ſincere, where any of vs hath but ſuſpected or iudged it to be corrupt: and we haue proued it to be ſincere, where you haue ſclandered it to be corrupt: There is no reaſon, why you ſhould not acknowledge it to be very perfect, and therefore haue tranſlated it, rather then the vulgar Latine: which your owne Bibles of Plantines edition, whereunto you referre vs, doe conuince of infinite varietie, which as S. Hieronym ſayth, is a manifeſt argument of falſhood, and as yet it is not decided among you, in that varietie, which reading is to be followed, as true and authenticall.

Præfat. ad Damaſ. in 4. Euangelia.

Rhem. 52 If yet there remaine one thing which perhaps they will ſay, when they cannot anſwer our reaſons afore ſaide: to wit, that we preferre the vulgar Latine before the Greeke text, becauſe the Greeke maketh more againſt vs: we proteſt that as for other cauſes we preferre the Latine, ſo in this reſpect of making for vs or againſt vs, we allow the Greeke as much as the Latine, yea in ſundry places more then the Latine, being aſſured that they haue not one, and that we haue many aduantages in the Greeke more then in the Latine, as by the Annotations of this new Teſtament ſhall euidently appeare: namely in all ſuch places where they dare not tranſlate the Greeke, becauſe it is for vs, and againſt them. as when they tranſlate, δικαιώματα, ordinances, and not, iuſtifications, and that of purpoſe, as Beza confeſſeth Luc. 1. 6. πορεύομενοι, ordinances or inſtructions, and not traditions, in the beſt part. 2. What need theſe abſurd deuiſes and falſe dealings with the Greeke text, if it made for them more then for vs, yea if it made not for vs againſt them? But that the Greeke maketh more for vs, ſee* 1. liſts about the Sacrifice and B. Sacrament, In the Latine thus: This is my blood that ſhall be ſhed for you: and in S. Paul, This is my body which ſhalbe betrayed or deliuered for you: both being referred to the time to come, and to the ſacrifice of the croſſe. In the Greeke, This is my blood which is ſhed for you: and, my body which is broken for you: both being referred to that preſent time when Chriſt gaue his body and blood as his ſupper, then ſhedding the one and breaking the other, that is, ſacrificing it ſacramentally and myſtically. Loe theſe and the like our aduantages in the Greeke, more then in the Latine. For the ſacrifice of Chriſts body & blood.

Fulke. 52 A great token of your true meaning, that you preferre not the vulgar Latine, as making more for you, in which reſpect in theſe Annotations it ſhall appeare, that you haue more aduantage in the Greeke then in the Latine, being aſſured that we haue not one, and you many aduantages in the Greeke. Theſe Popiſh bragges all that reade your writings, are ſo well acquainted with them, that we neede not ſtand in doubt of them: hauing tryed by often experience, that when the matter commeth to aprouement, your arguments are no better then a falſe and feeble eauie can aforde you, as in anſwere to the Annotations, by Gods helpe, it will be made manifeſt: In the meane ſpace, you note vnto vs certeyne places, where you haue more aduantage in the Greeke, then in the Latine. Firſt, in ſuch places where we dare not tranſlate the Greeke, becauſe it maketh for you, againſt vs. Secondly, where the Greeke hath ſome wordes making for you, which the Latine hath not. Of the firſt ſort, is the worde Iuſtificationes, Luke 1. which we call ordinances of purpoſe (as Beza confeſſeth) And why ſhould we not of purpoſe auoide that terme, which may be cauſe of ambiguitie and errour, when the worde in that place, ſignifieth an other thing? as I haue ſhewed at large in my defence againſt Martin. Cap. 1. ſect. 50. and Cap 8. ſect. 1. and the other ſections following.

For the worde traditiones, mine anſwere is, Cap. 2 in all the Sections: for the wordes Elders, Prieſtes, Cap. 6. for Images and Idoles, Cap. 3. for the place of Luke 22. 20. as I haue ſhewed before, Cap. 1. ſect. 37. 38. 39.

But to come to the latter ſort, firſt you bring two textes, 1. Cor. 7. and Actes 16. 30. where faſting is mentioned in the Greeke text, which is not in the vulgar Latine. O impudent ſlaunderers, doe we denie faſting, becauſe we denie your Antichriſtian prohibition and abſtinence from meates, to be Chriſtian faſting? God be prayſed, our doctrine is ſounde for faſting, would God our practiſe were as often, as our iudgement is pure and agreeable to the holy Scriptures, in an hundreth places almoſt, that commend faſting.

Your next aduantage is for free-will, not flat Pelagianiſme I hope, but catercoſen with it, that mans will being holpen with Gods grace, is free: and we holde, that it is free from conſtraint, but not from bondage of ſinne, Rom. 7. And what other thing can you proue out of that text, 1. Ioh. 5. 18. he that is borne of God, preſerueth himſelfe: dare you ſay by force of free-will, and not by the ſtrength of Gods grace? Make your Syllogiſme, and giue vs a plaine concluſion, and we ſhall ſee what aduantage the Greeke text giueth you.

An other giueth you aduantage againſt onely faith. what is that I pray you? Apoc. 22. 14. Bleſſed are they that doe his Commaundements: A goodly aduantage I promiſe you. They that are iuſtified by faith onely in his merites, doe his Commaundements, and none other. Againſt ſpeciall aſſurance of ſaluation, you haue Rom. 8. 38. S. Paul ſayth not as it is in the Latine, Certus ſum, I am ſure, but πέπεισμαι I am probabely perſwaded. Verely either the Greeke worde ſignifieth I am ſure, ſo as I cannot be deceiued, or els your vulgar Latine tranſlation is falſe. And where he ſaith, I am perſwaded, he noteth the certeynetie of the worde and Spirit of God, whereby he hath this aſſurance.

Your laſt aduantage is about the ſacrifice of the B. Sacrament, where the Greeke text vſeth the preſent temps, referring that breaking of his body, and ſhedding of his blood, to the preſent ſacrificing of it ſacramentally, and myſtically: but I would aduiſe you to beware, leaſt while you ſeeke aduantage for a ſacrifice, you leeſe your beſt argument for the reall preſence, as you terme it. For you are wont to reaſon thus: He gaue that which ſhould be crucified, but his naturall body was crucified, therefore he gaue his naturall body: and ſo he did, to be receiued ſpiritually, as in a ſacrament or myſteric. But to ſhut you from your ſacrifice, the word of ſhedding ſo often repeated will be ſufficient, except you haue forgotten your old diſtinction of his vnbloody ſacrifice from his bloody ſacrifice: if his blood be ſhead in ỹ Sacrament, then is the Sacrament alſo a bloody ſacrifice. When you haue weighed all, I hope you will ſee, it is ſmall gaines that you gather by this aduantage, that you neede not crie out and ſay, Loe theſe and the like our aduantages in the Greeke more then in the Latine. Nay rather theſe be your fantaſies of the Greeke, and of the Latine.

In Epi. ad Hebr. Epi.14.and 18.

Fulke. 53 There is none of vs, that calleth the vulgar tranſlation of the new Teſtament papiſticall, as though it were tranſlated by Papiſtes, or elſe made ſo greatly for Papiſtes when it is rightly vnderſtoode: but becauſe it is ſo magnified by the Papiſtes, that it is preferred before ỹ Greeke, which is the original tongue, in which the newe Teſtament was written, and commaunded by the Tridentine Papiſtes, to be compted the onely authenticall text. And he that ſaide, the vulgar tranſlation is worſt of all, ſpake of the vulgar tranſlation of the whole Bible, in compariſon of the Hebrue of the old Teſtament, and of the Greeke of the newe Teſtament, and of the Septuaginta in Greeke, and the Latine thereof. Your fonde concluſions, the Greeke is more papiſticall, and Papiſtrie is very auncient, if the vulgar tranſlation be papiſticall, be as good as your antecedent: Some of them call it ſo, which I am ſure, no man of learning hath done, otherwiſe then I haue before declared, except it be for that it is abuſed of Papiſtes, to mainteyne Popery, when in deede the tranſlatour had no ſuch meaning, as in the three firſt examples it is manifeſt: for by panitentiam agite, he meant not popiſh doing of penance, but true and Chriſtian repentance: yet you will not giue ouer the ſhewe of Popiſh penance and ſatisfaction, that you haue by that tranſlation. Likewiſe by *Sacramentum, Eph.*5.32. he meant nothing but a myſterie generally, as the truth of the Greeke is, and as you doe well proue out of his tranſlation of the ſame worde, *Apoc.*c.17. Neuertheleſſe, if you giue ouer the holde, you woulde ſeeme to haue of that tranſlation, to make matrimonie a Sacrament of the newe Teſtament, in that ſence that Baptiſme and the Lords Supper are called Sacraments: you ſhall haue no ſhewe in the Scriptures to daſell the eyes of the ignorant. For GRATIA PLENA, I thinke if he had vnderſtood the force of the Greeke worde rightly, he would haue tranſlated it otherwiſe. That he tranſlateth the very like worde, plenus vlceribus, which we alſo tranſlate, full of ſores, it may excuſe him of partiall affection, but cannot defend his tranſlation, to expreſſe the ſenſe of the Greeke worde. For the very like worde he tranſlateth iuſtificati, being iuſtified or made iuſt, not full of iuſtice, Rom.3.24. and 1.Cor.4.4. Iuſtificatus ſum, I am iuſtified. But concerning the laſt phraſe, Heb.13. becauſe he could not expreſſe his owne mind in Latine, I knowe not what his meaning was, but leaue it to God, and himſelfe. Neuertheleſſe it is certeyne, that it is not onely barbarous, but alſo falſe and blaſphemous to ſay, that by good workes Gods fauour is deſerued.

The actiue of this verbe, Hebr.11.5. and 6. he tranſlateth placuiſſe and placere, to pleaſe and to haue pleaſed: what elſe can the paſſiue then ſignifie, but to be pleaſed? which perhaps he meant, if he had knowen any Latine worde of the paſſiue voyce that had ſignified ſo much, for lacke of which, he vſed that terme, which was of the common people vſed in that ſenſe.

Nowe where he vſeth the worde meriri, Heb.10.29. you ſay we like it well ynough: but howe know you our liking ſo well? we may allowe the ſenſe of the tranſlation as good, becauſe wicked men are thought worthy puniſhment according to their deſertes: but we doe not allowe the tranſlation, to be agreeable to the ſenſe of the Greeke worde ἀξιωθῆσονται: and therefore he coulde not haue ſayde truely, according to the ſame Greeke verbe: watch that you may deſerue to eſcape all theſe things, and to ſtand before the ſonne of man, and ſo of the reſt: for not onely his tranſlation had bene vntrue, but the ſentences through his vntrue tranſlation had bene falſe: for though men deſerue, and are accompted worthy of puniſhment and damnation by ſinne, yet they deſerue not Gods graces and his kingdome by their workes, but are accompted worthy of his bleſſing and eternall felicitie, for Chriſtes ſake of Gods meere mercie. But you aske whether Primaſius, S. Auguſtines ſcholer were a Papiſt, for vſing this text and all the reſt that haue done the like? I anſwere no. For Primaſius meaneth nothing elſe, but that God is pleaſed, (as the Greeke worde ſignifieth) to accept ſuch ſacrifices. Talibus enim hoſtijs & muneribus eleemoſynarum, promeretur Deus adipiſci, vnde dicit per prophetam, Miſericordiam volo & non ſacrificium: Non eſt conſiderandus pauper, qui videtur accipere, ſed potius qui iuſſit dare: eleemoſyna enim quæ pauperi largitur in terra, à Deo recipitur in cœlo. Et noli attendere quod hoc ſit tibi redditurus quod accepit: tu enim terrena dediſti, æterna mercaberis: With ſuch ſacrifices and giftes God is pleaſed to receiue them: wherefore he ſaith by the Prophet, I will mercie and not ſacrifice. The poore man is not to be conſidered, which ſeemeth to receiue, but rather he which commanded to giue: for the almes which is giuen to the poore man vpon earth, is receiued of God in heauen. And thinke not that he will render vnto thee that which he hath receiued: for thou haſt giuen earthly things, but thou ſhalt purchaſe eternall things. Theſe be the wordes of Primaſius vpon that text, which declare, that promereor was vulgarly taken for delector, to be pleaſed or delighted. Neither doeth he meane any meriting by the terme of purchaſing, which he vſeth: for he was an vtter enemie to the Pelagians, as his maſter Auguſtine was, but onely, that God of his mercie doeth crowne and reward his owne giftes, not our merites as Saint Auguſtine ſayth. And when he vſeth the name of merites, he meaneth ſimplie, workes, as many of the olde writers did in that time: for otherwiſe there is no father ſo cleare for iuſtification by faith onely, as Primaſius is, Rom 3. vpon theſe wordes being iuſtified freely. Audi gratis (ſaith he) & tace de meritis, heare this worde freely, and holde thy peace of merites. Likewiſe vpon Rom.4. and many other places: and who ſo vſed this text according to this meaning, we take them not for Papiſtes.

But further you demaunde, whether Saint Cyprian was a Papiſt, for vſing ſo often this ſpeache, promereri dominum iuſtis operibus, pœnitentia, &c I anſwere as before. The vſing of the wordes maketh not a Papiſt, but the Popiſh meaning, which Saint Cyprian hath not, but that God is pleaſed with iuſt workes and obedience, repentance and humilitie, not merited or deſerued: for he citeth the Scripture plentifully, that we ought to glorie in nothing, ſeeing nothing is ours, Teſt. ad Quirin. cap.4. And that we muſt put our truſt onely in God, and glorie in him, cap.10. Your laſt queſtion, was it Papiſtrie to ſay Senior for Presbiter &c. is fooliſh trifling: We accuſe not your Tranſlatour of Papiſtrie, though you abuſe his vntrue or vnperfect tranſlations, ſometime to the defence of Papiſtrie.

Are they not wordes for wordes as in the Greeke, and the very wordes of the holy Ghoſt? And if in theſe there be no accuſation of Papiſticall partialitie, why in the other? Laſtly, are the auncient fathers, Generall Counſels, the Churches of all the Weſt part, that vſe all theſe ſpeaches and phraſes more ſo many hundred yeeres, are they all Papiſticall? Be it ſo, and let vs in the name of God folowe them, ſpeake as they ſpake, tranſlate, as they tranſlated, interprete as they interpreted, becauſe we beleeue as they beleeued. And thus farre for defenſe of the olde vulgar Latine tranſlation, and why we tranſlated it before all others: More of the maner of tranſlating the ſame.*

The Papiſtrie thereof (as they terme it) is in the very ſentences of the Holy Ghoſt, more then in the tranſlation.

Fulke. 54 We haue anſwered before of the wordes: and for the ſentences we ſay, they are no papiſticall tranſlations, neither doe they any thing in the world fauour Papiſtrie: for they are well tranſlated, and they are the very wordes of the holy Ghoſt: when you can conclude any Papiſtrie out of theſe ſentences in good and lawfull forme of argument, we will yeelde to your papiſtrie. Finally, the auncient Fathers, generall Councels, and Churches of the Weſt part, that vſed theſe ſpeaches before Papiſtrie was hatched and fully ſhapen, were not all Papiſtes, but moſt of them profeſſed enemies to the vſurped tyranny of the Pope, to the pride of his Clergie, to merite of workes and of freewill: and were mainteyners of iuſtification by faith onely, of the mariage of them that were not able to keepe the vowe of continence (as in anſwere to theſe Annotations it ſhall more fully appeare) and by their owne wordes not mangled, gelded, and falſified, as they are in your Annotations, but truely ſet downe as their bookes ſhall teſtifie, whereby it ſhall be euident, that you beleeue not as they beleeued, nor interprete, as they interpreted, as you vſe not the tranſlation that many of them vſed, nor ſpeake as they ſpake.

Rhem.55 IN THIS OVR TRANSLATION, becauſe we wiſh it to be moſt ſincere, as becommeth a Catholike tranſlation, and haue endeuoured ſo to make it: we are very preciſe and religious in folowing our copie, the olde vulgar approued Latine: not onely in ſenſe, which we hope we alwayes doe, but ſometime in the very wordes alſo and Phraſes, which may ſeeme to the vulgar Reader and to common Engliſh eares not yet acquainted therewith, rudeneſſe or ignorance: but to the diſcreete Reader that deepely weigheth and conſidereth the importance of ſacred wordes and ſpeaches, and howe eaſily the voluntarie Tranſlatour may miſſe the true ſenſe of the Holy Ghoſt, we doubt not but our conſideration and doing therein, ſhall ſeeme reaſonable and neceſſarie: yea and that all ſortes of Catholike Readers will in ſhort time thinke that familiar, which as the firſt may ſeeme ſtrange, and will eſteeme it more, when they ſhall otherwiſe be taught to vnderſtand it, then if it were the common knowen Engliſh.

The maner of this tranſlatiō, and what hath bene obſerued therein.

For example, we tranſlate often thus, Amen, Amen, I ſay vnto you. Which as yet ſeemeth ſtrange: but after a whyle it will be as familiar, as Amen in the ende of all prayers and Pſalmes. and euen as when we ende with, Amen, it ſoundeth farre better then, So be it: ſo in the beginning, Amen Amen, muſt needes by vſe and cuſtome ſound farre better, then, Verily verily. *Which in deede doth not expreſſe the aſſeueration and aſſurance ſignified in this Hebrue worde. beſides that it is the ſolemne and vſuall worde of our Sauiour * to expreſſe a vehement aſſeueration, and therefore is not changed, neither in the Syriake nor Greeke, nor vnlgar Latine Teſtaments, but is preſerued and vſed of the Euangeliſtes and Apoſtles them ſelues, euen as Chriſt ſpake it,* propter ſanctiorem authoritatem, as Saint Auguſtine ſaith of this and of Allelu-ia, for the more holy and ſacred authoritie thereof, lib.2.Doct.Chriſt.cap.11. And therefore doe we keepe the worde Allelu-ia Apoc.19. as it is both in Greeke and Latine yea and in all the Engliſh tranſlations, though in their bookes of common prayer they tranſlate it, Praiſe ye the Lord. Againe, if Hoſanna, Raca, Belial, and ſuch like be yet vntranſlated in the Engliſh Bibles, why may not we ſay, Corbana and Paraſceue: ſpecially when they Engliſhing this latter thus, the preparation of the Sabbath, put three wordes more into the text, then the Greeke worde doth ſignifie. Mat.27.62. And others ſaying thus, After the day of preparing, make a cold tranſlation and ſhort of the ſence, as if they ſhould tranſlate, Sabboth, the reſting for, * Paraſceue is as ſolemne a word for the Sabboth eue, as Sabboth is for the Iewes ſeuenth day. and now among Chriſtians much more ſolemne, taken for Good-friday only. Theſe words then we thought it far better to keepe in the text, and to tell their ſignification in the margent or in a table for that purpoſe, then to diſgrace both the text & them with tranſlating them. Such are alſo theſe words, The Paſche. The feaſt of Azymes; The bread of propoſitiō. Which they tranſlate The Paſſeouer, The feaſt of ſweete bread, The ſhew bread. But if Pentecoſt Act 2. be yet vntranſlated in their bibles, & ſeemeth not ſtrange: why ſhould not Paſche & Azymes ſo remaine alſo, being ſolemne feaſts, as Pentecoſt was: or why ſhould they Engliſh one rather then the other? ſpecially whereas Paſſeouer at the firſt was as ſtrange, as Paſche may ſeeme nowe, and perhaps as many nowe vnderſtande Paſche, as Paſſeouer. and as for Azymes, when they Engliſh it, the feaſt of ſweete bread, it is a falſe interpretation of the word, and nothing expreſſeth that which belongeth to the feaſt, concerning vnleauened bread. And as for their terme of ſhew bread, it is very ſtrange and ridiculous. Againe, if Proſelyte be a receiued word in the Engliſh Bibles, Mat.23. Acts.2: why may not we be bold to ſay, Neophyte, 1.Tim.3? ſpecially when they tranſlating it into Engliſh, doe falſely expreſſe the ſignification of the worde thus, a yong ſcoler. Whereas it is a peculiar worde to ſignifie them that were lately baptized, as Catechumenus, ſignifieth the newly inſtructed in faith, not yet baptized, who is alſo a yong ſcholer rather then the other, and many that haue bene old ſcolers, may be Neophytes by differring baptiſme. And if Phylacteries be allowed for Engliſh, Mat.23. we hope that Didragmes alſo, Prepuce, paraclete, and ſuch like, will eaſily growe to be currant and familiar. And in good ſooth there is in all theſe ſuch neceſſitie, that they cannot conueniently be tranſlated. as when S. Paul ſaith, conciſio, non circumciſio: how can we but folowe his very wordes and alluſion? And how is it poſſible to expreſſe Euangelizo, but as we doe, Euangelize? for Euangelium being the Goſpel, what is, Euangelizo or to Euangelize, but to ſhew the glad tidings of the Goſpel of the time of grace, of all Chriſtes benefites? All which ſignification is loſt, by tranſlating as the Engliſh Bibles doe, I bring you good tidings. Luc.2.10. Therefore we ſay Depoſitum, 1.Tim.6. and, He exinanited him ſelfe, Philip.2. and, You haue reſtoriſhed, Philip.4. and, to exhauſt, Hebr.9.28. becauſe we cannot poſſibly attaine to expreſſe theſe wordes fully in Engliſh, and we thinke much better, that the reader ſtaying at the difficultie of them, ſhould take an occaſion to looke in the table folowing, or otherwiſe to aske the full meaning of them, then by putting ſome vſuall Engliſh wordes that expreſſe them not, ſo to deceiue the reader. Sometime alſo we doe it for an other cauſe. as when we ſay, The aduent of our Lord, and, Impoſing of hands. becauſe one is a ſolemne time, the other a ſolemne action in the Catholike Church: to ſignifie to the people, that theſe and ſuch like names come out of the very Latine text of the Scripture. So did Penance, doing penance, Chalice, Prieſt, Deacon, Traditions, aultar, hoſt, and the like (which we exactly keepe as Catholike termes) proceede euen from the very wordes of Scripture.

Neophyte.

Why we ſay, our Lord, not, the Lord (but in certaine caſes) ſee the Annotations, 1.Tim.6. pag. 585.

Catholike termes proceeding from the very text of Scripture.

Fulke. 55 Not the deſire of ſinceritie, but rather of obſcuritie, hath made you to thruſt in a great nũber of words, not onely Hebrue, or Syriake, which are found in the Greeke text, but alſo Greeke and Latine wordes, leauing the Engliſh wordes of the ſame, which by long vſe, are well knowen and familiar in the Engliſh tongue. And as for Hebrue and Syriake words, which are found in the Greeke text, it is not to be miſliked that they ſhould be brought alſo into the Engliſh tongue: becauſe the Spirit of God, not without cauſe writing Greeke, did thinke it meete to reteine them. And therfore in our tranſlations, we reteine them al, except a fewe that are vſually expreſſed in Engliſh: as Amen Amen in ỹ beginning of a ſentence, which might well haue bene vſed, but that the tranſlatour ſtudied to be more plaine, and to expreſſe the meaning of that aſſeueration Alleluia we vſe in the newe Teſtament, becauſe we finde it in the Greeke Teſtament: but when we tranſlate the olde Teſtament, there is no reaſon why we ſhould not tranſlate it into Engliſh, as well as other wordes of the text. We ſay alſo Hoſanna, Raca, Belial, yea, and Corbona, becauſe we finde them in the originall text. But as for Greeke termes, which may well ynough be expreſſed in the Engliſh tongne, we ſee no cauſe why we ſhould reteyne them, as Paraſceue, Azymes, Neophyte. And if you had ſo religious a care to vſe all the Greeke wordes in your Engliſh tranſlation, which you finde in your vulgar Latine text, then woulde you as well as theſe haue tranſlated, theſe and ſuch like Greeke wordes as your Latine text hath, Magi, Eccleſia, Archiſtriclinus, Encenia, Dyſcolis, Pyra, Nauclerus, Typhonicus, Bolis, Artemon, Dithalaſſius. Mages, Eccleſe, Architricline, Encenes, Dyſcoles, Pyre, Nauclere, Typhonike, Bole, Artemon, Dithalaſſe, and not as you haue done, Sages, Church, Chiefe ſteward, Dedication, Wayward, Fire, Maſter of the ſhippe, Tempeſtious, Sownde, Mayneſayle, a place betweene two Seas. where if we ſhoulde picke quarrelles as you doe againſt vs, we ſhoulde make our ſelues to all wiſe people ridiculous, as you are. You neither like that our tranſlation calleth Paraſceue, the day of preparing, nor the preparation of the Sabbath, and yet both are true, according as the worde is taken in that place. You ſay it is a ſolemne worde for the Saboth Eue: but you are ſhort of the ſenſe, for it is taken for a whole day before the Euening, and for the day of preparing: neither of which things are conteyned in your Popiſh terme Eue. Where you ſay, it is taken for good Fryday onely, Ignatius is againſt you, Epi.5. vſing it for euery Fryday. We tranſlate Paſce, Eaſter, or Paſſeouer, the one being the vſuall Engliſh terme for that feaſt, the other expreſſing the meaning of the Hebrue worde. And what ſignifieth Azyma but ſweete bread, and vnleauened bread, as we tranſlate it, and Panes propoſitionis but the ſhewe-bread, or the bread that is ſhewed? yet you ſay, the one is falſe, the other ridiculous and ſtrange: neuertheleſſe ſome of the beſt learned among you, haue vſed thoſe termes, as Heskins lib.1.Cap.15. and 22. Stapleton tranſlat. of Beda lib.5.c.22. You miſlike that Neophytus is tranſlated a yong ſcholler, and wil haue it reſtreyned to thoſe that are newly baptized, though they be olde ſchollers. We knowe, that Neophytus doeth ſignifie one lately planted, and ſo were they called, that were lately baptized, in as much as by the viſible ſigne of Baptiſme, they were newely ingraffed into the fayth: but if any ſuch were well learned, he was not excluded from the office of a Biſhop, from which Saint Paul excludeth Neophytum, as appeareth by the ſtorie of Saint Ambroſe, who was choſen Biſhop before he was baptized, and ordeyned Biſhop the eight day after he was baptized. Neither doeth Catechumenus ſignifie alway him that is not baptized, for S. Paul vſeth it, Galat.6.6. for euery one that is inſtructed. If Phylacteria coulde as well be Engliſhed either for ſenſe or terme, as Didragma, Paracletus, and ſuch like, I thinke the tranſlatours would not haue fayned a terme of the Greeke worde: Although the word Phylacteryes was vſual in the Engliſh tongue, before our late tranſlations, as appeareth in the Hom. of Wicleffe vpon the Tueſday in the ſecond weeke of Lent, where he alſo ſheweth what they were. Conciſion we vſe alſo, to expreſſe the alluſion vnto circumciſion: but there is no ſuch like reaſon, for Prepuce, depoſitum, gratia, and ſuch like Latine wordes as you vſe. Euangelium ſignifyeth the glad tydings of the Goſpel, and ſo we tranſlate Luk. 2. Euangelizo I bring you glad tidings. And yet Iodochus Lorichius a Popiſh doctor, in his Goſpel, contendeth that Euangelium ſignifyeth properly Bonum nuntium good tidings, rather then glad tidings. So that by his iudgement, that which you reproue, is the better tranſlation. But why do you not call Euangelium the Euangile, as the Scottes doe? as wel as Euangelizare to Euangelize, but that you affect noueltie of wordes, to obſcure the Goſpel, as much as you can. In the reſt which you call Catholike termes, you are glad to haue a ſound of wordes out of the Scripture for a ſhew, ſeeing you haue no matter at all to iuſtifie your Popiſh Aduent, penance, traditions and ſuch like.

Euangeliũ Lorichij.

Rhem. 56 Moreouer, we preſume not in hard places to mollifie the ſpeaches or phraſes, but religiouſly keepe them word for word, and point for point, for feare of miſſing, or reſtraining the ſenſe of the holy Ghoſt to our phantaſie. as Eph. 6. Againſt the ſpirituals of wickednes in the celeſtials. and, What to me and thee woman? wherof ſee the Annotation vpon this place. and 1. Pet. 2. As infants euen now borne, reaſonable, milke without guile deſire ye. We do ſo place, reaſonable, of purpoſe, that it may be indifferent both to infants going before, as in our Latin text: or to milke that followeth after, as in other Latin copies and in the Greeke. Io. 3. we tranſlate, The ſpirit breatheth where he wil &c. leauing it indifferent to ſignifie either the holy Ghoſt, or winde: which the Proteſtants tranſlating, winde, take away the other ſenſe more common and vſual in the ancient fathers. We tranſlate Luc. 8. 23. They were filled, not adding of our owne, with water, to mollifie the ſentence, as the Proteſtants do. and c. 22. This is the chalice, the new Teſtament &c. not, This chalice is the new Teſtamẽt. likewiſe, Mar. 13. Thoſe dayes ſhal be ſuch tribulation &c. not as the Aduerſaries, In thoſe dayes, both our text and theirs being otherwiſe. likewiſe Iac. 4. 6. And giueth greater grace, leauing it indifferent to the Scripture, or to the holy Ghoſt, both going before. Whereas the Aduerſaries to to boldly and preſumptuouſly adde, ſaying, The Scripture giueth, taking away the other ſenſe, which is far more probable. likewiſe Heb. 12. 21. we tranſlate, So terrible was it which was ſeen, Moyſes ſaid &c. neither doth Greeke or Latin permit vs to adde, that Moyſes ſaid, as the Proteſtants preſume to doe. So we ſay, Men brethren, A widow woman, A woman a ſiſter, Iames of Alphæus, and the like. Sometime alſo we folow of purpoſe the Scriptures phraſe. as, The hel of fire, according to Greeke and Latin. which we might ſay perhaps, the firy hel, by the Hebrue phraſe in ſuch ſpeaches, but not, hel fire, as commonly it is tranſlated. Likewiſe Luc. 4. 36. What word is this, that in power and authoritie he cõmaundeth the vncleane ſpirits? as alſo, Luc. 2. Let vs paſſe ouer, and ſee the word that is done, Where we might ſay, thing, by the Hebrue phraſe, but there is a certaine maieſtie and more ſignification in theſe ſpeaches, and therfore both Greeke and Latin keepe them, although it is no more the Greeke or Latine phraſe, then it is the Engliſh. And why ſhould we bee ſquamiſh at new wordes or phraſes in the Scripture, which are neceſſary: when we do eaſily admit and folow new wordes coyned in court and in countrey or other ſecular writings?

Ioh. 2.

Certaine hard ſpeaches and phrases.

The Proteſtãts preſumptuous boldnes and libertie in tranſlating.

Matt. 5. Gehenna ignis.

Fulke. 56 By all meanes you labour to ſuppreſſe the light of trueth, vnder one pretence or an other. For what preiudice had it bene to the ſenee, if you had tranſlated ſpirituales nequitiæ, ſpirituall wickednes, as you doe deſyderijs carnis luxurie, the deſires of fleſhly rioutouſnes 2. Pet. 2. 18? Your ſecond example Ioh. 2. is no hard phraſe in Greeke, but very vulgar and common, ſignifying as we haue tranſlated, what haue I to doe with the woman? but that you are angrie with Chriſt for reprehending his mother, when ſhe was in fault: whom you hold to be voide of all ſinne, euen originall, contrary to the Scriptures. Otherwiſe you are not ſo preciſe in the ſame phraſe, For Matth. 8. 29. Quid nobis & tibi, you tranſlate, What is betweene vs and thee?

In the third example, ſome of your olde copies agreeing with the trueth of the Greeke, why do you follow the error of the reſt of your copies, but that you loue darknes rather then light? In the fourth example, the wordes of the text following, Thou heareſt the ſound thereof, doe plainely argue, that ſpiritus in that place, ſignifyeth the winde and not the holy Ghoſt. For the ſound or noyce of the holy Ghoſt is not heard. Neither doe the auncient fathers otherwiſe tranſlate it, though by that text, as they may well, they proue the free working of Gods ſpirit.

In the fifth, it is plaine both out of the text, and out of S. Matthew 8. 24. that the veſſell was filled with the waues of water. In the ſixth example Luc. 22. 5. Paul 1. Cor. 11. doth warrant vs, that this is S. Lukes meaning, this cup is the newe Teſtament. But you knowe why you would haue hidden it as much as is poſſible, becauſe it is direct againſt tranſubſtantiation. In the ſeuenth, our tranſlation is according to the meaning, as appeareth Matth. 24. 21. though yours be more preciſe to the word of S. Marke.

In the eigth place, you ſay, that we to to boldly and preſumptuouſly, adde the word Scripture, Iam. 4. 6. ſaying, the Scripture giueth greater grace, where as you leaue it indifferent to the Scripture, and the holy Ghoſt, both going before. By which reprehenſion you verifie the ſaying of the Apoſtle, The ſpirit that dwelleth in you luſteth to enuie. For except enuie of our well doing, had blinded your eyes, you would neuer haue ſaid, that the holy Ghoſt is that ſpirit that luſteth vnto enuie, as both your vulgar tranſlation, and you your ſelues doe render the text.

In the ninth, you ſeeke a knot in a ruſh, Heb. 11. 21. for whether this word (that) be added or omitted, the ſenſe is all one. And you your ſelues adde many other wordes for explication, as it is neceſſarie for euery tranſlator.

Men and brethren, is our Engliſh phraſe, as Maſters and friends, of the ſame perſons. And what difference is there betweene a widow woman, and a woman that was a widow? A woman a ſiſter, the original text ſaith not. 1. Cor. 9. but a ſiſter to wife: For it were abſurde to ſay, a ſiſter a woman. But where you ſay, the hell of fire, ſeeing your Latin is Gehenna ignis, why ſay you not the Gehenna of fire, as you ſay, Paſche and not Paſſeouer. Amen Amen, and not verely verely? If you may expreſſe not onely the phraſe, but alſo the Hebrew worde in Engliſh, without offence againſt the maieſtie of that ſpeach, wee may be bolde to bring the Hebrew phraſe into the Engliſh tongue, ſo as it may be vnderſtood of Engliſh men.

Gehenna ignis.

Rhem.57 We adde the Greeke in the margent for diuers cauſes. Sometime when the ſenſe is hard, that the learned Reader may conſider of it and ſee if he can helpe himſelfe better then by our tranſlation. as Luc.11. Nolite extolli μὴ μετεωρίζεσθαι and againe, Quod ſupereſt date eleemoſynam. τὰ ἐνόντα. Sometime to take away the ambiguitie of the Latine or Engliſh. as Luc.11. Et domus ſupra domum cadet. Which we muſt needes Engliſh, and houſe vpon houſe, ſhall fall. by the Greeke, the ſenſe is not, one houſe ſhall fall vpon an other. but, if one houſe riſe vpon it ſelfe, that is, againſt it ſelfe, it ſhall periſh. according as he ſpeaketh of a kingdome deuided againſt it ſelfe, in the wordes before. And Act.14. Sacerdos Iouis qui erat in the Greeke, qui, is referred to Iupiter. Sometime to ſatiſfie the Reader, that might otherwiſe conceiue the tranſlation to be falſe. as Philip.4.v.9. But in euery thing by prayer, &c. ἐν παντὶ προσευχῇ καὶ, in all prayer, as in the Latine it may ſeeme. Sometime when the Latine neither doth, nor can, reache to the ſignification of the Greeke word, we adde the Greeke alſo as more ſignificant. Illi ſoli ſeruies, him onely ſhalt thou ſerue, λατρεύσεις. And Act 6. Nicolas a ſtranger of Antioche, προσήλυτον. and Ro. 9. The ſeruice, λατρεία. and Ephe.1.to perfite, inſtaurare omnia in Chriſto, ἀνακεφαλαιώσασθαι. And, Wherin he hath gratified vs, ἐχαρίτωσεν. and Eph.6. Put on the armour, πανοπλίαν. and a number the like. Sometime, when the Greeke hath two ſenſes, and the Latine but one, we adde the Greeke. 2.Cor.1. By the exhortation wherewith we alſo are exhorted. the Greeke ſignifieth alſo conſolation &c. and 2.Cor.10. But hauing hope of your faith increaſing, to be &c. where the Greeke may alſo ſignifie, as or when your faith increaſeth. Sometime for aduantage of the Catholike cauſe, when the Greeke maketh for vs more then the Latine. as, Seniores, πρεσβύτερους. Vt digni habeamini. ἵνα ἀξιωθῆτε. Qui effundetur, τὸ ἐκχυνόμενον, Præcepta, παραγγείλας. & Io.21. ποίμαινε, Paſce & rege. And ſometime to ſhew the falſe tranſlation of the Heretike. as when Beza ſayth, Hoc poculum in meo ſanguine qui. τὸ ποτήριον ἐν τῷ ἐμῷ αἵματι τὸ ἐκχυνόμενον. Luc.22, &, Quem oportet cœlo contineri. ὃν δεῖ οὐρανὸν δέξασθαι, Act. 3. Thus we vſe the Greeke diuers wayes, and eſteeme of it as it is worthy, and take all commodities thereof for the better vnderſtanding of the Latine, which being a tranſlation, can not alwayes attaine to the full ſenſe of the principall tongue, as we ſee in all tranſlations.

The Greeke added often in the margent for many cauſes.

Act.15. 2.Theſ.2. 1.Cor.11.

Fulke 57. Seeing you confeſſe, that the Latin being a tranſlation cannot alwayes attaine to the full ſence of the principall tongue, why did you not tranſlate out of the Greeke which is the principall tongue? And why doth the Tridentine aſſembly, auctorize that tranſlation for onely authenticall, which neither doth nor can attaine to the full ſence of the principall tongue, before the text of the principall tongue it ſelfe? As for the aduantage of your cauſe whereof you ſpeake, hath bene exactly examined already, and more ſhall be in the proper places.

Rhem.58 Item we adde the Latine word ſometime in the margent, when either we can not fully expreſſe it, (as Act.8. They tooke order for Stevens funerall, Curauerunt Stephanum. and, All take not this word, Non omnes capiunt.) or when the Reader might thinke, it can not be as we tranſlate. as, Luc.8. A ſtorme of winde deſcended into the lake, and they were filled, & complebantur. and Io.5. when Ieſus knew that he had now a long time, quia iam multum tempus haberet. meaning, in his infirmitie.

The Latine text ſometime noted in the margent.

Fulke.58 If you added the Latine word euery time, that you giue not the preciſe ſignification therof, you ſhould make your ſelfe ſometimes, and ſometimes your vulgar Latine tranſlation ridiculous, euen to children that are yong Grammarians, as when you tranſlate fenerator a creditor Luc.7. ſtabulum an Inne, Luc.10. Nauis a boate Mar.8. Nauicula a ſhippe Luc.5. Non quia de egenis pertinebat ad eum. Not becauſe he cared for the poore, and ſuch like.

Rhem.59 This preciſe following of our Latine text, in neither adding nor diminiſhing, is the cauſe why we ſay not in the title of bookes, in the firſt page, S. Matthew, S. Paul: becauſe it is ſo neither in Greeke nor Latine. though in the tops of the leaues following, where we may be bolder, we adde, S. Matthew &c. to ſatisfie the Reader. Much vnlike to the Proteſtants our Aduerſaries, which make no ſcruple to leaue out the name of Paul in the title of the Epiſtle to the Hebrues, though it be in euery Greeke booke which they tranſlate. And their moſt authoriſed Engliſh Bibles leaue out (Catholike) in the title of S. Iames Epiſtle and the reſt, which were famouſly knowen in the Primitiue Church by the name of Catholicæ Epiſtolæ Euſeb. hiſt. Eccl. li 2.c.22.

Bib. an. 1579 1580. an 1577. 1562.

Item we giue the Reader in places of ſome importance, an other reading in the margẽt, ſpecially when the Greeke is agreeable to the ſame. as Io.4 trãſiet de morte ad vitam. Other Latin copies haue, tranſijt, & ſo it is in the Greeke.

An other reading in the margent.

Fulke 59. How preciſe you are, let thoſe fewe examples laſt before remembred teſtifie. And for adding, let your owne confeſſion beare witnes Curauerunt Stephanum. They tooke order for Stevens funerall. Where a plaine dreſſing of his battered body vnto buriall is ſignified, and no pompous funerall. And if I ſhould follow ſuch ſmall quarrels, as you doe, I might bring in plentie of examples, as 2.Cor.8. Qui multum, he that had much, and Qui modicum non minorauit, he that had litle, wanted not. 2.Cor.1. Supra virtutem, aboue our power. 1.Cor.13 Euacuaui quæ erant parvuli, I did away the things that belonged to a litle one.

For diminiſhing take theſe examples. 1.Cor.14. Si quid autem volunt diſcere, but if they learne any thing, Will or Deſire left out. Act.25. Feſtus autem reſpondit ſeruari Paulum in Cæſarea. But Feſtus anſwered that Paul is in Cæſarea, this word (Kept) being omitted. But Acts.10.41. in a place of great importance, and a matter of ſome controuerſie, the text is diminiſhed of a whole clauſe teſtibus præordinatis à Deo, for which you giue vs no Engliſh at all. Likewiſe Heb.7.28. in a matter of controuerſie, where the Latine is, Lex enim homines conſtituit ſacerdotes, infirmitatem habentes, you tranſlate for the Lawe appointeth prieſtes, that haue infirmitie, leauing out Homines. where the Antithеſis is betweene the Prieſthood of men, and of the Sonne of God.

These be diminiſhings of your Latine text, which otherwiſe is defectiue from the Greeke in an hundred places. yet you make a great matter, that the name of Paul is left out, in the title of the Epiſtle to the Hebrues. and the name of Catholike in the title of the Epiſtle of S. Iames. But the titles are no part of the word of God. yet haue we alſo thoſe titles in ſome of our tranſlations. And one ancient Greeke copie leaueth out the name of Paul. Againe thoſe other 5. Epiſtles are called Catholike or generall, not as though the doctrine of them, were more ſound and Catholike then the doctrine of S. Paules Epiſtles, but but becauſe they are directed to no ſpeciall citie or countrey, but either vniuerſally to all Chriſtians, or to all Iewes, inhabiting many nations.

Rhem. 6 o We binde not our ſelues to the poinres of any one copie, print, or edition of the vulgar Latin, in places of no controuerſie, but folow the pointing moſt agreeable to the Greeke and to the fathers commentaries. As Col.1.10. Ambulantes dignè Deo, per omnia placentes. Walking worthy of God, in all things pleaſing. ἀξίως τοῦ κυρίου εἰς πᾶσαν ἀρεσκείαν. Ephe.1.17. We point thus, Deus Domini noſtri Ieſu Chriſti, pater gloriæ. as in the Greeke, and S.Chryſoſtome, and S.Hierom both in text & commentaries. Which the Catholike reader ſpecially muſt marke, leſt he finde faults, when he ſeeth our tranſlation diſagree in ſuch places from the pointing of his Latin Teſtament. The pointing ſometime altered.

We tranſlate ſometime the word that is in the Latin margent, and not that in the text, when by the Greeke or the fathers we ſee it is a manifeſt fault of the writers heretofore, that miſtooke one word for an other. As, In fine, not, in fide, 1.Pet.3.v.8. præſentiam, not, præſcientiam, 2.Pet.1.v.16. Heb.13. latuerunt, not, placuerunt. The margene reading ſometime preferred before the text.

Thus we haue endeuoured by all meanes to ſatiſfie the indifferent reader, and to helpe his vnderſtanding euery way both in the text, and by Annotations: and withall to deale moſt ſincerely before God and men, in tranſlating and expounding the moſt ſacred text of the holy Teſtament. Farewell good Reader, and if we profit the any whit by our poore paines: let vs for Gods ſake be partakers of thy deuout prayers, and together with humble and contrite hart call vpon our Sauiour Chriſt to ceaſe theſe troubles and ſtormes of his deereſt ſpouſe: in the meane time comforting our ſelues with this ſaying of S. Auguſtine: That Heretikes, when they receiue power corporally to afflict the Church, do exerciſe her patience: but when they oppugne her onely by their euil doctrine or opinions, then they exerciſe her wiſedom. De ciuit.Dei.li.18.ca.51.

Fulke. 6 o You take ynough vnto you, to vſe your iudgement in pointing, which may alter the whole ſence, and ſometimes giue a contrary meaning. And as you are bold ſometime to preferre the margent reading, before the text when by the Greeke or the fathers, you ſee it is a manifeſt fault of the writer, ſo might you haue done in many more places, and made your tranſlation more agreeable to the trueth of the Greeke text: if you had not rather to flie from the trueth, then to come no neerer, then you be enforced.

Now that I alſo in a word may let the Reader vnderſtand my purpoſe in anſwere to the annotations: I meane not to ſtriue for euery word in the Margent, as the names of Popiſh feaſtes and ſuch like, neither to medle with thoſe annotations, which although they be not rightly gathered out of the text, yet conteine no impietie or ſlaunder of the Church, or the true members thereof. But onely with ſuch as are framed againſt the trueth and the mainteyners thereof.

1 The infallible authoritie and excellencie of them aboue all other writings.

THe excellencie of the Canonical authoritie of the old and new Teſtament, is diſtincted from the bookes of later writers: which being confirmed in the Apoſtles times, by the ſucceſſions of Biſhops, and propagations of Churches, is placed as it were in a certaine throne on high, whereunto euery faithfull and godly vnderſtanding muſt be ſubiect and obedient. There, if any thing moue or trouble thee as abſurd, thou mayeſt not ſay, The author of this booke held not the truth: but either the copie is faultie, or the Tranſlatour erred, or thou vnderſtandeſt not. But in the workes of them that wrote afterward, which are conteined in infinite bookes, but are in no caſe equal to that moſt ſacred authoritie of CANONICAL SCRIPTVRES: in which ſoeuer of them is found euen the ſame trueth, yet the authoritie is farre vnequall.

Rhem. A. 2 The diſcerning of Canonical from not Canonical, and of their infallible truth, & ſenſe, commeth vnto vs, only by the credite we giue vnto the Catholike Church: through whoſe commendation we beleeue both the Goſpel and Chriſt himſelf. Whereas the Sectaries meaſure the matter by their fanſies and opinion.

I for my part, would not beleeue the Goſpel, vnleſſe the authoritie of the CATHOLIKE CHVRCH moued me. They therefore whome I obeyed ſaying, Beleeue the Goſpel: why ſhould I not beleeue them ſaying, Beleeue not Manichæus? Chuſe whether thou wilt. If thou wilt ſay, Beleeue the Catholikes: loe they warne me that I giue no credite vnto you: and therefore beleeuing them, I muſt needes not beleeue thee. If thou ſay, Beleeue not the Catholikes: It is not the right way, by the Goſpel to driue me to the faith of Manichæus, becauſe I beleeued the Goſpel it ſelfe by the preaching of Catholikes.

Luther, Caluin.

Againe li.de vtilit.credend. cap. 14.

I ſee that concerning Chriſt himſelfe, I haue beleeued none, but the confirmed and aſſured opinion of peoples and nations: and that theſe peoples haue on euery ſide poſſeſſed the myſteries of the CATHOLIKE CHVRCH Why ſhould I not therfore moſt diligently require, ſpecially among them, what Chriſt commaunded, by whoſe authoritie I was moued to beleeue, that Chriſt did commaund ſome profitable thing? Wilt thou (ô Heretike) tel me better what he ſaid? whom I would not thinke to haue bene at all, or to be, if I muſt beleeue, becauſe thou ſayeſt it? What groſſe madnes is this, to ſay, Beleeue the Catholikes, that Chriſt is to be beleeued: and learne of vs, what he ſaid.

Thou ſeeſt then in this matter what force the authoritie of the CATHOLIKE CHVRCH hath, which euen from the moſt grounded and founded ſeates of the Apoſtles, is eſtabliſhed vntill this day, by the line of Biſhops ſucceeding one an other, and by the conſent of ſo many peoples. Whereas thou ſayeſt, This is Scripture, or, this ſuch an Apoſtles, that is not: becauſe this ſoundeth for mee, and the other againſt me. Thou then art the rule of trueth. whatſoeuer is againſt thee, is not true.

Fulke. A. Eſay 51.

The trueth and ſenſe of the Scripture, commeth not onely by the credite we giue vnto the Church, but alſo by the ſpirit of God, which giueth witnes to his worde, as the Prophet ſayth. * My ſpirit which is within thee, and my wordes which I haue put in thy mouth, and in the mouth of thy ſeede, ſhall not faile for euer. And therefore you falſifie S. Auguſtines authority, in tranſlating Commoueret moued. For he ſayth, as there were many thinges, which held him in the Catholike faith, ſo, if he were an Infidel, he would not beleeue the Goſpell, vnles the authoritie of the Church Commoueret, with other thinges did moue him. And although the authoritie of the Church (for the moſt part,) doe firſt moue the outward man, to know and reuerence the Scriptures: yet afterward, by the ſpirite and the word, he is confirmed in the faith of them, ſo that now he beleeueth, not onely for the authority of the Church, which conſiſteth of men, but by the aſſurance of the ſpirite of God, and the authority of the word it ſelfe, expreſſed in the Scriptures. And therefore S. Auguſtine in the 14. chapter of the ſame booke, ſayth of the Manichees, as we may ſay of the Papiſtes. What haue we to doe but to forſake them, that inuite vs to knowe thinges certaine, and afterward commaund vs to beleeue vncertaine thinges: and to follow them which inuite vs firſt to beleeue, that which we are not yet able to behold, that being made ſtronger thorough faith it ſelfe, we may attaine to vnderſtand that we beleeue, now not men, but God himſelfe, confirming and lightning our minde inwardly. The other two ſentences of S. Auguſtine, although they be not truely and wholy cited, yet they conteyne nothing for the Popiſh Church, which is not Catholike, but particular and hereticall, yea Antichriſtian, and hath no ſucceſſion in doctrine, from the Apoſtles and the Biſhops of the Primitiue Church, whoſe doctrine it hateth and perſecuteth. For it is continuance in the ſame doctrine, that S. Auguſtine commendeth, and not ſitting in the ſame place, where the Apoſtles and auncient Biſhops ſatte.

Many borne and bread in ſchiſme and hereſie, are euen by heretikes and ſchiſmatikes moued firſt to giue credite to the Scriptures.

Rhem. B. 3 No heretikes haue right to the Scriptures, but are vſurpers: the Catholike Church being the true owner and faithfull keeper of them. Heretikes abuſe them, corrupt them, and vtterly ſeeke to aboliſh them, though they pretend the contrary.

Tertullian li. De præſcriptionibus, bringeth in the CATHOLIKE CHVRCH ſpeaking thus to all Heretikes.

Who are you, when, and frō whence came you? what do you in my poſſeſſion, that are none of mine? by what right (Marcion) doeſt thou cut downe my woode? who gaue the licence (ô Valentine) to turne the courſe of my fountaines? by what authoritie (Apelles) doeſt thou remoue my boūds? and you the reſt, why do you ſow & feed for theſe companions at your pleaſure? It is my poſſeſſiō, I poſſeſſe it of old, I haue aſſured originis therof, euen frō thoſe authors whoſe the thing was. I am the heire of the Apoſtles. As they prouided by their Teſtament, as they cōmitted it to my credite, as they adiured me, ſo do I hold it. You ſurely they diſherited alwayes & haue caſt you of, as forainers, as enemies.

ô Luther, Zuinglius, Caluin.

*Their ſcholers and followers.

Againe in the ſame booke.

Encountering with ſuch by Scriptures, auaileth nothing, but to ouerturne a mans ſtomake or his braine. This hereſie receiueth not certaine Scriptures: and if it do receiue ſome, yet by adding and taking away, it peruerteth the ſame to ſerue their purpoſe: and if it receiue any, is doth not receiue them wholy: and if after a ſort it receiue them wholy, neuertheles by diuiſing diuers expoſitions, it traineth them cleane another way &c.

Fulke. B. Luther, Zuinglius, and Caluine, which receiued and beleeued all the Scriptures of God, and alwaies gaue ſoueraigne authority onely vnto them, are vnfitly compared with ſuch Heretikes, as Tertullian named, which refuſed what Scriptures they would, and corrupted the reſt at their pleaſure. Therefore although all their hereſies are condemned by the Scriptures, which is ſufficient to eſtabliſh the faithfull, yet it was in vaine to encounter with them, by authority of the Scriptures, which they did not admit, where as by the argument of preſcription, they were plainely conuinced. For as Tertullian ſayth, That is true which is firſt, and that is falſe which is later, which is the meaning of Tertullian, and his ſcope in that booke of Preſcription againſt Heretikes.

Rhem. C. 4 Yet do they vaunt themſelues of Scriptures exceedingly, but they are neuer the more to be truſted for that.

S. Hierom aduerſus Luciferianos in fine.

Let them not flatter themſelues, if they ſeeme in their owne conceite to affirme that which they ſay, out of the chapters

chapters of Scripture: whereas the Diuel alſo ſpake ſome things out of the Scriptures, and the Scriptures conſiſt not in the reading, but in the vnderſtanding.

Vincentius Lirinenſis li. cont. prophanas hæreſum Nouationes.

Here perhaps ſome man may aske, whether Hereſikes alſo vſe not the teſtimonies of diuine Scripture. Yes in deede doe they, and that vehemently. For thou ſhalt ſee them flie through euery one of the ſacred bookes of the Law, through Moyſes, the bookes of the Kings, the Pſalmes, the Apoſtles, the Goſpels, the Prophets. For, whether among their owne fellowes, or ſtrangers: whether priuately, or publikely: whether in talke, or in their bookes: whether in bankets, or in the ſtreetes: they (I ſay) alleage nothing of their owne, which they endeuour not to ſhadowe with the wordes of Scripture alſo. Read the workes of Paulus Samoſatenus, of Priſcillian, of Eunomian, of Iouinian, of the other plagues and peſtilences: thou ſhalt finde an infinite heape of examples, no page in a manner omitted or voide, which is not painted and coloured with the ſentences of the newe or olde Teſtament. But they are ſo much the more to be taken heede of, and to be feared, the more ſecretly they lurke vnder the ſhadowes of Gods diuine Law. For they know their ſtinkes would not eaſily pleaſe any man almoſt, if they were breathed out nakedly and ſimply themſelues alone, and therefore they ſprinkle them as it were with certaine pretious ſpices of the heauenly word: to the ende that he which would eaſily deſpiſe the errour of man, may not eaſily cõtemne the oracles of God. So that they do like vnto them, which whẽ they will prepare certaine bitter potions for children, do firſt annoint the brimmes of the cup with hony, that the vnwarie age, when it ſhal firſt feele the ſweetnes, may not feare the bitternes.*

Fulke. C. The Papiſtes in this poynt of vaunting, are not behinde, as appeareth in the Preface. And wherefore ſerue theſe annotations, but to vaunt themſelues of the Scriptures? But they are neuer the more to be truſted for that, but the Scriptures more diligently to be ſearched, and ſtudied, that their falſhood in peruerting them, may the better be eſpyed and diſcouered.

Caluine and Iewell haue their pages garniſhed not onely with authorities of Scripture, but alſo with ſentences of the auncient Fathers of the Primitiue Church, which by the iudgement of Vincentius, are meanes to bring them to the true vnderſtanding of the Scriptures, and are teſtimonies, that they teach not their owne newe inuentions, as Samoſatenus, Priſcillian, Eunomius, Iouinian, &c. but the auncient faith of the Church, planted by the Apoſtles, and continewed by the auncient Fathers, for many hundreth yeeres after Chriſt, euen vntill the Apoſtacie, was made by Antichriſt.

Rhem. D. 5 The cauſe why, the Scriptures being perfit, yet we vſe other Eccleſiaſtical writings and tradition.

Vincentius Lirinenſis in his golden booke before cited, aduerſus prophanas hæreſum Nouationes.

Here ſome man perhaps may aske, for aſmuch as the Canon of the Scriptures is perfit, and in all pointes very ſufficient in it ſelfe, what neede is there, to ioyne thereunto the authoritie of the Eccleſiaſticall vnderſtanding? for this cauſe ſurely, for that all take not the holy Scripture in one and the ſame ſenſe, becauſe of the deepenes thereof. but the ſpeaches thereof, ſome interpret one way, and ſome an other way, ſo that there may almoſt as many ſenſes be picked out of it, as there be men. for, Nouatian doth expound it one way, and Sabellius, an other way, otherwiſe Donatus, otherwiſe Arius, Eunomius, Macedonius, otherwiſe Photinus, Apollinaris, Priſcillianus, otherwiſe Iouinian, Pelagius, Celeſtius, laſtly otherwiſe Neſtorius.* And therefore very neceſſary it is, becauſe of ſo great windinges and turninges of diuers errours, that the line of Prophetical and Apoſtolicall interpretation, be directed according to the rule of the Eccleſiaſticall and Catholike ſenſe or vnderſtanding.*

* So he calleth the Churches ſenſe, and the fathers interpretations of Scriptures.

* Otherwiſe Wickliffe, Luther, Caluin, Puritanes.

S. Baſil li. de Spiritu ſancto cap. 27.

Of ſuch articles of religion as are kept and preached in the Church, ſome were taught by the written word, other ſome we haue receiued by the tradition of the Apoſtles, deliuered vnto vs as it were from hand to hand in myſterie ſecretly: both which be of one force to Chriſtian religion: and this no man will deny that hath any litle skill of the Eccleſiaſticall rites or cuſtomes. for if we goe about to reiect the cuſtomes not conteyned in Scripture, as being of ſmall force, we ſhall vnwittingly and vnawares mangle the GOSPEL it ſelfe in the principall partes thereof, yea rather, we ſhall abridge the very preaching of the Goſpell, and bring it to a bare name.

Fulke. D. While you holde tradition beſide the Scripture to be neceſſary, you can not defend the Scripture to be perfect and ſufficient by it ſelfe, vnto all poyntes of faith, as Vincentius ſayth. Whom you falſifie in tranſlating, ad omnia in all poyntes, and leauing out, that he ſayth before, of the meanes to defend faith, which are the authority of Gods law, and the tradition of the Catholike Church, which tradition bringeth in nothing that is left out of the Scriptures (as yours doe) but conteyneth the ſumme of Catholike doctrine grounded in the Scriptures. As appeareth plainly by the wordes of the ſame Father, abridging his former ſentence. Diximus in ſuperioribus hanc fuiſſe ſemper & eſſe hodieque Catholicorum conſuetudinem, vt fidem veram duobus his modis approbent. Primum diuini Canonis auctoritate, deinde Eccleſiæ Catholicæ traditione, non quia Canon ſolus non ſibi ad vniuerſa ſufficiat, ſed quia verba diuina pro ſuo plerique arbitratu interpretantes, varias opiniones & errores concipiant. Atque ideo neceſſe ſit, vt ad vnam eccleſiaſtici ſenſus regulam, Scripturæ cæleſtis intelligentia dirigatur, in his duntaxat præcipuè quæſtionibus, quibus totius Catholici dogmatis fundamenta nituntur. We haue ſayd before, that this hath alwaies bene, and is alſo at this day, the cuſtome of the Catholikes, to approue the true faith, by theſe two meanes. Firſt by the authoritie of the diuine Canon, afterward by tradition or deliuery of the Catholike Church, not becauſe the Canon alone, is not by it ſelfe ſufficient vnto all things: but becauſe many interpreting the wordes of God after their owne pleaſure, doe conceiue diuers opinions and errors. And therfore it is neceſſary that the vnderſtanding of the heauenly Scripture be directed to one rule of eccleſiaſticall ſenſe, onely in thoſe queſtions chiefly, on which the foundations of the whole Catholike doctrine doe leane.

By which ſaying it is playne, that Vincentius allowed an other manner of perfection and ſufficiencie of the holy Scriptures, then you doe acknowledge, which teach, that there be articles of faith neceſſary to be beleeued, which are not to be proued out of the Scripture, but ſtand onely vpon credite of tradition, as prayer for the dead, inuocation of Sayntes, &c. whereas Vincentius ſpeaketh of no tradition, but that which is grounded vpon the Canon of the Scriptures.

In the ſecond teſtimony of S. Baſil alſo, you falſifie his meaning, tranſlating dogmata, articles of religion, whereby you would haue it though, that he ſpeaketh of articles of faith and doctrine, preached in the Church, which haue no warrant out of the Scriptures, where as he ſpeaketh onely of formes of ſpeach, by which the articles of faith taught in the Scripture, are expreſſed, and of rites or ceremonies vſed in the Church in his time. As that they vſed to ſing in the Church: Glory be to the Father, and to the Sonne, with the holy Ghoſt. The Heretikes obiected, that this forme of ſpeach, with the holy Ghoſt, was not found in the Scriptures. S. Baſill proueth by the Scripture, that equall glorye is due to the holy Ghoſt, with the Father and the Sonne. But touching the vſe of the Prepoſition σὺν, in that forme of glorifying the holy Trinitie, which of auncient time had bene vſed in the Church, he referreth it to Apoſtolike tradition, as he doth a number of ceremonies beſide, and formes of publike ſeruice then vſed in the Church: which he calleth δόγματα, that are not ſpoken of in the Scriptures, at leſt wiſe not plainely and expreſly, for he defendeth ſome of them, to haue their reaſon out of the Scriptures: counting among them the forme of this confeſſion: to beleeue in the Father, in the Sonne, and in the holy Ghoſt, which forme of wordes in ſo many ſyllables, is not found in all the Scriptures, yet the truth and ſubſtance of this confeſſion, is moſt plainly and perfectly conteyned in the holy Scriptures. S. Baſil therefore, is no patrone of traditions, that bring in articles of faith or religion, not conteyned in the Scriptures, as it is euident by other places of his writings, as in his Morall. Reg. 26. Euery word and deede ought to be warranted by teſtimony of the Scripture inſpired of God. And againe, Reg. 8. If whatſoeuer is not of faith is ſinne (as the Apoſtle ſayth) and faith is of hearing, and hearing by the word of God, whatſoeuer is without the holy Scripture, ſeeing it is not of faith, is ſinne. The ſame iudgement he ſheweth in many other partes of his workes, as he that will, may ſee, Tract. de vera & piaſide, in regul. breu. inter 1. & 95. & 98. Epiſt. 80.

THE SVMME OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

Rhem. THAT which was the ſumme of the Old Teſtament, to wit, Chriſt and his Church, as S. Auguſtine ſaith catechizing the ignorant: the very ſame is the ſumme of the New Teſtament alſo. For (as the ſame S. Auguſtine ſaith againe) In the Old Teſtament there is the occultation of the New: and in the New Teſtament there is the manifeſtation of the Old. And in an other place: In the Old doth the New lye hidden, and in the New doth the old lye open. And thereupon our Sauiour ſaid: I am not come to breake the Law or the Prophets, but to fulfill them. For aſſuredly I ſay vnto you, till heauen and earth paſſe, one iote or one title ſhall not paſſe of the Law, till all be fulfilled. In which wordes he ſheweth plainely, that the New Teſtament is nothing els but the fulfilling of the Old. Aug. de cat. rud. cap. 3. 4. Super Exod. q. 73. Mat. 5.

Therefore to come to the partes: The Gospels do tell of Chriſt him ſelfe (of whom the Old Teſtament did foretell) and that euen from his comming into the world, vnto his going out therof againe. The Actes of the Apoſtles do tell of his Church beginning at Hieruſalem the head citie of the Iewes, and of the propagation thereof to the Gentiles and their head citie Rome. And the Apocalypſe doth prophecye of it, euen to the conſummation thereof, which ſhall be in the end of the world. The Epiſtles of the Apoſtles doe treat partly of ſuch queſtions as at that time were mooued, partly of good life and good order.

The ſumme of the 4. Goſpels.

Rhem. THe Goſpels doe tell hiſtorically the life of our Lord Ieſus, ſhewing plainely, * that he is Chriſt or the King of the Iewes, whom vntil then, all the time of the Old Teſtament, they had expected: and withal, that they of their owne mere malice and blindnes (the iniquitie beginning of the Seniors, but at the length the multitude alſo conſenting) would not receaue him, but euen ſought his death: which for the Redemption of the world, he at length permitted them to compaſſe, they deſeruing therby moſt iuſtly to be refuſed of him, and ſo his Kingdom or Church to be taken away from them, and giuen to the Gentils. For the gathering of which Church after him, he chooſeth Twelue, and * appointeth one of them to be the cheefe of al, with inſtructions both to them and him accordingly. Io. 20, 21.

Fulk. * Chriſt appointed no Pope.

The ſtorie hereof is written by foure: who in Ezechiel and in the Apocalypſe are likened to foure liuing creatures, euery one according as his booke beginneth. S. Matthew to a man, becauſe he beginneth with the pedegree of Chriſt as he is man. S. Marke to a Lion, becauſe he beginneth with the preaching of S. Iohn Baptiſt, as it were the roaring of a Lion in the wilderne: S. Luke to a Calfe, becauſe he beginneth with a prieſt of the Old Teſtament (to wit, Zacharie the father of S. Iohn Baptiſt) which Prieſthood was to ſacrifice calues to God. S. Iohn to an Egle, becauſe he beginneth with the Diuinitie of Chriſt, flying ſo high as more is not poſſible. Eze. 1. Apoc. 4.

The firſt three do report at large what Chriſt did in Galilee, after the impriſonment of S. Iohn Baptiſt. Wherefore S. Iohn the Euangeliſt writing after them all, doth omit his doinges in Galilee (ſaue onely one, which they had not written of, the wonderful breuet which he told the Capharnaites he could and would giue, Io. 6.) and reporteth firſt, what he did whiles Iohn Baptiſt as yet was preaching and baptizing: then, after Iohns impriſoning, what he did in Iurie euery yeere about Eaſter. But of his Paſſion all foure do write at large.

Where it is to be noted, that from his baptizing (which is thought to haue bene vpon Twelfth day, what time he was beginning to be about 30 yeere old, Luk. 3.) vnto his paſſion, are numbred three monethes and three yeeres, in which there were alſo 4. Eaſters.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 1. The booke.) This Goſpell is moſt ſolemnly ſung in holy Church at Matins vpon Chriſtmas day. As alſo it is the Goſpel of the Conception and Natiuitie of our B. Lady: becauſe here is declared the pedegree of her alſo.

Fulke. 1. You muſt vnderſtand this note, where there is a Prieſt or Deacon, ỳ can chaũt it luſtily, as in Cathedral churches, or other great Queires: as for poore coũtrey churches, where there is none but one hedge prieſt that can neither wel ſing nor ſay, it is mumbled vp as the reſt of the morrow Maſſe, vnleſſe we ſhal thinke, that poore churches & chappels, be no part of the Popes holy Church. To the feaſts of the Cõception and Natiuitie of your Lady, which is a very idol, you might haue added, the viſitatiõ of Mary, of the cõmon people called the new found Lady day. But the true hiſtories of the Goſpel, haue not ſo great honour with you as the idolatrous & blaſphemous inuẽtions of your braine. For therfore you haue appointed thoſe ſolemne feaſtes of the Conception & Natiuitie, becauſe you teach contrary to the Scriptures, ỳ the bleſſed Virgine Mary, was conceiued and borne, without the ſpot of original ſinne. Rom. 5. 12. & 16. Rom. 3. 9. Gal 3. 22. And therfore in ſtead of honouring her with the ſinguler priuiledge of Chriſt the Sauiour & redeemer, both of

1. Cor. 8. 4. her and vs, you honour an idol, & not her: for an idol is nothing in the world. And ſo is that man or woman which is conceiued without original ſinne, except our ſauiour Chriſt, who was cõceiued by the holy Ghoſt, as none other euer was or ſhalbe. Likewiſe, when you call the bleſſed Virgin, our Lady, as you cal God and Chriſt our Lord, what do you but make her equal with God and Chriſt in power & redemption? In which reſpect God is called our Lord. For it is no terme of ciuil & temporal dignitie and auctoritie, as whẽ we ſay, our ſoueraigne Lady the Queene, but a religious & diuine honor, that you aſcribe vnto her, calling her abſolutely, our Lady, as blaſphemouſly, as the Frenchmen do ridiculouſly cal other Saints Monſieur S. Pierre, M. S. Peter, or my Lord S. Peter, and Madam S. Genofefeue miſtreſſe S. Genofefa, or, my Lady S. Genofefa, &c. In which appellation, as in offring of candels, & other things vnto her image and worſhipping thereof, you reſemble the old Collyridian heretikes, againſt whom and generally againſt the worſhipping of images, Epiphanius writeth Herꝛ. 79. & 78. calling the making of images to be worſhipped, a deuliſh intent, and the worſhipping of them and of the Virgin Mary, to be a Deifying of her, and a blaſphemous & wicked worke. What would he haue written if he had ſeene the horrible idolatry committed by the Papiſts in the pilgrimages to the images of the bleſſed Virgine, where you called and yet call, ſtockes and ſtones your Lady, as our Lady of Walſingham, Ipſwich, Paris, Antwerpe? What elſe were they but dead images at thoſe places? If he had heard your blaſphemies vttered in the ſolemne *feſtiuities, that you hold in her honour, conteined in hymnes, anthemes, and eſpecially in that execrable Pſalter of Bonauenture, who peruerteth whatſoeuer the holy Ghoſt hath vttered in praiſe of God, abuſing it to magnifie the Virgine Mary?

*Rega patrem, iube natum: Entreat the Father, commaund the Sonne. Cege deum, compel God, vita, ſalus, our life and ſaluation, &c.

Fulke. 2. S. Auguſtine in the place quoted, by the word Sacrament, meaneth the holy myſtery that is in mariage, of the inſeparable cõiunction of Chriſt with his Church, therfore he ſaith, Sacramentum, quia nullum diuortium, Sacrament, becauſe there was no diuorce. Not that matrimonie is a Sacrament of the new Teſtament (ſeeing it was inſtituted in Paradiſe before the fall of man) as Baptiſme and the Lords Supper are called Sacraments, which he ſaith, are feweſt in nomber, and findeth no more in the Canonical Scriptures. Epiſt. ad Ianuar. 118. But as he calleth generally euery ſacrifice of the olde Teſtament, a Sacrament, that is an holy ſigne of the inuiſible ſacrifice. De Ciuit. Dei lib. 10. c. 5. And as he calleth that bread, which in that time, was giuen to yong Nouices in Chriſtian Religion before they were baptized, a holy Sacrament, though it was not the bodie of Chriſt, De pec. mer. & remiſſ. lib. 2. cap. 26. Likewiſe in Pſal. 44. he ſo calleth all the myſteries of Chriſtian doctrine vttered in diuers tongues, Sacramenta doctrinæ, Sacraments of doctrine.

Rhem. 3. 23. A virgin.) Our Sauiour borne in mariage, but yet of a Virgin, would honour both ſtates: and withall, teacheth vs againſt Iouinian the old Heretike & theſe of our time, that virginitie & the cõtinent life are preferred before mariage that hath carnal copulatiõ. See S. Hier. adu. Iou. & S. Greg. Naz. Ser. 20. de ſtudio in pauperes, in initio.

Virginitie preferred.

Fulke. 3. This is a meere ſlander of the true Catholikes, whom you cal heretikes of theſe times, that we teach with Iouinian, that virginitie and the continent life, are not to be preferred before mariage. For we teach euen as S. Paul doeth 1. Cor. 7. although we teach that mariage is better then ſingle life, where virginitie or chaſtitie are not kept, but counterfeted. And ſo held Epiphan. and the Church in his time. Cont. Apoſt. her. 61. Likewiſe Hierom. ad Demetr.

Fulke. 5. You do moſt impudently alleadge Auguſtine, to teſtifie that Heluidius was condemned for an heretike by tradition only. for Auguſtine hath no word ſounding to that purpoſe. And Epiphanius (whom he ſuppo-ſeth to haue vnderſtood Heluidians by Antidicomarianites) laboureth to conuince that error by Scriptures. And S. Hierom in his booke againſt Heluidius, ſheweth that he was condemned for affirming that (of the virgin Marie) which is not read in the Scriptures, in theſe words. Sed vt hæc quæ ſcripta ſunt non negamus, ita ea quæ non ſunt ſcripta renuimus. Natum Deum eſſe de virgine credimus, quia legimus, Mariam nupſiſſe poſt partum, non credimus, quia non legimus. But as we deny not theſe things that are written, ſo we reiect the things that are not written. That God was borne of a virgin we beleeue, becauſe we reade it: that Marie had matrimoniall companie with her husband after her deliuerie, we doe not beleeue, becauſe we reade it not. Beholde what a friende S. Hierome was to vnwritten tradition?

CHAP. II.

The Gentiles come vnto Chriſt with their offrings, and that ſo openly, that the Iewes cannot pretend ignorance. 3. The Iewes with Herod conſpire againſt him. 13. He thereupon fleeth from them into Aegypt. 16. They afterward, ſeeing their ſubtiltie preuailed not, imagined to oppreſſe him by open perſecution. 19. But they at length dyed, and he returneth to the land of Iſrael: all according to the Scriptures.

The holy feaſt of the Epiphanie called Twelfe day the 6. of Ianuarie. vpon which day this is the Goſpel. Luc. 2. 7.

WHen IESVS therefore was *borne in Bethlehem of Iuda in the dayes of Herod the King, ‖ beholde, there came Sages from the Eaſt to Hieruſalem,

2 Saying, where is he that is borne king of the Iewes? For we haue ſeene his ‖ ſtarre in the Eaſt, and ‖ are come to adore him.

3 And Herode the King hearing this, was troubled, and all Hieruſalem with him.

4 And aſſembling together all the high Prieſtes and the Scribes of the people, he ‖ inquired of them where Chriſt ſhoulde be borne.

5 But they ſaid to him, In Bethlehem of Iuda. For ſo it is written by the Prophet:

Mich. 5. 2. 6 And thou Bethlehem the land of Iuda, art not the leaſt among the Princes of Iuda: for out of thee ſhall come forth the Captaine that ſhall rule my people Iſrael.

7 Then Herod ſecretly calling the Sages, learned diligently of them the time of the ſtarre which appeared to them:

8 And ſending them into Bethlehem, ſaide, Goe, and inquire diligently of the child: and when you ſhall finde him, make report to me, that I alſo may come and adore him.

9 Who hauing heard the king, went their way: and beholde the ſtarre which they had ſeene in the Eaſt, went before them, vntill it came and ſtood ouer, where the childe was.

10 And ſeeing the ſtarre, they reioyced with exceeding great ioy.

11 And entring into y houſe, they found the child with MARIE his mother, and falling downe ‖ adored him: and opening Pſal. 71. 10. their ‖ treaſures, they offred to him * ‖ gifts: golde, frankincenſe, and myrrhe.

12 And hauing receiued an anſwere in ſleepe that they ſhould not returne to Herode,

*WHen *Ieſus was borne in Bethlehem, Luke 2. 6. a citie of Iurie, in the dayes of Herod the king: beholde, there came wiſe men from the East to Hieruſalem,

2 Saying, Where is he that is borne king of the Iewes? For we haue ſeene his ſtarre in the Eaſt, and are come to worſhip him.

3 When Herode the king had heard theſe things, he was troubled, & all the citie of Hieruſalem with him.

4 And when he had gathered all the chiefe Prieſts and Scribes of the people together, he demaunded of them where Chriſt ſhould be borne.

5 And they ſaide vnto him, At Bethlehem in Iurie: For thus it is written by the Prophet,

*6 And thou Bethlehem in the land of Iuda, art not the leaſt among the princes of Iuda: For out of thee ſhall there come a captaine, that ſhall gouerne my people Iſrael. Mich. 5. 2. Iohn. 7. 41.

7 Then Herod, when he had priuilie called the wiſe men, enquired of them diligently what time the ſtarre appeared.

8 And he ſent them to Bethlehem, and ſaide, Goe, and ſearch diligently for the young childe, and when ye haue found him, bring me worde againe, that I may come and worſhip him alſo.

9 When they had heard the king, they departed, and loe, the ſtarre which they ſawe in the East, went before them, till it came and ſtoode ouer the place wherein the young childe was.

10 When they ſawe the ſtarre, they reioyced exceedingly with great ioy, 11 And went into the houſe, and they ſawe the yong child with Marie his mother, and fell downe, and worſhipped him: and when they had opened their treaſures, preſented vnto him giftes, gold, and frankincenſe, and myrrhe.

12 And after they were warned of God in a dreame that they ſhould not returne to Herode,

13 When they were departed, beholde, the Angel of the Lorde appeared to Ioſeph in a dreame, ſaying, Ariſe, and take the yong child, and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there till I bring thee worde: for it will come to paſſe, that Herode ſhall ſeeke the yong childe, to deſtroy him.

16 Then Herod, when he ſaw that he was mocked of the wiſe men, was exceeding wroth, and ſent foorth, and ſlewe all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coaſts thereof, as many as were two yeeres olde and vnder, according to the time, which he had diligently ſearched out of the wiſe men.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 1. Beholde.) *Our Lordes apparition or Epiphanie to theſe Sages being Gentiles, their pilgrimage to him, and in them the firſt homage of Gētilitie done vnto him the twelfth day after his Natiuitie: and therfore is Twelfth day *highly celebrated in the Catholike Church for ioy of the calling of vs Gentiles. Rhem. 1. Pilgrimage.

2. Come to adore.) This comming ſo farre of deuotion to viſite and adore Chriſt in the place of his birth, was properly a Pilgrimage to his perſon: and warranteth the faithfull in the like kinde of externall worſhip done to holy perſons, places, and things.

Fulke. 1. Pilgrimage.

This comming was by a diuine inſpiration, and oracle: for the ſtarre onely coulde not tell them that Chriſt was borne in Iurie, and therefore hath no reſembling to Popiſh Pilgrimage, which is Idolatrie. Neither doeth their example of comming to Chriſt, warrant the faithfull in the like kind of externall worſhip, done to holy perſons, places, and things. For what faithfull Chriſtian will graunt, that whatſoeuer may be done to Chriſtes owne perſon, their King, the ſame or the like may be done to any of his ſubiects? much leſſe to any places or other dead things. Such ſhameles collections as this, may warrant all Idolatrie and Hereſie.

Rhem. 2.

4. Inquired of them.) The high Prieſts were rightly conſulted in queſtion of their lawe and religion, and be they neuer ſo ill, are often forced to ſay the trueth by priuiledge of their vnction: as here and after, they did concerning the true Meſſias.

Fulke. 2.

Not the priuiledge of their vnction forceth the Prieſts ſometimes to ſay the trueth, for then they ſhould neuer lie, becauſe that priuiledge remaineth ſtill with them, but the will of God ſometimes expreſſeth the confeſſion of trueth, euen out of his aduerſaries. The priuiledge of Prieſtly vnction.

Rhem. 3. Adoration of the B. Sacra.

11. Adored him.) This body (ſaith S. Chryſoſtome.) the Sages adored in the cribbe. Let vs at the leaſt imitate them: thou ſeeſt him not now in the cribbe, but on the altar: not a woman holding him, but the Prieſt preſent, and the Holy Ghoſt powred out abundantly vpon the ſacrifice. Ho. 24. in 1. Cor. ho. 7. in Mt. de ſanct Philogonio.

Fulke. 3. Adoration of the B. Sacrament.

Chryſoſtome ſpeaketh not of adoration of the Sacrament, but of the reuerent comming to the participation of ỹ Lords Table, that they receiue it not vnworthely, as ỹ words going before & after do plainely declare: Immediatly before, he ſaith, How much the greater the benefite is which we receiue, ſo much the more we ſhalbe puniſhed, when we appeare vnworthy of it. And after he hath ſet foorth the example of the wiſe men, with many amplifications, he concludeth in theſe wordes: Let vs be ſtirred vp therefore, and be afraide, and ſhewe foorth greater pietie, than comming neither negligently, nor coldly, we offer our head to a more vehement fire. This I ſay not, that we ſhould not come at all, but that we ſhould not come raſhly. It is reuerence of the holy myſteries that he requireth, not worſhipping of the outward elements, as his owne wordes declare. Thou ſeeeſt him &c. not with the bodily eyes, but with the eyes of faith, as thou ſeeſt the holy Ghoſt powred foorth, whoſe nature to the bodily eye is altogether inuiſible, yet with the eyes of faith is ſeene, that is, certainely knowen to worke in the diuine myſteries, not tranſubſtantiation, whereof he neuer heard or thought, but the ſpirituall feeding of the faithfull, with the body and blood of Chriſt. Wherefore aſcend (ſaith he) to the gates of heauen, and marke diligently, yea rather not of heauen, but of the heauen of heauens, and then thou ſhalt beholde that we ſay: for that which is worthy of higheſt honour, I will ſhewe thee in earth: meaning the body of Chriſt, which (ſaith he) thou doeſt not onely ſee, but alſo handle and eate, &c. All which ſpeaches muſt be of neceſſitie vnderſtood of a ſpiritual maner, of ſeeing, handling, and eating by faith of the inward man, whereof he ſaith, Wipe thy ſoule therefore from all filthineſſe, and prepare thy mind to the receiuing of theſe myſteries.

Likewiſe Ho. 7. in Mat. he ſaith, they are like Herod, that abuſe vnworthely the communion of the myſterie of the body and blood of Chriſt, and rebuketh them, which refuſe to viſite Chriſt in his poore members, as the wiſe men did in the cribbe: likewiſe them that leaue Chriſt, in the ſpirituall cribbe, that is, that forſake the communion of the Lordes Table, and runne to filthie playes, vnto the Theater.

Finally Hom. de S. Philogonio, he vſeth the like exhortation by example of the wiſe men, to the worthie receiuing of the Lordes Supper, not to the adoring of the Sacrament after the popiſh maner: For if wee ſhall come with faith (ſaith he) out of doubt we ſhall ſee him lying in the Cribbe: for this table ſupplieth the place of the Cribbe: for here alſo the Lordes body is layd not wrapped in ſwadling clothes as then, but on euery ſide clothed with the holy Ghoſt: they which are admitted to theſe myſteries knowe what is ſaid. And the wiſe men truely did nothing but worſhip, but thee we will ſuffer, if thou ſhalt come with a pure conſcience to receiue it, and to depart after thou haſt receiued it. Here is no word of worſhipping of that which we ſee with our bodilie eyes, but to receiue him reuerently, whom we may ſee by faith: ſo that none of theſe places, faueur the kneeling and knocking, that is, the groſſe Idolatrie, maintcyned by the Papiſts vnto the ſacramentall bread and cuppe.

Rhem. 4. The three Kings.

11. Treaſures.) *Theſe treaſures are as it were the firſt fruites of thoſe riches and giftes, which (according to the Prophecies of Dauid and Eſay) Gentilitie ſhould offer to Chriſt and his Church, and nowe haue offered, ſpecially from the time of Conſtantine the great. As alſo theſe three Sages, being principall men of their Countrie, repreſent the whole ſtate of Princes, Kings, and Emperours, that were (according to the ſaid Prophecies) to beleeue in Chriſt, to humble themſelues to his croſſe, to foſter, enriche, adorne and defend his Church. Whereupon is is alſo a very conuenient and agreeable tradition of antiquitie, and a receiued opinion among the faithfull, *not lacking teſtimonies of auncient writers, and much for the honour of our Sauiour, that theſe three alſo were kings, to wit, either according to the ſtate of thoſe Countries, where the Princes were Magi, *and *Magi the greateſt about the Princes: or as we reade in the Scriptures, of Melchiſedec king of Salem, and many other kings that dwelt within a ſmall compaſſe: or as Iobs three friends are called kings. Theſe are commonly called the three kings of Colen, becauſe their bodies are there, tranſlated thither from the Eaſt Countrie: their names are ſaid to haue bene Gaſpar, Melchior, Baltaſar.

Fulke. 4. In Mat. Hom. 6. Three kings of Colen.

It is a meere fable without ground of antiquity, or any probability, that theſe Philoſophers were kings, which being much for the honour of Chriſt (as you ſay,) the Euangeliſt would not haue omitted. Chryſoſtome ſaith, ỹ the Iewes ought to haue perceaued, how great dignity was added vnto them, by the nativity of ſo great a king, which by his triumphant birth, had drawen the king of Perſians vnto him, and vnder whom they might ſubdue all people. But it is againſt reaſon, that the king of Perſia, which was at ỹ time a great Monarch, came to Hieruſalem. And Chryſoſtome ſpeaking of the Magi, neuer giueth them any honorable title meete for Kings, but ſpeaketh more contemptibly of them then he ſhoulde. for he ſaith they were vngodly and barbarous men, 1. Cor. Ho. 24. Therefore he meaneth not, that the king of Perſia came in perſon,but that by preaching of the wiſe men,when they returned into their country, the king of Perſia might be brought to the knowledge of his natiuity.

Theophylact a more late writer,ſayth, the Iewes ſhould haue reioyced, that they ſhould haue ſuch a king,as ſhould be worſhipped of the Perſian kings. Where,if he meane that theſe Magi were kings,he goeth againſt all ſtories,which tell that there was but one king of the Perſians at once.And for the number of them,the author of the vnperfect worke,that goeth vnder the name of Chryſoſtome, being as ancient as he,out of an olde ſtory ſayth,they were twelue in number,Philoſophers and wiſe men,not kinges. But they that feyned the names,might feyne the number,and the deportation of their bodies from the Eaſt, where they ſlept many hundred yeeres,to Collen. Sauing that it is too impudent a fiction, to place them in two cities at once. for Millain maketh as good clayme,and ſheweth as good euidence for their bodies,as Collen.But the monſters of Popiſh reliques paſſe all Ouids Metamorphoſes. Rhem. 11 Gifts.) Theſe Sages were three,and their gifts three,and eche one offered euery of the three, to expreſſe our faith of the Trinitie.The Gold,to ſignifie that he was a King: the frankincenſe, that he was God: the myrrhe, that he was to be buried as man. Aug.ſer.1.de Epiph.

15 Out of Aegypt.) This place of the Prophet (and the like in the New Teſtament) here applied to Chriſt, whereas in the letter it might ſeeme otherwiſe,teacheth vs how to interprete the old Teſtament, and that the principall ſenſe is of Chriſt and his Church.

Rhem.5. 16 Murdered.) By this example we learne how great credite we owe to the Church in Canonizing Sainctes, and celebrating their holye daies: by whoſe onely warrant, without any worde of Scripture, theſe holy Innocents haue bene honoured for Martyrs,and their holye daye kept euer ſince the Apoſtles time, although they died not voluntarily,nor all perhaps circumciſed,and ſome the children of Pagans. Aug.ep.28.Orig. hom 3 in diuerſos. Canonizing of Sainctes.

Fulke 5. Sanct.2. Neither Origen, nor Auguſtine, nor any ancient writer affirmeth, that euery one of thoſe children was an holye Martyr, neyther are you able to proue it. Macrobius writeth, that one of the ſonnes of Herod him ſelfe, that was nurſed in thoſe partes, was ſlayne among the reſt. I ſuppoſe it is not neceſſary to beleeue, that Herods childe was a Sayne. Neyther doe I thinke,that they which inſtituted that feaſt, ment to canonize him for a Sayne,or euery Pagans ſonne, if any ſuch were amongſt them. As for them that were not circumciſed, becauſe they were not eyght dayes olde, there is no cauſe: why we ſhould thinke them to be damned, ſeeing the Sacrament of Circumciſion could not be miniſtred before the eight day. Before which age,it is not to be doubted,but that many thouſands of the Iewes infantes dyed. Where you ſay,their holy day hath bene kept euer ſince the Apoſtles tyme, you are bold to affirme, that you are not able to proue.Auguſtine ſpeaketh but of his owne tyme. The Homilies in diuerſos, which goe vnder Origens name,(as Eraſmus telleth you) be not all his,but written by ſome Latine author,and thoſe that were his,are corrupted by Ruffine.So that you come not clearely to the tyme of Origen, and though you did, you were ſhort of the Apoſtles tyme.And the author of that Homily in diuerſos,alleageth the holy Fathers, not the Apoſtles,for commaunding the celebration of their memorye. And certaine it is,that before the tyme of Conſtantine the Great,that gaue peace to the Church, there were not many feſtiuall dayes obſerued.Inſomuch,that the feaſtes of the Natiuity of Chriſt,Eaſter,and Pentecoſt,were not vniformely obſerued in all places,for many yeeres after,as appeareth by Con. Aurel. 4. c.1. Tolet.10.c.1. Brac.2.c.9.And Beda in diuerſe places de temporis ratione, &c. Finally,what iudgement ſoeuer the Church in old tyme had in canonizing of Saintes,as you terme it,or in defining who were holy, nothing pertayneth to the Popes maner of canonization,which is a curious,coſtly,and theatricall pompe,vnmeete for the ſimplicity of the Church of Chriſt,and meete for the brauery of the whore of Babylon.Where neuertheles for the credite of his canonization,you may ſee a proteſtation that the Pope maketh,if it happen he be deceiued,in the perſon to be canonized.And the author of the booke ſayth vpon good teſtimony, that the Pope was once compelled to canonize one againſt his opinion.Againe,what ſure credite can there be of the Popes canonization,when euery Pope hath authority to diſanull and inhibite all the acts of his Predeceſſor, as the famous tragedy of Formoſus,and his acts,ſo often confirmed and diſanulled, his dead body mangled,and then reuerenced as a Saint,by the images in S.Peters Church,(if your ſtories doe not lie,) doeth abundantly teſtifie.Herm. Iohn Baptiſt by his Eremites life,by his preaching and baptiſme, calleth all vnto penance,to prepare them to Chriſt.

10. He preacheth to the Phariſees and Sadducees,threatening to them (vnles they truely doe penance) reprobation here and damnation hereafter: and for ſaluation ſendeth them to Chriſt and his baptiſme. which being far more excellent then Iohns,yet Chriſt himſelfe among thoſe penitents vouchſafeth to come vnto Iohns baptiſme. where he hath teſtimonie from heauen alſo.

*4 * This Iohn had his rayment of Camels heare,and a letherne girdle about his loynes,his meate*

5 Then went forth to him Hieruſalem & al Iewrie, & all the countrey about Iordan:

6 And were baptized of him in Iordan, ‖ confeſſing their ſinnes.

7 And ſeeing many of the Phariſees & Sadducees cõming to his baptiſme, he ſaid to them, Ye vipers broode, who hath ſhewed you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Yeelde therefore ‖ fruite worthy of penance.

9 And delite not to ſaye within your ſelues, we haue Abraham to our father. for I tell you that God is able of theſe ſtones to raiſe vp children to Abraham.

12 Whoſe fanne is in his hand, and he ſhall cleane purge his ‖ floore, and he will gather his wheate into the barne, but the chaffe he will burne with vnquẽchable fire.

13 Then cõmeth IESVS from Galilee to Iordan, vnto Iohn, to be baptized of him.

14 But Iohn ſtaied him, ſaying, I ought to be baptized of thee, and commeſt thou to me?

15 And IESVS anſwering, ſaid to him, Suffer me for this time. for ſo it becõmeth vs to fulfil all iuſtice. Then he ſuffered him.

16 And IESVS being baptized, forthwith came out of the water: and loe, the heauens were ‖ opened to him: and he ſaw the Spirite of God deſcending as a doue, and comming vpon him.

15 Ieſus anſwering, ſaid vnto him, Suffer it to be ſo now: for thus it becommeth vs to fulfill all righteouſnes. Then he ſuffred him.

16 And Ieſus, when he was baptized, went vp ſtraight way out of the water: and loe, the heauens were opened vnto him: and Iohn ſaw the ſpirite of God deſcending like a doue, and lighting vpon him.

Fulke. 1. Your popiſh Eremites, as the places of their Ermitages yet remaining in England doe declare, dwelt not in deſert or ſolitarie places, but for the moſt part, neare great cities and populous townes, and in auſteritie of life, were not ſo much as ſhadowes of the old Eremites, of whom there is mention in the auncient Fathers writings. Of whoſe profeſſion yet Iohn the Baptiſt was not author, becauſe his office was ſingular, neither doth any of the old Fathers ſo call him, although ſome ſay, he was the chiefe of them, that ledde a ſolitarie life in the wildernes, whereof you may reade more at large in my Treatiſe againſt the defence of the Cenſure giuen of Maiſter Charkes booke, fol. 2. The Centuriaſts in deede ſay, that Chryſoſtome ſpake ſomewhat raſhly, and againſt the trueth of the thing, where he maketh Iohn Baptiſt, Prince of all Monkes. Hom. 1. in Marc. and Hom. 69. in 21. Matth. not content to ſay, they leade an Angels life, and talke freely with God, but alſo, that their ſoule is without all griefes and paſſion, and their bodie is ſuch as Adams was, before his ſinne, which is contrary to the doctrine of Originall ſinne. Nowe whether theſe thinges were written by Chryſoſtome aduiſedly, and truely, I appeale to your owne iudgements, which I knowe to be very corrupt, yet I thinke none of you hath the face, to defende all thoſe wordes, as they lye, without any cauillation, to bee true and Catholike doctrine. But hereof I haue written more at large, in the ouerthrowe of the anſwere to Maiſter Charkes Preface, pag. 81. and ſo foorth to pag. 94. where alſo the other ſlaunder of the auſteritie of S. Iohn life, peruerted by Proteſtantes, is throughly handled. Therefore I will briefly touch it in this place. First all Proteſtants doe graunt, the auſteritie of S. Iohns life, in the place of his abode, in his apparell, and in his diet: yet they doe not place it onely in theſe. And although they ſay, the deſert had townes and villages not farre off, as the trueth is, yet they acknowledge it was a ſolitarie place. They that ſay his garment was chamblet, ſpeake not of fine chamblet, but of a rough and courſe cloth, made of the great and hard haires of Camels, not of the fine and ſoft haires, called Camels wooll, whereof our chamblet and grograine are made. For his meate, they ſay, it was Locuſtes, which are vſuall to be eaten in that countrey: and wilde honye, or dewe honye, which there alſo is common. Not therby making him a common man, or a delicate perſon, but a man of ſtraight life, and auſtere conuerſation, whereof in the place before noted, you may ſee more at large, what the Proteſtants write thereof.

2. Doe penance.) So is the Latine, word for word, ſo readeth all antiquitie, namely S. Cyprian ep. 52. often, and S. Auguſtine li. 13. Confeſ. c. 12. and it is a very vſuall ſpeach in the New Teſtament, ſpecially in the preaching of S. Iohn Baptiſt. Chriſt himſelfe, and * the Apoſtles: to ſignifie perfect repentance, which hath not onely confeſſion and amendment, but contrition or ſorow for the offence, and painefull ſatisfaction: ſuch as S. Cyprian ſpeaketh of in all the foreſaid epiſtle. But the Aduerſaries of purpoſe (as * namely Beza proteſteth) miſlike that interpretation, becauſe it fauoureth Satisfaction for ſinne, which they can not abide. where if they pretend the ‡ Greeke word, we ſende them to theſe places Mat. 11, 21. Lu. 10, 13. 2. Cor. 7, 9. where it muſt needes ſignifie, ſorowful, painefull, and ſatisfactorie repentance. we tell them alſo that * S. Baſil a Greeke Doctor calleth the Niniuites repentance with faſting and hearecloth and aſhes, by the ſame Greeke word μετάνοια. And more we will tell them in other places.*

Penance.

Μετανοεῖτε.

Μετάνοια.

Fulke. 2. When you vnderſtand by penance, ſatisfaction for ſinne, doe penance, is not the Engliſh for the Latine, Agite panitentiam, neither in word, nor ſence. And that your Interpretor meant no more in Agite panitentiam, then repentance, his owne tranſlation of the ſame Greeke word Marke 1. 15. is manifeſt, where you are content to ſay, be penitent. Againe, to require ſatisfaction in them that are to be baptized, is againſt your owne popiſh learning: for many of you hold, that there is free remiſſion of all ſinnes without any ſatisfaction in Baptiſme. As for the painefull ſatisfaction, that S. Cyprian ſpeaketh of, is ment of ſatisfaction vnto the Church, that is offended, to be made by them, that had fallen vnto denial of Chriſt, or Idolatry, through terrour of perſecution: by ſuch meanes to giue outward teſtimony of the inward ſorow of their hearts, for ſo greeuous offences, not to make amends to the iuſtice of God for their ſinne. Neither was that publike ſatisfaction required of euery one that ſinned, but onely of thoſe that had fallen openly, and grieuouſly, into ſome heynous crime. And Beza doth iuſtly miſlike your tranſlation, becauſe in ſhewe of wordes, though not in the meaning of the Tranſlator, it fauoureth that blaſphemous doctrine of ſatisfaction for ſinne vnto the righteouſnes of God, which was throughly performed by the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. But that the Greeke worde ſignifieth ſatisfactorie penance, you ſend vs firſt to Matth. 11. 21. where our Sauiour ſayth, Tyre and Sidon would haue repented in ſackecloth and aſhes, but neuer a word of ſatisfaction. for ſitting in ſackecloth and aſhes, is no ſatisfaction for ſinne, but an outward ſigne of true ſorow for ſinne, and humbling of the ſoule to deſire forgiuenes of ſinnes. Neither is there one word more, Luke 10. 13. whither you ſend vs next. In the third place, 2. Cor. 7. 9. Paul ſayth, he is glad, that they ſorrowed vnto repentance. for the ſorrow that is after God worketh repentance, vnto ſaluation not to be repented of. What word is here ſounding for ſatisfaction? As for godly ſorrow, and griefe of minde, to be neceſſary vnto true repentance, we neuer will deny, but that this ſorrow, is any ſatisfaction to Gods iuſtice, (as an horrible blaſphemy,) we vtterly abhorre to heare of it. But where Scripture helpeth you not, you tel vs, that S Baſill calleth the Niniuites repentance, with faſting, hearecloth, and aſhes, by the ſame Greeke word μετάνοια, and we acknowledge as much, becauſe our Sauiour Chriſt calleth there repentance by the ſame word μετάνοια, Math. 12. 41. But where is ſatisfaction? S. Baſill in the place by you noted, plainely ſheweth the vſe of ſackecloth and aſhes, and ſuch like outward ſignes. Sackecloth (ſayth he) is an helper vnto repentance, being a ſigne of humiliation: he ſayth not it is a part of repentance, as you ſay, ſatisfaction is. What you will tell vs in other places, is preuented by your forerider Gregory Martin, and is anſwered by me, cap. 13. of my Defence, and ſhall alſo in the proper places receyue a breefe, and yet ſufficient anſwere.

Satisfaction.

Rhem. 3. 6. Confeſſing their ſinnes.) Iohn did prepare the way to Chriſt and his Sacraments, not onely by his baptiſme, but by inducing the people to confeſſion of their ſinnes, which is not to acknowledge themſelues in generall to be ſinners, but alſo to vtter euery man his ſinnes.

Fulke. 3. If generall confeſſion was not ſufficient, but euery man muſt vtter all his ſinnes in particular, Iohn had ſhriuing ſhriuing worke inough,for ſeuen yeeres,to heare the confeſſions of Ieruſalem, and all Iewry, and all the country about Iordan,of whome neuer a man was euer ſhriuen before, and therefore euery mans confeſſion muſt be very long.O Papiſts bluſh you not at this impudent collection? Shrift or confeſſion.

Rhem. 4. 8. Fruite worthy.) He preacheth ſatisfaction by doing worthy fruites or workes of penance,which are (as S. Hierom ſaith in 2.Ioel) faſting,praying,almes,and the like.

Fulke 4. Fruites worthy of repentance are no ſatisfaction for ſinne, but arguments of true repentance, effectes of repentance,and not part of it. Neyther doth Hierom ſay,that faſting, prayers, &c. are ſatisfaction for ſinne,but tokens of repentance. *Conuertimini ad me,&c.Be ye conuerted to me with all your heart. Et animi panitentiam ieiunio,& fletu,& planctibus indicate.And declare the repentance of your minde,with faſting, and weeping,and mourning.*And afterward he ſayth,Deſpaire not of pardon, through the greatnes of your wickednes,for great mercie ſhall wipe away great ſinnes. S.Hierom knew not ſatisfaction for ſinnes.

Rhem.5. 10. The axe.) Here Preachers are taught to dehort from doing euill for feare of Hel,and to exhort to doe good in hope of heauen: which kind of preaching our Aduer.doe condemne.

Fulke.5. They that heare vs preach,can teſtifie that you lye: although we exhort not men to doe good onely in hope of reward,but rather in duty and thankefulnes to God,that God may be glorified by their good conuerſation,and not diſhonoured by their wickednes,which profeſſe his name,and deſpiſe his lawes.

Rhem. 6. 11. In water.) Iohns baptiſme did not remit ſinnes,nor was comparable to Chriſts Baptiſme,as here it is plaine and in many other places. Hiero.adu.Lucifer.Aug de Bapt.cont.Donar.li.5.c.9.10.11. Yet it is an article of our Aduer. that there is no better then the other which they ſay not to extol Iohns, but to derogate from Chriſtes baptiſme, ſo far,that they make it of no more valure or efficacie for remiſſion of ſinnes,& grace,and iuſtification,then was Iohns: thereby to maintaine their manifold hereſies,that Baptiſme taketh not away ſinnes, that a man is no cleanner iuſtified by the Sacrament of Baptiſme then before,that it is not neceſſary for children vnto ſaluation, but it is inough to be borne of Chriſtian parents,and ſuch like erroneous poſitions well knowen among the Caluiniſts. Iohns baptiſme & Chriſts.

Fulke 6. Remiſſion of ſinnes is proper vnto God, aſwell in Iohns baptiſme, as in the baptiſme of Chriſt. Iohn here compareth the miniſtery of man,with the authority and power of God. The outward baptiſme,with the ſpirituall baptiſme,whereof the firſt is done by the hand of man, the other is peculiar onely vnto our Mar.1.4. Sauiour Chriſt.And though ſome of the ancient Fathers, were of another opinion,yet S. Marke ſayth expreſly,that Iohn preached the baptiſme of repentance, vnto forgiuenes of ſinnes. And who can ſeperate Eezec.18. remiſſion of ſinnes from true repentance? when the Lord promiſeth,at what time ſoeuer the ſinner repenteth ,to pardon his ſinne.The ſeale of baptiſme alſo,added to the doctrine of repentance,muſt needes teſtifie remiſſion of ſinnes.namely the ſoule to be waſhed by mercy, as the body is with water. Neither doth this doctrine, derogate any thing from the baptiſme of Chriſt,ſeeing it is Chriſt, that forgiueth ſinnes,and geueth grace in the baptiſme miniſtred by Iohn, and miniſtred by his Apoſtles.For Iohns baptiſme was of Gods inſtitution,and not of Iohns deuiſing.And touching the manifold hereſies, that you charge vs with, I anſwer,that God by baptiſme aſſureth his children, of the remiſſion of their ſinnes, not that the acte of baptiſme,(as your hereſie maintaineth,)of the work wrought,taketh away ſinne,though a man were baptized being a ſleepe.To the ſecond I anſwer,that a true chriſtian,is aſſured by the Sacrament of baptiſme, of ſaluation,and therefore to be cleanſed and iuſtified from his ſinnes,not onely that he committed before Marc.16.16. baptiſme,but that of frailty he committeth to the end of his life.Which your hereſie will not allow, extending the effect and vertue of baptiſme,onely to the tyme before the Sacrament receiued, which in them that are baptized being infants, is but ſhort , and for little more then originall ſinne For the third we anſwer,that the ſaluation of children,dependeth not vpon the outward ſigne, and yet it is neceſſary, that the children of Chriſtian parents be baptized, if they may attayne to the Sacrament, according to Chriſtes inſtitution.For ỹ contempt,& not ỹ want of baptiſme (where there is no default in the party) is damnable. Iohns baptiſme. Slaunder.

Rhem.7. 12. Floore.) This floore is his Church militant here in earth, wherein are both good and bad (here ſignified by corne and chaffe) til the ſeparation be made in the day of iudgement: contrary to the doctrine of the Heretikes, that hold the Church to conſiſt onely of the good.

Fulke 7. We abhorre the hereſie of them that hold the Church viſible or militant in earth, to conſiſt onely of the good.But the heauenly Ieruſalem which is the mother of vs all, the vniuerſall Church and bodye of Chriſt,conſiſteth onely of Gods elect,and members of Chriſt ordeyned to eternall ſaluation. Sclander.

Rhem.8. 16. Opened. To ſignifie that heauen was ſhut in the old Law,til Chriſt by his Paſſion opened it,and ſo by his Aſcenſion was the firſt that entered into it: contrary to the doctrine of the Heretikes. See Hebr.9,8.and 11,40.

Fulke 8. Chriſt was the firſt,that aſcended in body into heauen , as he was the firſt fruites of the dead: the firſt that roſe agayne to liue euer.But ſeeing the vertue of his death and reſurrection, were as auaileable to the Fathers vnder the Law,as vnto vs:to ſatisfie for their ſinnes, and to make them righteous , as it is to vs:we doubt not,but the ſoules of the Fathers,were in heauen, paradiſe, or Abrahams boſome, euen where the ſoules of the faithfull departed are now.For the Apoſtle Heb.9.8.meaneth,that the way to heauen was not opened by the prieſthood and ſacrifices of the Lawe, but by the prieſthood and ſacrifice of Chriſt. And Heb.11.40.where he ſayth,the Fathers receiued not the promiſes , it is plaine,he ſpeaketh of the full conſummation of them,which none ſhall receiue vntill the ende of the world, when they with vs,and we with them,ſhall be made perfect together. ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1. 1. Deſert.) As Iohn the Baptiſt, ſo our Sauiour by going into the deſert and there liuing in contemplation emong brute beaſts, and ſubiect to the aſſaults of the Diuel for our ſinnes, geueth a warrant and example to ſuch holy men as haue lined in wilderneſſe for penaunce and contemplation, called Eremites. Eremites.

Fulke 1. Chriſt went into the wildernes, neither for penance, nor contemplation, but as the text ſayth, that he might be tempted of the Deuill. Which no Chriſtian ought to doe, to offer himſelfe to temptation, therefore his going is no warrant, nor example vnto Heremites. Secondly, he went by ſpeciall inſtinct, and leading of the ſpirite, which warranteth not men that are ledde by their owne will and affection. Thirdly, Chriſt remained in the wildernes, for a ſhort ſeaſon. Therefore is no example for them that ſpend their life in the wildernes. Fourthly, he faſted forty dayes, which no man can doe of his owne ſtrength. And yet condemne we not the contemplatiue life of them, that of olde went into the wildernes, ſo the Church had no neede of their ſeruice in townes and cities, but to ſhew the vanitie of your collection. As for your popiſh Heremites in England, neuer came in the wildernes, but oftentimes in the cities, and townes: ſometime by your leaue in the ſtewes. As Steuen Gardiner, if he were liuing, could teſtifie, of one brought before him. Eremites.

Auguſtine ſaith ep. 119) immediatly before Eaſter, thereby to communicate with our Sauiours Paſſion: and (as other writers doe adde) thereby to come the better prepared and more worthily to the great ſolemnitie of Chriſtes Reſurrection: beſide many other goodly reaſons in the auncient fathers which for breuitie we omitte. Ambr. de Quadrag. ſer 36. 34 Hier. ep. 54. ad Marcel. a. lu. Montanum,

Aug. Ser. 69. de temp.

Fulke. 2. Montanus the heretike, (as Euſebius teſtifieth out of Apollonius) was ỹ firſt that preſcribed lawes of faſting. Eccl. hiſt. li 5. c. 18. And Irenæus ſaith in his Epiſtle to Victor, that as there was in his time variety in obſeruing ỹ feaſte of Chriſts reſurruction, ſo in keeping the faſt that went before it. For ſome (ſaith he) thought they ought to faſt one day, ſome two daies, ſome more, ſome fourty houres day and night. which diuerſitie of faſting (he ſaith) commended the vnitie of faith and religion. Euſeb. lib. 5. c. 26. Irenæus therefore diſcharged your 40. daies Lent of the Apoſtles inſtitution. Now let vs examine, what you bring out of later writers, amonge whome I accompt Ignatius, though his Epiſtle haue the name of a more ancient writer. But S. Ierome in Cat. knew no Epiſtle of his to the Philippians. And the authentical teſtimony of Irenæus cited by Euſebius, of the diuerſity of faſting, manifeſtly declareth, that there was no ſuch Lent, as that Epiſtle nameth, in the daies of Ignatius, who was an immediat ſucceſſor of the Apoſtles. And albeit, there was an ancient faſt of 40. daies before Eaſter, yet was not that your popiſh Lent, where fleſh is prohibited, & fiſh permitted, but a time of abſtinence in deed. The teſtimonie of S. Hierom, which you expound for Lent, hath neuer a word of Lent, nor for Lent. For there were other ſolemne daies of faſting in the Church, then Lent. S. Auguſtine in deede ſayth, that the 40. daies faſt, hath authoritie of the example of Moſes, Lent. Faſting.

Moſes, Helias, and Chriſt, and that the conſent of the Church, hath eſtabliſhed the ſame 40. dayes, to be kept before Eaſter, not as a thing neceſſary, but as other rites, which he nameth, not nowe obſerued of the Papiſtes themſelues. And further the abſtinence from fleſh as vncleane, he condemneth as hereſie. And Hierom againſt Montanus, although he aſcribe the 40. dayes faſt to Apoſtolicall tradition, becauſe it hath no ground in the Scripture, yet he ſheweth plainely, that it was of good will, and not of neceſſitie. Whereas the Heretikes had three Lents in the yeere, which they commanded to be kept of neceſſitie, but it is one thing (ſayth Hierome) to doe a thing of neceſſitie, another thing to offer a gift of good will. And leaſt his aſcription of the 40. dayes faſt, vnto the Apoſtles tradition, ſhould moue vs: in the ſame place he ſaith, it was not lawefull for Chriſtians to faſt in the Pentecoſt, that is, from Eaſter to Whitſontide, and this prohibition of faſting, is alſo by the ancient Fathers, affirmed to be an Apoſtolicall tradition. Yet the counterfet Ignatius, in that his Epiſtle to the Philippians, exhorteth them after Paſſion weeke, not to omit faſting, on wedneſdayes and fridayes. But if any man ſhall faſt (ſayth he) on Sunday or Saterday (except one) he is a murtherer of Chriſt. Behold how hoat this counterfet Father is, about his counterfet traditions. You ſee what credite is to be giuen to ſuch things, as are aſcribed to tradition of the Apoſtles, without warrant of their owne writings. Epiphanius affirmeth it to be an Apoſtolike tradition, that men ſhould faſt wedneſdayes and fridayes throughout the yeere, except in the Pentecoſt, that is, from Eaſter to Whitſontide: and in the ſixe dayes of Eaſter, to receiue nothing but bread, and ſalt, and water, Hæreſ. 75. And this he ſayth, was the obſeruation of the whole Church in his time. Yet the Papiſtes, faſt fridaies betweene Eaſter and Whitſontide, beſide the Rogation weeke, and faſt not Wedneſdayes commonly, neither obſerue the feaſt of the ſixe dayes of Eaſter, with bread, and ſalt, and water. Yet haue theſe as good teſtimony of antiquitie, as the Lent-faſt, to be Apoſtolicall tradition. The ſermons of Ambroſe, that are alleadged (as Eraſmus teſtifieth, and the ſtile doth euidently declare) were none of S. Ambroſe his making, but of ſome later writer, which counterfeyted the ſermons Ad fratres in Eremo, & ſome De tempore vnder S. Auguſtines name, among which are found many, that are entituled to Ambroſe. To the authoritie of Leo Biſhop of Rome, calling Lent the Apoſtles ordinance, I oppoſe the authoritie of Damaſus, likewiſe a Biſhop of Rome in his Pontifical, affirming that Teleſphorus Biſhop of Rome, did inſtitute it. And Teleſphorus himſelfe in his Decretall Epiſtle, ſayth, That he and his fellow Biſhops, gathered together in councell at Rome, did ordaine this 40. dayes faſt, onely for Clarkes: and contendeth in many wordes, that there muſt be a difference betweene Clarkes and Lay men, as well in faſt, as in other things. Yf you ſay this Epiſtle of Teleſphorus is counterfet, yet is it good authoritie againſt you, that vrge it, with the reſt of that dunghill of Decretalls, againſt vs. But the vndoubted authoritie of Irenæus, cited by Euſebius, is ſufficient to proue, that the Apoſtles left no ſuch certaine conſtitution, whatſoeuer the later Fathers affirme of Apoſtolike tradition, as they doe of other things, which neither Papiſtes nor Proteſtantes, coumpt neceſſary to be obſerued. The laſt authority, cited out of Auguſtine, proueth, that in his time, that did write that Homilie, there was no neceſſary enforcement to keepe Lent, but euery man did as he liked. But in all your citations of authors, true and fayned, there is no word of abſtinence from fleſh, which is the cheefeſt part of your popiſh Lent, but of faſting once in euery day, and that from dinner. Ambroſe ſer. 34. & 36. S. Barnard is a late writer, and therefore in opinion of Apoſtolike tradition, he might eaſily be deceaued, as the elder Fathers were.

Latria; Dulia.

Fulke 3. S. Aug. ſpeaketh of ỹ ciuil adoration, or reuerence in bodily geſture, done by Abraham vnto ỹ people of Heth. But by this text, all religious ſeruice is due onely to God. And although S. Auguſtine being a meane Grecian, imagined a diſtinction betweene Latria and Dulia, whereof the Papiſtes take holde, to maintaine their religious ſeruice vnto creatures: yet they that are skilfull in the Greeke tongue, doe knowe, that theſe two wordes ſignifie all one and the ſame thing, ſauing that δουλεύειν rather ſignifieth a more baſe kinde of ſeruice or bondage, which were abſurd to giue to creatures, in religion. And the Hebrew word, that Moſes vſeth (out of whome this Scripture is cited) ſignifieth the ſame that δουλεύειν doth, without any difference of God, or creatures. The diſtinction therefore, is not in the ſignification of the Greeke Verbes, but in the ſubiect, of religion, or ciuill adoration or ſeruice.

Latria and Dulia.

The place of Euſebius, whereunto you ſend vs, is of the body of Polycarpus, which the Chriſtians were deſirous to haue bene giuen them, to burial, but the malitious Iewes, perſwaded the gouernor, that he ſhould not graunt it, leaſt the Chriſtians leauing Chriſt, ſhould begin to worſhip Polycarpus. And therefore ſay the faythfull of Smyrna, in their Epiſtle: They watched vs, leſt we ſhould haue taken him out of the fire ἐγνωκότες οὖν ἡμεῖς τὸν, &c. being ignorant that neither we can euer leaue Chriſt, which hath ſuffered for all that are ſaued in the world, neither worſhip any other. For him we adore, as being the ſonne of God, but the Martyrs, as Diſciples and followers of our Lord, we loue worthely, for their exceeding great good will vnto their king and maiſter, of whome God graunt, we may be partakers and ſchollers. Therefore when the Centurion, ſawe the contention of the Iewes, ſetting him in the middeſt, as their manner is, they burnt him. And ſo we at length, hauing gotten his bones, more pretious, then pretious ſtones, and better tried then gold, we layed them vp where it was meete, where (as we may) the Lord ſhall graunt vnto vs, being gathered together with ioy and gladneſs, to celebrate the birth day of his martyrdome, both in remembrance of them that haue fought before, and for exerciſe and preparation, of them that are to follow.

uaile, why you quoted this place: but that I conſider, you redde it not in Euſebius him ſelfe, but in the olde and corrupt tranſlation of Ruffinus, where vnto the word diligimus is added, and veneremur which is not in the Epiſtle rehearſed by Euſebius. S Hierom indeed, againſt Vigilantius, is more ready to maintaine the immoderate eſtimation of reliques, then of right he ſhould haue bene. Yet is he alſo farre from your idolatrous worſhipping of them. as his owne words declare. Nos autem non, &c. But we do not worſhip and adore, I ſay not, reliques of martyrs, Ad Ripar. cont. Vigil. but neither the Sunne, nor the Moone, nor Angels, nor Archangels, nor Cherubin, nor Seraphin, nor any name that is named in this world, or in the world to come, leaſt we ſhould ſerue the creature more then the Creator, which is to be bleſſed for ever. But we honour the reliques of Martyrs, that we might worſhip him whoſe Martyrs they are. And in his booke againſt Vigilantius, he noteth the ignorance and ſimplicitie of certaine Lay men, or deuout women, which hauing a zeale of God without knowledge, lighted waxe candles in the honour of Martyrs, which in popery is a great part of commendable religion, euen in the honor of their images, which were not in the Church in S. Hieroms time. S. Auguſtine de Ciuit. lib. 10. c. 1 ſayth in deede, that by them which haue interpreted the Scripture, Latria is taken for that ſeruice which alwayes or almoſt alwayes, pertaineth to the religion of God. But Lodouicus Viues in his notes vpon that chapter, telleth you otherwiſe: he bringeth examples out of the Greeke text of the Septuaginta as wel as out of prophane authors, where Latria is taken for ſeruice due to men. And in the ſame chapter S. Auguſtine ſaith, that to conſecrate our ſelues, or any thing of ours in rites of religion to Angels (and conſequently to any creatures) is the worſhip due vnto the diuinitie or deitie it ſelfe, and that which in Greeke is called Latria. Therefore by S. Auguſtines iudgement, all your conſecrating of your ſelfe, or any thing of yours, to creatures, is idolatrie: and ſo the greateſt part of popiſh religion, euen reteyning your pretended diſtinction of Latria and Dulia, is manifeſt idolatrie. Candels.

Likewiſe de Trinit. Li. cap. 6. where he hath the ſame diſtinction of Latria and Dulia, he ſayth, it is idolatry, to conſecrate a temple to any creature, & thereby proueth, the diuinity of the holy Ghoſt, becauſe our bodies are his temple. For to whom a temple belongeth, to him alſo that ſeruice which he calleth Latria. The Papiſts therfore, building & dedicating temples to the Angels, & Saints, by S. Auguſtines iudgement, giue them the honour proper to God, & ſo commit horrible ſacriledge, & idolatry. Beda in 4. Luc. diſtinguiſhing Latria from Dulia, referreth Dulia to the ſeruice of charity, that one Chriſtian oweth to another, not to the worſhipping of reliques, & ſaith they are called Idolaters, which beſtow vpon Idols, Vowes, Prayers, & ſacrifices, which they owe onely to God. Seeing therfore al that is made an idol, which is worſhipped, with the ſeruice proper to God: & praiers, vowes, ſacrifices, by Bedes iudgement, are due only to God, it followeth that praiers, vowes, & ſacrifices, beſtowed not only vpon images, but vpon Saints, & their reliques, are the ſeruice of idols, or idolatry. As for the authority of the 2. Councell of Nice, that decreed ỹ adoration of images, & of Damaſcen, that followeth that idolatrous determination, ought not to moue Chriſtian men, contrary to the expreſſe cõmandement of God, Ex. 20. & againſt this Councel, I oppoſe Conc. Eliber. Can. 36. that was ancienter, & the Councels of Conſtantinople vnder Leo, & of Epheſus, that were of later time, condemning the worſhipping of images. 26 Verily I ſay vnto thee, thou ſhalt by no meanes come out thence, till thou haſt paide the vttermoſt farthing.

*27 Ye haue heard that it was ſaide vnto them of old time, * Thou ſhalt not commit adulterie.* Exod.20.14

28 But I ſay vnto you, that whoſoeuer looketh on a woman to luſt after her, hath committed adulterie with her already in his heart.

*29 * If thy right eye offend thee, plucke it out, and caſt it from thee: For it is profitable for thee that one of thy members ſhould periſh, and not that thy whole body ſhould be caſt into hell.* Matth.18.1. mark 9 47.

30 And if thy right hand offende thee, cut it of, and caſt it frõ thee: For it is profitable for thee that one of thy members ſhould periſh, and not that all thy body ſhould be caſt into hell.

32 But I ſay vnto you, That whoſoeuer doeth put away his wife, except it be for fornication, cauſeth her to commit adulterie: and whoſoeuer marrieth her that is diuorced, committeth adulterie.

MARGINALL NOTES.

Rhem.1. 26. Priſon.) This priſon is taken of very auncient fathers, for Purgatorie: namely S. Cypr.ep. ad Anton. nu.6.

Fulke.1. This priſon by Carpocrates, a very auncient heretike, was taken for the bodies, into which the ſoule was remoued by the deuill, vntill it was throughly purified, Irenæus lib.1.c.24. But of Montanus, an olde heretike alſo, it was taken for a place in hell, where euery ſmall offence is puniſhed in ſoule, although it ſhall be ſaued in the reſurrection, as teſtifieth Tertullian de anima cap. de infer. & An aliquid patiantur. &c. By which it appeareth, that the opinion of Purgatorie, is very auncient. Neuertheleſſe it is not like that Cyprian, who was farre from theſe hereſies, in the forenamed Epiſtle, ſpeaketh of Purgatorie: for he onely alludeth to this text, and to the 1.Cor.3. comparing the excellencie of them that ſuffered martirdome, aboue them that had fallen in time of perſecution, and were receiued againe into the Church, either by pardon of their exerciſes of repentance, that were preſcribed vnto them, or after they had throughly performed them: becauſe Antonianus, to whom he did write, being ſomewhat enclining to the error of the Nouatians, feared leaſt by the receiuing of them that had fallen, and by remitting thoſe exerciſes of repentance, vertue would be diminiſhed and martyrdome decaie. But Cyprian anſwereth, that chaſtitie, and virginitie, had their due prayſe, though adulterers vpon their repentance were receiued: For it is one thing (ſaith he) to ſtand at pardon, another thing to come to glorie. It is one thing for him that is caſt in priſon, not to come out vntill he hath paide the vttermoſt farthing, another thing ſtraightway to receiue the reward of faith and vertue, &c. S. Auguſtine expoundeth the place clearelie of hell and eternall paines, Serm. dom. in monte lib.1. So doth S. Hierome in Lament. lib.1.cap.1. and Chromatius in 5. Mat. and many other of the auncient fathers. And the text is plaine, that he which is out of charitie, hath deſerued hell fire: and I ſuppoſe the Papiſtes will not ſend him to Purgatorie, that dieth out of charitie. Purgatorie.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 10. For iuſtice.) Heretikes and other malefactours ſometime ſuffer willingly and ſtoutly: but they are not bleſſed, becauſe they ſuffer not for iuſtice. For (ſayth Saint Auguſtine) they cannot ſuffer for iuſtice, that haue deuided the Church, and, where found faith or charitie is not, there cannot be iuſtice. Cont.epi.Parm.lib.1.c.9.Epi.50.Pſal.34.Conc.2. And ſo by this ſcripture are excluded all falſe Martyrs, as Saint Auguſtine often declareth, and S. Cypr.de Vnit.Eccl.nu.8. False martyrs.

Rhem.2. 12. Reward.) In Latine and Greeke the worde ſignifieth very wages and hire due for workes, and ſo preſuppoſeth a meritorious deede. Merces. Μισθὸς.

Fulke.2. The reward is promiſed of the free mercie of God, of whoſe grace, commeth ſtrength to endure perſecution, and not of the merite of the worke: For whence ſhould I haue ſo great merite (ſaith S. Ambroſe) ſeeing mercie is my crowne? ad Virg. Exhort. He crowneth thee (ſaith S. Auguſt.) becauſe he crowneth his gift s, not thy merites, in pſ.102. Merites.

Rhem.3. 15. The light.) This light of the world, and citie on a mountaine, and candle vpon a candleſticke, ſignifieth the Clergie, and the whole Church, ſo built vpon Chriſt the mountaine, that it muſt needes be viſible, and cannot be hid nor vnknowen. Auguſt.cont.Fulg.Donat.c.18. lib.16. cont. Fauſt.c.17. And therefore, the Church being a candell not vnder a buſhell, but ſhining to all in the houſe (that is) in the worlde, what ſhall I ſay more, (ſayth Saint Auguſtine) then that they are blinde which ſhut their eyes againſt the candle that is ſet on the candleſticke? Tract.2.in epi.1o. The Church viſible.

Fulke.3. When S. Auguſtine ſayth, the Church cannot be hid, he meaneth from them, that will diligently ſeeke her in the Scriptures, where onely the certaine knowledge of her is to be founde de Vnitat. Eccleſ. cap.2. & 3. & 16. de Paſt. Cap.14. Neuertheleſſe, he compareth her to the Moone, which is often hid, and ſo may the Church in diuers reſpects be hidden. In Pſalme 10. Alſo he acknowledgeth, that the Church may be ſo ſecret, Viſibilitie of the Church.

that the members knowe not one another, de Bapt. cont. Don lib.6. cap.4. And the Catholike Church which is the whole mysticall body of Chriſt,being an article of faith,is alwayes inuiſible.

Rhemes. 17. Your light.) The good life of the Clergie edifieth much,& is Gods great honor:whereas the cõtrary diſhonoreth him.

Rhem.4. 20. One of theſe.) Behold how neceſſarie it is,not only to beleeue,but to keepe al the cõmandemẽts,euen the very leaſt.

Fulke.4. It is neceſſarie for euery Chriſtian man,not only to beleeue,but to endeuour himſelfe to keepe euen the leaſt of Gods Commandements:yet is he iuſtified,and hath remiſſion of his ſinnes,and tranſgreſſions of Gods Commandements,onely by faith in the mercie of God,Rom.3.28.Galat.2.16.

Rhem.5. 21. Your iuſtice.) It is our iuſtice, when it is giuen vs of God. Aug. in Pſ.30.conc.1. De Sp.& lit.c.9. So that Chriſtians are truely iuſt,and haue in them ſelues inherent iuſtice, by doing Gods commandements, without which iuſtice of workes no man of age can be ſaued. Aug. de fid. & oper.c.16. whereby we ſee ſalnation, iuſtice, and iuſtification, not to come of onely faith,or imputation of Chriſtes iuſtice. True inherent iuſtice.

Fulke.5. The vertue of iuſtice, whereby we loue & keepe Gods commandements (though no man doth either of both perfectly)is vndoubtedly the gift of God, and is inherent in vs, that are iuſtified by the grace & mercie of God through faith,and of this vnperfect iuſtice,we are truely,yet vnperfectly,declared to be iuſt,without the workes whereof,no man of age can be ſaued.But yet for al this,we are iuſtified,or made iuſt in the ſight of God,by faith onely,through the imputation of Chriſtes iuſtice,and not by the workes of iuſtice, which as S. Auguſtine ſaith, doe followe him that is iuſtified,doe not goe before him that is to be iuſtified.in Pſ.102.de fid.& oper.c.14. Iuſtice inherent.

Rhem. 6. 23. Hell of fire.) Here is a plaine difference of ſinnes, ſome mortall that bring to Hell,ſome leſſe, and leſſe puniſhed, called veniall. Veniall ſinnes.

Fulke.6. The difference of ſinnes, proueth not that ſome are mortall, and ſome veniall: for all of their owne nature are mortall. The reward of ſinne (ſaith the Apoſtle) is death, Rom.6.23. and all ſinnes to him that is truely penitent,are pardonable by Gods mercie.He that ſinneth againſt the holy Ghoſt,is neuer truely penitent, nor his ſinne euer remitted,Hebr.6.Matth.12. Veniall ſinnes.

Rhem. 24. Gift at the altar.) *Beware of comming to the holy altar or any Sacrament out of charitie. But be firſt reconciled to thy brother, and much more to the Catholike Church, which is the whole brotherhood of Chriſtian men.*Hebr.13.1.

Rhem.7. 33. Excepting the cauſe of fornication.) This exception is onely to ſheewe,that for this one cauſe a man may put away his wife for euer: but not that he may marie another: as it is moſt plaine in S. Marke and S.Luke,who leaue out this exception, ſaying, Whoſoeuer dimiſſeth his wife and marieth another,committeth aduoutrie.See the Anno.Luk. 19.9.But if both parties be in one & the ſame faults,then can neither of them not ſo much as diuorce or put away the other.

Mar.10.11. Luk.16.18.

Fulke.7. S. Marke, and S. Luke, vnderſtand the exception which they doe not expreſſe, for they all report one doctrine of our Sauiour Chriſt: and the exception declareth, that not onely diuorcement,but alſo mariage after diuorcement is free, as it was in the Lawe, where fornication is the cauſe of diuorcement. The Popes Canon lawe reſtraineth the libertie of mariage and diuorcing, becauſe he may take more monie for bulles of licence and diſpenſation to marie. Mariage after diuorcement.

Rhem. 8. 33. Committeth aduoutrie.) The knot of mariage is a thing of ſo great a Sacrament,that not by ſeparation it ſelfe of the parties it can be looſed, being not Lawfull neither for the one part nor the other, to marie againe vpon diuorce. Auguſt. de bo. Coniug.c.7. Mariage a Sacrament,and is not diſſolued by diuorce.

Fulke. 8. The knot of mariage is broken, through the wickednes of them that commit fornication, and therefore this is to be vnderſtood of ſuch diuorces, as are not for the cauſe of fornication. Neither can mariage out of this place, be prooued to be a ſacrament, although Saint Auguſtine call it by the name of a ſacrament or myſterie.ſee the note Cap.1.20.But of marying after diuorce,Saint Auguſtine in the place before named,is doubtfull, although he encline to the negatiue, as in his booke de adulterinis Coniugijs ad Pollent. where he profeſſeth this queſtion to be moſt obſcure, and more then he dare determine: but Saint Hilarie maketh no queſtion, but that through adulterie the mariage ceaſeth, and is diſſolued in Mat.Can.4.

Rhem. 35. Not to ſweare.) The Anabaptiſts here not folowing the Churches iudgement, but the bare letter (as other Heretikes in other caſes) holde that there is no othe lawfull, no not before a iudge,whereas Chriſt ſpeaketh againſt raſh and vſuall ſwearing in common talke, when there is no cauſe.

Rhem. 9. 39. Not to reſiſt euill.) Here alſo the Anabaptiſts gather of the letter, that it is not lawfull to goe to Lawe for our right as Luther alſo vpon this place holde,that Chriſtians might not reſiſt the Turke. whereas by this, as by that which followeth, patience onely is ſignified and a will to ſuffer more, rather then to reuenge. For neither did Chriſt, nor Saint Paul folowe the letter by turning the other cheeke. Io.18.Act.23.

Fulke.9. This is a ſlaunder of Luther, he did write onely, that Chriſtians ſholde not hope to haue victorie againſt the Turkes, before the Church was reformed, and ỹ Popes wickednes was bridled, & mens maners were amended. Slaunder.

CHAP. VI.

In this ſecond Chapter of his Sermon,he controwleth the Phariſees iuſtice (that is,their almes, prayer, and faſting) for the ſcope and intention thereof, which was vaine glorie. 19. Their ende alſo was to be riche, but ours muſt not be ſo much as in neceſſaries.

TAke good heede that you doe not your ‖iuſtice before men,to be ſeene of them: otherwiſe reward you ſhall not haue with your father which is in heauen.

TAke heede that ye doe not your almes before men, to the intent that ye would be ſeene of them, or els ye haue no reward of your father, which is in heauen.

‡THE firſt worke of iuſtice.

2 Therefore when thou ‡doeſt an almes-deede, ſound not a trumpet before thee, as ỹ hypocrites doe in the Synagogues and in the* ſtreetes, ỹ they may be honored of men: Amẽ I ſay to you, they haue receiued their reward:

*2 Therefore, when thou doeſt thine almes, doe not blowe a trumpet before thee, as hypocrites doe,in the Synagogues,and in the ſtreetes,that they might be eſteemed of men. Verily I ſay vnto you, they haue their reward. Rom.12.8.

3 But

3 But when thou doeſt an almes-deede, let not thy left hande knowe what thy right hand doeth:

4 That thy almes-deede may be in ſecret, and thy father which ſeeth in ſecret, will ‖ repay thee. ☞

‡ THE Second worke of iuſtice.

5 And when ye ‡ pray, you ſhall not be as the ‖ hypocrites, that loue to ſtand and pray in the Synagogs and corners of the ſtreetes, that they may be ſeen of men: Amen I ſay to you, they haue receiued their reward.

6 But thou when thou ſhalt pray, enter into thy chamber, and hauing ſhut the doore, pray to thy father in ſecret: and thy Father which ſeeth in ſecret, will repay thee.

7 And when you are praying, ſpeake not much, as the heathen. For they thinke that in their ‖ much-ſpeaking they may be heard.

8 Bee not you therefore like to them, for your father knoweth what is needful for you, before you aske him.

Luke 11,2. The PATER NOSTER.

9 Thus therfore ſhal you pray. *OVR FATHER which art in heaue, ſanctified be thy name.

10 Let thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heauen in earth alſo.

‡ In S. Luke, the Latin is, Panem quotidianum, dayly bread, the Greeke being indifferent to both, ἐπιούσιον.

11 Giue vs to day our ‡ ſuperſubſtãtial bread.

12 And forgiue vs our ‖ dettes, as we alſo forgiue our detters.

13 And ‖ lead vs not into tentation. But deliuer vs from euil. Amen.

Mar.11,25.

14 For ‖ if you will *forgiue men their offenſes, your heauenly father will forgiue you alſo your offences.

15 But if you wil not forgiue men, neither wil your father forgiue you your offences.

‡ The thirde worke of iuſtice.

16 And when you ‡ faſt, be not as the hypocrites, ſad. For they diſfigure their faces, that they may appeare vnto men to faſt. Amen I ſay to you, that thei haue receiued their reward.

The Goſpel vpon Aſhwenſday.

17 But thou when thou doſt faſt, annoynt thy head, and waſh thy face:

18 That thou appeare not to men to faſt, but to thy father which is in ſecrete: and thy father which ſeeth in ſecret, will repay thee.

Luc.12,33.

19 *Heape not vp to your ſelues treaſures on the earth: where the ruſt & moth do corrupt, and where theeues digge through and ſteale.

20 But heape vp to your ſelues treaſures in heauen: where neither the ruſt nor mothe doth corrupt, & where theeues do not digge through nor ſteale.

21 For where thy treaſure is, there is thy hart alſo. ☞

Luc.11,34.

22 * The candel of thy body is thine eye.

If

3 But when thou doeſt almes, let not thy left hand know, what thy right hand doeth:

4 That thine almes may be in ſecret: And thy father which ſeeth in ſecret, himſelfe ſhall reward thee openly.

5 And when thou prayeſt, thou ſhalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they loue to pray ſtanding in the Synagogues, & in the corners of the ſtreets, that they may be ſeene of men. Verily I ſay vnto you, they haue their reward.

6 But when thou prayeſt, enter into thy cloſet, and when thou haſt ſhutte thy doore, pray to thy father which is in ſecret, and thy father which ſeeth in ſecret, ſhall reward thee openly.

7 But when ye pray, babble not much, as the heathen do. For they thinke that they ſhalbe heard, for their much babblings ſake.

8 Be not ye therefore like vnto them: For your father knoweth, what things ye haue neede of, before ye aske of him.

*9 After this maner therefore prayyee: O our Father which art in heauen, halowed bee thy Name. Luke 11.2.

10 Let thy kingdome come. Thy will be done, as well in earth, as it is in heauen.

11 Giue vs this day our dayly bread.

12 And forgiue vs our debts, as wee forgiue our debters.

*13 And lead vs not into temptation, * but deliuer vs from euill: for thine is the kingdome, and the power, and the glorie, for euer, Amen.* Matt. 13.19.

*14 For, * if yee forgiue men their treſpaſſes, your heauenly Father ſhall alſo forgiue you.* Mar.11.25. eccl.28.2.

15 But, if yee forgiue not men their treſpaſſes: no more ſhall your Father forgiue you your treſpaſſes.

16 Moreouer, when yee faſt, bee not of an heauy countenance, as the hypocrites are: for they diſfigure their faces, that they might appeare vnto men to faſt: Verily I ſay vnto you, they haue their reward.

17 But thou, when thou faſteſt, annoynt thine head, and waſh thy face:

18 That thou appeare not vnto men to faſt, but vnto thy Father which is in ſecrete: and thy Father which ſeeth in ſecret, ſhall reward thee openly.

*19 * Hoord not vp for your ſelues treaſures vpon earth, where mothe and ruſt doeth corrupt, and where theeues breake thorow, and ſteale.* Luk.12.33. 1.tim.6.19.

*20 * But laye vp for you treaſures in heauen, where neither moth nor ruſt doeth corrupt, and where thieues do not breake thorow, nor ſteale.* Luk.12.34.

21 For where your treaſure is, there will your heart be alſo.

If thine eye be ſimple, thy whole body ſhall be lightſome.

23 But if thine eye be naught: thy whole body ſhalbe darkeſome. If then the light that is in thee, bee darkenes: the darkenes it ſelfe how great ſhall it be?

Luc.16,13. The Goſpel on the 14. Sunday after Penteco ſt.

24 No man can *ſerue ‖ two maſters. For either he wil hate the one, and loue the other: or hee will ſuſtaine the one, and contemne the other. You can not ſerue God and Mammon.

Luc.12,22.

25 Therefore I ſay to you, *be not ‖careful for your life what you ſhall eate, neither for your body what raiment you ſhall put on. Is not the life more then the meate: and the bodie more then the raiment?

26 Behold the foules of the ayre, that they ſow not, neither reape, nor gather into barnes and your heauenly father feedeth them. Are not you much more of price then they?

27 And which of you by caring, can adde to his ſtature one cubite?

28 And for rayment why are you careful? Conſider the lilies of ỹ fielde how they grow: they labour not, neither do they ſpinne.

29 But I ſay to you, that neither Salomon in all his glorie was arayed as one of theſe.

30 And if the graſſe of the field, which to day is, and to morowe is caſt into the ouen, God doeth ſo cloth: how much more you O ye of very ſmall faith?

31 Be not carefull therefore, ſaying, what ſhall wee eate, or what ſhall wee drinke, or wherewith ſhall we be couered?

‡ They ſeeke temporall things onely, and that not of the true God, but of their idoles, or by their owne induſtrie.

32 For all theſe things the ‡ Heathen doe ſeeke after. For your father knoweth that you neede all theſe things.

33 Seeke therefore firſt the Kingdome of GOD, and the iuſtice of him: and all theſe things ſhall be giuen you beſides.

34 Bee not carefull therefore for the morowe. For the morowe day ſhall bee careful for it ſelfe. ſufficient for the day is the euil thereof.

fore if thine eye be ſingle, all thy body ſhall be full of light.

23 But if thine eye be wicked, all thy body ſhall bee full of darkeneſſe. Wherefore, if the light that is in thee bee darkeneſſe, howe great is that darkeneſſe?

*24 No man can ſerue two maſters: for either he ſhall hate the one and loue the other, or els hee ſhall leane to the one and deſpiſe the other. Ye can not ſerue God and Mammon.

*25 Therefore I ſay vnto you, Be not carefull for your life, what yee ſhall eate or drinke, nor yet for your body what yee ſhall put on: Is not the life more woorth then meate? and the body then rayment?

26 Beholde the foules of the aire: for they ſow not, neither do they reape, nor cary into barnes, yet your heauenly father feedeth them. Are ye not much better then they?

27 Which of you by taking of careful thought, can adde one cubite vnto his ſtature?

28 And why care ye for raiment? Learne of the Lilies of the field, how they growe: they wearie not themſelues with labour, neither doe they ſpinne.

29 And yet I ſay vnto you, that euen Solomon in all his royaltie, was not arayed like one of theſe.

30 Wherefore, if God ſo clothe the graſſe of the fielde, which though it ſtand to day, is to morow caſt into the ouen: ſhall he not much more do the ſame for you, O ye of litle faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, ſaying, What ſhall we eate? or, what ſhall we drinke? or, wherewith ſhall we be clothed?

32 (For after all theſe things do the Gentiles ſeeke:) for your heauenly father knoweth that yee haue neede of all theſe things.

33 But ſeeke ye firſt the kingdome of God, and his righteouſneſſe, and all theſe things ſhall be added vnto you.

34 Care not then for the morowe: for the morow ſhall care for it ſelfe: Sufficient vnto the day, is the euill thereof.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 1. 1. Iuſtice.) Hereby it is plaine that good workes be iuſtice, and that man doing them doeth iuſtice, and is thereby iuſt and iuſtified, and not by faith onely. All which iuſtice of a Chriſtian man our Sauiour here compriſeth in theſe three workes, in Almes, faſting, and prayers. Aug. li. perf. iuſt. c. 8. So that to giue almes, is to doe iuſtice, and the workes of mercie are iuſtice. Aug. in Pſ. 49 v. 5. Good workes iuſtifie.

Fulke. 1. Good workes are the fruites of Iuſtification, proceeding from a iuſtified man, and doe iuſtifie (as S. Iames ſaith) that is, declare a man to be iuſt, and ſo a man is iuſtified by workes, and not by faith onely. But they doe not iuſtifie a man in the ſight of God, who requireth perfect Iuſtice, and not vnperfect, ſuch as good workes of men are, which followe the iuſtified man (as S. Auguſtine ſaith) doe not goe before vnto iuſtification, in Pſal. 102. de fid. & oper. cap. 14. Wherefore a man is iuſtified in the ſight of God, by imputation of the iuſtice of Chriſt, which is moſt perfect, through the onely grace and mercie of God, apprehended by faith only, Rom 3. and 4. Gal. 2. Iuſtification.

Neither is all the iuſtice of a Chriſtian man, that is iuſtified, compriſed in almes, faſting, and prayers, but in in obedience of all Gods commaundements, and yet all that is vnperfect, as S. Auguſtine prooueth in the place quoted, de perfect. Iuſt. and ſaith not, that all luſtice is compriſed in theſe three workes. This is our Iuſtice nowe (ſaith S. Auguſtine) in which we come hungring and thirſting to the perfection and fulnes of Iuſtice, that hereafter we may be filled therewith. And in Pſal. 49. he ſaith, Who are iuſt? but they that liue of faith, doing the workes of mercie, for thoſe workes are the workes of Iuſtice. Therefore by his iudgement, the life of a iuſt man is faith, the fruite, workes of mercie and iuſtice.

Rhem. 2. 4 Repay.) This repaying and rewarding of good workes in heauen, often mentioned here by our Sauiour, declareth that the ſaid workes are meritorious, and that we may do them in reſpect of that reward. Merites.

Fulke. 2. This repaying and rewarding, prooueth, that the reward is due, but not that the workes are meritorious. The reward is due by Gods promiſe, his meere mercie mooued him to promiſe. And wee may be encouraged in reſpect of the reward to do good workes, but not onely nor chiefly in that reſpect, but eſpecially to ſhew our ſelues thankefull, and dueifull, that God may be glorified by our good workes, whoſe glory ought to moue vs more, then the reward, if that we loue God as we ought with all our hearts.

Rhem. 5. Hypocrites.) Hypocriſie is forbidden in all theſe three works of iuſtice, and not the doing of them openly to the glory of God and the profite of our neighbour and our owne ſaluation: for Chriſt before (c. 5.) biddeth, ſaying: Let your light ſo ſhine before men, &c. And in all ſuch workes S. Gregories rule is to be folowed, The worke ſo to be in publike, that the intention remaine in ſecret Ho. 11. in Euang. c. 10. Hypocriſie.

Rhem. 3. Luc. 6. 12. 18, 1. 21, 36. 1. Theſ. 5. 17. Cypr. de orat. Do. in fine. 7. Much ſpeaking) *Long prayer is not forbid, for Chriſt *himſelfe ſpent whole nights in prayer, and he ſaith, *we muſt pray alwayes, and *the Apoſtle exhorteth to pray without intermiſſion, and the holy Church from the beginning hath had her Canonical houres of prayer: but idle and voluntary babling, either of the heathens to their gods, or of Heretikes, that by long Rhetorical prayers thinke to perſuade God: whereas the Collects of the Church are moſt breefe and moſt effectuall. See S. Auguſtine ep. 121. c. 8, 9. 10.

Fulke. 3. Long prayer is not forbidden, but Popiſh prayer in an vnknowen tongue is idle babling, as ill, as that which the heathen vſed. The Scripture teſtifieth (as S. Cyprian ſheweth) that the thirde houre of the day, the ſixt, and the ninth, were vſed for prayer, by Daniel, the three children, S. Paul, and S. Peter and S. Iohn. Which prooueth not your Popiſh Canonical houres, that is a kind of ſeruice which you call ſo, mumbled vp of your Prieſts oftentimes in an houre or leſſe, to be of ſuch antiquitie, or to be diſcharged from much babling or lippe-labour. Neither is it ment, that all thoſe three houres were ſpent only in prayer, but that at thoſe three times of the day, the godly vſed to pray: Namely in the midſt of the time, from the Sunne riſing to Noone, at Noone, and in the midſt of the time betweene Noone & the Sunne ſetting, whereas all your Canonical houres in the Popiſh church, are diſpatched before Noone. Cyprian therefore ſpeaketh not of any ſet formes of prayers, but of times meete for all Chriſtians to pray in, not onely at theſe three houres, but alſo at the Sunne riſing, and at the Sunne ſetting, and in the night ſeaſon, and generally at al houres, as our Sauiour Chriſt teacheth. Not maintaining the hereſie of the Euchites, which did nothing but pray with their lips: but requiring the heart to be alwayes lifted vp in affection of prayer, which is by faith to looke for all good things of God onely, and at certaine times alſo, to vſe wordes of Petition, to admoniſh vs of our neceſſities, and to ſtirre vp our deſire to be more feruent. What other thing is it (ſaith S. Auguſtine) to pray without intermiſſion, but without intermiſſion to deſire, that bleſſed life, as none is but that which is eternall, of him who only can giue it? Therefore let vs deſire this alwayes of the Lorde God, and let vs pray alwayes, Epiſt. 121. c. 9. The prayers of heretikes whether they be long or ſhort, rude or rhetoricall, pleaſe not God, neither yet of hypocrites. As for the ſhort collects of the Church, are no preiudice to long prayers, where the forme of words, is not longer then the ſincere affection of prayer continueth. Canonicall houres. The 3 houre, the 6. the 9.

Rhem. 4. ἐπιούσιον. 11. Superſubſtantial bread.) By this bread ſo called here according to the Latin word and the Greeke, we aske not onely all neceſſarie ſuſtenance for the body, but much more all ſpirituall foode, namely the bleſſed Sacrament it ſelfe, which is Chriſt the true bread that came from heauen, and the bread of life to vs that eate his body. Cypr. de orat. Do. Aug. epiſt. 121. c. 11. And therefore it is called here Superſubſtantial, that is, the bread that paſſeth and excelleth all creatures. Hiero. in 2. Tit. in 6. Mat. Amb. li. 5. de Sacr. c. 4. Aug. ſer. 28. de verb. Do. ſec. Mat. S. Germanus in Theoria. The B. Sacrament.

Fulke 4. S. Luke is the beſt interpreter of the Greeke worde, who ſheweth that it ſignifieth bread ſufficient for euery day. Comprehending all things neceſſary for this preſent life, whereof wee may inferre, that ſpirituall foode is more neceſſarie, which in the other petitions is asked rather then in this, if we reſpect either the wordes or the methode of this forme of prayer. Notwithſtãding vpon the ambiguitie of the Greeke word, many of the fathers, referre this petition to ſpiritual foode eſpecially, among which the Lords Supper (being a ſeale of our ſpirituall nourithment by the body and blood of Chriſt, vnto eternall life) is a part, as the preaching of Gods word is another part, noted alſo by the fathers to be deſired in this petition. Auguſt. de ſerm. dom. in mont. lib. 2.

Rhem. 5. 12. Dettes.) Theſe dettes doe ſignifie not only mortall ſinnes, but alſo veniall, as S. Auguſtine often teacheth: and therefore euery man, be he neuer ſo iuſt, yet becauſe he cannot liue without venial ſinnes, may very truely and ought to ſay this prayer. Aug. cont. duas ep. Pelag. li. 1. c. 14. li. 21. de Ciuit. c. 27. Venial ſinnes.

Fulke. 5. S. Auguſtine doth often teach the difference of ſinnes, ſome great, ſome leſſe, but neuer your Popiſh diſtinction of mortall and venial, as you do, and in the places quoted ſpeaketh of ſmall ſinnes, but not of veniall.

Rhem. 6. Interpret. orat. Do. lac. 1. 13. Leade vs not.) S. Cypr. readeth, Ne patiaris nos induci. Suffer vs not to be led, as S. Auguſtine noteth li. de bo. perſeu. c. 6. and ſo the holy Church vnderſtandeth it, becauſe God (as S. Iames ſaith) tempteth no man: though for our ſinnes, or for our probation and crowne, he permit vs to be tempted. Beware then of Bezaes expoſition vpon this place, who (according to the Caluiniſts opinion) ſaith, that God leadeth them into tentation, into whom him ſelfe bringeth in Satan for to fill their harts: ſo making God the author of ſinne. God is not the author of euil.

Fulke. 6. Howſoeuer any man hath read, the text is plaine, Leade vs not, whereby is prooued, not only a permiſſion, but an action of God, in them that are ledde into temptation. Therefore S. Auguſtine after a long diſputation, againſt Iulian the Pelagian, bringeth alſo this petition for an argument, to proue that God as a righteous iudge, puniſheth ſinne by ſinne, by deliuering the reprobate into the power of Satan. Quid eſt autem &c. And what is that which we ſay daily, Lead vs not into temptation, but that we be not deliuered vnto our owne concupiſcences? Againe,

Tradit

Tradit ergo Deus, &c. Therefore God deliuereth into ignominious paſſions, that thoſe things may be done, which are not conuenient, but he deliuereth conueniently, and the ſame ſinnes are made both puniſhments of ſinnes paſt, and deſerts of puniſhments to come. As he deliuered Achab into the lie of the falſe prophets, as hee deliuered Roboam into falſe counſaile. Theſe things he doth by marueilous & vnſpeakeable meanes, who knoweth how to worke his iudgements not onely in mens bodies, but alſo in their very hearts. Cont. Iul. li. 5. cap. 3. Neither doeth Bezaes expoſition, make God author of ſinne, but vſing ỹ phraſe of S. Auguſtine, he ſaith, The Lord leadeth into temptation them, whom as a iuſt iudge, not as an auctor of ſinnes, he permitteth vnto the will of Satan, that he may fil their heart, as S. Peter ſpeaketh, Act. 5. And it is a moſt deteſtable ſlander, that Caluine or they that follow his iudgement, make God the auctor of ſinne. Slander.

Rhem. 14 If you forgiue.) This point of forgiuing our brother, when we aske forgiuenes of God, our Sauiour repeateth againe, as a thing much to be conſidered: and therefore commended in the parable alſo of the ſeruant that would not forgiue his fellow ſeruant, Mat. 18.

Iud. 20, 26. 2. Eſd. 9. Ioel 2, 15. Ion. 3. 16. Faſt.) *He forbiddeth not open and publike faſts, which in the * Scriptures were commanded and proclaimed to the people of God, and the Niniuites by ſuch faſting appeaſed Gods wrath: but to faſt for vaine glorie and praiſe of men, and to be deſirous by the very face and looke to be taken for a faſter, that is forbidden, and that is hypocriſie.* Publike faſt.

Rhem. 7. 20. Treaſures in heauen.) Treaſures layd vp in heauen, muſt needes ſignifie, not faith only, but plentifull almes and deedes of mercie and other good workes, which God keeping as in a booke, will reward them accordingly: as of the contrary the Apoſtle ſaith, He that ſoweth ſparingly, ſhall reape ſparingly. 2. Cor. 9. Meritorious workes.

Fulke 7. Treaſures layd vp in heauen in this place, properly ſignifie neither faith nor workes, much leſſe meritorious workes, but rather the reward of the heauenly life: Which God of his mercie giueth to them that beleeue, according to their workes, rewarding their plentifull ſowing, with plentifull reaping. Merite.

Rhem. 8. 24. Two Maſters.) Two religions, God and Baal, Chriſt and Caluin, Maſſe and Communion, the Catholike Church and Hereticall Conuenticles. Let them marke this leſſon of our Sauiour, that thinke they may ſerue all maſters, all times, all religions. Againe, theſe two maſters do ſignifie, God and the world, the fleſh and the ſpirit, iuſtice and ſinne.

Fulke. 8. No Chriſtian man ſerueth Caluin as his maſter, but God onely. Neuertheleſſe ſo long as Caluine teacheth that which he learned of Chriſt, Caluine may be embraced as a ſeruant of Chriſt, neither did he euer deſire to be taken otherwiſe. But when the Pope commandeth things contrary to God, as worſhipping of images, communion vnder one kinde, and ſuch like, and will be honoured as a moſt holy Lorde that cannot erre, it may be ſaid moſt truely, No man can ſerue God and the Pope. Slander.

Rhem. 25. Carefull.) Prudent proniſion is not prohibited, but to much doubtfulnes and feare of Gods proniſion for vs: to whom we ought with patience to commit the reſt, when we haue done ſufficiently for our part.

CHAP. VII.

In this third & laſt Chapter of his Sermon, becauſe we know not mens ends, he biddeth vs beware of iudging: 6 and neuertheleſſe to take open dogges (ſo he calleth them) as they be. 7 If theſe works of iuſtice ſeeme to hard, we muſt pray inſtantly to him that giueth them. 12 In the concluſion, he giueth one ſhort rule of all iuſtice. 13 and then he exhorteth with all vehemencie to the ſtraite way both of the Catholike faith, 21 and alſo of good life: becauſe onely faith will not ſuffice.

17 Euen ſo euery good tree yeldeth good fruites, and the euil tree yeldeth euil fruites.

18 A good tree can not yeld euil fruites, neither an euil tree yeld good fruites.

19 Euery tree ỹ yeldeth not good fruite, ſhal be cut downe, and ſhal be caſt into fire.

20 Therefore by their fruites you ſhal know them.

21 Not euery one that ſaith to me, ‖ Lord, Lord, ſhal enter into the Kingdom of heauen: but he that doeth the wil of my father which is in heauen, he ſhal enter into the kingdom of heauen.

22 Many ſhal ſay to me in that day, Lord, Lord, haue not we prophecied in thy name, and in thy name caſt out diuels, and in thy name wrought many miracles?

23 And then I wil confeſſe vnto them, That I neuer knew you. depart from me you that worke iniquitie.

24 * Euery one therfore that heareth theſe my wordes, and doeth them: ſhal be likened to a wiſe man that built his houſe vpon a rocke,

25 And the rayne fel, and the fluddes came, and the windes blewe, and they beate againſt that houſe, and it fel not, for it was founded vpon a rocke.

26 And euery one that heareth theſe my wordes, and doeth them not, ſhal be like a fooliſh man that built his houſe vpon ỹ ſand,

10 Or if he aske fiſh, will he giue him a ſerpent?

11 If ye then being euill, knowe to giue your children good giftes: how much more will your father which is in heauen, giue good things to them that aske him?

*12 Therefore all thinges * whatſoeuer yee would that men ſhould doe to you, doe ye euen ſo to them: For this is the lawe and the Prophets.* Luke 6.31. tobi.4.16.

*13 * Enter ye in at the ſtraite gate, for wide is the gate, and broad is the way that leadeth to deſtruction, and many there be which goe in thereat.* Luke 13.24.

14 Becauſe ſtraite is the gate, and narow is the way which leadeth vnto life, and few there be that finde it.

15 Beware of the falſe Prophets which come to you in ſheepes clothing, but inwardly they are rauening wolues.

*16 Ye ſhall know them by their fruites: * Do men gather grapes of thornes? or figges of thiſtles?* Luke 6.43.

17 Euen ſo, euery good tree bringeth foorth good fruite: but a corrupt tree bringeth foorth euill fruite.

18 A good tree cannot bring foorth badde fruite, neither can a bad tree bring foorth good fruite.

*19 * Euery tree that bringeth not foorth good fruite, is hewen downe and caſt into the fire.* Mat.3.10.

20 Wherefore, by their fruites ye ſhall know them.

26 And euery one that heareth of me theſe ſayings, and doth them not, ſhall be likened vnto a fooliſh man, which built his houſe vpon the ſand:

27 And the raine deſcended, and the floodes came, and the windes blewe, and beat vpon that houſe, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.

28 And it came to passe, when IESVS had fully ended these wordes, the multitude were in * admiration vpon his doctrine.

Mar.1,22. Luc.4,32.

28 And it came to passe, when Iesus had ended these sayings, the people were astonied at his doctrine. Mark.1.22. luk.4.32.

29 For he taught them as one hauing power, and not as the Scribes.

ANNOTATIONS CHAP. VII.

Rhem. 1. Iudge not.) It is no Christian part to iudge il of mens actes which be in them selues good and may proceede of good meaning, or of mans inward meaning and intention which we can not see: of which faults they must beware that are to suspitious and giuen to deeme alwayes the worst of other men. But to say, that Iudas, or an Heretike euidently knowen to die obstinately in heresie, is damned, and in al other playne and manifest cases to iudge, is not forbidden.

Rhem. 1. 6. Holy to dogges.) No holy Sacrament and specially that of our Sauiours blessed body, must be giuen wittingly to the vnworthy, that is, to them that haue not by confession of al mortal sinnes examined and proued them selues. See the Annot. 1.Cor.11,27.28.29. Worthy receiuing.

Fulke 1. So that by confession of all mortall sinnes, you meane not auricular shrift, which the Scripture doth not exact, this note containeth no false doctrine.

Rhem.2. 8. Euery one that asketh.) Al things that we aske necessarie to saluation with humilitie, attention, continuance, and other due circumstances, God wil vndoubtedly graunt when is is best for vs.

Fulke 2. To aske in faith, is necessarie, and more then a due circumstance. Iam.1.6. Faith.

Rhem. 3. 15. Clothing of sheepe.) *Extraordinarie apparance of zeale and holines in the sheepes cote in some Heretikes: but these of this time weare not that garment much, being men of vnsatiable sinne. This is rather their garment, common to them with al other Heretikes, to crake much of the word of the Lord, and by pretensed allegations and * sweete wordes of benediction, and specially by promise of knowledge, light and libertie of the Gospel, to seduce the simple and the sinful.* Heretikes wolues in sheepeskinnes.

Fulke 3. This note is true of Libertines, Anabaptists and such Heretikes of our time: but the true professours of the Gospell, whome you especially enuie, shall be found in triall, alwayes as honest as Papistes. Slander.

Rhem.4. 16. Fruites.) These are the fruites which Heretikes are knowen by, diuision from the whole Church, diuision among them selues, taking to them selues new names and new maisters, inconstancie in doctrine, disobedience both to others and namely to spiritual officers, loue and liking of them selues, pride and intolerable vaunting of their owne knowledge aboue al the holy Doctors, corruption, falsification, and quite denying of the parts of Scriptures that specially make against them, and these be common to all Heretikes lightly. Other some are more peculiar to these of our time, as Incestuous marriages of vowed persons, Spoile of Churches, Sacrilege and profanation of al holy things, and many other special poynts of doctrine, directly tending to the corruption of good life in al states. Heretikes known worthy their fruites.

Fulke 4. All false doctrine, contrarie to the Scriptures, is the proper fruites of Heretikes. For he is an Heretike, which obstinately maintaineth an opinion, contrarie to the Scriptures, as the Papistes doe manie. And especially, those plaine notes, which the spirite giueth of Antichristian Heretikes, namely, the forbidding of mariage and meates, where are they to be found at this day, but in Papistes? 1. Tim. 4. The rest of the notes you giue, are not found in vs, but rather in you. The mariage of vowed persons, that can not containe, is allowed by Epiphanius, and Hierome, as I shewed before, to be Catholike. And if it be incestuous, your Pope giueth licence for incestuous mariages, as he doth for those mariages, that are against the lawe of nature, which are incestuous in deede. We spoile no Churches, but destroy Idolatry, as God commandeth. Deut 7.6. Slander. Heresie and Dem. Mariage of vowaries. Ask. Philip of Spayne to marry his sisters daughter.

Rhem. 5. 21. Lord, Lord.) These men haue faith, otherwise they could not inuocate, Lord, Lord: Ro 10. But herewe se that to beleeue is not ynough, and that not only infidelitie is sinne, as Luther teacheth. Yea Catholikes also that worke true miracles in the name of our Lord, and by newer so great faith, yet without the workes of iustice shal not be saued. 1 Cor.13. Againe, consider here who they are that haue so often in their mouth, The Lord, the Lord, and how litle it shal auaile them, that set so litle by good workes, and contemne Christian iustice. Not only faith.

Fulke 5. These men say, Lord, Lord, without faith. For he that in faith shall inuocate or call vpon the Lord, shall be saued. Rom.10. We confesse, it is not inough, to beleeue, neither doth Luther teach, that only infidelity is sinne, but that it is the roote of all sinne. Neither doe we hold, that by the faith of working miracles, which apprehendeth onely the power of God, any man shall be iustified, but by faith in Gods promises, which layeth hold of the mercie which God offreth. Finally, he that is iustified by faith onely, doth the will of God his heauenly father, though not perfectly, yet gladly and cheerefully. God be thanked, we doe not set litle by good workes, which we acknowledge to be the necessary effects of iustifying faith, though we renounce our owne iustice, that we may be partakers of the iustice of God in Christ. Philip.3.9. Iustification by faith onely. Good workes Slander.

Immediatly after his Sermon (to confirme his doctrine with a miracle) he cureth a Leper. 5 But aboue him and al other Iewes, he commendeth the faith of the Centurion, who was a Gentil: and foretelleth by that occasion, the vocation of the Gentiles, and reprobation of the Iewes. 14 In Peters house he sheweth great grace. 18 In the way to the sea he speaketh with two, of following him: 23 and vpon the sea commaundeth the tempest: 28 and beyond the sea he manifesteth the deuils malice against man, in an heard of swine.

34 And beholde, the whole city came out to meete Iesus: & when they saw him, they besought him that he would depart out of their coastes.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VIII.

Rhem.1. 4. Priest.) The Priests of the old Law (saith S. Chrysostome) had authoritie and priuiledge only to discerne who were healed of leprosie, and to denounce the same to the people: but the Priests of the new law haue power to purge in very deede the filth of the soule. Therefore whosoeuer despiseth them, is more worthy to be punished then the rebel Dathan and his complices. S. Chryso. li.3. de Sacerd. Priests forgiue sinnes.

Fulke 1. The wordes of Chrysostome are these. The Priests of the Iewes, had authoritie to put away leprosie of the bodie, or rather not to put it away at all, but onely to discerne them that were ridde of it, and thou knowest, how greatly their Priesthood was to be esteemed. But these haue receyued authoritie, not to discerne the leprosie of the bodie, being ridde away, but altogether to put away the vncleannes of the soule. They therefore that despise them, are more wicked then Dathan, and worthy of great punishment. By which wordes, he meaneth not, that Ministers of the Gospell, haue absolute power to forgiue sinnes, but authoritie to assure the penitent sinners of Gods forgiuenes, in which respect, they are sayd to forgiue in Gods name. For Christ himselfe, did not forgiue sinnes, but as he was God equall to his father. Chrysostome in Mat. Hom. 30. Remission of sinnes.

Rhem. 4. Gift.) Our Sauiour willeth him to goe and offer his gift or sacrifice according as Moyses prescribed in that case, because the other sacrifice being the holiest of all holies, which is his body, was not yet begun. So saith S. Aug. lib. 2. q. Euang. q. 3. & cont. Aduers. leg. & Proph. li. 1. c. 19. 20.

Rhem. 2. 8. Not worthy.) Orig. ho. 5. in diuers. when thou eatest (saith he) and drinkest the body and blood of our Lord, he entereth vnder thy roofe. Thou also therefore humbling thy selfe, say: Lord I am not worthy, &c. So saide *S. Chrysostome in his masse. and so doth the Cath. Church vse at this day in euery Masse. See S. Augustine ep. 118. ad Ianu. * Liturg. S. Chryst. Græc. sub finem. DOMINE, non sum dignus.

Fulke. 2. Transubstantiation. The body and blood of Christ, is to be receiued with all humilitie and reuerence: yet not imagining transsubstantiation. For that material part of the Sacrament, which entereth into the mouth, Origen saith, it goeth the way of all meates, in Mat. cap. 15. Chrysostomes liturgie was made long after Chrysostoms time, as appeareth by a prayer for the Emperour Alexius, in whose dayes it was made. Augustine Epi. 118. vseth the example of the Centurion, to shewe that neither they that receiue the Sacrament dayly, nor they that receiue it seldome, dishonour the body of Christ, hauing either of them their seuerall reasons, as Zacheus, which receiued our Sauiour Christ into his house ioyfully, and the Centurion, who acknowledged, that he was vnworthie to receiue him vnder his roofe.

Rhem. 3. 14. His wiues mother.) Of Peter specially among the rest it is euident that he had a wife, but (as Saint Hierom saith) after they were called to be Apostles, they had no more carnall companie with their wiues, as he proueth there by the very wordes of our Sauiour, *He that hath left wife, &c. And so in the Latine Church hath bene alwayes vsed, that maried men may be and are dayly made Priestes, either after the death of the wife, or with her consent to liue in perpetual cõtinencie. And if the Greekes haue Priests that doe otherwise, S. Epiphanius a Greke Doctor telleth them that they do it against the auncient Canons, and * Paphnutius plainely signifieth the same in the first Councel of Nice. But this is most plaine, that there was neuer either in the Greke Church or the Latin, authentical example of any that maried after holy Orders. Priests mariage. Lib. 1. aduers. Iou. cap. 14. Mat. 19. 29. Epiph. hæ. 59. * Sozom. lib. 1. cap. 22. Socrat. li. 1. c. 8.

Fulke. 3. S. Hierome against Iouinian, hath many feeble arguments, among which this is one, that the Apostles had no carnall copulation with their wiues, because Christ saith, He that hath left wife, &c. Mat. 19. 29. For our Sauiour Christ speaketh of none other forsaking of wiues, then is necessarie for all maried men, to leaue their wiues as well as their parents, children, brethren, houses, landes, namely in carnall affection, or worldly loue, not in lawfull vse. And Clemens Alexandrinus much ancienter then Hierome, and neerer the Apostles times, saith, that Peter and Philip begate sonnes, and Philip gaue his daughters in mariage, Stromat. li. 3. And by whom had Peter his daughter Petronilla of whom the popish legends write much holinesse, if not by companing with his owne wife, and that since he was an Apostle, and had ỹ surname of Peter. Which her age also doeth argue: for she was so yong in the time of the persecution of Domitian the Emperour, that Flaccus the countie, desired to haue her in mariage, whereas if she had bene borne before Peters calling to the Apostleship, she should haue bene almost threescore yeere olde at that time. In the Romish Church, where Antichrist was to haue his seate, the mysterie of iniquitie began to worke, and shewe it selfe in prohibition of mariage somewhat timely: yet are you not able to proue, that none but such as professed continencie, were in the Latine Church euer admitted to the ministerie. Tertullian was a maried man in the ministerie, without any such profession of continencie, as appeareth by his bookes written to his wife. Where, in the first he exhorteth her, after his departure, not to marie againe. In the second, that if the infirmitie of her body was such, as she must needes marie, that she marie not an infidell. This exhortation had bene needeles, if she had alreadie professed continencie: neither needed Tertullian to haue set before her the example of many other, that in mariage, by consent, tooke away the debt of mariage, to persuade her, that she might be able if she would indeuour, to liue vnmaried. And if he, before he entred into Ecclesiasticall order, with her consent, had promised perpetuall continencie, she shoulde haue had experience in her selfe in her yonger time, howe able she was to liue without the vse of an husband. But Epiphanius, (you say) telleth the Greeke Priests, that they doe against the ancient Canons, which keepe company with their wiues: yet doth he confesse immediatly, that those Canons were not kept in his time. But where you adde, that Paphnutius in the first Councel of Nice, doth plainely signifie the same, it is false. For Socrates thus writeth of the matter, ὡσεὶ τοὺς ἀνενεύτους &c. It pleased the Bishops, to bring in a newe lawe into the Church, that those that were dedicated to the holy ministerie, namely Bishops, Priestes, or Elders and Deacons, should not sleepe with their wiues which they had maried, when they were laye men: and after they had consulted of this matter, Paphnutius stoode vp in the middest of the companie of Bishops, and cried out aloude, that they shoulde not lay an heauie yoke vpon the men dedicated to the holy ministerie, saying, that the bed was honourable, and the matrimonie vnpolluted, least with too much preciseneſſe, they should rather hurt the Church: for all men could not beare the exercise of continencie, and peradventure, chastitie should not be kept of euery ones wife: and he called the companie with a mans lawfull wife, chastitie. That it was sufficient, that they which had obtained Clergie before mariage, should not come to mariage any more, according to the ancient tradition of the Church, but that no man should be separated from her, whom he had maried being a laye man. The very same in substance, reporteth Sozomen. And Clemens affirmeth, that the Apostle alloweth the husband of one wife, whether he be Priest or Deacon, or Laye man, vsing matrimonie without reprehension, Stromat. lib. 3. But there was neuer any example authenticall (you say) of any that maried after holy Orders. Of examples, I suppose you doubt not, but that there were many, which tooke wiues after they were made Bishops, Priestes, and Deacons, because in the latter Councels, there be so many Canons to punish them that so maried, and to prohibite them to marie. And certaine it is by stories, and other monuments of antiquitie, that in England, Priestes did marie commonly, euen after the decree made against it, by Lanfrancus Archbishop of Canterburie in a Synode holden at Winchester Anno Dom. 1076. For Gerardus Archbishop of Yorke, writing to Anselmus Archbishop of Canterburie, certifieth him, that those whom he inuited to take orders, would not consent in their ordination, to professe chastitie, that is, not to marie, as the decree of Lanfrancus required. But these examples, you wil say, were not authentical, because they were against the ancient tradition of ỹ Church, alleadged euen by Paphnutius, & against ỹ Canons of so many Councels: Whereunto I replie, that seeing they were to be warranted by the word of God, no tradition or decree of men, can make that vnlawfull, which by Gods word is not onely at libertie, but also commanded, namely, that to auoide fornication, let euery man haue his Lib. 1. ad vxorem. wiſe, and if they cannot containe, let them marie, & of virginitie, & continẽcie, there is no cõmandemẽt of ỹ Lord, but euery man may vſe the libertie that God hath giuen, yea though he hath ỹ gift of continencie. And therefore S. Paul being vnmaried, affirmeth that it was lawfull for him to leade about with him a ſiſter to wife, as the reſt of the Apoſtles did, euen the Lordes brethren and Cephas: Ergo it was lawfull for him to haue maried, being an Apoſtle. The libertie therefore giuen by God to all, and the commandement of God (to them which haue not the gift of continencie) to marie, doeth make the examples of them that maried after holy orders taken, in the accompt of God and all that be godly, to be authenticall. And although Paphnutius accompteth the tradition of the Church ancient, by which they were prohibited to marie, that were not maried before they were ordeyned: yet it appeareth by Tertullian, that it was not ſo auncient as his time. For in his booke of Monogamie againſt ſecond mariages, written when he was an heretike, he derideth the Catholike Biſhops, which thought it lawfull for them to marrie againe, when their firſt wife was dead, peruerting the meaning of S. Pauls wordes, which ſaith, a Biſhop muſt be the husband of one wife, to the maintenance of his hereſie, as the Papiſts doe: He ſaith the holy Ghoſt foreſawe there ſhould come ſome, that would affirme all things to be lawfull for Biſhops: For howe many are there among you, (ſaith he) that gouerne the Church, which haue maried the ſecond time, inſulting againſt the Apoſtle, and not blaſhing, when theſe wordes are read vnder them. This place ſheweth, that that which was thought vnlawfull by the heretike, was counted lawfull and authenticall by the Catholike Church. Long after Tertullians time, was the Ancyran Councell, where the tenth Canon decreeth thus: That whoſoeuer being ordeyned Deacons at the time of their ordination, doe proteſt and ſay, that they muſt marie, becauſe they cannot remaine vnmaried: if they marie afterward, let them continue in the miniſterie, becauſe the Biſhop hath graunted them ſo to doe. This Canon teſtifieth of many authenticall examples, of them that maried and might marie, after holy orders taken. Moreouer, in the dayes of Iulian the Apoſtata we reade, that Baſilius a Prieſt or Elder of the Church of Ancyra, and Eupſychius of Cæſarea of Cappadocia, which had lately taken to wife a Gentlewoman, and was but euen as a bridegrome, ended their liues by martyrdome, Sozom. lib. 5. c. 11. & hiſto. tripart. lib. 6. c. 14. And many hundred yeeres after this, Balſamon maketh mention of a conſtitution of Leo the Emperour, by which it appeareth, that there was a cuſtome in his time, that thoſe which had taken holy orders, might marie lawfull wiues, within two yeeres after their ordination, Balſam in Can. 10. Conc. Ancyr. So long the authoritie of Gods worde in the Greeke Church, preuailed againſt ỹ decrees of men, and in the Church of England much longer, vntill within theſe foure or fiue hundred yeeres at the moſt. 1. ANNOTA-Rhem. 4. 3. He blaſphemeth.) When the Iewes heard Chriſt remit ſinnes, they charged him with blaſphemie, as Heretikes now charge his prieſts of the new Teſtament, for that they remit ſinnes: to whom he ſaid, Whoſe ſinnes you ſhall forgiue, they are forgiuen, &c. Io. 20.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IX.

Fulke 4. The Miniſters of the new Teſtament, haue auctoritie to forgiue ſinnes, and to reteine them, by declaring herein the will of God, as his ambaſſadors and meſſengers. The Iewes charged our Sauiour Chriſt with blaſphemie, becauſe they acknowledged not his diuinitie. For the Prieſts in the Lawe, were alſo Miniſters, not auctors, of forgiuenes of ſinnes, whereof they were not ignorant. Remiſſion of ſinnes.

Rhem. 5. 5. Whether is eaſier.) The faithleſſe Iewes thought (as Heretikes now a dayes) that to forgiue ſinnes was ſo proper to God, that it could not be communicated vnto man: but Chriſt ſheweth that as to worke miracles is otherwiſe proper to God only, and yet this power is communicated to men, ſo alſo to forgiue ſinnes. Men haue power to forgiue ſinnes.

Fulke. 5. Chryſoſtome ſaith, He did not refute their opinion which ſaid it was proper only to God to forgiue ſinnes, but did approue it. For if he had not bene equall vnto his father, he would haue ſaid: Surely you iudge rightly, I am farre from that ſo great power, but now he ſaith no ſuch thing, but contrary wiſe affirmeth it both by word and ſigne. So becauſe it is wont to be vnpleaſant to the hearers, that any man ſhould ſpeake openly of himſelfe: by the words of other men, and by a ſigne or miracle, he ſheweth that he is God equall to his father, And ſo forth in Mat. Ho. 30. S. Hilarie is of the ſame iudgement, ſaying, Mouet ſcribas, &c. It moueth the Scribes, that ſinne ſhould be forgiuen by a man: for they beholde in Ieſu Chriſt only a man, and that to be forgiuen by him, which the Lawe could not releaſe. For faith onely iuſtifieth. Afterward the Lorde looketh into their murmuring and faith: that it is eaſie for the Sonne of man on earth to forgiue ſinnes. For it is true, no man can remit ſinnes but God only, therefore he which remitteth ſinnes is God, becauſe no man forgiueth ſinnes but God, In Matth. Can. 8. S. Ambroſe is worthy to be heard in the ſame caſe, Quæ cum Iudæi aſſerunt, &c. When the Iewes affirme that ſinnes can be forgiuen by God only, verely they confeſſe him to be God, and by their owne iudgement they bewray their falſhode, in that they affirme the worke, and deny the perſon. Therefore euen of themſelues, the Sonne of God receiueth a teſtimonie of his worke, and requireth not the conſent of their voice. For falſhoode can confeſſe, but cannot beleeue, Therefore there wanted no teſtimonie to his diuinitie: there wanteth faith to their owne ſaluation. In Lucam. cap. 5. Behold, that which was Catholike doctrine in theſe auncient fathers, is counted hereſie in vs. Fides enim ſola iuſtificat.

Rhem. 6. 6. The ſonne of man in earth.) Chriſt had power to remit ſinnes, and often executed the ſame, not only as hee was God, but alſo as he was a man, becauſe hee was head of the Church and our chiefe Biſhop and Prieſt according to his manhod, in reſpect whereof all power was giuen him in heauen and earth. Mat. 28. v. 18.

Fulke. 6. Chriſt had abſolute power of himſelfe, as very God, to forgiue ſinnes properly, and to preach the forgiuenеſſe of ſinnes as Mediator.

Rhem. 7. 8. Glorified.) The faithfull people did glorifie God that gaue ſuch power to men for to remit ſinnes and to doe miracles, knowing that that which God committeth to men, is not to his derogation, but to his glory, himſelfe only being ſtil the principall worker of that effect, men being only his miniſters, ſubſtitutes, and working vnder him and by his commiſſion and authoritie.

Fulke. 7. Let S. Hilarie ſpake vpon theſe words of the text. Concluſa ſunt omnia ſuo ordine, &c. All things are concluded in their right order, & now the feare of deſperation ceaſing, honor is rendred to God, becauſe he hath giue ſo great power to men, but this was due only to Chriſt, it was familiar to him only, to do theſe things, by the communion or participation of his fathers ſubſtance. Therefore this is not to be marueiled, that he can do theſe things (for what ſhall not God be beleeued to be able to do?) or els the praiſe ſhould haue bene of one man, not of many, but here of is the cauſe of the honour giuen to God, becauſe power is giuen to men by this way, through his word, both of remiſſion of ſinnes, & of reſurrection of the body and of returning into heauen. In theſe words S. Hilarie ſheweth what is proper to Chriſt as God, & what is graunted to his miniſters, to preach and declare by his word. That which is proper to the Diuinitie, cannot be communicated to any creature. Such is the abſolute power to forgiue ſinnes, which are cõmitted againſt the Lawe of God, and therfore proper only to God. The auctoritie, which God hath giuen to men, to aſſure the faithfull penitent, of remiſſion of ſinnes, nothing derogateth from the glory of God, but greatly ſetteth forth the glory of his mercie. Remiſſion of ſinnes.

Rhem. 8. 8. To men.) Not only Chriſt as he was man, had this power to forgiue ſinnes, but by him and from him the Apoſtles, and conſequently Prieſts. Mat. 18. All power is giuen me. Mat. 18. Whatſoeuer you ſhall looſe in earth, ſhal be looſed in heauen. Ioan. 20. Whoſe ſinnes you ſhall forgiue, they are forgiuen.

Fulke. 8. Chriſt gaue power to his Apoſtles, and the miniſters of the Church to forgiue ſinnes, not abſolutely & properly, as God forgiueth, but to be witneſſes & miniſters of Gods forgiuenes: whereof S. Ambroſe ſaith, Quamuis enim magnum ſit, &c. Although it be a great matter to forgiue ſinnes vnto men (for who can forgiue ſinnes but onely God, who alſo forgiueth by them, to whom he hath giuen the power of forgiuing) yet it is a much more diuine thing, to giue reſurrection to the bodies. Thus you ſee this fathers iudgement, that man when hee forgiueth ſinnes, by power graunted of God, doth not forgiue properly, but God to whom it is proper to forgiue ſinnes, forgiueth by man. Remiſſion of ſinnes.

Rhem. 13. Not ſacrifice. Theſe are the words of the Prophet, who ſpake them euen then when ſacrifices where offered by Gods commandement: ſo that it maketh nee againſt ſacrifice, but hee ſaith that ſacrifice only without mercie and charitie, and generally with mortall ſinne, is not acceptable. The Iewes offered their ſacrifices duely, but in the meane time they had no pitie nor mercie on their brethren: that is it which God miſliketh. Externall ſacrifice.

14. Faſt often.) By the often faſting of his diſciples, we may eaſely gather that he appointed them a preſcript manner of faſting: as it is certaine he taught them a forme of prayer. Luc 5. and 11. Faſting.

17. New wine.) By this new wine, he doth plainly here ſignifie faſting and the ſtraiter kind of life: by the old bottels, them that cauont away therewith.

19. Twelue yeeres.) This woman a Gentile had her diſeaſe twelue yeeres, and the Gouernors daughter a Iewe (which is here rayſed to life) was twelue yeeres old, Luc. 8. Marke then the allegorie here of in the Iewes and Gentiles. As that woman fell ſicke when the wench was borne, ſo the Gentiles went their owne wayes into Idolatrie, when the Iewes in Abraham beleeued. Againe, as Chriſt here went to raiſe the wenche, and by the way the woman was firſt healed, and then the wench reuiued: ſo Chriſt came to the Iewes, but the Gentiles beleeued firſt and were ſaued, and in the end: the Iewes ſhall beleeue alſo. Hierom. in Matt.

Rhem. 9. 21. Touch onely.) Not only Chriſtes wordes, but his garment and touch thereof or any thing to him belonging, might do and did miracles, force proceeding from his holy perſon to them. Yea this woman returning home ſet vp an Image of Chriſt, for memorie of this benefite, and the hemme of the ſame Image did alſo miracles. This Image Iulian the Apoſtata threwe downe, and ſet vp his owne in ſteede thereof, which was immediatly deſtroyed by fire from heauen. But the Image of Chriſt broken in peeces by the heathen, the Chriſtians afterwarde gathering the peeces together, placed it in the Church: where it was (as Sozomenus writeth) vnto his time. Relikes and Images. Euſeb. li.7.c. 14 hiſt. li.5.c.20.

Fulke. 9. Chriſt by his word, and without his word, by outward ſignes, and without any at all, did only worke miracles, and the force or vertue did not proceede into his garment, but immediatly from himſelfe: Therefore Chriſt ſaid not, there is vertue proceeded from my garments, but there is vertue proceeded frō me. Luke 8.46. There was no vertue in his garments, when the ſouldiours had parted them among them: nor while he ware them, for the people that thronged him, receiued no benefit by them, but ſhe only, and they that touched him by faith. Nowe concerning the Image that this woman is ſaid to haue ſet vp: Euſebius reporteth the ſtorie, not of his owne knowledge, but of heareſay, That in Cæſarea Philippi, where this woman dwelled, ouer againſt her doore, vpon an high ſtone, was a braſen Image of a woman kneeling, and holding vp her handes, as though ſhe made an humble ſuite: ouer againſt which there was another braſen Image of a man, which was ſaid to be of Chriſt, reaching his hand to the woman, at whoſe feete vpon the ſame pillar, a ſtrange kinde of herbe did ſpring, which when it came vp to the hemme of his braſen garment, it was a medicine for all diſeaſes. Thus Image Euſebius confeſſeth to haue remained vnto his time, as was teſtified by them that trauailed to that citie, and ſawe it. But of the miraculous herbe, how true it was, he ſaith not. Now what his iudgement was of them that did ſet vp this image, he declareth in theſe wordes: ἡμῖν δὲ ἔξεστιν εἰδέναι, &c. And it is not to be marueiled, that thoſe of the Gētiles, which receiued benefites of our Sauiour of olde time, did theſe things, ſeeing we haue ſeene the Images of his Apoſtles Paul and Peter, yea and of Chriſt himſelfe preſerued, being painted in colours, as it is like, ancient men of an heathenish cuſtome, which they had without alteration, after this maner, were wont to honour them whom they tooke for ſauiours. Euſebius accounting this ſetting vp of Images in the honour of Chriſt and his Apoſtles to be an heathenish cuſtome, gaue ſmall credite to the miracle of the ſtrange herbe: of whoſe vertue, he could alledge no example, of any that was cured, as he doeth the teſtimonie of them that ſawe the Image. Relikes. Images. Lib.7.c.18. Idem. Euſe.

Where you alledge out of Sozomenus, ỳ the Chriſtians afterward placed the Image in the Church, as though they ſet it vp to be worſhipped: The truth is, they layd vp ỳ pieces of the Image, after it was broken, which they gathered together, and kept them in the Church, which is all that can be gathered of the ſtorie. Wherein, as they ſhewed ſome zeale of Chriſtian religion, in ſeeking to preſerue that which was defaced by the infidels, ſo they can not bee altogether excuſed from ſuperſtition, if they kept the pieces in the Church, as any relique of holines. Epiphanius finding an Image of Chriſt in a chappel contrary to the Scriptures (as he ſaith) rent it in peeces. Epiph. Epiſt. ad Ioan. Hieroſol.

Rhem. 10 28. Do you beleeue that I can.) We ſee here that to the corporall healing of theſe men hee requireth only this faith, that he is able. Which faith is not ſufficient to iuſtifie them. How then do the Heretikes by this and the like places pleade for their onely iuſtifying faith? See the Annot. Mar. 5.36.

Fulke. 10 No wiſe or learned man alledgeth this place, for iuſtification by faith onely, this is therefore a peeuiſh ſlander. In the place noted you ſhall ſee more. Slander.

Rhem. 11 38. Pray therefore.) Therefore doth the Church pray and faſt in the Imber dayes, when holy Orders are giuen, that is, when workemen are prepared to be ſent into the harueſt. See Act 13.2.

Fulke. 11 Chriſt biddeth not his diſciples pray and faſt in the Imber dayes, but to pray continually, not that lledge prieſts ſhould be ſent forth to ſay Maſſe, but that learned paſtors might be raiſed vp of God, to gather in his haruelt, by preaching the Goſpel. And at the ordination of Miniſters of the Church, what time ſoeuer it be, the Church aſſembled prayeth to God for them ỳ are called, that they may be faithful & diligent in their calling. Imber dayes.

ANNOTATIONS CHAP. X.

Rhem. 1. Power.) Miracles were ſo neceſſarie to the confirmation of their doctrine beginning then to be preached, that not only Chriſt himſelfe did miracles, but alſo he gaue to his Apoſtles power to doe them.

Rhem. 1. 2. Firſt Simon.) Peter the firſt, not in calling, but in preeminence, for (as S. Ambroſe ſayth in 2. Cor. 12.) Andrew firſt folowed our Sauiour before Peter: and yet the Primacie Andrew receaued not, but Peter. which preeminence of S. Peter aboue the other Apoſtles is ſo plainly ſignified in this word, Firſt, by the iudgement euen of Heretikes, that Beza, notwithſtanding he confeſſeth the conſent of al copies both Latin and Greeke, yet is not aſhamed to ſay that he ſuſpecteth that this word was thruſt into the text by ſome fauourer of Peters Primacie, whereby we haue alſo that they care no more for the Greeke then for the Latin, when it maketh againſt them: but as their pleaſure ſay that al is corrupted. Peters Primacie. Beza in Annot. noui. Teſt. 1556.

Fulke 1. S. Ambroſe acknowledgeth the Primacie, but not the preeminence of Peter aboue the other Apoſtles. For in the place quoted, he ſaith, that Paule was not inferiour to the other Apoſtles that went before him, (among which, Peter was one) in dignitie, but in time. And in his booke De Incarnat. Domini cap. 4. he acknowledgeth the Primacie of Peter. Primatum confeſſionis vtique, non honoris, &c. The Primacie of confeſſion verely, not of honour or preeminence, the Primacie of faith, not of degree. Likewiſe De ſp. Sanct. lib. 1. cap. 2. he ſayth, Paule was not inferiour to Peter. And In Ep. ad Gal. cap. 2. he declareth, that Paule had the Primacie ouer the Gentiles, as Peter ouer the Iewes. The reſt that you ſay of Beza, is an impudent ſlander, anſwered in the confutation of your Preface. ſect. 49. Primacie of Peter. Slander.

Rhem. 9. Do not poſſeſſe.) Preachers may not carefully ſeeke after the ſuperfluities of this life, or any thing which may be an impediment to their function. And as for neceſſaries, they deſerue their temporal liuing as their hands for whom they labour ſpiritually.

Rhem. 2. 12. Peace to this houſe.) As Chriſt him ſelf vſed theſe wordes or this bleſſing often. Peace be to you, ſo here he biddeth his Apoſtles ſay the like to the houſe where they come: And ſo hath it been alwayes a moſt godly vſe of Biſhops * to giue their bleſſing where they come, which bleſſing muſt needes be of great grace and profite, when none but worthy perſons (as here we read) might take good therof: and when it is neuer loſt, but returneth to the giuer, when the other partie is not worthy of it. Among other ſpiritual benefites it taketh away veniall ſinnes. Amb. in 9. Luc. Biſhops bleſſing. It remitteth veniall ſinnes.

* Aug. de ciuit. li. 22. c. 8. Leo Imp. in vit. S. Chryſ. Socrat. li. 6. c. 14.

Fulke 2. We doubt not, but the bleſſing or godly prayers, as of the Apoſtles, ſo alſo of godly Biſhops, and other Miniſters of the Church, is greatly to be eſteemed: but the popiſh Biſhops bleſſing with his fingers, is not worth a ſtraw, neither doth any ancient Father commend ſuch a bleſſing. S. Auguſtine ſayth, that he and other departing from Aurelius a godly Biſhop, receiued benediction of him, that is, a godly and chriſtian farewell. In Socr. lib. 6. c. 14 is no mention of Biſhops bleſſing, but rather of banning. For Socrates reporteth, yet doubting whether it was true, that Epiphanius and Chryſoſtome being fallen out, Chryſoſtome ſhould ſay, I hope thou ſhalt neuer come to thy contrie, and Epiphanius anſwered, I hope thou ſhalt not die Biſhop. But whether they ſaid ſo or no, Epiphanius dyed in the way homeward, and Chryſoſtome was depoſed from his biſhoprike. I ſuppoſe this ſtory, maketh litle for the Biſhops bleſſing. But it taketh away veniall ſinnes (you ſay) by authoritie of Ambroſe In Luc. 9. But in truth, there is neuer a word of the Biſhop, or of his bleſſing, or of veniall ſinnes, but of the benefite which men receiue by entertaining of Preachers of the Goſpell. Vt non ſolum pacem tribuamus hoſpitibus, verum etiam ſi qua eos terrena obumbrant delicta leuitatis, receptu Apoſtolicæ prædicationis veſtigijs, auferantur. We doe not onely giue peace to them that entertaine vs, but alſo if any offences of earthly lightnes doe ouerſhadow them, after the ſteppes of the Apoſtolike preaching be receiued, they are taken away. His meaning is, they receiue great benefite both by the prayers and by the doctrine of the Preachers, if they entertaine it as well as their perſons. A poore place, for the popiſh Biſhops bleſſing. Biſhops bleſſings. De Ciuit. l. 22. Cap. 8.

Rhem. 14. Shake of the duſt.) To contemne the true Preachers, or not to receiue the truth preached, is a very damnable ſinne.

15. More tolerable) Hereby it is euident that there be degrees and differences of damnation in Hel fire according to mens deſerts. Aug. li. 4. de Bapt. c. 19.

18. Kings.) In the beginning Kings and Emperours perſecuted the Churche, that by the very death and bloud of Martyrs it ſhould grow more miraculouſly. afterward when the Emperours and Kings were them ſelues become Chriſtians, they vſed their power for the Churche, againſt Infidels and Heretikes. Aug. ep. 48.

Rhem. 3. 19. It ſhal be giuen.) This is verified euen as this preſent alſo, when many good Catholikes, that haue no great learning, by their anſwers confound the Aduerſaries.

Fulke 3. The ſtory of the Church declareth, this to be verified in the true Martyrs thereof, but the beſt learned of the Papiſtes, are not able to defend their hereſie by the Scriptures, againſt the vnlearned Chriſtian Catholikes, much leſſe againſt the learned, as the writings of both partes make manifeſt.

Rhem. 4. 25. How much more.) No marueil therefore if Heretikes cal Chriſtes Vicar Antichriſt, when their forefathers the faithles Iewes called Chriſt him ſelf Beelzebub.

Fulke 4. He that calleth him ſelfe the Vicar of Chriſt, and putteth himſelfe in the ſteed of Chriſt, by the very ſignification of the word, is Antichriſt. So doth the Pope: hauing no warrant out of the word of God, to be ſo much, as a member of Chriſt. Becauſe his doctrine, decrees and life, are contrary to Chriſt, as in the booke called Antitheſis Chriſti & Papæ, and many other godly Treatiſes, is manifeſtly declared. Antichriſt.

Rhem. 32. Confeſſe me.) See how Chriſt eſteemeth the open confeſſing of him, that is, of his truth in the Catholike Church. for as when Saul perſecuted the Church, he ſayd * him ſelf was perſecuted: ſo to confeſſe him, and his Church is al one. Contrariwiſe, ſee how he abhorreth them that deny him before men, which is not only to deny any one litle article of the Catholike fayth commended to vs by the Churche: but alſo to allow or conſent to hereſie by any meanes, as by Confeſſing of Chriſt and his truth. Act. 4.

ſubſcribing, comming to their ſeruice and ſermons, ſurthering them any way againſt Catholikes, and ſuch like.

Rhem. 5. 34. Not peace but ſword.) Chriſt came to breake the peace of worldlings and ſinners: as when the ſonne beleeueth in him, and the father doth not: the wife is a Catholike, and the husband is not. For to agree together in infidelitie, hereſie, or any other ſinne, is a naughtie peace. This being the true meaning of Chriſtes wordes, marke that the Heretikes interprete this to mainteine their rebellions and troubles which their new goſpel breedeth. Beza in no. Teſt. an. 1565.

Fulke 5. This is a meere ſlander againſt Beza: for our Goſpell which we preach, neither breedeth, nor alloweth any rebellions. But your helliſh father the Pope, rayſeth rebellions, as it is moſt notorious, againſt our ſoueraigne Lady the Queene, of her ſubiects in the North, and ſendeth both his Legats, and his banner of rebellion, to rayſe rebellion in Ireland, hireth, bleſſeth, and pardoneth, horrible traytors, to murder their moſt louing and naturall Prince, and you traytors of Rhemes, are ioyned with them in their moſt deuiliſh conſpiracies, procuring and comforting them, that enterpriſe ſuch monſtrous impietie: and ſhame you nothing, to charge Beza with mainteining of rebellion? As for the ciuill warres in France, let all the kings edictes of pacification, that hitherto haue come forth, teſtifie, that thoſe of the reformed religion, in taking armes to defend the lawes and liberties of their countrey, againſt priuate perſons, haue done nothing but in the kings ſeruice.

Slander. D. Morton. D. Sander. Parry and the reſt executed.

Rhem. 37. More then.) No earthly thing, nor duty to Parents, wife, children, countrie, or to a mans owne body and life, can be any iuſt excuſe why a man ſhould doe, or feyne him ſelfe to doe or beleeue any thing, againſt Chriſt or the vnitie and faith of his Church.

Rhem. 6. 41. In the name.) Reward for hoſpitality, and ſpecially for receiuing an holy perſon, as Prophet, Apoſtle, Biſhop, or Prieſt perſecuted for Chriſtes ſake. For by receiuing of him in that reſpect as he is ſuch an one, he ſhal be partaker of his merites, and be rewarded as for ſuch an one, whereas on the contrary ſide, he that receiueth an Heretike into his houſe and a falſe preacher, doth communicate with his wicked workes. Ep. 2. Io.

Fulke. 6. Our Sauiour Chriſt promiſeth a reward to them that entertaine the godly, perſecuted or not perſecuted, but not out of the merite of him that is receiued, which is nothing vnto ſaluation, but of his owne abundant grace, by which, the Prophet and the righteous man, receiue their reward, and not of their owne merites. Prouided, that Ieſuites, ſeminarie Prieſts, and ſuch other, that come to ſtirre vp rebellion, procure murther of their Prince, and inuaſion of their country by ſtrangers, or to infect the people with popiſh hereſies, be not accompted, but as falſe prophets, hypocrites, traytors, and hereuks, not Prophets, iuſt men, or true Chriſtian Catholikes.

Merites.

CHAP. XI.

Iohn the Baptiſt in priſon alſo doing his diligence, ſendeth ſome of his diſciples to Chriſt: that as they heard, ſo they might alſo ſee his miracles with their eyes. 7 Afterward Chriſt declareth how worthy of credite Iohns teſtimonie was: 16 and inueigheth againſt the Iewes, who with neither of their maners of life could be wonne: 20 nor ever with Chriſtes infinite miracles: 25 praiſing Gods wiſedom in this behalfe, 27 and calling to him ſelfe al ſuch as feele their owne burdens.

AND it came to paſſe: when IESVS had done commaunding his twelue Diſciples, he paſſed from thence, to teach and preach in their cities.

The Goſpel on the 2. Sunday in Aduent. Luc. 7, 18.

2 * And when Iohn had heard in priſon the workes of Chriſt: ſending two of his diſciples, he ſaid to him,

3 ‖ Art thou he that art to come, or looke we for an other?

4 And IESVS making anſwer ſaide to them, Goe & report to Iohn what you haue heard and ſeen.

Eſa. 35, 5. 61, 1.

5 * The blinde ſee, the lame walke, the lepers are made cleane, the deafe heare, the dead riſe againe, to the poore the Goſpel is preached:

6 And bleſſed is he that ſhal not be ſcandalized in me.

7 And when they went their way, IESVS began to ſay to the multitudes of Iohn, ‖ what went you out ‖ into the deſert to ſee? a reede ſhaken with the winde?

8 But what went you out to ſee? a man clothed in ſoft garments? Behold they that are clothed in ſoft garments, are in Kinges houſes.

9 But what went you out to ſee? a Prophet? yea I tel you & more then a Prophet.

10 For

AND it came to paſſe, that when Ieſus had made an ende of commaunding his twelue diſciples, he departed thence to teach, and to preach in their cities.

*2 * When Iohn had heard in the priſon the workes of Chriſt, he ſent two of his diſciples,* Luke 7, 18.

3 And ſaid vnto him, Art thou he that ſhould come? Or do we looke for another?

4 Ieſus anſwered, and ſayd vnto them: Goe, and ſhew Iohn againe thoſe thinges which ye doe heare and ſee:

5 The blinde receiue their ſight, the halt doe walke, the lepers are cleanſed, and the deafe heare, the dead are rayſed vp, and the poore haue the Goſpell preached to them.

6 And happy is he, whoſoeuer ſhall not be offended in me.

7 And as they departed, Ieſus began to ſay vnto the multitude concerning Iohn, What went ye out into the wilderneſſe to ſee? A reede ſhaken with the winde?

8 Or what went ye out for to ſee? A man clothed in ſoft rayment? Behold, they that weare ſoft clothing, are in kings houſes.

9 But what went ye out for to ſee? A Prophet? yea, I ſay vnto you, and more then a Prophet.

10 For

10 For this is he of whom it is written, Behold I ſend mine angel before thy face, which ſhal prepare the way before thee. ☞
Mal.3,1.

11 Amen I ſay to you, there hath not riſen among the borne of women a greater then Iohn the Baptiſt: yet he that is the leſſer in the kingdom of heauen, is greater then he.

12 And *from the daies of Iohn the Baptiſt vntil now, the kingdom of heauen ſuffereth violence, and the violent beare it away.
Luc.16,16.

13 For al the Prophets and the Law prophecied vnto Iohn:

14 And if you wil receiue it, he is * ‖ Elias that is for to come.
Mal.4,5.

15 He ẏ hath eares to heare, let him heare.

16 And * wherevnto ſhal I eſteeme this generation to be like? It is like to children ſitting in the market place: which crying to their companions,
Luc.7,31.

17 Say, we haue piped to you, and you haue not daunced: we haue lamented, and you haue not mourned.

18 For * Iohn came neither ‖ eating nor drinking: and they ſay, He hath a diuel.
Mt.3,4.

19 The Sonne of man came eating and drinking, and they ſay, Behold a man that is a glotton and a winedrinker, a frende of Publicans and ſinners. And wiſedom is iuſtified of her children.

20 Then * began he to vpbraide the cities, wherein were done the moſt of his miracles, for that they had not done penance.
Luc.10,13.

21 Wo be to thee Corazain, wo be to thee Beth-ſaida: for if in Tyre and Sidon had been wrought the miracles that haue been wrought in you, they had done ‖ penance in heare cloth and aſhes long agoe.

22 But neuertheleſſe, I ſay to you, it ſhal be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the day of iudgement, then for you.

23 And thou Capharnaum, ſhalt thou be exalted vp to heauen? thou ſhalt come downe euen vnto hel. for if in Sodom had been wrought the miracles that haue been wrought in thee, perhaps it had remained vnto this day.

24 But notwithſtanding I ſay to you, that it ſhal be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of iudgement, then for thee.

The Goſpel vpon S. Matthias day Feb. 24. and vpon S. Francis day Octob. 4. & for many Martyrs.

25 At that time IESVS anſwered & ſaid. * I confeſſe to thee O Father lord of heauen and earth, becauſe thou haſt hid theſe things from the wiſe and prudent, and haſt reuealed them to ‖ litle ones.
Luc.10,21.

26 Yea Father: for ſo hath it wel pleaſed thee.

27 Al

10 For this is he of whome it is written, Behold, I ſend my meſſenger before thy face, which ſhal prepare thy way before thee.* Mala.3.1.

11 Verily I ſay vnto you, Among them that are borne of women, there hath not riſen a greater then Iohn the Baptiſt: notwithſtanding, he that is leſſe in the kingdome of heauen, is greater then he.

*12 * From the dayes of Iohn the Baptiſt, vntil nowe, the kingdome of heauen ſuffereth violence, and the violent plucke it* vnto them. Luk.16.16.

13 For all the Prophets, and the lawe it ſelfe, prophecied vnto Iohn.

*14 And if ye will receiue it, * this is Elias which was for to come.* Mala.4.5.

*15 * He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.* Luk.7.31.

16 But whereunto ſhall I liken this generation? It is like vnto litle children, ſitting in the markets, and calling vnto their felowes, 17 And ſaying, We haue piped vnto you, and ye haue not daunced: we haue mourned vnto you, and ye haue not ſorowed.

18 For Iohn came neither eating nor drinking, and they ſay, He hath a deuill.

19 The ſonne of man came eating and drinking, and they ſay, Beholde a man gluttonous, and a wine bibber, and a friend vnto Publicanes and ſinners: and wiſedom was iuſtified of her children.

*20 * Then began he to vpbrayde the cities, wherein moſt of his mightie workes were done, becauſe they repented not.* Luk.10.13.

21 Woe vnto thee Chorazin, woe vnto thee Bethſaida: for if the mightie works which were done in you, had bene done in Tyre & Sidon, they would haue repented long agoe in ſackcloth and aſhes.

22 But I ſay vnto you, It ſhall be eaſier for Tyre and Sidon at the day of iudgement, then for you.

23 And thou Capernaum, which haſt bene lifted vp into heauen, ſhalt be brought downe to hell: For if the mightie workes which haue bene done in thee, had bene done among them of Sodome, they would haue remained vntil this day.

24 But I ſay vnto you, that it ſhal be eaſier for the land of Sodome in the day of iudgement, then for thee.

25 At that time Ieſus anſwered, and ſayd, I thanke thee, O Father, Lorde of heauen and earth, becauſe thou haſt hid theſe thinges from the wiſe and prudent, and haſt ſhewed them vnto babes. Luk.10.21.

26 Euen ſo, O Father, for ſo was it thy good pleaſure.

27 Al things are deliuered me of my Father. And no man knoweth the Sonne but the Father: neither doth any know the Father, but the Sonne, & to whom it shal please the Sonne to reueale.

28 Come ye to me al that labour, and are burdened, and I wil refresh you.

29 Take vp my yoke vpon you, & learne of me, be cause I am meeke, and humble of hart: and you shal finde rest to your soules.

30 For my ‖ yoke is sweete, and my burden light.

27 *All things are giuen vnto me of my Father: * and no man knoweth the Sonne, but the Father: neither knoweth any man the Father, saue the Sonne, and he to whom soeuer the Sonne will open* him. Iohn 3.36. & 6.46.

28 Come vnto me all ye that labour sore, and are laden, and I will ease you.

29  Take my yoke vpon you, and learne of me, for I am meeke and lowly in heart: and ye shal finde rest vnto your soules.* Iere.6.16.

30  For my yoke is easie, and my burden is light.* 1.Iohn.5.3.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XI.

Rhem. 3. Art thou he.) Iohn him selfe doubted not, for he baptized him and gaue great testimonie of him before: Io.1. But because his disciples knewe him not, nor esteemed of him so much as of Iohn their owne Maister, therfore did he send them vnto Christ, that by occasion of Christes answer he might the better instruct them what he was, and so make them Christes disciples, preferring them to a better Maister.

7. What went you out.) High commendation of Iohns holinesse, as wel for his fasting, rough attire, solitary life, Eremitical life. and constancie, as for the dignitie of his function.

Rhem. 1. 7. Into the desert. The faithful people in al ages resorted of deuotion into wildernes to see men of special and rare holines, Prophets, Eremites, Anchorites &c. to haue their prayers or ghostly counsel. See S.Hierom de vita Hilarionis.

Fulke 1. When men of rare holines, haue bene in the wildernes, (which hath not bene in al ages) men haue resorted to them to be partakers of their prayers, and ghostly counsaile. But this pertayneth not to popish. Heremites, which dwelled commonly scarce a quarter of a myle from cities and populous townes, nor to popish Anachorets, which dwelled euen in cities and townes, hauing daily resort vnto them, although they came not abroade them selues. Eremites.

Rhem.2. 14. Elias. As Elias shal be the messenger of Christes later coming, so was Iohn his messenger and Præcursor at his former coming: and therfore is he called Elias, because of his like office and like spirit. Luc.1.Grego.ho.7.in Euang. Elias.

Fulke 2. The Greeke Participle being of the preterimperfect temps, as well as of the present, the comming of Elias in person, can not be proued out of this text, notwithstanding the opinion of Gregory, and other ancient writers, which S.Hierom vpon this place noteth, but doth not allow. Origen seemeth to be against it, *in Matth. tract.*3. and Pamphilus Apologia pro Origine. The like vse of this Participle is in this same chapter ver.3. where the sense must needes be, Art thou he which was to come. So it ought to be here. This is Elias which was to come. So doth Hentenius a Papist translate it, Qui venturus erat. in Esaiam.

Rhem. 18. Eating and drinking.) The wicked quarrellers of the world misconstre easely al the actes and life of good men. If they be greate fasters and austere liuers, they are blasphemed and counted hypocrites: if they conuerse with other men in ordinary maner, then they be counted dissolute.

Rhem. 3. 21. Penance in sackcloth.) *By this sackcloth and ashes added here and in other places, we see euidently that Penance is not onely leauing of former sinnes, and chaunge or amendement of life past, no nor bare confessing or recounting of our offenses already committed, but requireth punishement, and chastisement of our persons by these and such other meanes as the Scriptures do els where set forth, and therfore concerning the worde also, it is rather to be called Penance, as in our translation: then (as the Aduersaries of purpose auoyding the word) Repentance or Amendement of life: and that according to the very vsual signification of the * Greeke word in the most ancient Ecclesiastical Greeke writers: who for* Pœnitentes (which in the Primitiue Church did publike penance) say, οἱ μετανοοῦντες, that is, Men that are doing penance. And concerning that part of penance which is Confession, the Eccl: siastical historie calleth it by the same Greeke word, and the penitents comming to confession, ἐπὶ μετανοίαν. Sozom.li.7.c.16.Socrat.li.5.c.19. Penance. Metánoia. * Dionys. Eccl. hier.c.3. in initio.

Fulke 3. Sackcloth and ashes are signes of humiliation (as S.Basil sayth,) and so helping vnto repentance, and thereto pertaineth all chastisement of the body, which the Scripture commendeth, and not to satisfaction for our sinnes. The Greeke word signifieth, change of the mind, and therefore is well translated by vs, repentance and amendement of life, and is not taken for paine or punishment, as you would import by your terme of penance, which yet if it be rightly vnderstood, is nothing but penitence. And although Dionyse, or other ancient fathers, haue sometimes, and that seldome, vsed the word μετάνοια, by a Metonimy, for the publike exercises, that were appointed for the triall and testimonie of repentance, in them that had openly fallen, yet it followeth not, that the word doth properly signifie so: but as it is in the Scripture, and of the Greeke Fathers also most commonly taken for true repentance, and conuersion of the heart vnto God. Neither is confession called μετάνοια in the Ecclesiasticall writers, although they speake of Priests or Elders, that by hearing mens confessions, iudged of their repentance, and therefore were called those that were appointed for repentance. *Socr lib.5 Cap.*19. neither are they that confessed called μετανοοῦντες of their confession, but of their repentance, where of the humble acknowledging, and confessing of their sinnes, was a testimonie vnto men, as their conscience was knowne to God. In Psal.29. Satisfaction for sinne. Confession.

Rhem.4. 25. Litle ones.) These litle ones doe not signifie here only the vnlearned, as though Coblers and Weauers and women and girles had this reuelation, and therfore do vnderstand al Scriptures and are able to expound them: but here are signified the humble, whether they be learned or vnlearned: as when he sayth, Vnles you become as litle ones, you shal not enter into ỹ kingdome of heauen. And so also the greatest Doctors (who as they were most learned, so most humbled Mt.18.3.

themſelues to the iudgement of the Catholike Church) are theſe litle ones: & Heretiki, who although vnlearned, yet vaunt their knowledge and their ſpirit of vnderſtanding aboue all auncient fathers and the whole Church, cannot be of theſe litle and humble ones.

Fulke. 4. The godly, whether they be learned or vnlearned, doe not vaunt of their knowledge, and ſpirit of vnderſtanding, aboue all auncient fathers, and the whole Church. But where they haue the plaine teſtimonie of Gods worde on their ſide, they may ſafely be preferred, before the authoritie of all the men of the world, that holde the contrary. By that which hath bene obſerued in part, and more ſhalbe God-willing, before we come to the ende of theſe Annotations, it ſhall appeare, that the Papiſts which bragge ſo much of the auncient fathers, and of the Church, doe much more decline from the iudgement of the auncient fathers, and primitiue Church, then we, which may not yeelde to any mans opinion, that is contrary to the plaine ſenſe of the holy Scriptures and worde of God. Slander. The authoride of the Scripture. Auncient fathers.

Rhem. 5. 30. Yoke ſweete.) What is this light burden and ſweete yoke, but his commandements, of which S. Iohn ſaith, 1. Epiſ. 5. His commandements are not heauy? cleane contrary to the aduerſaries that ſay, they are vnpoſſible to be kept. The commandements poſſible.

Fulke. 5. The Lawe of God is vnpoſſible to be kept in ſuch perfection, as God requireth, and therefore no man can be iuſtified by the workes of ỹ Law, Gal. 2. 16. c. 3, 11. And yet the yoke of Chriſt is ſweete, and his burthen light to them whom he eaſeth and refreſheth from the burthen of ſinne, and his commandements are not heauie, to them, whoſe faith ouercommeth the world, 1. Ioh. 5. But if any man can keepe Gods commandements, he needeth not to come to Chriſt to be refreſhed, he ouercommeth by iuſtice of workes, & not by faith, he needs not ſay the Lordes prayer: yea Chriſt died not for ſuch a one. The Lawe impoſſible to be kept.

CHAP. XII.

The blindneſſe of the Phariſees about the Sabboth he reproueth by Scriptures, by reaſon, and by a myracle. 14. and his death being therefore ſought by them, he meekely goeth out of the way, according as Eſay had prophecied of him. 22. His caſting out of deuils alſo he defendeth againſt them. 31. and ſetteth forth the danger they ſtand in for their horrible blaſphemie. 38. And becauſe they aske yet for a ſigne, he ſheweth howe worthely they ſhall be damned, 43. foretelling howe the deuill ſhall poſſeſſe their Nation. 46. and teſtifying that although he be of their blood, yet nor they for this, but ſuch as keepe his commandements are deere vnto him.

Mar. 2. 23. Luke 6. 1. AT that time * IESVS went through the corne on the Sabboth: and his Diſciples being hungrie, began to plucke ỹ eares, and to eate.

2 And the Phariſees ſeeing them, ſaid to him. Loe, thy Diſciples doe that which is not lawful for them to doe on ỹ Sabboth-dayes.

3 But he ſaid to them, Haue you not read 1. Reg. 21. 4. what * Dauid did when he was an hungred, and they that were with him:

4 How he entred into the houſe of God, and did eate ỹ loaues of propoſition, which it was not lawfull for him to eate, nor for them ỹ were with him, *but for prieſts only?

Leui. 24. 9. Num. 28. 9. 5 Or haue ye not read in the *Lawe, that on Sabboth-dayes the prieſtes in the temple doe breake ỹ Sabboth, & are without blame?

6 But I tell you that there is here a greater then the temple.

Oſe. 6. 6. 7 And if you did knowe what it is, I will mercie, and not ‡ ſacrifice: you would neuer haue condemned the innocentes. ‡ See the annotation Chap. 9. 13.

Mar. 3. 1. Luke 6. 6. 10 And * behold there was a man which had a withered hand, and they asked him ſaying, whether is it lawfull to cure on the Sabboths? that they might accuſe him.

2 But when the Phariſees ſawe them, they ſaid vnto him, Behold, thy diſciples doe that which is not lawfull to doe vpon the Sabboth day.

3 But he ſaide vnto them, Haue ye not read what Dauid did when he was an hungred, and they that were with him, 1. Sam. 21. 6.

*5 Or haue ye not read in the * lawe, howe that on the Sabboth dayes the prieſtes in the Temple prophane the Sabboth, and are blameleſſe?* Leuit. 8. 31. num. 28. 9.

6 But I ſay vnto you, that in this place is one greater then the temple.

7 But if ye had knowen what this meaneth, I will mercy, and not ſacrifice, ye would not haue condemned the gyltleſſe. Oſe. 6. 7.

8 For the ſonne of man is Lorde euen of the Sabboth day.

*9 * And whē he was departed thence, he went into their ſynagogue,* Mar. 3. 1. luke 6. 6.

10 And beholde, there was a man which had his hand dried vp, and they asked him, ſaying, Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabboth dayes? that they might accuſe him.

11 And he ſaid vnto them, What man of you will there be that ſhall haue one ſheepe: and if it fall into a pit on the Sabboth day, will he not take holde of it, and lift it out?

12 How much better is a man more then a ſheepe? therefore it is lawfull on the Sabboths to doe a good deede.

13 Then he ſaith to ỳ man, Stretch forth thy hand. and he ſtretched it forth, & it was reſtored to health euen as the other.

14 And the Phariſees going forth made a conſultation againſt him, how they might deſtroy him.

15 But IESVS knowing it, retired from thence: and many folowed him, and he cured them all.

16 And he charged them ỳ they ſhould not diſcloſe him.

17 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by Eſay the Prophete, ſaying.

Eſa.42.1. 18 Beholde my ſeruant whom I haue choſen, my beloued in whom my ſoule hath well liked. I will put my ſpirit vpon him, and iudgement to the Gentiles ſhall he ſhewe.

19 He ſhall not contend, nor crie out, neither ſhall any man heare in the ſtreetes his voyce.

20 The reede bruiſed he ſhall not breake, and ſmoking flaxe he ſhall not extinguiſh: till he caſt forth iudgement vnto victorie.

21 And in his name the Gentiles ſhall hope.

Luke 11,14. Mar.3,22. 22 Then *was offered to him one poſſeſſed with a deuill, blinde and dumme: and he cured him, ſo that he ſpake and ſawe.

23 And all the multitudes were amaſed, and ſaid, whether this be ỳ Sonne of Dauid?

24 But the Phariſees hearing it, ſaid, This felowe caſteth not out deuils but ‖in Beelzebub the Prince of the deuils.

25 And IESVS knowing their cogitations, ſaide to them. Euery kingdome ‡ deuided againſt it ſelfe ſhall be made deſolate: and euery citie or houſe deuided againſt it ſelfe, ſhall not ſtand.

‡Therefore the kingdome of heretikes can not poſsibly ſtand, becauſe it is alwayes full of diuiſion and diſſenſion.

26 And if Satan caſt out Satan, he is deuided againſt him ſelfe: howe then ſhall his kingdome ſtand?

27 And if I in Beelzebub caſt out deuils: your children in whom doe they caſt out? Therefore they ſhall be your iudges:

28 But if I in ỳ Spirit of God do caſt out deuils, thē is ỳ kingdom of God come vpō you.

29 Or howe can a man enter into ỳ houſe of ỳ ſtrong, and rifle his veſſell, vnleſſe he firſt bind ỳ ſtrong? & then he will rifle his houſe.

30 He that is ‖not with me, is againſt me: and he ỳ ‖ gathereth not with me, ſcattereth.

31 Therefore I ſay to you, euery ſinne & blaſphemie ſhall be forgiuen men, but ‖ the blaſphemie of ỳ Spirit ſhall not be forgiuen.

32 And whoſoeuer ſhall ſpeake a worde againſt

12 How much more then is a man better then a ſheepe? Wherefore it is lawfull to doe wel on the Sabboth dayes.

13 Then ſaith he to the man, Stretch foorth thy hand: and he ſtretched it foorth, and it was reſtored whole, like as the other.

14 Then the Phariſees went out, and helde a counſel againſt him, how they might deſtroy him.

15 But when Ieſus knewe it, he departed thence: and great multitudes folowed him, and he healed them all,

16 And charged them that they ſhould not make him knowen:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by Eſaias the Prophet, ſaying,

*18 Beholde my childe whom I haue choſen, my beloued, in whom my ſoule well delighteth: I will put my ſpirite vpon him, and he ſhall ſhewe iudgement to the Gentiles. Eſa.42.1.

19 He ſhall not ſtriue, nor crie, neither ſhall any man heare his voyce in the ſtreetes.

20 A bruiſed reede ſhall he not breake, and ſmoking flaxe ſhal he not quench, till he ſend forth iudgement vnto victorie.

21 And in his name ſhall the Gentiles truſt.

*22 * Then was brought vnto him one poſſeſſed with a deuill, blinde, and dumbe: and he healed him, inſomuch that the blind and dumbe both ſpake and ſawe.* Luke 11.14.

23 And al the people were amazed, and ſaid, Is not this that ſonne of Dauid?

*24 * But when the Phariſees heard it, they ſaid, This* felowe doeth not caſt out theſe deuils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the deuils. Mat.9.34. mar.3.22. luke 11.17.

25 But when Ieſus knewe their thoughts, he ſaide vnto them, Euery kingdome deuided againſt it ſelfe, is brought to deſolation: and euery citie or houſe deuided againſt it ſelf, ſhal not ſtād.

26 And if Satan caſt out Satan, then were he deuided againſt himſelfe, howe ſhall then his kingdome endure?

27 Alſo if I by Beelzebub caſt out deuils, by whom doe your children caſt them out? Therefore they ſhall be your Iudges.

28 But if I caſt out the deuils by the ſpirite of God, then is the kingdome of God come vpō you.

29 Or els, howe can one enter into a ſtrong mans houſe, and ſpoile his goods, except he firſt binde the ſtrong man, & then wil ſpoile his houſe.

30 He that is not with me, is againſt me: and he that gathereth not with me, ſcattereth abroad.

*31 Wherefore I ſay vnto you, * All maner of ſinne and blaſphemie ſhall be forgiuen vnto men: but the blaſphemie againſt the* holy ſpirite, ſhall not be forgiuen vnto men. Mar.3.28. luke 12.10. iohn 5.13.

34 You vipers broodes, howe can you ſpeake good things, wheras you are euil? for of ỹ abūdāce of ỹ heart the mouth ſpeaketh.

the ſōne of man, it ſhalbe forgiuē him: but whoſoeuer ſpeaketh againſt the holy Ghoſt, it ſhal not be forgiuen him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come.

33 Either make the tree good, and his fruite good: Or els make the tree euil, & his fruite euil: For the tree is knowen by his fruite.

*34 O generations of vipers, how can ye ſpeake good things, when ye your ſelues are euil? * For out of the abundance of the heart, the mouth ſpeaketh.* Luke 6.45.

35 A good man out of the good treaſure of the heart, bringeth forth good things: and an euil man out of the euill treaſure, bringeth forth euill things.

36 But I ſay vnto you, That of euery idle word that men ſhall ſpeake, they ſhall giue account thereof in the day of iudgement.

37 For of thy wordes thou ſhalt be iuſtified, and of thy wordes thou ſhalt be condemned.

*38 * Then certaine of the Scribes, and of the Phariſees, anſwered him, ſaying, Maſter, We will ſee a ſigne of thee.* Mat.16.2. luke 11.29. 1.cor.1.22.

39 But he anſwered, and ſaid to them, An euill and adulterous generation ſeeketh a ſigne, and there ſhall no ſigne be giuen to it, but the ſigne of the Prophet Ionas.

*40 * For as Ionas was three dayes and three nightes in the Whales bellie: ſo ſhall the ſonne of man be three daies and three nightes in the heart of the earth.* Ionas 2.1.

*41 The men of Ninive ſhall riſe in the iudgement with this nation, and cōdemne it, * becauſe they repented at the preaching of Ionas, and beholde, here is one greater then Ionas.* Ionas 3.5.

*42 * The Queene of the South ſhall riſe in the iudgement with this generation, and ſhall condemne it: for ſhe came from the vttermoſt partes of the earth to heare the wiſdome of Solomon, & behold, in this place is one greater then Solomon.* 1.King.10.1. 2.chro.9.1.

43 When the vncleane ſpirit is gone out of a man, he walketh thorowout dry places ſeeking reſt, and findeth none.

44 Then he ſaith, I will returne into my houſe from whence I came out. And when he is come, he findeth it emptie, ſwept, and garniſhed.

*45 Then goeth he, and taketh with himſelfe ſeuen other ſpirites worſe then himſelfe, and they enter in, and dwell there: * And the laſt ſtate of that man is worſe then the firſt. Euen ſo ſhall it be alſo vnto this froward generation.* 2.Pet.2.20. hebr.6.4.

*46 While he yet talked to the people, * behold, his mother and his brethren ſtood without, deſiring to ſpeake with him.* Mar.3.31. luke 8.20.

48 But he anſwering him that tolde him, ſaid, ‖ who is my mother, and who are my brethren?

49 And ſtretching forth his hand vpon his diſciples, he ſaide, Beholde my mother and my brethren.

50 For whoſoeuer ſhall doe the will of my father, that is in heauen: he is my brother, and ſiſter, and mother. ☙

48 But he anſwered, and ſaide vnto him that tolde him, Who is my mother? Or who are my brethren?

*49 And when he had ſtretched forth his hand toward his diſciples, he ſaid, Beholde my mother and my brethren. Iohn 15.7.

50 For whoſoeuer ſhall doe the will of my father which is in heauen, the ſame is my brother, and ſiſter, and mother.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XII.

Rhem.1. 33. Make the tree good.) It is a mans owne free will and election, to be a good tree or an ill tree: to bring foorth good fruites or bad. S. Auguſtine vpon this place, lib.2.c.4.de actis cum Felic. Manichæo.

Fulke.1. S. Auguſtine defendeth freewil againſt the hereſie of the Manichees, which helde that men were made euil by nature, and creation of the euill god, and not of their owne will. The freedome therefore againſt ſuch enforcement, as the Manichees taught, is not contrary to ỹ thraldome of mans will, ſince the fall of Adam, which fell of his free-will. And therefore S. Auguſtine in his retractation of the ſame booke ſaith, In the ſecond of theſe bookes we diſputed of the free choiſe of will, either to the doing of euill, or good. But of grace, whereby they are truely free, of whom it is ſaid: if the ſonne ſhall make you free, then ſhall you be truely free, we were not compelled by any neceſſitie to diſpute more diligently, becauſe the aduerſarie was ſuch a one, as he was, with whom we had to doe. And the very ſame collection out of this text, he retracteth lib.1.cap.22. and ſheweth, howe it muſt be vnderſtood, that he ſaide of free-will, or els it is erroneous: Alio loco, &c. In another place I ſaide, except a man ſhall change his will, he can worke no good, which in another place he teacheth to be placed in our power, where he ſaith: Either make the tree good, and his fruite good, or make the tree euill, and his fruite euill, which is not againſt the grace of God, which we preach nowe. For it is in the power of man to change his will into better, but this power is none at all, except it be giuen of God, of whom it is ſaid, he gaue them power to be made the ſonnes of God: for ſeeing that it is in our power which we doe, when we are willing, nothing is ſo much in our power as our will it ſelfe, but our will is prepared of the Lorde, by whom therefore he giueth power. So is it to be vnderſtood which I ſaid afterward: that it is in our power, that we may obtaine, either to be engraffed into the goodneſſe of God, or to be cut of by his ſoueraitie: becauſe it is not in our power, but that it followeth our will, which when it is prepared of the Lord to be ſtrong and able, that worke of pietie is eaſily done, which otherwiſe was hard, yea impoſſible. Thus the ſimple may ſee, how you goe about to delude them, alleadging the words of S. Auguſtine, againſt his owne iudgement and meaning. Freewil. Rer. li.1.c.8.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XII.

Rhem.2. 24. In Beelzebub.) The like blaſphemie againſt the holy Ghoſt is, to attribute the miracles done by Saintes either dead or aliue, to the deuill.

Fulke.2. Thoſe miracles that are ſaid to be done by Saintes, and are alleadged to mainteine any doctrine contrary to the trueth taught in the holy Scriptures, S. Auguſtine is bold to call them either the fictions of lying men, or els the workes of deceiuing ſpirits: for either thoſe things are not true which are ſaid of thoſe miracles, or els if heretikes haue any miracles, we muſt the rather beware of them. This writeth S. Auguſtine againſt the Donatiſts, which were full of lying miracles, but come ſhort by a thouſand degrees of the Papiſtes, the monſters of whoſe lying miracles are much more, then all the poeticall fables: which all modeſt Papiſtes will be aſhamed to heare of, but theſe traytours of Rhemes, barking againſt the trueth, are aſhamed of nothing. Miracles. De vnit. eccleſ. cap. 16. Wemes legenda aurea feſtiu. ſer. diſcip. and other ſuch monſters of lying miracles.

Rhem. 30. Not with me.) They that are indifferents to all religions, commonly and fitly called Neuters, ioyning them ſelues to neither part, let them marke theſe wordes well, and they ſhall ſee, that Chriſt accompted all them to be againſt him and his Church, that are not plainely and flatly with him and it. Neuters in religion.

Rhem. 3. 30. Gathereth not with me.) He ſpeaketh not onely of his owne perſon, but of all to whom he hath committed the gouernement of his Church, and ſpecially of the chiefe paſtours ſucceeding Peter in the gouernement of the whole. As S. Hierom writing to Damaſus Pope of Rome, applieth theſe wordes vnto him, ſaying of all Heretikes, He that gathereth not with thee, ſcattereth: that is to ſay, He that is not with Chriſt, is with Antichriſt. Epi. 58.

Fulke.3. He ſpeaketh of his owne doctrine, by which we muſt make trial, who gathereth with him, and who not. We may ſafely gather with all our gouernours, or equals, that gather with Chriſt, and with none other. Neither doeth S. Hierom warant vs, that whoſoeuer gathereth with the Biſhop of Rome, gathereth with Chriſt. For that he ſaid to Damaſus, was in that reſpect, that Damaſus gathered with Chriſt, that is, acknowledge ỹ Godhead of Chriſt, againſt the Arians. In this article of faith, he that gathereth not with the Biſhop Damaſus, ſcatereth with the Heretikes, and with Antichriſt. Not that Damaſus ſucceeded Peter in the gouernement of the whole Church, and in that he is Biſhop of Rome, is a rule to be alwayes folowed. For the ſame Hierome that gathered with Damaſus affirming the diuinitie of Chriſt, would not haue gathered with Liberius, whom he teſtifieth to haue ſubſcribed to the Arians, againſt the diuinitie of Chriſt, in Catalo. Num.107. Fortunatianus. And touching the Biſhop of Romes gouernement ouer the whole, in his Epiſtle to Euagrius, he ſaith, that all Biſhops be the ſucceſſours of the Apoſtles, and that the poore Biſhop of Eugubium, is not inferiour to the rich Biſhop of Rome, &c. And Cyprian ſaith, that all the Apoſtles were equall with Peter in honour and authoritie. De ſimplicitate prælatorum. The Pope or Biſhop of Rome.

Rhem. 4. 31. The blaſphemie of the Spirit.) He meaneth not that there is any ſinne ſo great, which God will not forgiue, or whereof a man may not repent in this life, as ſome Heretikes at this day affirme: but that ſome heinous ſinnes (as namely this blaſphemie of the Iewes againſt the euident workes of the holy Ghoſt, and likewiſe Archeheretikes who wilfully reſiſt the knowen trueth and workes of the holy Ghoſt in Gods Church) are hardly forgiuen, and ſeldome haue ſuch men grace to repent. Otherwiſe among all the ſinnes againſt the holy Ghoſt (which are commonly reckened ſixe) one onely ſhall neuer be forgiuen, that is, dying without repentance wilfully, called Final impenitence. Which ſinne he committeth that dyeth with contempt of the Sacrament of Penance, obſtinately refuſing abſolution, by the Churches miniſterie: as S. Auguſtine plainly declareth by theſe words. Whoſoeuer he be that beleeueth not mans ſinnes to be remitted in Gods Church, and therefore deſpiſeth the bountifulnes of God in ſo mightie a worke, if he in that obſtinate minde commue till his liues end, he is guiltie of ſinne againſt ỹ Holy Ghoſt, in which Holy Ghoſt Chriſt remitteth ſinnes. Enchir 83. Ep. 50. in fine. Final impenitence. Remiſſion of ſinnes in the Church.

Fulke. 4. That God will not forgiue the ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, the text is more plaine, then that with any gloſſes of mans inuentions, it can be obſcured. That there is a ſinne, which he that hath committed, cannot be renued by repentance, the Apoſtle ſpeaketh as plainely, Hebr. 6. 4. 5. 6. They that haue ſinned againſt the holy Ghoſt, are neuer renued by repentance, nor come to true repentance and change of minde, though as Iudas, they be ſory, not for their ſinne, but for the puniſhment, which they haue deſerued by their ſinne. And although finall repentance be neuer forgiuen, becauſe God forgiueth onely the penitent: Yet it is manifeſt, that our Sauiour Chriſt ſpeaketh not in this place of finall impenitencie, but of blaſphemie againſt the holy Ghoſt, which he may commit, that obſtinately and contumeliouſly reiecteth the grace of God offred him in the Church, for remiſſion of ſinnes as S. Auguſtine ſaith, but of deſpiſing the Sacrament of Popiſh penance, he ſpeaketh not one word. For there was no ſuch Sacrament acknowledged in his time, although according to the diſcipline of the Church, they that had openly and grieuouſly fallen, (ſo that they were excommunicated) had time and exerciſes appointed them to ſhew their repentance, that they might be againe receiued into ỹ Church, which diſcipline alſo, whoſoeuer contemneth, ſo long as he remaineth in that contempt, by our ſauiour Chriſts owne ſaying, is to be taken for an heathen & publicane, and if he die in that contempt without repentance, he dieth as an heathen or Publicane. But of the neceſſitie of auricular confeſſion, of ſatisfaction in worke, to the iuſtice of God for ſinnes committed, of the forme of wordes of abſolution, mumbled ouer a mans head by a Popiſh prieſt, S. Auguſtine knew nothing in his time. Sinne againſt the holy Ghoſt. Popiſh penance.

Rhem. 5. 32 Sonne of man.) The Iewes in their wordes ſinned againſt the ſonne of man, when they reprehended theſe things which he did as a man, to wit, calling him a glutton, a great drinker of wine, a friend of the Publicans, and taking offenſe becauſe he kept company with ſinners, brake the Sabboth, and ſuch like: and this ſinne might more eaſely be forgiuen them, becauſe they iudged of him as they would haue done of any other man: but they ſinned and blaſphemed againſt the Holy Ghoſt (called here the finger of God whereby he wrought miracles) when of malice they attributed the euidens workes of God in caſting out diuels, to the diuel himſelf: and this ſinne ſhall not be remitted, becauſe it ſhall hardly be remitted, as we ſee by the plague of their poſteritie vntill this day.

Fulke. 5. Not the Iewes generally are charged, nor their poſteritie are puniſhed for the ſinne againſt the holy Ghoſt, but ſome of them which were the Phariſes & Scribes, that came from Ieruſalem, of whoſe poſteritie it is poſſible, there is few or none remayning at this day. Luc. 11. 17. Mar. 3. 22.

Rhem. 6. 32. Nor in the world to come.) S. Auguſtine and other holy Doctors gather hereupon, that ſome ſinnes may be remitted in the next life, and conſequently proue Purgatorie therby. De Ciuit. Dei li. 21. c. 13. D. Greg. Dial. li. 4. c. 39. Purgatorie.

Fulke. 6. S Marke is a ſure interpreter of theſe wordes. For he (ſaith S. Marke) that blaſphemeth the holy Ghoſt, neuer hath forgiuenes, but is guiltie of eternal condemnation. The error of Purgatorie in S. Auguſtines time, began to peere vp, frō which, as S. Auguſtine was not altogether cleare, ſo doth he not affirme any thing certeinly of it. For in his treatiſe de octo Dulcitij queſt. Queſt 1. Thus he writeth of it, Tale aliquid &c. Such a thing (as ſauing by fire) is not incredible to be euen after this life, and whether it be ſo or no, it may be enquired, and either be found, or be hid, that ſome faithfull men are ſaued later or ſooner, by a certaine purging fire, by how much more or leſſer, they haue loued corruptible goods, yet not ſuch of whome it is ſayd that they ſhall not poſſeſſe the kingdome of God, &c. except after they haue duely repented, thoſe crimes be remitted vnto them. Purgatory. Mar. 3. 29.

But Hypognoſt. cont. Pelag li. 5. he acknowledgeth heauen and hell out of the Scriptures, but of the third place he ſaith, Tertium penitus, &c. The third place, we are vtterly ignorant of, yea we finde that it is not in the Scriptures. This is the variable opinion of S. Auguſtine ſometime douting & thinking it not incredible, ſometime denying that any ſuch thing is foūd in the Scriptures. And although he ſpake againſt the Pelagians (and Papiſts) which fained a thirde place, where Infants vnbaptized ſhould remaine after this life, yet his wordes are generall, and his reaſon is as good againſt Purgatorie, as againſt Limbus infantum.

In Gregories time which was almoſt 200. yeere after, the errour of Purgatorie had gathered more ſtrength, and yet is holden by Gregorie, but for the leſt and lighteſt offences, as idle talke, immoderate laughter, or houſhold care, which ſcarce is occupied without offence. It is ſufficient for vs, that neither the Scripture teacheth Purgatorie, neither the Primitiue Church did admit of it, for many hundred yeres after Chriſt, although by the Carpocratians, Montaniſts, and Originiſts, the foundations of that errour were layd of ancient time.

Rhem. 7. 36 Idle word.) If of euery idle word we muſt make accompt before God in iudgement, and yet ſhall not for euery ſuch word be damned euerlaſtingly: then there muſt needes be ſome temporall puniſhments in the next life.

Fulke 7. Euery idle worde is worthy of condemnation, if God ſhould deale with vs according to his Iuſtice. For our tongue is giuen vs to ſpeake alwayes that which is to the glory of God, and to the profite of the hearers. Neuertheleſſe he that pardoneth al the grieuous ſinnes of the faithful that are truly penitent, whereof they muſt alſo make accompt in iudgement, forgiueth alſo the ſinne of Idle wordes. Therfore this is a brutiſh collection, as all the reſt of your Popiſh Notes are, We muſt giue an accompt and not be damned, Ergo there muſt needes be ſome temporall puniſhment in the next life. Purgatory.

Rhem. 48. Who is my mother.) The dutifull affection toward our parents and kinſfolke is not blamed, but the inordinate loue of them to the hinderance of our ſeruice and dutie toward God. Vpon this place ſome olde Heretikes denied Chriſt to haue any mother. Aug. lib. de Fid. & Symb. cap. 4. Neither euer was there any hereſie ſo abſurd, but it would ſeeme to haue Scripture for it. All Hereſies alleage Scriptures.

CHAP. XIII.

Speaking in parables (as the Scripture foretold of him, and as meete was for the reprobate Iewes:) he ſheweth by the parable of the Sower, that in the labours of the Church, three parts of foure do periſh through the faults of the hearers. 24 and yet by the parable of good ſeed and cockle (as alſo of the Nette) that his ſeruants muſt not for all that, neuer while the world laſteth, make any Schiſme or Separation. 31 And by parables of the little muſtard ſeed & leauen, that notwithſtanding the three parts periſhing, & ouerſowing of cockles, yet that fourth part of the good ſeed ſhal ſpread ouer al the world. 44 And withall, what a treaſure, and pearle is in. 53 After all which, yet his owne countrey will not honour him.

THe ſame day IESVS going out of the houſe, ſate by the ſea ſide.

Mar.4,1. Lu.8,4. 2 And * great multitudes were gathered together vnto him, inſomuch that hee went vp into a boate and ſate: and all the multitude ſtoode in the ſhore,

3 And he ſpake to them many things in parables, ſaying, Beholde ỹ ſower went forth to ſow.

4 And whiles he ſoweth, ſome fell by the way ſide, and the foules of the aire did come and eate it.

5 Otherſome alſo fel vpon rockie places, where they had not much earth: and they ſhotte vp incontinent, becauſe they had not deepenes of earth,

6 And after ỹ ſunne was vp, they parched: & becauſe they had not root, they withered.

7 And other fell among thornes: and the thornes grew and choked them.

8 And otherſome fel vpon good ground: and they yeelded fruite, the ‖ one an hundred fold, the other threeſcore, & an other thirtie.

9 He ỹ hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 And his Diſciples came and ſaide to him. Why ſpeakeſt thou to them in parables?

11 Who anſwered and ſaide vnto them, Becauſe ‖ to you it is giuen to know ỹ myſteries of the kingdom of heauen: but to them it is not giuen.

12 For he that hath, to him ſhalbe giuen, and he ſhal abound: but he that hath not, fró him ſhalbe taken away ỹ alſo which he hath.

13 Therfore in parables I ſpeake to them: becauſe ſeeing they ſee not, & ‡ hearing they heare not, neither do they vnderſtand:

‡ When Gods word is preached, they properly haue eares to heare, that haue hartes to obey: and they hearing doe not heare, which heare by ſenſe of their body, and obey not by conſent of their hartes. Aug. de dono perſeu. c. 14.

14 And the prophecie of Eſay is fulfilled in them, which ſaith, With hearing ſhall you heare, and you ſhal not vnderſtand: and ſeeing ſhal you ſee, and you ſhal not ſee.

15 For the hart of this people is waxed groſſe, and with their eares they haue heauily heard, and their eies ‖ they haue ſhutte: leſt at any time they may ſee with their eyes, & heare with their eares, and vnderſtande with their hart and be conuerted, and I may heale them.

16 But bleſſed are your eyes becauſe they doe ſee, & your eares becauſe they do heare.

Luc.10.23. 17 For amen I ſay to you, that * many Prophets and iuſt men haue deſired to ſee the things

*THe ſame day when Ieſus was gone out of the houſe, * he ſate by the ſea ſide.* Mark.4.1.

2 And great multitudes were gathered together vnto him, luke 8.5. ſo that he went into the ſhippe, and ſate, and the whole multitude ſtoode on the ſhore.

3 And he ſpake many things to them in parables, ſaying, Behold, the ſower went forth to ſowe.

4 And when he ſowed, ſome ſeedes fell by the wayes ſide: and the foules came, and deuoured them vp.

5 Some fell vpon ſtonie places, where they had not much earth: and anon they ſprung vp, becauſe they had no deepeneſſe of earth.

6 And when the ſunne was vp, they caught heate: and becauſe they had not roote, they withered away.

7 Againe, ſome fell among thornes: and the thornes ſprung vp, and choked them.

8 But ſome fell into good ground, and brought foorth fruite, ſome an hundred folde, ſome ſixtie folde, ſome thirtie folde.

9 Who hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 And the diſciples came, and ſaide vnto him, Why ſpeakeſt thou vnto them by parables?

11 He anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, Becauſe it is giuen vnto you to know the ſecrets of the kingdome of heauen, but to them it is not giuen.

*12 * For whoſoeuer hath, to him ſhalbe giuen,* Mat.25.29. and he ſhall haue more abundance: but whoſoeuer hath not, from him ſhalbe taken away, euen that he hath.

13 Therefore ſpeake I to them in parables: becauſe they ſeeing, ſee not: and hearing, they heare not, neither do they vnderſtand.

*14 And in them is fulfilled the prophecie of Eſaias, which ſaith, * With the eare ye ſhall heare,* Eſa.6.9. and ſhall not vnderſtande: and ſeeing, ye ſhall ſee, mark.4.12. luke 8.10. and ſhall not perceiue. iohn 12.40. acts.28.26. rom.11.8.

15 For this peoples heart is waxed groſſe, and their eares are dull of hearing, and their eyes haue they cloſed: leſt at any time they ſhoulde ſee with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and ſhoulde vnderſtande with their heart, and ſhould conuert, that I might heale them.

16 Bleſſed are your eyes, for they ſee: and your eares, for they heare.

*17 Verily I ſay vnto you, * that many Prophets* Luke 10.24. and righteous men haue deſired to ſee thoſe things which ye ſee, and haue not ſeene: and to heare thoſe

things that you ſee, and haue not ſeen them: and to heare the things that you heare, and haue not heard them.

18 Heare you therfore the parable of the ſower.

19 Euery one that heareth the word of the kingdom and vnderſtandeth not, there cõmeth the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was ſowen in his hart: this is he that was ſowen by the way ſide.

20 And he that was ſowen vpon rockie places: this is he that heareth the word, and incontinent receiueth it with ioy,

21 Yet hath he not roote in himſelfe, but is for a time: and when there falleth tribulation and perſecution for the word, he is by and by ſcandalized.

22 And he ỳ was ſowen among thornes, this is he that heareth the word, and the carefulnes of this worlde and the deceitfulnes of riches choketh vp the word, and he becommeth fruitles.

23 But he that was ſowen vpon good ground: this is he that heareth the word, and vnderſtandeth, and bringeth fruite, and yeldeth ſome an hundred-fold, and other threeſcore, and an other thirtie.

The Goſpel vpõ the 3. Sunday after the Epiphanie.

24 An other parable he propoſed to them, ſaying, The kingdom of heauen is reſembled to a man that ſowed good ſeede in his field.

25 But when men were a ſleepe, his enemie came and ouerſowed cockle among the wheate, and went his way.

26 And when the blade was ſhot vp, and had brought forth fruite, then appeared alſo the cockle.

27 And the ſeruants of the goodman of the houſe cõming ſaid to him, Sir, didſt thou not ſow good ſeede in thy fielde? whence then hath it cockle?

28 And he ſaid to them, The enemy man hath done this. And the ſeruants ſaid to him, Wilt thou we goe and gather it vp?

29 And he ſaid, No: ‖leſt perhaps gathering vp the cockle, you may roote vp the wheate alſo together with it.

30 Suffer both to grow vntil the harueſt, and in the time of harueſt I wil ſay to the reapers, Gather vp firſt the cockle, and binde it into bundels to burne, but the wheate gather ye into my barne.

The Goſpel vpon the 6. Sunday after the Epiphanie, Mar. 4, 30. Luc. 13, 18.

31 An other parable he propoſed vnto them, ſaying, * The kingdom of heauen is like to a muſtard ſeede, which a man tooke and ſowed in his field.

32 Which is the ‖leaſt ſurely of al ſeedes: but things which ye heare, and haue not heard.

*18 * Heare ye therefore the ſimilitude of the Sower.* Mar. 4. 15. luke 8. 11.

19 When one heareth the worde of the kingdome, and vnderſtandeth it not, then commeth that euil one, and catcheth away that which was ſowen in his heart: this is he which receiued ſeede by the way ſide.

20 But he that receiued the ſeede into ſtonie places, the ſame is he that heareth the worde, and anon with ioy receiueth it:

21 Yet hath he not roote in himſelfe, but dureth for a ſeaſon: for when tribulation or perſecution ariſeth becauſe of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 He alſo that receiued ſeed into the thornes, is he that heareth the worde, and the care of this world, and the deceitfulneſſe of riches choke vp the word, and ſo is he made vnfruitfull.

23 But hee that receiued ſeede into the good ground, is he that heareth the worde, and vnderſtandeth it, which alſo beareth fruite, and bringeth foorth, ſome an hundred folde, ſome ſixtie folde, ſome thirtie folde.

*24 Another parable put hee foorth vnto them, ſaying, * The kingdome of heauen is likened vnto a man, which ſowed good ſeede in his fielde.* Matth. 4. 13.

25 But while men ſlept, his enemie came and ſowed tares among the wheate, and went his way.

26 But when the blade was ſprung vp, and had brought foorth fruite, then appeared the tares alſo.

27 So the ſeruaunts of the houſholder came, and ſaide vnto him, Syr, diddeſt not thou ſowe good ſeede in thy fielde, from whence then hath it tares?

28 Hee ſayde vnto them, The malicious man hath done this. The ſeruaunts ſayde vnto him, Wilt thou then that we goe, and gather them vp?

29 But hee ſayde, Nay: leſt while yee gather vp the tares, yee roote vp alſo the wheate with them.

30 Let both growe together vntil the harueſt: and in time of harueſt, I will ſay to the reapers, Gather ye together firſt the tares, and binde them in bundels to burne them: but cary the wheate into my barne.

*31 Another parable put he forth vnto them, ſaying, * The kingdome of heauen is like to a graine of muſtard ſeede, which a man tooke, and ſowed in his fielde.* Mat. 4. 30. luke 13. 18.

33 An other parable he ſpake to them, The kingdom of heauen is like to leauen, which a woman tooke & hid in three meaſures of meale, vntil the whole was leauened.

34 All theſe things IESVS ſpake in parables to the multitudes, and without parables he did not ſpeake to them:

35 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the Prophet ſaying, I will open my mouth in parables, I will vtter things hidden from the foundation of the world. Pſal.77.2.

36 Then hauing dimiſſed the multitudes, he came into the houſe, and his Diſciples came vnto him, ſaying, Expound vs the parable of the cockle of the field.

One an hundred.) This difference of fruites is the difference of merites in this life, and rewardes for them in the next life, according to the diuerſities of ſtates, or other differences, of ſtates, as that the hundred fold agreeth to virgins profeſſed, three ſcore fold to religious widowes, thirtie fold to the maried. Aug.li.de S.Virginit.c.44.& ſeq. which truth the old Heretike Iouinian denied (as ours doe at this day) affirming that there is no difference of merites or rewardes. Hiero.li.2. adu.Iouin. Ambroſ.ep.82. Aug.hær.82. Difference of merites and rewardes.

Fulke 1. Of them that heare the word of God, ſome bring forth fruite more plentifully then other, according to the meaſure of Gods grace, giuen to euery man: who in rewarding euery man according to his workes, crowneth his owne giftes, and not mens merites As S.Auguſtine teſtifieth, In Pſ.70.Conc.1. In Pſ.101. For if any thing be vendred to merite, (ſayth he) it is hyre or wages, not grace, or a free gift, In Pſal.144. Neither doth Auguſtine ſpeake, of the merite of virginitie, as you vnderſtand that word of merite, for deſert, but of the dignitie or excellencie thereof before the ſtate of the maried. Neither doth he allow, that diſtribution of an hundred fold to virgines, three-ſcore fold to widowes, and thirtie fold to maried folke, becauſe the martyrdome of a maried perſon, is more excellent then the chaſtitie of a virgine. Cap.44.45.& 46. In his cataloge of hereſies, he noteth it among the errors of Iouinian, that he counted the chaſtitie of virgines, equall vnto the worthines of chaſte and faithfull maried folkes. Where, though S.Auguſtine vſeth the terme merites, yet he meaneth by it, dignitie, excellency, or worthines, not deſert, as the places before noted doe plainly teſtifie. S.Hierome, though he doth condemne the errors of Iouinian, concerning the excellencie of virginitie, (as we doe alſo) yet he alloweth no merite or deſert of virginitie before God, nor of any worke of iuſtice. For thus he writeth againſt the Pelagians, Lib.1. Tunc ergo iuſti, &c. Then are we iuſt, when we confeſſe our ſelues to be ſinners, and our iuſtice doth not conſiſt of our owne merite, but of the mercie of God. Merites.

S.Ambroſe though he preferre the worthines of continencie before mariage, and vſeth the word Meritum: yet that the reward of eternall life is not giuen to mens merites, or deſeruings, he writeth thus. Exhort.ad virgines. Vnde mihi, &c. Whence ſhould I haue ſo great merite, or deſeruing, ſeeing mercie is my crowne! And euen in the ſame Epiſtle 82. ad Vercell. he writeth of the rewarde of eternall life. Sola vos comitabitur fides, &c. Faith onely ſhall goe with you to the next life, and iuſtice ſhall alſo accompanie you, if faith goe before.

Paul declareth of the reprobate Gentiles.* Ro.1. Iren. apud Euſeb. li.5.c.19. Calu. li.2. Inſtit. c.4.

Fulke. 2. It is a ſhameles ſlander againſt Caluine, that he ſhould teach God to be the author of ſinne, as whoſo will reade the place quoted of his Inſtitution, ſhall plainly ſee. For he holdeth, as S. Auguſtine ſayth, that God hardeneth the wicked, not as an euill author, but as a righteous Iudge, not by a bare permiſſion or ſuffering, but by withdrawing and withholding his grace, and deliuering them into their owne luſt, or into the deceite of Satan, as a iuſt puniſhment of their former ſinnes, as Auguſtine teacheth at large, againſt Iulian ỹ Pelagian, lib.5. cap.3. and S. Paule of the idolatrous Gentiles affirmeth, that God deliuered them into paſſions of ignominie, as you your ſelues tranſlate. Rom.1. Slander.

Rhem. 15. Ouerſowed. Firſt by Chriſt and his Apoſtles was planted the truth, and falſhod came afterward, and was ouerſowen by the enemie the Diuel, and not by Chriſt, who is not the author of euil. Tertul. de præſcript.

Leſt you plucke vp alſo.) The good muſt tolerate the euil, when it is ſo ſtrong that it can not be redreſſed without danger and diſturbance of the whole Church, and committe the matter to Gods iudgement in the later day. Otherwiſe where il men (be they Heretikes or other malefactors) may be puniſhed or ſuppreſſed without diſturbance and hazard of the good, they may and ought by publike authoritie either Spiritual or temporal to be chaſtiſed or executed.

Rhem. 3. 30. Suffer both to grow.) The good and bad (wee ſee here) are mingled together in the Churche, which maketh againſt certaine Heretikes and Schiſmatikes, which ſeuered them ſelues of old from the reſt of the whole world, vnder pretence that themſelues only were pure, and al other both Prieſts and people finners: and againſt ſome Heretikes of this time alſo, which ſay that euil men are not of, or in the Churche. Good and euil in the Church.

Fulke 3. The reprobate are in the viſible Church, but they are not of the Catholike Church, which is the myſticall body of Chriſt. They went out from vs (ſayth S. Iohn,) but they were not of vs. 1. Ioan. 2. 19. The Catholike Church.

Rhem. 32. The leaſt of al ſeedes.) The Church of Chriſt had a ſmal beginning, but afterward became the moſt glorious and knowen common welth in earth: the greateſt powers and the moſt wiſe of the world putting themſelues into the ſame.

Rhem. 4. 55. Carpenters ſonne.) Hereupon Iulian the Apoſtata and his flatterer Libanius tooke their ſcoffe againſt our Sauiour, ſaying (as his going againſt the Perſians) to the Chriſtians, what doeth the Carpenters ſonne now? and threatening that after his returne the Carpenters ſonne ſhould not be able to ſaue them from his furie. whereunto a godly man anſwered by the ſpirit of Prophecie, He whom Iulian calleth the Carpenters ſonne, is making a woodden coffin for him againſt his death. And in deede not long after there came newes that in that battaile he dyed miſerably. Sozo. li.6 c. 2. Theodo. li.3. c.18 The very like ſcoffe vſe Heretikes that cal the body of Chriſt in the B. Sacrament, bakers bread. It ſeemeth in deede to the ſenſes to be ſo, as Chriſt ſeemed to be Ioſephs naturall ſonne, but faith telleth vs the contrary as wel in the one as in the other.

Fulke 4. We call not the body of Chriſt, Bakers bread, but that which the Baker made, which is digeſted and caſt out with other meates (as Origen ſayth) which if it be not eaten, mouldeth, or is otherwiſe corrupted, theſe things it were blaſphemie to affirme of the body of Chriſt. Therefore it is Bakers bread, that is ſubiect to corruption. And whereas you ſay, faith telleth you the contrary, tell vs vpon what text of Scripture, your faith is builded. The Scripture telleth vs, that the Lordes Sacrament is bread, and bread that is broken, which cannot be verified of his naturall body, which is not now broken, but is whole and vncorruptible in heauen. S. Cyrill ſayth, our Sauiour Chriſt when he gaue the Sacrament of his body, gaue fragmenta panis, peeces of bread, to his Diſciples which beleeued, In Ioan. lib.5. Cap.14. Therefore their faith and yours is not all one. In Mat.15. Tranſubſtantiation. 1. Cor.10.

Fulke. 2. There is no doubt, but the dead bodies of the faithfull, are to be laid vp with reuerence, in hope of the reſurrection, but not to be abuſed vnto idolatrie: for Iohns diſciples buried his body, they ſhrined it not to be worſhipped. Concerning the ſtorie of the malice of the Paganes, you foyſt in many things that your auctor ſayth not: for Theodoret in the place noted, ſayth no more, but that they brake vp the tombe of Iohn Baptiſt, burnt his bones, and ſcattered abroade the aſhes. Reliques.

You ſay, that the Chriſtians layed the body of Iohn the Baptiſt, with the reliques of Elias and Abdias: this ſaith not S. Hierome, but Ibi ſiti ſunt, There lie Helizæus and Abdias prophets, and Iohn the Baptiſt, then the which there was none greater, among them that were borne of a woman. Elias was taken vp in a fierie charret, therefore they had no reliques of his body. But admit your memorie failed you in naming Elias in ſteede of Helizæus, not onely here, but alſo in the Table: what wonderfull miracles was there wrought before Iulianes time? Ruffinus ſpeaketh of none, before nor after. S. Hierome ſaith in his time, that Paula quaked at many meruailes that ſhe ſawe there: namely, deuils roaring in diuers torments, and before the ſepulchres of thoſe holy men, men howling like wolues, barking like dogges, rorring like lions, hiſſing like ſerpents, lowing like bulles. Some turne their head aboue, and touche the earth with the crowne of their head backward, women hanging by the feete, their garments to fall abroad vpon their faces. She tooke pitie of them all, weeping for euery one, ſhe prayed Chriſt to haue mercie on them. This writeth S. Hierome, but not of any that were cured of their madneſſe there. Againe ye may note how S. Hierome agreeth with Ruffine, when he ſayth, That S. Iohn Baptiſt lay ſtill in his time in Sebaſte or Samaria: but let the hiſtorie of Ruffine be true. He ſaith, that certaine from Hieruſalem of the monaſterie of Phillip, came to that place (where the Pagans raged againſt that body of S. Iohn Baptiſt) to pray, you ſay they came thither a pilgrimage: but howſoeuer it was, they brought ſome reliques away with them, the reſt were burned. Nowe for any iniurie that is done by vs vnto the bodies of the Saintes, it is a meere ſlander: but the counterfeite reliques that you ſhewe, and worſhip as idoles, we deſtroy and aboliſh. And to proue they are counterfeite, we neede no other teſtimonie, but of your ſelues, which place one and the ſame relique, in ſo many places at once: As for example, S. Iohn Baptiſts head, you ſay, is at Amiens, other ſay his face onely. I will not enquire howe it came thither from Conſtantinople, whither it was caried by Theodoſius, Hiſt. Trip. lib. 9. cap. 42. But the ſame part that is at Amiens, is at S. Iean Angely. The reſt of his head, from the forehead to the necke, is in Malta: yet the hinder part of his skull, is at Nemours, his braine at Nouium Raſtrouienſe, another part of his head at Iean Morien, his iawe-bone at Veſalium at the Church of S. Iohn the greater, another part at Paris at S. Iohn Laterane, a piece of his eare at S. Floride, his forehead and haires in Spaine at S. Saluadores, another piece of his head is at Noyen, and another at Luke in Italie. And yet for all theſe pieces, his whole head is in S. Silueſters Abbie at Rome to be ſeene and worſhipped. And there is no doubt, but many Churches in England ſometimes, had reliques of his head, as they would beare vs in hand. Is there not good cauſe thinke you, that we ſhould honour theſe holy reliques: if for nothing els, yet becauſe they can multiplie them ſelues, and be in ſo many places at ones. O impudent broode of Antichriſte. Orations) gratis. Slaunder. Blondus in trium. Rom. lib. 3. cap. 103.

Rhem. 3. 13. Retired.) Chriſt much eſteemed Iohn, and withdrewe himſelfe aſide, to giue example of moderate mourning for the departed, and to ſhewe the horrour of that execrable murder. As in the Primitiue Church many good men ſeeing the miſerable ſtate of the world in the time of perſecution, and the ſinnes that abounded withall: tooke an occaſion to forſake thoſe tumults, and to giue them ſelues to contemplation: and for that purpoſe retired into the deſerts of Aegypt and els where, to doe penance for their owne ſinnes & the ſinnes of the world, whereupon partly roſe that infinite nũber of Monkes and Eremites, of whõ the fathers & Eccleſiaſtical hiſtories make mẽtion. Hier. to 2. in vit. Pauli Erẽ. Sozo. li. 1. c. 12. 13. Eremites.

Fulke. 3. A ſimple argument to iuſtifie the profeſſion of Eremites. Yet that there were many good men that in times paſt led a contemplatiue life in deſert places, I denie nor: but I affirme, that their example is a ſhame to the mockmonkes, and falſe Eremites of poperie, which liue in cities, and in the frequence of people, that I ſpeake nothing of their faith and life, farre vnlike. Neither doeth Hierome, or Sozomenus ſay, they did penance for their owne ſinnes, and the ſinnes of the world: neither had they any ſuch blaſphemous opinion, that they could ſatisfie for their owne ſinnes, much leſſe for the ſinnes of the world. S. Anthonie, which is counted the chiefe of thoſe Eremites, confeſſeth that the wound of mans ſinnes could not be healed by any meanes, but by the onely goodneſſe of God, which gaue his onely begotten ſonne to ſuffer for our ſinnes, Ep. 2. & 4. Eremites.

Rhem. 19. The Diſciples to the multitudes.) A figure of the miniſterie of the Apoſtles, who as they here had the diſtribution and ordering of theſe miraculous loaues, ſo had they alſo to beſtowe and diſpenſe al the foode of our ſoules in miniſtring of the worde and Sacraments, neither may Lay men chalenge the ſame.

Rhem. 4. 26. Walking.) When not onely Chriſt, but by his power Peter alſo walketh vpon the waters, it is euident that he can diſpoſe of his owne body aboue nature and contrary to the naturall conditions thereof, as to goe through a doore, Io. 20. to be in the compaſſe of a litle bread. Epiphan. in Anchorato.

Fulke. 4. Chriſt can diſpoſe his body aboue nature, but not to deſtroy the eſſentiall conditions of a body, for then he ſhould ceaſe to haue a body, and ouerthrowe the hope of our reſurrection. And where you quote Ioan 20. to proue that his body did goe through a doore: your owne tranſlation is, that the doores were ſhut, not that he came through the doore: for he made the doore to open, and giue place to him, as the priſon doores did to the Apoſtles by the miniſterie of Angels, Act. 5. which yet were ſhut againe, ſo ſoone as they paſſed through: for if the diſtances of place be taken from bodies, they ſhalbe no where, and being no where, they ſhall not be at all. 28 S. Auguſtine teacheth Ep. 57. Dardan. Finally, where you quote Epiphanius to affirme, that the body of Chriſt can be in the compaſſe of a litle bread, it is a manifeſt abuſing of the reader. For Epiphanius ſayth not ſo, but the cleane contrarie: for teaching, that the ſacramentall bread, is an image of Chriſt, and yet (ſaith he) neither in greatnes, nor faſhion, nor power it is like, either to his diuinitie, or to his humanitie: for it is a long ſhapen rowle in faſhion, and voide of ſence as concerning power, which teſtimonie of Epiphanius clearely ouerthroweth your errour of tranſubſtantiation, and carnall maner of Chriſtes preſence in the ſacrament, both together. The body of Chriſt.

Rhem. 5. 29. Walked.) Peter (ſaith S. Barnard) walking vpon the waters, as Chriſt did, declared himſelfe the onely Vicar of Chriſt, which ſhould be ruler not ouer ſome people, but ouer all. For many waters, are many peoples Bernard. lib. 2 de cõſid. c. 8. See the ſubtilitie, how he deduceth frõ Peter the like authoritie & iuriſdiction to his ſucceſſour the biſhop of Rome. Peters Primacie.

Fulke.5. Bernard was but a late writer, and was deceiued with the errour of Peters primacie, though not ſo groſly as the Papiſtes holde it at this day: neither is his collection any better then his authoritie. Peter walked on the water as Chriſt did, ergo he was the onely vicar of Chriſt. Whule S. Bernard folowed ſuch arguments: no merualle, if it were ſaid of him, non vidit omnia, he ſawe not all. Peters primacie.

CHAP. XV.

The Phariſees of Hieruſalem comming ſo farre to carpe him, he chargeth with a tradition contrary to Gods commaundement. 10. And to the people he yeeldeth the reaſon of that which they reproued: 15. and againe to his Diſciples, ſhewing the ground of the Phariſaicall waſhing (to wit, that meates otherwiſe defile the ſoule) to be falſe. 21 then he goeth aſide to hide himſelfe among the Gentiles: where, in a woman he findeth ſuch faith, that he is faine, leſt the Gentiles ſhould before the time extort the whole bread, as ſhe had a crommie, to returne to the Iewes. 34. where (all contrary to thoſe Phariſees) the common people ſeeke wonderfully vnto him. and he after he hath cured their diſeaſed, feedeth 4000. of them with ſeuen loaues.

The Goſpel vpon wednesday the 3. weeke in Lent. Mar.7.1.

THEN came to him from Hieruſalem Scribes and Phariſees, ſaying,

2 Why doe thy Diſciples tranſgreſſe the tradition of the Auncients? For they waſh not their hands when they eate bread.

3 But he anſwering ſaide to them: why doe you alſo tranſgreſſe the cõmandement of God for your tradition? For God ſaid, Exo.20,12. Luk.20.9. 4 Honour father and mother. and, he that ſhall curſe father or mother, dying let him die.

5 But you ſay, whoſoeuer ſhall ſay to father or mother, The gift whatſoeuer proceedeth from me, ſhall profite thee:

6 And ſhall not honour his father or his mother: and you haue made fruſtrate the commaundement of God for your owne tradition.

7 Hypocrites, wel hath Eſay prophecied of you, ſaying,

Eſa.29,13. 8 This people honoureth me with their ‖ lips: but their heart is farre from me.

9 And in vaine doe they worſhip me, teaching doctrines and ‖ commandements of men.

10 And hauing called together the multitudes vnto him, he ſaide to them, Heare ye and vnderſtand.

11 ‖ Not ẏ which entreth into the mouth, defileth a man: but that which proceedeth out of the mouth, that defileth a man.

12 Then came his Diſciples, and ſaid to him, Doeſt thou knowe that the Phariſees, when they heard this worde, were ſcandalized?

13 But he anſwering ſaide: All planting which my heauenly father hath not planted, ſhall be rooted vp.

14 Let them alone: blind they are, guides of the blind. And if the blind be guide to the blind, both fall into the ditch.

15 And Peter anſwering ſaid to him, Expound vs this parable.

16 But he ſaide, Are you alſo as yet without vnderſtanding?

17 Doe you not vnderſtand, that all that entreth into the mouth, goeth into the bellie, and

*THen * came to Ieſus Scribes and Phariſees, which were come from Hieruſalem, ſaying,* Mar.7.1.

2 Why doe thy diſciples tranſgreſſe the tradition of the elders? for they waſh not their handes when they eate bread.

5 But he anſwered, and ſaide vnto them, Why doe you alſo tranſgreſſe the commaundement of God by your tradition?

*4 For God commaunded, ſaying, * Honour thy father and thy mother: And he that curſeth father or mother, let him die the death. Exo.20.12. deut.5.16. Exod.21.17.

5 But ye ſay, Whoſoeuer ſhall ſay to his father or his mother, By the gift that is offered of me, thou ſhalt be helped: leuit.20.9. pro.20.20.

6 And ſo ſhall he not honour his father or his mother. And thus haue ye made the commandement of God of none effect by your tradition.

7 Ye hypocrites, full well did Eſaias prophecie of you, ſaying,

*8 * This people draweth nigh vnto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lippes: howbeit, their heart is farre from me.* Eſa.29.13.

9 But in vaine they doe worſhip me, teaching doctrines, precepts of men.

*10 * And whē he had called the people to him, he ſaid vnto them, Heare and vnderſtand.* Mark.7.17.

11 That which goeth into the mouth, defileth not the man: but that which commeth out of the mouth, defileth the man.

12 Then came his diſciples, and ſaide vnto him, Knoweſt thou not that the Phariſees were offended after they heard this ſaying?

*13 But he anſweared, and ſaide, * All maner planting which my heauenly father hath not planted, ſhalbe rooted vp.* Iohn 15.8.

*14 Let them alone: * they be blind leaders of the blinde. If the blind leade the blind, both ſhall fall into the ditch.* Luke 6.39.

*15 * Then anſwered Peter, and ſaide vnto him, Declare vnto vs this parable.* Mark.7.17.

16 Ieſus ſaid, Are ye alſo yet without vnderſtanding?

17 Doe not ye yet vnderſtand, that whatſoeuer entreth in at the mouth, goeth into the bellie, lie, and is caſt forth into the priuie?

18 But the things that proceede out of the mouth, come forth from the hart, and thoſe things ‖ defile a man.

19 For from the hart come forth euil cogitations, murders, aduoutries, fornications, thefts, falſe teſtimonies, blaſphemies.

20 Theſe are the things that defile a man, but to eate with vnwaſhen hands, doeth not defile a man. ☞

The Goſpel vpon Thurſday the fifft weeke in Lent. Mar.7.25.

21 And IESVS went forth from thence and retired into ỹ quarters of Tyre & Sidon.

22 And beholde * a woman of Chanaan came forth out of thoſe coaſtes, and crying out, ſaide to him, Haue mercie vpon me, O Lorde the Sonne of Dauid: my daughter is ſore vexed of a deuil.

23 Who anſwered her not a worde. And his Diſciples came & beſought him ſaying, Dimiſſe her: becauſe ſhe cryeth out after vs:

24 And he anſwering ſaid: I was not ſent but to the ſheepe that are loſt of the houſe of Iſrael.

25 But ſhe came and adored him, ſaying, Lord, helpe me.

26 Who anſwering, ſaid: It is not good to take the bread of the Children, and to caſt it to the dogges.

27 But ſhe ſaid, yea lord: for the whelpes alſo eate of the crummes that fall from the table of their maſters.

28 Then IESVS anſwering ſaid to her, O woman, ‡ great is thy faith: be it done to thee as thou wilt: and her daughter was made hole from that houre. ☞

29 And when IESVS was paſſed from thence, he came beſide the ſea of Galilee: and aſcẽding into the mountaine, ſate there.

30 And there came to him great multitudes, hauing with them dumme perſons, blinde, lame, feeble, and many others: and they caſt them downe at his feete, & he cured them:

31 So that the multitudes marueiled ſeeing the dumme ſpeake, the lame walke, the blind ſee: & they magnified ỹ God of Iſrael.

Mar.8,1. 32 And *IESVS called together his Diſciples, and ſaid: I pitie the multitude: becauſe three dayes nowe they continue with me, and haue not what to eate: and diſmiſſe them faſting I will not, leſt they faint in the way.

33 And the diſciples ſay vnto him: whẽce then may we gette ſo many loaues in the deſert as to fill ſo great a multitude?

34 And IESVS ſaid to them, howe many loaues and is caſt out into the draught?

18 But thoſe things which proceede out of the mouth, come forth from the heart. and they defile the man.

*19 * For out of the heart proceede euill thoughts, murders, adulteries, whoredomes, theftes, falſe witneſſe, blaſphemies.* Gene.6.5.

20 Theſe are the things which defile a man: But to eate with vnwaſhen handes, defileth not a man.

*21 * And Ieſus, when he went thence, departed into the coaſtes of Tyre and Sidon.* Mark.7.24.

22 And behold, a woman of the Chanaanites, which came out of the ſame coaſtes, cryed vnto him, ſaying, Haue mercie on me, O Lorde, thou ſonne of Dauid, my daughter is grieuouſly vexed with a deuill.

23 But he anſwered not a word. And his diſciples came and beſought him, ſaying, Send her away, for ſhe crieth after vs.

*24 But he anſwered, and ſaide, I am not ſent but vnto the loſt ſheepe of the houſe of Iſrael. Matth.10.6.

25 Then came ſhe, and worſhipped him, ſaying, Lord helpe me.

26 But he anſwered and ſaide, It is not meete to take the childrens bread, and to caſt it to litle dogges.

27 And ſhe ſaid, Yes Lord: for the litle dogs alſo eate of the crummes which fall from their maſters table.

28 Then Ieſus anſwered, and ſaide vnto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it done vnto thee euen as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole euen from that ſame houre.

*29 * And Ieſus, when he was departed from thence, came nigh vnto the ſea of Galileee, and when he was gone vp into a mountaine, he ſate downe there.* Mar.7.31.

*30 * Then great multitudes came vnto him, hauing with them thoſe that were lame, blinde, dumbe, maymed, and other many, and caſt them downe at Ieſus feete, and he healed them:* Eſay 35.5.

31 In ſo much that the people wondered, when they ſawe the dumbe ſpeake, the maymed to be whole, the lame to walke, and the blinde to ſee: and they glorified the God of Iſrael.

*32 * Then Ieſus called his diſciples vnto him, and ſaid, I haue compaſſion on the people, becauſe they continue with me nowe three dayes, and haue nothing to eate: and I will not let them depart faſting, leaſt they faint in the way.* Mark.8.1.

33 And his diſciples ſay vnto him, Whence ſhould we get ſo much bread in the wildernesſe, as to ſuffice ſo great a multitude?

34 And Ieſus ſayeth vnto them, Howe many loaues haue you? but they ſaid, Seuen, and a fewe litle fiſhes.

35 And he commanded the multitude to ſit downe vpon the ground.

36 And taking ỹ ſeuen loaues and the fiſhes,& giuing thãks, he brake,& gaue to his diſciples, and ỹ diſciples gaue to ỹ people.

37 And they did all eate, and had their fill. And ỹ which was left of the fragments they tooke vp,ſeuen baskets full.

38 And there were that did eate, foure thouſand men, beſide children and women.

39 And hauing dimiſſed the multitude, he went vp into a boate, and came into the coaſtes of Magedan.

‡Here we ſee againe that the people muſt not be their owne caruers, nor receiue the Sacrament or other ſpirituall ſuſtenance immediatly of Chriſt, or at their owne hand,but of their ſpirituall gouernours.

loaues haue ye? And they ſaid, Seuen, and a fewe litle fiſnes.

35 And he commanded the people to ſit downe on the ground.

36 And when he had taken the ſeuen loaues and the fiſhes, and had giuen thankes, he brake them,and gaue to his diſciples: and the diſciples gaue them to the people.

37 And they did all eate, and were ſufficed, and they tooke vp of the broken meate that was left,ſeuen baskets full.

38 And yet they that did eate, were foure thouſand men, beſide women and children.

39 And when he had ſent away the people he tooke ſhip, and came into the partes of Magdala.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XV.

Rhem. 1. 28. Great is thy faith.) It were a ſtrange caſe that Chriſt ſhould commend in this woman a ſole faith without good workes, that is to ſay, a dead faith ſuch as could not worke by loue, and which S. Iames doubted not to call the faith not of Chriſtians but of deuils. Aug. de Fid. & Op. c. 16.

Fulke. 1. Chriſt neuer commendeth a ſole faith,which is voide of good workes,to be ſufficient for iuſtification,but a liuely faith,which worketh by loue,to iuſtifie alone,without reſpect had vnto ỹ merite of the workes. This womans faith was not ſolitarie,or voide of good workes, but accompanied with patience, inuocation, humilitie, charitie,and other fruites of faith: yet was ſhe iuſtified before God,by faith onely, and before men iuſtified or declared to be iuſt by the fruites of a liuing faith, Iames. 2. Iuſtification.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XV.

Rhem. 2. 8. With their lippes.) This is to be vnderſtood properly of ſuch as haue euer God in their mouth, the word of our Lord, the Scriptures, the Goſpel, but in their heart and all their life be in deede Gedles. It may be applied alſo to ſuch as ſay their prayers with out attention or elenation of mind to God, whether he vnderſtand the prayers or no. For ſayth then: For many a poore Chriſtian man that vnderſtandeth not the wordes he ſpeaketh, hath his heart more heauen, more feruent and deuout, more edification to himſelfe, more preſent in ſpirite (as the Apoſtle ſpeaketh) and leſſe diſtracted, then not onely all Heretikes which haue no true feeling of ſuch things, but then many learned Catholikes. And therefore it is not to be vnderſtood of praying in vnknowen tongues, as Heretikes ſometime expound it, farre wide from the circumſtance of the place and Chriſtes intention, ſpeaking of the hypocriticall Iewes. 1. Cor. 14.

Fulke. 2. He that prayeth in a tongue which he vnderſtandeth not,cannot come neere to God with his heart, ſeeing his heart cannot requeſt that which is conteyned in the ſound of wordes vttered with his lippes.He may haue a ſuperſtitious deuotion or zeale of God,which being not according to knowledge,cannot bring him neere to God. For he that will come neere to God, muſt come by faith, without which it is impoſſible to pleaſe God. and faith cannot be of things vnknowen,but of things reuciled to vs by the worde of God. Neither doeth the Apoſtle ſay,that he which prayeth in a tongue which him-ſelfe vnderſtandeth not, doeth edifie him-ſelfe, but he that hath the gift to ſpeake in an vnknowen tongue which he himſelfe vnderſtandeth, but not the Church, may edifie himſelfe,but not profite the Church. As for profit in ſpirite, S. Paul nameth not, but he that prayeth in ſpirite,that is according to his ſpirituall gift of ſtrange tongues: if he pray in the Church,he muſt pray with vnderſtanding of other, that his prayer be not vnfruitfull, or els holde his peace, if neither he, nor any other, can interprete his praiers As for him that vnderſtandeth not what he requireth in an vnknowen tongue,prayeth not at all, but mocketh God, and the Church if he pray openly. And where you ſay, ſuch a one may haue leſſe diſtractions then other in his prayer, there is nothing els, but a diſtraction of his mind from his tongue, when his heart cannot thinke, that which the wordes he pronounceth doeth ſignifie, which he knoweth not whether they be bleſſing or curſing,prayers or thankeſgiuing,for ſpirituall benefites or temporal, for him-ſelfe or for other,for forgiueneſſe of ſinnes,or perſeuerance in vertue. Wheras true prayer,requireth a true ſence or feeling of our preſent neede, and of the neceſſitie of our brethren, yea of the whole Church of God. Prayer in a tongue vnknowen. Rom. 10. 2. Hebr. 11. Rom. 10. Ioan. 17.

Prayer in an vnknowen tongue, was firſt brought in by Elxai,the horrible Heretike among the Iewes,which ſaid vnto his ſchollers, Let no man ſeeke the interpretation but onely in his prayer, ſay theſe wordes, &c. Epiph. Hæreſ. 19. who doubteth not,that this teſtimonie of Eſay,may be rightly applied againſt him & his ſect: and euen by the ſame reaſon it may be applied againſt the Papiſtes,who much more then the hypocriticall Iewes,honour God in vaine with their lippes, according to mens traditions,and therefore their hart is farre from him.

Rhem. 3. 9. Commaundements of men.) Such onely are here called traditions, doctrines, or commaundements of men, which be either repugnant to Gods lawes,as this of defrauding their parents vnder pretenſe of religion: or which at the leſt be friuolous, vnprofitable, and impertinent to pietie or true worſhip, as that other ſort of ſuperſtitious waſhing handes and veſſels without regard of inward puritie of hart and mind. Let no man therefore be abuſed with the Proteſtants peruerſe application of this place againſt the holy traditions, and precepts of the Church and our ſpirituall Gouernours, concerning faſtes, feſtiuities, and other rites of diuine ſeruice and due order in life and in the ſeruice of God. For ſuch are not repugnant but conſonant to Gods worde and all pietie, and our Lord is truely honoured, worſhipped, and ſerued both by the making and alſo by the obſeruing of them. * S. Paul gaue commaundements both by his epiſtles and by word of mouth, euen in ſuch matters wherein Chriſt had preſcribe l nothing at all, and he chargeth the faithfull to obſerue the ſame. * The Apoſtles and Priſtes at Hieruſalem made lawes, and the Chriſtians were bound to obey them. * The keeping of Sunday in ſtede of the Sabbath The differences betweene the Iewiſh traditions here reprehended,& the Churches Apoſtolicall traditions. 2. Therfore neither theſe nor other ſuch Apoſtolike Ordinances, nor any precepts of the holy Church or of our lawfull Paſtors are implied in theſe Phariſaical traditions here reprehended, nor to be compted or called the doctrines and commaundements of men, becauſe they are not made by mere humane power, but by Chriſtes warrant and authoritie, and by ſuch as he hath placed to rule his Church, of whom he ſaith,* * He that heareth you, heareth me: he that deſpiſeth you, deſpiſeth me: They are made by the Holy Ghoſt, ioyning with our Paſtors in the regiment of the faithful, they are made by our Mother the Church, which whoſoeuer obeyeth not, * we are warned to take him as an Heathen. But on the other ſide, all lawes, doctrines, ſeruice and inuentions of Heretikes, howſoeuer pretended to be conſonant to the Scriptures, be commaundements of men: becauſe both the things by them preſcribed are implous, and the Authors haue neither ſending nor commiſſion from God.

Fulke. 3. Of Popiſh traditions, doctrines, & commaundements, ſome be repugnant to Gods lawes, as worſhipping of Images, ſacrifice of the Maſſe, communion in one kinde, prohibiting of mariage and meates for religions ſake, and ſuch like. Some are beſide the lawes of God, as idle & vnprofitable ceremonies, wherof they haue an infinite nomber, ſeruing not to order, decens, and edification, but to idolatry & ſuperſtition: while they make them as a part of Gods ſeruice & worſhip. In both ſorts, being the doctrines of men, God is worſhipped in vain, as our ſauiour ſaith, out of ỹ Prophet Eſai. Now let vs ſee, how you defend them: firſt you ſay, S. Paul gaue commandements both by his epiſtles & by word of mouth, euen in ſuch matters wherein Chriſt had preſcribed nothing at all, and charged the faithful to obſerue them for which you quote 2. The. 2. 15. & 1. Cor. 11. I anſwer, this is a deteſtable ſlāder of the holy apoſtle, who taught nothing as neceſſarie to be obſerued, but ỹ which he had receiued of the Lord, either in particuler, as the obſeruation of the Lords ſupper, 1. Cor. 11. 23. or in general, as the comlines to be obſerued in the holy meetings, according to the diſtinction of ſexes, which God hath made. Out of which general doctrine, the Apoſtle inferreth his argumentes, for the couering of womens heads in ỹ congregation, & the not couering of mēs heads. And yet in the outward ceremonie of couering, or not couering, he preſcribeth nothing as a part of religion or the ſeruice of God: but as a matter of comlines, & decencie among men: which is varied according to times, perſons & places: and therfore concludeth, that it is not the cuſtome of Gods Church to extend for ſuch matters. But for matters neceſſary to Gods worſhip, the Church muſt ſtriue euen to the death of her children. As for ceremonies apt for decencie, order & edification, are allowed by ỹ word of God, & the church hath libertie in the external formes of them, ſo thoſe three conditions or endes be obſerued. But in the other place of S. Paul, how proue you that he ſpeaketh ot any thing not expreſſed in the Scriptures? For though he hath not comprehended all things in his Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, yet he taught no doctrine neceſſary to ſaluation, but that which Moſes and the Prophets haue ſaid, and which was accompliſhed and taught by our Sauiour Chriſt in the Goſpel As for matters of externall Diſcipline, and forme of adminiſtration of the Sacraments, publike prayers, and ſuch like, which are variable (ſo the ſubſtance of doctrine be reteined, and the generall rules appointed for ſuch matters be obſerued,) he neuer required any perpetual obſeruation.

Traditions of men.
1. Cor. 14. 26. and 40.
Act. 26. 22.

But the Apoſtles made lawes of blood, and ſtrangled neceſſary to be obſerued: I graunt, but not as a part of Gods worſhip, but as neceſſary for edifying of the Iewes in loue, which cauſe ceaſing, thoſe Lawes alſo ceaſe of themſelues without any abrogation. For nowe when the infirmitie of the Iewes is no let, it is lawfull to eate blood and ſtrangled.

Thirdly, the obſeruation of the Lordes day, is not deliuered by blinde tradition, but hath teſtimonie of the holy Scriptures, 1. Cor 16. 2. and Apoc. 1. 10. Act. 20. 7. and the obſeruation thereof, is according to Gods commandement, and no doctrine of men.

Fourthly, you ſay, the Apoſtles preſcribed the feaſtes of Eaſter and Whitſuntide, and other ſolemnities of Chriſt, and of his Saincts, which the Proteſtants obſerue. Epiph. hær. 75. I anſwere, Epiphanius aſcribeth to tradition of the Apoſtles, the Wedneſday faſt, and many other ceremonies which the Papiſts do not obſerue. Therfore the Papiſts muſt confeſſe, either that ſuch things were not preſcribed by the Apoſtles, or els ỹ they were preſcribed none otherwiſe, then indifferent ceremonies, which are ſubiect to alteration, and in which the religion or worſhip of God doth not conſiſt. And ſo the Proteſtants obſerue them, for order & edification of Gods people, that vſe to aſſemble at ſuch times: as the Apoſtles obſerued the Sabboth day, Pentecoſt, & other ſolemnities of the Iewes, not as a portion of Chriſtian religion, but taking occaſion of the meeting of the Iewes in thoſe feſtiual times.

Fifthly, you ſay, the Apoſtles appointed the Lent & Imber faſts, aſwel to chaſtiſe mans concupiſcence, as to pleaſe God therby. For the appointing of Lent & Imber faſts, you quote Hierom. ad Marcel. Com. Matt. who in deede alleadgeth the tradition of the Apoſtles, for one fourtie dayes faſt in the yere, but of Imber faſts, & ſuch other he ſpeaketh neuer a word. And I haue ſhewed before out of Euſe. li. 5. c. 18 that Montanus the heretike was the firſt that appointed lawes of faſting. And Ireneus cited by Euſeb. l. 5. c. 26. ſheweth ỹ diuerſity of faſting, as wel as of obſeruing the feaſt of Eaſter, which prooueth that neither the one, nor the other, had any certaine preſcription by the Apoſtles. That men by faſting ſerue and pleaſe God, you cite the examples of Anna, Tobie, Iudith, Heſter, who ſerued and pleaſed God thereby, whereof wee doubt nothing at all, while they vſed faſting to the right ende allowed of God, that is, humbling of themſelues, and chaſtiſing of the body, that it might be more obedient to the ſpirit, and feruent in prayer. For otherwiſe, faſting of it ſelfe (as S. Hierome ſaith,) is no perfect vertue, but a foundation of other vertues. Thinke not (ſaith hee) that thou art holy, when thou haſt begunne to faſt and abſteine, for this vertue is an helpe, not a perfection of ſanctification. I concluda therefore, that Popiſh traditions, placing religion and holines, in commaundements and ceremonies of their owne inuention, are as ill, as the Phariſaicall traditions, and men ſeeke in vaine to worſhip God by them. For Chriſt hath giuen no warrant or auctoritie to any man, to adde any thing to the worſhip of God preſcribed in his worde. Neither hath hee aſſured vs, that whoſoeuer heareth man heareth him, but ſo long as man preacheth Gods worde, and not the viſions of his owne head. Iudas was one of them, of whom it was ſaid, he that heareth you, heareth me, but this was vnderſtood to be no longer, then he preached the Goſpel, els the high Prieſts might be excuſed for hearkening to him, when he ſaid, What wil you giue me and I wil betray him vnto you? Againe the holy Ghoſt ioyneth not with them, that ſet vp a new religion, or teach new doctrines, but with them that reteine only the doctrine of Chriſt, as ſufficient vnto ſaluation. And that is the true Church which heareth the voice of the ſpouſe, & is content to be directed thereby in al things. That company of men which teach contrary to the Scripture, or beſides the Scriptures, to worſhip God, not as the word hath preſcribed, but according to the doctrines of men, is the ſynagogue of Sathan, and not the Church of Chriſt: Neither haue they ſending or commiſſion from God. But they who ſincerely according to the Scriptures, doe teach the Goſpel, haue ſending & commiſſion from God. Rom. 10. and are to be heard euen as Chriſt himſelfe, ſo long as they teach nothing but that Chriſt hath taught, as it is to be prooued out of the holy Scriptures.

Ioan. 16. 14. cap. 14. 26. cap. 20. 31.

Rhem. 4. 11. Not that which entreth.) The Catholikes doe not abſtaine from certaine meates, for that they eſteeme any meate vncleane either by creation or by Iudaical obſeruation: but they abſtaine for chaſtiſement of their concupiſcences. Aug. li. de mor. Ec. Cath. c. 33.

Difference of meates.

Fulke. 4. The Papiſts abſtaine not as the Catholikes did in S. Auguſtines time, for chaſtiſement of their concupiſcences, but of hypocriſie, for religion & holines. For wine, ſpices, fruites, ſallets, and many fiſhes which they vſe, doe much more nouriſh concupiſcence, then vſuall fleſh, from which they abſtaine.

Popiſh faſtings.

Rhem. 5. 18. Defile a man.) It is ſinne onely which properly defileth man, and meates of themſelfe or of their owne nature doe not defile: but ſo farre as by accident they make a man to ſinne, as the diſobedience of Gods commaundement or of our Superiours who forbid ſome meates for certaine times and cauſes, is a ſinne. As the apple which our firſt parents did eate of, though of it ſelf it did not defile them, yet being eaten againſt the precept, it did defile. So neither fleſh nor fiſh of it ſelfe doth defile, but the breach of the Churches precept defileth.

Gen. 3. Catholike abſtinence.

Fulke. 5. The Spirit ſpeaketh ſo euidently of your Popiſh prohibition of mariage & meates for religion and holines, that all your lying words and ſhifts of hypocriſie, cannot excuſe you from holding the doctrine of deuils. If neither fleſh nor fiſh defile a man as you ſay now, why doe you prohibite fleſh to ſome men at all times, and to all men at ſome times? The like I ſay of mariage, whereby Greg. Martin, a birde of your owne neſt affirmeth, that the ſacred order of prieſthood is prophaned. Diſcou. cap. 15. And Durand can yeeld none other reaſon, why fiſh is eaten on faſting dayes, but becauſe God hath not curſed the waters, Becauſe remiſſion of ſinnes ſhould be by the water of Baptiſme. For this element is moſt worthy which waſheth away filthines, and vpon which the ſpirit of the Lord was borne before the making of the world. But he curſed the earth in the works of man: hereof it is that it is not lawful in faſting to eate any kinde of fleſh which liueth on the earth as foure footed beaſtes, and birds, &c. li. 6. c. de aliis ieiuniis. Let the indifferent Reader now iudge, whether you abſtaine not from fleſh as from meat curſed of God. Whereas the faithful know, that al the creatures of God are good, and ſanctified vnto them by his word and prayer.

CHAP. XVI.

The obſtinate Phariſees & Sadducees, as though his foreſaid miracles were not ſufficiēt to proue him to be Chriſt, require to ſee ſome one frō heauen. 5 Whereupon forſaking them, he warneth his diſciples to beware of the leauē of their doctrine.

Rhem. 1. 13 And Peter (the time now approching for him to goe into Iewry to his Paſſion) for confeſſing him to be Chriſt, he maketh the Rocke of his Church, giuing ſulnes of Eccleſiaſtical power accordingly.

Fulke. 1. Peter by the grace of God, & not by the merite of his confeſſiō, is made not ỹ Rocke, but a rocke or foundation ſtone of the Church, and receiueth ſuch Eccleſiaſtical power, as was common to him with all the Apoſtles.

Peters Primacie.

Rhem. 2. 21 And after, he ſo rebuketh him for diſſuading his Croſſe and Paſſion, that he alſo affirmeth the like ſuffring in euery one to be neceſſary to ſaluation.

Fulke. 2. Chriſt affirmeth not the like ſuffering to his paſſion to be neceſſarie to ſaluation, in euery one, but that euery one in affection of denying himſelfe, ought to be readie to ſuffer whatſoeuer is layd vpon him, for the profeſſion of the Goſpel.

Mar. 8, 12. Luc. 12, 54.

AND there came to him the Phariſees and Sadducees tempting: and they demaunded him to ſhewe them a ſigne from heauen.

2 But he anſwered & ſaid to them, when it is euening, you ſay, It will be faire-wether, for the element is redde.

3 And in the morning, This day there wil be a tempeſt, for the element doth glow and lowre. The face therfore of the element you haue skil to diſcerne: and the ſignes of times can you not?

Mar. 12, 39. 4 The *naughtie and aduouterous generation ſeeketh for a ſigne: and there ſhal not a ſigne be giuen it, but the ſigne of Ionas the Prophet. And he left them and went away.

THe * Phariſees alſo, with the Sadducees, came, and tempting, deſired him that hee would ſhew them a ſigne from heauen. Mar. 8. 11. luke 12. 54.

2 He anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, When it is euening, ye ſay, It wil be faire weather: for the skie is red.

3 And in the morning, it will be foule weather to day: for the skie is lowring red. O ye hypocrites, ye can diſcerne the outward appearance of the skie: but can ye not diſcerne the ſignes of the times?

*4 *A froward and adulterous nation requireth a ſigne, and there ſhall no ſigne be giuen vnto it, but the ſigne of the Prophet Ionas. And hee left them, and departed. Matt. 12. 34. Ionas 2. 1.

11 Why doe you not vnderſtand that I ſaide not of bread to you, Beware of the leauen of the Phariſees and Sadducees?

17 And IESVS anſwering, ſaid to him, ‖ Bleſſed art thou Simon bar-Iona: becauſe fleſh and bloud hath not reueiled it to thee, but my father which is in heauen.

Io.21,15.

20 Then he commaunded his diſciples that they ſhould tell no body that he was IESVS CHRIST.

21 From that time IESVS began to ſhew his diſciples, that he muſt go to Hieruſalem, and ſuffer many things of the Ancients and Scribes and cheefe-Prieſts, and be killed, and the third day riſe againe.

22 And Peter taking him vnto him, began to rebuke him, ſaying, Lord, be it farre from thee, this ſhall not be vnto thee.

23 Who

6 Then Ieſus ſaid vnto them, Take heede and beware of the leauen of the Phariſees, and of the Sadducees.

7 And they thought in themſelues, ſaying, For we haue taken no bread with vs.

8 Which when Ieſus vnderſtoode, hee ſaide vnto them, O yee of little faith, why thinke you within your ſelues, becauſe yee haue brought no bread.

*9 Doe ye not yet perceiue, neither remember thoſe fiue loaues of the fiue thouſande, and howe many baskets tooke ye vp? Matt.14.17.

*10 Neither the ſeuen loaues of the foure thouſand, and howe many baskets tooke ye vp? Matt.15.34.

11 How is it that ye do not vnderſtand that I ſpeake it not vnto you concerning bread, that ye ſoould beware of the leauen of the Phariſees, and of the Sadducees?

12 Then vnderſtoode they howe that he bad not them beware of the leauen of the bread: but of the doctrine of the Phariſees and of the Sadducees.

13 When Ieſus came into the coaſtes of Cæſarea, which is called *Philippi, he asked his diſciples, ſaying, Whom do men ſay that I the ſonne of man am? Mar.8.27. Iuke 9.18.

14 They ſaide, Some ſay that thou art Iohn Baptiſt, ſome Elias, ſome Ieremias, or one of the Prophets.

15 He ſaith vnto them, But whom ſay ye that I am?

*16 Simon Peter anſwered, and ſaide, Thou art Chriſt, the ſonne of the liuing God. Iohn 6.69.

17 And Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto him, Happie art thou Simon Bar Iona: for fleſh and blood hath not opened that vnto thee, but my father which is in heauen.

*18 And I ſay alſo vnto thee, * that thou art Peter, and vpon this rocke I will builde my congregation: and the gates of hell ſhall not preuaile againſt it.* Iohn 1.42. Or Church.

*19 * And I will giue vnto thee the keyes of the kingdome of heauen: and whatſoeuer thou ſhalt binde in earth, ſhalbe bounde in heauen, and whatſoeuer thou ſhalt looſe in earth, ſhall be looſed in heauen.* Iohn 20.21.

20 Then charged he his diſciples that they ſhould tell no man that he was Ieſus Chriſt.

21 From that time forth began Ieſus to ſhew vnto his diſciples, how that he muſt go vnto Hieruſalem, and ſuffer many things of the Elders and high Prieſts and Scribes, and muſt be killed and be rayſed againe the thirde day.

22 And when Peter had taken him aſide, he began to rebuke him, ſaying, Lord, fauour thy ſelfe, this ſhall not be vnto thee.

23 But

‡ This word in Hebrew ſignifieth an aduerſarie, as 3. Reg. 5.4. and ſo it is taken here.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP.XVI.

Rhem.3. 13. Whom ſay men.) Chriſt intending here to take order for the ſtanding, regiment, and ſtabilitie of his Church after his deceaſe, and to name the perſon to whom he meant to giue the general charge thereof, would before by interrogatories draw out (and namely out of that on: whom he thought to make the chiefe), the profeſſion of that high and principall Article, That he was the ſonne of the liuing God. Which being the ground of the Churches faith, was a neceſſarie qualitie and condition in him that was to bee made Head of the ſame Church, and the perpetual keeper of the ſaide faith and all other poinctes thereto depending. OF PETERS PRIMACIE.

Fulke.3. All the Logicians in the world, cannot conclude in lawfull Syllogiſme out of the wordes of this Chapiter, that any greater authoritie was granted to Peter, then to euery one of the Apoſtles: who were euery one foundation ſtones of the Church, had euery one the keyes of the kingdome of heauen, had euery one as large and ample power of binding and loſing as Peter had: And therefore this ſurmiſe of Chriſt intending to conſtitute Peter head of the Church, is falſe and fained. Peter was not head of the Church.

Rhem.4. 14. But they ſaid.) When Chriſt asked the peoples opinion of him, the Apoſtles all indifferently made anſwer: but when he demaunded what themſelues thought of him, then loe Peter the mouth and head of the whole fellowſhip anſwered for all. Chryſ.ho.55.in Mat.

Fulke.4. If Peter were head of the fellowſhip before he confeſſed Chriſt, as the wordes of Chryſoſtome doe import, then he was not made head by theſe wordes that followe: Thou art Peter, &c. But in trueth Chryſoſtome neuer deferred any Primacie to Peter of auctoritie and dignitie, but of order and promptneſſe of faith. For Hom. 38. he giueth the ſame title of headſhip to foure Apoſtles at once. For Philip (ſaith he) and theſe two couples that helde the headſhip of the Apoſtleſhip, were of Bethſaida. And of Iohn he ſaith in Euang. Ioan. Prol. The ſonne of thunder is moſt beloued of Chriſt, the piller of all the Churches that are in the worlde, which hath the keyes of the kingdome of heauen. And in 1.Corinth. Hom 39. He ſaith, The dignitie of all the Apoſtles is equall. Therefore Chryſoſtome meaneth not any auctoritie ouer the reſt of the Apoſtles, or any other, then euery one of the Apoſtles had: though they had not all equall gifts, but ſome excelled in gifts, as Peter, Iames and Iohn: nor the like diſpenſation in executing of their office, the Primacie of the Circumciſion being appointed to Peter, and the Primacie of the Gentiles to Paul. Verten. Verticem.

Rhem.5. 17. Bleſſed art thou. Though ſome other (as Nathanael Ioan. 1. 49.) ſeeme to haue before beleeued and profeſſed the ſame thing for which Peter is here counted bleſſed, yet it may be plainely gathered by this place, and ſo S. Hilarie and others thinke, that none before this did further vtter of him, then that hee was the Sonne of God by adoption as other Saincts be, though more excellent then other be. For it was of congruitie and Chriſtes ſpecial appointment, that he vpon whome hee intended to found his newe Church, and whoſe faith hee would make infallible, ſhould haue the preeminence of this firſt profeſſion of Chriſtes naturall diuinitie, or, that he was by nature the very ſonne of God, a thing ſo farre aboue the capacitie of nature, reaſon, fleſh and bloud, and ſo repugnant to Peters ſenſe and ſight of Chriſtes humanitie, fleſh, and infirmities, that for the beleefe and publike profeſſion thereof he is counted bleſſed, as Abraham was for his faith: and hath great promiſes for himſelfe and his poſteritie, as the ſaid Patriarche had for him and his ſeede. According as S. Baſil ſaith, Becauſe he excelled in faith, he receiued the building of the Church committed to him. Hilar.can.6. in Mat. & li.6. de Trinit. Chryſ.ho.55. in Matt. Baſil.li.2.adu. Eunom.

Chryſoſtome

Fulke 5. Chryſoſtome in deed thinketh, that Nathanael did not acknowledge Chriſt to be very God. But S. Hilary whom you name firſt. Can 6. or 16. hath neuer a word of Nathaniel. But lib. 6. de Trinit. he ſaith: that Nathaniel confeſſed Chriſt to be the ſonne of God, as Moſes and the Prophets had foreſhewed, who doubtleſſe foreſhew his diuinitie. S. Cyrill plainly affirmeth, that he knew him to be God, by knowing his heart. In Ioan. lib. 2. c. 19. S. Auguſtine alſo in Ioan. Tr. 7. iudgeth, the confeſſion of Nathaniell, to be the ſame that Peter made afterward, when our Lord ſaid vnto him, Bleſſed art thou Simon, &c. Bede alſo ſaith, that Nathaniell cõſidering his diuine maieſtie, confeſſed him to be the ſonne of God. In Ioan. Ca. 1. Primaſius alſo ſaith, that Nathaniell hearing but one ſentence anſwered, thou art the ſonne of God, thou art the king of Iſraell, which thing, when Peter ſo long after confeſſed, he obteined to heare, that he was happy, and that the keies of the kingdome of heauen were giuen to him: In epiſt. ad Rom. cap. 10. Thus fiue doctors againſt one, affirme that Nathaniell confeſſed as much of Chriſtes diuinitie, as Peter. Therefore, this is another vaine ſurmiſe, why Peter ſhould be made the head of the Church. For Chriſt had long before reuealed his diuinitie vnto his Apoſtles, and they all (except Iudas) did beleeue it, as well as Peter, who for them all, anſwereth and confeſſeth, Ioan. 6. 69. We haue beleeued and knowen, that thou art Chriſt the ſonne of the liuing God. Where Peter as in this place, Mat. 16. had the primacie of confeſſion, not of honor: As S. Ambroſe ſaith, De Incarn. Dom. ca. 4. That Peter receiued the building of the Church commited vnto him, we acknowledge, as all the reſt of the Apoſtles did likewiſe, being the foundation of the Church, as well as he, Epheſ. 2. 20.

Rhem. 6. 18. And I ſay to thee.) Our Lord recompenſeth Peter for his confeſſion, giuing him a great reward, in that vpon him he builded his Church. Theophylactus vpon this place.

Fulke. 6. No doubt, it was a great reward of Peters confeſſion, that the Church is builded vpon him: but this reward, euen as the ſame faith and confeſſion, was common to him with the reſt of the Apoſtles. Neither doth Theophylactus meane otherwiſe: therefore he ſaith within few wordes after: They which haue obtained the grace to be Biſhops, haue power to remitte and bind as Peter. For although it was ſaid to Peter alone, I will giue to thee: yet the keyes were granted to all the Apoſtles.

Rhem. 7. 18. Thou art Peter.) Chriſt (in the firſt of Ioan. v. 42) foretold and appointed that this man then named Simon, ſhould afterward be called Cephas, or Petrus, that is to ſay, a Rocke, not then vttering the cauſe, but now expreſſing the ſame, videlicet (as S. Cyrill writeth) For that vpon him as vpon a firme rocke his Church ſhould be builded. Whereunto S. Hilarie agreeing ſaith, O happie foundation of the Church in the impoſing of thy new name. &c. And yet Chriſt here doth not ſo much call him by the name Peter or Rocke, as he doth affirme him to be a rocke: ſignifying by that Metaphore, both that he was deſigned for the foundation and grounde worke of his houſe, which is the Church: and alſo that he ſhould be of inuincible force, firmitie, durablenes, and ſtabilitie, to ſuſtaine all the windes, waues, and ſtormes that might fall or beate againſt the ſame. And the Aduerſaries obiecting againſt this, that Chriſt only is the Rocke or foundation, wrangle againſt the very expreſſe Scriptures and Chriſtes owne wordes, giuing both the name and the thing to this Apoſtle. And the ſimple may learne by S. Baſils words, how the caſe ſtandeth. Though (ſaith he) Peter be a rocke, yet he is not a rocke as Chriſt is. For Chriſt is the true vnmooueable rocke of himſelfe. Peter is vnmooueable by Chriſt the rocke. For Ieſus doth communicate and impart his dignities, not voiding himſelfe of them, but holding them to himſelfe, beſtoweth them alſo vpon others. He is the light, and yet, 1 You are the light: he is the Prieſt, and yet he 3 maketh Prieſts: he is the rocke, and he made a rocke.

1 Mt. 5. 14. 3 Luc. 22. 19.

Fulke. 7. We confeſſe with Cyrill, Hilary, & Baſill, that Peter was a ſtone, deſigned for the foundation of the Church, but ſo, as all the reſt of the Apoſtles are ſtones vpon which the Church is builded. Apoc. 21. 14. Neither do we wrangle, when we ſay that Chriſt is the onely rocke or foundation, vpon which the Church is builded, for the Apoſtle hath taught vs ſo to ſay, 1. Cor. 3. 11. Yet doe we not exclude the Miniſterie and labours of his Apoſtles, whom alſo we acknowledge, to be ſtones and foundations of his Church: not in reſpect of their perſons, but in regard of the heauenly doctrine, which being committed vnto them, by diligent preaching and writing, they planted in the world: and ſo became with the Prophets, the foundation of the Church: Ieſus Chriſt ſtill retaining his place, to be the corner ſtone, in whom the whole building, being coupled together, groweth vp to an holy temple in the Lord. Eph. 2 20. 21. Therefore as Chriſt is the rocke, foundation, or corner ſtone, neither Peter, nor all the Apoſtles, are the ſame. But your blaſphemous aduauncing of Peters primacie, tendeth to make him a whole foundation of the whole Church, which none is but Chriſt. Neither hath he therein any Vicar or ſubſtitute, but by his diuine power, ſuſtaineth the whole building of the Church himſelfe. So ſaieth Chryſoſtome: He himſelfe ſuſtaineth and beareth all things, in whom the whole building is coupled together. What ſoeuer thou ſhalt name, either the roofe, or the walls, or whatſoeuer it be, he beareth the whole himſelfe. In epiſt. ad Epheſ. hom. 6. Therefore that which is proper to the diuine nature of Chriſt, cannot without blaſphemie, be aſcribed to the miniſtery of man.

Rhem. 8. 18. And vpon this rocke.) *Vpon that which he ſayd Peter was, will he build his Church: and therefore by moſt euident ſequele he founded his Church vpon Peter. For his father gaue him that dignitie, and he tooke not that honour to himſelfe, nor ſent himſelfe, nor tooke the keies of heauen of himſelfe, but all of his father. Fulke. 8. Many wordes to little purpoſe. We acknowledge that Peter was a ſtone, vpon which ſtone the Church is builded, as the reſt of the Apoſtles were ſtones, vpon whom alſo the Church is builded. And we confeſſe, that Cepha in the Syrian tongue (which language our Sauiour vſed) ſignifieth a ſtone, not only a great maine rocke, ſuch as Chriſt is being the foundation of the whole Church, but alſo euery little ſtone. And in the Syriake tranſlation 1. Pet. 2. where the Apoſtle calleth all the faithfull liuing ſtones builded vpon the precious ſtone Chriſt, the ſame word is vſed. Therefore, if we ſhould tranſlate ſo preciſely as you ſpeake, out of the Syriake tongue: we ſhould ſay, Thou art a ſtone, and vpon this ſtone, I wil build my Church. But the Greeke which we tranſlated, making difference of the gender, we haue done right in obſeruing the ſame. And albeit Πέτρος and Πέτρα in Greeke, doe ſignifie the ſame thing, yet is Πέτρος proper to the Attucke Dialect, when it ſignifieth a rocke or ſtone. And becauſe it is not like, that the Apoſtle, without cauſe, would in ſo few wordes varie the Dialect, we muſt needs thinke, that Πέτρος in this place, is taken for the proper name of Peter, and Πέτρα for the common name of a ſtone, wherof Peter had that ſirname. Which whether it be to be referred to Chriſt whom Peter confeſſed, or to Peters faith, or confeſſion of Chriſt, or to Peter himſelfe in reſpect of his doctrine and Apoſtleſhip (as the ancient fathers haue all theſe three relations.) It commeth to one end: that Peter had none other authoritie, then the reſt of the Apoſtles, vpon whom the Church was builded, no leſſe then vpon Peter, who alſo beleeued and confeſſed as Peter did, had the keies of the kingdome of heauen and power, to bind and loſe, as ample as he. Mat. 18. 18. Ioan. 20. 23. But let vs examine the authorities of the ancient fathers, that are quoted for this matter. Firſt S. Auguſtine vnderſtanding the rocke to be Chriſt, is condemned of error, becauſe he followed the Latine terminations of Petrus, & Petra. But is not the ſame difference in the Greeke? or thinke you the difference is made in vaine? Secondly, you ſay, notwithſtanding that his error, he neuer denieth Peter to be the rocke and head of the Church. But if this text by his laſt iudgement in his Retractations make not for it, how can he hold Peter to be the rocke of the Church in your ſenſe, or head of the ſame? Thirdly, you ſay, he hath expounded it of Peter, in many places, and alleageth S. Ambroſe in an hymne. It is true: but in no place he concludeth thereof, the ſupremacie of Peter, or acknowledgeth Peter to be ſuch a foundation ſtone, as none of the Apoſtles is but he, or that Peter was made head of the Church. Firſt in Pſ. 69. he ſaith, That Peter hauing confeſſed Chriſt to be the ſonne of God, in that confeſſion, was called a ſtone, vpon which the Church ſhould be builded. Theſe wordes ſet him not an inch aboue the reſt of the Apoſtles. In the ſecond place, De verb. Dom. ſec. Io. ſer. 49. is no word of the rocke, or building of the Church vpon Peter. Except you meane theſe wordes. Dicit enim Petro, in quo vno formam eccleſiæ, Petre amas me. He ſaith vnto Peter in whom being but one, he informeth his Church, (or maketh him an example for his Church to follow) Peter doeſt thou loue me. The whole context of that place is plaine, that S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh nothing of Peter, as the foundation of the Church. The other foure places out of the ſermons De ſanctis, are none of Auguſtines authoritie, no more then thoſe ſermons are. The very ſtile of which argueth them to be of another, and a later writer: yet is one of the ſermons, which you quote, aſcribed alſo to S. Ambroſe. But admit they were Auguſtines, yet they make little or nothing for Peters ſupremacie, which is the matter in queſtion, and not whether the Church was builded vpon Peter, which we doe gladly acknowledge. Ser. 15. he ſaith, that Peter was named the foundation of the Church. So doth he in the Ser. 16. with more ample wordes, but yet expounding himſelfe, he ſaieth, In eadem domo, &c. In the ſame houſe Peter laieth the foundation, Peter planteth, the Lord giueth the encreaſe, the Lord ſendeth watering. In theſe words he ſheweth, how he is a foundation and vnmooueable ſtone, conteining the building and burden of the whole chriſtian worke, namely as he preacheth Chriſt the true rocke, and laieth him for the foundation of the houſe, while he planteth the faith. In the ſer. 26. The author ſaith, Peter is a rocke or ſtone vpon which the Church is builded, as he containeth the foundation of faith in the Church. And that is true of euery one of the Apoſtles, to whom was committed the doctrine of the goſpell which is the foundation of Chriſtian faith. In the 29. ſermon, the author according to the Scripture, calleth Peter and Paule both Fundatores Chriſtiani nominis, Founders of the Chriſtian name. Peter among the Iewes, Paule among the Gentiles, and in many other wordes ſheweth that Paule was not leſſe or inferiour to Peter. Annot. in Iob. cap. 30. there is nothing touching this matter. But beſide theſe, you alleage many other authorities, of which not one except Leo and Gregorie (themſelues BB. of Rome) doe fauour the ſupremacie of Peter, nor they ſo abſolutely, as now you hold it. For to begin with the holy counſel of Chalcedon, the fathers in that counſell, did ſo acknowledge the Church to be founded vpon Peter, that they decreed, That the biſhop of Conſtantinople ſhould haue equall authoritie and dignitie with the biſhop of Rome, except the primacie of ſeniorſtie. Action. 16. & Can. 28. although the biſhop of Romes legates were preſent, and alleaged what they could to hinder the decree. Tertullian ſaith, Peter was called a ſtone, or Rocke, for the building of the Church. So he ſaith, All the Apoſtles were ſtones. Cont. Marcio. lib. 4. Alſo he ſaith, The Church was builded vpon Peter, becauſe it was builded by him, that he firſt occupied the key, &c. De pudicitia propè finem. By whom alſo it appeareth, that the Catholikes in his time, chalenged auctoritie of binding and looſing, to pertaine to the Church by that text. Thou art Peter, &c. where he like an heretike contendeth, tendeth, that it was ſpoken perſonally to Peter, and that Montanus the ſpirituall man, with his Church, is ſucceſſour of that authoritie, and not that Church which is a number of Biſhops. Origen alſo, Hom. 5. in Exod. calleth Peter a great foundation, and moſt ſtrong rocke, vpon whom the Church is builded. But how that is to be vnderſtood, he ſheweth plainly in his Commentarie vpon this text. Si autem ſuper vnum illum Petrum, &c. But if thou thinkeſt, that the vniuerſall Church is builded by God, vpon this one Peter: What ſayeſt thou of Iames and Iohn, the children of thunder, or of euery one of the Apoſtles? Therefore it was truly ſayd vnto Peter. Thou art Peter, and vpon this ſtone I will build my Church, and the gates of hell ſhall not preuaile againſt it: Yet is ſeemeth to be ſayd to all the Apoſtles, and to euery perfect faithfull man, becauſe they all as Peter, be ſtones, and on them all, the Church of Chriſt is builded, and the gates of hell ſhall preuaile againſt none of the̅ that are ſuch. Theſe words of Origene, you ſee doe plainly ouerthrow the ſupremacie of Peter, although he confeſſe him to be a ſtone vpō which the Church is builded. S. Cyprian De vnitate Eccleſiæ, was as great a friend to Peters ſupremacie as Origen. For thus he writeth, Quamuis Apoſtolis omnibus. &c. Although he gaue equall authoritie to all his Apoſtles after his reſurrection, & ſayd, As my father ſent me, ſo doe I ſend you, receiue the holy ghoſt, whoſe ſinnes you ſhall forgiue, they ſhall be forgiuen, and whoſe you ſhall reteine, they ſhall be reteined, yet to manifeſt vnitie, the beginning of that vnitie proceeding from one, he diſpoſed by his authoritie. The ſame thing verily were all the Apoſtles that Peter was, endued with equall fellowſhip of honour and authoritie, but the beginning proceedeth from one, that the Church might be ſhewed to be one. This writeth Cyprian, of the building of the Church vpon one man Peter, ſhewing that all the Apoſtles had the ſame honour and power that Peter had. And therefore Peter had no ſupremacie of authoritie ouer them, or ouer the whole Church, more then euery one of the Apoſtles had. That which S. Hilarie writeth vpon this place, Can. 16. of the foundation of the Church, may well be vnderſtood of faith. As he doth moſt plainly expreſſe his mind, De Trinit. lib. 2. Vnum igitur hoc eſt immobile fundamentum, &c. This one foundation is vnmoueable, this is that one happy rocke of faith confeſſed by the mouth of Peter. Thou art the ſonne of the liuing God. And lib. 6. he ſaith: All the Apoſtles, for the worthineſſe of their faith acknowledging his diuinitie, receiued the keies of the kingdom of heauen, and authoritie of binding and looſing in heauen and earth. Wherefore S. Hilarie out of this text, neuer acknowledged the ſupremacie of Peter, or any greater authoritie granted vnto Peter, then vnto the reſt of the Apoſtles. The next place, you quote, for Ambr. ſerm. 46. is the very ſame which you quoted before, and aſcribed to Auguſt. ſerm. 16. de ſanct. reſembling in deed the ſtile of neither of both. Likewiſe the ſerm. 69. is the very ſame that you cited before, as Auguſtines ſerm. 26. de ſanct. Theſe places if you had viewed your ſelues, you would not haue cited for ſhame, vnder the name of two ſeuerall doctors, and yet they ſerue you to ſmall purpoſe, as I haue ſhewed before. But you know papiſts, are ready to take all draffe, that you will thruſt into their mouthes, and neuer examine whence it commeth. With whom ſo long as you may reteine your credite, you eſteeme not what all the learned of the world may iudge of your impudencie. But leaſt you ſhould ſeeme to haue nothing of Ambroſe, but forged, you quote lib. 6. cap. 9. Lucæ. where he doth acknowledge, Peter none otherwiſe to be the foundation of the Church, then euery faithfull man may be. For he (ſaith he) that ſhall ouercome the fleſh is a foundation of the Church, and though he cannot be equall to Peter, yet he may follow him. Againe he ſaith: He denied not to his diſciple the grace of this name, that he ſhould be called Peter, becauſe he had ſolidities of conſtancie, and ſted faſtneſſe of faith of the rocke. Endeuour that thou alſo maieſt be a rocke. Therefore ſeeke the rocke, not without thee, but within thee. Thy acte is thy rocke, thy mind is thy rocke. Let thy houſe be builded vpon this rocke, that it may not be beaten with any ſtormes of ſpiritual wickedneſſe. Faith is thy rocke, faith is the foundation of the Church. If thou be a rocke, thou ſhalt be in the Church, becauſe the Church is vpon a rocke, &c. Here is all that can be gathered out of this place for Peters ſupremacie. You were as wel aduiſed to quote S. Hierome lib. 1. in Ionin. whoſe words are theſe. At dicis ſuper Petrum fundatur Eccleſia: &c. But thou ſayeſt, the Church is founded vpon Peter, although in another place, the very ſame thing is done vpon all the Apoſtles, and they all receiue the keyes of the kingdome of heauen, and the ſtrength of the Church is eſtabliſhed equally vpon them all. Yet therefore among twelue one is choſen, that the head being appointed, occaſion of ſchiſme may be taken away. In theſe wordes, Hierome acknowledgeth no greater authoritie of Peter, then of the reſt of the Apoſtles, but onely a primacie of order for auoiding of confuſion and diſſention, which in euery company of them that be equall in degree, muſt be obſerued. Your ſecond place out of S. Hierome, is in cap. 2. Eſa. where he ſaith of the Church: Hæc domus ædificata eſt, &c. This houſe is builded vpon the foundation of the Apoſtles and Prophets, who alſo are mountains, as followers of Chriſt. Of this houſe and Ieruſalem, the Pſalmiſt ſaieth aboue. They that put their truſt in the Lord, ſhall be as the Mount Sion, he ſhall not be mooued for euer which dwelleth in Ieruſalem. The mountains are round about it, and the Lord is round about his people. Wherefore vpon one of theſe mountains, Chriſt founded his Church and ſaith vnto him. Thou art Peter, and vpon this rocke I will build my Church, and the gates of hell ſhall not preuaile againſt it. Loe by this teſtimonie, Peter is one of the mountains, vpon which the Church is founded: where is Peters ſupremacie in theſe wordes? Laſt of all in cap. 16. Hier. where the text is De cauernis Petrarum, Out of the holes of the rockes, he interpreteth the rockes to be the Apoſtles, and Apoſtolike men. For not onely Chriſt is a rocke, but it was graunted alſo to Peter that he ſhould be called a rocke. Behold Peter is a rocke, as euery Apoſtle and apoſtolike man is, by this place of S. Hierome, who alſo in Mat. cap. 7. ſaith, that our Lord founded his Church vpon that rocke, whereon the Wiſeman builded his houſe, of which rocke, Peter the Apoſtle tooke his name. This being common to euery wiſe builder, proueth no ſupremacie in Peter, and much leſſer in any that ſhall claime it by ſucceſſion from him, as the Romiſh prelate doth. And therefore expounding this text, he findeth nothing proper to Peter and his ſucceſſors, but common to all biſhops and prieſts. Among whom ſome not vnderſtanding the place, tooke vpon them a peece of Phariſaicall pride, which he there confuteth. And moſt expreſly defending the iudgement of the Church in the whole world, againſt the practiſe of the Romiſh Church, he ſaieth: Si auctoritas quæritur, &c. If authoritie be ſought, the world is greater then a citie. Whereſoeuer a biſhop be, either at Rome or at Engubium, either at Conſtantinople or at Rhegium, either at Alexandria or at Tanis, he is of the ſame worthineſſe, and of the ſame prieſtly office. Power of riches, and baſeneſſe of powertie, maketh not a biſhop higher or lower. But they are all ſucceſſors of the Apoſtles. But thou wilt ſay, how is the Prieſt at Rome, ordained as the teſtimonie of a Deacon. What doeſt thou bring me the cuſtome of one citie? The place of Chryſoſtone is anſwered before, ſect.4. And that Cyrill meaneth Peter to be a rocke, none otherwiſe then all the Apoſtles, his wordes are plaine in Eſa.lib.4.cap.44.Or.2. Sed quare eos.&c. But why doe we call them the foundations of the earth? For Chriſt is the foundation of all, and ſtay of all, keepeth and holdeth all things, to bee ſure and ſtedfaſt. In him we are all built, a ſpirituall houſe compacted by his ſpirite, into an holy temple, and habitation of him ſelfe: For he dwelleth in our hearts by faith. The next and nearer foundations to vs, may be vnderſtood, the Apoſtles and Euangeliſts, being eye witneſſes, and made miniſters of the word for confirmation of faith. For when wee knowe that their traditions are to bee followed, we ſhall keepe a right faith, and not ſtrange or erring from Chriſt. For by him is wat ſayd to S.Peter (becauſe he had confeſſed the faith in him right ſoundly, and had ſayd thou art Chriſt the ſonne of the liuing God) Thou art Peter, and vpon this rocke I will builde my Church, calling a rocke, as I thinke, the vnmoueable faith of the diſciple. It is alſo ſayd by the Pſalmiſt. Her foundations are vpon the holy hilles: The holy Apoſtles are rightly to bee compared to holy hilles, the knowledge of whome, is eſtabliſhed as a foundation to the poſteritie. To the ſame effect hee writeth Lib.5.Cap.54. Epiphanius in Ancorato acknowledgeth Peter to be the firſt or cheefe of the Apoſtles, on whom the Church is builded, but hee vnderſtandeth his confeſſion, faith and doctrine, not his perſon: For in him (ſaith he) the faith was eſtabliſhed by all meanes, and all queſtions of fayth are decided in him: So likewiſe haere.59.after he hath acknowledged him to be a rocke, vpon which the Church is builded, hee addeth the reaſon, and expoundeth how hee is a rocke. Becauſe (ſayth hee) hee confeſſeth Chriſt to bee the Sonne of the liuing God, and heard, vpon this rocke of ſtedfaſt fayth, I will builde my Church. Now ſeeing this rocke of ſtedfaſt fayth was in all the Apoſtles, it is certaine that Epiphanius purpoſed not to make Peter a ſingular foundation ſtone by him ſelfe, but ioyntly with all his fellowe Apoſtles.

Leo Biſhop of Rome, ſtriuing for the dignitie of his Sea, as his predeceſſors Zoſimus, Boniface, and Celeſtine had done before, and were diſcouered in the councell of Africa to haue alleaged a forged Canon of the councell of Nice: is no equall iudge in this caſe. Neither could his allegations any thing preuaile in the generall councell of Chalcedon, but that the Biſhop of Conſtantinople was made his equall, as wee haue ſhewed before. Gregorie was almoſt immediatly before that Boniface, that bought the title of ſupremacie, of Phocas, and the later ſtill the worſe: Yet hee propheciedd, that Iohn Biſhop of Conſtantinople, which firſt chalenged the title of Vniuerſall Biſhop, was the forerunner of Antichriſt. Ep.78 82. 194. Your laſt witneſſe Theodoret, calleth Peter a principall foundation of the Church that was ſhaken, and confirmed againe by repentance. But the ſame Theodoret ſheweth, that hee was a foundation, in reſpect of his faith and Confeſſion in Cantic.ſaying, Petram appellat fidei pietatem &c: Hee calleth the pietie of faith, and profeſſion of truth a rocke. For when our Lord enquired of his diſciples, whome men ſayd that hee the ſonne of man was, thou ſayth bleſſed Peter, art Chriſt the Sonne of the liuing God. To whome our Lord anſwered, ſaying, verely, verely, I ſay to thee, thou art Peter, and vpon this rocke I will builde my Church. And leſt you ſhould thinke, that Peter in reſpect of his faith and Confeſſion was a ſingular foundation. In Pſal.47. thus hee writeth: Aedificauit. &c. Hee hath builded (the Church) as the holie Apoſtle ſayth vpon the foundation of the Apoſtles and Prophets, Ieſus Chriſt being the corner ſtone thereof. And our Lord himſelfe ſaith to bleſſed Peter, and vpon this rocke I will builde my Church, and the gates of hell ſhall not preuaile againſt it. Therefore the Prophet hath put the word, well founded, for ſound foundations, that ſhe may remaine vnſhaken and vnmoueable. Theſe wordes declare euidentlie, that Peter is a rocke and foundation of the Church, no other wiſe, then all the Apoſtles are, and hath no ſupremacie of authoritie ouer the reſt, granted by this text. Thus haue we anſwered to thoſe fathers, that ſay the Church was founded vpon Peter. But becauſe you cannot denie, but that they ſay alſo, that the Church is builded vpon Peters faith: you ſay, they meane not faith ſeparated from the man, or in any other man, as we vnlearnedlie take them. What they meant by faith, and how we take them, I haue ſhewed by their owne wordes, which are plaine inough, and need no great learning to interpret them. They meane, that faith that was in Peter, which he confeſſed at that time, which he held alwayes after, and which he with the reſt of the Apoſtles, preached in the world, as they all held the ſame faith and confeſſion, and therefore were all made foundation ſtones, in reſpect of the faith they taught, vpon which the Church is builded, and receiued the keyes, and authoritie of binding and looſing, in as ample maner as Peter did. But let vs heare what high point of learning you will teach vs. They meane (ſay you) vpon faith, as in him, who here confeſſed that faith. That is (as I take it rudelie) vpon Peters faith: Now whether you meane, that ſingular faith, that was in Peter onelie, or the generall faith of the Church, whereof Peters faith was a ſingular or Individuum, it paſſeth my ſimple learning to diſcuſſe. If you meane that faith, which was a ſingular accident in Peter onelie, who heere confeſſeth that faith: it is a ſtrange paradoxe, to ſay, that the vniuerſall church and faith, ſhould be grounded thereupon. Seeing the foundation and the Church ſhould faile, aſſoone as Peter died. For that ſingular accident, could not deſcend to his ſucceſſours, anie more then other accidents to his perſon. If you meane, that generall faith, that was in all the Apoſtles, who all by Peters mouth, confeſſed the ſame, then are they all by Chriſt his aunſwere, made foundation ſtones of the church, as well as Peter. And this is the plaine meaning, according to the euident wordes of the auncient fathers.

Cauncil. Aphric. cap.101.
Cauncil. Aphric. Epiſt. ad Celeſt.

Rhem.9. 18 Rocke.) The aduerſaries hearing alſo the Fathers ſometimes ſay, that Peter had theſe promiſes and prerogatiues, as bearing the perſon of all the Apoſtles or of the whole Church, deny alſurdly that himſelfe in perſon had theſe prerogatiues. As though Peter had been the proctor onely of the Church or of the Apoſtles, confeſſing the faith and receiuing theſe things in other mens names. Where the holy Doctors meane only that theſe prerogatiues were not giuen to him for his owne vſe, but for the good of the whole Church, and to be imparted to euery vocation according to the meaſure of their callings: and that theſe great priuileges giuen to Peter ſhoulde not decay or dye with his perſon, but be perpetual in the Church in his ſucceſſours. Therefore S. Hierome to Damaſus teacheth this Rocke not to be Peters perſon onely, but his ſucceſſors and his Chaire. I (ſaith he) following no chiefe or principall but Chriſt, ioyne my ſelfe to the communion of Peters chaire, vpon that rocke I know the Church was built. *And of that ſame Apoſtolike Chaire S. Our

Our Lord would the Sacrament or myſterie of this gift ſo to pertaine vnto the office of all the Apoſtles, that he placed it principally in bleſſed S. Peter the chiefe of all the Apoſtles, that from him as from a certaine head he might poure out his gifts, as it were through the whole body: that he might vnderſtand himſelfe to be an alien from the diuine myſterie that ſhould preſume to reuolt from the ſoliditie or ſtedfaſtneſſe of Peter.

Fulke 9. We denie not that Peter had theſe prerogatiues himſelfe, not as proctor only for the Apoſtles, but as a partaker of them together with the reſt of the Apoſtles for the preſent, & for their ſucceſſors, the paſtors and gouerners of the Church, to the benefit of the whole Church, in all times to come to the end of the world. You muſt faine opinions that we hold not, becauſe you can ſay nothing againſt that we hold in deed. The ſayings of the doctors are plaine, that the reſt of the Apoſtles were made ſtones of foundation by Chriſt immediately, and not by Peter: receiued the keyes of the kingdome of heauen, and power to bind and looſe, not at Peters hands, but immediatlie from Chriſt himſelfe, as alſo the texts are plaine. Math. 18. Ioan. 20. But S. Hierome (you ſay) taketh this rocke not to be Peters perſon onely, but his ſucceſſours, and his chaire. Ep. ad Damaſ. The ſame Hierome as we heard before, ſaieth, The Church is builded vpon all the Apoſtles, and all Biſhops are their ſucceſſours. In what biſhops chaire ſoeuer, the true doctrine is continued and kept, it is a rocke of the Church, as well as that chaire wherein Damaſus ſate. But if any biſhop of Rome hold not Peters faith, he ſitteth not in Peters chaire. And therefore he that ioigned with Damaſus holding Peters faith of the diuinitie of Chriſt, would not haue ioigned with Liberius, ſubſcribing againſt the diuinitie of Chriſt, who alſo ſate at Rome, where Peter perhaps neuer came. But certaine it is he ſate not in Peters chaire, no more then the Phariſeis ſate in Moſes chaire, while they helde and taught that which Moſes did not teach. Hierome therefore following none as principall but Chriſt, ioigned in fellowſhip with Damaſus, who ſitting in Peters chaire, taught as Peter did, that Chriſt is the eternall ſonne of God. And Auguſtine in that Pſalme againſt the Donatiſts, ſaieth, that the continuaunce of the ſame doctrine and vnitie of the Church, euen from Peters ſeate, is the rocke againſt which the proud gates of hell ſhall not preuaile. Not that whoſoeuer ſitteth in Peters ſeate, muſt haue all authoritie that he will claime. For S. Auguſtine himſelfe in the Aphrican councell, with the reſt of the fathers of Aphrica, decreed againſt the biſhops of Rome vſurped authoritie and forgerie. And in the councell of Chalcedon the biſhop of Conſtantinople was made equall to the biſhop of Rome, the legates of Leo biſhop of Rome, ſetting themſelues againſt it, but in vayne. Leo therefore (though otherwiſe a good man) is too partiall for the prerogatiue of his owne ſea, and therefore his teſtimonie is no preiudice, againſt ſo many ancient fathers, as were of the contrary iudgement before him.

Rhem. 10 18 Build my Church.) The Church or houſe of Chriſt was only promiſed here to be builded vpon him (which was fulfilled. Ioa. 21, 15.) the foundation ſtone and other pillers or matter being yet in preparing, and Chriſt himſelfe being not only the ſupereminent foundation but alſo the founder of the ſame: which is an other more excellent qualitie then was in Peter, for which he calleth it my Church: meaning ſpecially the Church of the new Teſtament, which was not perfectly formed and finiſhed, and diſtincted from the Synagogue till Whitſunday, though Chriſt gaue Peter and the reſt their commiſſions actually before his Aſcenſion.

Fulke 10. Chriſt had his Church from the beginning of the world builded vpon the foundation of the Prophets, himſelfe being the head and corner ſtone thereof. He ſpeaketh therefore now of the continuance and enlarging thereof among the Gentiles, by the miniſterie of his Apoſtles. And therefore, this is a meere fantaſie that his Church was not builded vntill Chriſt reſtored Peter to his Apoſtleſhip, Ioan. 21. 15. or that it was not perfectly finiſhed before Whitſunday. You may as well ſay, it was not diſtinguiſhed from the Synagogue or Church of the Iewes for many yeeres after, ſeeing the great multitude of the Iewes that beleued, were ſtill obſeruers of the ceremonies of the law. Act. 21. 20.

Rhem. 11 18 Gates of hell.) Becauſe the Church is reſembled to a houſe or a citie, the aduerſarie powers alſo be likened to a contrary houſe or towne, the gates whereof, that is to ſay, the fortitude or impugnation ſhall neuer preuaile againſt the citie of Chriſt. And ſo by this promis we are aſſured that no hereſies nor other wicked attempts can preuaile againſt the Church builded vpon Peter, which the Fathers call Peters ſee and the Romane Church. Count (ſaith S. Auguſtine) the Prieſts from the very ſee of Peter, and in that order of fathers conſider who to whom hath ſucceded, that ſame is the rocke which the proud gates of Hel do not ouercome. And in an other place, that is it which hath obteined the toppe of authoritie, Heretikes in vaine barking round about it. Pſal. cont. part. Donat. De vtil. cred. c. 17.

Fulke 11. So long as the Romaine Church continued in Peters faith and doctrine, it was founded vpon Peter, & not only vpō Peter, but alſo vpon the Prophets and Apoſtles, yea & vpon Chriſt himſelfe: ſo long the gates of hell preuailed not againſt it. But none of the ancient fathers affirme, that the Romaine church ſhould alwayes continue in Peters faith. S. Auguſtine in his Pſalme againſt the Donatiſts affirmeth, that the continuance of the Church in the ſame religion, euen frō the ſeate of Peter, is the rocke which the proud gates of hell doe not ouercome. Now this count of prieſts from the ſeate of Peter might be made as well in the Church of Antioch as in the Church of Rome, ſeeing Peter ſate at Antioch as well as he did at Rome, & the Patriarch thereof at this day, hath his ſucceſſion of biſhops frō Peters ſeate, as wel as the biſhop of Rome. The ſame compt might be taken from other Churches, where the Apoſtles ſate, as Tertullian ſheweth, De præſcriptione. Age iam qui voles, &c. Goe to now thou that wilt exerciſe curioſitie better in the matter of thy ſaluation, goe through the Apoſtolike Churches in which the gouernours ſit euen ſtill in the very chaires of the Apoſtles, in which their authenticall epiſtles are rehearſed ſounding the voyce, and repreſenting the face of euery one of them. If Achaia be neere thee, thou haſt Corinth. If thou be not farre from Macedonia, thou haſt Philippi, thou haſt the Theſſalonians. If thou canſt goe into Aſia, thou haſt Epheſus. If thou lie neere Italie, thou haſt Rome, from whence authoritie is at hand for vs alſo. Theſe wordes of Tertullian declared, that not the Church of Rome onely, but euery Apoſtolike Church, had a ſure teſtimonie of the truth. And that Aphrica had recourſe to Rome, only for the neereneſſe of it. In the ſecond place De vtilitate credendi, cap. 17. S. Auguſtine nameth, neither Peters ſee, nor the Romane Church, but ſpeaketh of the Catholike Church, which euen by the confeſſion of mankinde from Apoſtolike ſee, by ſucceſſions of Biſhops, heretikes in vayne barking about it, and partlie, by the iudgement of the people themſelues, partlie by the grauitie of Councels, partlie alſo by maieſtie of miracles, condemning them, hath obteined the top of authoritie. He had ſpoken before of the prouidence of God, which had gathered, builded, and beautified the church, by the foreſhewinges of the Prophets, by the humanitie and doctrine of Chriſt, by the trauels of the Apoſtles, by the contumelies, croſſes, death of the Martyrs, by the commendable way of the Saints, and by conuenient miracles in due time. Whereunto hee addeth the teſtimonie of mankinde, in the hiſtorie of the ſucceſſion of Biſhops from the Apoſtles time, iudgement of the people, authoritie of Councels, and miracles confirming it, and condemning all herenkes. This maketh nothing for the authoritie of the Romane Church or See, aboue all other Sees and Churches. S. Auguſtine himſelfe, with other Biſhops of his prouince, decreed that no man vnder paine of excommunication, ſhould appeale from the Church of Aphrica, to the Church of Rome, or any other place beyond the ſea. Concil. Aphric. Can. 92. As had beene decreed before, Concil. Mileuit. cap. 22.

Rhem. 12 19 To thee.) In ſaying, to thee will I geue, it is plaine that as he gaue the keyes to him, ſo he builded the Church vpon him. So ſaith S. Cyprian, To Peter firſt of all, vpon whom our Lord built the Church, and from whom he inſtituted and ſhewed the beginning of vnitie, did he geue this power, that that ſhould be looſed in the heauens, which he had looſed in earth. Whereby appeareth the vaine cauill of our Aduerſaries, which ſay the Church was built vpon Peters Confeſſion onely, common to him and the reſt, and not vpon his perſon more then vpon the reſt. Cyp. epiſt. 73. Greg. li. 4. epiſt. 32. ind. 13.

Fulke. 12 S. Cyprian in the place cited, writeth againſt the Epiſtle of Stephanus Biſhop of Rome, and therefore it carrieth no ſhew or likelihood of trueth, that he would write any thing, that might make the authoritie of Stephanus irrefragable, againſt himſelfe. For you would haue vs to vnderſtand, Peters and his ſucceſſours authoritie to be ſo great by this grant, as none of them can erre. But by this place of Cyprian, it is manifeſt, that hee acknowledgeth no more to be giuen to Peter, then to all the Apoſtles, namelie, power to remitte ſinnes. Manifeſtum eſt enim, &c. It is manifeſt where, and by whome, remiſſion of ſinnes which is giuen in baptiſme, may be giuen. For firſt our Lord gaue this power vnto Peter, vpon whom he builded his church, & from whence he inſtituted & ſhewed the beginning of vnitie, that it ſhould be looſed in heauen which he looſed on earth. And after his reſurrection, he ſpeaketh vnto the Apoſtles alſo, ſaying, As my father ſent mee, euen ſo doe I ſend you. When he had ſo ſayd, hee breathed and ſayd vnto them, Receiue the Holie ghoſt: Whoſe ſinnes you ſhall remitte, they ſhall be remitted vnto him, and whoſe you ſhall reteine, they ſhall be reteined. Wherevpon we vnderſtand, that it is not lawfull to baptiſe and to giue remiſſion of ſinnes, but for the gouernours in the Church, and them that are eſtabliſhed by the Law of the Goſpel, and our Lords ordination: and that without the Church, nothing can be either bound or looſed, when there is not any man, that can binde or looſe any thing. Theſe be Cyprians wordes, which prooue that the Church was not built more vpon Peter, then the reſt. For if you vrge, that he ſayeth, the power was giuen firſt to Peter, and the Church was built vpon him, at that time when theſe wordes were ſpoken, you confute your owne note ſect. 10. where you ſay, the church was onelie promiſed to be built vpon him in this place, which was fulfilled. Ioan. 21. 16. If the Church were not built vpon Peter before that time, all the Apoſtles receiued power of remitting and reteining ſinnes, before the Church was built vpon Peter. Ioan. 20. 22. Cyprian therefore meaneth that Chriſt ſpake in the ſingular number, firſt to Peter, that which afterward he ſpake to all the Apoſtles, ſhewing why he ſpake in the ſingular number, not that the Church ſhould be built on Peters perſon, more then on the reſt: but to ſhew the vnitie of the Church beginning of one: as his verie words are manifeſt, while he giueth equall authoritie to all gouernours of the Church, as ſucceſſours of the Apoſtles, and maketh ſo little account of Peters ſucceſſour aboue the reſt, that writing expreſſlie againſt him, he prooueth by this text, equall authoritie of all the gouernours of the Church.

And that the Church is built vpon Peters confeſſion, we haue the ancient fathers teſtimonie, to warrant vs. S. Hilarie De Trinit. lib. 6. ſaith. Super hanc confeſſionis Petram, eccleſiæ ædificatio eſt. The building of the Church, is vpon this rocke of confeſſion. Againe: Hæc fides, &c. This faith is the foundation of the Church, by this faith the gates of Hell are of no power againſt it. This faith hath the keyes of the kingdome of heauen. What this faith ſhall looſe or binde in earth is bound and looſed in heauen. S. Auguſtine alſo De verbis Dom. in Euang. Mat. Serm. 13. Tu es ergo, &c. Thou art Peter (ſaith he) and vpon this rocke which thou haſt confeſſed, vpon this rocke which thou haſt acknowledged, ſaying, Thou art Chriſt the ſonne of the liuing God, I will builde my Church, that is, vpon my ſelfe the ſonne of the liuing God I will builde my Church. I will builde thee vpon me, not me vpon thee. The like ſayings he hath in Ioan. Tract. 50. & 124. In epiſt. Ioan. Tract. 10. Alſo Bede vpon this place, ſaith: Metaphoricè, &c. It is ſayd vnto him by a Metaphore: Vpon this rocke, that is the Sauiour, whom thou haſt confeſſed, the church is builded, which to his faithfull confeſſion, gaue participation of his name. The authoritie of Gregorie, which you quote in the margent, being a Biſhop of Rome himſelfe, and ſo neere the time of the open reuelation of Antichriſt in the Romiſh ſee, is partiall in this caſe, and therefore againſt all the Primitiue church, not to be heard. Yet in that place lib 4. epiſt 33. (for in epiſt. 32. there is neuer a word of Peter) he ioyneth with vs, ſaying, the church was builded vpon Peters confeſſion. In vera fide perſiſtite, &c. Continue in the true faith, and lead your life in the rocke of the Church which is grounded vpon the confeſſion of Peter Prince of the Apoſtles.

Rhem. 13 19 The keies.) That is, The authoritie or Chaire of doctrine, knowledge, iudgement and diſcretion betweene true and falſe doctrine: the height of gouernment, the power of making lawes, of calling Councels, of the principall voice in them, of confirming them, of making Canons and holeſome decrees, of abrogating the contrary, of ordaining Biſhops and Paſtors, or depoſing and ſuſpending them, finally the power to diſpenſe the goods of the Church both ſpirituall and temporal. Which ſignification of preeminent power and authoritie by the word keyes the Scripture expreſſeth in many places: namely ſpeaking of Chriſt, I haue the keyes of death and Hel, that is, the rule. And againe, I will giue the key of the houſe of Dauid vpon his ſhoulder. Moreouer it ſignifieth that men can not come into heauen but by him, the keies ſignifying alſo authoritie to open and ſhut, as it is ſaid Apoc. 3. of Chriſt, Who hath the key of Dauid, he ſhutteth and no man openeth. The dignities of the keies. Apoc. 1. Eſa. 22. 22.

openeth. By which wordes we gather that Peters authoritie is marualous, to whom the keyes, that is, the power to open & ſhut heauen, is geuen. And therefore by the name of keyes is giuen that ſupereminent power which is called in compariſon of the power graunted to other Apoſtles, Biſhops and Paſtors, plenitudo poteſtatis, fulnes of power. Bernard. lib. 2. de conſiderat. c. 8.

Fulke. 13 We acknowledge the authoritie, or chaire of doctrine, knowledge, iudgement, and diſcretion, betweene true and falſe doctrine, to be granted to Peter, and to euerie one of the Apoſtles, to whom alſo, the keyes were granted. Hilar. De Trin. lib. 6. Hieron. Cont. Iou. lib. 1. But the reſt that followeth, height of gouernement, power of making lawes, of calling Councels, of the principall voice in them, of confirming them, making and abrogating of Canons, ordeining and depoſing of biſhops, power to diſpence the goods of the Church, both ſpirituall and temporall, eſpeciallie to be appropriated to Peter, hath no ground in the text: neither was anie ſuch power permitted to the Biſhop of Rome, as Peters ſucceſſor, for manie hundred yeeres after Chriſt. Polycarpus would not yeeld to Anicetus biſhop of Rome, in the celebration of Eaſter, as teſtifieth Irenæus Apud Euſeb. lib. 5. cap. 26. When Victor vſurped authoritie ouer the churches of Aſia, he was countermanded by the biſhops there. Euſeb. lib. 5. cap. 25. and ſharply rebuked, and withſtood by Irenæus, and the biſhops in France, Polycrates and the biſhops in Aſia, and others. Not one of the foure firſt Generall councels was called by the biſhop of Rome, neither had he principall voice of confirming or making Canons in them. But in the firſt of Nice, he was made equall with the Patriarch of Alexandria Can. 6. In two other, namely Conſtantinople & Chalcedon, the archbiſhop of Conſtantinople was made equall in authoritie with him, and in all things, except in ſenioritie Conſtant. 1. cap. 3 Chalced. can. 28.

In the Councels of Mileuit, and Africane, appeales for anie eccleſiaſticall cauſe, were denied vnto the ſee of Rome. Mileu can. 22. Aphric. 92. Yea long after that Boniface had bought for monie this ſupereminent authoritie, it was not acknowledged of many churches, and namelie of the church of Rauenna in Italie, for manie yeeres after. That keyes in the ſcripture, doo manie times ſignifie authoritie, eſpeciallie when they are applied to our ſauiour Chriſt, we confeſſe: but that anie ſuch authoritie as is here expreſſed, of making lawes, calling Councels, &c. is ment by them, we vtterlie denie, but what authoritie ſoeuer is vnderſtood by them, is common to all the Apoſtles, and to the whole Church after them, as witneſſeth Tertull. Scorpi. adu. Gnoſt. Hilar. in Pſal. 52. Auguſt. De doct. chri. lib. 1. cap. 18. Cont. aduerſ. leg. & Prophet. lib. 1. cap. 17. in Euang. Ioan. Tr. 5. Fulgent. De fide ad Petrum. cap. 3.

Rhem. 14 19 Whatſoeuer thou ſhall bind.) All kind of diſcipline and puniſhment of offenders, either ſpirituall (which directly is here meant) or corporall ſo farre as it tendeth to the execution of the ſpirituall charge, is compriſed vnder the worde, binde. Of which ſorte be Excommunications, Anathematiſmes, Suſpenſions, Degradations and other Cenſures and penalties or penances enioyned either in the Sacrament of Confeſſion or in the exterior Courtes of the Church, for puniſhment both of other crimes, and ſpecially of hereſie and rebellion againſt the Church and the cheefe paſtors thereof.

Fulke. 14 Corporall puniſhment, either for hereſie, or rebellion againſt the Church, & the paſtors thereof, belongeth not to the miniſterie of the Church, but to the Chriſtian magiſtrate, who beareth the ſword. Rom. 13 4. which Peter was commanded to put vp. Mat. 26. 52. But vnder this binding, you would cloake, not onelie your cruelties practiſed againſt the true profeſſors of the Goſpel, but alſo your horrible treaſons, rebellions, inuaſions, and conſpiracies againſt your lawfull Prince and Country, vnder pretence of execution of the Popes moſt ſlanderous and antichriſtian Bull of depriuation.

Rhem. 15 19 Looſe.) To looſe, is as the cauſe and the offenders caſe requireth, to looſe them of any the former bandes, and to reſtore them to the Churches Sacramentes and Communion of the faithfull and execution of their ſatiſfaction to pardon alſo either all or part of the penances enioyned, or what debtes ſo euer man oweth to God or the Church for the ſatisfaction of his ſinnes forgeuen. Which kind of releaſing or looſing is called Indulgence: finally this whatſoeuer, excepteth nothing that is puniſhable or pardonable by Chriſt in earth, for he hath committed his power to Peter. And ſo the validitie of Peters ſentence in binding or looſing whatſoeuer, ſhall by Chriſtes promis be ratified in heauen. Leo Ser. de Transfig. & Ser. 2. in anniuerſ. aſſumpt. ad Pontif. Hilar. can. 16. in Matth. Epiph. in Anchorato prope initium. If now any temporall power can ſhew their warrans out of ſcripture for ſuch ſouereine power, as is here geuen to Peter and conſequently to his ſucceſſors, by theſe wordes, whatſoeuer thou ſhall bind, and by the very keies, wherebie greateſt ſoueraintie is ſignified in Gods Church as in his familie and houſhold, and therefore principally attributed and giuen to Chriſt who in the ſcripture is ſaid to haue the key of Dauid, but here communicated, alſo vnto Peter, as the name of Rocke: if I ſay any temporall poteſtate can ſhew authoritie for the like ſoueraintie, let them chalenge hardly to be head not onely of one particular, but of the whole vniuerſall Church.

Eſa. 22. Apoc. 3.

Fulke. 15 Euery one of the Apoſtles had the ſame authoritie in looſing which Peter had. Matth. 18. 18. And the Church hath the ſame power after them. But as touching ſatisfaction for ſinnes due vnto God, no man can make, but Chriſt onely. And the miniſter of the Church cannot pardon any debt due to God, but aſſure the partie penitent of Gods forgiueneſſe: And ſo ſaith S. Hierome, writing vpon this very text. Iſtum locum epiſcopi, &c. Biſhops & Prieſts not vnderſtanding this place, take vpon them ſomewhat of the pride of the Phariſeis, that they thinke, they may either condemne innocets, or looſe guiltie perſons, whereas before God, not the ſentence of the Prieſts, but the life of the perſons charged, is enquired of. We read in Leuiticus of the Lepers: where they are commanded to ſhew themſelues to the prieſts, and if they haue the leproſie, then they are made vncleane by the Prieſt: not that the Prieſts doe make men lepers or vncleane, but in that they haue knowledge of him that is a leper, and him that is not a leper, & can diſcerne who is cleane, who is vncleane. Therfore as the prieſt in that caſe maketh a man cleane or vncleane, ſo here the biſhop & Prieſt bindeth or looſeth: not whether they be guiltie or vnguiltie, but according to his office, when he hath heard the varietie of ſinners, he knoweth who is to be bound, and who to be looſed. Thus farre Hierome. Bede alſo vpon this text, writeth to the ſame effect. Hæc poteſtas ſine dubio cunctis datur Apoſtolis, &c. This power without doubt is giuen to all the Apoſtles, to whom it is ſaid by himſelf after his reſurrection generally: receiue the holy ghoſt, &c. Alſo to biſhops & prieſts, & to the whole Church, the ſame office is committed: although ſome of them not vnderſtanding rightly, thinke they can condemne innocents, and abſolue guiltie perſons, which they cannot doe, but going about to deprive themſelues of the power graunted. As for exerciſes of repentance preſcribed by the Church for ſatisfaction thereof, or other cenſures of diſcipline, may be releaſed by them by whom they are enioyned, and that kind of releaſing was of auncient time, called Indulgence. But it was not allowed to the biſhop of Rome to admit or releaſe (except in his owne Church of Rome) thoſe that were caſt out or ſuſpended by other biſhops and Churches: as appeareth by many places in S. Cyprians epiſtles, and namely Ep.55. ad Cornel. and Ep.68. ad Clerum & plebem Hiſpan. That Hilarie and Epiphanius aſcribe no greater authoritie to Peter, then to the reſt of the Apoſtles, we haue ſhewed before ſufficiently. But Leo being a biſhop of Rome, was too parciall in extolling of Peters prerogatiue, and the preheminence of his See of Rome. Therefore he was ouer ruled by the generall Councell of Chalcedon, as we haue declared before. Finally, there is no godly temporall poteſtate, that chalengeth to be head of the whole Church, or of any particular Church, as Chriſt is head thereof, neither any of that authoritie, which is here giuen to Peter with the reſt of the Apoſtles and their ſucceſſours the true miniſters of the Church. But onely they chalenge as the higheſt magiſtrates, to haue ſoueraigne authoritie within their dominions, to maintaine true religion by lawes and ſentences, and to baniſh falſe religion and Idolatrie, to puniſh all offendours, whether they be of the Cleargie or Laitie, and that not onely for offences committed againſt the ſecond Table, but for idolatrie, periurie, and all crimes that are againſt the firſt Table. Which authoritie the godly kings of Iuda, Dauid, Salomon, Ezekias, Ioſias, &c. and the Chriſtian Emperours, Conſtantine, Valentinian, Theodoſius and others, did exerciſe to the glory of God and benefite of his Church. That you ſay greateſt ſoueraigntie in Gods Church, attributed to Chriſt, Apoc.3. is here communicated to Peter, it is ſuch blaſphemie, as Peter would haue rent his clothes if he had heard any man attribute ſo much vnto him. For Chriſt hath the key of Dauid, as the ſonne of Dauid and onely true Meſſias, which openeth and no man ſhutteth, and ſhutteth where no man openeth. This key Peter cannot haue, except he were Chriſt, for it is proper onely to Chriſt, but the keyes of the kingdome of heauen giuen to Peter and the Apoſtles, are keyes of miniſterie in reſpect of Chriſt, whoſe ſtewards they are, to open and ſhut according to his worde, and not at their owne will and pleaſure.

Rhem. 16 27. Workes.) He ſaith not, to giue euery man according to his mercy (or their faith) but according to their works. Good works.
Auguſt. de verb. Apoſt. Ser. 35. And againe, How ſhould our Sauiour reward euery one according to their works, if there were no free will? Auguſt. lib. 2. cap. 4. de act. cum Felic. Manich. Free will.

Fulke. 16 Iuſtification by faith. Good works. Free will.
Euery mans workes be the fruites, either of his faith, or of his infidelitie. Good workes are done onely by him that is iuſtified by faith onely. For without the merites of good workes, (ſaith S. Auguſtine) the vngodly man is iuſtified by faith. Againe, Faith goeth before, that workes may follow, neither are there any good workes which do not follow faith going before them. In Pſ. 67. The Free will that he ſpeaketh of, in that treatiſe againſt the Manichees, he ſheweth how it is to be vnderſtood in his Retractations lib. 1. cap. 22. and lib. 2. cap. 8. Mans will is not euill, by creation of the euill God, as thoſe heretikes blaſphemed, yet hath man ſince his fall, no power to doe any good, but of the grace of God. For freewill (ſaith he) auaileth not to any thing but to ſinne, if the way of truth be hidden or vnknowen. De ſpir. & lit. cap. 3.

CHAP. XVII.

Iesus transfigured, giueth them a ſight of the glory, vnto which Suffering doth bring: 9 and then againe doth inculcate his Paſſion. 14 A deuil alſo he caſteth out which his Diſciples could not for their incredulitie and lacke of praying and faſting. 22 being yet in Galilee, he reuealeth more about his Paſſion. 24 and the tribute that the Collectors exacted for all, he payeth for himſelf and Peter: declaring yet withal his freedom both by word and miracle.

Mt. 9,2. Luc. 9,28. 2. Pet. 1,17. The TRANSFIGVRATION of our Lord, celebrated in the Church the 6. of Aug. The Goſpell of the ſaid feaſt, and of the 2. Sunday in Lent: and on the Saterday before.

AND after ſix dayes IESVS taketh vnto him Peter and Iames and Iohn his brother, and bringeth them into a high mountaine apart:

2 And he was ‖ transfigured before them. And his face did ſhine as the ſunne: and his garments became white as ſnow.

3 And behold there ‖ appeared to them Moyſes and Elias talking with him.

4 And Peter anſwering, ſaid to IESVS, Lord, it is good for vs to be here: if thou wilt, let vs make here three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moiſes, and one for Elias.

5 And as he was yet ſpeaking, behold a bright cloude ouerſhadowed them. And loe a voice out of the cloude, ſaying. This is my welbeloued ſonne, in whom I am well pleaſed: heare ye him.

6 And the diſciples hearing it, fell vpon their face, and were ſore afraid.

7 And

AND after ſixe dayes, Ieſus taketh Peter, Iames, and Iohn his brother, and bringeth them vp into an high mountaine out of the way,* Mark. 9.2. luk. 9.28.

2 And was tranſſigured before them, and his face did ſhine as the Sunne, and his clothes were as white as the light.

3 And behold, there appeared vnto them, Moſes, and Elias talking with him.

4 Then anſwered Peter, and ſayd vnto Ieſus, Lord, it is good for vs to be here. If thou wilt, let vs make here three tabernacles: one for thee, and one for Moſes, and one for Elias.

*5 * While he yet ſpake, behold, a bright cloud ouerſhadowed them: and behold,* there came a voyce out of the cloud, which ſayd, This is my beloued ſonne, in whom I am well pleaſed, heare ye him. Mat. 3.17. 2. pet. 1.17.

6 And when the diſciples heard theſe things, they fell on their face, and were ſore afraid.

7 And

7 And IESVS came and touched them: and he ſaid to them, Ariſe, and feare not.

8 And they lifting vp their eyes, ſaw no body, but only IESVS.

9 And as they deſcended frō the ‖mount, IESVS commaunded them, ſaying, Tel the viſion to no body, til the Sonne of man be riſen from the dead.

10 And his Diſciples asked him, ſaying, Mal.4.5. what ſay the Scribes then, that * Elias muſt come firſt?

11 But he anſwering, ſaid to them, ‖Elias in deed ſhall come, and reſtore all things.

12 And I ſay to you, that Elias is already come, & they did not know him, but wroght on him whatſoeuer they would. So alſo the Sonne of man ſhall ſuffer of them.

13 Then the Diſciples vnderſtood, that of Iohn the Baptiſt he had ſpoken to them.

Mar.9,14. Luc.9,37. 14 And * when he was come vnto the multitude, there came to him a man falling downe vpon his knees before him, 15 Saying, Lord haue mercy vpon my ſonne, for he is lunatike, and ſore vexed: for he falleth often into the fire, and often into the water.

16 And I offered him to thy Diſciples: & they could not cure him.

17 IESVS anſwered and ſaid, O faithles and peruerſe generation, how long ſhall I be with you? How long ſhall I ſuffer you? bring him hither to me.

18 And IESVS rebuked him, and the deuil went out of him, and the ladde was cured from that houre.

19 Then came the Diſciples to IESVS ſecretely, and ſaid, ‖ why could not we caſt him out?

20 IESVS ſaid to them, becauſe of your incredulity. for, amen I ſay to you, if you haue ‖ faith as a muſtard ſeed, you ſhall ſay to this mountaine, Remooue from hence thither: and it ſhall remooue, and nothing ſhall be impoſſible to you.

21 But this kind is not caſt out but by ‖prayer and faſting.

24 And when they were come to Capharnaum, there came they that receiued the didrachmes, vnto Peter, & ſaid to him, Your maiſter doth he not pay the ‡ didrachmes?

‡ Theſe didrachmes were pences of money which they paied for tribute.

7 And Ieſus came and touched them, and ſayd, Ariſe ye, and be not afraid.

8 And when they had lift vp their eyes, they ſaw no man ſaue Ieſus onely.

9 And when they came downe from the mountaine, Ieſus charged them, ſaying, Shew the viſion to no man, vntill the ſonne of man be riſen againe from the dead.

10 And his Diſciples asked him, ſaying, Mala.4.5. mat.11.14. mar.9.13. Why then ſay the Scribes that Elias muſt firſt come?*

11 Ieſus anſwered, and ſayd vnto them, Elias truly ſhall firſt come, and reſtore all things:

12 But I ſay vnto you, that Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but haue done vnto him whatſoeuer they liſted: Likewiſe ſhall alſo the ſonne of man ſuffer of them.

13 Then the diſciples vnderſtoode that hee ſpake vnto them of Iohn Baptiſt.

*14 And when they were come to the people, there came to him a certaine man kneeling Mark.9.14. luke 9.37. downe to him, and ſaying,

15 Lord, haue mercy on my ſonne, for he is lunatike, and ſore vexed: for oft times he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy diſciples, and they could not heale him.

17 Ieſus anſwered, and ſayd, O faithleſſe and peruerſe nation, how long ſhall I bee with you? how long ſhall I ſuffer you? bring him hither to me.

18 And Ieſus rebuked the deuill, and he departed out of him: and the child was healed euen that ſame time.

19 Then came the Diſciples of Ieſus ſecretly, and ſayde, Why could not wee caſt him out?

*20 Ieſus ſayd vnto them, Becauſe of your vnbelief: for verily I ſay vnto you, If ye haue faith Luke 17.6. as a graine of muſtard ſeed, ye ſhall ſay vnto this mountaine, Remooue hence to yonder place: and it ſhall remoone, neither ſhall any thing be impoſſible vnto you.

24 And when they were come to Capernaum, they that receiued tribute money, came to Peter, and ſayd, Doeth not your maiſter pay tribute?

25 He

25 He ſaith, Yes. And when he was entered into the houſe, IESVS preuented him, ſaying, what is thy opinion Simon? The kings of the earth of whom receiue they tribute or cenſe? of their children, or of ſtrangers?

26 And he ſaid, Of ſtrangers. IESVS ſaid to him, Then the ‖ children are free.

27 But that we may not ſcandalize thē, goe thy wayes to the ſea, and caſt a hooke: and that fiſh which ſhall firſt come vp, take: and when thou haſt opened his mouth, thou ſhalt find a ‡ ſtater: take that, & giue it them for ‖ me and thee.

‡ This ſtater was a double didrachme, and therefore was paid for two.

25 He ſaith, Yes. And when he was come into the houſe, Ieſus preuented him, ſaying, What thinkeſt thou, Simon? of whom doe the kings of the earth take tribute or toll? of their owne children, or of the ſtrangers?

26 Peter ſaieth vnto him, Of the ſtrangers. Ieſus ſaieth vnto him, Then are the children free.

27 Notwithſtanding, leaſt we ſhould offend them, goe thou to the ſea, and caſt an hooke, and take vp the fiſh that firſt commeth vp: and when thou haſt opened his mouth, thou ſhalt find a piece of twentie pence: that take, and giue vnto them for me, and thee.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XVII.

Rhem. 1. 1 Transfigured.) Marke in this Transfiguration many marueluous points, as, that he made not only his owne body, which then was mortall, but alſo the bodies of Moiſes and Elias, the one dead, the other to die, for the time as it were immortall: thereby to repreſent the ſtate and glory of his body and his Saincts in heauen. By which marueluous transfiguring of his body, you may the leſſe marueil that he can exhibite his body vnder the forme of bread and wine or otherwiſe as he liſt. Chriſt can exhibite his body vnder what forme he liſt.

Fulke. 1. Chriſt is almightie, and yet he can doe nothing againſt his owne will, his worde, or his glory. And therefore it is a brute concluſion, Chriſt could glorifie his paſſible body, ergo he can diſhonour his glorious impaſſible body, to bring it within the compaſſe of a peece of bread, that it may be deuoured of dogs, cats, mice, or (that is worſe) to be eaten of wicked men the members of the deuill. Or this: Chriſt could adde a glorious forme vnto his body, ergo he can take from it the eſſentiall properties of a body, and yet keepe it a true body ſtill. Although the queſtion be not ſo much betweene vs, what Chriſt is able to doe of his abſolute power, as what he will doe according to his word. The body of Chriſt. Omnipotencie of Chriſt.

Rhem. 2. 3 Appeared Moyſes.) By this that Moyſes perſonally appeared and was preſent with Chriſt, it is plain: that the Saincts departed may in perſon be preſent at the affaires of the liuing. Auguſt. de cura pro mort. c. 15. 16. For euen as Angels els where, ſo here the Saincts alſo ſerued our Sauiour: and therefore as Angels both in the old Teſtament and the new, were preſent often at the affaires of men, ſo may Saincts. Saincts after their death deale with and for the liuing.

Fulke. 2. If it pleaſe God by a ſpeciall diſpenſation, they may: but the dead (as S. Auguſtine ſaieth) by their owne nature, cannot be preſent at the affaires of the liuing. De cura pro mort. Cap. 16. Againe he ſaieth: There be the ſpirites of the dead, where they doe not ſee whatſoeuer things are done, or come to paſſe in this life of men. Cap. 13. Therefore when ſo euer they are preſent, it is by ſpeciall graunt of God farre otherwiſe, then is the vſuall order, attributed to euery kind of creature. Cap. 16. Being a matter therefore ſo extraordinarie, and hauing no worde to aſſure vs of Gods will, it is meere tempting of God to deſire any helpe by their preſence, as it is, to deſire God to worke miracles, becauſe God can and hath wrought them by his ſaincts. Moreouer the compariſon of Angels & ſaincts departed, is very abſurd: for the ſcripture teſtifieth, that God vſeth the miniſtery of his angels, both extraordinarily and ordinarily, for the protecting of his children. But we haue no teſtimonie of the Scripture, that he vſeth the ſoules of the ſaincts departed, for any ſuch purpoſe. Saints departed deale not with the liuing. Pſ. 34. 8. Mat. 18. 10. Heb. 1. 14.

Rhem. 3. 9 Mount.) This mount (commonly eſteemed and named of the auncient fathers Thabor) S. Peter calleth the holy Mount becauſe of this wonderfull viſion, like as in the old Teſtament where God appeared to Moyſes in the buſh and elſe where to others, he calleth the place of ſuch Apparitions, holy ground. whereby it is euident that by ſuch Apparitions, places are ſanctified, and thereupon groweth a religion and deuotion in the faithfull toward ſuch places, and namely to this Mount Thabor (called in S. Hierome Itabirium Ep. 17.) there was great pilgrimage in the Primitiue Church, as vnto all thoſe places which our Sauiour had ſanctified with his preſence and miracles, and therefore to the whole land of promis, for that cauſe called the holy Land. See S. Hiero. in Epitap. Paulæ & ep. 17 & 18. ad Marcellam. Holy places. 2. Pet. 1, 18. Exo. 3, 5. Deuotion and Pilgrimage to the ſame. The holy land.

Fulke. 3. S. Peter calleth the mount Tabor, the holy mount, and the place where God appeared to Moſes, was called holy ground, yet neither Peter nor Moſes, taught men to haue any religion or deuotion toward ſuch places, nor did inſtitute any pilgrimage vnto the ſame: therefore the religion and deuotion you ſpeake of, is but voluntary religion or ſuperſtition. And though ſome good men and women in S. Hieromes time, had affection to ſee thoſe places where Chriſt had bene preſent, and wrought his miracles, yet did they not put any religion in ſuch viſiting, or if they did, it was a ſpice of ſuperſtition. S. Hierome himſelfe being greatly commended by Paulinus, that he liued in thoſe holy places, declareth how ſmall religion he had in them: Non Hieroſolymis, &c. It is not commendable to haue bene at Ieruſalem, but to haue liued well at Ieruſalem. And after he hath ſet foorth the praiſe of Anthonie, and many ſwarmes of ſolitarie men that dwelled in the countries neere vnto Iewrie, and yet neuer ſawe Ieruſalem, and ſpecially of Hilarion, which being a man of that countrey, and that liued in that countrey, yet ſawe Ieruſalem but one day in all his life, that neither he might ſeeme to contemne the holy places for their neereneſſe, nor againe ſeeme to ſhut vp the Lord in a certaine place: Laſt of all he ſaieth thus. Quorſum inquies, &c. Thou wilt ſay, to what ende are the matters fetched from ſo long a beginning. Verely, that thou ſhouldeſt not thinke any thing to be wanting to thy faith, becauſe thou haſt not ſeene Ieruſalem, neither that thou ſhouldeſt eſteeme vs to be better, becauſe we enioy our dwelling in this place, but whether here or els where, thou haſt equall reward with the Lord according to thy workes. The holineſſe of places. Pilgrimage.

Rhem.4. 11 Elias ſhal come.) He diſtinguiſheth here playnely betweene Elias in perſon, who is yet to come before the iudgement: and betweene Elias in name, to wit, Iohn the Baptiſt, who is come alreadi in the ſpirit and vertue of Elias. So that it is not Iohn Baptiſt only nor principally of whom Malachie propheciath (as our Aduerſaries ſay) but Elias alſo himſelf in perſon. Elias.

Fulke.4. Diuerſe of the ancient fathers are of opinion, that Helias ſhall come in perſon, immediatly before the ſecond comming of Chriſt, as the forerunner of his ſecond comming, and to conuert the remnant of the Iewes. But theſe words of Chriſt, doe not proue it. For he ſaith no more, but that the prophecie was, that Helias ſhould come, and that he is alreadie come, as he ſayth of Iohn the Baptiſt. Math.11.14. he is Helias that was to come. And Origen vpon this place vnderſtandeth no more commings of Elias, but this one of Iohn, that was come in the ſpirite of Helias. Elias.

Rhem.5. 19 Why could not we.) *No maruel if the Exorciſts of the Catholike Church which haue power to caſt out deuils, yet doe it not alwaies when they wil, and many times with much a doe: whereas the Apoſtles hauing receiued this power * before ouer vncleane ſpirites, yet here cannot caſt them out. But as for heretikes, they can neuer doe it, nor any other true miracle, to confirme their falſe faith.* True miracles onely in the Cath. Church.

Fulke.5. If you meane of Popiſh Exorciſts, neither haue they authoritie of God, nor power to caſt out deuils. Neither is there any ſuch ordinarie function in the Church of God: that men ſhould haue power, to caſt out deuils, more then to heale all maner of diſeaſes, ſpeake with ſtrange tongues which they neuer learned, or to worke other miracles. Which ſpirituall gifts God gaue in the beginning of the preaching of the Goſpel, to confirme the credite thereof among the Iewes and the Gentiles, but of long time haue ceaſed among Chriſtians, who are to be directed by Gods word, whereunto their profeſſion bindeth them to giue credite, without any farther confirmation of miracles, then that which is teſtified in the holy Scriptures. And where you ſay, that heretikes can neuer caſt out deuils, or worke any true miracles, it is falſe: for our Sauiour Chriſt ſaith, that many ſhall alleage in the laſt day, that they haue prophecied in his Name, caſt out deuils, and wrought many miracles. And God in the law, chargeth his people, not to be caried away by falſe Prophets, though they worke miracles. Deut.13.1. Popiſh Exorciſts. Miracles.

Rhem.6. 20 Faith as muſtard ſeede.) This is the Catholike faith, by which only al miracles are wrought: yet not of euery one that hath the Catholike faith, but of ſuch as haue a great and forcible faith and withal the gift of miracles. Theſe are able as here we ſee by Chriſtes warrant not only to doe other wonderful miracles here ſignified by this one, but alſo this very ſame, that is, to remoue mountaines in deede, as S.Paul alſo preſuppoſeth, and S.Hierome affirmeth, and Eccleſiaſtical hiſtories namely telleth of Gregorius Neocaeſarienſis, that he moued a mountaine to make roome for the foundation of a Church, called therefore & for other his wonderful miracles, Thaumaturgus. And yet faithleſſe Heretikes laugh at al ſuch things & beleeue the not. Gregorius Thaumaturgus.

Fulke.6. We are not bound to belecue all that, which is reported of Gregorie Thaumaturgus. Yet being teſtified by authours of good credite, and the miracles tending to the confirmation of true faith, we doe not deride them as we doe and iuſtly may, the monſtrous fables of your Popiſh legends, feſtiualles, and other workes of like credite. Where alſo the miracles are fained moſt commonly, for the confirmation of falſe doctrine, and the maintenance of couetouſnes of Prieſts, as in the caſes of Purgatorie, pilgrimage, and ſuch like. Miracles.

Rhem.7. 21 Prayer and faſting.) The force of faſting and praying: whereby alſo we may ſee that the holy Church in Exorciſmes doeth according to the Scriptures, when ſhe vſeth beſide the name of IESVS, many prayers and much faſting to driue out Diuels. becauſe theſe alſo are here required beſide faith. Prayer and Faſting.

Fulke.7. The Popiſh Church abuſeth ỹ ignorant, to make thẽ beleeue they can caſt out Deuils, wheras they haue no ſuch power, neither by al their prayers or faſting, can they coniure out one vncleane ſpirite, vnleſſe they haue firſt (as ſorcerers & witches) coniured him in. Popiſh Exorciſts.

Rhem.8. 26 The children free.) Though Chriſt to auoid ſcandal, payed tribute, yet in deede he ſheweth that both him ſelf ought to be free from ſuch payments (as being the kings ſonne, aſwel by his eternal birth of God the Father, as temporal of Dauid) and alſo his Apoſtles, as being of his familie, and in them their ſucceſſors the whole Clergie, who are called in Scripture the loote and portion of our Lord. which exemption and priuiledge being grounded vpon the very law of nature it ſelf, and therefore practiſed euen among the Heathen (Genc.42,27.) good Chriſtian Princes haue confirmed & ratified by their lawes in the honour of Chriſt, whoſe miniſters they are, and as it were the kings ſonnes. as S.Hieron declareth plainely in theſe words, We for his honour pay not tribute, & as the Kings ſonnes, are free frõ ſuch payments. Hier. vpon this place. The priuileges and exemptions of the Clergie.

Fulke.8. There is no reaſon by this text, why the Clergie ſhould be exempted from tributes, and obedience vnto Princes, more then all true Chriſtians, which are the children of God, as well as they. Our Sauiour Chriſt therefore, doeth exempt him ſelfe onely, as the Sonne of God, and King of Iſrael, not his Apoſtles and Miniſters alſo. What priuiledges or immunities, Chriſtian kings will grant vnto the Miniſters of the Goſpel, they may enioy: but to clayme an exemption by right, is meere Anabaptiſticall. And you doe moſt ſhamefully abuſe the words of S.Hierome cleane contrarie to his meaning. For he ſpeaketh not of the Clergie onely, but of all Chriſtians: nor ſayth, they are free from tribute paying to earthly Princes, but his meaning is, that they render not their tribute, that is, due obedience to Chriſt the king. His whole ſentence is this. Ergo tributa. &c. Chriſt oweth no tributes, as the kings ſonne, but he which had taken vpon him the humilitie of the fleſh, ought to fulfill all righteouſnes. And vnhappie are we, which haue our name of Chriſt, and doe nothing worthy of ſo great maieſtie. He for vs, both bare the croſſe, and payed tribute, we for his honour, pay not tribute, and as the kings ſonnes, are free from taxes. His meaning is, that we ought to yeeld all ſubiection, which is ſignified by tribute vnto him, who endured the croſſe for vs, and became ſubiect to worldly power for vs. Chryſoſtome vpon the 13. of S. Paule to the Romanes, ſayth, that this commandement of ſubiection, extendeth to all men, both Prieſts & Monkes, and not onely to ſecular men, which thing he declareth in the verie beginning, when he ſayth, Let euerie ſoule be ſubiect to the higher powers: Although thou be an Apoſtle, although thou be an Euangeliſt, although thou be a Prophet, or whatſoeuer thou art: for this ſubiection hindereth not pietie. In Epiſt. ad Rom. Hom.23. Clergie not exempt from tribute.

Rhem.9. 27 Me and thee.) A great myſterie in that he payed not only for him ſelf, but for Peter bearing the perſon of the Church, and in whom as the cheefe, al the reſt were conteyned. Aug.q.ex no.Teſt.9.75,to.4. Peters preeminence.

I marueile

Fulke.9. I meruaile at your modeſtie, that you write ſo ſparingly of Peters prerogatiue wherein your author is ſo ranke, but you know right well that no man of meane iudgement acknowledgeth that booke of queſtions to be S. Auguſtines, or any mans of like antiquitie, learning and iudgement: The paiment of tribute for Peter, is a ſigne of ſubiection, not of ſuperioritie. But he that boaſteth himſelfe to ſit in Peters chaire, will pay no tribute, but rather exact tribute of Kings and Princes. Peters prerogatiue.

CHAP. XVIII.

To his Diſciples he preacheth againſt ambition the mother of Schiſme: 7 foretelling both the author whoſoeuer he be, and alſo his followers, of their woe to come. 10 and ſhewing on the contrary ſide, how precious Chriſt accounteth ſoules are to their Angels, to the Sonne of man, and to his Father. 15 charging vs therefore to forgiue our brethren, when alſo we haue iuſt cauſe againſt them, & neuer ſo often, and to labour their ſaluation by all meanes poſſible.

19 Againe, truely I ſay vnto you, that if two of you ſhal agree in earth as touching any thing that they ſhall aske, it ſhal be done for them of my father which is in heauen.

20 For where two or three are gathered toge:her in my name, there am I in the middeſt of them.

21 Then came Peter to him, and ſayd, Lord, howe oft ſhall my brother ſinne againſt me, and I forgiue him? till ſeuen times?* Luke 17.4.

22 Ieſus ſayth vnto him, I ſay not vnto thee, vntill ſeuen times: but vntill ſeuentie tymes ſeuen.

23 Therfore is the kingdome of heauen likened vnto a certaine man that was a king, which would take accompt of his ſeruants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought vnto him which ought him ten thouſand talents.

25 But for aſmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him to be ſolde, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.

26 The ſeruant therfore fell downe, and beſought him, ſaying, Lord, haue patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

27 Then the lord of that ſeruant, moued with pitie, looſed him, and forgaue him the debt.

28 But the ſame ſeruant went out, & founde one of his fellowes which ought him an hundred pence: and when he had layd hands on him, he tooke him by the throte, ſaying, Pay me that thou oweſt.

29 And his fellow fell downe at his feete, and beſought him, ſaying, Haue patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

30 And he would not: but went his way, and cast him into prison, til he repayed the dette.

31 And his felow-seruants seeing what was done, were very sorie, and they came, and told their Lord al that was done.

32 Then his lord called him: and he said vnto him, Thou vngratious seruant, I forgaue thee al the dette because thou besoughtest me: oughtest not thou therfore also to haue mercy vpon thy felow-seruant, euen as I had mercie vpon thee?

33 And his lord being angrie deliuered him to the tormenters, vntil he repayed al the dette.

34 So also shal my heauenly father doe to you, if you forgiue not euery one his brother from your hartes.

30 And he woulde not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

31 So when his fellowes saw what was done, they were very sory, and came, & told vnto their lord all that was done.

32 Then his lord, after that he had called him, sayde vnto him, O thou vngratious seruant, I forgaue thee all that debt when thou desiredst me:

33 Shouldest not thou also haue had compassion on thy fellowe, euen as I had pitie on thee?

34 And his lord was wroth, and deliuered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due vnto him.

35 So likewise shall my heauenly father doe also vnto you, if ye from your hearts forgiue not euery one his brother their trespasses.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XVIII.

Rhem. 1. 1. Who is the greater.) The occasion of this question and of their contention for Superioritie among the rest of their infirmities which they had before the comming of the holy Ghost, was (as certaine holy Doctors write) vpon emulation toward Peter, whom only they saw preferred before the rest in the payment of the tribute, by these wordes of our Sauiour, Geue it them for me and thee. Chrysost. ho. 59. Hiero. in Mat. Vpon this place. C. 17. v. 27.

Fulke 1. Chrysostome noteth it as their error and infirmitie, that they imagined Peter, to be preferred before them, aswell in payment of the tribute, as in other matters. Likewise S. Hierome vpon this place, saith: Ex aequalitate pretij, &c. By the equalitie of the price, they thought Peter was preferred before all the Apostles, which in payment of tribute, was matched with the Lord. Therefore they aske, who is greater in the kingdome of heauen, and Iesus seeing their thoughts, and vnderstanding the causes of their error, will heale the desire of glorie, with the contention of humilitie. But by S. Marke it appeareth, that this contention beganne in the way, before they came into the house, where Christ appointed Peter to pay tribute for them both, therefore not vpon that occasion. Mark. 9. 34. Peters preferment in paying tribute.

Rhem. 7. Scandals.) The simple be most annoyed by taking scandal of their preachers, Priests, and Elders il life: & great damnation is to the guides of the people whether they be temporal or spiritual, but specially to the spiritual, if by their il example and slaunderous life the people be scandalized.

8. Hand, foote, eye.) By these partes of the body so necessarie and profitable for a man, is signified, that whatsoeuer is nereest and dereest to vs, wife, children, frendes, riches, al are to be contemned and forsaken for to saue our soule.

Rhem. 2. 10. Their Angels.) A great dignitie and a marueilous benefite that euery one hath from his Natiuitie an Angel for his custodie and Patronage against the wicked before the face of God. Hier. vpon this place. And the thing is so Latine, that Caluin dare not deny it, and yet he wil needes doubt of it, lib. 1. Inst. c. 14. sect. 7. Protection of Angels.

Fulke. 2. Caluine doubteth not of the protection of Gods Angels, but whether euery one hath a seuerall Angell, appointed for his custodie from his natiuitie, which no place of Scripture doth proue. But sometime one Angell, hath the charge of a great many men, sometime many Angels are ready for the defense of one man, and all the Angels with one consent, doe waite for our preseruation, as in the place noted you may see at large, the Scriptures cited. Neither doth Hierom meane, that euery one hath his seuerall Angell, for he alleadgeth for proofe, the Angell of Ephesus, Thiatyra, Philadelphia, and the rest: where if the worde Angell were to be vnderstoode of heauenly spirits, yet it is one Angell, for the Church of a whole citie, and not for euery person. Angels. Apoc. 2. & 3.

Rhem. 17. Not heare the Church.) Not only Heretikes, but any other obstinate offendar that will not be iudged nor ruled by the Church, may be excommunicated, and so made as an Heathen or Publican was to the Iewes, by the discipline of the same, casting him out of the felowship of Catholikes, which excommunication is a greater punishment then if he were executed by sword, fire, and wild beastes. Aug. cont. Adu. leg. li. 1. c. 17. And againe he saith, Man is more sharpely and pitefully bound by the Churches Kcies, then with any yron or adamantine manicles or fetters in the world. August. ibidem. Disobedience to the Church. Excommunication.

17. Heathen.) Heretikes therfore because they wil not heare the Church, be no better nor no otherwise to be esteemed of Catholikes, then heathen men and Publicans were esteemed among the Iewes.

Rhem. 3. 18. You shal binde.) As before he gaue this power of binding and loosing ouer the whole, first of al and principally to Peter, vpon whom he builded his Church: so here not only to Peter, and in him to his successors, but also to the other Apostles, and in them to their successors, euery one in their charge. Hierom. lib. 1. c. 14. aduers. Iouin. and Epist. ad Heliod. Cyprian. de Vnit. Eccl. nu. 1. Power to bind and loose. Mat. c. 16. 19.

Fulke 3. Vpon the 16. Chapter sect. 10. you sayd, the building was onely promised, and consequently the power was not giuen, but onely promised: yet here forgetting your selfe, you say, he gaue before this power to Peter, ouer the whole, and now to al the Apostles, & their successors, quoting Hierom, & Cyprian, of which neither of both saith, that he gaue Peter power ouer the whole, but equal power to al his Apostles, as is declared in the 16. chap. lib. 1. cons. Iouin. Cypr. de vnit. Eccles. ap. 3. S. Hierom in ep. ad Heliod. sayth no more, touching this matter, but that all Clerkes succeeding the degree of the Apostles, haue the keyes of the kingdome of heauen. Of which I may inferre, that all the Apostles Peters authority.

poſtles, had the keies, immediatly from Chriſt, and not from Peter, though in Peter they were giuen to al alike as ſome of the ancient Fathers doe write.

18. Shal looſe.) Our Lord geueth no leſſe righe and authoritie to the Church to looſe, then to binde, as S. Ambroſe writeth againſt the Nouatians, who confeſſed that the Prieſts had power to binde, but not to looſe.

Rhem.

20. In the middes of them.) Not al aſſemblies may chalenge the preſence of Chriſt, but only ſuch as be gathered together in the vnitie of the Church. and therfore no conuenticles of Heretikes directly gathering againſt the Church, are warranted by this place. Cypr. de vnit. Eccleſ. nu. 7. 8.

L. 1. de pœnit. c. 2.

22. Seuentie times ſeuen.) There muſt be no end of forgeuing them that be penitent, either in the Sacrament by abſolution, or one man an other their offenſes.

THE fourth part of this Goſpel, Chriſts cóming into Iury toward his Paſſion. Mr. 10, 1.

He anſwereth the tempting Phariſees, that the caſe of a man with his wife ſhal be (as in the firſt inſtitution it was) vtterly indiſſoluble, though for one cauſe he may be diuorced, 10. And thereupon to his Diſciples he highly commendeth Single life for heauen. 13 He will haue children come vnto him. 16 He ſheweth what is to be done to enter into life euerlaſting: 20 What alſo, for a rich man to be perfect: 27 As alſo what paſſing reward they ſhal haue which follow that his counſel of perfection: 29 yea though it be but in ſome one peece.

AND it came to paſſe, when IESVS had ended theſe wordes, he departed from Galilee, and came into the coaſtes of Iewrie beyond Iordan,

2 And great multitudes folowed him: and he cured them there.

The Goſpel for Mariage. And for S. Agatha Febr. 5.

3 And there came to him the Phariſees tempting him, and ſaying, Is it lawful for a man to diminiſſe his wife, for euery cauſe?

4 Who anſwering, ſaid to them, Haue ye not read, that he which did ‖ make from the beginning, made them male and femal? And he ſaid.

Gen. 2, 24.

5 For this cauſe, man ſhal leaue father and mother, and ſhal cleaue to his wife: and they two ſhal be one fleſh.

6 Therefore now they are not two, but one fleſh. That therefore which God hath ioyned together, let ‖ not man ſeparate.

Deut. 24, 1.

7 They ſay to him, why then * did Moyſes commaund to giue a bil of diuorce, and to diminiſſe her?

8 He ſaith to them, Becauſe Moyſes for the hardnes of your hart permitted you to diminiſſe your wiues: but from the beginning it was not ſo.

9 And I ſay to you, that * whoſoeuer ſhal diminiſſe his wife, ‖ but for fornication, & ſhal mary an other, doth committe aduoutrie: & he that ſhal mary her that is diminiſſed, committeth aduoutrie.

10 His diſciples ſay vnto him, If the caſe of a man with his wife be ſo, it is not expedient to mary.

‡ χωροῦσι. capiunt.

11 Who ſaid to them, ‖ Not al ‡ take this word, but they to whom it is giuen.

12 For there are eunuches which were borne ſo from their mothers wombe: and there are eunuches which were made by men: and there are eunuches, which haue ‖ gelded themſelues for the kingdom of heauen. ‖ He that can take, let him take.

AND it came to paſſe, * that when Ieſus had finiſhed theſe ſayings, he gate him from Galilee, and came into the coaſtes of Iurie beyond Iordane: Mark. 10. 1.

2 And great multitudes followed him, and he healed them there.

3 The Phariſees alſo came vnto him, tempting him, and ſaying vnto him, Is it lawfull for a man to put away his wife for euery cauſe?

4 He anſwered, and ſayde vnto them, Haue ye not read * that he which created at the beginning, made them male and female? Gen. 1. 27.

6 Wherfore they are no more twaine, but one fleſh. Let not man therefore put aſunder, that which God hath coupled together.

7 They ſay vnto him, Why did Moſes then command to giue a writing of diuorcement, and to put her away? Deut. 24. 1.

8 He ſayd vnto them, Moſes, becauſe of the hardneſſe of your hearts, ſuffered you to put away your wiues: but from the beginning it was not ſo.

9 * I ſay vnto you, Whoſoeuer ſhall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and ſhall marrie another, committeth adulterie: and who ſo marrieth her which is diuorced, doth commit adulterie. Matth. 5. 32 mar. 10. 11. luk. 6. 18. 1. cor. 7. 11.

10 His diſciples ſay vnto him, If the caſe of the man be ſo with his wife, then is it not good to marrie.

11 But he ſayd vnto them, All men can not receiue this ſaying, ſaue they to whome it is giuen.

12 For there are ſome chaſte, which were ſo borne out of their mothers wombe: & there are ſome chaſte, which were made chaſte of men: & there be chaſte, which haue made them ſelues chaſte for the kingdome of heauens ſake. He that is able to receiue it, let him receiue it.

Mr.10,13. Luc.18,15. 13 Then * were litle children presented to him, that he shoulde ‖ impose hands vpon them and pray. And the disciples rebuked them.

14 But IESVS said to them, Suffer the litle children, and stay them not from comming vnto me: for the kingdome of heauen is for such.

15 And when he had imposed hands vpon them, he departed from thence.

Mr.10,17. Luc.18,18. 16 And * behold one came and said to him, Good Maister, what good shal I doe that I may haue life euerlasting?

17 Who said to him, what askest thou me of good? One is good, God. But ‡ if thou wilt enter into life, keepe the commaundements.

22 And when the yong man had heard this word, he went away sad: for he had many possessions.

23 And IESVS said to his disciples, Amen I say to you, that a rich man shal hardely enter into the kingdom of heauen.

24 And againe I say to you, it is easier for a camel to passe through the eye of a nedle, ‡ then for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heauen.

‡ S. Marke expounded it thus, riche men trusting in their riches, ca. 10.24.

25 And when they had heard this, the disciples marueled very much, saying, who then can be saued?

26 And IESVS beholding, said to them. with men this is impossible: but with God ‖ al things are possible.

27 Then Peter answering, said to him, Behold we haue ‖ left al things, and haue folowed thee: ‖ what therfore shal we haue?

28 And IESVS said to them, Amen I say to you, that you which haue folowed me, in the regeneration, when the Sonne of man shal sitte in the seate of his maiestie, you ‖ also shal sitte vpon twelue seates, iudging the twelue tribes of Israel.

29 And

14 But Iesus sayd vnto them, Suffer the yong children, and forbid them not to come vnto me: for to such belongeth the kingdome of heauen.

15 And when he had put his hands on them, he departed thence.

*16 * And behold, one came and sayd vnto him, Good master, what good thing shal I doe, that I may haue eternall life?* Mark.10.17. luk.18.18.

17 He sayd vnto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, and that is God: But if thou wilt enter into that life, keepe the commandements.

*18 He sayth vnto him, Which? Iesus sayde, * Thou shalt doe no murder, Thou shalt not commit adulterie, Thou shalt not steale, Thou shalt not beare false witnesse,* Exod.20.13.

19 Honour thy father and thy mother: and, Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe.

20 The yong man sayeth vnto him, All these things haue I kept from my youth vp: what lacke I yet?

21 Iesus sayd vnto him, If thou wilt be perfect, goe and sell thy substance, and giue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen: and come and followe me.

22 But when the yong man heard that saying, he went away sory: for he had great possessions.

23 Then Iesus sayd vnto his disciples, Verily I say vnto you that a rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdome of heauen.

24 And againe I say vnto you, It is easier for a Camell to goe thorowe the eye of a needle, then for the rich to enter into the kingdome of God.

25 When the disciples heard this, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saued?

26 But Iesus behelde them, and sayde vnto them, With men this is vnpossible, but with God all things are possible.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XIX.

Rhem. 1. 17. If thou wilt enter.) I ſee not (ſaith S. Auguſtine) why Chriſt ſhould ſay, If thou wilt haue life euerlaſting, keepe the commaundements: if without obſeruing of them, by onely faith one might be ſaued. Aug. de fid.& op.c.15.

Fulke. 1. S. Auguſtine writeth againſt them which thought they might be iuſtified by a dead faith, which is voide of good workes, which auaileth no man, but to his greater condemnation. We teach according to ỹ Scripture, that a man is iuſtified by faith without the workes of the law, yet by ſuch a faith, as worketh by loue, and is fruitfull of good workes. Although our Sauiour Chriſt in this place doth not ſhewe howe men attaine to eternall life, but what perfect obſeruation of Gods lawe is required of them that looke to be iuſtified by the workes of the lawe, as the Scribes and Phariſees did. Neither that men are able to fulfill the lawe, but by the righteouſneſſe of faith, by which S. Auguſtine ſaith, theſe things of the lawe which could not be fulfilled, are fulfilled by faith, Expoſit.quarr.propoſ.in ep.ad Rom.Num.19. Iuſtification by faith onely.

Rhem.2. 29. Wife, or children.) Hereof is gathered that the Apoſtles among other things left their wiues alſo to folowe Chriſt. Hiero.li.1.aduerſ.Iouin.

Fulke.2. The Apoſtles left their wiues, none otherwiſe then they left their houſes, and all other things here named, which euery man ought to leaue, & to folowe Chriſt, if they be an hinderance to their calling as Chriſtians, or as the miniſters of the Church. See the notes vpon the eight Chapter, ſect 3. The Apoſtles wiues.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XIX.

Rhem. 3. 6. Not man ſeparate.) This inſeparabilitie betwixt man and wife riſeth of that, that wedlocke is a ſacrament. Aug.li.2.de pec.origine c.34.to 7. De nupt.& concupil.li.1.c.10.

Fulke. 3. S. Auguſtine vſeth the worde ſacramentum, generally, for euery holy myſterie, and we confeſſe there is a great myſterie in mariage, yet is matrimonie no ſacrament of the new teſtament (as Baptiſme, and the Lords ſupper are) being inſtituted in paradiſe. Therfore in ỹ ſecond place by you quoted, he ſaith: Quoddam ſacramentum, a certaine holy myſterie of mariage, is commended to the faithfull. See Chap.1.ſect.2.and præfat. ſect.53. Mariage is no ſacrament.

Rhem.4. 9. But for fornication.) For aduoutrie one may diminiſſe an other, Mat.5. But neither partie can marrie againe for any cauſe during life. Aug li.11.de adult.coniug.c.21.22.24. for the which vnlawfull act of marrying againe, Fabiola that noble matrone of Rome, albeit ſhe was the innocent part, did publike penance, as S. Hierome writeth in her high commendation therefore. And in S. Paul Rom.7 It is plaine, that ſhe which is with an other man, her husband yet liuing, ſhall be called an aduoutereſſe: contrary to the doctrine of our Aduerſaries. Mariage after diuorce vnlawfull. In Epitaph. Fabiolæ.

Fulke. 4. The exception of fornication, leaueth mariage after diuorce, as free as it was vnder the law. And although Fabiola of her owne accord, did penance after the death of her ſecond husband, yet was ſhe not compelled to forſake her ſecond husband, nor her mariage iudged vnlawfull by the Church of Rome in that time. And Hierome, although he cõfeſſe it a fault ỹ ſhe maried againe, yet he excuſeth it by neceſſitie of her infirmitie, which could not liue vnmaried, and therefore citeth the ſaying of the Apoſtle, 1.Cor.7. It is better to marie, then to burne. Neither doth the ſaying of S. Paul, Rom.7 hinder the lawfulneſſe of mariage after diuorce: for he is no longer an husband, which is lawfully diuorced for adulterie. Mariage after diuorce.

Rhem. 5. 11. Not all take.) Whoſoeuer haue not this gift giuen them, it is eyther for that th y will not haue it, or for that they fulfill not that which they will: and they that haue this gift or attaine to this worde, haue it of God and their owne free will. Aug.li.de grat.& lib.arbit.c.4. So that it is euident no man is excluded from this gift, but (as Origen here ſaith) it is giuen to all that aske for it: contrary to our Aduerſaries that ſay it is impoſſible, and that for excuſe of breaking their vowes, wickedly ſay, they haue not the gift. Orig.tract.7. in Mat.

Fulke. 5. You peruert the wordes of S. Auguſtine, cleane contrary to his meaning, Omnes non capiunt, &c. All men take not this ſaying, but they to whom it is giuen, (Quibus enim non eſt datum, aut nolunt, aut non implent quod volunt) for they to whom it is not graunted, eyther will not, or els fulfil not that which they will, but they to whom it is giuen doe ſo will it, that they doe fulfill it. S. Auguſtines meaning is, that both the wil to be chaſt, and the power to fulfill that wil, is of the gift of God, and not in the power of man. Yet is not the will of man enforced, but eyther changed into better by Gods grace, or els left ſubiect to ſinfull concupiſcence, where the grace of God maketh not free. And this is the true meaning of S. Auguſtine: for as he ſaith in Pſalm.147. Paucorum eſt virginitas in carne, omnium debet eſſe in corde. Virginitie in the fleſh, is but of a fewe, but in the hart it ought to be of all men. But Origen ſaith, it is giuen to all that aske for it: in deede he ſeemeth to ſay ſo much, but yet in the ende he addeth: Vile eſt autem ſcire quid debeat petere quis, vt mereatur accipere. It is profitable to knowe what a man ought to aske, that he may be meete to receiue. Signifying, that God giueth all things that we pray for, if they be expedient for his glorie and our ſaluation. And S. Hierome vpon this place is very plaine, although he acknowledge virginitie to be the gift of God in them that pray for it, that labour for it, yet he confeſſeth it is not in euery man power, ſaying: Chriſt addeth, he that can take it, let him take it, that euery man may conſider his owne ſtrength: whether he be able to fulfill the precepts of virginitie and chaſtitie: for chaſtitie of her ſelfe is pleaſant, and alluring euery man vnto it, but our ſtrength muſt be conſidered that he may take it, which can take it. Origen himſelfe. Tr.24. in Math. inueygheth againſt them, which not hauing regard to mens ſtrength, forbid them to marie. Virginitie not in euery mans power.

Rhem.6. 12. Gelded themſelues.) They geld themſelues for the kingdome of heauen which vow chaſtitie. Aug.de virginitate.c.24. which proueth thoſe kind of vowes to be both lawfull, and alſo more meritorious, and more ſure to obtaine life euerlaſting, then the ſtate of wedlocke, contrary to our Aduer. in all reſpects, Vow of chaſtitie.

Fulke. 6. They that are aſſured of the gift of chaſtitie vnto their liues ende, may lawfully vow or determine of it: but without ſuch aſſurance, no man can vowe continence lawfullie. But where the vow is lawfull, it followeth not that it is meritorious, and more ſure to obtaine euerlaſting life, then the ſtate of wedlocke. For eternall life is the free gift of God in Ieſus Chriſt, not the merite of workes, whereof the maried man by faith, may be as ſure as the virgine.

Vow of continencie. Rom. 6. 23. Eph. 2. 8. & 9. Merite.

Rhem. 7. 12. He that can,) It is not ſaid of the precepts, keepe them who can, for they be neceſſarie vnder paine of damnation to be kept: but of Counſels onely (as of virginitie, abſtaining from fleſh and wine, and of giuing all a mans goods away to the poore) it is ſaid, He that can attaine to it, let him doe it: which is counſell onely, not a commaundement. Contrary to our Aduerſaries that ſay, there are no Counſels, but onely precepts.

Counſels not precepts. Aug. ſer. 6. de temp.

Fulke. 7. The Lawe of God requireth vs to loue him with all our ſoule, with all our ſtrength, &c. Therefore wherein ſoeuer we are able to ſhewe our loue to God, we are commaunded to doe it. But where there is no generall precept to all men, as to abſtaine from mariage, there is a ſpeciall reſpect to be had, what euery man by Gods grace is able to doe, and what is moſt for the glorie of God, and that euery man when he knoweth, is bound to doe. In the 6. ſerm. of Aug. de tempore, is neuer a word of precepts or counſels.

Precepts and Counſels.

Rhem. 8. 13. Biſhops and Religious mens bleſſing.

Fulke. 8. There is great difference betweene the bleſſing of Chriſt, and the bleſſing of godly men. That good Chriſtians at all times haue brought their children to haue the Biſhops bleſſing, you haue ſhewed nothing, chap. 10. and as litle in this that followeth. Firſt Ruffine nameth diuers holy men, at whoſe hands he himſelfe had bene bleſſed. S. Hierome hath nothing, but of the prayers of godly men. Theodoret ſayth, that being a yong man, he went with his mother, into the place where the holy man Aphrates remained, and was partaker of the bleſſing of his holy hand, which afterward he expoundeth to be prayers. And who findeth fault with prayers of holy men, whether they vſe the ceremonie of laying on, or holding vp the handes or no? It is the vaine ſuperſtition of popiſh Biſhops bleſſing, that we contemne, not the bleſſing or prayers of godly men.

Rhem. 9. 21. If thou wilt be perfect.) Loe, he maketh a plaine difference betweene keeping the commaundements, which is neceſſarie for euery man: and being perfect, which he counſeleth onely to them that will. And this is the ſtate of great perfection which Religious men doe profeſſe, according to Chriſtes counſell here, leauing all things and folowing him.

The religious ſtate of perfection.

Fulke. 9. Chriſt neither commaundeth, nor counſelleth this perfection to all men, but onely to this one, to diſcouer his hypocriſie, and vaine confidence that he had in himſelfe, as though he had kept the law, when he was farre from it. And yet Hilarie calleth this a commaundement of leauing the world. Chryſoſtome vpon this text, denieth ſ^t there is ſuch perfection in contemning monie, as in abnegation of a mans ſelfe, in taking vp the croſſe, and folowing Chriſt, which is commaunded to all Chriſtians. As for the profeſſion of popiſh Monkes, is to leaue labour, and all good exerciſes, to tyre themſelues with idleneſſe and belly cheere like Epicures. In Friers profeſſion, is a fairer ſhewe of hypocriſie, but neuer a ſteppe neerer to the true imitation of Chriſt.

Perfection. Counſels, precepts. Can. 19. Popiſh Monks and Fryers.

Rhem. 10. 21. Folowe me.) Thus to folowe Chriſt is to be without wife and care of children, & lacke proprietie, and to liue in common, and this hath great reward in heauen aboue other ſtates of life: which S. Auguſtine ſaith, the Apoſtles folowed, and himſelfe, and that he exhorted others to it as much as lay in him. Aug. ep. 89. in fine, & in pſ. 103. Conc. 3. poſt. med.

Fulke. 10. S. Auguſtine ſaith not, that thus to folowe Chriſt, is to be without wife, and care of children, &c. for the Apoſtles many of them had wiues, and ſome had children, and had proprietie, as Peter his houſe, and Iohn had to entertaine and prouide for the virgine Marie: Matthewe had to make a feaſt of his owne goods. S. Auguſtine ſayth, that he himſelfe had loued that perfection, whereof Chriſt here ſpeaketh, and had ſolde all his goodes, and giuen them to the poore, and alſo had exhorted other to doe the like, and had ſome companions: yet preferred not himſelfe before other godly men that had poſſeſſions, as ſome hypocrites did in his time, againſt whom he writeth, Ep. 89. So he ſayth in pſ. 103. Con. 3 There were ſome that hearing this ſaying of the Goſpel, deſired to doe ſo, as alſo not to marie, nor to be troubled with children, nor to haue any abiding place, but to goe into a certaine common life. Yet placeth he not the imitation of Chriſt in theſe things: for rich maried men hauing children, and affaires in the world, may folowe Chriſt by true deniall of themſelues, and taking vp his croſſe dayly, when wandring hypocrites, without wife, & children, in ſtead of folowing Chriſt in humilitie & pouertie, may folow the deuill in lying, pride, enuie, malice, and many other vices.

Rhem. 11. 26. All things poſſible.) This of the camel through a needles eye, being poſſible to God, although he neither hath done it, nor by like will doe it: maketh againſt the blaſphemous infidelitie of our Aduerſaries that ſay, God can doe no more then he hath done or will doe. We ſee alſo that God can bring a camel through a needles eye, and therefore his body through a doore, and out of the ſepulchre ſtone, and out of his mother a virgine, and generally aboue nature and contrary to nature doe with his body as he liſt.

Fulke. 11. This is an impudent ſlaunder, wherewith you charge vs, as you doe many times, to ſay, That God can doe no more then he hath done or wil do: but this we ſay, (confute it, if ye be able) that God can doe nothing, contrary to his owne will, worde, nature, glorie and yet he is almighrie, ſee cap. 17. ſect. 1. In the ſacrament we diſpute not what God can doe, but what he will doe, according to his worde. Chriſt hath not taken away the nature of his body, but giuen immortalitie to it, Aug. Ep. 57. therefore he will doe nothing with it, that is contrary to the nature of it. Neither came he through the doore, nor through the ſtone of the ſepulchre, nor through the virgins body, although he came in after the doores were ſhut, and although the Angel rolled away the ſtone after his reſurrection, and he was borne of his mother being a virgine.

Fulke. 12. The Apoſtles left all things in affection, but not in vſe and poſſeſſion, as it is proued before, ſect 10.

Rhem. 13. 27. What ſhall we haue.) They leaue all things in reſpect of reward, and Chriſt doth well allowe it in them by his anſwere.

Rhem.14. 28. You alſo ſhall ſit.) Note that not onely Chriſt, who is the principall & proper iudge of the liuing and the dead, but with him the Apoſtles and all perfect Saintes ſhall iudge: and yet that doeth nothing derogate to his prerogatiue, by whom and vnder whom they holde this and all other dignities in this life and the next. Aug. in pſ.121

Fulke.14. All the Saintes of God ſhall iudge the world, and euen the Angels, 1.Cor.5.2. and 3. not to the derogation, but to the honour of Chriſt, as the members of his myſticall body.

CHAP. XX.

To ſhewe howe through Gods grace the Iewes ſhalbe ouerrunne of the Gentiles, although they beginne after, he bringeth a parable of men, working ſooner and later in the vineyard, but the later rewarded in the end euen as the firſt. 17. Hee reuealeth more to his Diſciples touching his paſſion: 20. Bidding the ambitious two ſuiters to thinke rather of ſuffering with him: 24. And teaching vs (in the reſt of his Diſciples) not to be grieued at our Eccleſiaſticall Superiours, conſidering they are (as he was himſelfe) to ſeale for our ſaluation. 29. Then going out of Iericho, he giueth ſight vnto two blind.

The Goſpel vpon the Sunday of Septuageſime.

THe kingdome of heauen is like to a man that is an houſholder which went forth early ‖ in the morning to hire workemen into his vineyard.

2 And hauing made couenant with the workemen for a penie a day, he ſent them into his vineyard.

3 And going forth about the third houre, he ſaw other ſtanding in ỹ market place idle,

4 And he ſaid to them, Goe you alſo into the vineyard: and that which ſhall be iuſt, I will giue you.

5 And they went their way. And againe he went forth about the ſixt and the ninth houre: and did likewiſe.

6 But about the eleuenth houre he went forth and found other ſtanding, and he ſayth to them, what ſtande you here all the day idle?

7 They ſay to him, Becauſe no man hath hired vs. He ſaith to them, Goe you alſo into the vineyard.

8 And when euening was come, the lord of the vineyard ſaith to his bailife, Call the workemen, and pay them their hire, beginning from the laſt euen to the firſt.

9 Therefore when they were come that came about ỹ eleuenth houre, they receiued euery one ‖ a penie.

10 But when the firſt alſo came, they thought that they ſhould receiue more: and they alſo receiued euery one a penie.

‡ The Iewes are noted for enuying the vocation of the Gentiles, and their reward equall with themſelues.

11 And receiuing it they ‡ murmured againſt the good man of the houſe, 12 Saying, Theſe laſt haue continued one houre: and thou haſt made them equall to vs that haue borne the burden of the day and the heates.

13 But he anſwering ſaid to one of them, Frende, I doe thee no wrong: didſt thou not couenant with me for a penie?

14 Take that is thine, and goe: I will alſo giue to this laſt euen as to thee alſo.

15 Or, is it not lawful for me to doe that I will?

FOr the kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man that is an houſholder, which went out early in the morning to hyre labourers into his Vineyard.

2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penie a day, he ſent them into his Vineyarde.

3 And when he went out about the thirde houre, he ſawe other ſtanding idle in the market place,

4 And ſaide vnto them, Goe ye alſo into the Vineyard, and whatſoeuer is right, I will giue you. And they went their way.

5 Againe, when he went out about the ſixth and ninth houre, he did likewiſe.

6 And about the eleuenth houre, when he went out, he founde other ſtanding idle, and ſaith vnto them, Why ſtand ye here all the day idle?

7 They ſay vnto him, Becauſe no man hath hired vs. He ſaith vnto them, Goe ye alſo into the vineyard: and whatſoeuer is right, that ſhall ye receiue.

8 So when euen was come, the lorde of the Vineyard ſaith vnto his Steward, Call the labourers, and giue them their hire, beginning from the laſt, vnto the firſt.

9 And when they came that were hired about the eleuenth houre, they receiued euery man a penie.

10 But when the firſt came alſo, they ſuppoſed that they ſhould haue receiued more: and they likewiſe receiued euery man a penie.

11 And when they had receiued it, they murmured againſt the good man of the houſe,

12 Saying, Theſe laſt haue wrought but one houre, and thou haſt made them equall vnto vs, which haue borne the burden and feruent heate of the day.

13 But he anſwered to one of them, and ſaide, Friend, I doe thee no wrong: diddeſt thou not agree with me for a penie?

14 Take that thine is, and goe thy way, I will giue vnto this laſt, euen as vnto thee.

15 Is it not lawful for me to do that I wil with

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XX.

Rhem. 1. In the morning.) God called ſome in the morning, that is, in the beginning of the world, as Abel, Enoch, Noe, and other the iuſt and faithfull of the firſt age: at the third houre, Abraham, Iſaac, and Iacob, and the reſt of their age: at the 6 houre of the day, Moyſes, Aaron, and the reſt: at the 9 houre, the Prophets: at the eleuenth, that is, at the later end of the world, the Chriſtian Nations. Aug. de verb. Dom. ſer. 59. briefly, this calling at diuers houres ſignifieth the calling of the Iewes from time to time in the firſt ages of the world, and of the Gentiles in the later age thereof. It ſignifieth alſo that God calleth countries to the faith, ſome ſoner, ſome later: and particular men to be his ſeruants, ſome yonger, ſome elder, of diuers ages.

9. Peny.) The peny promiſed to all, was life euerlaſting, which is common to all that ſhall be ſaued: but in the ſame life there be degrees of glorie, as betwixt ſtarre and ſtarre in the element. Aug. li. de virginit. c. 26. 1. Cor. 15. Diuerſitie of glory in heauen.

Rhem. 1. 16 Few elect.) Thoſe are elect which deſpiſed not their caller, but followed and beleeued him: for men beleue not but of their owne free will. Aug. li. 1. ad Simplic. q. 2.

Fulke. 1. No man can write more effectually then S. Auguſtine doth, againſt the Popiſh opinion of election and free-will in that place. Whoſe words are theſe, & not as you haue falſly tranſlated them. Hi qui vocantem non contempſerunt, ſed credendo ſequuti ſunt, volentes autem ſine dubio crediderunt: &c. They which haue not deſpiſed him that calleth, but haue folowed in beleeuing, yea without doubt they haue beleeued willingly. What is it then that foloweth? therefore it is neither of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that ſheweth mercie. Is it not becauſe we cannot ſo much as will, but being called, he performs our will, except God helpe vs? Againe, Aliter Deus præſtat, &c. After one ſort God performeth that we be willing, after another ſort he bringeth to paſſ that which we haue willed. For that we ſhould be willing, he would haue it to be both his and ours, his in calling, ours in following. But that whereunto we haue bene willing, he alone performeth, that is, to be able to doe well, and alwayes to liue bleſſedly. What can be more plaine againſt Poperie then theſe ſayings of Auguſtine? Freewill.

Rhem. 2. 23 To whom it is prepared.) The kingdom of heauen is prepared for them that are worthy of it and deſerue it by their wel doing, as in holy Scripture it is very often, That God wil repay euery man according to his works, and, Come ye bleſſed, poſſeſſe the kingdom prepared for you. Why? becauſe I was hungrie, & you gaue me meate: thirſtie, and you gaue me drinke, &c. Therfore doeth Chriſt ſay here, It is not mine to giue, becauſe he is iuſt and wil not giue it to euery man without reſpect of their deſerts: yea nor alike to euery one, but diuerſly according to greater or leſſer merits as here S. Chryſoſtome maketh it plaine, when our Sauiour telleth them, that although they ſuffer martyrdom for his ſake, yet he hath not to giue them the two cheefe places. See S. Hiero. Vpon this place, & li. 2. adu. Iouin. c. 15. This alſo is a leſſon for them that haue to beſtow Eccleſiaſtical benefices, that they haue no carnall reſpect to kinred, &c. but to the worthines of the perſons. Mat. 16, 27. Rom. 2. 6. Mat. 25. 21. Difference of merites and reward. Chryſ. ho. 66. in Mat.

Fulke. 2. A curſed gloſſe that corrupteth the plaine & manifeſt meaning of the text. The Scripture neuer promiſeth the kingdom of heauen to them that are worthy of it, by ỹ merit of their works, or that deſerue it by wel doing. It is the free gift of God, not of works, as S. Paul theweth, Ephe. 2. And though God render to euery man according to his works, yet he ſaith not, for the deſert of his works. And our ſauiour Chriſt cõmendeth not the deſert of their works, which haue fed him in the poore: but alleageth their works, as an open teſtimony of their faith. For the kingdome was prepared for them before the beginning of the world, by the eternal decree of God, by which they were choſen in Chriſt to the praiſe of his glory, & created to good works, Ephe. 1. & 2. and al reward due to good works, dependeth vpon ỹ mercy of God, and not vpon the merit of the worke. Neither doth Chryſoſtom ſpeake of greater or leſſer merits, but of greater vertues and more excellent works. For albeit God giue greater reward to greater vertues, yet it foloweth not, that any vertue deſerueth or meriteth. For the vertues, workes, and rewards, are all and euery one the free gifts of God. Hierome hath ſome words ſounding to ſuch a thing, yet not merits or deſert: but his iudgement vpon deliberation, is to be taken out of his bookes againſt the Pelagians, where he writeth thus: Our right eouſnes conſiſteth not of our owne merits, but of the mercie of God. li. 1. Againe he ſheweth manifeſtly, that right uſnes is not in mans merite or deſert, but in the grace of God, which accepteth the faith of beleeuers, without the works of the law. Before the Pelagian hereſie (mainteyning the power of freewil and merite of works againſt the free grace of God) did trouble the Church, diuers of the fathers were not ſo wary & circumſpect in their words and phraſes, as afterward they ſaw it was neceſſary for them to be: For the Pelagian heretikes tooke hold of ſuch termes and formes of ſpeach, and alleaged the ſayings of the ancient fathers, againſt their true meaning and right iudgement, as of S. Hilarie, S. Ambroſe, S. Chryſoſtome, S. Hierome, and S. Auguſtine himſelfe, as teſtifieth S. Auguſtine de nat. & gratia. cap. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 67. Merite.

Rhem. 28. As the ſonne of man.) Chriſt himſelfe as he was the Sonne of man, was their & our Superiour, and Lord and Maiſter, notwithſtanding his humilitie: and therfore it is pride and haultineſſe which is forbidden, and not Superioritie or Lordſhip, as ſome Heretikes would haue it. Io 13. 13.

CHAP. XXI.

Being now come to the place of his Paſſion, he entereth with humilitie and triumph together: 12 Sheweth his zeale for the houſe of God ioyned with great miracle. 15 And to the Rulers he boldly defendeth the acclamations of the children. 18 He curſeth alſo that fruitles leafie tree: 23 auoucheth his power by the witnes of Iohn: 28 and foretelleth his in two parables their reprobation (with the Gentiles vocation) for their wicked deſerts, 42 and conſequently their irreparable damnation that ſhall enſue therof.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXI.

Rhem. 2 You ſhal finde.) Chriſt by diuine power both knewe where theſe beaſts were, being abſent, and commaunded them for his vſe, being an other mans, and ſodenly made the colt fit to be ridden on, neuer broken before.

7. The aſſe and the colt.) This aſſe vnder yoke ſignifieth the Iewes vnder the Law and vnder God their Lord, Hiero in Mat. as it were his old and ancient people: the yong colt now firſt ridden on by Chriſt, ſignifieth the Gentiles, wilde hetherto and not Aug. l.12. cõ Fauſt.c.42. broken, now to be called to the faith & to receiue our Sauiours yoke. And therfore the three laſt Euangeliſts writing ſpecially to the Gentiles, make mention of the colt only.

Rhem. 1. 8. Garments in the way.) Theſe offices of honour done to our Sauiour extraordinarily, were very acceptable: and for a memory hereof the holy Church maketh a ſolemne Proceſſion euery yere vpõ this day, ſpecially in our Countrey when it was Catholike, with the B. Sacrament reuerently caried, as it were Chriſt vpon the aſſe, and ſtrawing of rushes and flowres, bearing of palmes, ſetting vp boughes, ſpredding and hanging vp the richeſt clothes, the quire and queriſters ſinging as here the children and the people, all done in a very goodly ceremonie to the honour of Chriſt and the memorie of his triumphe vpon this day. The like ſeruice and the like duties done to him in al other ſolemne Proceſſions of the B. Sacrament, and otherwiſe, be vndoubtedly no leſſe grateful. Proceſſion on Palme-ſunday with the B. Sacrament. Al deuoute offices in ỹ kind, exceeding grateful.

Fulke. 1. Your Palme ſunday proceſſion was horrible Idolatrie, and abuſing of the Lords inſtitution, who ordeined his Supper to be eaten & drunken, not to be caried about in proceſſion like an heathenish idole. But it is pretie ſport, that you make ỹ Prieſt that carieth this Idole, to ſupplie the roome of the Aſſe, on which Chriſt did ride. Thus you turne the holy myſterie of Chriſts riding to Ieruſalem, to a Maygame and pageant play. And yet you ſay, ſuch ſeruice done to Chriſt, is vndoubtedly exceeding grateful, yea no leſſe grateful, then that was done by his diſciples at this time mentioned in the text. Your Argument and proofe is none, but your bare aſſeueration. That which Proceſſion on Palme ſunday.

which his Diſciples did, had the warrant of the holie Scripture, but who hath required theſe theatricall pompes at your handes? or what word of God haue you, to aſſure you, that he accepteth ſuch will-worſhip? who deteſteth all worſhip which is according to the doctrines and tradition of men, and not after his owne commaundement. Mat. 15. Eſa. 29. Deut. 12. 32.

Rhem. 2. 9. Hoſanna.) Theſe very words of ioyful crie and triumphant voice of gratulation to our Sauiour, holy Church vſeth alwaies in the Preface of the Maſſe, as it were the voice of the Prieſt and al the people (who then ſpecially are attent and deuout) immediatly before the Conſecration and Eleuation, as is were expecting, and reioycing at his comming. HOSANNA.

Fulke. 2. Holy words prophanely abuſed, of them that expect a third comming of Chriſt in perſon, whuch the Scripture doth not teach, that maketh mention but of two commings of Chriſt, the one in humilitie to our redemption, the other in glorie to iudgement. And as for the attention and deuotion of the people, that you ſpeake of, they can haue none of thoſe matters which they vnderſtand nor. And though ſome haue a blinde and ſuperſtitious affection, yet the common ſort be walking about the Church, and prating, euen in Maſſe time, vntill the tingling of your ſacring Bell, call them to worſhip your Idoll. Sacring of the Maſſe.

Rhem. 3. 13. Houſe of prayer.) Note here that he calleth external ſacrifice (out of the Prophets Eſay) prayer. For he ſpeaketh of the Temple, which was builded properly and principally for ſacrifice.

Fulke 3. The Temple was not builded properly and principally for ſacrifice, but for prayer, as both this text doth teſtifie, and Salomon in his prayer at the dedication of the Temple 1. Reg 8. The externall ceremonie of ſacrifice, wout faithful prayer, was nothing worth, but prayer without ſacrifice, was alwaies acceptable vnto God. Pſal 50.

Rhem. 4. 16. Mouth of infants.) Yong childrens prayers proceding from the inſtinct of Gods ſpirit, be acceptable: and ſo the voices of the like, or of other ſimple folke now in the Church, though themſelues vnderſtand not particularly what they ſay, be marueilous grateful to Chriſt. Prayers not vnderſtood of the partie, are acceptable.

Fulke 4. The children that by inſtinct of Gods ſpirite, cried in the Temple, Hoſanna in the higheſt, ſpake in the Syrian tongue which they vnderſtood, and alſo knew that they ſaluted our Sauiour Chriſt, as their Meſſias, whoſe comming they were taught according to the Scriptures, to looke for: although they vnderſtood not diſtinctly all myſteries of Chriſts office, which none of his Apoſtles did throughly know, at this time. Therefore this is a beaſtly concluſion of yours, ergo praiers not vnderſtood of the partie, are acceptable to Chriſt. If you vrge the words of the Pſalme, which nameth infants and ſucklings that can neither ſpeak nor vnderſtand, the meaning is not, that they praiſe God with their voice: but that the prouidence of God to his great praiſe, is manifeſt out of their mouthes, to whom he hath prouided meate, before they were borne, and in that great weakenes & ignorance, taught them to take it for their ſuſtenance, and call for it in their crying voice, when they lacke it. So that our Sauiour Chriſt, out of that text reaſoneth from the leſſe to the more, if God ordained his praiſe out of infants and ſucklings, that can not ſpeake or vnderſtand, how much more out of theſe, that can ſpeake, & haue ſome vnderſtanding? Prayers not vnderſtoode.

Rhem. 5. 22. Beleeuing.) In reſpect of our owne vnworthineſſe, and of the thing not alwaies expedient for vs, we may wel doubt when we pray, whether we ſhal obtaine or no: but on Gods part we muſt beleeue, that is, we muſt haue no diffidence or miſtruſt either of his power or of his will, if we be worthy, & the thing expedient. And therfore S. Marke hath thus, Haue ye faith of God. Marc. 11. 22.

Fulke. 5. In reſpect of our owne vnworthines, we are vtterly out of all hope, to obteine any thing that we pray for, and therefore pray not at al in reſpect of our worthines, but we pray in faith of Gods promiſes, which of his free grace, he hath made vnto vs, for the worthines of Chriſt Ieſus. Neither muſt we doubt of the expedience of thoſe things which he hath promiſed, and will performe in time and maner, which by his wiſedome he ſeeeth to be conuenient. But for ſuch particular things, as he hath made no expreſſe promiſe to graunt them, we muſt pray with ſubmiſſion of our requeſt vnto his will, nothing doubting, but he will graunt whatſoeuer is for his glorie, and our benefite to receiue. If we were worthy, we neede not humbly entreat his mercie, but challenge all things of his iuſtice. Prayer in faith.

Rhem. 6. 23. In what power.) The Heretikes preſumptuouſly thinke them ſelues in this point like to Chriſt, becauſe they are asked, in what power they come, and who ſent them: but when they haue anſwered this queſtion as fully as Chriſt did here by that which he inſinuateth of Iohns teſtimonie for his authoritie, they ſhal be heard, and til then they ſhal be ſtil taken for thoſe of whom God ſpeaketh by the Prophete, They ranne, and I ſent them not. Heretikes run, not ſent. Ier. 23.

Fulke 6. Though Heretikes runne vnſent, yet (God be praiſed) we haue inward calling of God, and outward calling of the Church, which is ſufficient to warrant our miniſterie, both to our ſelues, and to all true members of the Church of Chriſt, though the malignant broode of Antichriſt will not acknowledge our office and calling, to their owne confuſion. Lawfull calling.

Rhem. 28. The firſt.) The firſt ſonne here is the people of the Gentils, becauſe Gentility was before there was a peculiar and choſen people of the Iewes. and therfore the Iewes here as the later, are ſignified by the other ſonne.

CHAP. XXII.

Yet by one other parable he foreſheweth the moſt deſerued reprobation of the earthly and perſecuting Iewes, and the gratious vocation of the Gentils in their place. 15 Then he defeateth the ſnare of the Phariſees and Herodians about paying tribute to Ceſar. 23 He anſwereth alſo the inuention of the Sadducees againſt the Reſurrection: 34 and a queſtion that the Phariſees aske to proue him: turning and puſſing them againe, becauſe they imagined that Chriſt ſhould be no more then a man: 46 and ſo he putteth al the buſy Sectes to ſilence.

AND IESVS anſwering, ſpake againe in parables to them, ſaying:

8 Then he ſaith to his ſeruants, The mariage in deede is ready: but they that were inuited, were not worthie.

9 Goe ye therfore into the high wayes: and whoſoeuer you ſhall finde, call to the mariage.

10 And his ſeruants going forth into the wayes, gathered together al that they found, ‡ bad and good: and the mariage was filled with gheſtes.

17 Tel vs therfore what is thy opinion, is it lawful to giue tribute to Cæſar, or not?

18 But IESVS knowing their naughtines, ſaid, what doe you tempt me Hypocrites?

4 Againe he ſent forth other ſeruants, ſaying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I haue prepared my dinner, my Oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come vnto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their wayes, one to his farme, another to his marchandize:

6 And the remnant tooke his ſeruantes, and entreated them ſpitefully, and ſlue them.

7 But when the king heard therof, he was wroth, and when he had ſent forth his armies, he deſtroyed thoſe murderers, and burnt vp their citie.

8 Then ſaith he to his ſeruants, The marriage in deede is prepared, but they which were bidden, were not worthie.

9 Goe ye therefore out into the high wayes, and as many as ye ſhall finde, bid to the marriage.

10 And the ſeruants went out into the high wayes, and gathered together all, as many as they founde, both good and bad, and the wedding was furniſhed with gheſtes.

11 When the king came in to ſee the gheſtes, he ſpied there a man, which had not on a wedding garment,

12 And he ſaith vnto him, Friend, howe cameſt thou in hither, not hauing a wedding garment? And he was euen ſpeachleſſe.

13 Then ſaide the king to the miniſters, When ye haue bound him hand and foote, take him vp, and caſt him into vtter darkneſſe, * there ſhal be weeping, and gnaſning of teeth.* Mat.13.42. & 25.30.

28 Therefore in the reſurrection whoſe wife ſhall ſhe be of the ſeuen? For they all had her.

29 Ieſus anſwered, and ſayd vnto them, Ye doe erre, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the reſurrection they neither marry, nor are giuen in marriage, but are as the Angels of God in heauen.

31 But as touching the reſurrection of the dead, haue ye not read that which was ſpoken vnto you of God, which ſayth,

*32 * I am the God of Abraham, and the* Exod.3.6. God of Iſahac, and the God of Iacob? God is not the God of the dead but of the liuing.

33 And when the multitudes heard this, they were aſtonied at his doctrine.

*34 * But when the Phariſees had heard that* Mark.12.28 he had put the Sadducees to ſilence, they were gathered together.

35 Then one of them, which was a Lawyer, asked him a queſtion, tempting him, and ſaying, 38 This is the firſt and great commaundement.

*39 And the ſecond is like vnto it, * Thou* Leui.19.18. ſhalt loue thy neighbour as thy ſelfe. mar.12.31.

42 Saying, what is your opinion of Chriſt? whoſe ſonne is he? They ſay to him, Dauids.

43 He ſaith to them, Howe then doth Dauid in ſpirit cal him Lord, ſaying, Pſ.109.1. 44 The Lord ſayd to my Lord, ſite on my right hand, vntil I put thine enemies the foote ſtole of thy feete?

45 If Dauid therefore cal him Lord, how is he his ſonne?

46 And no man coulde anſwer him a word: neither durſt any man from that day aske him any more.

ther, Ieſus asked them,

42 Saying What thinke ye of Chriſt? whoſe ſonne is he? They ſayd vnto him, The ſonne of Dauid.

43 He ſayth vnto them, How then doth Dauid in ſpirit call him Lord, ſaying, 44 The Lord ſayd vnto my Lord, * Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footſtoole? Pſal.110.1.

45 If Dauid then call him Lord, how is he then his ſonne?

46 And no man was able to anſwere him a word, neither durſt any man (from that day) aske him any more queſtions.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXII.

Rhem. 2. Mariage.) Then did God the father make this mariage, when by the myſterie of the Incarnation he ioyned to his ſonne our Lord, the holy Church for his ſpouſe. Greg hom.38.

3. Seruants.) The firſt ſeruants here ſent to inuite, were the Prophets: the ſecond, were the Apoſtles: and al that afterward conuerted countries, or that haue and doe reconcile men to the Church.

Rhem.1. 5. One to his farme.) Such as refuſe to be reconciled to Chriſtes Church, alleage often vaine impediments and worldly excuſe, which at the day of iudgement wil not ſerue them. Worldly excuſes againſt reconciliation.

Fulke 1. This is rightly noted, if you ment the true Church of Chriſt, but your intent is of traiterous reconciling to Antichriſt, and the See of Rome.

Rhem.2. 11. A man not attyred.) It profiteth not much to be within the Church and to be a Catholike, except a man be of good life, for ſuch an one ſhal be damned, becauſe with faith he hath not good workes: as is euident by the example of this man, who was within, and at the feaſt as the reſt, but lacked the garment of charitie and good workes. And by this man are repreſented al the bad that are called, and therefore they alſo are in the Church, as this man was at the feaſt: but becauſe he was called, and yet none of the elect, it is euident that the Church doth not conſiſt of the elect only, contrary to our Aduerſaries. The Church conſiſteth of good and bad.

Fulke 2. He that hath not good workes, hath not a true, liuely, and onely iuſtifying faith. The viſible Church, hath both elect and reprobate in it. But the Catholike Church inuiſible, which is the bodie of Chriſt, conſiſteth only of Gods elect, the true members of his bodie. This you know right well, but that you are diſpoſed to ſlander vs, whereſoeuer you can take occaſion to blinde the ignorant, by ambiguitie, generalitie, or double vnderſtanding of any worde. The Catholike Church of Chriſt. Slander.

Rhem.3. 21. To Cæſar.) Temporal duties and payments exacted by worldly Princes muſt be payed, ſo that God be not defrauded of his more ſouereine dutie. And therfore Princes haue to take heede, how they exact: and others, how they geue to Cæſar, that is, to their Prince, the things that are dewe to God, that is, to his Eccleſiaſtical Miniſters. Wherevpon S. Athanaſius reciteth theſe goodly wordes out of an epiſtle of the ancient and famous Confeſſor Oſius Cordubenſis to Conſtantius the Arian Emperour: Ceaſe I beſeech thee, and remember that thou art mortal, feare the day of iudgement, intermedle not with Eccleſiaſtical matters, neither doe thou commaund vs in this kinde, but rather learne them of vs. to thee God hath committed the Empire, ſo vs he hath committed the things that belong to the Church: and as he that with malicious eies carpeth thine Empire, gainſayeth the ordinance of God: ſo doe thou alſo beware, leſt in drawing vnto thee Eccleſiaſtical matters, thou be made guiltie of a great crime. It is written, Geue ye the things that are Cæſars, to Cæſar: and the things that are Gods, to God. Therefore neither is it lawful for vs in earth to hold the Empire, neither haſt thou (O Emperour) power ouer incenſe and ſacred things. Athan.Ep.ad Solit.vitam agentes. And S. Ambroſe to Valentinian the Emperour (who by the il counſel of his mother Iuſtina an Arian, required of S. Ambroſe to haue one Church in Millan deputed to the Arian Heretikes) ſayth: we pay that which is Cæſars, to Cæſar: and that which is Gods, to God. Tribute is Cæſars, it is not denied: the Church is Gods, is not verely be yelded to Cæſar: becauſe the Temple of God can not be Cæſars right, which no man can deny but it is ſpoken with the honour of the Emperour. for what is more honorable then that the Emperour be ſaide to be the ſonne of the Church? For a good Emperour is within the Church, not aboue the Church Ambr.lib.5.Epiſt.Orat.de Baſil.trad. Neither muſt temporal Princes exact, nor their Subiects giue vnto them, Eccleſiaſtical iuriſdiction.

Fulke 3. Ciuill Princes and Magiſtrates, ought not to vſurpe Eccleſiaſticall offices of preaching, miniſtring the Sacraments, excommunication, or ſuch like: but they ought to commaund and prouide by lawes, that theſe things be done aecording to the word of God, and to puniſh the offendors. The ſaying of Oſius, cited by Athanaſius, is againſt Conſtantius, that would determine by his imperiall authoritie, contrary to the Scriptures and the conſent of the generall Councell of Nice, that Chriſt is not eternall God equall with his father. In ſuch caſes, nothing is to be yeelded to temporall Princes. Likewiſe, where the Emperour would haue a Church granted to the Heretikes, Ambroſe was not to yeelde, becauſe it is againſt the word of God: that Heretikes ſhould be allowed their aſſemblies: yet of the place of their aſſemblie, he ſaith. Volens nunquam ius deſeram, coactus repugnare non noui. Willingly I will neuer forſake the right, being compelled, I haue not learned to reſiſt. And where he ſayth, a good Emperour is not aboue the Church, he meaneth, he hath no authoritie to alter any article of faith, or rule of religion and doctrine, giuen to the Church by God. But he is ouer the Church to protect it, to maintaine the truth of faith and religion by his authoritie, and to puniſh all offendors, whether they be of the ſtate Eccleſiaſticall or ciuill. And therein he ſerueth God (as S. Auguſtine ſayth of kings) when he doth thoſe things, which none can doe but Kings. Ep.50. He ſerueth as a king (ſayth he) in making lawes, commanding Authoritie of Princes.

ding luſt things, forbidding the contrary, as Ezechias ſerued God, deſtroying the groues and temples of Idols. Againe, what man well in his wits, would ſay to Kings, take no care who in your kingdome maineyneth or oppreſſeth the Church of your Lord God, lest it not pertaine to you, who within your dominion, will be religious or ſacrilegious. So did Conſtantine ỹ great call Councels, and ſit in them himſelfe, Euſeb. de vita Conſt. lib. 1. & lib. 3. Eccl. hi. lib. 10. cap. 5. Athanaſius him ſelfe was commaunded by him, in cauſes pertayning to his duetie and cleering of him ſelfe from crimes obiected in a Councell called by the Emperour, Socrates lib. 1. c. 27. 28. 34.

Rhem. 4. 30. As Angels.) As Chriſt proueth here, that in heauen they neither marry nor are married, becauſe there they ſhalbe as Angels: by the very ſame reaſon, is proued, that Saints may heare our prayers and helpe vs, be they neere or farre of, becauſe the Angels doe ſo, and in euery moments are preſent where they liſt, and neede not to be neere vs, when they heare or helpe vs. The Saintes heare our prayers.

Fulke. 4. Our Sauiour Chriſt ſpeaketh not of the ſtate of the ſoules departed at this time, but after the reſurrection, and therefore your argument is a moſt abſurd cóclusion, euen like your doctrine. Againe, Chriſt doth not in al pointes, compare the Saintes after the reſurrection to Angels, for then they ſhoulde be inuiſible, and without bodies, as the Angels are: but in that they haue no neede, or vſe of mariage. Beſide, it is falſe that you ſay, the Angels may be preſent in euery moment where they liſt: for they cannot be in more places at once, then one, neither are they where they liſt, but where God appointeth them. Didymus de ſpiritu ſancto lib. 1. Angels. Saintes.

Rhem. 5. 30. As Angels.) Not to marry nor be married, is to be like to Angels: therefore is the ſtate of Religious men and women and Prieſtes, for not marrying, worthily called of the Fathers, an Angelical life. Cyp. lib. 2. de diſcipl. & hab. Virg. ſub finem. Religious ſingle life, Angelicall.

Fulke. 5. True virginitie, ſuch as Paul commendeth in this point of not marying, reſembleth the Angels, and thereof ſpeake the auncient fathers, not of the filthie life of your popiſh cloyſterers, and vnchaſt prieſts, who in not marying when they cannot liue chaſtly, reſemble the deuils, who are alſo vnmaried.

Rhem. 6. 32. Of the dead.) S. Hierome by this place diſproueth the Heretike Vigilantius, and in him theſe of our time, which to diminiſh the honour of Saintes, call them of purpoſe, dead men.

Fulke. 6. The Saintes departed out of this life, ſtil liue vnto God, yet are they in the Scripture oftentimes called dead men, and euen in this place of the reſurrection of the dead. Therefore it is no diſhonour, to call them as the Scripture calleth them. But it is a great diſhonour to them, to honour them as Idoles, and to robbe God of his honour, to beſtowe it vpon them, as Papiſts doe, who in a maner in all things, match them with Chriſt our onely Sauiour, which is onely worthie of all honour and glory, Apoc. 7. 10. Honour of Saintes.

Rhem. 7. 40. On theſe two.) Hereby it is euident that all dependeth not vpon faith onely, but much more vpon charitie, (though faith be the firſt) which is the loue of God and of our neighbour, which is the ſumme of all the Lawe and the Prophets: becauſe he that hath this double charitie expreſſed here by theſe two principal commaundements, fulfilleth and accompliſheth all that is commaunded in the Lawe and the Prophets. Not onely faith.

Fulke. 7. We ſay not, that all the Lawe, and the Prophets, depend vpon faith onely: but contrarywiſe we ſay with S. Paul. The Lawe is not of faith, but the man that hath done thoſe things, ſhall liue by them, Galat. 3. 12. Yet this we ſay with S. Auguſtine The Lawe commaundeth, and faith obteineth, de nat. & grat. cap. 16. And S. Auguſtine himſelfe ſaith vpon this text. It may be rightly ſaid, that the commandements of God pertaine to only faith, if that faith be not vnderſtood to be a dead faith, but a liuing faith, which worketh by loue, de fide & operibus cap. 22. But if any man fulfill the Lawe, he ſhalbe iuſtified by workes without faith, which ſeeing no man is able to fulfill, the iuſt ſhall liue by faith, Gal. 3. 11. Slander. Iuſtification.

CHAP. XXIII.

The Scribes and Phariſees after all this, continuing ſtill incorrigible, although he will haue the doctrine of their Chaire obeyed, yet againſt their workes (and namely their ambition) he openly inueygheth, crying to them eight woes for their eightfold hypocriſie and blindnes: 34. and ſo concluding with the moſt worthy reprobation of that perſecuting generation and their mother-citie Ieruſalem with her Temple.

The Goſpel vpon Tueſday the ſecond weeke in Lent. Luk. 11. 46. Act. 15. 10.

THen IESVS ſpake to the multitudes and to his diſciples,

2 Saying, Vpon ‖ the chaire of Moyſes haue ſitten the Scribes and the Phariſees.

3 All things therefore ‖ whatſoeuer they ſhall ſay to you, obſerue ye and doe ye: but according to their workes doe ye not, for they ſay and doe not.

4 For * they bind heauy burdens and importable: and put them vpon mens ſhoulders: but with a finger of their owne they will not moue them.

5 But they doe all their workes for to be ſeene of men. for they make broade their ‡ phylacteries, and enlarge their * fringes.

6 And they ‖ loue the firſt places at ſuppers, and * the firſt chaires in ỹ Synagogues,

7 And ſalutations in the market-place, and to be called of men, Rabbi.

‡ These phylacteries were pieces of parchment, wherein they wrote the ten commaundements, and folded it, and caried it on their forehead before their eyes, imagining groſly and ſuperſtitiously, that so they fulfilled that which is ſaid, Deu. 6. They ſhalbe immoueable before thine eyes. Hiero. in 23. Mat. Deu. 22. 12. Nu. 15. 38.

THen ſpake Ieſus to the multitudes, and to his diſciples,

3 All therefore whatſoeuer they bid you obſerue, that obſerue and doe, but doe not ye after their workes: for they ſay, and doe not.

*4 * Yea, they bind together heauy burdens, and grieuous to be borne, and lay them on mens ſhoulders, but they them ſelues will not moue them with* one of their fingers. Luke 11. 46. actes 16. 10.

*5 All their workes they doe, for to be ſeene of men: * they make broade their phylacteries, and enlarge the hemmes of their garments,* Num. 15. 38. deut. 6. 8.

*6 * And loue the vppermoſt ſeates at feaſtes, and to ſitte in the chiefe place in the Synagogues,* Mark. 12. 38. luke 11. 43.

*7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, * Rabbi, Rabbi,* Iames 3. 2.

8 But

8 But be not you called Rabbi. for ‖ one is your maſter, and all you are brethren.

11 He that is the greater of you, ſhall be your ſeruiteur.

12 And he that exalteth him ſelfe, ſhalbe humbled: and he that humbleth him ſelfe, ſhalbe exalted.

13 But woe to you ‖ Scribes & Phariſees, hypocrites: becauſe you ſhut the kingdome of heauen before men. For your ſelues doe not enter in: and thoſe that are going in, you ſuffer not to enter.

14 Woe to you Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: becauſe you * deuoure widowes houſes, ‖ praying long praiers. for this you ſhall receiue the greater iudgement.

Luke 20.47.

15 Wo to you Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: becauſe you goe rounde about the ſea and the land, to make one proſelyte: and when he is made, you make him the child of hell ‖ double more then your ſelues.

16 Wo to you blind guides, ẏ ſay, whoſoeuer ſhall ſweare by ẏ temple, it is nothing: but he ẏ ſhall ſweare by ẏ gold of ẏ tẽple, is boũd.

17 Ye fooliſh & blind, for whether is greater, the gold, or ẏ temple ẏ ſanctifieth ẏ gold?

18 And whoſoeuer ſhall ſweare by the altar, it is nothing: but whoſoeuer ſhal ſweare by the gift that is vpon it, is bound.

22 And he ẏ ſweareth by heauẽ, ſweareth by ẏ throne of God & by him ẏ ſitteth theron.

23 Wo to you Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: becauſe you tithe mint, and aniſe, and cummin, and haue left the weightier things of the lawe, iudgement, and mercie, and faith. theſe things you ought to haue done, and not to haue omitted thoſe.

24 Blind guides, that ſtraine a gnat, and ſwallowe a camel.

25 Wo to you Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: becauſe you make cleane that on the outſide of the cuppe and diſh: but within ‖ you are full of rapine and vncleannes.

*They are full.

26 Thou blind Phariſee, firſt make cleane the inſide of the cuppe and the diſh, that the outſide may become cleane.

9 And call no man your father vpõ the earth: for one is your father, which is in heauen.* Malac.1.6.

10 Neither be ye called maſters: for one is your maſter, euen Chriſt.

11 He that is greateſt among you, ſhalbe your ſeruant.

*12 * But whoſoeuer ſhall exalt him ſelfe, ſhall be brought lowe, he that humbleth him ſelfe, ſhall be exalted.* Luke 14.11. and 18.14.

*13 * Woe vnto you Scribes and Phariſees hypocrites, for ye ſhut vp the kingdome of heauen before men: ye neither goe in your ſelues, neither ſuffer ye them that come, to enter in.* Luk.11.52.

*14 * Woe vnto you Scribes and Phariſees hypocrites, for ye deuoure widowes houſes, and that vnder a pretence of long prayer, therefore ye ſhall receiue the greater damnation.* Mar.12.40. luke 20.47.

15 Woe vnto you Scribes and Phariſees hypocrites, for ye compaſſe the ſea and the land to make one proſelyte, and when he is become one, ye make him two folde more the childe of hell then ye your ſelues are.

16 Woe be vnto you ye blind guides, for ye ſay, Whoſoeuer ſhall ſweare by the temple, it is nothing, but whoſoeuer ſhall ſweare by the gold of the temple, he is a debter.

17 Ye fooles and blinde, for whether is greater, the golde, or the tẽple that ſanctifieth the gold?

18 And whoſoeuer ſhall ſweare by the altar, it is nothing, but whoſoeuer ſweareth by the gift that is vpon it, he is a debter.

19 Ye fooles and blinde, for whether is greater, the gift, or the altar that ſanctifieth the gift?

22 And he that ſhall ſweare by heauen, ſweareth by the ſeate of God, and by him that ſitteth thereon.

*23 * Woe vnto you Scribes and Phariſees hypocrites, for ye tithe mint, and anniſe, and cummin, & haue left the weightier matters of the law, iudgement, mercie, & faith: theſe ought ye to haue done, & not to leaue the other vndone.* Luke 11.42.

24 Ye blind guides, which ſtraine out a gnat, and ſwalowe a camel.

26 Thou blinde Phariſee, cleanſe firſt that which is within the cup and platter, that the outſide of them may be cleane alſo.

27 Wo to you Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: becauſe you are like to whited ſepulchres, which outwardly appeare vnto men beautifull, but within are full of dead mens bones, and all filthineſſe.

28 So you alſo outwardly in deede ‖ appeare to men iuſt: but inwardly you are full of hypocriſie and iniquitie.

31 Therfore you are a teſtimonie to your owne ſelues, that you are the ſonnes of them that killed the Prophets.

32 And fill you vp the meaſure of your fathers.

33 You ſerpents, vipers broodes, how wil you flee from the iudgement of hell?

The Goſpel vpon S. Steuens day, December. 26.

34 Therfore behold I ſend vnto you Prophets and wiſe men and ſcribes, and of them you ſhall kill and crucifie, and of them you ſhall ſcourge in your Synagogues, and perſecute from citie into citie:

35 That vpon you may come all the iuſt blood that was ſhed vpon the earth, from the blood of * Abel the iuſt euen vnto the blood of * Zacharias the ſonne of Barachias, whom you murdered betwene ỹ temple & the altar.

Gene. 4, 8. 2. Par. 24, 22.

36 Amen I ſay to you, al theſe things ſhal come vpon this generation.

37 * Hieruſalẽ, Hieruſalẽ, which killeſt the Prophets, & ſtoneſt them ỹ were ſent to thee, how oftẽ would I gather together thy childrẽ as ỹ hen doeth gather together her chickens vnder her wings, and thou ‡ wouldeſt not?

38 Beholde, your houſe ſhalbe left deſert to you.

39 For I ſay to you, you ſhall not ſee me frõ hence forth till you ſay, Bleſſed is he that commeth in the name of our Lord.

27 Woe vnto you Scribes and Phariſees hypocrites, for ye are like vnto painted ſepulchres, which in deede appeare beautifull outward, but are within full of dead mens bones, and of all filthineſſe.

28 Euen ſo, ye alſo outwardly appeare righteous vnto men: but within ye are full of hypocriſie and iniquitie.

29 Woe vnto you Scribes and Phariſees hypocrites, becauſe ye builde the tombes of the Prophets, and garniſh the ſepulchres of the righteous,

30 And ſay, If we had bene in the dayes of our fathers, we would not haue bene partners with thẽ in the blood of the prophets.

31 Wherefore ye be witneſſes vnto your ſelues, that ye are the children of them which killed the Prophets, 32 Fulfill ye alſo the meaſure of your fathers.

33 Te ſerpents, ye generation of vipers, howe will ye eſcape the damnation of hell?

34 Wherefore beholde, I ſend vnto you Prophets, and wiſe men, and Scribes, & ſome of them ye ſhall kill and crucifie, and ſome of them ſhall ye ſcourge in your Synagogues, and perſecute them from citie to citie:

*35 * That vpon you may come al the righteous blood ſhed vpon the earth, from the blood of that righteous Abel. vnto the blood of Zacharias, ſonne of Barachias, whom * ye ſlewe betweene the temple and the altar.*

Gene. 4. 8. Hebr. 11. 4. 2. chr. 24. 22.

36 Verily I ſay vnto you, All theſe things ſhall come vpon this generation.

*37 * O Hieruſalem, Hieruſalem, thou that killeſt the Prophets, and ſtoneſt them which haue bene ſent vnto thee, how often would * I haue gathered thy children together, euen as a henne gathereth her chickens vnder her wings, and ye would not?*

Luke 13. 34. 4. Eſdr. 1. 30.

38 Behold, your houſe is left vnto you deſolate.

39 For I ſay vnto you, ye ſhall by no meanes ſee me henceforth, till that ye ſhall ſay, Bleſſed is he that commeth in the name of the Lord.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXIII.

Rhem. 1. 2. Chaire of Moyſes.) God preſerueth the truth of Chriſtian religion in the Apoſtolike See of Rome, which is in the new Law anſwearable to the chaire of Moyſes, notwithſtanding the Biſhops of the ſame were neuer ſo wicked of life: yea though ſome traitour, as ill as Iudas were biſhop thereof, it ſhould not be preiudiciall to the Church and innocent Chriſtians, for whõ our Lord prouiding ſaid, Doe that which they ſay, but doe not as they doe. Auguſt. Epiſt. 165.

The See of Rome preſerued in truth.

Fulke. 1. S. Auguſtine ſaith not, that God preſerueth ỹ trueth of Chriſtian religion, in the Apoſtolike See of Rome, but ſheweth ỹ ſo long as ỹ trueth of Chriſtian religion is maintained, we muſt not depart frõ ỹ vnitie of ỹ Church for ỹ euill life of ỹ teachers or Biſhops. He anſwereth an epiſtle of a Donatiſt vnto Generoſus, wherin was declared ỹ order of Biſhops, in a certaine citie, frõ Donatus ỹ auctor of ỹ ſchiſme. Whereupon S. Auguſtine ſaith, Si ordo, &c. If the order of Biſhops ſucceeding one another be to be conſidered, how much more certeynely and indeede holſomely do we number from Peter, to whom bearing the figure of the whole Church, our Lord ſaith, vpon this rocke I will build my Church, and the gates of hell ſhall not ouercome it: for to Peter ſucceeded Linus, &c. And ſo forth he nameth the Biſhops to Anaſtaſius, amõg which he ſaith, there was neuer a Biſhop ỹ was a Donatiſt: but ouerthwart out of Africa, they ſent one ordeined, which gouerning ouer a few Africans in the citie of Rome, enlarged the terme of Mõtenſes, or Cuzupitæ. But into ỹ order of Biſhops, which is brought frõ Peter himſelf, vnto Anaſtaſius, which now occupieth ỹ ſame chaire, Succeſſion of Biſhops.

although any betrayer had crept in, in thoſe times, it ſhould not haue preiudiced the Church, and innocent Chriſtians, for whom our Lorde prouiding, ſaith of euill prelates or gouernours: doe ye thoſe things which they ſay, but doe not thoſe things which they doe. Theſe be his wordes, by which his meaning is plaine, that the wicked life of teachers, infecteth not the whole Church, nor any innocent Chriſtian, but that ſo long as they ſit in Peters, or Moſes, or Chriſtes chaire, that is, teach that which Moſes, Chriſt, and Peter taught, they are to be heard, and the vnitie of the Church not to be forſaken for their euill life. He ſaith not, that whoſoeuer ſhalbe Biſhop of Rome, cannot erre in doctrine, or we may ſafely beleeue whatſoeuer the Biſhop of Rome ſayth, becauſe he ſitteth in Peters chaire. For Chriſt biddeth not the Iewes to doe whatſoeuer the Scribes and Phariſees ſaid (for they ſaid Corban, which was contrary to Gods commaundement, Mat. 15. and many other things contrary to Gods lawe, mat. 5.) but onely ſo long as they ſate in Moſes chaire, and taught the ſame doctrine, which Moſes deliuered in the lawe: for they ſate not in Moſes chaire, but in their owne chaire, when they taught their owne traditions, and falſe doctrines.

Rhem. 2. 3. Whatſoeuer they ſhall ſay.) Why (ſayth S. Auguſtine) doeſt thou call the Apoſtolike Chaire the chaire of peſtilence? If for the men, why? Did our Lord Ieſus Chriſt for the Phariſees, any wrong to the Chaire wherein they ſate? Did he not commend that chaire of Moyſes, and preſeruing the honour of the chaire, reprooue them? For he ſaith: They ſit vpon the Chaire of Moyſes, that which they ſay, doe ye. Theſe things if you did well conſider, you would not for the men why? you defame, blaſpheme the See Apoſtolike, wherewith you do not communicate. And againe he ſayth: Neither for the Phariſees (to whom you compare vs not of wiſedome but of malice) did our Lord commaund the Chaire of Moyſes to be forſaken, in which chaire verely he figured his owne, for he warneth the people to doe that which they ſay, & not to doe that which they doe, and that the holineſſe of the Chaire be in no caſe forſaken, nor the vnitie of the flocke deuided for the naughty Paſtours. The dignitie of the See of Rome, notwithſtanding ſome euill Biſhops thereof. Contra lit. Petil. li. 2. c. 51. Contra lit. Petil. lib. 2. c. 91.

Fulke. 2. S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh againſt a rayling Donatiſt, which called ỹ Apoſtolike chaire, with which the Catholikes in Africa had communion, the chaire of peſtilẽce, being able to charge the Biſhops that ſucceded therein, neither with falſe doctrine, nor with euill life, which if he could haue done, the fault had bin in the men, not in the chaire. Neither doth he ſpeake only of the See of Rome, but alſo nameth expreſly the See of Ieruſalem, and conſequently vnderſtandeth all the Churches planted by the Apoſtles, which reteyned the puritie of doctrine deliuered by the Apoſtles. Therfore he writeth thus: Verumtamen, &c. But if all throughout the whole world, were ſuch as thou doeſt moſt falſly accuſe them, what hath the chaire of the Church of Rome done vnto thee, in which Peter ſate, and at this day ſitteth Anaſtaſius: or the chaire of the Church of Ieruſalem, in which Iames ſate, and at this day Iohn ſitteth, to whom we in the Catholike vnitie are knit, and from whom with wicked raze, you haue ſeperated your ſelues: why calleſt thou the Apoſtolike chaire, the chaire of peſtilence? &c. In ỹ ſecond place which you cite, where S. Auguſtine ſaith, that our Sauiour Chriſt, by the chaire of Moſes, figured his owne chaire, it is euident, that by the chaire, he meaneth not the place where he ſate when he taught, but the doctrine which he taught. Therefore not the dignitie of the See of Rome, but the dignitie of the doctrine of Chriſt, whereſoeuer it be taught, and the continuance, conſent, and vnitie in the ſame, is commended by S. Auguſtine: not appropriated to the See or Biſhop of Rome, any longer, then the Biſhop of Rome teacheth the doctrine of Chriſt, which is the chaire of Chriſt and of Peter. It is not the wicked life of the Pope, onely, nor principally, that declareth him to be Antichriſt, but the doctrine of deuils, which he holdeth, and the exaltation of himſelfe in deuilſh pride aboue Chriſt, and all that is worſhipped: while he arrogateth more to himſelfe, then he alloweth to Chriſt, as in his wicked doctrine of Pardons, Diſpenſations, & ſuch like. For vnder his Bull he pardoneth, that for which ỹ paſſiõ of Chriſt did not make ſatisfaction (as you hold) and diſpenſeth againſt the lawe of God, commaundeth idolatrie, and communion vnder one kinde, directly againſt the commaundements of God and Chriſt, &c. See of Rome. Antichriſt.

Rhem. 6. Loue the firſt places.) He condemneth not due places of Superioritie giuen or taken of men according to their degrees, but ambitious ſeeking for the ſame, and their proud hart and wicked intention, which he ſawe within them, and therefore might boldly reprehend them.

Rhem. 3. 8. One is your maſter.) In the Catholike Church there is one Maſter, Chriſt our Lord, and vnder him one Vicar, with whom all Catholike Doctors and teachers are one, becauſe they teach all one thing, but in Arch-heretikes it is not ſo, where euery one of them is a diuers maſter, and teacheth contrary to the other, and will be called Rabbi and Maſter, euery one of their own Diſciples: Arius a Rabbi among the Arians, Luther amõg the Lutherans, & among the Caluiniſts Caluin. Many maſters are many Arch-heretikes.

Fulke. 3. In the popiſh Church, the Pope is your maſter, of whom you learne that you learne not of Chriſt, & though you did all agree in your hereſie, you were neuer the neerer, but the further from the trueth. Neuertheles, there hath bin, and ſtill are, great diſſentions among you: as of the auctoritie of the Pope, and of the generall Councell, queſtions not yet defined among you. But neither Luther, nor Caluine, deſired to be credited any further, then the worde and the doctrine of Chriſt did warrant them: neither is their auctoritie otherwiſe eſteemed of vs, but ſo farre forth, as it is agreeable to the holy Scriptures. And whereas you haue one Vicar, he is the vicar of Sathan, whoſe doctrine he maintaineth in prohibition of mariage and meates, in commaunding of Idolatrie, and countermaunding of Chriſt. But Chriſt neuer appointed any vicar general, but ſuch as he himſelfe is, euen his holy Spirite the comforter, by whom he is ſtill preſent with his Church, vnto the ende of the world. Vnitie. 1. Tim. 4. 1. Exod. 20. Mat. 16. 27.

Rhem. 4. 10. Maſters.) Wiclefe and the like heretikes of this time, doe hereupon condemne degrees of Schoole and titles of Doctors and Maſters: where they might as well reproue S. Paul for calling him ſelfe Doctor & Maſter of the Gentiles: and for ſaying that there ſhould be alwayes* Doctors in the Church, and where as they bring the other words following, againſt Religious men who are called fathers: as well might they by this place take away the name of carnal fathers, & blame S. Paul for calling him ſelf the only ſpiritual father of the Corinthians, but in deede nothing is here forbidden but the cõtentious diuiſion & perniciouſe of ſuch as make thẽ ſelues Ringleaders of Schiſmes & Sectes, as Donatus, Arius, Luther, Caluin. Doctors, Maſters, and ſpirituall fathers. 1. Tim. 2. 2. Tim. 1. *Eph 4. 1. Cor. 4. 15.

Fulke. 4. It is a ſlander of Wicklefe, and of the godly in this time, though ſome anabaptiſtical ſpirits, or ignorant perſons, imagine ſuch degrees and titles, to be here forbidden. But ſuch doctors, maſters, & fathers are forbidden, as be auctors, teachers, begetters of new doctrines, & religious perſõs, as Frances, Dominik, Layola, & ſuch like. Slander.

Rhem. 5. 13. Scribes and Phariſees.) In all theſe reprehenſions it is much to be noted, that our Sauiour for the honour of Prieſthod neuer reprehendeth Prieſts by that name. Cypr. ep. 65. Whereas our Heretikes vſe this name of purpoſe in reproche and deſpite. The honour of Prieſthod.

Fulke. 5. The Prieſthood of the lawe was of Gods inſtitution, and therefore our Sauiour Chriſt (as S.Cyprian ſaith) kept the honour that was due vnto the Prieſts, but not as you ſay, in that he neuer reprehended Prieſts, by that name. For ſo S.Cyprian ſaith not: And you forget at leſt the Prieſt that paſſed by the wounded man, Luke 10. 13. And was it no reprehenſion of the Prieſtes thinke you? when he ſaid, that he ſhould ſuffer many things of the high Prieſts, and be ſlaine of them, Mat.16.21. Yet he findeth no fault with their name which the Scripture gaue them, no more doe we with the name Prieſt, as it cõmeth of Presbyter, and ſignifieth an Elder: but as it is commonly vſed for a ſacrificing Prieſt, ſuch as the Miniſters of the new Teſtament are not. But rather the ignorance and wicked life of your Popiſh Clergie, hath made the name contemptible to moſt, and odious to ſome, that know not the true etymologie thereof. Honour of Prieſthod.

Rhem. 14. Praying long prayers.) They are not reprehended here for the things themſelues, which for the moſt part are good, as long prayer, making Proſelytes, garniſhing the Prophets ſepulchres, &c. but for their wicked purpoſe and intention, as before is ſaid of faſting, prayers, almes, Mat.6. The intention.

Rhem. 6. 15. Double more.) They that teach that it is ynough to haue only faith, doe make ſuch Chriſtians, as the Iewes did Proſelytes, children of Hel far more then before. Aug. lib. de hæreſ. oper. cap 26. Not only faith.

Fulke. 6. Gods great curſe light on them, that teach a faith voyde of good workes, to be ynough for a Chriſtian man. But you that teach all good works, what Proſelytes doe you make by your Circumcellion Ieſuits, and Seminarie Prieſts, compaſſing ſea and land for them? Somerual, Parry, Throkmorton, Sauage, Babington, and the reſt of thoſe murdering ſpirits, right children of Hel, and of Sathan, that was a murtherer from the beginning. Slander.

Rhem.7. 19. Sanctifieth.) Note that donaries and gifts beſtowed vpon Churches and altars, be ſanctified by dedication to God, and by touching the altar and other holy things: as now ſpecially the veſſels of the ſacrifice and Sacrament of Chriſts body and blood, by touching the ſame, and the altar it ſelf whereupon it is conſecrated. Whereof Theophylact writeth thus vpon this place: In the olde lawe Chriſt permitteth not the gift to be greater then the altar, but with vs the altar is ſanctified by the gift: for the hoſtes by the diuine grace are turned into our Lords body, and therefore is the altar alſo ſanctified by them. The altar is ſanctified by our Lords body therevpon. Theophyl. Mat.23.

Fulke.7. Gifts beſtowed vpon ỹ Church, to the maintenance of true Religion, be ſanctified by dedication vnto God: but gifts offred in ſuperſtition and Idolatrie, are accurſed as the Idols are. Popiſh altars that are ſet vp to ouerthrow the altar of the croſſe, are not holy but curſed. And ſo is all that perteineth to them. Neither haue they protection of the Lords altar that was in the Temple, which was a figure of Chriſts only ſinguler true ſacrifice once offred, and that neuer can be ſacrificed againe, (as S.Auguſtine ſaith.) Neither did the altar of the Temple ſanctifie by touching, for then the murtherer which tooke hold of the hornes of the altar, ſhould be ſanctified, whom God commaunded to be drawne from thence and executed. Exod.21.14.1.Reg.2.28. Neither if any man had offered any other gift then that which God commaunded, had the gift bene made holy by touching the altar, for it was the ordinance of God, by which the altar ſanctified the gift, and not any qualitie in the altar. The ſaying of Theophylact, being a late writer in compariſon of antiquitie, is not ſo greatly to be regarded: whoſe words although they ſeeme to be plaine for Tranſubſtantiation, ſeeing he ſaith, Panes, the loaues of bread by diuine grace, are turned into the Lords body: Yet conſidering he was a biſhop of the Greeke Church which neuer accepted the Popiſh hereſie of Tranſubſtantiation, his meaning is not of any change in ſubſtance, but in vſe of ſuch bread as was offred by the people for the Communion, and to the reliefe of the poore. It is like you are ſicke of the diſeaſe of the Phariſees, which was couetouſnes, (as Chryſoſtome and Theophylact note) by magnifying the gifts of the altar. Holines of gifts and altars. De ſpir. & lit. Cap.11. Cont. Aduerſ. legis & prophet.ca.18. Theophyl. meeth bread, not hoſtes. Tranſubſtantiation.

Rhem.8. 21. By him that dwelleth therein.) By this we ſee that ſwearing by creatures, as by the Goſpel, by Saincts, is al referred to the honour of God, whoſe Goſpel it is, whoſe Saints they are.

Fulke. 8. By this wee ſee, that in ſwearing by creatures, we cannot auoyde ſwearing by God, yet this doeth not iuſtifie ſwearing by creatures. For as the auctor of the imperfect worke that goeth vnder Chryſoſtomes name, ſaith: Idolatram ſe facit, &c. He maketh himſelf an Idolater, whoſoeuer ſweareth by any thing elſe beſide God, and ſinneth double, firſt becauſe he ſweareth, and then becauſe he maketh him God, by whom he ſweareth. In Mat. Hom.12. Swearing by creatures alſo, is condemned by Bede in Mat.5. Swearing by creatures.

Rhem. 28. Appeare to men.) Chriſt might boldly reprehend them ſo often and ſo vehemently for hypocriſie, becauſe he knew their harts and intentions: but we that can not ſee within men, may not preſume to call mens external good doings, hypocriſie: but iudge of men as we ſee and know.

Rhem.9. 29. Garniſh.) Chriſt blameth not the Iewes for adorning the ſepulchres of the Prophets, but enuyeth them of their malice toward him, and of that which by his diuine knowledge he foreſaw, that they would accompliſh the wickednes of their fathers in ſhedding his bloud, as their fathers did the bloud of the Prophets. Hilar.

Fulke. 9. To garniſh the ſepulchres of the Prophets moderatly without ſuperſtition, is not euil of it ſelfe, but this hath commonly bene the maner of hypocrites by the ſubtiltie of Satan, to perſecute the Prophets while they liue, and to make Idols of their bodies when they are dead. The ſepulchres of holy men.

The auctour of the vnperfect worke in Matth. by conference of the other Euangelist saith, That the signe of Christ, is the very bed of Christ, which is to be knowen, by the signe of his body, of them that crucified him. But if it be the signe of the Crosse, it shalbe no confusiоn to them that haue abhorred the superstition and Idolatrie, committed with the signe of Crosse: but rather to them which ouerthrow the true crosse of Christ, that is, ỹ vertue of Christs sacrifice offred vpon the Crosse, which is the only glory of al true Christians: Which thing the Papists doe, by setting vp many Altars and a new sacrifice. As for the signe of the Crosse so it be without superstition, we can abide wel ynough. The signe of the Crosse.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXIIII.

Rhem. 2. Not left.) This was fulfilled 40. yeeres after Christes Ascension by Vespasian the Emperour and his sonne Titus. Eusеb. li.3.c.6. & seq ex Iosepho. Vpon which wordes, There shal not be left, &c. Which threaten the destruction of the Iewes Temple: and these wordes, Vpon this Rocke I will build my Church, Which promise the building of the Catholike Church of al nations: S. Chrysostome making a long comparison of these two prophecies of Christ, saith thus: Thou seest in both, his great and vnspeakable power, in that that he increased and built vp them that worshipped him, and those that stumbled at him, he abased, destroyed, and plucked them vp by the roote. Dost thou see how what soeuer he hath built, no man shal destroy: and what soeuer he hath destroyed, no man shal build? He builded the Church, & no man shal be able to destroy it: he destroyed the Temple, and no man is able to build it, and that in so long time. For they haue endeuoured both to destroy that, and could not: and they haue attempted to build vp this, and they could not doe that neither, &c. The Church can neuer faile. Mat. 16. Li. adu. Gentes quod Christus sit Deus, prope finem.

3. The signe.) Our Master knowing that it was not profitable nor seemely for them to knowe these secrets, gaue them by way of Prophecie, warning of diuers miseries, signes, and tokens, that should fall, some further of, and some neerer the later dayes: by which the faithfull might alwayes prepare themselues, but neuer be certaine of the houre, day, moneth, nor yeere, when it should fal. Aug. Ep. 80.

4. Seduce.) The first and principal warning, needfull for the faithfull from Christes Ascension to the very ende of the world is, that they be not deceiued by Heretikes, which vnder the titles of true teachers and the name of Christ and his Gospel, will seduce many. Heretikes seduce vnder faire titles.

Rhem.3. 5. I am Christ.) Not only such as haue named themselues Christ, as Simon, Menander, and such like: but al Archheretikes be Christes to their followers, Luther to the Lutherans, Caluin to the Caluinists because they beleeue them, rather then Christ speaking in his Church. Luther Luther and Caluine neither named themſelues Chriſt, nor challenged any part of Chriſtes office, or honour to them, but the Pope doth both: aduancing him ſelfe aboue Chriſt, in his blaſphemous pardons and diſpenſations, and in controlling of Chriſtes inſtitution. The Pope in his canon law is called God, Lord God, and God aboue all gods, &c.

Fulke 3.

Rhem. 12. Iniquity abound.) When Hereſie and falſe teachers reigne in the world, namely toward the later day, wicked life aboundeth, and charitie decayeth.

Rhem. 4. 14. Shal be preached.) The Goſpel hath been preached of late yeres, and now is, by holy Religious men of diuers Orders, in ſundry great Countries which neuer heard the Goſpel before, as it is thought. The Goſpel not yet preached to Infidels.

Fulke. 4. The Spaniards haue procured theſe good Preachers of the Goſpell, to picke a quarrell to ſpoile, & by murthering of infinite thouſands, to diſpeople thoſe countries. Witnes their owne countrey man and fellow in religion, Bartholomæus Caſſaus, in his Spaniſh Colonie. Benzo the Italian in hiſt. Noui orbis. The like zeale of religion cauſed them to attempt the inuaſion of this land. But God hath rewarded them according to their wickednes.

Rhem. 5. 15. Abomination of deſolation.) This abomination of deſolation foretold, was firſt partly fulfilled in diuerſe prophanations of the Temple of Hieruſalem, when the ſacrifice and ſeruice of God was taken away, but ſpecially it ſhal be fulfilled by Antichriſt and his Precurſors, when they ſhal aboliſhe the holy Maſſe, which is the Sacrifice of Chriſtes body and blond, and the only ſouerain e worſhip deue to God in his Church: as S. Hyppolytus writeth in theſe wordes: The Churches ſhal Lamen with great lamentation, becauſe there ſhal neither oblation be made, nor incenſe, nor worſhip grateful to God. But the ſacred houſes of Churches ſhal be like to cottages, and the pretious body and blond of Chriſt ſhal not be extant (openly in Churches) in thoſe dayes, the Liturgie (or Maſſe) ſhal be extinguiſhed, the Pſalmodie ſhal ceaſe, the reciting of the Scriptures ſhal not be heard. Hippol. de Antichriſto. By which it is plaine that the Heretikes of theſe daies be the ſpecial fore-runners of Antichriſt. The abomination of deſolation. The aboliſhing of the holy ſacrifice of the Maſſe by Antichriſt and his miniſters.

Fulke. 5. This Hippolytus was not that ancient Martyr, of whome S. Hierome writeth in Catal. but a later fantaſtical fellow, full of fables concerning Antichrit. That he ſhould be no man, but a Deuill in the ſhape of man, that Iohn the Euangeliſt ſhall come with Henoch and Helias, before the comming of Antichriſt. That Antichriſt ſhall bring deuils with him in the ſhape of Angels, and commaund them to cary him vp to heauen, with ſuch like ſtuffe. Yet he doth not expound this abomination, of the aboliſhing of the Maſſe, or the ſacrifice thereof, nor ſpeaketh of either of them: but floriſhing in wordes, as his maner is, foreſheweth the aboliſhing of all Chriſtian religion, which ſhall neuer be, for Chriſt will continue with his Church to the end of the world.

Rhem. 6. 22. Shal be ſhortened.) The reigne of Antichriſt ſhal be ſhort, that is, three yeres and a halfe. Dan. 7. Apoc. 11. Therfore the Heretikes are blaſphemous and ridiculous, that ſay, Chriſtes Vicar is Antichriſt, who hath ſitten theſe 1500. yeres. Antichriſt.

Fulke 6. Chryſoſtome hom. 77. enterpreteth this place of the calamitie of the Iewes, which ſhould haue bene all deſtroied, through the great hatred and indignation of the Romaines, and the text is plaine, agreeing with his expoſition. Yet is the time of Antichriſt but ſhort, in compariſon of the eternall kingdome of Chriſt, as the whole time, betwene the aſcenſion of Chriſt, and his ſecond comming, in the ſame reſpect, is called ſhort. But that the raigne of Antichriſt ſhall be but three yeeres and an halfe, is neither ſaid by Daniel, nor Iohn: For the ſame time, that S. Iohn calleth 42. moneths, in the ſame Chapiter he calleth 3. daies and an halfe, and afterward 1260. daies, and a time, times, and halfe a time, that is, halfe a prophetical weeke, for the comfort of the godlie. Yet may not theſe daies and yeeres, be compted after our vſuall meaſure of time: for that were abſurd, and impoſſible. The reigne of Antichriſt. Cap. 12.

Rhem. 24. Great ſignes.) *Theſe ſignes and miracles ſhal be to the outward appearance only, for S. Paul calleth them * lying ſignes, to ſeduce them only that ſhal periſh. Whereby we ſee that if Heretikes could worke feyned and forged miracles, yet we ought not to beleeue them, much leſſe when they can not ſo much as ſeeme to doe any.* 2. Theſ. 2.

Rhem. 7. 26. In cloſets.) Chriſt hauing made the Churches authority bright and clere to the whole world, warneth the faithful to take heede of Heretikes and Schiſmatikes, which haue their conuenticles aſide in certaine odde places and obſcure corners, alluring curious perſons vnto them. Aug. li. 1. q Euang. q. 38. For as for the comming together of Catholikes to ſerue God in ſecrete places, that is a neceſſary thing in time of perſecution, and was vſed of Chriſtians for three hundred yeres together after Chriſt, and the Apoſtles alſo and diſciples came ſo together in Hieruſalem for feare of the Iewes. And Catholikes doe the ſame at this day in our countries, not drawing religion into corners from the ſociety of the Catholike Church, but practiſing ſecretly the ſame faith, that in al Chriſtendom ſhineth and appeareth moſt gloriouſly.* The ſecrete conuenticles of Heretikes. Catholike Chriſtians ſecretely aſſembling in time of perſecution. * Act. 1, 12.

Fulke 7. The Church of God had no glorious ſhew in the ſight of the world, for three hundred yeeres after Chriſt, when they came together in ſecret places, to ſerue God. Therefore, the glorious pompe of peperie in Italy, Spaine, or France, is not the bright and cleere authoritie of the Church, whereof S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh. For that the Church wanted not for three hundred yeeres together after Chriſt, but in the middeſt of the hotteſt perſecution, reteyned the ſame bright and cleere authoritie, amongſt all true Chriſtians. The Church hidden. The glittering of the Popiſh Church.

Rhem. 8. 29. Immediatly.) If the later day ſhal immediatly folow the perſecution of Antichriſt, which is to endure but three yeres and a halfe, as is aforeſayd: than is it mere blaſphemie to ſay, Gods Vicar is Antichriſt, and that (by their owne limitation) theſe thouſand yeres almoſt. Antichriſt.

Fulke 8. You haue ſaid, that the perſecution of Antichriſt, ſhould endure but three yeeres and a halfe, but you are neuer able to proue it of vſuall yeeres, therefore it is no blaſphemie to ſay, the Pope is Antichriſt, though his tyrannie hath continued almoſt a thouſand yeeres. But rather it is blaſphemie, to ſay the Pope is Gods Vicar: for that importeth God and Chriſt to be abſent from his Church. Otherwiſe the holy Ghoſt ſupplieth the want of his bodily preſence, vntill he come againe to iudgement. Antichriſt.

CHAP. XXV.

Containing his Sermon, he bringeth two parables, of ten Virgins, and of Talents, to ſhew how it ſhal be in Domeſday with the Faithful that prepare, and that prepare not themſelues. 31 Then alſo without parables he ſheweth that ſuch Faithful as doe workes of mercy, ſhal haue for them life euerlaſting: and ſuch as doe not, euerlaſting damnation.

THEN ſhal the kingdom of heauen be like to ten ‖ virgins: which taking their ‖ lampes went forth to meete the bridegrome and the bride.

2 And fiue of them were fooliſh, and fiue wiſe.

3 But the fiue fooliſh, hauing taken their lampes, did not take ‖oile with them:

4 But the wiſe did take oile in their veſſels with the lampes.

5 And the bridegrome tarying long, they ſlumbered al and ſlept.

6 And at midnight there was a clamour made, Behold the bridegrome commeth, goe ye forth to meete him.

7 Then aroſe al thoſe virgins: and they trimmed their lampes.

8 And the fooliſh ſaid to the wiſe, Giue vs of † your oile: becauſe our lampes are going out.

9 The wiſe anſwered, ſaying, Leſt peraduenture there ſuffiſe not for vs and you, goe rather to them that ſel: and bie for your ſelues.

10 And whiles they went to bie, the bridegrome was come: and they that were ready, entred with him to the mariage, and the gate was ſhut.

11 But laſt of al come alſo the other virgins, ſaying: Lord, Lord, open to vs.

12 But he anſwering ſaid, Amen I ſay to you, I know you not.

13 Watch ye therfore, becauſe you know not the day nor the houre.

Luc.19,12. The Goſpel for a Confeſſor that is a Biſhop.

14 For * euen as a man going into a ſtrange countrie, called his ſeruants, and deliuered them his goods.

15 And to one he gaue fiue talents, and to an other two, and to an other one, to euery one according to his propre facultie: & immediatly he tooke his iourney.

16 And he that had receiued the fiue talents, went his way, and occupied with the ſame, and gained other fiue.

17 Likewiſe alſo he that had receiued the two, gained other two.

18 But he that had receiued the one, going his way digged into the earth, and hid his lords money.

19 But after much time the lord of thoſe ſeruants commeth, and made a count with them.

20 And there came he that had receiued the fiue talents, and offred other fiue talents, ſaying, Lord fiue talents thou didſt deliuer

THen ſhall the kingdome of heauen be likened vnto ten virgins, which when they had taken their lampes, went forth to meete the bridegrome.

2 But fiue of them were wiſe, and fiue were fooliſh.

3 They that were fooliſh, when they had taken their lampes, tooke none oyle with them:

4 But the wiſe tooke oyle in their veſſels, with their lampes alſo.

5 While the bridegrome taried, they all ſlumbred and ſlept.

6 And euen at midnight there was a crye made, Behold, the bridegrome commeth, goe ye out to meete him.

7 Then all thoſe virgins aroſe, and prepared their lampes.

8 So the fooliſh ſayde vnto the wiſe, Giue vs of your oyle, for our lampes are gone out.

9 But the wiſe anſwered, ſaying, Not ſo, leſt there be not ynough for vs and you: but goe ye rather to them that ſell, and buy for your ſelues.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegrome came, and they that were ready, went in with him to the mariage, and the doore was ſhut vp.

11 Afterward came alſo the other virgins, ſaying, Lord, Lord, open to vs.

12 But he anſwered, and ſaid, Verily I ſay vnto you, I know you not.

13 * Watch therefore, for ye know neither the day, nor yet the houre, wherein the ſonne of man commeth. Matt.24.43. mar.13.33.

14 * Likewiſe, as when a certaine man taking his iourney into a ſtrange countrey, called his owne ſeruants, and deliuered vnto them his goods. Luke 19.12.

15 And vnto one he gaue fiue talents, to an other two, and to an other one, to euery man after his abilitie, and ſtraightway tooke his iourney.

16 Then he that had receiued the fiue talents, went and occupied with the ſame, & made them other fiue talents.

17 And likewiſe he that had receiued two, he alſo gained other two.

18 But he that had receiued one, went and digged in the earth, and hid his lords money.

19 After a long ſeaſon, the lord of thoſe ſeruants commeth, and reckoneth with them.

20 And ſo he that had receiued fiue talents, came and brought other fiue talents, ſaying, Lord, thou deliueredſt vnto me fiue talents: behold, uer me, behold ‡ I haue gained other fiue beſides.

21 His lord ſaid vnto him: Wel fare thee good and faithfull ſeruant, becauſe thou haſt bene faithfull ouer a few things, I will place thee ouer many things: enter into the ioy of thy lord.

22 And there came alſo he that had receiued the two talents, and ſaid, Lord two talents thou didſt deliuer me: behold I haue gained other two.

23 His lord ſaid to him, wel fare thee good and faithful ſeruant: becauſe thou haſt been faithful ouer a few things, I wil place thee ouer many things, enter into the ioy of thy lord.

24 And he alſo that had receiued the one talent, came forth, and ſaid, Lord, I know that thou art a hard man, thou reapeſt where thou didſt not ſow: and gathereſt where thou ſtrawedſt not:

25 And being afraid I went, and hid thy talent in the earth: behold loe here thou haſt that which thine is.

‡ A terrible example for al ſuch as do not employ the very leaſt gift of God, to his glorie.

26 And his lord anſwering, ſaid to him: ‡Naughtie and ſlothful ſeruant, thou didſt know that I reape where I ſow not, and gather where I ſtrawed not:

27 Thou oughteſt therfore to haue committed my money to the bankers, and comming I might haue receiued mine owne ‖ with vſurie, 28 Take ye away therfore the talent from him, and giue it him that hath ten talents.

Mr.13,12. Lu.8,18.

The Goſpel vpon mundlay the firſt weeke of Lent.

33 And ſhal ſet the ſheepe at his right hand, but the goates at his left.

34 Then ſhal the king ſay to them that ſhal be at his right hand, Come ye bleſſed of my father, poſſeſſe you the kingdom ‖ prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

35 For

behold, I haue gained beſides them, fiue talents moe.

21 His lord ſaid vnto him, Well done, thou good and faithfull ſeruant, thou haſt bene faithfull ouer fewe things, I will make thee ruler ouer many things: enter thou into the ioy of thy lord.

22 He alſo that had receiued two talents, came, and ſaid, Lord, thou deliueredſt vnto me two talents: behold, I haue wonne two other talents beſide them.

23 His lord ſaid vnto him, Well done, good and faithfull ſeruant, thou haſt bene faithfull ouer fewe things, I will make thee ruler ouer many things: enter thou into the ioye of thy lord.

24 Then he which had receiued the one talent, came, and ſaid, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou haſt not ſowen, and gathering where thou haſt not ſtrawed:

25 And therefore was I afraid, and went & hid thy talent in the earth: loe, there thou haſt that thine is.

26 His lord anſwered, and ſaid vnto him, Thou euill and ſlouthfull ſeruant, thou kneweſt that I reape where I ſowed not, & gather where I haue not ſtrawed:

27 Thou oughteſt therefore to haue deliuered my money to the exchangers, and then at my comming ſhould I haue receiued mine owne with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and giue it vnto him which hath ten talents.

32 And before him ſhal be gathered all nations, and he ſhall ſeperate them one from another, as a ſhepheard deuideth his ſheepe from the goates.

33 And he ſhall ſet the ſheepe on his right hand, but the goates on the left.

34 Then ſhall the king ſay vnto them which ſhal be on his right hand, Come ye bleſſed of my father, inherite the kingdome, which hath bene prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

35 For I was an hungred, and ‖ you gaue me to eate: I was a thirſt, and you gauc me to drinke.

36 I was a ſtranger, and you tooke me in: naked, and you couered me: ſicke, and you viſited me. I was in priſon, and you came to me.

37 Then ſhal the iuſt anſwer him, ſaying: Lord, when did we ſee thee an hungred, and fed thee: a thirſt, and gaue thee drinke?

38 And when did we ſee thee a ſtranger, & tooke thee in? or naked, & couered thee?

39 Or when did we ſee thee ſicke or in priſon: and came to thee?

40 And the king anſwering, ſhal ſay to them, Amen I ſay to you, as long as you did it to one of theſe my leaſt brethren, you did it to me.

41 Then he ſhal ſay to them alſo that ſhal be at his left hand, ‖ Get ye away from me you curſed into fire euerlaſting, which was prepared for the Deuil and his angels.

42 For I was an hungred, and you ‖ gaue me not to eate: I was a thirſt, and you gaue me not to drinke.

43 I was a ſtranger, and you tooke me not in: naked, and you couered me not: ſicke, and in priſon, & you did not viſite me.

44 Then they alſo ſhal anſwer him, ſaying, Lord, when did we ſee thee an hungred, or a thirſt, or a ſtranger, or naked, or ſicke, or in priſon: and did not miniſter to thee?

45 Then he ſhal anſwer them, ſaying, Amen I ſay to you, as long as you did it not to one of theſe leſſer, neither did you it to me.

46 And theſe ſhal goe into puniſhment euerlaſting: but the iuſt, into life euerlaſting. ☙

39 Or when ſaxe we thee ſicke, or in priſon, and came vnto thee?

44 Then ſhall they alſo anſwere him, ſaying, Lord, when ſaxe we thee an hungred, or a thirſt, or a ſtranger, or naked, or ſicke, or in priſon, and did not miniſter vnto thee?

45 Then ſhall he anſwere them, ſaying, Verily I ſay vnto you, in as much as ye did it: not to one of the leaſt of theſe, ye did it not to me.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XXV.

Rhem. 1. 8. Your oile.) If we be not in the fauour of God, and haue not our owne merites, we ſhal not be holpen by other mens deſerts at the day of iudgement.

Fulke 1. Chriſtians are in the fauour of God, through the merits of Chriſt. And their iuſtice conſiſteth not of their owne merit, but of the mercie of God. Hierom. cont. Pelag. lib. 1. When the reward ſhall come, he will crowne his gifts, not thy merits, ſayth S. Auguſtine, In Pſal. 70. Conc. 2. Merite.

Rhem. 2. 20. I haue gained.) Free wil with Gods grace doth merite.

Fulke 2. The will, the worke, and the fruite thereof, and faith from whence it floweth, are all the gifts of God, and no merite of man. Our Lord and Sauiour, according to his mercie (ſayth Didymus.) geueth vs all things that may bring vs to ſaluation Lib. 2. De Sp. ſanct. in fine. Freewill.

Rhem. 3. 34. Prepared for.) This kingdom then is prepared for thoſe onely that do good workes: as Chriſt alſo ſignifieth els where, ſaying that it is not in his power to giue it otherwiſe. See the annot. c. 20, 23.

Fulke 3. This kingdome, is prepared for the elect of God, who if they liue vntill by hearing of the word of God, they may haue faith, they are alwaies fruitfull of good workes, though not of theſe here named. For Lazarus the begger, was not able to feede, clothe, or harbour Chriſt, yet was he full of faith, patience, humilitie, praiers, &c. Good workes.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXV.

Rhem. 4. 1. Virgins.) Theſe virgins fiue wiſe, and fiue fooliſh, ſignifie that in the Church militant there be good and bad: which bad ſhal be ſhut out at the later day, although they haue lampes (that is faith) as the other, becauſe their lampes are out, that is, their faith is dead without charity and good workes to lighten them. Greg. ho. 12. Good workes neceſſary.

Fulke.4. They that haue a dead faith, voide of good workes, whether the lampe ſignifie faith or charitie, ſhall not be admitted into the kingdome of heauen. A dead faith.

Rhem. 1. Lampes.) Theſe lampes lighted, be good workes, namely of mercie, and the laudable converſation which ſhineth before men. Aug.epi.120,c.33.

3. Oyle.) This oyle is the right inwarde intention directing our workes to Gods glory, and not to the praiſe of our ſelues in the ſight of men. Aug.epi.120,c.33. Right intention.

27. With vſurie.) Vſurie is here taken for the lawfull gaine that a man getteth by well employing his goods. when God giueth vs any talent or talents, he looketh for vſurie, that is for ſpirituall increaſe of the ſame by our diligence and induſtrie.

29. That which he ſeemeth to haue.) He is ſaide to haue Gods giftes, that vſeth them, and to ſuch an one God will increaſe his giftes. He that vſeth them not, ſeemeth to haue, rather then hath them. and from him God will withdraw that which before he gaue. We muſt vſe Gods giftes.

32. Separate.) Loe here is the ſeparation, for in the Church militant they liued both together. As for Heretikes, they went out of the Church before, and ſeparated themſelues, and therefore are not to be ſeperated here, as being iudged already. Good and bad in the Church.

Rhem.5. 34. Come ye. 41. get ye away.) It is no incongruitie that God ſhould ſay, Goe into euerlaſting fire, to them that by their free will haue repelled his mercie: and to the other, Come ye bleſſed of my father, take the kingdome prepared for them, that by their free will haue receiued faith, and confeſſed their ſinnes and done penance. Aug. lib.2.act. cum Fel. Manich.cap.8. Heauen is the reward of good workes, and Hell of the contrary.

Fulke.5. S. Auguſtine, as he confeſſeth in his retractations, hauing to doe againſt the Manichees, which helde that men were of euill will, by creation of the euill God, defendeth the freedome of will from coaction by nature, and not from the thraldome of ſinne through the firſt mans fall. For euen in ŷ ſame chapter, he writeth vpon the ſaying of S. Paul, I ſee another lawe in my members, reſiſting the lawe of my mind, and bringing me captiue vnder the lawe of ſinne, which is in my members. It is manifeſt that this came of the propagation of the firſt ſinne of Adam, and of euill cuſtome. Againe, that they haue all goodneſſe onely of God, in the ſame place he ſheweth, where he ſaith, of thoſe that by free-will haue receiued the faith of Chriſt. They haue confeſſed their ſinnes, repented, diſpleaſed themſelues, ſuch as they haue bene, and haue pleaſed him, being ſuch as they were made by him. Free-will.

Rhem.6. 35. You gaue me.) Hereby we ſee how much almes-deedes and all workes of mercie preuaile towardes life euerlaſting, and to blot out former ſinnes. Aug.in pſ 49.

Fulke.6. You falſifie S. Auguſtine, he hath no ſuch ſaying vpon that pſalme, but contrariwiſe he ſaith, Hoc ſacrificium, &c. This is the ſacrifice of prayſe, to giue thankes to him of whom thou haſt what ſoeuer thou haſt, and by whoſe mercie, whatſoeuer euill thou haſt of thine owne, is forgiuen thee. Alſo againſt merite of workes he is plentifull vpon that pſalme: yea euen where he ſaith, *The widowe bought as much for two mites, as Peter leauing his nettes, as Zacheus giuing halfe his patrimonie. 3 Then were gathered together ŷ chiefe Prieſts & ancients of ŷ people into the court of the high Prieſt, who was called Caiphas:

*3 Then aſſembled together the chiefe prieſts and the Scribes, and the elders of the people vnto the palace of the high prieſt, which was called Caiaphas, Iohn 11.47.

4 And held a counſell, that they might take Ieſus ſubtilly, and kill him.

5 But they ſaide, Not on the feaſt day, leaſt there be an vprore among the people.

*6 When Ieſus was in Bethanie, in the houſe of Simon the leper, Mar.14.3. iohn 11.2.

7 There came vnto him a woman, hauing an alabaſter-boxe of precious ointment, and powred it out vpon his head as he ſate at the table.

8 And the Diſciples ſeeing it, had indignation ſaying, whereto is ‖ this waſte?

9 For this might haue bin ſold for much, and giuen to the poore.

10 And IESVS knowing it, ſaide to them: why doe you moleſt this womā? for ſhe hath wrought a ‖ good worke vpon me.

11 For the poore you haue alwayes with you: but me ‖ you haue not alwayes.

12 For ſhe in powring this ointment vpon my body: hath done it to burie me.

25 And Iudas that betrayed him, anſwering ſaid, Is it I Rabbi? He ſaith to him, Thou haſt ſaid.

9 This ointment might haue beene ſolde for much, and giuen to the poore.

10 When Ieſus vnderſtood that, he ſaide vnto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for ſhe hath wrought a good worke vpon me.

*11 For ye haue the poore alwayes with you, Deut.15.11 but me ye haue not alwayes.

12 For in that this woman hath caſt this ointment on my body ſhe did it to burie me.

23 He anſwered, and ſaide, He that hath dipped his hand with me in the diſh, the ſame ſhall betray me.

24 The ſonne of man truely goeth as it is written of him: but woe vnto that man by whom the ſonne of man is betrayed: It had beene good for that man if he had not bene borne.

25 Then Iudas, which betrayed him, anſwered, and ſaide, Maſter, is it I? He ſaide vnto him, Thou haſt ſaid.

THVRSDAY night.

30 And an hymne being ſaide, they went forth vnto Mount-oliuet.

The NOCTVRNE of Mattins in the Churches Seruice, anſwereth to this night part of our Sauiours paſſion, and ſo conſequently the other Canonicall houres to the reſt. Zach.13,7. Io.13,38.

31 Then IESVS ſaith to thē, All you ſhall be ſcandalized in me, in this night. For it is written, I will ſtrike the paſtor, and the ſheepe of the flocke ſhalbe diſperſed.

32 But after I ſhall be riſen againe, I will goe before you into Galilee.

33 And Peter anſwering, ſaid to him, Although all ſhalbe ſcandalized in thee, I will neuer be ſcandalized.

34 IESVS ſaid to him, Amen I ſay to thee, that in this night before the cocke crow, thou ſhalt denie me thriſe.

35 *Peter ſaith to him, Yea, though I ſhoulde die with thee, I will not denie thee. Likewiſe alſo ſaid all the Diſciples.

36 Then IESVS commeth with them into a village called Gethſémani: and he ſaide to his Diſciples, Sit you here til I goe yonder, and pray.

37 And taking to him Peter and the two ſonnes of Zebedee, he began to waxe ſorowfull, and to be ſad.

38 Then he ſayth to them: My ſoule is ſorowfull euen vnto death: ſtay here, & watch with me.

39 And being gone forward a litle, he fell vpon his face, praying, and ſaying, My father, if it be poſſible, let this chalice paſſe from me. neuertheleſſe ‖not as I will, but as thou.

40 And he commeth to his diſciples, and findeth them ſleeping, and he ſaith to Peter, Euen ſo? Coulde you not watch one houre with me?

41 ‖Watch ye, and pray that ye enter not into tentation. The ſpirit in deede is prompt, but the fleſh weake.

42 Againe the ſecond time he went, and prayed, ſaying, My father, if this chalice may not paſſe, but I muſt drink it, thy wil be done.

43 And he commeth againe, and findeth them ſleeping: for their eyes were become heauie.

44 And leauing thē, he went againe: & he prayed ỹ third time, ſaying ỹ ſelfe ſame word.

45 Then

27 And when he had taken the cup, and giuen thankes, he gaue it them, ſaying, Drinke ye all of it:

28 For this is my blood of the new teſtament, that is ſhed for many for the remiſſion of ſinnes.

29 But I ſay vnto you, I will in no wiſe drinke hencefoorth of this fruite of the vine-tree, vntill that day when I drinke it newe with you in my fathers kingdome.

30 And whē they had praiſed God, they went out vnto the mount of Oliues.

*31 *Then ſaith Ieſus vnto them, All ye ſhalbe offended becauſe of me this night: For it is writtē, * I will ſmite the ſhepheard, and the ſheepe of the flocke ſhalbe ſcattered abroad.* Mar.14.27. iohn 16,30. Zach.13.7.

*32 But after I am riſen againe, * I will goe before you into Galilee.* Mar.14.28. and 16.7.

33 Peter anſwered, & ſaid vnto him, Though all men ſhall be offended becauſe of thee, yet will I neuer be offended.

*34 Ieſus ſaide vnto him, Verily I ſay vnto thee, that in this ſame night before the cocke crowe, thou ſhalt denie me thriſe. Iohn 13.38.

35 Peter ſaid vnto him, Though I ſhould die with thee, yet will I by no maner of meanes denie thee. Likewiſe alſo ſaid all the diſciples.

*36 Then commeth Ieſus with them vnto a place called Gethſemane, and ſaieth vnto the diſciples, Sitte yee there while I goe and pray yonder. Mar.14.32. luke 22.39.

37 And when he had taken with him Peter, and the two ſonnes of Zebedee, he began to be ſorowfull and heauie.

38 Then ſaide Ieſus vnto them, My ſoule is exceeding heauie, euen vnto the death: tarie ye here, and watch with me.

39 And when he had gone a litle further, he fell flatte on his face, praying, and ſaying, O my father, if it be poſſible, let this cuppe paſſe from me: neuertheleſſe, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 And he commeth vnto the Diſciples, and findeth them a ſleepe, and ſaieth vnto Peter, What, coulde yee not watch with me one houre?

41 Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: The ſpirit in deede is willing, but the fleſh is weake.

42 He went away againe the ſecond time, and prayed, ſaying, O my father, if this cup may not paſſe away from me, except I drinke it, thy will be fulfilled.

43 And whē he came, he findeth them a ſleepe againe: for their eyes were heauie.

44 And he left them, and went againe and prayed the third time, ſaying the ſame wordes.

45 Then hee commeth to his Diſciples, and ſaith to thē, Sleepe ye now and take reſt: beholde ỹ houre approcheth, and the Sonne of man ſhalbe betraied into ỹ hāds of ſinners.

46 Riſe, let vs goe: behold he approcheth that ſhall betray me.

Io.18,3. 47 * As he yet ſpake, behold Iudas one of the Twelue came, and with him a great multitude ẅ ſwordes and clubbes, ſent from the chiefe Prieſts & the auncients of the people.

48 And he that betrayed him, gaue them a ſigne, ſaying, whomſoeuer I ſhall kiſſe, that is he, holde him.

49 And forthwith comming to IESVS, he ſaid, Haile Rabbi. And he kiſſed him.

50 And IESVS ſaid to him, Frend, whereto art thou come? Then they drew neere, and laid hands on IESVS, and held him.

51 And beholde one of them that were with IESVS, ſtretching forth his hand, drew out his ſword: and ſtriking the ſeruant of the high Prieſt, cut of his eare.

52 Then IESVS ſaith to him, Returne thy ſworde into his place: for all that take the ſword, ſhall periſh with the ſword.

53 Thinkeſt thou that I cannot aske my Father: and he will giue me preſently more then twelue legions of Angels?

54 Howe then ſhall the Scriptures be fulfilled, that ſo it muſt be done?

55 In that houre IESVS ſaid to the multitudes: You are come out as it were to a theefe with ſwordes and clubbes to apprehend me: I ſate dayly with you teaching in the temple: and you laid no hands on me.

56 And all this was done, that the Scriptures of the Prophets might be fulfilled. Thē the diſciples all leauing him, fled.

57 But they taking hold of IESVS led him to Caiphas the high Prieſt, where the Scribes and auncients were aſſembled.

58 And Peter folowed him a farre of, euē to the court of the high Prieſt. And going in he ſate ẅ the ſeruants, ỹ he might ſee the end.

59 And the chiefe Prieſts and the whole Councel ſought falſe witnes againſt IESVS, that they might put him to death:

60 And they founde not, whereas many falſe witneſſes had come in. And laſt of all there came two falſe witneſſes:

Io.2,19. 61 And they ſaid, *This man ſaid, I am able to deſtroy the temple of God, and after three dayes to reedifie it.

62 And the high Prieſt ryſing vp, ſaide to him: Anſwereſt thou nothing to the things which theſe doe teſtifie againſt thee?

63 But

45 Then commeth hee to his diſciples, and ſaith vnto them, Sleepe hencefoorth, and take your reſt, beholde, the houre is at hande, and the ſonne of man is betrayed into the handes of ſinners.

46 Riſe, let vs be going: behold, he is at hand that doeth betray me.

*47 While he yet ſpake, loe, Iudas one of the twelue came, and with him a great multitude with ſwordes and ſtaues from the chiefe prieſtes and elders of the people. Mar.14.43. luke 22.47. iohn 18.3.

48 But he that betrayed him, gaue them a token, ſaying, Whomſoeuer I ſhall kiſſe, that ſame is he, hold him faſt.

49 And foorthwith when he came to Ieſus, he ſaid, Haile maſter: and kiſſed him.

50 And Ieſus ſaide vnto him, Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they and laide handes on Ieſus, and tooke him.

51 And behold, one of them which were with Ieſus, ſtretched out his hand, and drew his ſword, and after that he had ſtriken a ſeruant of the hie prieſtes, he ſmote of his eare.

*52 Then ſaide Ieſus vnto him, Turne backe thy ſworde into his place: * for all they that take the ſword, ſhall periſh with the ſword.* Gen.9.6. apoc.13.10.

53 Thinkeſt thou that I cannot nowe pray to my father, and he ſhall cauſe to ſtand by me more then twelue legions of Angels?

*54 But howe then ſhall the ſcriptures be fulfilled, that thus it muſt be? Eſa.53.10.

55 In that ſame houre ſaid Ieſus to the multitudes, Ye be come out as it were vnto a thiefe with ſwords and ſtaues for to take me: I ſate dayly with you teaching in the temple, and ye tooke me not.

*56 But all this was done that the ſcriptures of the Prophets might be fulfilled. * Then all the diſciples hauing forſaken him, fled.* Lamen.4.20 mat.20.31.

*57 But they that had taken Ieſus, led him away to Caiaphas the hie prieſt, where the ſcribes and the elders were aſſembled. mar.4.53. luke 22.54. iohn 18.14.

58 But Peter folowed him a farre off, vnto the hie prieſts palace, & went in, and ſate with the ſeruants to ſee the end.

*59 The chiefe prieſts and elders, and all the counſaile, ſought falſe witneſſe againſt Ieſus, to put him to death, Mar.14.55.

60 But found none: yea, when many falſe witneſſes came, yet found they none. At the laſt came two falſe witneſſes, 61 And ſaid, This felowe *ſaid, I am able to deſtroy the temple of God, and to build it in three dayes. Iohn 2.19.

62 And the chiefe prieſt aroſe, and ſaide vnto him, Anſwereſt thou nothing? What is ỹ which theſe witneſſe againſt thee?

63 But

63 But IESVS helde his peace. And the high Prieſt ſaid to him: I adiure thee by the liuing God, that thou tel vs if thou be Chriſt the Sonne of God.

64 IESVS ſaith to him, Thou haſt ſaide. neuertheles I ſay to you, hereafter you ſhall Dan.7,13. ſee * the Sonne of man ſitting on the right hand of the power of God, and comming in the cloudes of heauen.

65 Then the high Prieſt rent his garmẽts, ſaying, He hath blaſphemed, what neede we witneſſes any further? behold, now you haue heard the blaſphemie, 66 How thinke you? But they anſwering ſaid, He is guiltie of death.

67 Then did they ſpit on his face, & buffeted him, and other ſmote his face with the palmes of their hands,

68 Saying, Prophecie vnto vs O Chriſt: who is he that ſtrooke thee?

69 But Peter ſate without in the court: and there came to him one ‖ wenche, ſaying: Thou alſo waſt with IESVS the Galilean.

70 But he denied before them all, ſaying, I wot not what thou ſayeſt.

71 And as he went out of the gate, an o-other wenche ſaw him, and ſhe ſaith to them that were there, And this felow alſo was with IESVS the Nazarite.

72 And againe he denied with an othe, That I know not the man.

73 And after a litle they came that ſtood by, and ſaid to Peter, Surely thou alſo art of them: for euen thy ſpeach doth bewray thee.

To this time the LAVDES do anſwere in the Churches ſeruice.

74 Then he began ‖ to curſe & to ſweare that he knewe not the man. And incontinent the cocke crewe.

75 And Peter remembred the word of IESVS which he had ſaide, Before the cocke crow, thou ſhalt deny me thriſe. And going forth, ‖ he wept bitterly.

63 But Ieſus held his peace. And the chiefe prieſt anſwered, and ſaid vnto him, I charge thee by the liuing God, that thou tell vs whether thou be Chriſt the ſonne of God?

*64 Ieſus ſaith vnto him, Thou haſt ſaid: Neuertheleſſe, I ſay vnto you, * Hereafter ſhall ye ſee the ſonne of man ſitting on the right hand of the power of God, and comming in the cloudes of the skie.* Matt.16.27. rom.14.10. 1.thes.4.14.

65 Then the hie prieſt rent his clothes, ſaying, He hath ſpoken blaſphemie: what neede we of any moe witneſſes? Beholde, nowe ye haue heard his blaſphemie.

66 What thinke ye? They anſwered and ſaid, He is worthy to die.

*67 Then did they ſpit in his face, and buffeted him with fiſts, and other ſmote him on the face with the palme of their hands, Eſai 50.6.

68 Saying, Prophecie vnto vs, O Chriſt, who is he that ſmote thee?

*69 Peter ſate without in the palace: And a damoſell came vnto him, ſaying, Thou alſo waſt with Ieſus of Galilee. Mar.14.66. luke 22.55. iohn 18.25.

70 But hee denied before them all, ſaying, I wote not what thou ſayeſt.

71 When he was gone out into the porche, an other wench ſawe him, and ſaid vnto them that were there, This felow was alſo with Ieſus of Nazareth.

72 And againe he denied with an othe, I do not know the man.

73 And after a while came vnto him they that ſtoode by, and ſaide to Peter, Surely thou art euen one of them: for thy ſpeach bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to curſe and to ſweare, ſaying, I knowe not the man. And immediately the cocke crew.

75 And Peter remembred the wordes of Ieſu, which ſaid vnto him, Before the cocke crowe, thou ſhalt deny me thriſe. And he went out, and wept bitterly.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XXVI.

Rhem. 1. 13. Shal be reported.) Hereby we learne that the good workes of Saints are to be recorded & ſet forth to their honour in the Church after their death. Whereof riſe their holy dayes and Commemorations.

Fulke. 1. The good works of Saints may be recorded & ſet forth in the Church to the honour of God, without their holy dayes and commemorations. For Chriſt inſtituted no holy day of Mary Magdalen, nor any ſuch matter, as the Popiſh commemorations are, nor commaunded any Image of her fact to be made, but a memorie by preaching the Goſpel. Saints holy dayes.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXVI.

Rhem. 2. 8. This waſt.) Coſt beſtowed vpon Chriſtes body then alive, being to the ſame not neceſſary, ſeemed to the diſciples laſt and fruitles: ſo the like beſtowed vpon the ſame body in the Sacrament, vpon altars, or Churches, ſeemeth to the ſimple loſt, or leſſe meritorious, then if the ſame were beſtowed vpon the poore. Coſt vpon Churches, altars, &c.

Fulke. 2. That which the woman did by ſpeciall inſtinct of the ſpirit of God, was by Gods appointment neceſſary to teſtifie his burial to be at hand. As for the coſt beſtowed vpon the Popiſh Sacrament, ſuppoſe it were the ſame body of Chriſt, yet hauing no maner of vſe of ſuch things, nor he requiring any ſuch thing to be beſtowed on it, were loſt, and might be much better employed on the poore: whom frõ this time forward, he cõmanderh to be fed, clothed, harboured in his ſtead. For he ſhal not ſay, whatſoeuer ye beſtowed vpon the Sacrament, altars, Churches, &c. But whatſoeuer ye did to any of theſe lule ones, ye did it to me. On Churches whatſoeuer is Church ornaments.

more then for conuenience and comlines, were better beſtowed on the poore that neede it.

Rhem. 3. 10. Good works.) Coſt beſtowed for religion, deuotion, and ſignification, is a meritorious worke, and often more meritorious then to giue to the poore, though both be very good, and in ſome caſe the poore are to be preferred: yea in certaine caſes of neceſſitie, the Church will breake the very conſecrated veſſels and iewels of ſiluer and gold, and beſtow them in workes of mercy. But we may remember very wel, and our fathers knew it much better, that the poore were then beſt releeued, when moſt was beſtowed vpon the Church. Releeſe of the poore. Ambroſ. li. 2. Off. c. 28.

Fulke. 3. The worke which the woman did by ſpecial inſtinct of Gods ſpirit, was a good worke, but not meritorious. As for the ſuperſtitious works of them that beautifie Idolatrie with their riches, is neither good, nor meritorious. That which Ambroſe did, the Popiſh Church will not doe, for he brake the veſſels vſed in the myſteries, to redeeme captiues: and ſaith, The Church hath gold, not to keepe it, but to giue it out, and to helpe in neceſſities. What neede we to keepe that which helpeth nothing. Yet with Papiſts gay and precious ſhewes helpe much to deuotion. Yet Ambroſe ſaith further in the perſon of Chriſt: The Sacraments require no golde, neither doe they pleaſe me in golde which are not bought with gold, the ornament of the Sacraments, is the redemption of captiues. If the Papiſts breake their Chalices, it ſhalbe rather to mainteine warre againſt the profeſſours of ỹ Goſpel, then to redeeme Chriſtian captiues out of the hand of the Turkes & miſcreants. Where you ſay the poore were beſt relieued, when moſt was beſtowed on Churches, it is vntrue. Gods name be praiſed, the poore that be impotent in deede, haue better prouiſion for them in ſuch places as the Goſpel is receiued, then euer they had in Popcrie, as the Hoſpitals erected for the orphanes, widowes, aged, and diſeaſed, are a plentifull teſtimonie. Church ornaments. Releiſe of the poore.

Rhem. 4. 11. Haue not.) We haue him not in viſible maner as he conuerſed on the earth with his diſciples, needing releeſe like other poore men: but we haue him after another ſort in the B. Sacrament, and yet haue him truly & really the ſelfe ſame body. Therfore he ſaith, they ſhould not haue him, becauſe they ſhould not ſo haue him, but after an other maner. As when he ſaid Luc. 24. as though he were not then with them, When I was with you. Chriſt alwayes with vs in the B. Sacrament.

Fulke. 4. This vaine new found gloſſe, is confuted by S. Auguſtines auctoritie, vpon the ſame word. Ioh. 12. Tract. 50. Loquebatur de præſentia corporis, &c. He ſpake of the preſence of his body: for according to his maieſtie, according to his vnſpeakable and inuiſible grace, it is fulfilled which he ſaid, I am with you alwayes vnto the ende of the world. But according to the fleſh, which the word tooke vpon him, according to that he was borne of the Virgine, according to that he was apprehended of the Iewes, that he was nailed to the tree, that he was taken downe from the Croſſe, that he was wrapped in linen clothes, that he was layd in the Sepulchre, that he was manifeſted in his reſurrection, You ſhall not alwayes haue me with you. Why ſo? For he was conuerſant with his diſciples 40. dayes, according to the preſence of his body, and they waiting on him by ſeeing, not by following, he aſcended into heauen and he is not here: for there he ſitteth at the right hand of the father. And he is here, for he departed not in the preſence of his Maieſtie. Or els. According to the preſence of his Maieſtie we haue Chriſt alwayes: according to the preſence of his fleſh he ſaid rightly to his diſciples, but me you ſhall not haue alwayes. Likewiſe S. Hierome vpon this place ſaith, Sed mihi videtur, &c. Me thinketh he ſpeaketh of his corporal preſence. S. Bede alſo vpon this place writeth: Se non ſemper, &c. He ſaith he will not alwayes tary with his Apoſtles in preſence of his body, whom he neuer left in part of his diuinitie. And vpon Ioh. 12. he ſaith: Chriſt ſhould remaine with them but a ſhort time corporally. The ancient fathers vnderſtood this, not of the maner of his preſence viſible or inuiſible, but of the preſence of his body in deede, neither euer hard they of that fantaſtical expoſition. The perſons of Chriſts bodie in the Sacrament.

Rhem. 5. 20. Twelue.) It muſt needes be a great myſtery that he was to worke in the inſtitution of the new Sacrifice by the marueilous tranſmutation of bread and wine into his body and bloud. Whereas he admitted none (although many preſent in the citie) but the twelue Apoſtles, which were already taught to beleeue it without contradiction, Io. 6. and were to haue the adminiſtration and conſecration thereof by the Order of Prieſthod, which alſo was there giuen them to that purpoſe. Wherein as the eating of the Paſchal lambe all the familie was wont to be preſent. A wonderful myſterie in the inſtitution of the B. Sacrament.

Fulke. 5. That he ſate downe with the twelue, it foloweth not, that only the twelue were preſent at the Paſcal lambe, but that all the twelue were preſent: Yea by the inſtitution of the Sacrament of the Paſcal lambe, where it is commanded that none of it be reſerued, it is manifeſt that there were more of his diſciples preſent, beſide the twelue. For thirtene perſons could not eate a lambe of a yere old, and not being ſatisfied with that, haue other meate to make vp their ſupper, as it is plaine by dipping the ſoppe in the platter, that there was other meate then the roſted lambe, which had no ſauce or broth, but herbes. Therefore, all this fantaſie of the new ſacrifice, and tranſmutation of bread and wine, into his body and bloud, with the order of Prieſthod there giuen them, (this foundation of onely twelue preſent being ouerthrowne) falleth to the ground. And where you ſay, the order of Prieſthod was giuen them at this Supper, other of your fellowes thinke not, till after his reſurrection, Iohn 20. 21. Exod. 12. Iohn 13. 19. Sacrifice of the Maſſe. Tranſubſtantiation.

Rhem. 6. 26. He tooke bread.) Here at once is inſtituted, for the continuance of the external office of Chriſtes eternall Prieſthod according to the order of Melchiſedec, both a Sacrifice and a Sacrament, through the Scriptures giue neither of theſe names to this action: and our Aduerſaries without all reaſon or religion accept in a ſort the one, and vtterly deny the other. A Sacrifice, in that it is ordeined to continue the memory of Chriſtes death and oblation vpon the Croſſe, and the application of the generall vertue thereof to our particuler neceſſities, by conſecrating the ſeuerall elements, not into Chriſts whole perſon as it was borne of the virgin or now is in heauen, but the bread into his body apart, as betrayed, broken, and giuen for vs: the wine into his bloud apart, as ſhed out of his body for remiſſion of ſinnes and dedication of the new Teſtament, which be conditions of his perſon as he was in ſacrifice and oblation. In which myſtical & vnſpeakable maner, he would haue the Church to offer and ſacrifice him dayly, and he in myſterie and Sacrament dieth, though now not only in heauen, but alſo in the Sacrament: he be in deede per Concomitantiam (as the Church calleth it, that is, by ſequele of all his parts to ech other) whole, aliue, and immortall. Which point becauſe our Aduerſaries vnderſtand not, not knowing the Scriptures nor the power of God, they blaſpheme, and abuſe the people to their damnation. It is alſo a Sacrament, in that is is ordeined to be receiued into our bodies and to feede the ſame to reſurrection and immortalitie, and to giue grace and ſaluation to our ſoules, if we worthely receiue it. The holy Euchariſt is both a Sacrifice and a Sacrament. Mat. 22. 19.

Fulke. 6. Here are many words of the inſtitution of a ſacrifice, continuance of Chriſtes Prieſthod in the oblation of the ſame, a new death of Chriſt in the Sacrament, concomitance, &c. but no argument out of the text, no auctoritie of other places of Scripture, no teſtimonie out of the auncient fathers alleadged for them. Yet are we Sacrifice of the Maſſe.

condemned of ignorance,not to vnderſtand nor to know the Scriptures,nor the power of God. Yet we be not ſo dull witted,but we vnderſtand what you meane by your ſacrifice,tranſubſtantiation,concomitance, & other ſuch prophane nouelties and vanities of voyces,which the Scripture knoweth not, nor you are able to ſhewe one iote of the Scripture for them.But let vs cõſider the parts of this note: Firſt you ſay,here is inſtituted both a ſacrifice and a Sacrament, though the Scriptures giue neither of theſe names to this action. As though our contention were for the name, rather then for the thing it ſelfe. The one you ſay,we accept in a ſort,the other we vtterly denie, without all reaſon or religion. The name of Sacrament, becauſe it ſignifieth that which this action is made by Chriſt,as we finde in the Scripture, namely an holy ſigne, we accept I am ſure with good reaſon and religion,& in ſuch ſort as the ancient fathers of the Latine Church, from whoſe tongue,this name of Sacrament is borowed,did acknowledge this action to be a Sacrament. The other terme we doe not vtterly denie,but in a ſort. For in ſuch ſort as the ancient fathers did call this action a ſacrifice,by a metonymie vnproperly,becauſe it is a memory of the onely ſacrifice of Chriſts death, and by Synecdoche, becauſe the Sacrifice of praiſe and thankeſgiuing is offred to God for the redemption of the world in the celebration of this action: In this ſort I ſay,we doe not vtterly denie,the terme of ſacrifice. But in ſuch ſort,as the Papiſts take it,to be a ſacrifice propitiatorie,wherein the naturall body and blood of Chriſt,are offred to God the father by the Prieſt in his Maſſe,for the ſinnes of the quicke and the dead,(howſoeuer the matter in compaſſe of ſtrange wordes and phraſes be ſhrowded,to hide the horrible blaſphemie therein conteined)we vtterly deny the name of ſacrifice. Becauſe no ſuch thing was inſtituted by Chriſt,but it is manifeſtly contrary to the Scriptures.And this I thinke is good reaſon and religion,to denie that which is not,and is fained to be,to the derogation of the glory of our redemption,by the only ſacrifice of Chriſt. And thus much for the name,now for the thing. You ſay it was inſtituted for the continuance of the external office of Chriſts eternal Prieſthod according to the order of Melchiſedech.This I ſay,is a falſe ſurmiſed ende: for the continuance of Chriſts Prieſthod,is only in his owne perſon,and paſſeth not from him(as the Apoſtle ſaith) ἀπαράβατον ἔχει,&c.He hath a Prieſthod that paſſeth not by ſucceſſion,wherefore,he is able for euer to ſaue thoſe that come vnto God by him,alwayes liuing,that he may make interceſſion for them, *Heb.*7.14.25. This is the continuance of his Prieſthod according to the order of Melchiſedech. As for that prophane nouelrie,of the externall office of Chriſtes Prieſthod,becauſe the Scripture teacheth it not,it is to be luſſed out of the Church of Chriſt. The Apoſtle in the chapter before named,referring to Chriſt,whatſoeuer of Melchiſedech pertained to Chriſt,maketh mention of no ſuch external office. Beſide,that this fained cõtinuance,of the external office of Prieſthod,is contrary to the Scripture.Which teacheth that the Prieſthod after the order of Melchiſedech,is proper only to Chriſt, who is the eternal ſonne of God,without father in reſpect of his manhod, without mother in reſpect of his Godhead, hauing neither beginning of his dayes,nor end of life,which can agree to none but to our Sauiour Chriſt,*Heb.*7.3. Therfore your Popiſh prieſthod,chalenging the continuance of Chriſtes external office of Prieſthod after the order of Melchiſedech,is an horrible blaſphemie againſt the eternal Prieſthod of the Sonne of God. Further,you ſay: It is a ſacrifice in that it is ordeined to continue the memory of Chriſtes death and oblation vpon the Croſſe: So in deede the fathers doe figuratiuely and vnproperly call it, as I haue ſhewed before. And this were tollerable, if you would proceede no further. But you adde,that it is a Sacrifice to continue the application of the generall vertue of Chriſts death to our particular neceſſities by conſecrating,&c. Whereby you meane tranſubſtantiation of the elemẽts,into the naturall body and bloud of Chriſt. But the Scripture teacheth vs,that the holy Ghoſt, through faith, applieth the benefits of Chriſts death vnto vs for our redemption and ſaluation, & not ỹ Prieſt by his Maſſe,*Rom.*8.2.*Gal.*3.13.4.Where you ſay moreouer, ỹ wine is conſecrated into his bloud a part,as ſhed out of his body,&c. You ouerthrow your owne poſition of the vnbloudie ſacrifice,which you ſay,you offer without ſhedding of bloud. Againe you ſay, in this myſtical and vnſpeakable maner, he would haue the Church to offer and ſacrifice him dayly. But Chriſt neuer gaue out any word,whereby you might gather that he would ſuch a thing. Beſide, the Scripture is plaine,he would not any ſuch ſacrifice of himſelfe, to be offered by other, which did not oftentimes offer himſelfe, (for then he ſhould haue died often)but once for al,and found by that one oblation,eternal redemption,and made perfect for euer,thoſe that are ſanctified,*Heb.*9.12 and 25.*and cap.*10.14.Therefore he needeth not to be offered by any other And where you ſay,that in myſtery and Sacrament he dieth,it is contrary to the Scripture, which ſaith,he dieth no more,*Rom.*6.9.For ſeeing, for Chriſtes preſence in myſterie and Sacrament,you admit no figure,I cannot but vnderſtand an horrible myſterie of Chriſts daily dying in your Sacrifice of the Maſſe. But if you ſay the dying in Sacrament,is figuratiue,it wil ſolow, that the preſence in Sacramẽt is alſo figuratiue. And touching your high point of concomitance, which you ſay,we vnderſtand not,where you ſaid, the wine is conſecrated into his bloud apart,as ſhed out of his body,&c. which was the condition of his perſon as he was in ſacrifice and oblation: I demaunde of you, whether the bloud that was ſhedde out of the bodie of Chriſt vpon the Croſſe, was by Cõcomitance,his whole body and ſoule,manhod and God? if it were not,(as I hope you wil ſay it was not)why then in yout ſacrifice is that in the cup,by concomitance, not only the bloud, but alſo the body of Chriſt, his ſoule,manhod,and Godhead?

Laſt of all,when you come to the Sacrament, as a matter of ſmall moment, in compariſon of the Sacrifice, you knit it vp in two lines, not expreſſing what it is in deede, but affirming of it, that in deede it doeth not. For not the Sacrament,but the thing or matter of the Sacrament,(as S.Auguſtine calleth it,)which is the body and bloud of Chriſt,feedeth our ſoules. This Sacrament therfore is an holy ſigne,and ſeale of our ſpirituall nouriſhment vnto eternal life,by the very body and bloud of Chriſt, which is the ſpirituall matter, repreſented by this ſigne,and who giueth grace,which is not receiued of any,but vnto eternal life,as ſaith Auguſtine,*In Ioan.Tr.*26. where you adde the condition of receiuing it worthily,it is contrary to your owne principle, that Sacraments of the worke wrought,doe giue grace, ſo the receiuer doeth not withſtand. But there is more required of him, that ſhall receiue worthily, then not to withſtand. In Ioan.Tr.26.

*Rhem.*7. 26. Bleſſed. *Our Aduerſaries for the two wordes that are in Greeke & Latin,*benedixit,and gratias egit,he bleſſed,he gaue thankes,vſe only the later, of purpoſe to ſignifie that Chriſt bleſſed not nor conſecrated the bread and the wine, and ſo by that bleſſing wrought any effect vpon them, but gaue thankes only to his father, as we doe in ſaying grace. But the trueth is that the word εὐλογέω, ſignifieth properly to bleſſe, and is referred to the thing that is bleſſed, as Luc.9. of the fiſhes, εὐλόγησεν αὐτοὺς, benedixit eis, he bleſſed them, and therby wrought in them that wonderful multiplication. So the bleſſing of God is alwayes effectuall: and therefore here alſo he bleſſed the bread, and by that bleſſing, with the wordes following, made it his body. Ambr. li.de his qui initi. myſt. c.9. Aug. ep.59. ad Paulinum. Now whereas taking the cuppe it is ſaid, he gaue thankes. We ſay that it is al one with bleſſing, and that he bleſſed the cuppe, as before the bread: as it is euident by theſe words of S. Paul, Calix cui benedicimus, the cuppe which we bleſſe: and therfore he calleth it, Calicem benedictionis, the cuppe of bleſſing, vſing the ſame Greeke word that is ſpoken of the bread. But why is it then ſaid here, he gaue thankes? becauſe we tranſlate the wordes faithfully as in the Greeke and the Latin, and becauſe the ſenſe is all one, as we are taught by S. Paul before alleaged, and by the fathers, which cal this geuing of thankes ouer the cuppe or ouer the bread, the bleſſing thereof. S. Iuſtin. in fin. 2 Apol. *Panem Euchariſtiſatum: S. Fulke 7. Here is wrangling about words, to no purpoſe, where the one Euangeliſt ſaith, he bleſſed, the other ſaith, he gaue thankes. Yea the ſame Euangeliſt ſaith, of the one part of the Sacrament, he bleſſed, of the other part, he gaue thankes: therefore to bleſſe and to giue thankes in this place, is all one: and ſeeing thankeſgiuing is not referred to the bread, no more is bleſſing. For if the Euangeliſts had ment to referre it to the bread, they would haue added an accuſatiue caſe, as Luke 9. What then? doe we meane, none other bleſſing or giuing of thankes, then we doe in ſaying grace at our ordinary refections? Yes verely. We meane ſolemne bleſſing, which is praiſe and thankeſgiuing, by which the creatures are prepared to this holy action, as Oecumenius writeth: agreeable with the ſayings of the Apoſtle Paul, and of the auncient fathers Iuſtinus, Irenæus, Cyprianus, not meaning the whole conſecrating to conſiſt in this bleſſing or thankeſgiuing, but a part only: nor as you ſay: in that bleſſing, with the wordes following, which you vnderſtand to be none but theſe: This is my body: But in the whole action according to Chriſtes inſtitution: whereunto are required, taking, eating, drinking, ſhewing of the Lords death. But where you ioyne bleſſing with the wordes which you call of conſecration, to make it his body, you diſſent from other elder Papiſts, which holde, that theſe words only, without any bleſſing, but with the Prieſts intention, doe make the body of Chriſt. If you be better aduiſed, nowe to take in bleſſing and thankeſgiuing, I hope you will ſhortly conſent, to admit eating, drinking, and ſhewing of our Lords death, to be parts of the conſecration.

and

The Scholemen.

S Ambroſe whom you cite, ſpeaketh of the Sacrament which is receiued, Sacramẽtum iſtud quod accipis, &c. This Sacrament which thou receiueſt, is made by the word of Chriſt. And by theſe Sacraments, Chriſt feedeth his Church by which the ſubſtance of the ſoule is ſtrengthened.

S. Auguſtine alſo *Ep.*59. ſaith, Prayers are made when that which is vpon the table, is bleſſed and ſanctified, and broken to be diſtributed. Againe, In the ſanctification and preparation of diſtribution of this Sacrament, I thinke the Apoſtle commanded prayers properly to be made. Againe, Which things being ordered, and ſo worthy a Sacrament being participated, thankeſgiuing concludeth all. Therefore neither Ambroſe nor Auguſtine, vnderſtand your Magical kinde of conſecration, by croſſing and murmuring of wordes with one breath, within which you conclude your Popiſh conſecration.

Tranſubſtantiation.

Fulke. 8. Damaſcene, although he liued in a corrupt time, meaneth not Tranſubſtantiation, which was not inuented in his time, but the ſpirituall and ſupernaturall change of the elements in the faithfull receiuer, into the diuine food of our ſoules, which is the fleſh & bloud of Chriſt, as appeareth firſt by his compariſon, of the like change of the water in baptiſme, by grace of the holy Ghoſt, into the lauer of regeneration. So he ſaith, To the bread and wine which we are accuſtomed to eate, he hath ioyned his Godhead, and made them his body & blood, that by things accuſtomed, and that are according to nature, we may be conuerſant in things which are about nature. His body is truely vnited to the Godhead, the body which is of the holy Virgine. Not that the ſame body which was taken vp into heauen commeth downe, but that the ſame bread and wine are changed into the body and blood of God. If you require the maner how it is done, it ſuffiſeth to heare that it is done by the holy Ghoſt, as the Lord, of the holy mother of God, by the holy Ghoſt made fleſh to ſubſiſt to himſelfe, and in himſelfe. Theſe wordes declare his meaning, to be of a ſpirituall and ſupernatural change, not of a corporall change of the bread and wine whereunto he ſaith Chriſt hath ioyned his Godhead, that by eating of bread and drinking of wine, which be things accuſtomed and naturall, we might be acquainted with things ſupernaturall. But if his wordes of tranſmutation, or changing, doe ſeeme to import a Popiſh Tranſubſtantiation: Then marke theſe words, in which he vſeth the terme μετουσία, which if there be any Greeke word for tranſubſtantiation, might ſignifie the change of being or of ſubſtance. Yet he taketh it for communication. For exhorting men with earneſt affection, to come to the Communion, he ſaith, τῶν ἀνθράκων, &c. Let vs be partakers of that diuine fire coale, that the fire of the deſire, which is in vs, taking fiering of that coale, may burne vp our ſinnes, and lighten our hearts, and that by participation of the diuine fire, we may be fiered and Deified. I thinke no man doubteth, but this whole ſpeach is figuratiue: and ſo is the reſt. Cyprians words are theſe: Panis iſte, &c. This bread which our Lord did reach vnto his diſciples, being changed not in ſhape, but in nature, by almightie power of the worde, is made fleſh: and as in the perſon of Chriſt, the humanitie was ſeene, and the diuinitie was hidden, ſo the diuine eſſence, hath vnſpeakably inſinſed it ſelfe, into the viſible Sacrament, that deuotion might be vnto religion about the Sacrament, and a more ſincere acceſſe vnto the truth, whoſe body the Sacraments are, might be open vnto the participation of the ſpirit. This auctor by change in nature, meaneth not change of ſubſtance, but of the qualities or properties of natural bread, whoſe nature is to feede the body, whereas this bread is made to nouriſh the ſoule. Therefore he ſaith: That which meate is to the fleſh, faith is to the ſoule: that meate is to the body, the word is to the ſpirit. Againe, Therefore the eating of this fleſh, is a certaine earneſt affection, & deſire to continue in him. Againe, when we doe theſe things, we prepare not our teeth to bite, but with ſincere ſincere faith we breake and diuide this holy bread. And the vndoubted Cyprian (for of the auctor of this worke it is vncertaine) in his Epiſtle ad Magnum lib.1.Ep.6. expreſſly calleth the Lords bodie bread moulded together of many graines, and his bloud wine, which is preſſed out of cluſters of grapes. Againe: Lib.2.Ep.3. Cæcilio, he ſaith: The bloud of Chriſt,is not water but wine. Theſe wordes are plaine againſt tranſubſtantiation. Ep.63.

Tranſubſtantiation.

Neither doth S. Ambroſe, by the change which is wrought in the Sacrament by the wordes of Chriſt, meane, the Popiſh pretended change: for of the bread and the wine, when they are conſecrated by the word of God he ſaith: If there were ſuch force in the word of our Lord Ieſus, that thoſe things began to be, which were not, how much more effectuall in working, is it, that they may be ſtill which they were, and alſo be changed into another thing? An example hereof he giueth in euery Chriſtian man: Tu ipſe eras, &c. Thou thy ſelfe waſt, but thou waſt an olde creature, but after thou waſt conſecrated, thou beganeſt to be a newe creature. Here the change is manifeſt not in ſubſtance, but in qualitie. And euen in the chapter by you cited, his words are euident to declare, that he ſpeaketh of no tranſubſtantiation. For after he hath ſaid, that our Lord Ieſus, contrary to the order of nature, was borne of a virgine, he addeth: Vera vtiq; &c. It was the true fleſh of Chriſt that was crucified, that was buried: therefore this is truly a Sacrament of that fleſh. Our Lord Ieſus crieth out: This is my bodie, before the bleſſing of the heauenly wordes, it is called another kind: after conſecration the bodie of Chriſt is ſignified. He him ſelfe ſaith, It is his bloud, before conſecration, it is called another thing, after conſecration it is named bloud. Alſo by the ſame argument, of the ſupernaturall generation of Chriſt by the holy Ghoſt of the virgine Marie, he proueth the truth of regeneration in Baptiſme, where there is no change of ſubſtance, but in qualities and conditions. Therefore in the one Sacrament, he meaneth no more tranſubſtantiation, then in the other. De iis qui myſter. Cap.9.

Rhem.9. 26. My bodie.) He ſaid not, This bread is a figure of my body: or, This wine is a figure of my bloud: but, This is my body, and, This is my bloud. Damaſc.li.4.c.14. Theophyl in hunc locum. Conc.2.Nic.act.6,10.4. eiuſdem actionis in fine. when ſome Fathers cal it a figure or ſigne, they meane the outward formes of bread and wine. No figuratiue but a real preſence.

Fulke.9. The text is plaine, he ſaid, This is my bodie, ſ his is my bloud, to declare, that he gaue to the faith of the worthy receiuer, his very body and bloud, by thoſe outward elements of bread and wine, which are figures and ſignes of his body and bloud. And therefore, though he ſayd not, This is a figure or ſigne of my body, & bloud: yet he ſaid in the ſame ſence: This cup is the New Teſtament in my bloud. By which forme of ſpeach, he declared, that the viſible element is a ſigne or ſeale of the Newe Teſtament eſtabliſhed in his bloud, ſhed on the Croſſe, and not conuerted or turned into his bloud. For his naturall bloud, is not the Newe Teſtament in his bloud, neither is the cuppe properly, but figuratiuely, the Newe Teſtament. Wherefore it remaineth, that it is a Sacrament, that is, an holie ſigne and ſeale of the Newe Teſtament, confirmed by the death and bloud ſhedding of Chriſt. And ſo the ancient Fathers doe meane, when they call the bread a figure or ſigne of his bodie, and not the outward formes or accidents of bread, ſeparated from the ſubſtance of bread, for of that monſter they neuer heard. Tertullian againſt Marcion, which denied Chriſt to haue a true body, writeth thus. The bread which he tooke and diſtributed to his Diſciples, he made his body, ſaying, This is my body, that is, a figure of my body, now is had not bene a figure, except he had had a true body. For a void thing, which is a fantaſie, could not haue a figure. Or if he feyned the bread to be his body, becauſe he lacked a true body, he ought to haue deliuered the bread for vs. It would haue made for Marcions purpoſe, that the bread ſhould haue bene crucified. Theſe wordes of Tertullian declare, that he meaneth the bread to be a figure of Chriſtes true bodie, and not the accidents of bread. For if this fantaſie of tranſubſtantiation, had bene thought of in thoſe daies, Marcion would haue taken hold of the aboliſhing of the ſubſtance of bread, to proue the bodie of Chriſt to be onely in forme or ſhewe, and not in deede, as the bread which is turned into it is. Againe, he might haue confirmed his hereſie, that the world was not created by God the father of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, ſeeing he did away the creature of bread, to make it his bodie. But Tertullian Lib. 5. ſayth: By the Sacrament of the bread, and the cuppe now in the Goſpell, we haue proued the truth of our Lordes bodie and bloud, againſt the phantaſme of Marcion. Likewiſe S. Auguſtine ſayth: Nam ex eo, &c. For of that it is written, that the bloud of a beaſt is the ſoule of it, beſide that I ſayd, that it pertayneth not to me, what becommeth of the ſoule of a beaſt, I may alſo interprete that precept in a ſigne. For our Lord doubted not to ſay, This is my bodie, when he gaue the ſigne of his bodie. Cont. Adiman. cap.12. The bloud of a beaſt is a ſigne of the ſoule, or life thereof, ſo is the bread a ſigne of the bodie of Chriſt. What place is here for accidents of bread, to be called the ſigne of his bodie? except you will ſay, the accidents of bloud, were forbidden in the Lawe, and not the bloud it ſelfe. But bloud it ſelfe, as a ſigne of the life of the beaſt, was forbidden to be eaten, as bread is giuen to be eaten, as a ſigne of Chriſt. Other ancient Fathers, are alſo in plaine wordes directly againſt tranſubſtantiation, as Chryſt. In Epiſt. ad Cæſarium. Theodoret. Dial.2. Gelaſius Biſhop of Rome contra Eutychen. All theſe in plaine wordes affirme, the ſubſtance of bread & wine, to remaine after conſecration. Cont. Marc. lib. 4. Tranſubſtantiation.

Fulke 10. The bloud of Chriſt, was not myſtically ſhed in the Sacrament, but as it is myſtically preſent. The Apoſtles and Euangeliſts, vſing the preſent tenſe for the future, doe ſignifie, that the paſſion of Chriſt was euen at hand. And therefore your vulgar Interpreter, according to the ſence, hath truly tranſlated the word, by the future tenſe. For it is not onely ſaid, that his bloud is ſhed, but it is added, for many, vnto remiſſion of ſinnes, and his bodie is broken, which was not but on the Croſſe. For if the bloud of Chriſt was ſhed for the remiſſion of the ſinnes of the world in the Sacrament, the paſſion of Chriſt was needles: and ſo to eſtabliſh your blaſphemous ſacrifice of the Maſſe, you make voide and fruſtrate, the moſt glorious and onely ſacrifice propitiatorie for ſinnes, offered by our Sauiour Chriſt vpon the Croſſe. Sacrifice of the Maſſe.

Rhem.11 29. Fruite of the vine.) S. I. ſpeaketh theſe wordes before he come to the conſecration, whereby it ſeemeth that he speaketh of the wine of the Paschal Lambe, and therfore nameth it the fruite of the vine. but if he speake of the wine which was now his bloud, he nameth it notwithstanding wine, as S. Paule nameth the other bread, for three causes: first because it was so before: as Eue is called Adams bone, and, Aarons rod deuoured their rodes: whereas they were not now rodes, but serpents. And, He tasted the water turned into wine: whereas it was now wine and not water: and such like. secondly, because it keepeth the formes of bread and wine, and things are called as they appeare: as when Raphael is called a young man Tob. 5. and, Three men appeared to Abraham Gen. 18. whereas they were three Angels. thirdly, because Christ in this Sacrament is very true and principal bread and wine, feeding and refreshing vs in body and soule to euerlasting life.

The elements after consecration called bread & wine. Exo. 7. Io. 2. Gen. 2.

Fulke 11. Vaine shifts against the plaine truth of the text, and the euident words thereof. The demonstratiue Pronoune This, declareth, that he spake of the wine in his hand. And so the ancient Fathers haue alwaies taken it. Clemens Alexandrinus sayth: Quod autem vinum esset, &c. That it was wine which was blessed, he sheweth againe, saying to his Disciples, I will not drinke of the fruite of this vine, Pedagog. l. 2. Cap. 2. S. Cyprian vpon these wordes of the fruite of the vine, which he calleth the creature of the vine inferreth: Qua in parte, &c. In which part we find, that the cuppe which our Lord offred, was mixt, and that is was wine which he called his bloud. Ep. 65. Cæcilio. Chrysostome also vpon ỹ same text, sayth: He meant to pul vp by the rootes a certaine pernicious heresie, of them which vse water in the mysteries, so that he shewed, that when he deliuered this mysterie, he deliuered wine, and now after his resurrection, in the bare table of the mysterie, he vsed wine. He saith, Of the fruite of the vine, which truly bringeth forth wine, and not water. In Matth. Hom. 83. Seeing Christ therefore deliuered wine, as the text and the Fathers say, your three causes are vaine. For the Sacrament is called bread and wine, because it is so indeede, although it be also called the bodie and bloud of Christ, as it is indeede, after a spirituall maner, to the worthy receiuer. But to examine your causes a litle: you say, S. Paule nameth it bread, because it is so before, as Eue is called Adams bone. But Eue was not called Adames bone, absolutely, but bone of his bones, and flesh of his flesh. And that she was in deede, at that present in respect of her bodie, for I suppose you will not say, her soule was made of Adams bone. Likewise in your second example: Aarons rodde deuoured their rodes, Moses calleth it Aarons rodde, that it was when he wrote, namely a rodde, and the Sorcerers rodes were not true Serpents, but in shew. Therefore S. Augustine sayth of Aarons rodde: The thing was called by that name, from whence it was turned, and into which it was returned againe, therefore it ought to be called that which it was principally. Quæst. sup. Exod. lib. 2. Quæst. 21. Your third example of water turned into wine, is most impertinent: for there it is expressed, both what it was before the turning, and what it was after. Your second forged cause, for that some things are called as they appeare, and not as they are, as Angels are called men, is also vnlike your matter, for the Angels that appeared, were not phantasticall shewes or accidents, but they appeared in very bodies as of men, which they assumed for the time, as it is plaine by the text: your third cause is also vaine: that the Sacraments should be called bread and wine, because Christ is the true bread and wine feeding vs in bodie and soule vnto eternal life. for S. Paule nameth it bread, in them which eate it vnworthily, to their condemnation.

Fulke. 12. Watching vnto praier is commended in this place, and in many other of the Scripture. And therefore in the Primitiue Church they had set times of watching in praier. But your vigils, that is, holy day eues, and nocturnes, that is a certaine taske of Psalmes, and other prayers, are rather mockeries of watches and prayers, then either that which Christ willed his Disciples to doe, or the Primitiue Church vsed: although you say your religious persons vse them still.

that they might put him to death.

GOOD FRIDAY. 2 And they brought him bound and deliuered him to Ponce Pilate the Preſident.

3 Then Iudas that betraied him, ſeeing that he was condemned, ‖ repenting him, returned the thirtie ſiluer peeces to the cheefe Prieſtes and auncients,

4 Saying, I haue ſinned, betraying iuſt bloud. But they ſaid, what is that to vs? looke thou to it.

5 And caſting downe the ſiluer peeces in the temple, he departed: and went & ‖ hanged him ſelf with an halter.

6 And the cheefe Prieſtes hauing taken the ſiluer peeces, ſaid, It is not lawful to caſt them into the ‡ Corbana: becauſe it is the price of bloud.

‡ This Corbana was a place about the Temple, which receiued the peoples gifts or offerings. See Mar. 12, v. 41.

7 And after they had conſulted together, they bought with them the potters field, to be a burying place for ſtrangers.

8 For this cauſe that field was called Haceldama, that is, the field of bloud, euen to this preſent day.

9 Then was fulfilled that which was ſpoken by Ieremie the Prophet, ſaying, And they tooke the thirtie peeces of ſiluer, the price of the priced, whō they did price of the childrē of Iſrael:

Zach. 11, 12.

10 And they gaue them into the potters field, as our Lord did appoint to me.

11 And IESVS ſtoode before the Preſident, and the Preſident asked him, ſaying, Art thou the King of the Iewes? IESVS ſayth to him, Thou ſayeſt.

12 And when he was accuſed of ỹ cheefe Prieſtes & auncients, he anſwered nothing.

13 Then Pilate ſaith to him, Doeſt thou not heare how many teſtimonies they alleage againſt thee?

14 And he anſwered him not to any word: ſo that the Preſident did maruel exceedingly.

15 And vpon the ſolemne day the Preſident had accuſtomed to releaſe vnto the people one priſoner whom they would.

16 And he had then a notorious priſoner, that was called Barabbas.

17 They therfore being gathered together, Pilate ſaid: whom wil you that I releaſe to you, Barabbas, or IESVS that is called Chriſt?

18 For he knewe that for enuie they had deliuered him.

19 And as he was ſitting in place of iudgement, his wife ſent vnto him, ſaying: Haue thou nothing to doe with that iuſt man. for I haue ſuffred many things this day in my ſleepe for him.

2 And when they had bound him, they led him away, and deliuered him to Pontius Pilate the Deputie.

3 Then Iudas, which had betraied him, when he ſawe that he was condemned, repented him ſelfe, and brought againe the thirtie ſiluer peeces to the chiefe Prieſts and Elders,

4 Saying, I haue ſinned, in that I haue betraied the innocent blood. And they ſaid, What is that to vs? ſee thou to that.

5 And when he had caſt downe the peeces of ſiluer in the Temple, he departed, * and went his way, and hanged him ſelfe. Act. 1. 18.

6 And the chiefe prieſts tooke the ſiluer peeces, and ſaid, It is not lawfull for to put them into the treaſurie, becauſe it is the price of blood.

7 And when they had taken counſell, they bought with them the potters field, to bury ſtrangers in.

15 * At that feaſt the Deputie was woont to let looſe vnto the people a priſoner, whom they would. Mar. 15. 6. luke 23. 17.

16 He had then a notable priſoner, called Barabbas.

17 Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate ſaid vnto them, Whether will ye that I giue looſe vnto you Barabbas, or Ieſus, which is called Chriſt?

18 For he knew that for enuie they had deliuered him.

19 When he was ſet downe on the iudgement ſeate, his wife ſent vnto him, ſaying, Haue thou nothing to doe with that iuſt man: For I haue ſuffered many things this day in a dreame becauſe of him.

20 But the cheefe Preeſtes and aunci-ents perſwaded the people, that they ſhould aske Barabbas, and make IESVS away.
21 And the Preſident anſwering, ſaid to them: whether wil you of the two to be releaſed vnto you? But they ſaid, Barabbas.
22 Pilate ſaith to them, what ſhal I doe then with IESVS that is called Chriſt? They ſay al, Let him be crucified.
23 The Preſident ſaid to them, Why what euil hath he done? But they cried the ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXVII.

Rhem. 3. Repenting him.) Note howe spedily the plague of God falleth after sinne, and specially men must note what torment of conscience, and desperation often followeth the shedding of innocent blood. Horrour of conscience.

5. Hung him selfe.) If he had rightly repented, notwithstanding his horrible treason, he might haue obteyned mercie: but by hanging himselfe he tooke away all meanes of mercie and saluation, because he died finally impenitent. Desperation.

Rhem.1. 24. Innocent of his blood.) Though Pilate was much more innocent then the Iewes, and would haue beene free from the murder of our Sauiour, seeking al the meanes that he could (without offending the people & the Emperors lawes) to dimisse him: Yet he is damned for being the minister of the peoples wicked will against his owne conscience. Euen as all officers be, and specially the Iudges and Iuries which execute lawes of temporall Princes against Catholike men: for all such be guilty of innocent blood, and be nothing excused by that they execute other mens will according to the lawes, which be vniust. For they should rather suffer death themselues, then put an innocent man to death. They that execute lawes against their conscience are like to Pilate.

Fulke.1. They that execute godly lawes, against popish traytours and heretikes, be in no daunger of Pilates condemnation.

Rhem.2. 40. If thou be the Sonne.) Maruel not, when thou hearest our Sauiour in the B. Sacrament mocked at, or seest him abused of wicked men, that he straight reuengeth not such blasphemies: or that he sheweth not himselfe there visibly and to the senses, when faithles Heretikes will say, Let vs see him, trust him, &c. for he suffered here the like on the Crosse, when he might at his will haue come downe with as much ease as he rose when he was dead. Christ derided in the B. Sacrament, euen as vpon ỹ Crosse.

Fulke.2. You must first proue, that Christ is as verely present in your popish singing cake, as he was present on the crosse, and had by many arguments approued him selfe to be ỹ sonne of God, or els your comparison is vaine and ridiculous.

Rhem.3. 46. Why hast thou forsaken me?) Beware here of the detestable blasphemie of Caluin and the Caluinists, who thinking not the bodily death of Christ sufficient, say, that he was also here so forsaken and abandoned of his Father, that he sustained in soule and conscience the very feares and torments of the damned. And to take away the Article of his descending into Hell after his death, (which was with triumph and not in paine,) they say that his descending was nothing els, but that his soule suffered the very paines of Hell vpon the Crosse. whereas in deede by these wordes out of the Psalme, our Sauiour will signifie no more but that his paines (being now so long on the Crosse and ready to die) were very great, and therefore according to the infirmitie of his humane nature, for very anguish (as before in the garde when he was but toward his passion) he saith he was forsaken, for two causes, first because it was the will of God not to deliuer him, but that he should die: secondly, because his diuine nature did so represse it selfe for the time, that he felt no comfort thereof at all, but was left to die in extreme paines as a mere man. Catechis. Cal. & Institt. lib. 2. 16. Caluins blasphemie.

Fulke.3. Caluine blaspheme th not, but honoureth our Sauiour Christ, when he saith, that he suffered in soule the wrath of God due for the sinnes of the world: which also he began to suffer in the garden, when he felt no torment of body, but yet was in such an extreme agonie, that his body did sweate drops of blood, which was not feare of bodily paine or death onely, for then he had beene of greater infirmitie, then many of his ſeruants, which through faith in him, haue reioyced in both. Therefore it was the burthen of ſinne, which he bare, and the curſe of God due vnto ſinne, which he tooke vpon him, to deliuer vs from ſinne, and the puniſhment thereof, and not onely the bodily paine of death that enforced him that was God, to complaine that he was forſaken of God. As for the triumph ouer hell gained by his death, Caluine doth not denie, and what by Scripture you can proue, of the deſcent of his ſoule into hell after his death, it ſhalbe yeelded vnto you.

Rhem.4. 59. Wrapped.) This honour and duetie done to Chriſtes body being dead, was maruelous graceſull & meritorious. And this wrapping of it in cleane ſindon may ſignifie by S. Hierom, that the body of our Lord is to be wrapped not in gold, pretious ſtones, and ſilke, but in pure linnen. And ſo in the whole Church it is obſerued by * S. Silueſters conſtitution, that the Corporall whereupon our Lordes body lieth on the altar, muſt be pure and plaine linnen.

S. Hiero. in hunc l-cum.

*to 1. Concil.

Fulke.4. The honour done to Chriſtes dead body, was no doubt graceſull, as a token of their faith and loue towards him, but meritorious you cannot proue it. S. Hierome ſpeaketh not of the laying of the Sacrament on the altar in the corporall: for there was no ſuch laying and wrapping of it in S. Hieroms time. But he ſpeaketh of a ſpirituall vnderſtanding, which afterward he expreſſeth when he ſayth, He wrappeth Ieſus in a cleane ſindon, which ſhall receiue him in a pure mind, And of the miniſtration of the Lords ſupper he ſaith, None is richer then he which carieth the Lords body in a wicker basket, and his blood in a glaſſe. And if it be S. Siluesters cõſtitution (as you ſay) that the corporal whereon our Lords body lieth, muſt be pure linen: why doe you lay it vpon a gilt patten, and carie his blood (which by concomitance you wot is his body alſo) in a gilt chalice? Againe you haue a certaine poke for reſeruation: whether you call it corporall, or corporax, lined in deede with linen, but the outſide is ſilke, gold, ſiluer, and pearles, &c. Howe doth that, and euen your Pixe and Canapie, agree with Siluesters conſtitution? I would alſo haue meruailed, why you lay the body of Chriſt, as it was buried, but that you told vs before, that he dieth in myſterie and ſacrament, and therefore belike he muſt be wrapped in ỹ corporal & buried. But the decree is as truely S. Siluesters, as it is true that the ſame authors affirme, that Conſtantine was baptized by him after he was cleanſed of a leproſie: which the auncient hiſtories proue to be falſe, Euſeb. in vita Conſtantini lib. 4. who was preſent at his baptiſme in Nicomedia, as ſeemeth by hiſt. tripartit. lib. 3. cap. 12.

3 And his countenance was as lightning: and his garment as ſnow.

4 And for feare of him, the watchmen were frighted, and became as dead.

8 And they went forth quickly out of the monument with feare and great ioy, running to tell his Diſciples.

2 And behold, there was a great earthquake, for the angel of the Lord deſcended from heauen, and came & rolled backe the ſtone from the dore, and ſate vpon it.

3 His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as ſnow

4 And for feare of him the keepers did ſhake and became as dead men.

5 The angel anſwered, and ſaid vnto the women, Feare ye not: for I know that ye ſeeke Ieſus, which was crucified.

6 He is not here, he is riſen, as he ſaide, Come, ſee the place where that the Lord was laid,

7 And goe quickly, and tell his diſciples that he is riſen from the dead. And beholde, he goeth before you into Galilee, there ſhall ye ſee him: loe, I haue tolde you.

8 And they departed quickly from the ſepulchre, with feare and great ioy, and did runne to bring his diſciples worde.

9 And as they went to tell his Diſciples, beholde, Ieſus met them, ſaying, All haile. And they came, and helde him by the feete, and worſhipped him.

10 Then IESVS ſaid to them, Feare not. goe, tell my brethren that they goe into Galilee, there they ſhall ſee me.

11 Who when they were departed, beholde certaine of the watchmen came into the citie, and told the chiefe Prieſts all things that had bene done.

12 And being aſſembled together ẇ the auncients, taking counſell, they gaue a great ſumme of money to the ſouldiars, 13 Saying, Say you, That his Diſciples came by night, and ſtole him away when we were a ſleepe.

14 And if the Preſident ſhal heare of this, we will perſuade him, and make you ſecure.

15 But they taking the money, did as they were taught. And this worde was bruited abroad among the Iewes, euen vnto this day.

20 Teaching them to obſerue all things whatſoeuer I haue commaunded you, and beholde I am with you ‖all dayes, euen to the conſummation of the world. ☙

10 Then ſaide Ieſus vnto them, Be not afraid: goe tell my brethren that they goe into Galilee, and there ſhall they ſee me.

11 When they were gone, beholde, ſome of the watch came into the Citie, and ſhewed vnto the high Prieſtes all the things that were done.

12 And when they were aſſembled with the Elders, and had taken counſell, they gaue large money vnto the ſouldiers, 13 Saying, Say ye, His Diſciples came by night, and ſtole him away while we ſlept.

14 And if this come to the Deputies cares, wee will perſwade him, and make you careleſſe.

15 So they, when they had taken the money, did as they were taught. And this ſaying was noyſed among the Iewes vntill this day.

16 Then the eleuen diſciples went away into Galilee, into a mountaine where Ieſus had appointed them.

17 And when they ſawe him, they worſhipped him: but ſome doubted.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXVIII.

Rhem. 1. 1. To ſee the Sepulcher.) The deuout women came to viſite our Sauiours Sepulcher, and for their deuotion firſt deſerued to knowe the Reſurrection, and to ſee him riſen. The honour of the which Sepulcher and the Pilgrimage thereunto in the Primitiue Church, S. Hierome declareth in theſe wordes, The Iewes ſometime honoured Sancta Sanctorum, becauſe there were the Cherubs, and the Propitiatorie, and the Arke of the Teſtament, Manna, Aarons rod, and the golden altar. Doth not the Sepulcher of our Lord ſeeme vnto thee more honorable? Which as often as we enter into, ſo often doe we ſee our Sauiour lie in the ſindon: and ſtaying there a while, we ſee the Angel againe ſit at his feete, and at his head the napkin wrapped together. The glorie of whoſe Sepulchre, we knowe was long prophecied before Ioſeph hewed it out, by Eſay ſaying, And his reſt ſhalbe honour: to witte, becauſe the place of our Lords buriall ſhould be honoured of all men. And at this preſent, notwithſtanding the Turkes dominion, yet doe the Religious Chriſtian Catholike men by Gods mightie prouidence keepe the holy Sepulcher, which is within a goodly Church, and Chriſtians come out of all the world in Pilgrimage to it.

Their deſert ỹ Scripture doth neuer make cauſe of Gods free gift. The viſitation of the Sepulchre in S. Hieroms time, was not for merit, as merit is accõpted of Papiſts, but by ſight of the place, to ſtirre vp their mindes, to the conſideration of the benefites of Chriſtes death, buriall, and reſurrection, as the place you cite out of S. Hierome doth teſtifie, litle fauouring popiſh ſuperſtition.

THE ARGVMENT OF S. MARKES GOSPEL.

Rhem. . Markes Gospel may be wel diuided into foure partes.

The firſt part of the preparation that was made to the manifeſtation of Chriſt: chap.1. In the beginning.

The Second, of his manifeſting himſelfe by Preaching and Miracles, and that in Galilee: the reſidue of the 1. chap. vnto the 10. chap.

The third, of his comming into Iurie, towards his Paſſion: chap.10.

The fourth of the Holy weeke of his Paſſion in Hieruſalem: chap.11. to the end of the booke.

Of S. Marke and his converſation with the two Apoſtles S. Paul and S. Barnabee, we haue at large Act.12. and 15. ſomewhat alſo Col.4. & 2.Tim.4. and to Philemon. Moreouer of his familiaritie with the Prince of the Apoſtles S. Peter, we haue 1.Pet.5. For ſo it pleaſed our Lord, that only two of the Euangeliſts ſhould be of his twelue Apoſtles, to wit, S. Matthew and S. Iohn. The other two, S. Marke and S. Luke, he gaue vnto vs of the Diſciples of his two moſt principal and moſt glorious Apoſtles S. Peter and S. Paul. Whoſe Goſpels therefore were of Antiquitie counted as the Goſpels of S. Peter and S. Paul themſelues. Marke the diſciple & interpreter of Peter (ſaith S. Hierom) according to that which he heard of Peters mouth, wrote at Rome a briefe Goſpel at ỹ requeſt of the Brethren (about 10. or 12. yeres after our Lords Aſcenſion.) Which when Peter had heard, he approued it, and with his authoritie did publiſh it to the Church to be read, as Clemens Alexandrinus writeth li.6. hypotypoſ. In Catal. Script. Eccleſiaſt.

Rhem. 1. In the ſame place S. Hierom addeth, how he went into Egypt to preach, and was the firſt Biſhop of the chiefe Citie there, named Alexandria: and how Philo Iudæus at the ſame time ſeeing & admiring the life and converſation of the Chriſtians there vnder S. Marke, who were Monkes, wrote a booke thereof, which is extant to this day. And not onely S. Hierom (in Marco, & in Philone) but alſo Euſebius Hiſt. li.2.ca.15.16.17. Epiphanius Secta 29 Nazaræorum. li.1 to 2. Caſsianus de Inſtit. Cœnobiorum li.2.c.5. Sozomenus li.1.c.12. Nicephorus li.2.c.15. and diuerſe do make mention of the ſaid Monkes out of the ſame Author. Finally, He died (ſaith S. Hierom) the 8. yere of Nero, and was buried at Alexandria, Anianus ſucceeding in his place. *But from Alexandria he was tranſlated to Venice, Anno Dom. 830. Philo de Supplicibus. In Catalogo.

Fulke 1. The booke that Philo did write, is of a ſect of Iewes, not Chriſtians, ſuch as Ioſephus deſcribeth the Eſſes. And S. Hieronym confeſſeth, that he writeth it as in praiſe of his owne nation. In Mar. Who alſo ſaith, the life of all Chriſtians, at that time, was ſuch as Monkes in his time endeuoured to be, ſo that they had no ſpecial order of Monkes in that time, except all Chriſtians were Monkes. Epphanius ſaith, this booke of Philo, was intituled, εφι ἱκεσιων, which name, though he labour to draw to Chriſtians, by his coniectures, as though it were deriued of Ieſſe Dauides father, or of Ieſus, before the name of Chriſtians was publiſhed from Antiochia: yet it is moſt like, that Philo ment the ſame, whom Ioſephus calleth Eſſenes, and euen that deſcription of them, which Euſebius tranſcribeth out of Philo, though he would draw it to Chriſtians, is plaine ynough for that ſect of the Iewes, and vnlike to the profeſſion of Chriſtians, except in certeine ceremonies, of praying, faſting, and ſuch like, which the Iewes & eſpecially the ſecte of the Eſſenes, obſerued. For they had (ſaith he) the written bookes of men of old time, which being Auctors of their ſect, left them many monuments of the forme of allegorical interpretations. Which though Euſebius doe vnderſtand of the writings of the Apoſtles and Euangeliſts: yet it is certaine, that the Apoſtles and the Euangeliſts, being many then liuing, or not long before that time when Philo did write, could not be called by him ἀνδρας ἀρχαιους, men of ancient time. Therefore as Epiphanius and Hierom ſaith, they were common Chriſtians of that time, or els as it is moſt like, a ſecte of Iewiſh Eſſens, ſomewhat like indeede to Popiſh Cloyſterers. Antiquitie of Monkes.

Rhem. 2. It is alſo to be noted, that in reſpect of S. Peter, who ſent S. Marke his ſcholer to Alexandria, and made him the firſt Biſhop there, this See was eſteemed next in dignitie to the See of Rome, and the Biſhop thereof was accompted the chiefe Metropolitane or Patriarch of the Eaſt, and that by the firſt Councel of Nice. Whereof ſee S. Leo ep.53. S. Gregorie li.5. ep.60. & li.6. ep.37. *Naucler. generat.28.

Fulke. 2. The See of Alexandria, by the Councel of Nice, without any reſpect of S. Marke ſent thither by Peter, was iudged equal to the See of Rome. For if they had had reſpect to Peter, they would haue preferred the See of Antioche where Peter himſelfe ſate, rather then Alexandria, where Marke ſent by Peter, did ſit. The ſixt Canon, is plaine. They decree, that the ancient cuſtome be obſerued, that the Biſhop of Alexandria, haue the ouerſight of the Churches of Egypt, Lybia, and Pentapolis, becauſe the Biſhop of Rome hath the like auctoritie of the Churches neere the Citie, Which Ruffinus called Suburbicarias li.1.cap.6. In deede Leo biſhop of Rome, could not brooke the decree of the generall Councel of Chalcedon, by which the biſhop of Conſtantinople was not onely preferred before the biſhop of Alexandria, but alſo made equal with the biſhop of Rome, and therefore writeth to Anatolius biſhop of Conſtantinople, to diſſwade him, as alſo to Martian the Emperour, & to Pulcheria the Empreſſe, to haue the decree ſtaied, but for all his gaineſaying and labour againſt it, the Councel decreed it. For in matters of diſcipline and gouernmẽt of the Church, the fathers of Chalcedon knew, they had as great authoritie as the fathers of Nice. Or as the fathers of Conſtantinople the firſt, where the like decree was made, without any interruption or contradiction of the Romiſh See, which now in the time of Leo had gotten great ſtomacke, and therefore could not away with it. No marueile then if Gregorie, comming after Leo, did not well allow it. Yet lib.5.ep.60. he is content that in as much as Marke was ſent to Alexandria by Perer, he himſelfe being biſhop of Rome, ſhould ſeeme to haue auctoritie ouer the ſeate of the diſciple, for the maſters ſake, and the biſhop of Alexandria, ſhould haue auctoritie ouer the ſeate of the maſter (that was Rome) for the diſciples ſake. This was greater modeſtie, then any of his ſucceſſors would euer ſhewe. In the other Epiſtle, you quote lib.6.ep.37. He acknowledgeth three Sees of Peter, all equal in Principalitie, Antioche, Rome and Alexandria. And where as Eulogius biſhop of Alexandria, had aſcribed as much to himſelfe, (as ſitting in Peters Chaire euen by Gregories confeſſion,) as he did vnto Gregorie: he anſwereth in theſe wordes, Et cum me ſpecialis honor, &c. And whereas ſpeciall honour by no meanes doeth delight me, yet I reioyced greatly that you (moſt holy) gaue vnto your ſelf, the ſame that you beſtowed vpon me. Thus was Gregory a more felowlike biſhop then thoſe that came after him, which can abide no man to ſit in Peters Chaire, but themſelues, no man to haue principalitie of dignitie, or ſpecial honour, but themſelues. Thus while you wil needes bring in the dignitie of Peters diſciple for his ſake, vnwares you haue giuen Peters Chaire of Rome a mate. Peters Chaire.

17 And Ieſus ſaid vnto them, Followe me, and I will make you to become fiſhers of men.

18 And ſtraightway they forſooke their nets, and followed him.

19 And when hee had gone a litle further thence, he ſawe Iames the ſonne of Zebedee, and Iohn his brother, which alſo were in the ſhip mending their nets.

20 And anon hee called them: and they left their father Zebedee in the ſhippe with the hired ſeruants, and followed him.

*21 And they came into Capernaum, and ſtraightway on the Sabboth dayes, he entred into the Synagogue, and taught. Matth.4.13. luke 4.31.

25 And Ieſus rebuked him, ſaying, Holde thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And when the vncleane ſpirit had torne him, and cried with a loude voyce, hee came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, inſomuch that they demaunded one of another among themſelues, ſaying, What thing is this? What newe doctrine is this? For with authoritie commandeth he the fowle ſpirits, and they doe obey him.

32 And at Euen, when the ſunne was downe, they brought vnto him all that were diſeaſed, and them that were vexed with deuils:

35 And riſing very early, and going forth he went into ‖ a deſert place: and there he prayed.

36 And Simon ſought after him, and they that were with him.

37 And when they had found him, they ſaid to him, That al ſeeke for thee.

37 And when they had founde him, they ſaide vnto him, All men ſeeke for thee.

38 And he ſaid vnto them, Let vs go into the next townes, that I may preach there alſo: for therefore am I come.

39 And he preached in their Synagogues in all Galilee, and caſt the deuils out.

*40 * And there came a leper to him, beſeeching him, and kneeling downe to him, and ſaying vnto him, If thou wilt, thou canſt make mee cleane,* Matth.8.2. luke 5.12.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem.1. 4. Vnto remiſſion.) Iohns baptiſme put them in hope only of remiſſion of ſinnes as a preparatiue to Chriſtes Sacrament by which ſinnes were in deede to be remitted. Aug.li.5.de bapt.c.10.

Fulke. 1. Forgiueneſſe of ſinnes is only in Chriſt: yet was the baptiſme of Iohn, a true ſeale of forgiueneſſe of ſinnes by Chriſt, as the baptiſme of Chriſtes Diſciples was. As for the preparatiue to Chriſtes Sacrament, by which ſinnes were indeede to be remitted, be your owne wordes and none of S. Auguſtines: who was in deede deceiued, becauſe he ſuppoſed, that ſome were baptiſed againe by Paul, which had receiued Iohns baptiſme, which the text rightly tranſlated, doeth not ſay: yet he concludeth the matter in theſe wordes: Tamen ne quiſquam, &c. Yet leſt any man ſhould contend, that euen in the baptiſme of Iohn, ſinnes were forgiuen, after ſome larger ſanctification to be giuen by the baptiſme of Chriſt, vnto thoſe whom Paul commaunded to be baptized againe, I doe not greatly ſtriue. Iohns baptiſme. Acts.19.

Rhem.2. 15. Be penitent.) He doeth not preach beleefe or faith only, but penaunce alſo.

Fulke. 2. No Chriſtian man doeth preach faith onely without repentance, or voyde of good workes, though they preach, that faith without workes doeth iuſtifie. Faith only.

Rhem.3. 5. Confeſſing their ſinnes. A certaine confeſſion of ſinnes there was euen in that penaunce which Iohn preached, and which was made before men were baptized. Whereby it is cleere that Iohn made a preparation to the Sacrament of Penaunce which afterward was inſtituted by Chriſt, as wel as he did by baptizing prepare the way to Chriſtes baptiſme. Confeſſion.

Fulke. 3. You are neuer able to prooue, that Chriſt did inſtitute any Sacrament of penance. Iohn by his doctrine and baptiſme, which was the ſeale thereof, prepared a way to Chriſt, but not to the baptiſme of Chriſt, for he preached not his owne baptiſme, but the waſhing away of our ſinnes by Chriſt: therefore he alſo was a miniſter of the baptiſme of Chriſt. Rhem.4. 5 Their ſinnes.) He doth not ſay that they confeſſed them ſelues to be ſinners, which may be done by a general confeſſion: but that they confeſſed their ſinnes, which is a particular confeſſion. Particular confeſſion.

Baptiſme in water. Calu.4. inſt.c.16.

Fulke.5. Chriſt baptiſed none with water, Ioan.4.2. Notwithſtanding, the baptiſme with water by his miniſters, is neceſſary, if it may be had according to Chriſtes inſtitution, neither doth Caluine teach otherwiſe. But if it can not be had in them that are preuented by death, the lacke of water ſhall not deprriue Gods children of their inheritance. Ambroſe de obitu Valentin. Imper. doubteth not of the ſaluation of the Emperour, which was ſlaine before he was baptized. Sed audiui vos dolere, &c. But I haue heard (ſayth he) that you are grieued, becauſe he receiued not the Sacrament of baptiſme. Tell me what other thing is there in vs but a will, but a requeſt? Further he citeth the ſaying of the wiſe man, The iuſt by what death ſo euer he be preuented his ſoule ſhalbe in reſt. And the example of Martyrs which were ſlaine before they were baptized, who if they be waſhed in their owne blood (ſaith he) thus manus will hath waſhed him. And the text of Iohn 3, maketh no more for the neceſſitie of water, then the like Iohn 6. for giuing the communion to infants, Except ye eat the fleſh of the Sonne of man &c. Fulke.6. Blaſphemie: Chriſt was free from ſinne, and therefore needed no repentance. But if to ſalue the matter you ſay, that doing penance is nothing but faſting and ſuch exerciſes of an auſtere and ſtreight life: then with you, there may be doing of penance without repentance and ſorowe for ſinnes. For Lent faſt, and Eremites, See Math.3.c.4. the notes there. Chriſt did no penance.

Rhem. 35 Deſert place.) Chriſt vſed very often to retire into ſolitary places, no doubt for our example, to teach vs that ſuch places are beſt for prayer and contemplation, and that we ſhould often retire our ſelues from worldly matters to ſolitary meditation of heauenly things. Solitarie contemplation.

18 And Andrew and Philippe, and Bartlemew and Mathew, and Thomas and Iames of Alphæus, and Thaddæus and Simon Cananæus,

19 And

AND he entred againe into the Synagogue, and a man was there which had a withered hand:* Matth.12.9. luk.6.6.

2 And they watched him, whether hee would heale him on the Sabboth day, that they might accuſe him.

3 And he ſaid vnto the man which had the withered hand, Ariſe, and ſtand in the mids.

4 And he ſaith vnto them, Is it lawful to doe good on the Sabboth dayes, or to doe euil? to ſaue life, or to kill? But they held their peace,

5 And when he had looked round about on them with anger, mourning for the hardneſſe of their hearts, he ſaith vnto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he ſtretched it out: and his hand was reſtored as whole as the other.

6 And the Phariſes departed, and ſtraightway gathered a counſel with the Herodians againſt him, that they might deſtroy him.

7 But Ieſus auoyded, with his diſciples, to the ſea: and a great multitude followed him from Galilee, and from Iurie,

8 And from Hieruſalem, and from Idumæa, & from the region which is beyond Iordane, and they that dwelt about Tyre and Sidon, a great multitude, when they had heard what things he did, came vnto him.

9 And Ieſus commanded his diſciples that a ſhip ſhould waite on him, becauſe of the people, leaſt they ſhould throng him.

10 For he had healed many, inſomuch that they preaſſed vpon him for to touch him, as many as had plagues.

11 And the vncleane ſpirites, when they ſawe him, they fell downe before him at his feete, and cryed, ſaying, Thou art the ſonne of God.

12 And he ſtraightly charged them, that they ſhould not make him knowen.

*13 * And he goeth vp into a mountaine, & calleth vnto him whom he would: and they came vnto him.* Matth.10.1. luk.9.1.

14 And he ordeined twelue, that they ſhould be with him, and that he might ſend them forth to preach:

15 And that they might haue power to heale ſickneſſes, and to caſt out deuils.

16 And he gaue vnto Simon to name, Peter.

17 And he called Iames the ſonne of Zebedee, and Iohn Iames brother (and gaue them names, Boanerges, which is to ſay, The ſonnes of thunder.)

18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and Iames the ſonne of Alphee, and Thaddæus, and Simon the Cananite,

19 And

19 And Iudas Iſcariot, who alſo betrayed him.

20 And they come to a houſe: and the multitude reſorteth together againe, ſo that they could not ſo much as eate bread.

21 And when his had heard of it, they went forth to lay hands on him. For they ‡ ſaid, That he was become ‡ mad.

‡ See here the conceit of worldly friends who thinke the Zeale of Religion, madnes: and therefore count them mad, that are zelous in Gods cauſe, and for the Catholike faith: and the more Zelous, the more mad.

22 And the Scribes which were come downe from Hieruſalem, ſaid, *That he hath Beelzebub: and that in the prince of deuils he caſteth out deuils.

* Mat.12,24. Luc.11,15.

23 And after he had called them together, he ſaid to them in parables, How can Satan caſt out Satan?

24 And if a ‖ kingdom be deuided againſt it ſelfe, that kingdom can not ſtand.

25 And if a houſe be deuided againſt it ſelfe, that houſe cannot ſtand.

26 And if Satan be riſen againſt himſelf, he is deuided, and can not ſtand, but hath an end.

27 No body can riſle the veſſell of the ſtrong, being entred into his houſe, vnles he firſt binde the ſtrong, and then ſhall he riſle his houſe.

28 Amen I ſay to you, that all ſinnes ſhal be forgiuen the ſonnes of men, and the blaſphemies wherewith they ſhall blaſpheme.

29 But he that ſhall blaſpheme againſt the holy Ghoſt, he hath not forgiueneſſe for euer, but ſhall be guilty of an ‖ eternall ſinne.

30 Becauſe they ſaid, He hath an vncleane ſpirit.

Mt.12,46. Lu.8,19.

31 And * there come his mother & brethren: and ſtanding without they ſent vnto him calling him,

32 And the multitude ſate about him: & they ſay to him, Behold thy mother and thy brethren without ſeeke thee.

33 And anſwering them, he ſaid, ‖ who is my mother and my brethren?

34 And looking about vpon them which ſate round about him, he ſaith, Behold my mother and my brethren.

35 For whoſoeuer ſhall doe the will of God, he is my brother and my ſiſter and mother.

19 And Iudas Iſcariot which alſo betrayed him: and they come into an houſe.

20 And the people commeth together againe, ſo that they could not ſo much as eate bread.

21 And when they that belonged vnto him, heard of it, they went out to lay hands vpon him, for they ſaid, He is mad.

*22 And the Scribes which came downe from Hieruſalem, ſayd, * He hath Beelzebub, and by the prince of the deuils, caſteth he out deuils.* Matth.9.34. and 12.24. luke 11.14.

23 And when he had called them vnto him, he ſaid vnto them in parables, How can Satan caſt out Satan?

24 And if a realme bee diuided againſt it ſelfe that realme cannot endure.

25 And if a houſe be diuided againſt it ſelfe, that houſe cannot continue.

26 And if Satan make inſurrection againſt himſelfe, and be diuided, he cannot continue, but hath an ende.

27 No man can enter into a ſtrong mans houſe, and take away his goods, except he will firſt bind the ſtrong man, and then will ſpoile his houſe.

*28 * Verily I ſay vnto you, All ſinnes ſhall bee forgiuen vnto the children of men, and blaſphemies, wherewith ſoeuer they ſhall blaſpheme:* Matt.12.38. luke 12.10. iohn 5.16.

29 But hee that ſhall blaſpheme againſt the holy ghoſt, hath neuer forgiueneſſe, but is in danger of eternall damnation.

30 For they ſayd, He hath an vncleane ſpirite.

*31 * There come his mother, and his brethren, and ſtanding without, ſent vnto him, calling him.* Matt.12.46. luke 8.19.

32 And the people ſate about him, and ſayd vnto him, Behold, thy mother, and thy brethren, and thy ſiſters ſeeke for thee without.

33 And he anſwered them, ſaying, Who is my mother, or my brethren?

34 And when he had looked round about on them which ſate about him, he ſayd, Behold my mother and my brethren.

35 For whoſoeuer ſhall doe the will of God, the ſame is my brother, and my ſiſter, and mother.

MARGINALL NOTES.

Rhem. 1. 10 To touch him.) The onely touching of Chriſtes holy perſon, or any part of his clothes, or whatſoeuer belonged to him, did heale all diſeaſes.

Fulke 1. Touching of Chriſt. Chriſt did heale them that touched him by faith, otherwiſe only touching of him, or his garments, was no benefit to any that were void of faith. Ambr. in Luc. lib. 6. c. 8. Iudas kiſſed him, the ſouldiers ſtripped him, the high prieſts ſeruants ſmote him, the people thronged and preſſed him. But they touched him (ſaith S. Bede) which receiued his faith and loue in a true heart. In Marc. lib. 1. c. 3.

Rhem. 2. 13 Thou art the Sonne.) The confeſſion of the truth is not grateſull to God, proceeding from euery perſon. The diuell acknowledging our Sauiour to be the ſonne of God, was bidden hold his peace: Peters confeſſion of the ſame was highly allowed and rewarded. Aug.tract.10.in ep.Ioan.Ser.30.31.de verb.Apoſtoli. Therefore neither Heretikes ſermons muſt be heard, no not though they preach the truth. So is it of their prayer and ſeruice, which being neuer ſo good in it ſelfe, is not acceptable to God out of their mouthes, yea it is no better then the howling of wolues. Hiero.in 7.Oſee.

Sermons, Seruice, and prier of Heretikes.

Fulke. 2. Of them that preach the trueth, we may heare the ſermons: and if their prayers be good, we may be partakers of their prayers. For why ſhould we iudge them heretikes that preach the trueth and pray rightly? If they be heretikes cloſely to themſelues, they hurt themſelues and not vs, which communicate with the trueth which they profeſſe openly, and not with hereſie which they hold priuily. But if they preach hereſie, though they preach ſome trueth among, as all heretikes doe, the weake ſhall do well to forbeare their ſermons, and all men ought to refuſe communion or fellowſhip in prayers and ſacraments with them.

Communion with heretikes.

Rhem. 14 Twelue.) *This number of twelue Apoſtles is myſticall and of great importance (as appeareth * by the chooſing of Mathias into Iudas place to make vp againe this number) prefigured in the 12. Patriarkes,* Gen.49. the 12. Princes of the children of Iſrael. Num.1. the 12. fountaines found in Elim, Exod. 15. the 12. precious ſtones in the Rationall of Aaron, Exod.39. the 12. Spies ſent by Moyſes, Num.13. the 12. ſtones taken out of Iordan where of the Altar was made, Ioſu. 4. the 12. loues of Propoſition, Leuit.24.&c. Anſelm.in Mt.c.10. And theſe are the 12. foundations of heauenly Hieruſalem. Apoc.21.

The number of Twelue, myſticall. Act.1.

Rhem.3. 16 Peter.) *Peter in numbering the Twelue is alwaies the firſt, & his name is ſo giuen him for ſignification of his calling to be the * Rocke or Foundation of the Church vnder Chriſt: as here alſo the name* BOANERGES is giuen to other two Apoſtles for ſignification, and ſo names els where in the old Teſtament and in the new.

Peters preeminence. Mt.16.

Fulke. 3. Peter is not alwayes named firſt, for S.Paule nameth Iames before him, Gal.2.9. and 1.Cor.9.5. he nameth him laſt of all the Apoſtles. And albeit when the twelue are named, Peter is named firſt, it prooueth no greater auctoritie of Peter, then of the foreman of a Iurie who is called firſt for order ſake, yet hath no power or auctoritie ouer his fellowes. So was Peter a foundation ſtone, and all the twelue were the ſame, as you confeſſe, vpon the 14. verſe of this chapter. But of Peters primacie, ſee more in the notes. Math.16.

Peters primacie.

Rhem. 24 Kingdom againſt kingdome.) As this is true in all Kingdoms and Common-weales where Ciuill diſſenſion reigneth, ſo is it ſpecially verified in hereſies and Heretikes, which haue alwaies diuiſions among themſelues as the plague of God, for diuiding themſelues and others from the Church.

Diſſenſion of Heretikes. Greg.li 4.ep.3.

Rhem.4. 29 Eternall ſinne.) That which is here called eternall, is (as S.Matthew expreſſeth it) that which ſhall neither be remitted in this life, nor in the life to come. Where we learne by S. Marke, that there are alſo ſinnes not eternall: and by S. Matthew, that they are ſuch as ſhall be forgiuen either here, or in the life to come.

Mt.12.32. Venial ſinnes forgiuen after death.

Fulke. 4. That all ſinnes are pardonable (except the ſinne againſt the holy ghoſt) we ſee it plaine by the text: that any ſinne ſhall be forgiuen after death, which is not forgiuen in this life, no Logitian in Rhemes, can conclude in a true ſyllogiſme, either out of S.Marke, or S. Matth. See the notes vpon Matth.12.32.

Purgatory.

Rhem. 5. 33 Who is my mother?) Neither is it here ſaid, that he had no mother, as ſome vpon theſe words falſly gather: nor ingratitude to our parents is taught vs by this anſwer: but we be hereby admoniſhed to preferre the ſpirituall mother of the faithfull, which is the Church Catholike, and our brethren in her, and their ſpirituall good, aboue our carnall parents or kinne. For ſo our Maiſter being occupied here about heauenly things, accounted all them his mother and brethren, which did the will of his Father, in which number our Lady his mother was alſo included, for ſhe did his fathers will. Aug.ep.38. Yea and aboue all others, becauſe ſhe had ſo much grace giuen her that ſhe neuer ſinned ſo much as venially in all her life. Aug.de nat.& grat.c.36.

Spirituall kined and beſines preferred before carnall and worldly. The B.Virgin without ſinne.

Fulke 5. That the bleſſed virgin Mary the Mother of God neuer ſinned, not ſo much as venially in all her life, it is a blaſphemous hereſie againſt our Sauiour Chriſt Ieſus: Who came to ſaue that was loſt, and had his name for becauſe he ſhould ſaue his people from their ſinnes, Matt.1. Who did not vniuſtly reprehend her. Luke 2.49.& Iohn 2.4. It is contrary to the Scripture in many places. There is no man that ſinneth not ſaith Salomon. 2.Reg.8. 46. There is no difference ſaieth S.Paule. All haue ſinned, and are depriued of the glory of God being iuſtified freely by his grace, through the redemption which is in Ieſus Chriſt. Rom.3.23. what were the auctoritie of S. Auguſtine, againſt theſe and many ſuch ſo cleere teſtimonies of the holy ſcripture? But in truth, you do falſly aſcribe this heretical ſaying to S.Auguſtine, who hath no ſuch aſſertion. But when the Pelagians named a great many holy men and women, who (as they ſaid) ſinned not, and laſt of all the mother of our Lord and Sauiour, which they ſayd, it was neceſſary vnto pietie, to confeſſe, to be without ſinne. S.Auguſtine anſwereth. Except the holy virgin Mary, of whom I will haue no queſtion for the honour of our Lord when we talke of ſinnes. For whence know we that more grace was giuen to her to ouercome ſinne of all parts, which obtained to conceiue and to bring forth him whom it is certaine to haue had no ſinne. This virgine then excepted, if we could haue them together all thoſe holy men and women when they liued, and haue aſked whether they were without ſinne, what thinke we they would haue anſwered? In this ſpeech we ſee, although S.Auguſtine will haue no queſtion of her ſinne, yet he doth not affirme that ſhe neuer ſinned. And elſe where, he vtterly ouerthrew the ground of this your hereſie, affirming that ſhe was conceiued in Originall ſinne. Et quid inconquinatius &c. And what is more vndefiled ſhe that woman of the virgine, whoſe fleſh although it came of the propagation of ſinne, yet it conceiued not of the offering of ſinne. De geneſ. ad liter.lib.10.cap.18.

The virgin Mary not free from all ſinne.

CHAP. IIII.

The parables (in which he ſpeaketh to the Iewes, becauſe they were reprobate) he expoundeth to his Diſciples, ſhewing that in his ſowing, three partes of foure ſhall periſh, through the faults of the hearers. 21 and that his ſeruants muſt confeſſe their faith, 24 and vſe their gifts (contrary to thoſe ſlouthfull and ſlouenly hearers.) 26 and that his Church (notwithſtanding the loſing of thoſe three partes of the ſeede) ſhall be brought by his prouidence to the harueſt, that is, to the end of the the world: 30 growing ouer all in time, though in the beginning it be as the litle muſtard ſeed, 35 and though ſuch tempeſts of perſecution in the ſea of this world do riſe againſt it.

Mt.13,1. Lu.8,4. AND againe he began to teach at the ſea ſide: and a great multitude was gathered together vnto him, ſo that he went vp into a boate, and ſate in the ſea, and all the multitude about the ſea was vpon the land:

2 And he taught them in parables many things, and ſaid to them in his doctrine,

3 Heare ye: Behold, the ſower went forth to ſow.

4 And whiles he ſoweth, ſome fel by the way ſide, and the foules of the aire came, and did eate it.

5 And other ſome fell vpon rocky places where it had not much earth: and it ſhot vp immediatly, becauſe it had no deepnes of earth:

6 And when the ſunne was riſen, it parched, and becauſe it had not roote, it withered.

7 And ſome fel among thornes: and the thornes grew vp, and choked it, and it yelded not fruite.

8 And ſome fel vpon good ground: and it yelded fruite that grew vp and increaſed, and it brought forth, one thirtie, one ſixtie, and one an hundred.

9 And he ſaid, He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 And when he was alone, the Twelue that were with him, asked him the parable.

11 And he ſaid to them, To you it is giuen to know the myſterie of the kingdom of God: but to ‡ thē that are without, al things are done in parables:

Eſa.6,9. 12 That *ſeeing they may ſee, & not ſee: and hearing they may heare, and not vnderſtand: ‖ leſt at any time they ſhould be conuerted and their ſinnes be forgiuen them.

13 And he ſaith to them, Do you not know this parable? and how ſhall you know all parables?

14 He that ſoweth: ſoweth the word.

15 And they by the way ſide, are theſe: where the word is ſowen, and when they ſhall haue heard, immediatly commeth Satan, & taketh away the word that was ſowen in their hartes.

16 And they likewiſe that are ſowen vpō the rocky places, are theſe: who when they heare the word, immediatly with ioy receiued it.

17 And they haue not root in thēſelues, but are tēporal: afterward whē tribulatiō is riſē & perſe-

*AND * he began againe to teach by the ſea ſide: and there gathered vnto him much people, ſo that he entred into a ſhip, and ſate in the ſea: and all the people was by the ſea ſide on the ſhore.* Matth.13.1. luke 8.4.

2 And hee taught them many things by parables, and ſaid vnto them in his doctrine,

3 Hearken, Behold, there went out a Sower to ſowe:

4 And it fortuned as he ſowed, that ſome fell by the wayes ſide: & the fowles of the aire came, and deuoured it vp.

5 Some fell on ſtonie ground, where it had not much earth: and immediatly it ſprang vp, becauſe it had no depth of earth.

6 But as ſoone as the ſunne was vp, it caught heate, and becauſe it had no roote, it withered away.

7 And ſome fell among thornes, and the thornes grew vp, and choked it, and it gaue no fruit.

8 And ſome fell on good ground, and did yeld fruite that ſprang vp, and grew, and brought forth, ſome thirtie, and ſome ſixtie, and ſome an hundred.

9 And he ſaid vnto them, He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelue, asked of him the parable.

11 And he ſaid vnto them, Vnto you it is giuen to know the myſterie of the kingdom of God: but vnto them that are without, all things are done by parables,

*12 * That when they ſee, they may ſee, and not diſcerne: and when they heare, they may heare, and not vnderſtand, leaſt at any time they ſhould turne, and their ſinnes ſhould be forgiuen them.* Eſai 6.9. matt 13.14. luke 8.10. iohn 12.40. actes 28.26. rom.11.8.

13 And he ſaid vnto them, Know ye not this parable? And how then will ye know all parables?

14 The Sower ſoweth the word.

15 And they that receiued ſeede by the way ſide, are thoſe where the word is ſowen, but when they haue heard, Satan commeth immediatly, and taketh away the word that was ſowen in their hearts.

16 And likewiſe they that receiue ſeede into the ſtonie ground, are they, which when they haue heard the worde, at once receiue it with gladneſſe:

17 Yet haue no roote in themſelues, and ſo endure but a time: and anon when trouble and perſecution for the word, forthwith they are ſcandalized.

18 And other there be that are ſowen among thornes: theſe are they that heare the word,

19 And the cares of the world and the deceitfulneſſe of riches, and concupiſcences about other things entring in choke the word, and it is made fruiteles.

20 And theſe are they that were ſowen vpō the good ground, which heare the word and receiue it, and yeld fruite one thirtie, one ſixtie, and one an hundred.

Lu.8,16. ‡ Chriſt came not to teach his doctrine in corners and bucker mucker, as Heretikes doe, but to lighten the whole world therewith.

21 And he ſaid to them, * Commeth a candel to be put ‡ vnder a buſhell, or vnder a bed? & not to be put vpon the candleſticke?

22 For there is nothing hid, which ſhall not be made manifeſt: neither was any thing made ſecret, but that it ſhall come to light.

23 If any man haue eares to heare, let him heare.

Lu.8,18. ¶ To you that heare.

24 And he ſaid to them, See what you heare. * In what meaſure you mete, it ſhall be meaſured to you againe, and more ſhal be giuen ¶ to you.

25 For he that hath, to him ſhal be giuen: & he that hath not, that alſo which he hath, ſhall be taken away from him.

26 And he ſaid, So is the kingdome of God, as if a man caſt ſeede into the earth, 27 ‖ And ſleepe, and riſe vp night and day, and the ſeede ſpring, and grow vp whiles he knoweth not.

28 For the earth of it ſelfe bringeth forth fruite, firſt the blade, then the eare, afterward the full corne in the eare.

29 And when the fruite hath brought out it ſelfe, immediatly he putteth in the ſickle, becauſe harueſt is come.

Mat.13,31. Luc.13,19.

30 * And he ſaid, To what ſhall we liken the kingdom of God? or to what parable ſhall we compare it?

31 As a ‖ muſtard ſeede: which when it is ſowen in the earth, is leſſe then all the ſeedes that are in the earth:

32 And when it is ſowen, it riſeth vp, and becommeth greater then all herbes, and maketh great boughes, ſo that the ‖ birdes of the aire may dwell vnder the ſhadow thereof.

33 And with many ſuch parables he ſpake to them the word, according as they were able to heare:

34 And without parable he did not ſpeake vnto them. but apart, he explicated all things to his Diſciples.

35 And

perſecution ariſeth for the wordes ſake, immediatly they are offended.

18 And thoſe be they that receiue ſeede among thornes: and they are ſuch as heare the word,

*19 And the cares of this world, * and the deceitfulneſſe of riches, & the luſtes of other things entring in, choke the worde, and it is made vnfruitfull.* 1.Tim.6.17.

20 And they which receiued ſeede into good ground, are ſuch as heare the word, and receiue it, ſo that one corne doth bring forth thirtie. ſome ſixtie. ſome an hundred.

*21 And he ſaid vnto them, * Is the candle lighted to be put vnder a buſhell, or vnder the table? and not to be put on a candleſticke?* Matth.5.15. luke 8.16. and 11.33.

*22 * For there is nothing ſo priuie, that ſhall not be opened: neither hath it bene ſo ſecret, but that it ſhall come abroad.* Matt.10.26. luke 8.17. and 12.2.

23 If any man haue eares to heare, let him heare.

*24 And he ſaid vnto them, Take heede what ye heare: * With what meaſure ye mete, with the ſame ſhall it be meaſured to you againe: And vnto you that heare ſhall more be giuen.* Matth.7.2. luke 6.38.

*25 * For vnto him that hath, ſhall it be giuen: and from him that hath not, ſhall be taken away, euen that which he hath.* Matt.13.12. and 25.29. luke 8.18. and 19.26.

26 And he ſaid, So is the kingdome of God, euen as if a man ſhould ſow ſeed in the ground, 27 And ſhould ſleepe, and riſe night & day, and the ſeed ſhould ſpring and grow vp, he knoweth not how.

28 For the earth bringeth foorth fruit of her ſelfe, firſt the blade, then the eare, after that the full corne in the eare,

29 But when the fruite is brought forth, anon he thruſteth in the ſickle, becauſe the harueſt is come.

*30 And he ſaid, * Whereunto ſhall we liken the kingdome of God? Or with what compariſon ſhall we compare it?* Matt.13.31. luke 13.19.

31 It is like a graine of muſtard ſeed: which when it is ſowen in the earth, is leſſe then all ſeeds that be in the earth:

32 And when it is ſowen, it groweth vp, and is greater then all herbes, and beareth great braunches, ſo that the fowles of the aire may make their neſtes vnder the ſhadowe of it.

*33 * And with many ſuch parables preached he the worde vnto them, as they were able to heare it.* Matt.13.34.

34 But without parable ſpake he not vnto them: but when they were alone, he expounded all things to his diſciples.

*35 * And*

35 And he ſaith to them in that day, whē euening was come, * Let vs paſſe ouer to the other ſide. Mt.8,23. Lu.8,22.

36 And dimiſſing the multitude, they take him ſo as he was in the boate: & there were other boates with him.

37 And there aroſe a great ſtorme of winde, and the waues bette into the boate, ſo that the boate was filled.

38 And he was in the hinder part of the boate ſleeping vpon a pillow: and they raiſe him, and ſay to him, Maiſter doth it not pertaine to thee that we periſh?

39 And riſing vp he threatened the winde, and ſaid to the ſea, Peace, be ſtil. And the winde ceaſed: and there was made a great calme.

40 And he ſaid to them, Why are you feareful? neither yet haue you faith? And they feared with great feare: and they ſaid one to an other, Who is this (thinkeſt thou) that both winde and ſea obey him?

*35 And the ſame day when the Euen was come, he ſaith vnto them, Let vs paſſe ouer vnto the other ſide. Matth. 8.23. luke.8.22.

36 And they left the people, and tooke him, euen as he was in the ſhip, and there were alſo with him other litle ſhips.

37 And there aroſe a great ſtorme of winde, and the waues daſhed into the ſhip, ſo that it was now full.

38 And he was in the ſterne aſleepe on a pillow: and they awake him, and ſay vnto him, Maſter, careſt thou not that we periſh?

39 And he aroſe, and rebuked the winde, and ſaid vnto the ſea, Peace, and be ſtill: and the winde ceaſſed, and there followed a great calme.

40 And he ſaide vnto them, Why are yee fearefull? How is it that ye haue no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and ſaid one to another, Who is this, that both the winde and the ſea obey him?

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1. ‡ 11. Them that.) Such as be out of the Church, though they heare and read neuer ſo much they cannot vnderſtand. Bed in 4 Marc.

Fulke. 1. You ſlander S. Bede, he ſayth not ſo. For how ſhould heretikes be brought to the Church, if they did not profit by reading and hearing? How was S. Auguſtine when he was an heretike, brought to be a catholike, but by reading, and hearing of S. Ambroſe, as he himſelfe confeſſeth? Bedes wordes are theſe: Illi ergo qui foris ſunt, &c. To them that are without, and come not nere to our Lords feet, that they may be partakers of his doctrine, all things are done in parables, both the works and the words of our Sauiour, for neither in thoſe wonders which he wrought, nor in thoſe ſecrets which he preached, they are able to know God, therefore they are not meet to atteine to remiſſion of ſinnes, which is to be atteined by grace of this faith. Of theſe wordes it is plaine, that Bede ſpake not of euery one that is out of the Church, but of obſtinate deſpiſers of the trueth, which will not become ſcholars to our Sauiour Chriſt.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 2. 12 Leſt they ſhould be conuerted.) *Theſe ſpeaches here and elswhere, we muſt not ſo vnderſtand as though he ſpake in parables of purpoſe and to this end, that the hearers might not vnderſtand, leſt they ſhould be conuerted: which were as much to ſay as that he would not haue them vnderſtand, nor be conuerted: but we muſt learne the true ſenſe of this very place in S. Fulke. 1. When Chriſt diſpenſeth the miraculous gift of healing by touching of his garment, or his Apoſtles, or their napkins, or their ſhadow, the good Catholike conceiueth hope to be healed by ſuch meanes. But ſince the gift of miracles is ceaſed, to looke for helpe or holineſſe of ſuch thinges, it is ſuperſtition, or tempting of God. Chryſoſtome in that place quoted, ſpeaketh of the miracles done in the Primitiue church by the Apoſtles, and other which had the gift of working miracles in thoſe times. That which S. Baſile ſaith is this: He ſheweth that the death of all the ſaintes of God (that is of all true Chriſtians) is precious in the ſight of God, as the Pſalmiſt ſayth: And although by the Iewiſh law, he that touched a dead body, was vncleane, and muſt waſh his garmentes: Yet now (ſayth he) he that hath touched a martyrs bones, receiueth a certaine participation of ſanctification, of the grace, that reſted in the bodie: therefore precious in the ſight of the Lord is the death of his ſaincts. By touching a martyres bones, he meaneth not ſuperſtitious touching (for which you abuſe his words) but ſuch touching, as is neceſſarie in them, that burie the ſaincts, or gather their bones together for buriall, after they be burnt or otherwiſe diſperſed by their perſecutors. As it is manifeſt, by the Iewiſh pollution by touching, which was the office of buriall, forbidden to the Prieſts. And the participation of ſanctification which he nameth, is the holy communion or fellowſhip that Chriſtians haue, with the ſainct departed in the grace of God, wher- Miracles. of they were partakers in their life. Whereof they declare them ſelues to be partakers, which exerciſe ſuch offices of charitie, towards the bodies and bones of the Saincts and Martyrs departed. And this is the right meaning of Baſiles wordes, which you haue peruerted both in ſence and tranſlation. For what honour he thought meete to be giuen to the Martyrs, he teſtifieth in the Homilie vpon the Martyr Gordius Hom. 48. It is the moſt ridiculous thing that can be (ſayth he) when the righteous deſpiſed the whole world, that we ſhould take vpon vs to ſet forth their full commendation, of a few things which they contemned. Therefore a remembrance is ſufficient for our perpetuall profite. For they haue no need of any increaſe to their glorie, but a remembrance is needfull for vs, that we may imitate or follow them. In theſe wordes Baſill declareth, that all other waies of honouring the Martyrs and Saincts departed, then by imitation, are vaine and ſuperfluous. And that a remembrance for imitation, is ſufficient for vs to take perpetuall profite by them. As for grace or vertue that is in their bones, to communicate to them that ſuperſtitiouſly touch them, is farre, both from his wordes, and from his meaning. Honour of Saincts.

Rhem. 2. 30. Vertue.) Vertue to heale this womans maladie, proceeded from Chriſt, though ſhe touched but his coate: ſo when the Saincts by their Relikes or garments do miracles, the grace and force thereof commeth from our Sauiour, they being but the meanes or inſtruments of the ſame.

Fulke. 2. While the gift of miracles continued in the Church, it is true that the grace and force of them, came from our Sauiour But that by relikes or garments of Saincts, Chriſt worketh miracles at this day, it is more needfull to proue, then to ſhew whence the grace and force of them doth come. Except you will aduouch, all the fained miracles rehearſed in your Legendes, and the bookes of Saincts liues, to be true: by this argument. Chriſt can worke miracles by reliques and garments of Saincts, ergo there is no queſtion to be made, but all miracles of the Legend were as truely done, as thoſe that be recorded in the Goſpell. Reliques. Miracles.

Rhem. 3. 36. Only beleeue.) It is our common ſpeache, when we require one thing ſpecially, though other things alſo be as neceſſarie, and more neceſſarie. As the Phyſition to his patient. Only haue a good hart: when he muſt alſo keepe a diet, & take potions, things more requiſite. So Chriſt in this great infidelity of the Iewes, required only that they would beleeue he was able to doe ſuch a cure, ſuch a miracle, and then he did it: otherwiſe as followeth in the next Chapter, He could not do miracles there becauſe of their incredulity. Againe, for this ſelfe he gaue them here and in al like places health of body, which they deſired, and therfore he ſaith not, Thy faith hath iuſtified thee: but, hath made thee ſafe or whole. Againe this was the fathers faith, which could not iuſtifie the daughter, whereby it is moſt euident, that this Scripture, and the like, are fooliſhly abuſed of the Heretikes to proue that only faith iuſtifieth. Scripture fondly applyed to proue onely faith. V. 5.

Fulke 3. You would beare your fonliſh diſciples the Papiſtes in hand, that we haue no better arguments to proue iuſtification by faith only without the workes of the lawe, then theſe wordes of our Sauiour, Only beleeue. And therefore you draw our Sauiours wordes, to be like a common inconſiderate ſpeech of ours, when the Phiſition ſaith, Only haue a good heart, where other things are neceſſary. But although the queſtion of iuſtification in this place be not handled ſpecially, nor directly: yet the wordes of our Sauiour Chriſt, declare generally, that to receiue any benefite from him, there is required at our hand nothing els but faith, that we may be able to receiue it. And yet he meaneth not a dead and ſolitarie faith, but a faith liuing, and which is fruitfull of good workes, yet not by the workes, but by the faith onely, his benefite is receiued. Hierome and Beda vpon this text, extende it to iuſtification by faith, as the very analogie from the bodie to the ſoule, doth leade them. Iuſtification by faith only.

Rhem. Aug. de verb. Dom. 44. 41. Wenche ariſe.) Chriſts miracles, beſides that they be wonders and waies to ſhew his power, be alſo ſignificatiue: as theſe which be corporally raiſed from death, put vs in minde of his raiſing our ſoules from ſinne. The Scripture maketh ſpecial mention only of three raiſed by our Sauiour, of which three, this wenche is one, within the houſe: an other, the widowes ſonne in Naim, now caried out toward the graue: the third, Lazarus hauing been in the graue foure daies, and therfore ſtinking. which diuerſity of dead bodies, ſignifie diuerſity of dead ſoules, ſome more deſperate then other, ſome paſt al mans hope, and yet by the grace of Chriſt to be reuiued and reclaimed. By three dead, are ſignified three kind of ſinners.

he heard him gladly.

21 And when a conuenient day was fallen, Herod made the ſupper of his birth-day to the Princes and the Tribunes and the cheefe of Galilee.

25 And when ſhe was gone in by and by with haſt to the King, ſhe asketh ſaying, I wil that forthwith thou giue me in a platter the head of Iohn the Baptiſt.

26 And the King was ſtroken ſad. Becauſe of his othe and for them that ſate together at table he would not diſpleaſe her:

27 But ſending the hangman, commaunded that his head ſhould be brought in a platter.

28 And he beheaded him in the priſon, and brought his head in a platter: and gaue it to the damſel, and the damſel gaue it to her mother.

23 And he ſware vnto her, Whatſoeuer thou ſhalt aske of me, I will giue it thee, euen vnto the one halfe of my kingdome.

24 And ſhe went foorth, and ſaid vnto her mother, What ſhall I aske? She ſaide, Iohn Baptiſtes head.

25 And ſhe came in ſtraightway with haſte vnto the king, and asked, ſaying, I will that thou giue me by and by in a charger, the head of Iohn Baptiſt.

26 And the king was exceeding ſorie, howbeit for his othes ſake, and for their ſakes which ſate at ſupper alſo, he would not caſt her off.

27 And immediately the king ſent the hangman, & commanded his head to be brought in, and he went and beheaded him in the priſon,

28 And brought his head in a charger, and gaue it to the Damoſel, and the Damoſel gaue it to her mother.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 1. 13. Oile many ſicke.) A preparatiue to the Sacrament of extreme vnction Iac. 5.

Fulke. 1. A preparatiue to a Sacrament, that neuer was inſtituted to be perpetuall. Nay rather a cleere demonſtration, that S. Iames ſpeaketh of a temporall ceremonie of anoynting with oyle, to continue ſo long, as the gift of healing remained with the elders of the Church. Extreme vnction.

Rhem. 2. 17. Philippe his brother.) He might and ſhould by Moyſes Lawe haue maried his brothers wife, if he had bin dead without iſſue: but this Philip was yet aliue, and had alſo this daughter that dannced.

Fulke. 2. He neither might nor coulde by Moſes lawe, haue maried his naturall brothers wife, which is expreſly forbidden. Leu. 18. 16. 20. 21. Therefore the lawe, Deut. 25. 5. is to be vnderſtood of kinſemen, not prohibited by the former lawe: and that the practiſe declareth Ruth 4. For the Hebrue tongue calleth all kinſemen brethren, as is plaine in this Chapter, verſe 3. Therefore this is both an heretical and a trayterous note. Mariage of the brothers wife.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 3. 3. The carpenter.) As his countrie-folkes ſeeing him not onely to be a poore man, but alſo knowing (as they thought) his whole parentage to be but vulgar, not reaching to his Godhead and diuine generation, did take offence or ſcandale of him: ſo doe the Heretikes take like offence at his perſon in the B. Sacrament, ſaying, why, this is not God: for it is bread made of corne by ſuch a baker, of the ſame mould that ſuch a lofe is: not marking that it was not made Chriſt by baking, but by Conſecration, and the vertue of Chriſtes wordes.

Fulke. 3. Chriſt was God manifeſted in ỳ fleſh, both by ỳ Scriptures & his glorious workes. But ỳ ſuppoſed preſence of his body in the maſſe cake is contrary to the Scriptures, and the trueth of his naturall body. If you alledge the wordes of Chriſt, this is my body, the Iewes had many textes of Scripture, concerning the eternall generation of Chriſt, and his glorious kingdome, which ſeemed contrary to ỳ infirmitie, & humilitie of his firſt comming: Yet were not being rightly vnderſtood. No more is that text of the preſence of his body after a ſpirituall maner to the faith of the worthy receiuers, contrary to thoſe Scriptures, which aduouche the trueth of his humanitie: whereunto the popiſh imaginarie preſence is contrary, and cannot be reconciled without fables, and fained miracles, where none is, as S. Auguſtine ſaith, De trinit. lib. 3. cap. 4. Reall preſence.

Rhem. 3. They were ſcandalized.) This ſcandal roſe partly of enuie of his equals by birth, who repining them ſelues as good as he, tooke ſkorne to be taught of him. whereupon Chriſt ſaith, A Prophet is not without honour but in his owne countrie: ſignifying (as it is plaine in Luke) the malice and enuie of the Iewes his countrie men in refuſing him (Io. 1.) and that the Gentiles would more eſteeme of him. Chryſho. 49. in Mt. Lu. 4. 28 Rhem. 4. 5. He could not.) *It is ſaid that he could not worke miracles there, not meaning that he was not able, but that on their part there wanted apt diſpoſition to receiue them. And therefore he would not of congruitie worke there, where their incredulitie was ſo great, that it would not haue profited them. And for this cauſe he ſaith * els where to them that will ſee and enioy his miracles,* Onely beleeue. Mat. 5. 36. Mat. 10.

Fulke. 4. They wanted faith, which is the onely inſtrument to receiue the benefites of God.

Rhem. 5. 8. Not two coates.) He forbiddeth ſuperfluities, and to careful proniſion of bodily things, when they are about Gods ſeruice in gaining ſoules. And for the contrarietie that ſeemeth here and in S. Matthewe, vnderſtand that there he forbiddeth them to carie rod or ſtaffe to defend themſelues, here he permitteth a walking rod or ſtaffe to leane and ſtay vpon: there he forbiddeth ſhoes to couer all the foote, ſuch as we weare: here he permitteth ſandals, that is ſuch as had ſoles onely, which the poore commonly ware in Iewry, and now ſome religious men. See S. Auguſt. opinion li. 2. c. 30. de conſenſu Euang. to 4.

Fulke. 5. Barefoote Friers, with their ſandales, be not ſo good as apes of the Apoſtles, in this their ſpeciall commiſſion. Neither doeth S. Auguſtine ſpeake any thing of them. Their father Francis, was not borne ſcarſe a thouſand yeeres after S. Auguſtine. Barefoote Friers.

Rhem. 6. 13. With oyle.) In the wordes of the commiſſion oyle is not mentioned, and yet is certaine by this their vſing of oyle, that either Chriſt did then appoint them to vſe it, or they might take it vp of them ſelues, by vertue of the generall commiſſion.

Fulke. 6. Saint Marke in declaring their commiſſion, expreſſeth not that they had power graunted to heale the ſicke, yet it is manifeſt, both by S. Matthewe, and by that which S. Marke reporteth of their practiſe, that they had commiſſion to cure the ſicke. Euen ſo although the viſible ſigne of oyle, is not expreſſed in rehearſall of their commiſſion: yet it is to be vnderſtoode by their practiſe, that it was appointed them, ſo to vſe it: and not that they tooke it vp of them ſelues, by any generall commiſſion. Expreſſe word of God.

Rhem.7. 13. With Oile.) By this it is cleere that not onely the Apoſtles or other may haue power to worke miracles by their onely worde and inuocation of Chriſtes name, but alſo by application of creatures: which creatures alſo haue a miraculous medicinall vertue to heale diſeaſes.

Fulke.7. They that haue the power graunted of God, as the Apoſtles had, may doe as they did, but who be they? or where be they nowe, that haue the power of working miracles? But when there was ſuch, theſe creatures were but externall tokens of the grace of God diſpenſed by the vſe of them, they had no miraculous medicinall vertue in them. Miracles.

CHAP. VII.

The maſters of Hieruſalem comming ſo farre to carpe him 6. he chargeth with traditions, partly friuolous, 9. partly alſo contrary to Gods commaundements. 14. And to the people he yeeldeth the reaſon of that which they carped, 17. and againe to his Diſciples, ſhewing the ground of the Ieuiſh waſhing (to wit, that meates otherwiſe defile the ſoule) to be falſe. 24. But by and by among the Gentiles, in a woman he findeth wonderfull faith, vpon her therefore he beſtoweth the crumme that ſhe aſked, 32. returning (becauſe the time of the Gentiles was not yet come) to the Iewes with the loafe. 32. Where hee ſheweth his compaſſion towardes mankinde ſo deafe and dumme, 36. and of the people is highly magnified.

Mat.15,1. AND there aſſemble together vnto him the Phariſees and certaine of ỹ Scribes, comming from Hieruſalem.

2 And when they had ſeene certaine of his Diſciples eate bread with ‖ common handes, that is, not waſhed, they blamed them.

3 For the Phariſees and all the Iewes, vnleſſe they often waſh their handes, eate not, holding the tradition of the Auncients:

4 And from the market, vnleſſe they be waſhed, they eate not: & many other things there be that were deliuered vnto them to obſerue, the waſhings of cuppes and cruſes, and of braſen veſſels and beddes.

‡ They that ſay well or teache and preach well, or haue Chriſt and his word in their mouth, & liue naughtily, be touched in this place. Eſa.29,13.

5 And the Phariſees and Scribes asked him, why doe not thy diſciples walke according to ỹ tradition of the Auncients, but they eate bread with common hands?

6 But he anſwering, ſaid to them, wel did Eſay Prophecie of you hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoureth me ‡ with their lippes, but their hart is farre from me.

7 And in vaine doe they worſhip me, teaching doctrines ‖ precepts of men.

8 For leauing the commaundement of God, you hold the traditions of men, the waſhings of cruſes and cuppes: and many other things you doe like to theſe.

9 And he ſaid to them, well doe you fruſtrate the precept of God, that you may obſerue your owne tradition.

Exo.20,12. Leu.20,9. 10 For Moyſes ſaid, Honour thy father and thy mother. and, He that ſhal curſe father or mother, dying let him dye.

2 And when they ſawe ſome of his diſciples eate bread with defiled (that is to ſay, with vnwaſhen hands) they found fault.

3 For the Phariſees, and all the Iewes, except they waſh their hands oft, eate not, obſeruing the tradition of the elders.

4 And when they come from the market, except they waſh, they eate not. And many other things there be, which they haue taken vpon them to obſerue, as the waſhing of cuppes and pots, braſen veſſels, and of tables.

8 For the commaundement of God being laid apart, ye obſerue the tradition of men, as the waſhing of pots and cups: and many other ſuch like things ye doe.

18 And he ſaith to them, So are you alſo vnskilfull? Vnderſtand you not that euery thing from without, entring into a man, can not make him common:

19 Becauſe it entreth not into his hart, but goeth into the bellie, and is caſt out into the priuie, purging all the meates?

20 But he ſaide that the thinges which come foorth from a man, they make a man common.

21 For from within out of ỹ hart of men proceede euill cogitations, aduouteries, fornications, murders, 22 Theftes, auarices, wickednesse, guile, impudicities, an euill eye, blaſphemie, pride, fooliſhneſſe.

17 And when he came into the houſe away from the people, his diſciples asked him of the ſimilitude.

18 And he ſaith vnto them, Are ye alſo ſo without vnderſtanding? Doe ye not perceiue that whatſoeuer thing from without entreth into the man, it cannot defile him, 19 Becauſe it entreth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, purging all the meates?

20 And he ſaid, That which commeth out of the man, defileth the man.

24 And from thence he aroſe, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entred into an houſe, & would that no man ſhould haue knowen, but he could not be hid.

25 For a certaine woman, whoſe yong daughter had an vncleane ſpirite, when ſhe had heard of him, came and fell at his feete.

26 (The woman was a Greeke, out of the nation of Syrophanicia:) and ſhe beſought him that hee woulde caſt out the deuill from her daughter.

27 But Ieſus ſaide vnto her, Let the children firſt be fed: for it is not meete to take the childrens bread, and to caſt it vnto the litle dogges.

28 She anſwered, and ſaid vnto him, Yes lord, for the litle dogges alſo eate vnder the table of the childrens crummes.

29 And he ſaide vnto her, For this ſaying, goe thy way, the deuill is gone out of thy daughter.

30 And whē ſhe was come home to her houſe, ſhe founde that the deuill was departed, and her daughter lying on the bed.

33 And whē he had taken him aſide from the people, he put his fingers into his eares, and when he had ſpit, touched his tongue.

34 And when he had looked vp to heauen, ſighed, and ſaide vnto him, Ephphatha, that is to ſay, Be thou opened.

35 And ſtraightway his eares were opened, and the ſtring of his tongue was looſed, and he ſpake plaine.

36 And he commaunded them that they ſhould tell no man: but the more he commaunded them, ſo much the more a great deale they publiſhed it,

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VII.

Rhem. 2. Common.) Common and vncleane is all one. For the Iewes were commaunded by the Lawe to eate certaine kindes of meates onely, and not all indifferently: and becauſe theſe were ſeparated from other meates, and as it were ſanctified to their vſe, they called the other common and prophane: and becauſe the Lawe calleth theſe cleane and theſe vncleane, thereof it is, that vncleane and common is all one. as in this Chapter often, and Act. 10.

Rhem. 1. 7. Precepts of men.) Mens ordinances which be repugnant to Gods commandements, be here condemned: as all obſeruations not edifying nor profitable to the fulfilling of Gods commandements, be vaine and ſuperfluous: as many obſeruations of the Phariſees were then, and the like traditions of Heretikes be nowe. for howſoeuer they bragge of Scriptures, all their maner of adminiſtration and miniſterie is their owne tradition and inuention without all Scripture and warrant of Gods word. But the traditions of the Apoſtles and Ancients, and all the precepts of holy Church we are commaunded to keepe, as things not preſcribed by man, but by the holy Ghoſt. Act. 15, 28. 41. 2. Theſſal. 2, 15.

Commandements of men.

Traditions.

Fulke. 1. Precepts of men be not onely ſuch, as be repugnant to Gods commaundements, but euen ſuch as are beſide Gods commaundements, wherein any part of religion or ẏ ſeruice of God is placed. As this waſhing of hands before meate, and ſuch like of them ſelues, are not repugnant to Gods commaundements, and may be vſed for cleanlineſſe, but not for religion. So the popiſh traditions, which they call the traditions of the Apoſtles and auncients, and precepts of the holy Church, are eyther manifeſtly repugnant to Gods commandements, or els ſuperſtitious inuentions of men, by which God is worſhipped in vaine. And are nothing like to the decrees of the Councell of the Apoſtles Actes 15. nor to the doctrine which S. Paul deliuered 2. Theſſ. 2. 15. See the notes vpon Matth. 15. the ſect 2. and 3. That our miniſterie and miniſtration are agreeable to the Scriptures, let the Scriptures beare witneſſe, yea your owne conſcience and confeſſion by ſilence: for if any thing could haue bene alledged out of the Scripture againſt vs, it ſhould not haue bene ſpared.

Mans precepts. Traditions.

Rhem. 2. 11. Gift.) To giue to the Church or Altar is not forbidden, but the forſaking of a mans parents in their neceſſitie, pretending or excuſing the matter vpon his giuing that which ſhould relieue them, to God or to the Altar, that is impious and vnnaturall. And theſe Phariſees teaching children ſo to neglect their duties to their parents, did wickedly.

Duetie to parents.

Fulke. 2. Chriſt ſpeaketh of the Iewiſh altar. The Church of Chriſt hath none ſuch: therefore it is ſinne to giue to the idolatrous Altar of poperie. But to the maintenance of Gods religion, it is not forbidden to giue, ſo we neglect not vnder that pretence, other neceſſarie dueties commaunded by God.

Popiſh Altar.

Rhem. 3. 15. Nothing entring into a man.) As theſe wordes of our Sauiour doe not import, that the Iewes then might haue eaten of thoſe meates which God forbade them: no more doe they nowe, that we Chriſtians may eate of meates which the Church forbiddeth vs. And yet both then and nowe all meates are cleane, and nothing entering into a man, defileth a man. For neither they then, nor we now abſtaine, for that any meates are of their nature abominable, or defile the eaters, but they for ſignification, we for obedience and chaſtiſement of our bodies.

Abſtinence from certaine meates.

Fulke. 3. The Church of Chriſt forbiddeth not meates for religions ſake: but Antichriſt attending to lying ſpirites, and the doctrine of deuils, forbiddeth meates and mariages for religion, and in the abſtinence placeth Religion, and holineſſe. As for your pretence of obedience, and chaſtiſement, is but lying in hypocriſie, for that there is no chaſtiſement of the body, in change of the meate. And thoſe things which of you are not forbidden, as wines, ſpices, fruites, &c. are more incentiue of luſt, then common fleſh, which you doe forbidde. Durande alſo (howeſoeuer you woulde cloke the matter) ſaith fleſh is forbidden, and fiſh allowed, becauſe God curſed the earth, but not the waters. See more vpon Matth. Chap. 15, ſect. 4. and 5.

Forbidding of meates and mariage.

33 Spitting.)

Rhem.4. 33. Spitting.) Not only by Chriſts word and will, but alſo by ceremonie and by application of external creatures which be holy, miracles are wrought as by Chriſts ſpittle, which was not parte of his perſon, being a ſuperfluitie of his body, but yet moſt holy. Theophyl. in 7. Marci. — Chriſts ſpittle worketh miracles.

Fulke 4. Chriſtes ſpittle worketh not miracles, but Chriſt by it, or any other thing whatſoeuer it pleaſeth him, or without any thing, but by his owne word or will worketh miracles. Therfore we muſt not imagine any power or holines in ceremonies or creatures vnſenſible, to doe any thing of themſelues, but when it pleaſeth our Sauiour Chriſt to vſe them to ſuch purpoſes, as in his Sacraments vſually, or in his miracles extraordinarily. — Miracles. Holines in ceremonies or creatures.

Rhem. 5. 34. Ephphetha.) The Church doeth moſt godly imitate and vſe theſe very words and ceremonies of our Sauiour in the Exorciſmes before Baptiſme, to the healing of their ſoules that are to be baptized, as Chriſt here healed the bodily infirmitie and the diſeaſe of the ſoule together. Ambroſ. li. 1. de Sacram. c. 1. — Exorciſmes and other ceremonies in Baptiſme.

Fulke. 5. The Popiſh Church, doeth apiſhly and ridiculouſly imitate our Sauiour Chriſt, in coniuring out of the diuels there, where there is none, and abuſeth his holy wordes and actions, to a ſuperſtitious purpoſe. Neither doeth S. Ambroſe ſpeake of exorciſme vſed in the miniſtration of Baptiſme, although hee name a ceremonie needeleſſe, and not vſed of you Papiſts, namely the touching of the eares of him that was baptized, to ſignifie that his eares ſhould be open to heare the doctrine of the Prieſt, and of his noſtrels, that he might receiue the good ſauour of eternal pietie. But the mouth (ſaith he) the Biſhop toucheth not, adding a reaſon, why they folowed not Chriſt in touching the mouth, as well as the eares. But that they vſed ſpittle or the Syrian word Epphata S. Ambroſe ſaith nor. They had in that time many ſuperfluous and burthenous ceremonies of mans preſumption, about baptiſme and other rites, whereof S. Auguſtine complained, and wiſhed that they might be aboliſhed. Epiſt. 118. Ianuario. — Apiſh imitation. Needeleſſe ceremonies of olde time.

CHAP. VIII.

Of compaſſion he feedeth the people, 4000. with ſeuen loaues. 10 After al which miracles as though they were yet vnſufficient to proue him to be Chriſt, the Iſhmaie Phariſees doe require ſome miracle from heauen. 13 Wherepon forſaking them, he warneth his Diſciples to beware of the leauen of their doctrine, neither to feare want of neceſſaries. 22 He healeth a blinde man by degrees & with ceremonies. 27 Peter confeſſeth him (though not at this while had not learned ſo farre) to be Chriſt. 31 and by and by he reuealeth to them his paſſion, 32 rebuking alſo Peter for diſſuading it, 34 and ſhewing that it is a thing wherein al that will be ſaued (namely in time of perſecution) muſt folow him.

Mt. 15,32. The Gospel vpon the 6. Sunday after Pentecoſt.

IN thoſe dayes againe when there was a great multitude, & had not what to eate: calling his Diſciples together, he ſaith to them,

*IN thoſe dayes, * the company being very great, and hauing nothing to eate, when Ieſus had called his diſciples vnto him, he ſaith vnto them,* — Matt. 15.32.

2 I haue compaſſion vpon the multitude: becauſe loe ‡ three daies they now endure with me, neither haue what to eate.

‡ Great feruour and deuotion in the good people, and exceeding force in our Maiſters preaching, that made them abide faſting ſo long to heare his diuine ſermons.

2 I haue compaſſion on the people, becauſe they haue nowe bene with mee three dayes, and haue nothing to eate:

3 And if I diminiſſe them faſting into their home, they will faint in the way: for ſome of them came farre of.

3 And if I ſende them away faſting to their owne houſes, they ſhall faint by the way: for diuers of them come from farre.

4 And his Diſciples anſwered him, whēce may a man fill them here with bread in the wildernes?

4 And his diſciples anſwered him, From whence can a man ſatisfie theſe men with bread here in the wildernes?

5 And he asked them, How many loaues haue ye? Who ſaid, Seuen.

5 And he asked them, How many loaues haue ye? They ſaid, Seuen.

6 And he commaunded the multitude to ſit downe vpon the ground. And taking the ſeuen loaues, giuing thankes he brake, and ‖ gaue to his Diſciples for to ſet before them, and they did ſet them before the multitude.

6 And he commanded the people to ſit downe on the ground: and he tooke the ſeuen loaues, and when he had giuen thankes, he brake, and gaue to his diſciples to ſet before them: and they did ſet them before the people.

7 And they had a few litle fiſhes: and ‖ he bleſſed them, and commaunded them to be ſet before them.

7 And they had a fewe ſmall fiſhes: and when he had bleſſed, hee commaunded to ſet them alſo before them.

8 And they did eate and were filled. and they tooke vp that which was left of the fragments, ſeuen maundes.

8 So they did eate, and were ſufficed: and they tooke vp of the broken meate that was left, ſeuen baskets full.

9 And they that had eaten were about foure thouſand: and he diminiſſed them.

9 And they that had eaten, were about foure thouſand: And he ſent them away.

Mt. 15,39. 16,1. 10 And *immediatly going vp into the boate with his Diſciples, hee came into the quarters of Dalmanūtha.

12 And groning in ſpirit, he ſaith, why doeth this generation aske a ſigne? Amen I ſay to you, If a ſigne ſhal be giuen to this generation.

13 And leauing them, he went vp againe into the boate, and paſſed beyond the ſtraite.

14 And they forgot to take bread: and they had but one loafe w̄ them in the boate.

15 And hee commaunded them, ſaying, Looke well and beware of the leauen of the Phariſees, and the leauen of Herod.

16 And they reaſoned among themſelues ſaying, Becauſe we haue not bread.

17 Which IESVS knowing, ſaith to them, why doe you reaſon, becauſe you haue not bread? do you not yet know nor vnderſtand? yet haue you your hart blinded?

18 Hauing eyes ſee you not? and hauing eares heare you not? Neither doe you remember?

Mar.6,38. 19 When *I brake fiue loaues amōg fiue thouſand: and how many baskets ful of fragmēts tooke you vp? They ſay to him, Twelue.

Mr.8,5. 20 *When alſo ſeuen loaues amōg foure thouſand, how many maundes of fragments tooke you vp? And they ſay to him, Seuen.

21 And he ſaide to them, How doe you not yet vnderſtand?

22 And they come to Bethſaida: and they bring to him one blind, and deſired him that he would ‡touch him.

23 And taking the hand of the blinde, he led him forth out of the towne: and ſpitting into his eyes, impoſing his handes, he asked him if he ſaw any thing.

24 And looking vp, he ſaid, I ſee men as it were trees, walking.

25 After that againe he impoſed his hands vpon his eies, and he began to ſee, and was reſtored, ſo that he ſaw al things clerely.

26 And he ſent him into his houſe, ſaying, Goe into thy houſe: and if thou enter in to the towne, tel nobody.

Mt.16,13. Lu.9,18. 27 And*IESVS went forth and his Diſciples into the townes of Cæſarêa-Philippi: and in the way he asked his Diſciples, ſaying to them, Whom doe men ſay that I am?

28 Who anſwered him, ſaying, Iohn the Baptiſt, ſome Elias, & other ſome as it were one of the Prophets.

29 Then he ſaith to them, But whom doe you ſay that I am? Peter anſwering ſaide to him, Thou art Chriſt.

30 And he threatened them that they ſhould not tel any man of him,

12 And when hee had ſighed deepely in his ſpirit, hee ſaith, Why doe this generation ſeeke a ſigne? Verily I ſay vnto you, There ſhall no ſigne be giuen vnto this generation.

16 And they reaſoned among themſelues, ſaying, We haue no bread.

17 And when Ieſus knewe it, hee ſaith vnto them, Why reaſon ye, becauſe ye haue no bread? Perceiue ye not yet, neither vnderſtand? Haue ye your heart yet hardened?

18 Hauing eyes, ſee ye not? and hauing eares, heare ye not? Doe ye not remember?

20 When I brake the ſeuen among foure thouſande, howe many baskets of the leauings of the broken meate tooke ye vp? They ſaid, Seuen.

21 And he ſaid vnto them, How happeneth it that ye doe not vnderſtand?

22 And he commeth to Bethſaida, and they bring a blinde man vnto him, and deſired him to touche him:

23 And when he had caught the blinde by the hand, he ledde him out of the towne: and when he had ſpit in his eyes, and put his handes vpon him, he asked him if he ſawe ought.

24 And he looked vp, and ſaid, I ſee men: for I perceiue them walke as they were trees.

25 After that, he put his hands againe vpon his eyes, and made him ſee: and he was reſtored, and ſawe euery man clearely.

26 And he ſent him home to his houſe, ſaying, Neither goe into the village, nor tell it to any in the village.

28 And they anſwered, Iohn Baptiſt, and ſome ſay, Elias: Againe, ſome ſay that thou art one of the Prophets.

29 And he ſaid vnto them, But whom ſay ye that I am? Peter anſwereth, and ſaith vnto him, Thou art very Chriſt.

30 And he charged them that they ſhoulde tell no man.

31 And

31 And he began to teach them, that the Sonne of man muſt ſuffer many things, and be reiected of the Auncients and of the high Prieſtes and the Scribes, and be killed: and after three dayes riſe againe.

32 And he ſpake the word openly. And Peter taking him, began to rebuke him.

33 Who turning, and ſeeing his Diſciples, threatened Peter, ſaying, Goe behind me Satan, becauſe thou ſauoureſt not the things that are of God, but that are of men.

34 And calling the multitude together with his Diſciples, he ſaid to them, If any man wil folow me, let him deny himſelf, and take vp his croſſe, and folow me.

35 For he that wil ſaue his life, ſhal loſe it: and he that ſhal loſe his life ‖ for me and the Goſpel, ſhal ſaue it.

36 For what ſhal it profit a man, if he ‖ gaine the whole world, and ſuffer damage of his ſoule?

37 Or what permutation ſhal a man giue for his ſoule?

38 For he that ſhal be aſhamed of me, and of my wordes in this aduouterous and ſinfull generation, the Sonne of man alſo will be aſhamed of him, when he ſhall come in the glorie of his father with the holy Angels.

31 And he beganne to teach them that the Sonne of man muſt ſuffer many things, and be reproued of the elders, and of the high Prieſtes and Scribes, and be killed, and after three dayes riſe againe.

32 And he ſpake that ſaying openly. And Peter tooke him aſide, and began to rebuke him.

33 But when he had turned about, and looked on his diſciples, hee rebuked Peter, ſaying, Goe after me, Satan: for thou ſauoureſt not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men.

*34 And when hee had called the people vnto him, with his diſciples alſo, hee ſaide vnto them, Whoſoeuer will come after mee, let him forſake himſelfe, and take vp his croſſe, and followe me. Matth.10.38 luke 9.23.

36 For what ſhall it profite a man, if hee ſhall winne all the world, and loſe his owne ſoule? iohn 12.25.

37 Or what ſhall a man giue for a raunſome of his ſoule?

*38 Whoſoeuer therefore ſhall be aſhamed of me, and of my wordes, in this adulterous and ſinfull generation, of him alſo ſhall the ſonne of man be aſhamed, when he commeth in the glory of his father, with the holy angels. Matt. 10.35. luke 9.26.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. VIII.

Rhem. 1. 22. Touch him.) Our Sauiour vſed to worke much by touching: that we may learne not to contemne the corporal and external application of holy things, not to chalenge by the ſpirit and faith only, as Heretikes doe.

Fulke. 1. When our Sauiour worketh miracles by touching, we are reuerently & faithfully to eſteeme of it. But ſuperſtitious touching of any thing, where we haue no word or promiſe of God, to receiue benefit by ſuch touching, we learne not of our Sauiour Chriſt. By faith & the ſpirit of God, we chalenge to obteine that which God hath promiſed in his holy word. But further to preſume, by corporall touching or external application, of (I cannot tel, and you are belike aſhamed to expreſſe, what) holy things, without faith grounded vpon Gods word, and his ſpirit tried and proued by the ſame word, we know it is vaine ſuperſtition, yea wicked preſumption. Superſtitious touching.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VIII.

Rhem. 6. Gaue to his diſciples.) He ſerueth the people not immediatly himſelf, but by the Apoſtles miniſterie: to teach vs that we muſt receiue Chriſtes Sacraments and doctrine, not at our owne hand, but of his Prieſts and our Paſtours.

Rhem. 2. 7. Bleſſed them.) So is it in ſome ancient Greake copies, agreeable to our Latin, and in S. Luke expreſly in the common Greeke text, that he bleſſed the fiue loaues & the two fiſhes: which muſt be alwayes marked againſt the Heretikes, which denie this bleſſing to pertaine to the creatures, but feine it alwayes to be referred to God for thankes giuing. For if it were ſo, he would haue ſaid grace but once for that whole refection: but he did ſeuerally bleſſe both the bread firſt, and afterward the fiſhes Gen.1, 22, 28. *alſo, multiplying them by his ſaid bleſſing (as * he did mankinde and other creatures in the beginning by bleſſing them) and ſo working effectually ſame change or alteration in the very creatures themſelues.* Luc.9.16. Εὐλογήσεν αὐτοὺς. Bleſſing of creatures worketh an effect in them.

Fulke. 2. That Chriſt by his bleſſing multiplied the loaues & fiſhes, it is alwayes acknowledged of vs. But that Popiſh bleſſing of bread, water, candles, floures, & ſuch like, whereof we haue no cõmandement, nor warrant in the holy Scriptures, we ſay ſtill, worketh no effect in them: but argueth an antichriſtian arrogancie in the bleſſers, which take vpõ them to adde greater vertue or holines vnto them, then God hath giuen in ỹ right vſe of them. Popiſh bleſſing of bread, candles, water, floures, &c.

Rhem. 3. 35. For me and the Goſpel.) By the Goſpel is ſignified, not only the foure Euangeliſts, but al Scriptures, and whatſoeuer Chriſt ſaid that is not in Scripture: for he ſaith in this very place, He that ſhal be aſhamed of my words, the Sõne of man wil be aſhamed of him, &c. Neither his owne words only, but whatſoeuer the Apoſtles taught in word or writing: for our Sauiour ſaith, He that deſpiſeth you deſpiſeth me. For defence of any of al theſe & of euery Article of the Catholike faith, we ought to die, and this is to loſe our life for Chriſt and his Goſpel. Luc.9. Fulke. 3. will of God, deliuered it in the Scriptures, to be a foundation & pillar of our faith. Lib. 3. cap. 1. If any thing therefore be alledged, as the Gospel, which is not cõteined in the holy Scriptures, we may safely say, with S. Hierom. This because it hath no authoritie of the Scriptures, may as easily be contemned, as it is alledged for proofe. In Matth. 23.

Rhem. 36. Gaine the whole world.) Let such note this, that for feare or flattery of the world condescend to obey the vniust Lawes of men touching religion, against their owne consciences: and be content for the rest of a few dayes of this life, and for saueing their temporal goods, to lose their soule and the ioyes of heauen. Doing against our owne conscience.

CHAP. IX.

The more to confirme them, he giueth them in his Transfiguration a sight of his glory, whereunto Suffering doth bring, 9 and then againe doth inculcate his Passion. 14 A Diuel also he casteth out, which his Disciples (vpon whom therefore the peruerse Scribes triumphed in his absence) could not, for Lacke of fasting and praying. 30 Being yet in Galilee, he reuealeth more plainly his passion. 33 And (because in the way to Capernaum they contended for the Primacie) he teacheth them that humilitie is the way to Primacie before God: 38 bidding them also, not to prohibit such as be not against them: nor to giue scandal to any one of the faithful. and on the other side, the faithful to auoid them by whom they may be scandalized and fall, be they neuer so neere vnto them.

19 Who anſwering them, ſaid, O incredulous generation, how long ſhal I be with you? how long ſhal I ſuffer you? bring him vnto me.

20 And they brought him. And when he had ſeen him, immediatly the ſpirit troubled him: and being throwen vpon the ground, he tumbled foming.

21 And he asked his father, How long time is it ſince this hath chaunced vnto him? But he ſaid, From his infancie:

22 And often times hath he caſt him into fire and into waters, to deſtroy him. but if thou canſt any thing, helpe vs, hauing compaſſion on vs.

23 And Ieſus ſaid to him, If thou canſt beleeue, al things are poſſible to him that beleeueth.

24 And incontinent the father of the boy crying out, with teares ſaid, I do beleeue Lord: helpe my incredulity,

25 And when IESVS ſaw the people running together, he threatned the vncleane ſpirit, ſaying to him, Deafe and dumme ſpirit, I commaunde thee, goe out of him, and enter not any more into him.

26 And crying out, and greatly tearing him, he went out of him, and he became as dead, ſo that many ſaid, That he is dead.

27 But IESVS holding his hand, lifted him vp: and he roſe.

28 And when he was entred into the houſe, his Diſciples ſecretely asked him, why could not we caſt him out?

29 And he ſaid to them, This kinde can goe out by nothing, but ‡ by prayer and faſting.

Note the great force of prayer and faſting. Mt. 17, 22. Lu. 9, 21.

30 And * departing thence they paſſed by Galilee, neither would he that any man ſhould know.

31 And

ſaw a great multitude about them, & the Scribes diſputing with them.

15 And ſtraightway all the people, when they beheld him, were greatly amazed, and running to him, ſaluted him.

16 And he asked the Scribes, What diſpute ye ‖ among your ſelues?

17 And one of the company anſwered, and ſaid, Maſter, I haue brought vnto thee my ſonne, which hath a dumbe ſpirite:

18 And whereſoeuer hee taketh him, hee teareth him, and he fometh, and gnaſheth with his teeth, and pineth away: and I ſpake to thy diſciples that they ſhould caſt him out, and they could not.

19 Hee anſwereth him, and ſaith, O faithleſſe nation, how long ſhall I bee with you, howe long ſhall I ſuffer you? Bring him vnto me.

20 And they brought him vnto him: and when hee ſawe him, ſtraightway the ſpirit tare him, and when he fell downe on the ground, hee wallowed, foming.

21 And he asked his father, How long is it agoe ſince this came vnto him? And hee ſayde, Of a childe.

22 And oft times it hath caſt him into the fire, and into the waters, to deſtroy him: but if thou canſt doe any thing, haue mercie on vs, and helpe vs.

23 Ieſus ſaide vnto him, This thing if thou canſt beleeue, all things are poſſible to him that beleeueth.

24 And ſtraightway, when the father of the childe had cried with teares, he ſaid, Lord, I beleeue, helpe thou mine vnbeliefe.

25 When Ieſus ſawe that the people came running together, he rebuked the foule ſpirite, ſaying vnto him, Thou dumbe and deafe ſpirite, I charge thee come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26 And the ſpirite when he had cryed, and rent him ſore, came out of him, and he was as one that had bene dead, inſomuch that many ſaide, He is dead.

27 But Ieſus, when he had caught him by the hand, lifted him vp: and he aroſe.

35 And ſitting downe, he called the Twelue, and ſaith to them, if any man wil be firſt he ſhal be laſt of al, and the miniſter of al.

36 And taking a childe, he ſet him in the middes of them. Whom when he had embraced, he ſaid to them, 37 Whoſoeuer ſhal receiue one of ſuch children in my name, receiueth me. and whoſoeuer ſhal receiue me, receiueth not me, but him that ſent me.

Lu.9,49. 38 * Iohn anſwered him, ſaying, Maiſter we ſaw one caſting out deuils ‖ in thy name, who foloweth not vs, and we prohibited him.

39 But IESVS ſaid, Do not prohibit him. for there is no man that doth a miracle in my name, and can ſoone ſpeake il of me.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. IX.

Rhem. 1. 4 Elias with.) The law and the Prophets ioyne with Christ and his Gospel: the one signified by Moyses, the other by Elias. By whose apparitions here we also learne that sometime there may be personal entercourse betwixt the liuing and the dead, though not ordinarily.

Fulke. 1. There may be personall entercourse betwixt the liuing and the dead, when it pleaseth God, for some speciall purpose, as in this singular example, and when the dead rose againe, at the resurrection of Christ, and appeared to many in Ierusalem Matth.27.53. but not when the dead wil Luk.16.26. Entercourse betweene the dead and the liuing.

Rhem. 2. 41 Reward.) Reward for almes deedes, whereby it is euident they be meritorious.

Fulke. 2. Reward for almes deedes, proueth them not meritorious. For the reward is giuen according to Gods promise, and his promise is according to his grace and mercie, and not according to the worthines of the worke: which also is Gods gift and not our merite, and therefore S. Augustine saith often times, God in rewarding our workes, doeth crowne his gifts not our merites. In Psal.70.Con.2 in psal.101. Merites.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IX.

Rhem. 4 Elias with Moyses.) Moyses representeth the persons of all the Saincts that shal be departed this life when Christ cõmeth in his Maiestie to iudgement: And Elias (who was then liuing) figureth the holy men that shal then be found aliue when he commeth in glorie, who both shal then begin to reigne with Christ in glorie. Beda in 9. Marc. Elias, Moyses.

Rhem. 3. 13 Elias also is come.) Elias was Zelous for Gods Law, a great reprehender of sinne, and an Eremite, and shal be the Precursor of Christ in his second Aduent: So was Iohn before his first Aduent, a Zealatour, a Corrector, an Eremite, and his Precursor. Theod. in caten. Thomæ super hunc locum. See S. Hierom in the life of Paul the eremite, that both Elias and Iohn Baptist were counted principal professours of that life. Elias & Iohn Baptist Eremites.

Fulke. 3. That Elias shall be a precursor of Christ in his second comming to iudgement, it is boldly affirmed without auctoritie of the Scriptures. That he was in the desert some time, we finde in the Scriptures, but continually he did not remaine in the wildernes. And if he had, by so much he had benemore vnlike, to Popish Eremites, of whom many neuer came in the wildernes, except you count that place, which is a quarter of a myle from a great citie, or a populous towne, a wildernes. S. Hierom saith: It hath bene deuised among many, by which of the Monkes or solitary men chiefely, the wildernes became to be inhabited. For some fetching the matter a farre of, haue taken the beginning from blessed Helias and Iohn. Of which Helias seemeth to vs to haue bene more then a Monke, and Iohn to haue prophecied before he was borne. But other, vnto which opinion, all the common sort doth agree, doe affirme, that Antonie was the head or the beginning of this profession, which is partly true, for he was not so much before all, as by him the desires of all home bene stirred vp. But Amathas and Macarius the disciples of Antonie, of which the former buryed his maisters body, doe yet still affirme, that one Paule a Theban, was the prince or first beginner of this matter, which we also not so much in the name, as in opinion doe approue. In these wordes you may see, what principall professers of Heremites life, Elias and Iohn Baptist were accompted by S. Hieronym. Yet the Eremites of his time, were nothing like Popish Eremites but only in name. Elias. Eremites.

Rhem. 4. 38 In thy name.) Miracles are wrought sometime by the name of IESVS, whatsoeuer the men be, when it is for the proofe of a truth or for the glorie of God. In so much that Iulian the Apostata himselfe did driue away diuels with the signe of the Crosse: as S. Gregorie Nazianzene writeth orat. 1 in Iulian. Theodoret li.3.c.3. hist. And so also Heretikes may doe miracles among the Heathen, to proue any article of the Christian faith: but they neuer did nor euer shal worke any miracle to proue any of their erronious opinions. as, to proue that Christ is not really in the B. Sacrament. The name of IESVS worketh miracles.

Fulke. 4. Heretikes may worke miracles, to confirme their erroneus opinions, but they can not proue there erronius opinions by the Scriptures. Deut.13. Augustin. de vnit. eccles. cap.16. It is sufficient, that we proue by the Scriptures, which testifie of the trueth of Christes naturall body, that it is not present in the Sacrament, according to the Popish imagination, which is contrarie to the Scriptures, and the iudgement of the ancient fathers. As for lying miracles, such as Papists worke, to proue it by pricking their fingers to make it appeare bloody, or by sorcery as Marcus the heretike iugled with the cuppe to make it appeare purple and redde, that Christ might seeme to droppe his blood into his cuppe: we leaue to Popish heretikes. The word of God, is a sufficient warrant for our doctrine, against all false and counterfeet miracles. Miracles. Iren. lib.1.c.9.

CHAP. X.

THE THIRD part of this Gospel, Christes comming into Iewrie toward his Passion.

He answereth the tempting Pharises (and againe his disciples afterward) that the case of a man with his wife shalbe (as in the first institution) vtterly indissoluble. 13 He blesseth children. 17 He sheweth what is to be done to get life euerlasting. 21 What also for a rich man, to be perfect: 28 as also what passing reward they shal haue that doe so in time of persecution. 32 He reuealeth more to his Disciples touching his Passion: 35 bidding the two ambitious sisters to thinke rather of suffering with him: 41 and teaching vs in the rest of his Disciples, not to be greeued at our Ecclesiastical Superiours, considering they are (as he was himselfe) to suffer for our saluation. 46 Then going out of Ierichoho, he giueth sight to a blinde man.

Marth.19,1. AND riſing vp thence, he commeth into the coaſtes of Iewrie beyond Iordan: and the multitudes aſſemble agayne vnto him. and as he was accuſtomed, againe he taught them.

2 And the Phariſees comming neere, aſked him, Is it lawfull for a man to dimiſſe his wife? tempting him.

3 But he anſwering, ſaid to them, What did Moyſes commaund you?

Deut.24,1. 4 Who ſaid, *Moyſes ‖permitted to write a bill of diuorce, and to dimiſſe her.

5 To whom IESVS anſwering, ſaid, For the hardnes of your hart he wrote you this precept.

6 But from the beginning of the creation

Gen.1,27. *God made them male and femal.

Gen.2,24. 7 For this cauſe, * man ſhall leaue his father and mother: and ſhall cleaue to his wife,

8 And they two ſhal be in one fleſh. therfore now they are not two, but one fleſh.

9 That therfore which God hath ioyned together, ‡let not man ſeparate.

Mt.19,9. Mt.5,32. Lu.16,18. 10 And *in the houſe againe his Diſciples asked him of the ſame thing.

1.Cor.7,11. 11 And he ſaith to them, whoſoeuer dimiſſeth his wife & ‖ marrieth an other: committeth aduoutrie vpon her.

12 And if the wife dimiſſe her husband, and mary an other, ſhe committeth aduoutrie.

Mt.19,13. Lu.18,15. 13 And *they offered to him yong children, that he might touch them. And the diſciples threatened thoſe that offered them.

14 Whom when IESVS ſaw, he tooke it il, and ſaid to thē, Suffer the litle children to come vnto me, and prohibite them not. for the kingdom of God is for ſuch.

15 Amen I ſay to you: whoſoeuer receiueth not the kingdom of God as a litle child, ſhall not enter into it.

16 And embracing them, and impoſing hands vpon them, he ‡bleſſed them.

‡ Our Sauiour gaue the children his bleſſing.

17 And when he was gone forth in the way, a certaine man running forth and kneeling before him asked him, *Good Maiſter,

Mt.19,16. Lu.18,18. Exo.20,13. what ſhall I doe that I may receiue life euerlaſting?

18 And IESVS ſaid to him, why calleſt thou me good? ‖ None is good but one, God.

19 Thou knoweſt the ‡commandements, *Commit not aduoutrie, Kill not, Steale not, Beare not falſe witneſſe, doe no fraud, Honour thy father and mother.

20 But

And when he roſe from thence, he commeth into the coaſts of Iurie, through the region that is beyond Iordan: and the people reſort vnto him afreſh, and as he was woont, he taught them againe. Matth.19.1.

2 And the Phariſees came, & asked him, Is it lawfull for a man to put away his wife? tempting him.

3 And he anſwered, & ſaid vnto them, What did Moſes commaund you to doe?

*4 And they ſaid, * Moſes ſuffered to write a booke of diuorcement, and to put her away.* Deut.24.1.

5 And Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, For the hardneſſe of your heart he wrote this precept vnto you.

*7 * And ſayd, For this cauſe ſhall a man leaue his father and mother, and bide by his wife,* mat.19.4. Gen.2.24. 2.cor.6.16. ephe.5.31.

8 And they twaine ſhall be one fleſh: ſo then are they no more twaine, but one fleſh.

*9 Therefore, what God hath coupled together let no man ſeparate. 1.Cor.6.10.

10 And in the houſe his diſciples asked him againe of the ſame matter.

*11 And he ſaith vnto them, Whoſoeuer ſhal put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adulterie againſt her. Matth.5.32. and 19.9. luk.16.18.

12 And if a woman ſhall put away her husband, and be married to another, ſhe committeth adulterie.

*13 * And they brought yong children to him, that he ſhould touch them: and his diſciples rebuked thoſe that brought them.* Matt.19.13 luke 18.15.

14 But when Ieſus ſaw it, he was ſore diſpleaſed, and ſayd vnto them, Suffer the yong children to come vnto me, and forbid them not: for to ſuch belongeth the kingdome of God.

15 Verily I ſay vnto you, Whoſoeuer ſhall not receiue the kingdom of God as a yong childe, he ſhall in no wiſe enter therein.

16 And when he had taken them vp in his armes, putting his hands vpon them, he bleſſed them.

*17 And when he was gone foorth into the way, * there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good maſter, what ſhall I doe that I may inherite eternall life?* Matt.19.16. luke 18.18.

18 Ieſus ſayd vnto him, Why calleſt thou me good? There is none good but one, which is God.

*19 Thou knoweſt the commandements, Doe not commit adulterie, * Doe not kill, Doe not ſteale, Doe not beare falſe witneſſe, Defraud* no man, Honour thy father and mother. Exod.20.13.

20 But he anſwering, ſaid to him, Maiſter all theſe things I haue obſerued from my youth.

22 Who being ſtroken ſad at the word, went away ſorowfull. for he had many poſſeſſions.

23 And IESVS looking about, ſaith to his Diſciples, How hardly ſhall they that haue money, enter into the kingdome of God!

24 And the Diſciples were aſtonied at his wordes. But IESVS againe anſwering, ſaith to them, Children, how hard is it for them that truſt in money, to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is eaſier for a camel to paſſe through a nedels eye, then for ‖ a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 Who marueled more, ſaying to themſelues, And who can be ſaued?

27 And IESVS beholding them, ſaith, With mē it is impoſſible: but not with God. for al things are poſſible with God.

28 And Peter began to ſay vnto him, Behold, we haue left al things, and haue followed thee.

‡ Exceeding happy be they that can forſake their temporall things for religion.

29 IESVS anſwering, ſayd, ‡ Amen I ſay to you, there is no man which hath left houſe, or brethren, or ſiſters, or father, or mother, or children, or lands for me and for the Goſpel:

31 But *many that are firſt, ſhall be laſt: and the laſt, firſt.

32 And they were in the way going vp to Hieruſalem: and IESVS went before thē, and they were aſtonied: and folowing were afraid. And * taking againe the Twelue, he began to tel them the things that ſhould befall him.

Mt.20,17. Lu.18,31.

33 That, behold we goe vp to Hieruſalem, and the Sonne of man ſhall be betrayed to the cheefe Prieſtes, and to the Scribes and Auncients, and they ſhall condemne him to death, and ſhall deliuer him to the Gentiles,

34 And

20 Hee anſwered, and ſayde vnto him, Maſter, all theſe haue I obſerued from my youth.

21 Ieſus beheld him, and loued him, and ſayd vnto him, One thing thou lackeſt: Goe thy way, ſell whatſoeuer thou haſt, and giue to the poore, and thou ſhalt haue treaſure in heauen, and come follow me, when thou haſt taken vp the croſſe.

22 But he was diſcomforted becauſe of that ſaying, & went away mourning: for he had great poſſeſſions.

23 And when Ieſus had looked round about, he ſaieth vnto his diſciples, How hardly ſhall they that haue riches, enter into the kingdome of God?

24 And the diſciples were aſtonied at his wordes. But Ieſus anſwereth againe, and ſaieth vnto them, Children, how hard is it for them that truſt in riches, to enter into the kingdome of God?

25 It is eaſier for a Camel to goe thorow the eye of a needle, then for the rich to enter into the kingdome of God.

26 And they were aſtonied out of meaſure, ſaying among themſelues, Who then can be ſaued?

27 Ieſus, whē he had looked vpon them, ſaith, With men it is vnpoſſible, but not with God: for with God all things are poſſible.

*28 And Peter began to ſay vnto him, Loe, we haue forſaken all, and haue followed thee. Matt.19.27. luke 18.28.

36 But he ſaid to them, what will you that I doe to you?

37 And they ſaid, Graunt to vs, that we may ſit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory.

38 And IESVS ſayd to them, You wote not what you aske. can you drinke the cuppe that I drinke: or be baptized with the baptiſme wherewith I am baptized?

39 But they ſayd to him, We can. And IESVS ſayd to them, The cuppe in deede which I drinke, you ſhall drinke: and with the baptiſme wherewith I am baptized, ſhal you be baptized:

40 But to ſit on my right hand or on my left, is not mine to giue vnto you, but to whom it is prepared.

41 And the ten hearing, began to be diſpleaſed at Iames and Iohn.

Mt.20,25. Lu.22,25. 42 And IESVS calling them, ſaith to them, * You know that they which ſeeme to rule ouer the gentiles, ouerrule them: and their Princes haue power ouer them.

43 But it is not ſo in you. but whoſoeuer will be greater, ſhall be your miniſter:

*35 * And Iames and Iohn the ſonnes of Zebedee come vnto him, ſaying, Maſter, wee will that thou ſhouldeſt doe for vs what ſoeuer we ſhall deſire.* Mat.20.20.

36 Hee ſayd vnto them, What will ye that I ſhould do for you?

37 They ſayd vnto him, Graunt vnto vs that we may ſit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand in thy glory.

38 But Ieſus ſaid vnto them, Ye wot not what ye aske: Can ye drinke of the cup that I drinke of? and be baptized with the baptiſme that I am baptized with?

39 And they ſayd vnto him, That we can. Ieſus ſayd vnto them, Ye ſhall in deede drinke of the cuppe that I drinke of: and with the baptiſme that I am baptized withall, ſhall ye be baptized:

40 But to ſit on my right hand, and on my left hand, is not mine to giue, but it ſhall be giuen vnto them for whom it is prepared.

41 And when the other ten heard it, they began to diſdaine at Iames and Iohn.

*42 But Ieſus, when he had called them to him, ſaieth vnto them, Ye know that they which ſeeme to beare rule among the Gentiles reigne as lordes ouer them: and they that be great among them, exerciſe authoritie vpon them. Luke 22.25.

43 But ſo ſhall it not be among you: but whoſoeuer of you will be great among you, ſhalbe your miniſter:

44 And whoſoeuer of you will be the chiefeſt, ſhalbe ſeruant of all.

45 For the ſonne of man alſo came not to be miniſtred vnto, but to miniſter, and to giue his life a ranſome for many.

*46 And they came to Iericho: and as hee went out of the citie of Iericho with his diſciples, and a great number of people, blind Bartimæus, the ſonne of Timæus, ſate by the high wayes ſide, begging. Mat.20.29. luke 18.35.

47 And when he heard that it was Ieſus of Nazareth, he began to cry, and ſay, Ieſus thou ſonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me.

48 And many rebuked him, that he ſhould hold his peace: but he cried the more a great deale, Thou ſonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me.

49 And Ieſus ſtood ſtil, and commanded him to be called: and they call the blind, ſaying vnto him, Be of good comfort, riſe, he calleth thee.

50 And when he had throwen away his cloke, he roſe, and cam. to Ieſus.

51 And

51 And IESVS anſwering, ſaid to him, What wilt thou that I doe vnto thee? And the blind man ſaid to him, Rabbôni, that I may ſee.

52 And IESVS ſayd to him, Goe thy wayes, thy fayth hath made thee ſafe. And foorthwith he ſawe, and followed him in the way.

51 And Ieſus anſwered, and ſayde vnto him, What wilt thou that I doe vnto thee? The blind ſayd vnto him, Maſter, that I might ſee.

52 Ieſus ſayde vnto him, Goe thy way, thy fayth hath ſaued thee. And immediately hee receiued his ſight, and followed Ieſus in the way.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. X.

Rhem. 1. 9 Let no man ſeparate.) The obligation betwixt man and wife is ſo great, that during life it cannot be broken.

Fulke 1. Except in the caſe of fornication. Math. 5. 32. 19.

Rhem. 2. 19 Commandements.) Note that the keeping of Gods commandements procureth life euerlaſting.

Fulke. 2. The perfect keeping of Gods commandements procureth euerlaſting life, but euery breach of them deſerueth the curſe of God. Galath. 3. 10. Therefore no man attaineth to euerlaſting life by keeping of Gods commaundements, but by the mercy of God in Chriſt, apprehended by faith without reſpect of workes or merites.

Rhem. 3. 21 Goe, ſell whatſoeuer.) This is counſell of perfection (not a precept) which the Religious profeſſing and keeping voluntarie pouertie, doe follow.

Fulke. 3. This was a ſpeciall precept to this one perſon, in obſeruing whereof, he ſhould haue declared in part, that he had kept the commaundements with ſuch affection as the lawe of God requireth. But in neglecting this precept, he declared that he was a carnall worldly man, farre from the true loue of God and his neighbors: preferring temporall things before the reward of eternall life. As for the ſuperſtitious profeſſion of popiſh monkes and friers, with their blaſphemous opinion, to merite for themſelues and for others that will pay for it: was farre from the meaning of our Sauiour Chriſt. Beſide that, not one among a thouſand of them, if they haue any goods or lands before their profeſſion, doe ſell them and giue them to the poore, but rather to their friends and kinſfolkes, or vnto the Abbeies, where they know they ſhall be wealthily and daintely mainteined. The Pope alſo is good to many, and graunteth them capacities to poſſeſſe temporall goods and benefices, contrary to their former vowe. Popiſh monks.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. X.

Rhem. 4. 4 Permitted.) Some things are permitted, though not approoued or allowed, to auoid greater inconueniences. No man may doe euill for any cauſe, but he may permit other mens euils for diuers cauſes: as God himſelfe doeth, who can doe no euill. So doth the Prince and Common-wealth permit leſſer euils to eſchew greater, and ſo may the Holy Church much more (as S. Auguſtine ſaieth ſhe doeth) being placed among much chaffe and much cockle, tolerate many things: and yet whatſoeuer is againſt fayth and good life, ſhe neither approoueth, nor diſſembleth with ſilence, nor committeth. Toleration & permiſſion of euill. Aug. ep. 119. c. 19.

Fulke. 4. The Chriſtian Magiſtrate or common-wealth, ought to permit no wickedneſſe, which he knoweth and can puniſh: neither doeth the holy Church, tolerate any thing that is againſt fayth and good life, as S. Auguſtine ſaieth. Therefore the Church of Rome, and thoſe princes and common wealths that permit open whoredom in Stewes, are not the Church of Chriſt, nor they godly Princes and common wealths, that ſuffer ſuch groſſe wickedneſſe, openly and daily committed. Stewes permitted in poperie.

Rhem. 5. 11 And marrieth another.) That which S. Matthew vttered more obſcurely, and is miſtaken of ſome, as though he meant that for fornication a man might put away his wife and marry another, is here by this Euangeliſt (as alſo by S. Luke) put out of doubt, generally auouching, that whoſoeuer putteth away his wife and marrieth another, committeth aduoutrie. Aug. li. 1. de adult. coniug. c. 11. & ſequentibus. Mariage after diuorce vnlawfull. Lu. 16, 18.

Fulke 5. S. Marke, S. Luke and S. Matthew did write all by one ſpirite, therefore the exception expreſſed in the one, muſt be needs vnderſtood in the other. Els you may as well ſay, there can be no ſeparation for any cauſe, as you ſay, there can be no mariage after diuorce for any cauſe. Mariage after diuorce.

Rhem. 18 None is good.) None is entirely, ſubſtantially, and of himſelfe good, but God: though by participation of Gods goodnes, men are truely alſo called good.

25 A riche man.) He is here called a riche man that hath his confidence (as here is expreſſed) in his treaſure, and had rather forſake his fayth and duetie to God, then loſe them. as all they which liue in Schiſme or Hereſie to ſaue their goods.

30 An hundred times ſo much.) Sometime God doth ſo bleſſe men alſo in worldly beneſites that haue forſaken all for him, as S. Gregorie, S. Auguſtine, and S. Paulinus: but the principall meaning is, that he will giue to ſuch men in this life abundance of grace and ſpirituall comfort and conſentation and ioy of conſcience (as they feele which haue experience) the which ſpirituall gifts exceed the temporall commodities more then an hundred fold. in ſo much that he that hath fully forſaken but ſmall things for religion, would not forſake religion to haue all the world. Their reward in this life that forſake ought for Gods ſake. THE fourth part of this Goſpel, the holy weeke of his Paſſion in Hieruſalem.

Being now come to the place of his paſſion, he entreth with triumph as their Chriſt. 12 He curſeth that fruitleſſe leafie tree. 15 He ſheweth his zeale for the houſe of God: for which the Rulers ſeeke his deſtruction. 24 He exhorteth his Diſciples to ſtedfaſtnes of faith, and to forgiue their enemies. 27 He auoucheth his power by the witnes of Iohn who was a man ſent of God.

PALME-Sunday. Mt.21,1. Lu.19,20. Io.12,15.

AND when they came nigh vnto Hieruſalem and Bethania to Mount-oliuet, he ſendeth two of his Diſciples,

2 And ſaith to them, Goe into the towne that is againſt you, and immediatly entring in thither, you ſhal finde a colt tied, vpon which no man yet hath ſitten: looſe him, & bring him.

3 And if any man ſhal ſay to you, What doe you? ſay that he is needful for our Lord: and incontinent he wil ſend him hither.

4 And going their waies, they found the colt tied before the gate without in the meeting of two waies: and they loſe him.

5 And certeine of them that ſtood there, ſaid to them, What doe you looſing the colt?

6 Who ſaid to them as IESVS had commaunded them: and they did let him goe with them.

7 And they brought the colt to IESVS: and they lay their garments vpon him, and he ſate vpon him.

8 And ‡ many ſpred their garments in the way: and others did cut boughes from the trees, and ſtrawed them in the way.

9 And they that went before & they that folowed, cried ſaying, Hoſanna, bleſſed is he that commeth in the name of our Lord.

Pſ.117,26. 10 Bleſſed is the kingdom of our father Dauid that commeth, Hoſanna in the higheſt.

11 And he entred Hieruſalem into the temple: and hauing vewed al things round about, when now the euening houre was come, he went forth into Bethania with the Twelue.

MVNDAY. Mt.21,19. 12 And the next day when they departed from Bethania, he was an hungred.

13 And * when he had ſeen a farre of a figtree hauing leaues, he came if happily he could finde any thing on it. And when he was come to it, he found nothing but leaues. for it was not the time for figges.

*AND when * they came nigh to Hieruſalem, vnto Bethphage and Bethanie, at the mount of Olines, he ſendeth forth two of his diſciples,* Matth.21.1. luke.19.29.

2 And ſaith vnto them, Go your way into the towne that is ouer againſt you, and as ſoone as ye be entred into it, ye ſhall finde a colt tied, whereon neuer man ſate, looſe him, and bring him hither.

3 And if any man ſay vnto you, Why doe ye ſo? Say ye that the Lord hath need of him: and ſtraightway he will ſend him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found the colt tied by the doore without, in a place where two wayes met: and they looſe him.

5 And diuers of them that ſtood there, ſaid vnto them, What do ye looſing the colt?

6 And they ſaid vnto them euen as Ieſus had commanded: and they let them go.

*7 * And they brought the colt to Ieſus, and caſt their garmentes on him, and he ſate vpon him.* Iohn. 12.14.

8 And many ſpred their garmentes in the way: and other cut downe branches off the trees, and ſtrawed them in the way.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, ſaying, Hoſanna, bleſſed is he that commeth in the name of the Lord.

10 Bleſſed be the kingdome that commeth in the name of him that is Lord of our father Dauid, ‖ Hoſanna in the higheſt.

‖ Or, O thou which art.

*11 * And Ieſus entred into Hieruſalem, & into the Temple, and when he had looked round about vpon all thinges, and now the euen tide was come, he went out vnto Bethanie with the twelue.* Matt.21.10. luke.19.45.

12 And on the morow, when they were come from Bethanie, he hungred.

*13 * And when hee had ſpied a figtree, a farre off, hauing leaues, he came* to ſee if he might finde any thing thereon: and when he came to it, he found nothing but leaues: for the time of figs was not yet. Matt.21.19.

14 And Ieſus anſwered, and ſayd vnto the figge tree, Neuer man eate fruite of thee heereafter while the world ſtandeth. And his diſciples heard it.

15 And they come to Hieruſalem, and when Ieſus went into the Temple, he beganne to caſt out them that ſold and bought in the Temple, and ouerthrew the tables of the money changers, and the ſeates of them that ſold Doues,

16 And

16 And hee ſuffred not that any man ſhould carie a ‖ veſſel through the temple:

18 Which when the cheefe Prieſts and the Scribes had heard, they ſought how they might deſtroy him. for they were afraid of him, becauſe the whole multitude was in admiration vpon his doctrine.

19 And when the euening was come, he went forth out of the citie.

20 And *when they paſſed by in the morning, they ſaw the figtree withered from the rootes.

22 And IESVS anſwering ſaith to them, Haue ‡ faith of God.

‡ Faith of God is to beleeue that he is able, and that he wil doe it if it be expedient, and no impediment on our part.

23 Amen I ſay to you, that whoſoeuer ſhal ſay to this mountaine, Be taken vp and be caſt into the ſea, and ſhall not ſtagger in his hart, but beleeue that whatſoeuer hee ſaith, ſhalbe done: it ſhal be done vnto him.

24 Therefore I ſay to yon, al things whatſoeuer you aske, praying, beleeue that you ſhal receiue, & they ſhal come vnto you.

25 And when you ſhal ſtand to pray, forgiue if you haue ought againſt anie man: that alſo your father which is in heauen, may forgiue you your ſinnes.

26 ‡ If ſo be that you wil not forgiue, neither wil your father that is in heauen, forgiue you your ſinnes.

27 And they come againe to Hieruſalem. And *when he walked in the temple, there come to him the cheefe Prieſts and Scribes and the Auncients, 28 And they ſay to him, In what power doeſt thou theſe things? and who hath giuen thee this power, that thou ſhouldeſt doe theſe things.

29 And IESVS anſwering ſaid to them, I alſo wil aske you one word, & anſwere you me: and I wil tel you in what power I doe theſe things.

30 The baptiſme of Iohn was it from heauen, or from men? anſwere me.

31 But they thought with them ſelues, ſaying, If we ſay, From heauen: he wil ſay, Why then did you not beleeue him?

32 If we ſay, From men, they feared the people. for al accounted Iohn that he was in deede a Prophet.

33 And

18 And the Scribes and high Prieſts heard it, and ſought how they might deſtroy him: for they feared him, becauſe all the people was aſtonied at his doctrine.

19 And when euen was come, Ieſus went out of the citie.

*20 And in the morning as they paſſed by, Matth.21.19 they ſawe the figge tree dried vp from the rootes.

21 And Peter hauing remembred, ſaith vnto him, Maſter, behold, the the figge tree which thou curſedſt, is withered away.

22 And Ieſus anſwering, ſaith vnto them, Haue faith in God.

23 For verily I ſay vnto you, that whoſoeuer ſhal ſay vnto this mountaine, Be thou remoued, and be thou caſt into the ſea, and ſhal not doubt in his heart, but ſhal beleeue that thoſe things which he ſaieth ſhal come to paſſe: whoſoeuer he ſhal ſay, ſhalbe vnto him.

*24 Therefore I ſay vnto you, What things ſoeuer ye deſire when ye pray, beleeue that ye receiue them, and ye ſhal haue them. Matt.7.7. luke 11.7.

26 But if you do not forgiue, neither wil your father which is in heauen forgiue you your treſpaſſes.

*27 And they come againe to Hieruſalem: and as he walked in the Temple, there come to him the high Prieſts, & the Scribes, and the elders, Matt.21.14. luke 20.1.

28 And ſay vnto him, By what authoritie doeſt thou theſe things? and who gaue thee this authoritie to doe theſe things?

29 Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, I wil alſo aske of you one queſtion, and anſwere me, and I wil tel you by what authoritie I doe theſe things.

30 The baptiſme of Iohn, whether was it from heauen, or of men: Anſwere me.

31 And they reaſoned with them ſelues, ſaying, If we ſhal ſay, From heauen, he wil ſay, Why then did ye not beleeue him?

*32 But if we ſhall ſay, Of men, we feare the people: for all men counted Iohn that he was a very Prophet. * This is the third perſon in Greeke.

33 And they anſwering ſay to IESVS, We know not. And IESVS anſwering ſaith to them, Neither do I tel you in what power I doe theſe things.

33 And they anſwering, ſay vnto Ieſus, wee cannot tell. And Ieſus anſwering, ſaith vnto them, Neither do I tell you by what authoritie I do theſe things.

Fulke. 1. You muſt firſt prooue, that Chriſt is preſent in your maſſe cake, as he was riding to Ieruſalem, in ſuch ſort as you affirme. Secondly, if he were ſo preſent, ſeing he commanded the ſacrament to be eaten: you carying it about contrary to his commandement, can not pleaſe him, with any thing that you doe. Veſſel through the temple.) He could not abide to ſee the Temple of God profaned, no nor ſuffered thoſe thinges to be done in it, which otherwiſe were not vnlawful but honeſt, if they had bene done in due place. How much leſſe can he abide the prefaning of Churches now with Heretical ſeruice and preaching of hereſie and blaſphemie? Profaning of Gods Church.

Fulke. 3. God can not abide the prophaning of the Church with hereticall ſeruice, and preaching of hereſie & blaſphemie, therfore he abhorreth the Popiſh ſeruice and preaching, which is full of hereſie and blaſphemie. As for our Church ſeruice and preaching, being iuſtified by the word of God expreſſed in the ſcriptures, and referring all honor and glorie of our ſaluation, to God and Chriſt only, muſt needs be far from blaſphemie. But popery giuing part of the honor of God and Chriſt to creatures, and part to their owne merits, and ceremonies of their owne inuention, is both hereticall and blaſphemous. Slander.

Rhem. 4. 17. Denne of theeues.) If the Temple was then a denne of theeues, becauſe of profane and ſecular merchandiſes how much more now, when the houſe appointed for the Holy Sacrifice and Sacrament of the Bodie of Chriſt, is made a denne for the Miniſters of Caluins bread?

And therfore, the repetition thereof, ſuppoſed in the popiſh maſſe, is a moſt horrible blaſphemy, againſt the ſacrifice and eternall prieſthood of our ſauior Chriſt. We miniſter the Lordes ſupper, according to his owne inſtitution. We haue nothing to doe with Caluins bread, or any mans inuention in celebration of the bleſſed ſacrament. Sacrifice of the maſſe. He foretelleth to the Iewes in a parable their reprobation moſt worthy, and the vocation of the Church of the Gentils in their place, 10 himſelf being the headſtone thereof. 13 He defeateth the ſnare of the Phariſees and Herodians, about paying tribute to Ceſar: 18 anſwereth alſo the inuention of the Sadducees againſt the Reſurrection: 28 alſo the oppoſition of a Scribe. 35 And ſo hauing put al the vnlike ſectes to ſilence, he turneth & poſeth them on the other ſide, becauſe they imagined Chriſt ſhould be no more but a man. 38 Bidding the people to beware of the Scribes, being ambitious and hypocrites. 41 He commendeth the poore widow for her two mites, about al.

‡ This man, is God the Father. This vineyard, is (as Eſay ſaith 5, 1.) the houſe of Iſrael. The ſeruants ſent, are Moyſes & the Prophets whō the Iewes did diuerſely afflict and perſecute.

4 And againe he ſent vnto them another ſeruant: and at him they caſt ſtones, and brake his head, and ſent him away all to rewiled.

5 And againe he ſent another, and him they killed: and many other, beating ſome, and killing ſome.

6 And ſo when he had yet but one beloued ſonne, he ſent him alſo at the laſt vnto them, ſaying, They will ſtand in awe of my ſonne.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XII.

Rhem. 2. 17. To God.) Theſe men were very circumſpect and wary to doe al duties to Ceſar, but of their dutie to God they had no regard. So Heretikes, to flatter temporal Princes, and by them to vphold their Hereſies, doe not only inculcate mens dutie to the Prince, diſſembling that which is dewe to God: but alſo giue to the Prince more then dew, and take from God his right and dutie. But Chriſt allowing Ceſar his right, warneth them alſo of their dutie toward God. And that is it which Catholikes inculcate, Obey God, doe as he commaundeth, Serue him firſt, and then the Prince. God firſt to be ſerued, & then the Prince.

Fulke. 2. This is a meere ſclaunder of godly Preachers, who as well teach the Princes dutie to God, as the ſubiects dutie to the Prince. But Papiſtes forbid Princes to yeeld that dutie to God, which they owe to him as Princes, namely to ſet forth and maintaine his religion by their lawes, and to puniſh all contemners thereof. *Auguſt. Fulke 3. A trayterous and heretical note, confuted before, Chap.6.Sect.2.

Rhem.4. 24. Not knowing the Scriptures.) Who would haue thought that by this place of Scripture alleaged by Chriſt, the Reſurrection were proued? and yet we ſee that Chriſt doth hereby deduce it, and chargeth theſe great Doctors and Maiſters (which arrogated to them ſelues the knowledge of Scriptures) that it is their ignorance, that they knew not ſo to deduce it. No marueil then if the Holy Doctors and Catholike Church make the like deductions ſometime and proofes, where the Heretike doth not or wil not ſee ſo much, therfore no doubt, becauſe he knoweth not the Scriptures, whereof he boaſteth ſo much, nor the ſenſe of the Holy Ghoſt in them. For example, when of that place, It ſhal not be forgiuen in this world nor in the world to come, ancient fathers deduce, that there are ſinnes remitted after this life in Purgatorie. See Mat.12,32. Many truthes deduced out of ſcripture, which Heretikes ſee not.

Fulke 4. Whenſoeuer the Doctors deduce any argument out of the Scriptures, as rightly as this is deduced by our Sauiour Chriſt, that it may be concluded in true and lawfull ſyllogiſmes, out of the wordes of the Scripture, we acknowledge it to be the word of God, as well as that which is expreſſed in the text. But not euery ſurmiſe, or vnneceſſary collection, is warranted by this deduction. For the collection of purgatorie, out of the text Math. 12.32. See our anſwer in the ſame place. The wordes of God.

Rhem.5. 24. The power of God.) Euen ſo doe Heretikes erre two waies: becauſe they know not the Scriptures, which they interprete contrarie to the ſenſe of the whole Church and of al the ancient fathers: and becauſe they know not the power of God, that as he is able to raiſe the ſelfe ſame bodies againe, ſo he can make his body preſent in many places: but being altogether faithleſſe and not beleeuing his power, they diſpute of al ſuch matters only by reaſon and their owne imaginations. Heretikes ignorant and without faith.

Fulke 5. We interprete the Scriptures, according to the analogie of faith, and confirme our interpretation by auctoritie of the Scriptures them ſelues, taking the ſenſe of the Scriptures out of the Scriptures them ſelues, as all true Catholikes ought to doe, by the iudgement of Clemens, cited in the decrees. Diſt. 37. c. relatum. And in the cheefe matters of controuerſie betweene vs and the Papiſtes, we haue the conſent of the whole Primitiue Church, and the moſt ancient and approued Fathers of the ſame, as may appeare in many of our writings, and namely in confutation of theſe popiſh notes. The power of God how great it is, we know: but we doe not acknowledge that he will doe any thing contrary to his will and his worde. Therefore we doe not beleeue, that his bodie is preſent in many places at once, for then he ſhould not be like his brethren in all thinges, except ſinne. Heb.2.17 He ſhould not reteine a true bodie, whereunto our bodies in the reſurrection, ſhould be made conformable. Philip.3.21. yea he ſhould haue no bodie at all. *Auguſt. Ep.57. The ſacraments of the Church, which be of Chriſts inſtitution, he acknowledgeth. As for the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, as an horrible blaſphemie againſt the only ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, once offred for euer, he doth worthily abhorre. And more properly is the ſacrifice of the Maſſe, the abomination of deſolation, which ouerthroweth the effect of Chriſtes only ſacrifice, and maketh it like the ſacrifices of the lawe, which being often repeated, could neuer take away ſinnes Heb.10. 11. For that he knewe not your tranſubſtantiation, his wordes following a litle after, doe teſtifie, where he ſayth: The bread is meate, blonde, fe, fleſh, ſubſtiance, his bodie, the Church, which muſt needes be vnderſtoode ſpiritually and ſacramentally, or els you muſt make more tranſubſtantiations then one. The cheefe of the Iewes accuſe him to Pilate the Gentil. 6. And (he ſeeking to deliuer him) they perſuade the common people (who hitherto were alwayes ready to defend him) not only to preferre the murderer Barabbas, but alſo to crie Crucifige (to the reprobation of the whole nation.) 16. After many illuſions, 20 he is crucified by the Gentiles. 29 Which the Iewes ſeeing, do triumph as if they had now the victory. 33 But euen then by many wonderful workes he declareth his might, 42 and finally is buried honourably.

2 And Pilate asked him, Art thou the king of the Iewes? but he anſwering, ſaid to him, Thou ſayeſt.

3 And the cheefe Prieſtes accuſed him in many things.

4 And Pilate againe asked him, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou nothing? ſee in howe many things they accuſe thee.

5 But IESVS anſwered nothing more: ſo that Pilate mareuled.

6 And vpon the feſtiual day he was wont to releaſe vnto them one of the priſoners whomſoeuer they had demaunded.

7 And there was one called Barabbas, which was put in priſon with ſeditious perſons, who in a ſedition had cõmitted murder.

8 And when the multitude was come vp, they began to require according as alwaies he did vnto them.

9 And Pilate anſwered them, & ſaid, Wil you that I releaſe to you the King of ỹ Iewes?

10 For he knew that the cheefe Prieſts for enuy had deliuered him.

11 But the‖chiefe Prieſts moued ỹ people, ỹ he ſhould releaſe Barabbas rather to them.

12 And Pilate againe anſwering, ſaid to them, What will you then that I doe to the King of the Iewes?

13 But they againe cried, Crucifie him.

14 And Pilate ſaid to them, Why, what euil hath he done? But they cried the more, Crucifie him.

15 And Pilate willing‖to ſatisfie ỹ people, releaſed to them Barabbas, and deliuered IESVS, hauing whipped him, for to be crucified.

Io.19,2. 16 And *the ſouldiers led him into the court of the Palace, and they cal together the whole band:

17 And they clothe him in purple, and platting a crowne of thornes, they put it vpon him.

18 And they began to ſalute him, Haile King of the Iewes.

19 And they ſmote his head with a reede: and they did ſpit on him. and bowing the knees, they adored him.

20 And after they had mocked him, they ſtripped him of the purple, and put on him his owne garments, and they leade him forth to crucifie him.

21 And they forced a certaine man that paſſed by, Simon a Cyrenean comming from the countrie, the father of Alexander & Rufus, to take vp his croſſe.

22 And had bound Ieſus, they caried him away, and deliuered him to Pilate.

2 And Pilate asked him, Art thou the king of the Iewes? And he anſwering, ſaide vnto him, Thou ſayeſt it.

3 And the high prieſts accuſed him of many things, but he anſwered nothing.

*4 * So Pilate asked him againe, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou nothing? beholde howe many things they witneſſe againſt thee.* Matth.27.12 luke 23 3. iohn 18.33.

5 Ieſus yet anſwered nothing at all, ſo that Pilate maruelled.

6 At that feaſt Pilate did deliuer vnto them one priſoner, whomſoeuer they deſired.

7 And there was one that was named Barabbas, which lay bounde with them that made inſurrection with him, which men had cõmitted murder alſo in the inſurrection.

8 And the people crying alcude, began to deſire that he would doe according as he had euer done vnto them.

9 Pilate anſwered them, ſaying, Will ye that I let looſe vnto you the King of the Iewes?

10 (For he knew that the high prieſts had deliuered him for enuie.)

11 But the high prieſts moued the people, that he ſhould rather deliuer Barabbas vnto them.

12 Pilate anſwering againe, ſaid vnto them, What will ye then that I ſhall doe vnto him whom ye call the King of the Iewes?

13 And they cried againe, Crucifie him.

14 Pilate ſaide vnto them, What euil hath he done? And they cried the more fermently, Crucifie him.

15 And ſo Pilate, willing to content the people, let looſe Barabbas vnto them, and deliuered vp Ieſus, when hee had ſcourged him, for to be crucified.

16 And the ſouldiers led him away into the hall, called Prætorium, and they call together the whole bande†. † Of ſouldiers.

17 And they clothed him with Purple, and platted a crowne of thornes, and put it about his head,

20 And when they had mocked him, they tooke off the purple from him, and put his owne clothes on him, and led him out to crucifie him.

*21 * And they compell one that paſſed by, called Simon of Cyrene (comming out of the field, the father of Alexander and Ruphus) to beare his croſſe.* Matt. 27.32. luke 23.26.

25 And it was the thirde houre, and they crucified him.

26 And the title of his cause was superscribed, KING OF THE IEVVES.

27 And ẇ him they crucifie two theeues: one on the right hand, and an other on his left.

28 And the Scripture was fulfilled that Esa.53, 12. saith, And with the wicked he was reputed.

32 Let Christ the King of Israel come downe now from the crosse: that we may see & beleeue. And they that were crucified with him, railed at him.

33 And when it was the sixt houre, there was made darknes vpon the whole earth vntil the ninth houre.

34 And at the ninth houre IESVS cried Ps.21. out with a mightie voice, saying, Eloi, Eloi, lamma-sabacthani? Which is being interpreted, My God, my God, why hast thou forsake me?

Fulke.3. When the Pope and his Prelates, folow the tyrannie of the Iewiſh high Prieſts, in perſecuting Chriſt in his members, they are rightly compared vnto them. And yet the name and office remayneth honourable, as of Gods inſtitution. For we acknowledge the ſingular ſacrificing Prieſthod of our Sauiour Chriſt, & the ſpirituall Prieſthod of all true Chriſtians. And according to right Etymologie, the Prieſthod of the Lawe of Chriſt, and of his members, ſhould haue an other name then that which in the newe Teſtament, is giuen to the Miniſters of the Church: as in Hebrew, Greeke and Latin it hath. But ſeeing vſe hath otherwiſe gotten the vpper hand, we contend not about the name. But where you ſay, the new Prieſthod after the order of Melchiſedech, was begun when the old Prieſthod of Aaron ceaſed, it is true, if you vnderſtand it rightly, of the ſingular Prieſthod of our Sauiour Chriſt, which neuer paſſeth frō his perſon, & of which order, there is no more, but he. Heb.7. But when you meane therby, your Popiſh ſacrificing Prieſthod, and that euery Popiſh Prieſt, is a Prieſt after the order of Melchiſedech, it is moſt horrible blaſphemie againſt the Sonne of God, who only is a Prieſt after ỹ order of Melchiſedech. Io. 16.13. alſo Ioh. 14.16. and Ioh. 15.26. But thereof it followeth not that euerie Prieſt ſhall alwayes hold the trueth, nor that euery one that is called a Chriſtian ſhall continew in true doctrine.

The prayer of Chriſt, was performed in Peter, that in his great and grieuous fall, his faith fayled not, but brought him to repentance. Our Sauiour Chriſt prayed for all his Apoſtles, that God would ſanctifie them in his trueth, and for all that ſhould beleeue in him through their preaching. Ioh. 17. Yet no man gathereth thereof, that euery ſucceſſor of the Apoſtles, and euery true Chriſtian, hath a priuilege hereby, that hee can not erre, as you would inſinuate by Chriſtes praier for Peter, that the Pope hath as Peters ſucceſſors. Whereas that prayer ſpecially concerneth Peters perſon, in reſpect of his particular danger through his fall: and by analogie all Chriſtians, as well as Peters ſucceſſors, who by Chriſtes interceſſion are holden, that their faith faileth not in temptation. The Pope not priuileged frō erring.

Fulke. 4. If it be the faith of Popiſh Catholikes (for all Chriſtian Catholikes abhorre it) to conſpire to murther their Prince, to inuade their countrie with forreine power, to acknowledge the auctoritie of an Italian Prieſt, that hath ſet forth his Antichriſtian bull, to depriue their naturall and moſt lawfull Prince of her royall eſtate, crowne and dignitie, life, and allegiance of her ſubiects: No Chriſtian iudge neede to feare, to giue ſentence againſt ſuch Popiſh Catholikes, for their hereticall and trayterous faith.

Rhem. 5. 46 Bying ſindon.) This duetie done to Chriſtes body after his departure, was exceeding meritorious, and is therefore by holy writ ſo often commended for an example to faithful men, to vſe al honour and deuotion towards the bodies of Saincts and holy perſons. Religious duetie toward the bodies of Chriſt and his Saincts.

Fulke. 5. This duetie was acceptable before God, as proceeding from faith, and loue towards our Sauiour Chriſt, but not meritorious. Neither is it commended as an example to faithful men, to vſe all honour and deuotion towards the bodies of Saincts, and holy perſons, for that were horrible Idolatrie, to vſe al honour and deuotion, (which is due only vnto God,) towards dead mens bodies. But it is an example, to vſe ſuch reuerent handling and laying of them vp, as is a duetie of charitie towards the departed, and of faith in the reſurrection, without any ſuperſtitious worſhipping of the bodies. From which Ioſeph and Nicodemus abſteined, though they buried the bodie of Chriſt him ſelfe, infinitely much more precious, then the bodie of any other holy perſon. Honour of Saincts bodies.

But if you wil obteine credite by working of miracles, you muſt not bring in counterfaite crankes, out of whom you haue caſt out deuils, or whom you haue made whole, as of late Margaret Ieſop, an honeſt woman of your religion: But you muſt bring them, that ſpeake with new tongues, that take away Serpents, that drinke any deadly thing and it ſhall not hurt them, ſo ſhal you declare, that your former workes are not fained and lying miracles, but ſuch as Chriſt gaue power to his diſciples to worke in his name. THE ARGVMENT OF S. LVKES GOSPEL.

Rhem. Luke's Goſpel may be deuided into fiue partes.

The firſt part is, of the Infancie both of the precurſor, and of Chriſt him ſelfe: chap. 1 and 2.

The ſecond, of the Preparation that was made to the manifeſtation of Chriſt: chap. 3 and a piece of the 4.

The third, of Chriſtes manifeſting himſelfe, by preaching and miracles, ſpecially in Galilee: the other piece of the 4. chapter vnto the middes of the 17.

The fourth of his comming into Iurie towards his paſſion: the other piece of the 17. chap. vnto the middes of the 19.

The fifth, of the Holy weeke of his Paſſion in Hieruſalem: the other part of the 19. chap. vnto the end of the booke.

S. Luke was ſectator (ſaith S. Hierome) that is a diſciple of the Apoſtle Paul, and a companion of al his peregrination. And the ſame we ſee in the Actes of the Apoſtles: Where from the 16. chapter S. Luke putteth him ſelfe in the traine of S. Paul, writing thus in the ſtorie. Forthwith we ſought to goe into Macedonia. and in like maner, in the firſt perſon, commonly through the reſt of that booke. Of him and his Goſpel, S. Hierom vnderſtandeth this ſaying of S. Paul: We haue ſent with him the brother, whoſe praiſe is in the Goſpel through al Churches. where alſo hee addeth: Some ſuppoſe ſo often as Paul in his Epiſtles ſaith, According to my Goſpel, that hee meaneth of Lukes booke. And againe: Luke learned the Goſpel not onely of the Apoſtle Paul, who had not been with our Lord in fleſh, but of the other Apoſtles: which him ſelfe alſo in the beginning of his booke declareth, ſaying, As they deliuered to vs who them ſelues from the beginning ſaw, and were miniſters of the word. It followeth in S. Hierome: Therfore he wrote the Goſpel, as he had heard, but the Actes of ỹ Apoſtles he compiled as he had ſeen. S. Paul writeth of him by name to the Coloſſians: Luke the Phyſicion ſaluteth you. and to Timothee: Luke alone is with me. Finally of his end thus doth S. Hierome write: He liued foureſcore and foure yeeres, hauing no wife. Hier. in Catalogo. 2. Cor. 8, 8. Luk. 1, 2. Col 4, 21. 2. Tim. 4, 21. Hiero. in Catalogo.

Fulke. 1. The eſtimation of Saincts reliques, in S. Hieromes time, though it was ſomewhat exceſſiue, yet it was farre from the Idolatrie, and ſuperſtition of the Papiſts. For this he writeth ad Riparium contra Vigilant. Nos autem. &c. But we doe not worſhip and adore, I ſay not, the Reliques of Martyrs, but neither the Sunne & Moone, not Angels and Archangels, not Cherubin, not Seraphin, or any name that is named in this world or in the world to come, leſt we ſhould ſerue the creature, rather then the creator which is bleſſed for euer. But we honour the Reliques of the Martyrs, that we might worſhip him, whoſe Martyrs they are. You ſee by theſe wordes that he alloweth honour, that is a reuerent eſtimation, but no worſhip, adoration or ſeruice, to be done to the bodies or Reliques of Saincts: when yet it is to be thought, they had the true Reliques of the Saincts. Where as yours are for the moſt part, falſe, and counterfect, to deceiue the people and to procure full offerings. And where you ſay S. Lukes bodie is now at Padua, whither it was againe tranſlated from Conſtantinople, how are you able to proue it? or how is it like, the Emperours of Conſtantinople, would ſuffer it to be brought into Italy? The ſixt leſſon vpon S. Lukes day in your Popiſh Portuis, ſayth it is ſtill working miracles at Conſtantinople. But Blondus ſayth it is at Padua, with S. Mathias bodie, and as like the one as the other. For S. Mathie hath another bodie at Rome, ad Mariæ maioris, and a third at Triers, beſides partes in other places. And a lide to touch the report of Hierome, concerning S Lukes bones, he ſayth they were brought out of Achaia, your Portuis ſaith, he was buried in Bithinia: Hierom ſaith this tranſlation was in ỹ 20. yere of Conſtantius, you ſay of Conſtantinus. And Reliques.

although in his 2. inuectiue, againſt Vigilantius, Conſtantinus is named in ſteede of Conſtantius, through the Printers faulte, yet the error is eaſily diſcouered, by the auncient Chronicle, that goeth vnder the name of S. Hierome: referring this tranſlation plainely, to the time of Conſtantius, though not agreeing with S. Hierome in the twentieth yeere, but noting it in the 22. yeere of Conſtantius. And might not Vigilantius haue replied, that Conſtantius was a ſacrilegious Arian, of whoſe tranſlation, Hierom taketh ſo great auctoritie, whatſoeuer the Reliques were, and whether the deuils did rore at their preſence or no.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 10. Praying without.) We ſee here that the Prieſt did his dutie within, the people in the mean time praying without: and that the Prieſts functions did profite them, though they neither heard nor ſaw his doings.

Fulke 1. The condition of the Church of Chriſt is otherwiſe then it was then vnder the law. For now al things muſt be done in the congregation to the vnderſtanding and edifying of the people, in ſo much, as if a man had the miraculous gift of tongues, he might not ſpeake in the Church without an interpretor. 1.Cor.14. Vnknowne tongues.

Rhem. 2. 28. HAILE.) The beginning of the AVE MARIE. See the reſt v.42.

Fulke. 2. The holy wordes of the Angell are prophanely, ſuperſtitiouſly, and idolatrouſly abuſed by the ignorant Papiſts, as a prayer when they are none, mumbled in Latine wherof they know not the ſence, ſayd vnto ſtocks and ſtones, yea to God himſelfe: the learned ſort, if not approuing, yet winking at ſuch ſhamefull abſurdities. The Aue Marie.

Rhem. 3. 48. Al generations.) Haue the Proteſtants had alwaies generations to fulfil this prophecie? or do they call her bleſſed, that derogate what they can from her graces, bleſſings, and al her honours?

Fulke. 3. The Church of God, whereof we are members, hath alwayes had, and alwayes ſhall haue generations, in which the virgine Marie hath beene and ſhall be called bleſſed: Neither doe we derogate from her graces, bleſſings, or honor that is due vnto her, when we cannot abide, that of a moſt bleſſed and holy virgine, the honorable mother of our Lord and Sauiour Chriſt, ſhe ſhould be made an idoll, as ſhe was of your forefathers the Collyridian heretikes, and as cuill, if not worſe of you papiſts. For the Collyridians neuer deſired her to command her ſonne, now ſitting at the right hand of God the Father, as your blaſphemous prayer doth. The perpetuity of y church. Idolatry. Honor of the B. virgine Marie.

Rhem. 4. 80. In the deſerts.) Marke that he was a voluntarie Eremite, and choſe to be ſolitarie from a childe, til he was to preach to the people, in ſo much that antiquitie counted him the firſt Eremite. Hiero. in vit. Pauli.

Fulke. 4. The office of Iohn the Baptiſt was ſingular, and therfore his liuing in the deſert is no example for other men, leſt of all for popiſh Eremites. Who liue not at all in the deſert, but neerer to cities & places frequented, then many husbandmen in the countrie. Neither doeth Hierom allow the opinion of them that counted Iohn to be the firſt Eremite. See the note vpon S. Marke, chap.9.ſect.3. Eremites.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 5. 3. Hauing diligently atteined.) Hereby we ſee that, though the Holy Ghoſt ruled the penne of holy writers that they might not erre, yet did they vſe humane meanes to ſearch out and find the truth of the things they wrote of. Euen ſo doe Councels, and the Prelidents of them, Gods vicar, diſcuſſe and examine al cauſes by humane meanes, the aſſiſtance of the Holy Ghoſt concurring and directing them into al truth, according to Chriſtes promiſe, Io.16.13: as in the very firſt Councel of the Apoſtles them ſelues at Hieruſalem is manifeſt Act.15.7. and 28. Againe here we haue a familiar preface of the Author as to his friende, or to euery godly Reader (ſignified by Theophilus) concerning the cauſe and purpoſe and maner of his writing, and yet the very ſame is confeſſed Scripture, with the whole booke following. Marueil not therefore if the Author of the

The ſecond booke of the Machabees.

Ordinary

Fulke.5. Ordinarie meanes are not to be neglected,but vſed for the diſcuſſing of controuerſies in Councels, but the holy ſcripture is the rule whereby the definition muſt be made,if it be true,as in the Councell of the Apoſtles, Act.15. But that the Pope is Gods vicar, or preſident of generall Councels, or hath any promiſe, that he can not erre,or any ſpecial directiõ of Gods ſpirit,as the holy mẽ of God had,which did endite the Scriptures,it is neuer able to be prooued. Neither is the preface nor concluſion of the auctor of the ſecond booke of Maccabies,any thing like to this preface of S. Luke. Which though it be directed to one ſpecial perſon, yet it conteineth nothing vnworthy of the maieſtie of the holy ghoſt,as thoſe of the Maccabies doe. Where the auctor acknowledgeth his infirmitie,asketh pardon if he haue not done ſufficiently, writeth to ſerue the vayne delight of men by varietie of ſtory. Whereas S.Luke as the pen of the holy ghoſt,doubteth not to ſay,that he hath exactly atteined to the trueth of all things,and ſet forth the ſame to the certaine confirmation of the faith,wherin Theophilus had bene inſtructed, which is neceſſary for euery Chriſtian, though it was firſt written vnto Theophilus. Beſide,that 2.booke of ſtories hath many things falſe,that are diſproued by the firſt booke of the Maccabies, and by Ioſephus,but ſpecially matter contrary to the canonicall Scriptures, as a commendation of Razis for killing himſelfe,2.Macc.14 It is therefore falſe and blaſphemous againſt Gods word, to ſay, that S.Luke vſeth like humane ſpeeches,to the auctor of that booke.

The Popes authoritie in Councels.

The booke of Maccabies.

Rhem.6. 6 Iuſt before God.) Againſt the Heretikes of this time,here it is euident that holy men be iuſt, not onely by the eſtimation of men,but in deed and before God.

True iuſtification by obſeruing the commaundements.

Fulke.6. Chriſtian men are iuſt in deed before God,though not by their owne merite,but by the iuſtice of Chriſt imputed to them through fayth.

Iuſtice imputed.

Rhem.7. 6 In all the commandements.) Three things to be noted directly againſt the Heretikes of our time. firſt, that good men doe keepe all Gods commandements: which (they ſay) are impoſſible to be kept. Againe, that men be iuſtified not by onely imputation of Chriſtes iuſtice,nor by faith alone,but by walking in the commaundements. Againe,that the keeping and doing of the commandements is properly our iuſtification.

Fulke.7. Neither of thoſe three things can be prooued out of the text. For good men may walke in all the commandements of God, though they can keepe neuer a one perfectly. And fayth onely in the merites of Chriſt, is imputed for righteouſneſſe to all thoſe that are iuſtified by God without reſpect of workes.Rom.4. Therefore keeping and doing of Gods commaundements,is not the cauſe of our iuſtification before God,but the effect and fruit thereof. So were Zacharie and Elizabeth iuſtified before God by fayth, as Abraham was, and as a fruite of true iuſtification, walked in all the commaundements of God, in the ſight of men blameleſſe. For otherwiſe no man can ſay,his heart is cleane. If God ſhould examine our iniquities, who were able to abide it? Zacharie and Elizabeth were holy, and iuſt perſons,yet not free from ſinne. For Zacharie as one of Gods people looked to haue remiſſion of his ſinnes, and ſaluation by Chriſt and not by his workes. Luc.1.77.

None keepeth the law.

Iuſtification by fayth onely.

Rhem.8. 6 Iuſtifications.) This word is ſo vſuall in the Scriptures (namely in the Pſal.118.) to ſignifie the commaundements of God,becauſe the keeping of them is iuſtification,and the Greeke is alwayes ſo fully correſpondent to the ſame, that the Heretikes in this place (otherwiſe pretending to eſteeme much of the Greeke) bluſh not to ſay, that they auoid this word of purpoſe againſt the iuſtification of the Papiſts. And therefore one vſeth Tullies word forſooth in Latin conſtituta: and his ſchollers in their Engliſh Bibles ſay, Ordinances.

Corrupt tranſlation of Heretikes. δικαιώματα. Beza in Annot. new. Teſt. 1556.

Fulke.8. The worde vſed by the Prophet in the 119. Pſalme is חקים Chuckim which ſignifieth properly ordinaunces and ſtatutes, as all that are meanely learned in the Hebrew, doe know.And although the Greeke interpreter in that Pſalme, tranſlated it δικαιώματα, your vulgar Latine interpreter, doth moſt commonly in the lawe, tranſlate it Ceremonias, ceremonies, Deut. 4.5.6.7. and ſo commonly almoſt in euery chapter. The Greeke interpreter, not alwayes δικαιώματα, but ſometimes νόμον, πρόσταγμα, ἐντολὰς, that is, the lawe, ordinaunces, commaundements. And in the ſame chapter he tranſlateth it both δικαιώματα and πρόσταγμα. Deut.11. verſ.32. by which it is euident, that the one word ſignifieth no more then the other. And that in δικαιώματα, we muſt ſeeke no greater myſterie of iuſtification, then in πρόσταγμα, which ſignifieth ordinaunces, commaundements, decrees, or ſtatutes. Sauing that the Hebrew word is many times referred to precepts which be of ceremonies, as the vulgar Latine interpreter doth commonly tranſlate it. And ſo it is moſt like, that S. Luke vſeth the worde δικαιώματα, as it is commonly vſed in the Greeke text of the lawe. Therefore, ſeeing you cauill about the ſound of a worde, contrary to the vſe thereof, our interpreters did well to auoyd the terme iuſtifications, where about you quarell, and to tranſlate it according to the meaning of the Greeke writer, and the vſuall acception of the Greeke word. And why ſhould not a Latine interpreter vſe Tullies word (forſooth) being apt for the Greeke, rather then any barbarous terme,not ſo fit or agreeable vnto it? But this matter you may ſee more at large diſcuſſed in the defence againſt Martines diſcoverie,cap.8.ſect.1.2.&3.

Iuſtification.

Exod.18.20. Num.9.3. 1.Reg.2.3.

Rhem.9. 14 Ioy and exultation.) This was fulfilled,not onely when he was borne,but now alſo through the whole Church for euer,in ioyfull celebrating of his Natiuitie.

Fulke.9. Belike S. Iohn is borne agayne with you euery Midſommer day. The ioy that was at the birth of Iohn, (though it were great) yet it was obſcured by the glorious birth of Chriſt. And ſeing Chriſt is not only borne, but alſo hath ſuffered death, is riſen againe, and aſcended into heauen: The ioy of Iohns birth in the catholike Church of Chriſt, is hidden and dimmed, as the light of a ſtarre, by the ſunne ſhining at noone dayes. Iohn himſelfe acknowledged that he was to diminiſh, as Chriſt increaſed. Ioan.3.30. The angell therefore, did not prophecie of your popiſh celebrating of his Natiuitie,but of the ioy,that many ſhould haue,which looked for the redemption of Iſrael which was at hand, when Iohn the forerunner of Chriſt was borne. Otherwiſe the Church of God communicateth with the ioy of Gods Saincts at that time, not onely, nor chiefly, in celebration of the memory of Iohns Natiuitie,but in contemplation of the performance of Gods promiſes,at all times of the yeare.

Rhem.10 23 He departed.) In the old Law (ſaith S.Hierome) they that offered hoſties for the people, were not onely not in their their houses, but were purified for the time, being separated from their wives, and they dranke neither wine nor any strong drinke, which are wont to prouoke concupiscence. Much more the Priests of the new Law that must alwaies offer sacrifices, must alwaies be free from matrimonie. Li.1.c.19.adu.Iouin. and ep.50.c.3. See S. Ambrose in 1.Tim.3. And therfore if there were any religion in Calvins Communion, they would at the least giue as much reuerence in this point, as they in the old Law did to their sacrifices, and to the loaues of proposition. 1.Reg.21. The continencie of priests.

Fulke. 10 S. Paule, who alloweth a bishop and elder to be the husband of one wife, is to be credited, what is meet for the ministers of the Church, rather then S. Hieronym and S. Ambrose. Against whom I oppose Clemens Alexandrinus and Paphnutius, with the whole generall councell of Nice, who thought it not expedient that the ministers of the Church should absteine from their lawfull wiues. See the notes vpon Matth.cap.8.sect.14. And seeing the holy ghost hath made no such law for them that receiue the communion, to absteine fro their wiues, we take not vpon vs to be wiser then God. Otherwise all men are exhorted to liue in marriage, soberly, and temperatly: but not to separate themselues one from another, except it be for a time, by consent, that they may be exercised in fasting and prayer, and then to come together againe, lest Sathan tempt them for their incontinencie. 1.Cor 7.5. 1.Tim.3.2. tit.1.6. Strom.lib.3. Socr.lib.1. cap.11. The marriage of ministers of the church.

Rhem.11 28. Haile ful of grace.) Holy Church and al true Christian men doe much and often vse these wordes brought from heauenly the Archangel, as wel to the honour of Christ and our B. Ladie, as also for that they were the wordes of the first glad tidings of Christs Incarnation and our Saluation by the same, and be the very abridgement and summe of the whole Gospel. In so much that the Greeke Church vsed it daily in the Masse. Liturg. S.Iacobi & Chrys. Often saying of the AVE MARIE.

Fulke. 11 Papists in often repetition of these wordes (though excellent good of them selues) doe shamefully abuse them, seeing they say them not, nor can say them, in that sence they were vttered by the Angel and Elisabeth: Seeing they doe so often, and so vainly repeat them vpon their beads, like the heathen, rather in derision, then honor of Christ and the blessed virgine, Matth. 6.7. And what mysterie or summe of the gospel soeuer be conteined in them, the ignorant people vnderstand nothing at all, who by your good wils, should not vnderstand the wordes in their mother tongue. If the Grecians vse them well in their masse, why doe not you vse them in yours? If they vse them superstitiously, why doe you alleage their example? The liturgies that you quote, be counterfeit vnder the names of Iames and Chrysostome. And the one of them is a good confutation of the other. For if the Greeke church had a liturgie written by Iames the Apostle, who would thinke that Chrysostome would make a new? Againe if Chrysostome had made a liturgie, he would not haue made a prayer for pope Nicholas, that liued almost fiue hundred yeeres after him, nor for the emperor Alexius, who liued seuen hundred yeeres after him. This stuffe therefore is much later then the apostle Iames, or Chrysostomes age. The abuse of the angels salution.

Rhem.12 28. Ful of grace.) Note the excellent prerogatiues of our B. Lady, and abhorre those Heretikes which make her no better then other vulgar women, and therfore to take from her fulnes of grace, they say here, Haile freely beloued, contrarie to al significations of the Greeke word, which is as the last, endued with grace, as S. Paul vseth it Ephes.1. by S. Chrysostomes interpretation, or rather, ful of grace, *as both * Greeke and Latin fathers haue alwaies here vnderstood it, and the Latines also read it, namely S. Ambrose thus,* Wel is she only called ful of grace, who only obteined the grace, which no other woman deserued, to be replenished with the author of grace. *And if they did as wel know the nature of these kind of Greeke wordes, as they would seeme very skilful, they might easily obserue that they signifie fulnes, as when they them selues translate the like word (Luc.16.20.) ful of sores.* Beza vlcerosus. Corrupt translation of Heretikes. S.Athan.de S. Deip. S.Ephrem in orat.de laud.B. virg. Ambro. in 1.Luc.li.2. Hier.ep.140. in exp.Ps.44. κεχαριτωμένη. ἰχαριτωσε. ἀνωμένη.

Fulke. 12 First it is a slander, that we make the virgine Mary, no better then other vulgar women. For we acknowledge that she was blessed aboue all other women, in that she was chosen to be the mother of our Sauiour Christ, and that she was full of the graces of the holy ghost, but yet a woman, no goddesse, a sinner, no Sauiour, and yet as free from sinne, as the infirmitie of mans nature could be. Secondly, concerning our translation, we say, the Greeke word signifieth, freely beloued, not full of grace: both in this place, and in the Ephesians the first: by the testimonie of all Greeke Dictionaries: by Chrysostomes iudgement, whose wordes are these: ὡς ἔστιν, he sayd not ἰχαριτωμένη, which he hath giuen, but ἰχαριτωσεν, but whereby he hath made vs freely beloued, that is, he hath not only deliuered vs from our sinnes, but also hath made vs his beloued freendes, as if one had gotten a certeine scabbed fellow, rotten through pestilent sickenesse, age, pouertie, and famine, and should by and by make him a beautifull young man, which shall exceed all other in beautie, &c. what cleerer testimonie can we haue, that the Greeke word doth signifie freely beloued? And yet it is true, that the virgine Mary especiallie, and all other Christians generallie, was, and are endued with excellent giftes of Gods grace: as Chrysostome sayth of all, and the rest of the Fathers, whom you quote, say of the virgine Marie. But our question is, whether the virgine Marie had these graces of her selfe, or of the free gift and loue of God, without her merites. And what the Greeke word signifieth properly, not how it hath of some heretofore beene vnperfectly translated into Latine. Chrysostome Ex Luc. cap.1. De natiuitate Iohannis Baptistæ, rehearseth these wordes of the Angell in this sort: Pax tecum, quæ inuenisti gratiam apud Dominum: Peace be to thee, which hast found fauour with the Lord. That ἀνωμένη. Luke 16. is translated, full of sores, it proueth not, that all such participles deriued of such verbes, must signifie such a fulnesse as you imagine, wherof I referre the reader to the answere of your preface sect. 53. and to the defence against Martynes discouery c. 1. sect. 43. and chap. 18. sect. 4. 5. 6. Slander. The B. virgin Marie.

Rhem.13 34. I know not man.) These wordes declare (saith S. Augustine) that she had now vowed virginitie to God. For otherwise neither would she say, How shall this be done? nor haue added, because I know not man. Yea if she had said only the first wordes, How shall this be done? it is euident that she would not haue asked such a question, how a woman should beare a sonne promised her, if she had married meaning to haue carnal copulation. c.4.de virgin. As if he should say, If she might haue knowen a man and so haue had a childe, she would neuer haue asked, How shal this be done? but because that ordinarie way was excluded by her vow of virginitie, therfore she asketh, How? And in asking, How? she plainly declareth that she might not haue a childe by knowing man, because of her vow. See S. Greg. Nyssene de sancta Christi Natiuitate. Our B. Lady vowed virginitie.

Fulke. 13 Though S. Augustine gather that she had vowed virginitie, yet it followeth not of the wordes of the text. Therefore S. Ambrose bringeth another cause, why she asked how shall it is be? &c. She had read (saith he) the Prophecie Whether the B. virgine

Prophecie of Eſay. Beholde a virgine ſhall conceiue and bring forth a ſonne, therefore ſhe beleeued that it ſhould be, but ſhe had not read how it ſhould be. For how it ſhould be, it was not reuealed to that great Prophet. For ſo great a myſterie of meſſage was not to be vttered by the mouth of a man, but of an angell. Therefore now it is firſt heard: The holy ghoſt ſhall come vpon thee. It is both heard and beleeued. The like ſayinges are in Euthymius and Theophylacte: Although Gregorie Nyſſene be of S. Auguſtines opinion concerning her purpoſe of virginitie: which is not like, ſeeing ſhe promiſed to marrie with Ioſeph, as it is plaine by the text. vowed virginitie.

Rhem. 36. Eliſabeth thy Coſin.) By this that Eliſabeth and our Lady were coſins, the one of the tribe of Leui, the other of Iuda, is gathered that Chriſt came of both tribes, Iuda and Leui, of the kings and the prieſts: him ſelf both a king and a prieſt, and the Anointed (to wit) by grace ſpiritually, as they were with oile materially and corporally. Auguſt. 2. de Conſenſ. Fulke. 14 Eliſabeth acknowledgeth Marie to be the mother of our Lord, but not to be our Ladie, neither doeth the text ſay, that ſhe ſang, but with a loud voyce ſhe ſaid. And the praiſe which ſhe gaue to the virgine Marie, was the praiſe of God, who bleſſed her aboue all women: but yet made her not equall with Chriſt, that ſhe might be called by thoſe names, which are proper to God and to Chriſt only: but of you papiſts are applied to the virgine Marie, to the diſhonor of her ſonne, when you call her our life, our ſaluation, and our ſweetneſſe, the mother of mercy, queene of heauen, ladie of the world, &c. Vita, ſalus, & dulcedo, &c.

What names to be giuen in Baptiſme. e. de. bapt. in fine.

Fulke. 16 Strange and profane names, are no where ſo common, as in Italie and Rome, where euen the holy Cardinalles, carie the names of heathen Romans, and Grecians. Yea your holy fathers the popes after they haue like antichriſts, renounced the names giuen them in baptiſme, by which they were firſt dedicated to Chriſt: doe often times chuſe vnto themſelues profane names, as Sergius, Leo, Iulius, Sixtus, that I ſpeake nothing of the names receiued from the hethenish Saxons and Normans, better liked in popery, and preferred by popiſh biſhops in confirmation, before names of godly ſignification taken out of the ſcripture, and giuen to children at their baptiſme.

Rhem. 17 75. Iuſtice before him.) Here alſo we ſee that we may haue true iuſtice, not only in the ſight of men, or by the imputation of God, but in deede before him and in his ſight: and that the comming of Chriſt was to giue men ſuch iuſtice. True iuſtice not imputatiue.

Fulke. 17 We may haue true iuſtice before God, and true holineſſe alſo in his ſight, but not perfect iuſtice, nor perfect holineſſe in our ſelues. And the end of our redemption by Chriſt, is that we ſhould ſerue God in true holineſſe, & righteouſneſſe all the dayes of our life, and this grace we haue alſo by our Sauiour Chriſtes gift, as in the verſe 13. being iuſtified by faith, as a fruite thereof, not as the cauſe of our iuſtification before God. MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. III.

Rhem.1. 3. Penance vnto remiſſion.) Penance prepareth the way to Chriſt.

Fulke.1. Iohn by preaching repentance, prepared a way to Chriſt.

Rhem.2. 8. Fruites worthie of penance.) Fruites of penance be workes ſatisfactorie.

Fulke.2. The fruites of repentance, being good workes, declare the repentance to be true and vnfained: If the repentaunce be true, the ſinnes are forgiuen, therefore the workes are not ſatisfactorie: for ſatisfaction pertey- neth to iuſtice, forgiueneſſe to mercie. Satisfaction.

Rhem.3. 11. He that hath two coates.) Almes counſeled or enioyned for ſinnes, and to auoide damnation.

Fulke.3. Almes commaunded as a true fruite of repentance, which he that is able and will not giue, ſhall not auoide damnation. Counſels and precepts.

Rhem.4. 15. The people imagining.) Iohn was ſo holy that many might by errour eaſily thinke he was Chriſt.

Fulke.4. There was infinite difference, betweene the holineſſe of Iohn, and of Chriſt, therefore Iohns holineſſe was no occaſion of mens errour, but their owne negligence, which did not know the Scriptures, concerning Chriſt. But this is your manner, to make ſmall difference betweene the Lord, and his ſeruants.

Rhem.5. 16. But there ſhall come.) How ſay then the Heretikes that the Baptiſme of Chriſt is of no greater vertue then Iohns?

Fulke.5. Onely Chriſtes office and power it is, to baptize with the holy Ghoſt and with fire, nowe in the baptiſme miniſtred by his ſeruants in the Church: and then in the baptiſme that was miniſtred by Iohn. The baptiſme in both, is from heauen, as Gods inſtitution. Baptiſme.

Rhem.6. 36. Who was of Cainan.) Beza boldly wipeth out of this Gospel, theſe wordes, who was of Cainan: though all the Greeke copies both of the olde Teſtament and of the newe, haue the wordes with full conſent, whereby we learne the intolerable ſawcines of the Caluiniſts, and their contempt of holy Scripture, that dare ſo deale with the very Goſpel it ſelfe.

Fulke.6. That which is a manifeſt errour, not of the Euangeliſt, but of ſome writer that woulde correct the Euangeliſt, according to the errour of the Greeke tranſlation of Geneſis, being contrary to the trueth of the Hebrue text, and an auncient copie of S. Luke in Greecke, why ſhould he doubt to omitte? But of this matter ſee more at large in the defence againſt Martines diſcouerie, anſwere to the preface, Sect 18.19.20.21.22. Slander. Cauill.

Rhem. 20. Rhem.7. 23. Of Heli.) *Whereas in Saint Matthewe, Iacob is father to Ioſeph, and here Heli, the caſe was thus. Mathan (none I in Saint Matthewe) of his wife called Eſcha begate Iacob: and after his death, Melchi (named here in S. Luke) of the ſame woman begate Heli: ſo that Iacob and Heli were bretheren of one mother. The Heli therefore marrying and dying without iſſue: Iacob his brother, according to the Lawe married his wife, and begate Ioſeph, and ſo rayſed vp ſeede to his brother Heli. whereby it came to paſſe, that Iacob was the naturall father of Ioſeph, which as S. Fulke.7. S. Auguſtine ſayeth not, that Iacob and Heli were bretheren by the mother, but that Heli deſcending from Nathan, adopted Ioſeph, being not his ſonne by nature. S. Hieronym citeth the Lawe Deut.25. that the brother or kinſeman ſhoulde marrie the wife of him that dyed without iſſue, whereby it appeareth that by the brother, he vnderſtandeth not the naturall brother, but according to the Hebrewe cuſtome, ſuch kinſeman, as was not forbidden by the Lawe, Leuit.18. Onely Euſebius out of Africanus an Hiſtoriographer, ſuppoſeth that Iacob and Heli were brethren by the mother, and married both the mother of Ioſeph: which is not like, becauſe ſuch marying, is inceſtuous by the Lawe, Leuit.18.16. Except we ſhoulde ſay, that their mariage was like the inceſt of Iuda with Thamar, which is alſo in the genealogie of Chriſt. Mariage with the brothers wife.

He went downe through the midst of them, the minde of those raging people, being suddenly either changed, or astonished.* The same saith Beda. Neither is there any ancient writer, that fauoureth your monstrous imagination, that he went through mens bodies. 3 And he going vp into ‖ one ship that was Simons, desired him to bring it backe a litle from the land. And sitting, he taught the multitudes out of the ship.

4 And as he ceased to speake, he said to Simon, Launche forth into the deepe, and let loose your nettes to make a draught.

5 And Simon answering, said to him, Master, labouring al the night, we haue take nothing: but in thy word I wil let loose the net.

6 And when they had done this, they inclosed ‖ a very great multitude of fishes, and their nette was broken.

7 And they ‖ beckened to their fellowes that were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came and filled both shippes, so that they did sinke.

5 *And Simon answering, said vnto him, Master, we haue laboured all night, and haue taking nothing: neuertheless, at thy commaundement I will loose forth the net.

6 *And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes, but their net brake:

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem.1. 3. One ſhip Simons.) It is purpoſely expreſſed that there were two ſhippes, and that one of them was Peters, and that Chriſt went into that one, and ſate downe in it, and that ſitting he taught out of that ſhip: no doubt: to ſignifie the Church ſignified by Peters ſhip, and that in it is the chaire of Chriſt, and only true preaching. Peters ſhip.

Fulke 1. Although it be true, that Chriſtes chaire is in the Church, yet this is a fonde collection. For if the ſhippe were here the Church, then all to whom Chriſt preached that were on the ſhore and in the other ſhippe, were out of the Church. The Church.

Rhem.2. 6. A great multitude of fiſhes.) *Likewiſe by this ſignificatiue miracle wrought about Peters fiſhing, is euidently foreſhewed what wonderful ſucceſſe Peter ſhould haue in conuerting men to Chriſt, both Iewes and Gentiles. as when at one draught, that is to ſay, at one Sermon he drew into his ſhip, which is Chriſtes Church, a great number of men, as he did newe fiſhes: and ſo continually by himſelf and his ſucceſſors vnto the worlds end. Peters fiſhing. Act.2,41.4.4.

Fulke 2. Peters ſucceſſors be true preachers of the Goſpel, as for the Pope that neuer preacheth the Goſpel, neuer caſteth out Peters net, to fiſh for men as he did. Succeſſors of Peter.

Rhem. 7. Beckened to their fellowes.) Peter had ſo much worke that he called for helpe and ioyned vnto him the other ſhip, nor refuſing to vſe his Copartners in the preaching of the Goſpel, and the coniunction of the Synagogue and the people of Gentilitie vnto Peters ſhip, that is, to the Church of Chriſt. Ambro.li.4.in Luc.c.vlt. Fulke.3. By S. Matthew and S. Marke, it is euident, that Chriſt ſpake ioyntly to Peter and Andrew. I will make you fiſhers of men. Matth.4.19. Mark.1.17. Therefore it is a brutiſh Collection, to gather Peters prerogatiue, before all men in the office of fiſhing. Peters primacie Rhem.4. 20 Whoſe faith.) Great is God (ſaith S. Ambroſe) and pardoneth one ſors through the merites of others therefore if thou doubt to obtaine forgiuenes of thy great offences, ioyne vnto thy ſelfe interceſſors, vſe the Churches helpe, which may pray for thee and obtaine for thee that which our Lord might denie to thy ſelf. Amb. lib.5. in Luc. The interceſſion of others.

Fulke.4. The wordes of Ambroſe be otherwiſe then you cite them, M. gnus Dominus, qui aliorum merito ignoſcit alijs. The Lord is great, which for other mens ſake forgiueth other men: and while he alloweth ſome, he releaſeth the faultes of other, why ſhould not a man thy fellowe preuaile with thee, when with God the ſeruant hath the meane of interceſſion and the right of obteining? Learne thou that iudgeſt, to forgiue, learne thou that art ſicke, to obteine forgiuenes. If thou doubteſt to obteine pardon of grieuous ſinnes: take to the intreators, take to thee the Church which may pray for thee, by contemplation whereof, the Lord forgiueth that which he might denie thee. There is nothing hard in this ſpeech, but the name of merite, which the fathers vſe often times, when they ſignifie any meane of obtaining, and not as Papiſts take it, for deſerts. And the argument that he draweth frō hence, that one man ſhould be intreated by an other to forgiue, declareth that he meaneth not worthines, or merit of workes, to preuaile with God: as he expreſſeth moſt plainely in other places, where he ſaith, Whence ſhould I haue ſo great merit, ſeeing mercie is my crowne? Ex-lmrs. ad Virgin. Affirming alſo, that a man is iuſtified and ſaued by faith alone, very often times. In ep. ad Rom. cap.2.& 3.4.9.10.11. 1. Cor. 1. Gal. cap.3.5. and elſewhere. Merite. Faith only.

Rhem. 5. 24 The ſonne of man in earth.) By which act (ſaith Cyril) it is cleere that the Sonne of man hath power in earth to remitte ſinnes: which he ſaid both for him ſelf and vs. For he, as God being made man and Lord of the Law, forgiueth ſinnes. And we alſo haue obtained by him that wonderful grace, for it is ſaid to his Diſciples, Whoſe ſinnes you ſhal remit, they are remitted to them. And how ſhould not he be able to remit ſinnes, who gaue other power to doe the ſame. Prieſts do remit ſinnes. In cat ena S. Thoma. Io,20,23.

Fulke. 5. Chriſt as God forgiueth ſinnes properly, here to the ſicke of the palſey. But Matth.9.ſ.& 6. you hold, that Chriſt as man, forgaue ſinnes to this man. The power that Chriſt gaue to his diſciples to forgiue ſinnes, is to declare them to be forgiuen by God: S. Hieronym. in Matth.16. Forgiuenes of ſinnes.

Fulke. 6. 28 Leauing al folowed him.) *The * profane Iulian charged Matthew of two much lightnes, to leaue al and folowe a ſtranger, at one word. but in deede hereby is ſeene the marueloous efficacie of Chriſtes word and internal working, thus in a moments can alter the hart of man, and cauſe him nothing to eſteeme the things moſt deere vnto him. which he did not only then in preſence, but alſo dayly doth in the Church. For ſo S. Antonie, S. Francis, and others, by hearing only the word of our Sauiour read in the Church, forſooke al and folowed him.* Forſaking al, and folowing Chriſt. Hieron in Mat.9. Athan. in vit. S. Antonii.

Rhem. 6. Frauncis followed not Chriſt in preaching y Goſpel, but did ſet vp a new ſect of his owne religion, of whom they be called Franciſcanes, as of Chriſt Chriſtians haue their name. Yea Frauncis was crucified for his ſect, if we may beleeue his diſciples writings and paintings of him. Who alſo with the reſt of begging Friers, goe about to abolith the Goſpel of Chriſt, and therefore did write a new Goſpel, and called it the Goſpel of the ſpirite, and eternall Goſpel, which was expounded openly in Paris, and had bene preached 55 yeeres without controlement, till at laſt, it was burnt ſecretly, at the importunate requeſt and outcrying of Guiliel mus de ſancto Amore, and others of Paris: *Guil. de ſanct Amore de periculo noui ſtimi temporis. cap.8. 23 Reioyce ye in that day, and leape ye for ioy: for behold, your reward is great in heauen, for in like maner did their fathers vnto the Prophets, 24 * But woe vnto you that are rich: for yee haue your conſolation. Amos 6.1. eccle.31.8.

25 * Woe vnto you that are full: for ye ſhall hunger. Woe vnto you that now laugh: for yee ſhall mourne and waile. Eſai.65.13.

26 Woe vnto you when men ſhall praiſe you: for ſo did their fathers to the falſe prophets.

27 * But I ſay vnto you which heare, Loue your enemies, doe good to them which hate you, Matth.5.44.

28 Bleſſe them that curſe you, and pray for them which wrongfully trouble you.

29 * And vnto him that ſmiteth thee on the one cheeke, offer alſo the other: * and him that taketh away thy cloake, forbid not to take thy coate alſo. Matth.5.39. 1.Cor.6.7.

30 Giue to euery man that asketh of thee, & of him that taketh away thy goods, aske them not againe.

31 * And as ye would that men ſhould doe to you, doe ye alſo to them likewiſe. Matth.7.12.

32 * For if ye loue them which loue you, what thanke haue ye? for ſinners alſo loue their louers. Tobi.4.16.

33 And if ye doe good for them which doe good for you, what thanke haue ye? for ſinners alſo doe euen the ſame.

34 * And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receiue, what thanke haue ye? * for ſinners alſo lend to ſinners, to receiue ſuch like againe. Matth.5.46. Matth.5.42.

35 But loue ye your enemies, and doe good, and lend, looking for nothing againe: and your reward ſhalbe great, and ye ſhall be the children of the higheſt: for he is kinde vnto the vnkinde, and to the euil.

36 Be ye therefore merciful, as your father alſo is mercifull,

37 * Iudge not, and ye ſhall not be iudged at all: condemne not, and ye ſhall not be condemned at all, forgiue, and ye ſhalbe forgiuen. Matth.7.1.

38 * Giue, and it ſhalbe giuen vnto you, good meaſure, preaſſed downe, ſhaken together, & running ouer, ſhall men giue into your boſomes: for with the ſame meaſure that ye mete with all, it ſhall be meaſured to you againe. Matth.7.2. mark.4.24.

39 And he ſaid to them a ſimilitude alſo: Can the blinde leade the blinde? doe not both fal into the ditch?

40 The diſciple is not aboue his maiſter: but euery one ſhal be perfect, if he be as his maiſter.

41 And why ſeeſt thou the mote in thy brothers eye: but the beame that is in thine owne eye thou conſidereſt not?

42 Or how canſt thou ſay to thy brother, Brother, let me caſt out the mote out of thine eye: thy ſelf not ſeeing the beame in thine owne eie? Hypocrite, caſt firſt the beame out of thine owne eie: and then ſhalt thou ſee clerely to take forth the mote out of thy brothers eie. ¶

43 For there is no good tree that yeldeth euil fruites: nor euil tree, that yeldeth good fruite.

44 For euery tree is knowen by his fruite. For neither doe they gather figges of thornes: neither of a buſh doe they gather the grape.

45 The good man of the good treaſure of his hart bringeth forth good: and the euil man of the il treaſure bringeth forth euil. for of the aboundance of the hart the mouth ſpeaketh.

46 And why cal you me, Lord, Lord: and doe not the things which I ſay?

47 Euery one that commeth to me, and heareth my words, and doeth them: I wil ſhew you to whom he is like.

48 He is like to a man ‡ building a houſe, that digged deepe, and laid the foundation vpon a rocke. And when an inundation roſe, the riuer bette againſt that houſe, & it could not moue it: for it was founded vpon a rocke.

49 But he that heareth, and doeth not: is like to a man building his houſe vpon the earth without a foundation: againſt the which the riuer did beate: and incontinent it fell, and the ruine of that houſe was great.

*39 And he put foorth a ſimilitude vnto them, Matth.15.14
Can the blinde leade the blinde? Shall they not both fall into the ditch?

*40 The diſciple is not aboue his maſter: but whoſoeuer wil be a perfect diſciple, ſhall be as his maſter is. Matt.10.24. Ioh.13.16.

*41 And why ſeeſt thou the mote that is in thy brothers eye, but conſidereſt not the beame that is in thine owne eye? Matth.7.3.

42 Either how canſt thou ſay to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye: when thou thy ſelfe ſeeſt not the beame that is in thine owne eye? Thou hypocrite, caſt out the beame out of thine owne eye firſt, and then ſhalt thou ſee perfectly to pull out the mote that is in thy brothers eye.

*43 For it is not a good tree that bringeth forth euil fruite: neither is that an euil tree that bringeth forth good fruite. Matth.7.17.

*44 For euerie tree is knowen by his owne fruite: for of thornes doe not men gather figges, nor of a bramble buſh gather they grapes. Matth.12.33. mark.7.16.

45 A good man out of the good treaſure of his heart, bringeth foorth that which is good: and an euill man out of the euill treaſure of his heart, bringeth foorth that which is euill: For of the abundance of the heart, his mouth ſpeaketh.

*46 Why cal ye me Lord, Lord, and doe not as I bid you? Matth.7.21. rom.13.1.

47 Whoſoeuer commeth to me, and heareth my ſayings, and doeth the ſame, I will ſhew you to whom he is like.

48 He is like a man which built an houſe, and digged deepe, and laid the foundation on the rocke. And when the waters aroſe, the flood beat vehemently vpon that houſe, and could not moue it: for it was grounded vpon the rocke.

49 But he that heareth, and doeth it not, is like a man that without foundatiõ built an houſe vpon the earth: againſt which the flood did beate vehemently, and it fell immediatly, and the fall of that houſe was great.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. VI.

Rhem.1. 1 Sabboth ſecond firſt.) S. Hierom (ep. 2. ad Nepotian.) writeth of him ſelf, that being at Conſtantinople, he asked his maſter Gregorie Nazianzene, the famous Doctor, then Biſhop there, what Sabboth this was, who by his answere declared that it was very hard to tel, neither is it yet knowen to the beſt learned. Yet the Proteſtants are wont to ſay, All is very eaſie.

Fulke.1. A falſe ſlaunder: we ſay not, that all things in the Scripture are very eaſie. But we ſay with S. Auguſtine, *that God hath graciouſly, and wholeſomely ſo tempered the Scriptures, that by euident or plaine places, he might prouide for hunger, and by darke places, wipe away loathſomnes. For nothing almoſt is beaten out of thoſe obſcurities, which is not found elſe where, vttered moſt plainely. De doctr. Fulke. 2. If faith be taken for bare knowledge, as in Iames. 2. he that truſteth to ſuch a faith, buildeth in the ſand. Yet true faith only ſufficeth to iuſtification, and bringeth forth good workes as the fruites of a iuſtified man: as Auguſtine ſheweth plentifully. De fide & oper. c. 14. & 22. & 23. Iuſtification by faith only.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VI.

Rhem. 3. 3 Neither this haue you read.) The Scribes and Phariſees boaſted moſt of their knowledge of the Scriptures: but our Sauiour often ſheweth their great ignorance. Euen ſo the Heretikes that now adaies vant moſt of the Scriptures and of their vnderſtanding of them, may ſoone be prooued to vnderſtand little or nothing. Heretikes vnderſtand not the Scriptures.

Fulke. 3. It is inough for you to call vs heretikes, and ſay that we vnderſtand little or nothing in the Scriptures, but thereof let our preachings, writings and conferences beare witneſſe. Yet we vaunt not of our vnderſtanding, but humbly thanke the auctor thereof. Slander.

Rhem. 9 Saue a ſoule.) Hereby it ſeemeth that Chriſt (as at other times lightly alwayes) did not onely heale this man in body, but of ſome correſpondent diſeaſe in his ſoule.

Rhem. 4. 12 The whole night.) Our Sauiour inſtantly praied, alone in the mount without doore, all night long, as a preparation to the deſignment of his Apoſtles the day after: to giue example to the Church of praying inſtantly when prieſts are to be ordered, and a leſſon to vs all what we ſhould do for our owne neceſſities, when Chriſt did ſo for other men. The Churches prayers at the time of giuing holy Orders.

Fulke. 4. The Church ought to follow our Sauiour Chriſt in praying earneſtly, when miniſters of the word and Sacraments are ordeined. But this example is little followed in popery, as common experience teacheth, where ſimonie ſo greatly preuaileth in this matter, and moſt of all at Rome.

Rhem. 5. 13 Whom he named Apoſtles.) Here it is to be noted againſt our Aduerſaries that deceitfully meaſure to the ſimple the whole nature and qualitie of certaine ſacred functions, by the primitiue ſignification and compaſſe of the names or words whereby they be called. with whom as a prieſt is but an elder, and a biſhop, a watchman or Superintendent. ſo an Apoſtle is nothing but a Legate or Meſſenger, and therfore (as they argue) can make no lawes nor preſcribe or teach any thing not expreſſed in his* mandatum. Know therfore againſt ſuch deceiuers, that ſuch things are not to be ruled by the vulgar ſignification of the word or calling, but by vſe and application of the holy writers, and in this point by Chriſtes owne expreſſe impoſition. And ſo this word Apoſtle, is a calling of Office, gouernment, authoritie, and moſt high dignitie giuen by our Maiſter, ſpecially to the College of the Twelue: whom he endued aboue that which the vulgar etymologie of their name requireth, with power to bind and looſe, to puniſh and pardon, to teach and rule his Church. Out of which roome & dignitie, which is called in the Pſalme: and in the Acts, a biſhoprike, when Iudas fell, Mathias was choſen to ſupply it, and was numbered among the reſt, who were as founders or foundations of our religion, as the Apoſtle termeth them. Therfore to that college this name agreeth by ſpeciall impoſition and prerogatiue, though afterward it was by vſe of the Scriptures, extended to S. Paule & Barnabas, and ſometimes to the Apoſtles ſucceſſors: as alſo (by the like vſe of Scriptures) to the firſt conuerters of countreis to the faith, or their coadiutors in that function. In which ſenſe S. Paul chalengeth to be the Corinthians Apoſtle, and nameth Epaphroditus the Philippians Apoſtle: as we call S. Gregory and his Diſciple S. Auguſtine, our Apoſtles of England. In all which taking it euer ſignifieth dignitie, regiment, Paternitie, Principalitie & Primacie in the Church of God: according to S. Paul 1. Cor. 12. He hath placed in his Church, firſt in deed Apoſtles, &c. Whereby we may ſee that S. Peters dignitie was a wonderfull eminent Prerogatiue and Soueraintie, when he was the head not only of other Chriſtian men, but the head of all Apoſtles, yea euen of the College of the Twelue. And if our Aduerſaries liſt to haue learned any profitable leſſon by the word Apoſtle, more profitably and truly they might haue gathered, that Chriſt called thoſe his principall officers, Apoſtles, or Sent (himſelfe alſo ſpecially & aboue all other being Miſſus, that is, Sent. and called alſo Apoſtle in the Scriptures) to warne vs by the nature of the word, that none are true Apoſtles, Paſtors, or Preachers, that are not ſpecially ſent and called, or that can not ſhew by whom they be ſent. and that all Heretikes therfore be rather Apoſtates then Apoſtles, for that they be not ſent, nor duely called, nor choſen to preach.

Calu. Inſt. 6. 4. 18. The name and dignitie of Apoſtles.

Pſ. 108, 8. Act. 1, 20. Eph. 2, 20. Act. 14. 1. Cor. 12. Eph. 4, 11. 1. Cor. 9, 2. Tit. 2, 25.

Luc. 4, 18. Hebr. 3, 1.

Fulke 5. Our Sauiour Chriſt gaue names of ſignification to his miniſters, that we might not only learne the dignitie of their office, but alſo their dutie. And therefore we do rightly make our argument of the notation of the Apoſtles name: They be Legates or Embaſſadors, Ergo they cannot make lawes, nor preſcribe or teach any thing beſide their commiſſion, for this is the dutie of Legates. Yet is their office of high dignitie & authoritie, being the embaſſadors of the king of kings: becauſe a Legate or Embaſſador repreſenteth the perſon & authoritie, of the prince from whom he is ſent. So an Elder is a name of dignitie, grauitie and authoritie, a biſhop of vigilancie, wiſdome, diligence, which in ſo weightie affaires as concerne his office, cannor be without honor & auctoritie. Therfore it is a lewd ſlander, that we deceiue the ſimple in meaſuring the nature of ſacred functions, by the primitiue ſignification of their names. Their offices & functions are ſet downe plainly in the ſcriptures, as well for the dignity, as for the dutie that belongeth vnto them. And they haue apt names giuen by the holy ghoſt, to admonith themſelues of their duties, and other men both of their dignities and duties. But you would haue dignity without dutie. If he haue the name of a prieſt or a biſhop, it skilleth not though he lack learning, honeſty, diligence, watchfulnes, he is prieſt and biſhop good inough for poperie. And if he make lawes & teach beſide his commiſſion, as the Pope doth, he is ſtill apoſtle or apoſtolike. But you labour in vayne to blind the world any longer, with names & titles of honor, when the perſons haue nothing that without dutie doing, can be worthy of any eſtimation, with them that know what belongeth to thoſe offices & names. That the name of Apoſtles is not to be giuen to all that are ſent, but only to them that haue immediate commiſſion from Chriſt, as firſt the twelue, and the Paul & Barnabas (to whom you hardly allow the name of Apoſtles, by ful, ſpecial, & immediate commiſſion, but by vſe of ſcripture) we doe willingly acknowledge: But that the name of Apoſtles abſolutely was giuen to their ſucceſſors, by vſe of Scripture you are not able to prooue. For in that generall commiſſion, they had no ſucceſſors. And Epaphroditus is not called an Apoſtle ſimply, but your Apoſtle, that is, ſaith Photius, becauſe they ſent neceſſary things to S. Paule by him. Oecum. Or as S. Ambroſe ſaieth: He was made their Apoſtle by the Apoſtle, when he ſent him to exhort them: by which interpretation, he was the meſſenger of S. Paule. Far vnlike to Gregory and his diſciple Auguſtine, whom you call apoſtles, of whom the latter was Gregories apoſtle. But Gregory was not Chriſtes Apoſtle, although he was (for the time in which he liued) a good man: yet farre from the ſyncerite, calling, and auctoritie of an apoſtle of Chriſt. But the wonderfull prerogatiue of Peters primacie, about the reſt of the Apoſtles, we ſee not, ſeeing it was a primacie of order, not of honor or auctoritie. Cypr. de vnitate eccleſ. Hieron. cont. Iouin. lib. 1. and Ep. Euagrio. Concerning the leſſon you would haue vs to learne by the name of Apoſtle, we acknowledge that none are true Apoſtles, paſtours, or teachers, Apoſtoles. Elders. Biſhops. Slander. Peters primacie.

Fulke.6. For Peters prerogatiue, ſee alſo the notes. Math. 16.

Rhem.7. 23 Be glad.) The common miſeries that fall to the true preachers and other Catholike men for Chriſtes ſake, as pouertie, famine, mourning, and perſecution, be in deed the greateſt bleſſings that can be, and are meritorious of the reward of heauen. Contrary wiſe, all the felicities of this world without Chriſt, are in deed nothing but wo, and the entrance to euerlaſting miſerie. — All perfection for Chriſt, is a bleſſing.

Fulke.7. The ſufferings of this life, are not worthy of the glory that ſhalbe reuealed in the children of God. Rom. 8. 18. Therfore they be not meritorious of the reward of heauen. For eternall life is the free gift of God in Chriſt Ieſus our Lord. Rom. 6. 23. — Merite.

Rhem.8. 26 Shal bleſſe you.) This wo pertaineth to the Heretikes of our daies, that delight to haue the peoples praiſes, bleſſings & ſhouts, preaching pleaſant things of purpoſe to their itching eares: as did the Falſe-Prophets, when they were magnified and commended therefore of the carnall Iewes. — The vanitie of Heretical preachers.

Fulke.8. We preach mortification, and bearing of the croſſe of Chriſt to be neceſſary for all Chriſtian men, vnder paine of eternal damnation, which is no pleaſant doctrine to carnal men. But your doctrine of pardons, abſolutions, diſpenſations, conuerting of eternall paines into temporall, and then ſatisfaction by meritorious deeds, and other mens workes ſweetely paied for, be preachings of pleaſaunt things, to ſerue the humor of itching eares. — Preachers of carnal libertie.

Rhem.9. 35 Lend, hoping nothing.) In that we may here ſeeme to be mooued to lend to thoſe whom we thinke not able nor like euer to repay againe, it muſt be holden for a counſell rather then a commaundement, except the caſe of neceſſitie. but it may be taken rather for a precept, wherein vſurie, that is to ſay, the expectation not of the money lent, but of vauntage for lone, is forbidden: as by other places of Scripture it is condemned, and is a thing againſt the Law of nature and nations. And great ſhame and pitie it is, that it ſhould be ſo much vſed or ſuffered among Chriſtians, or ſo couered and cloked vnder the habite of other contracts, as it is. — Againſt vſurie.

Fulke.9. If any precepte be too heauie for you to beare, you mitigate it by making it a voluntary Counſell. But to lend without hope of reſtitution, is a part of true charitie, which is one of the great commaundements. Yet it is not to be meant of all men, but ſuch as haue need to borow, not to ſerue their pleaſure, or to encreaſe their gaine, but for their neceſſitie. And it is manifeſt, that where we are commanded to lend, not only vſurie is not to be looked for, but euen the principall muſt be aduentured neuer to be reſtored. — Counſels and precepts.

CHAP. VII.

He teſtifieth the faith of the Centurion who was a Gentile, to be greater then he found among all the Iewes, and cureth his ſeruaunt abſent. 11 the widowes ſonne he reuiueth and reſtoreth to her, and is renowmed thereupon. 18 To Iohns meſſengers he anſwereth with miracles, leauing to Iohn to preach thereby vnto them that he is Chriſt. 24 And afterward he declareth how worthy credite was Iohns teſtimonie. 29 inueighing againſt the Phariſees. 31 Who with neither of their maners of liuing could be wonne. 36 Shewing alſo vnto them by occaſion of Marie Magdalene, how he is a friend to ſinners, not to maintaine them in ſinne, but to forgiue them their ſinnes vpon their faith and penaunce.

AND when he had fully ſaid al his words into the eares of the people, he entered into Capharnaum.

3 And when he had heard of IESVS, he ſent vnto him the Auncients of the Iewes, deſiring him to come and heale his ſeruant.

4 But they being come to IESVS, beſought him earneſtly, ſaying to him, That he is worthie that thou ſhouldeſt doe this for him.

5 For he loueth our nation: and he hath ‖ built a ſynagogue for vs.

The Goſpell vpon S. Mary Magdalens day Iul. 22. And vpon Thurſday in Paſſion weeke. And vpon Imber Friday in Sept.

36 And one of the Phariſees deſired him to eate with him. And being entered into the houſe of the Phariſee, he ſate downe to meate.

37 And behold a woman that was in the citie, a ſinner, as ſhe knew that he was ſet downe in the Phariſees houſe, ſhe brought an alabaſter boxe of ointment:

38 And

Go your way, & bring word againe to Iohn, what things ye haue ſeene & heard, how that the blind ſee againe, the halt goe, the lepers are cleanſed, the deafe heare, the dead riſe, & to the poore is the Goſpell preached.

23 And happy is he whoſoeuer ſhal not be offended at me.

24 And when the meſſengers of Iohn were departed, he began to ſpeake vnto the people concerning Iohn: What went ye out into the wildernes for to ſee? A reede ſhaken with the wind?

25 But what went yee out for to ſee? A man clothed in ſoft raiment? Behold, they which are gorgeouſly apparelled, and liue delicately, are in kings courts.

26 But what went ye foorth to ſee? A Prophet? Yea, I ſay vnto you, and more then a Prophet.

*27 This is he of whom it is written, Behold, I ſend my meſſenger before thy face, which ſhall prepare thy way before thee. Mal.3.1.

28 For I ſay vnto you, among womens children is there not a greater Prophet then Iohn Baptiſt: neuertheles, he that is leaſt in the kingdome of God, is greater then he.

29 And all the people that heard him, & the Publicanes, being baptized with the baptiſme of Iohn, iuſtified God.

30 But the Phariſees and Lawyers deſpiſed the counſaile of God againſt themſelues, being not baptized of him.

*31 And the Lord ſaid, Wherevnto ſhall I liken the men of this generation? & to what thing are they like?

32 They are like vnto children ſitting in the market place, and crying one to another, and ſaying, We haue piped vnto you, and ye haue not danced: We haue mourned to you, and ye haue not wept.

33 For Iohn Baptiſt came, neither eating bread, nor drinking wine, and ye ſay, He hath a deuill.

34 The ſonne of man is come, eating and drinking, and ye ſay, Behold a gluttonous man, and a wine bibber, a friend of Publicanes and ſinners.

35 And wiſedome is iuſtified of all her children.

36 And one of the Phariſees deſired him that he would eate with him. And he went into the Phariſees houſe, and ſate downe to meate.

37 And behold, a woman in that citie, which was a ſinner, when ſhe knew that Ieſus ſate at meate in the Phariſees houſe, ſhe brought an alabaſter boxe of ointment:

38 And

38 And ſtanding behind beſide his feete, ſhe began to ‡ water his feete with teares, & wiped them with the heares of her head, & kiſſed his feete, and anointed them with the ointment.

39 And the Phariſee that had bid him, ſeeing it, ſpake within him ſelf, ſaying, This man if he were a Prophet, would know certes who and what maner of woman ſhe is which toucheth him, that ſhe is a ſinner.

40 And IESVS anſwering ſaid to him, Simon, I haue ſomewhat to ſay vnto thee. but he ſaid, Maiſter, ſay.

41 A certaine creditour had two debters: one did owe fiue hundred pence, and the other fiftie.

42 They hauing not wherewith to pay, he forgaue both. Whether therfore doth loue him more?

43 Simon anſwering ſaid, I ſuppoſe that he to whom he forgaue more. But he ſaid to him, Thou haſt iudged rightly.

44 And turning to the woman, he ſaid vnto Simon, Doeſt thou ſee this woman? I entred ‖ into thy houſe, water to my feete thou didſt not giue: but ſhe with teares hath watered my feete, and with her heares hath wiped them.

45 Kiſſe thou gaueſt me not: but ſhe ſince I came in, hath not ceaſed to kiſſe my feete.

46 With oile thou didſt not anoint my head: but ſhe with ointment hath anointed my feete.

47 For the which I ſay to thee, Many ſinnes are forgiuen her, becauſe ſhe hath ‡ loued much. But to whom leſſe is forgiuen, he loueth leſſe.

48 And he ſaid to her, Thy ſinnes are forgiuen thee.

49 And they that ſate together at the table, began to ſay within themſelues, ‡ Who is this that alſo forgiueth ſinnes?

50 And he ſaid to the woman, Thy faith hath made the ſafe, goe in peace.

*38 And ſtoode at his feete behinde him, weeping, and began to waſh his feete with teares, and did wipe them cleane with the heares of her head, and all to kiſſed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment. Mark.15.40. Iohn 20. 11.

39 When the Phariſee which had bidde him, ſaw it, he ſpake within himſelfe, ſaying, If this man were a Prophet, he would ſurely know who, and what maner of woman this is that toucheth him: for ſhe is a ſinner.

40 And Ieſus anſwering, ſaid vnto him, Simon, I haue ſomewhat to ſay vnto thee. And he ſaith, Maſter, ſay on.

41 There was a certeine lender, which had two debters: the one ought fiue hundred pence, and the other fiftie.

42 When they had nothing to pay, he forgaue them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will loue him moſt?

43 Simon anſwered, and ſaid, I ſuppoſe, that he to whom he forgaue moſt. And he ſaid vnto him, Thou haſt truely iudged.

44 And he turned to the woman, and ſaid vnto Simon, Seeſt thou this woman? I entred into thine houſe, thou gaueſt me no water for my feete: but ſhee hath waſhed my feete with teares, and wiped them with the heares of her head.

45 Thou gaueſt me no kiſſe: but this woman, ſince the time I came in, hath not ceaſſed to kiſſe my feete.

46 Mine head with oile thou diddeſt not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feete with oyntment.

47 Wherefore, I ſay vnto thee, many ſinnes are forgiuen her, for ſhe loued much: to whom litle is forgiuen, the ſame loueth litle.

48 And he ſaid vnto her, Thy ſinnes are forgiuen thee.

49 And they that ſate at meat with him, began to ſay within themſelues, Who is this that forgiueth ſinnes alſo?

50 And he ſayd to the woman, Thy faith hath ſaued thee. goe in peace.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. VII.

Rhem.1. 25. Soft garments?) Marke this wel concerning Iohns apparel and diet. See the Annotations vpon S. Matth. c. 3, 4.

Fulke. 1. Marke as well the anſwer to the ſame annotations.

Rhem.2. 30. Deſpiſed the counſel.) As they that contemned Iohns baptiſme, deſpiſed Gods counſel and wiſedome: ſo much more they that make no accounpt of the Sacraments of the Church, deſpiſe Gods counſel and ordinance touching their ſaluation, to their owne damnation.

Fulke. 2. Iohns baptiſme was a ſacrament of the Church, as verely as the baptiſme and ſupper of the Lord be now. Iohns baptiſme.

Rhem.3. 38. Water his feete.) A perfect patterne of true penance in this woman, who ſought of Chriſt with open teares and other ſtrange workes of ſatisfaction and deuotion, remiſſion of her ſinnes.

Fulke. 3. Outward ſignes of true repentance, and effects of loue and thankfulneſſe for ſinnes forgiuen, as our Sauior Chriſt himſelfe interpreteth them, not workes of ſatisfaction to obteine forgiueneſſe of ſinnes. For as Ambroſe ſaith of Peters teares, we read his teares, we read not his ſatisfaction in Luc. cap. 22. Satisfaction.

47. Loued

Rhem.4. 47. Loued much.) Not only faith (as you may perceiue) but loue or charitie obteineth remiſſion of ſinnes.

Fulke. 4. Only fayth obteineth remiſſion of ſinnes, whereof loue is an effect. For the argument is (not as the whole diſcourſe of the text is manifeſt) from the cauſe to the effect, but from the effect to the cauſe. Many ſinnes are forgiuen her, therefore ſhe hath loued much, as the wordes following doe make it manifeſt. For to whom little is remitted he loueth little. The ſame thing declareth the parable of the two debters, that forgiuenеſſe of the debt goeth before loue, therefore is cauſe of loue, and not loue the cauſe of forgiuenеſſe of ſinnes. So ſayth S. Ambroſe: According to man he offendeth more, who ought more, but by the mercie of our Lord, the cauſe is changed, that he loueth more which ought more, if he haue obteined grace or forgiuenеſſe. In Luc. cap. 7. The like maner of ſpeaking, and vſe of the particle in, is in Iohn. 15. 15. I haue called you frendes, for I haue declared to you all that I haue heard of my father, where this declaring, is the effect and not the cauſe of his loue. Faith only.

Rhem. 5. 49. Who is this that.) As the Phariſees did alwaies carpe Chriſt for remiſſion of ſinnes in earth, ſo the Heretikes reprehend his Church that remitteth ſinnes by his authoritie.

Fulke. 5. A ſlander, for we acknowledge the power of forgiuenеſſe of ſinnes by the miniſters of the Church, yet farre differing from the power of our Sauiour Chriſt, who as God forgaue abſolutely of his owne authorine, his ſeruants, by declaring his will in forgiuenеſſe of ſinnes. Hierom in Matth. 16. Slander. Remiſſion of ſinnes.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VII.

Rhem.6. 5. Built a Synagogue.) As at that time to found a Synagogue, was acceptable to God, and procured the prayers of the faithful people for whoſe vſe it was made: ſo now much more in the new Teſtament, to build a Church, Monaſterie, College, or any like worke for the honour and ſeruice of God, is grateful to him and procureth the prayers of the good people for whoſe vſe ſuch things be founded. Building of Churches, Monaſteries, &c.

Fulke.6. To builde a Church or College, or any other place for the maintenance of Gods ſeruice, or good learning, is a good worke. But to builde a Church or Monaſterie for the maintenance of idolatrie, or idle ſuperſtitious hypocrites, ſuch as your monks are, is no worke acceptable to God, but rather diſpleaſing him. Building of Churches or Abbeyes.

Rhem. 7. 44. Into thy houſe.) An exceeding approbation of the extraordinary workes and ſignes of external deuotion, which ſeeme to carnal men (though otherwiſe faithfull) to be often ſuperfluous or not acceptable. This Simon was perhaps of a good wil, and therfore (as diuers others did els where) inuited Chriſt to his houſe, not of curioſitie or capritouſnes, as ſome other did: but of affection, as it may ſeeme by Chriſts familiar talke with him. Notwithſtanding his duties towardes him were but ordinary, but the anointing, waſhing, kiſſing, wiping of his feete in ſuch ſort as the woman did, were further ſignes of more then vulgar loue: ſuch as is in deuout men or women that goe on pilgrimage and kiſſe deuoutly the holy memories of Chriſt and his Saincts. Which is no more but an exteriour expreſſing of their affection, and that they loue much, as euery vulgar chriſtian man doth not. Exteriour ſignes of more then common deuotion.

Fulke 7. Note that carnall men, with papiſts, may be otherwiſe faithfull. But with Chriſtians, although the faythfull be not free from all carnall affections, yet they haue crucified the fleſh with the affections and luſts thereof, ſo that they can not be truely called carnall men. The extraordinary workes of deuotion, towards the perſon of our Sauiour Chriſt, are no example to iuſtifie pilgrimages to idols, ſuperſtitious worſhipping of the memories of Chriſt and his ſaincts, although they were true, and not fained reliques. For tokens of exceeding great loue, ſhould be extended towards the poore members of Chriſt, to whom whatſoeuer is done of true loue, he accepteth as done to himſelfe. Math. 25 40. Faithfull carnall men with papiſts. Gal. 5. 24. Superſtition. Reliques.

Rhem. 8. 50. Thy faith.) The remiſſion of her ſinnes being attributed before to charitie, is now alſo ſaid to come of her faith. Whereby you may know that it commonly proceedeth of both, and of hope alſo, though but one named. Becauſe when ther be diuers cauſes concurring to one effect, the ſcriptures commonly name but one, and that eſpecially which is moſt proper to the purpoſe and time, not excluding the other. And therefore his working miracles vpon any perſon, is attributed to the faith of them on whom or at whoſe deſire they be done. Becauſe he wrought his miracles to induce all men to beleeue in him, and therfore ſpecially required faith at their hands, and namely before other things, whether they did beleeue that he was able to doe that which they aſked at his hands: without which it had been rather a mockrie and temation of him, then a true deſire of benefite at his hands. Iuſtification attributed not to faith only.

Fulke. 8. Remiſſion of her ſinnes, was not before attributed to charitie, but by her great loue it was ſhewed, that many ſinnes were forgiuen her: as vnto the debter of a great ſumme. Charitie therfore, was not cauſe of remiſſion, but an effect thereof. And true it is, that faith only iuſtifying, doth not exclude other cauſes, but only the merit of good workes, which follow a iuſtified man, goe not before to iuſtification. Aug. de fide & oper. c. 14. And witneſſe, that faith only doth iuſtifie before God, are almoſt all the ancient fathers in expreſſe words. *Origen in ep. ad Rom. lib. 3 c. 3. Cyprian ad Quirinum cap. 42. CHAP. VIII.

Going ouer al Galilee with his traine, 4 he preacheth to the Iewes in parables becauſe of their reprobation: 9 but to his Diſciples manifeſtly: becauſe he will not for the Iewes incredulity haue his counſaile fruſtrate: 19 ſignifying alſo that we are his kinne (though we be Gentils) and not his carnal brethren the Iewes. 22 To whom alſo (ſignified by the Geraſens) after the tempeſt in his ſleepe (that is, in his death) and ſeeming in his reſurrection, he commeth: but they preferring their temporals before his preſence, he leaueth them againe. 41 Likewiſe comming to cure the Iewes (who were borne when the Gentils ſickened, about Abrahams time) he is preuented with the faith of the Gentils, and then the Iewes die, but them alſo in the end he will reſtore.

AND it came to paſſe afterward, and he made his iourney by cities and townes preaching & euangelizing the kingdom of God:

35 And they went forth to ſee that which was done: and they came to IESVS, & found the man, out of whom the deuils were gone forth, ſitting at his feete, clothed, and wel in his wittes, and they were afraid.

36 And they alſo that had ſeen, told them how he had been made whole from the legion.

37 And al the multitude of the countrie of the Geraſens beſought him to depart from them: for they were taken with great feare. And he going vp into the boate, returned.

37 Then the whole multitude of the countrey about the Gadarenites, beſought him that he would depart from them, for they were taken with great feare: and he gate him vp into the ſhip, and returned backe againe.

38 Then the man, out of whom the deuils were departed, beſought him that he might be with him: but Ieſus ſent him away, ſaying, 39 Goe home againe to thine owne houſe, and ſhewe what ‖ things ſoeuer God hath done for thee. And he went his way, & preached throughout all the citie, what things ſoeuer Ieſus had done vnto him.

‖ Or, what great things God hath done vnto thee.

40 And it came to paſſe, that when Ieſus was come againe, the people receiued him: for they were all waiting for him:

*41 And behold, there came a man, named Iairus, * and he was a ruler in the Synagogue, and he fell downe at Ieſus feete, praying him that he would come into his houſe:* Matth. 9.18. mark.5.22.

42 For he had but one daughter onely, vpon a twelue yeeres of age, and ſhe lay a dying. (But as he went, the people thronged him.

43 And a woman, hauing an iſſue of bloud twelue yeeres, which had ſpent all her ſubſtance vpon Phyſicions, neyther coulde be holpen of any,

44 Came behind him, & touched the hemme of his raiment: & immediatly her iſſue of bloud ſtanched.

45 And Ieſus ſaide, Who is it that touched me? When euery man denied, Peter and they that were with him, ſaid, Maſter, the people thruſt thee, and vexe thee, and ſayeſt thou, Who touched thee?

46 And Ieſus ſayd, Some body hath touched me: for I perceiue that vertue is gone out of me.

47 And the woman ſeeing, that ſhe was not hid, came trembling, and fel downe before his feete: and for what cauſe ſhe had touched him, ſhe ſhewed before al the people: & how forthwith ſhe was made whole.

48 But he ſaid to her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee ſafe, goe thy way in peace.

49 As he was yet ſpeaking, there commeth one to the Prince of the ſynagogue, ſaying to him, That thy daughter is dead, trouble him not.

50 And IESVS hearing this word, anſwered the father of the maide, Feare not: ‡ beleeue only, and ſhe ſhal be ſafe.

51 And when he was come to the houſe, he permitted not any man to enter in with him, but Peter, and Iames, and Iohn, and the father and mother of the maide.

52 And al wept, and mourned for her. But he ſaid, Wepe not, the maid is not dead, but ſleepeth.

53 And they derided him, knowing that ſhe was dead.

54 But he holding her hand cried ſaying, Maide ariſe.

55 And ‖ her ſpirit returned, and ſhe roſe incontinent. And he bade them giue her to eate.

56 And her parents were aſtonied, whom he commaunded to tel no man that which was done.

47 When the woman ſawe that ſhe was not hid, ſhe came trembling, and fel at his feete, and tolde him before all the people, for what cauſe ſhe had touched him, and how ſhe was healed immediatly.

48 And he ſayde vnto her, Daughter, be of good comfort, thy faith hath ſaued thee, goe in peace.)

49 While he yet ſpake, there commeth one from the ruler of the Synagogues houſe, ſaying to him, Thy daughter is dead, diſeaſe not the maiſter.

50 But when Ieſus heard that word, he anſwered him, ſaying, Feare not, beleeue onely, and ſhe ſhall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the houſe, he ſuffered no man to goe in with him, ſaue Peter, and Iames, and Iohn, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 Euery body wept, and ſorrowed for her: and he ſaid, Weepe not, the damoſell is not dead, but ſleepeth.

53 And they laughed him to ſcorne, knowing that ſhe was dead.

54 And he thruſt them all out, and tooke her by the hand, and cried, ſaying, Maide, ariſe.

55 And her ſpirit came againe, & ſhe aroſe ſtraightway: & he commanded to giue her meate.

56 And her parents were aſtonied: but he warned them that they ſhould tell no man what was done.

Rhem. 1. 1. Vertue and power.) To commaund deuils and diſeaſes either of body or ſoule, is by nature proper to God onely: but by Gods gift, men alſo may haue the ſame, euen ſo to forgiue ſinnes.

Fulke 1. That which is proper to God, cannot be communicated to men. Therefore God onely worketh miracles, and forgiueth ſinnes by the miniſterie of man. Miracles. Remiſſion of ſinnes.

Rhem. 2. 41. O faithles.) Incredulitie hindereth the effect of exorciſmes, and other miraculous power giuen to the Church.

Fulke 2. The Church hath not at this day power to caſt out deuils, or to worke miracles ordinarily: therefore your ordinarie offices of exorciſtes, exorciſmes, and vnctions, be mockeries of the gratious giftes of miracles. Popiſh exorciſmes & vnctions.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IX.

Rhem. 27. Till they ſee.) To the Apoſtles, that had to preach the kingdome of God and to ſuffer ſo much miſerie for the ſame The Tranſfiguration.

ſame in this world, he will ſhewe his glorie, and giue them a taſt of his owne ioyfull ſtate and of his Saincts in heauen, calling thither Moyſes and Elias, that the Lawe and Prophets might be witneſſes of the ſame. See the Annot. vpon S. Mat. c. 17. 2.

53. Face to goe to Hieruſalem.) The Samaritans were Schiſmatikes from the Iewes, and had a Schiſmaticall temple in mount Garizim, of purpoſe to draw men thither from Gods temple in Hieruſalem, where onely was the true and as it were the Catholike ſeruice and ſacrifice vnto God. Therefore they did not gladly receiue our Sauiour, becauſe they perceiued he was going to Hieruſalem. Schiſmatikes. Io. 4. 9. 3. Re. 12, 27. Tob. 1.

Rhem. 3. 53. He rebuked them.) Not iuſtice nor all rigorous puniſhment of ſinners is here forbidden, nor Elias fact reprehended, nor the Church or Chriſtian Princes blamed for putting Heretikes to death: but that none of theſe ſhould be done for deſire of our particular reuenge, or without diſcretion, and regard of their amendement, and example to others. Therefore S. Peter vſed his power vpon Ananias and Saphira, when he ſtroke them both downe to death for defrauding the Church. Deſire of reuenge. The Churches ſeueritie. Act. 5.

Fulke. 3. Peter vſed not an ordinarie, but a miraculous power, when he pronounced ſentence of death againſt Ananias and Saphira, not for defrauding the Church, but for lying againſt holy ỹ Ghoſt, Act. 5. 3. For they might haue kept the whole price, or not haue ſold their land without blame, if they had not played the hypocrites. Peters power.

Rhem. 62. No man looking backe.) It is a dangerous temptation for a man that hath loſt or left his goods for Chriſt, to looke much backe at them, and to remember with delight the pleaſures and eaſe of this world. for it breedeth in him diſcontentment of the troubles and croſſes that are incident to the ſtate of ſuch as fully followe Chriſt. In which caſe a man ſhould euer looke forward towards heauen, and neuer backward to the world. Looking backe.

CHAP. X.

He ſendeth yet 72. moe to preach to the Iewes, with power alſo of miracles, 13. crying woe to the cities impenitent. 17. At their returne he agniſeth the great power he gaue them, but yet teacheth them not to be proud thereof, 21. and praiſeth God for his grace, 23. his Church alſo for her happie ſtate. 25. To one of the Scribes he ſheweth, that the loue of God and of his neighbour will bring him to life euerlaſting, 29. teaching him by the parable of the Samaritane, to take euery one for his neighbour that needeth his charitie. 38. To Martha he ſheweth that Maries Contemplatiue life is the better.

The Goſpel vpō S. Markes day and S. Lukes. ‡ As ỹ twelue Apoſtles did repreſent the higher degree of the Clergie, called Biſhops: ſo theſe Seuentie two beare the figure of the inferiour clergie, called Prieſtes. Beda.

30 And IESVS taking it, ſaid, A certaine man

*13 Wo vnto thee Chorazin, wo vnto thee Bethſaida: For if the mightie workes had beene done in Tyre and Sidon, which haue bene done in you, they had a great while agoe repented, ſitting in ſackcloth and aſhes. Mat.11.21.

14 Therefore it ſhall be eaſier for Tyre and Sidon at the iudgement, then for you.

15 And thou Capernaum, which art exalted to heauen, ſhalt be thruſt downe to hell.

17 And the ſeuentie turned againe with ioy, ſaying, Lord, euen the very deuils are ſubdued vnto vs through thy name.

18 And he ſaid vnto them, I ſawe Satan as it had bene lightning, falling downe from heauen.

19 Beholde, I giue vnto you power to tread on ſerpents and ſcorpions, and ouer all maner power of the enemie: and nothing ſhall by any meanes hurt you.

20 But in this reioyce not, that the ſpirits are ſubdued vnto you: but rather reioice, becauſe your names are written in the heauens.

21 The ſame houre Ieſus reioyced in the ſpirit, and ſaid, I confeſſe vnto thee, father, Lorde of heauen and earth, that thou haſt hid theſe things from the wiſe and prudent, and haſt opened them vnto babes: euen ſo father, for ſo it pleaſed thee.

28 And he ſaid vnto him, Thou haſt anſwered right: this doe, and thou ſhalt liue.

29 But he, willing to iuſtifie himſelfe, ſaide vnto Ieſus, and who is my neighbour?

30 And Ieſus anſwering, ſaide, A certaine man man went downe from Hieruſalem into Iericho, and fel among theeues, who alſo ſpoiled him, and giuing him woundes went away leauing him ‖halfe-dead.

31 And it chaunced that a certaine Prieſt went downe the ſame way: and ſeeing him, paſſed by.

32 In like maner alſo a Leuite, when he was neere the place, and ſaw him, paſſed by.

33 But a certaine Samaritane going his iourney, came neere him: and ſeeing him, was moued with mercie.

34 And going vnto him, bound his woũds, powring in oyle and wine: and ſetting him vpon his owne beaſt, brought him into an inne, and tooke care of him.

35 And the next day he tooke forth two pence, and gaue to the hoſt, & ſaid, Haue care of him: and whatſoeuer thou ſhalt ‡ ſupererogate, I at my returne wil repay thee.

‡ Supererogauerit, ſpes datarius.

The Goſpel vpon the Aſſumption of our Lady, Aug. 15.

38 And it came to paſſe as they went, and he entred into a certaine towne: and a certaine woman named Martha, receiued him into her houſe,

39 And ſhe had a ſiſter called Marie. who ſitting alſo at our Lords feet, heard his word.

40 But Martha was buſie about much ſeruice. who ſtoode and ſaid, Lord, haſt thou no care ẏ my ſiſter hath left me alone to ſerue? ſpeake to her therefore, that ſhe help me.

41 And our Lord anſwering ſaid to her, Martha, Martha, thou art careful, & art troubled about very many things.

42 But one thing is neceſſarie. ‖ Marie hath choſen the beſt part which ſhall not be taken away from her.

man deſcended from Hieruſalem to Iericho, and fell among thieues, which robbed him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leauing him halfe dead.

31 And it befell, that there came downe a certaine Prieſt that ſame way, and when he ſawe him, he paſſed by on the other ſide.

32 And likewiſe a Leuite, when he went nigh to the place, came and looked on him, and paſſed by on the other ſide.

33 But a certaine Samaritane as he iourneied came by him: and when he ſawe him, hee had compaſſion on him, 34 And went to him, & bound vp his wounds, powring in oile and wine, and ſet him on his owne beaſt, and brought him to a common inne, and made prouiſion for him.

35 And on the morow when he departed, hee tooke out two pence, and gaue them to the hoſte, and ſaid vnto him, Take cure of him, and whatſoeuer thou ſpendeſt more, when I come againe, I will recompenſe thee.

36 Which now of theſe three, thinkeſt thou, was neighbour vnto him that fell among the thieues?

37 And he ſaid, He that ſhewed mercy on him. Then ſaid Ieſus vnto him, Goe, and doe thou likewiſe.

38 Now it came to paſſe as they went, that he entred into a certaine village: and a certaine wo-mā, named Martha, receiued him into her houſe.

39 And this woman had a ſiſter called Mary, which alſo ſate at Ieſus feete, and heard his word.

40 But Martha was cumbred about much ſeruing, and came to him, and ſaid, Lorde, doeſt thou not care that my ſiſter hath left me to ſerue alone? Bid her therefore that ſhe helpe me.

41 And Ieſus anſwered, and ſaide vnto her, Martha, Martha, thou art carefull, and troubled about many things:

42 Verily one is needfull, Mary hath choſen the good part, which ſhall not be take away frō her.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. X.

Rhem. 1. 13. In ſackcloth and aſhes.) True penaunce not only to lead a new life, but to puniſh the body by ſuch things as here be recorded, for the ill life paſt.

Fulke 1. Puniſhing of the body by ſackcloth and aſhes, is no ſatisfaction for ſinnes paſt, but an helpe vnto repentance, as a ſigne of humiliation. Baſil in pſ. 29. Satisfaction.

Rhem. 2. 16. He that heareth.) It is al one to deſpiſe Chriſt, and to deſpiſe his Prieſts and Miniſters in the Catholike Church: to refuſe his doctrine, and theirs.

Fulke 2. It is all one to deſpiſe the Miniſters of Chriſtes Catholike Church, and to deſpiſe Chriſt. But of the Popiſh Church, and the Popiſh Prieſts it is not true.

Rhem. 3. 35. Supererogate. S. Auguſtin ſaith that the Apoſtle (1. Cor. 9.) according to this place did ſupererogate, that is, did more then he needed or was bound to doe, when he might haue required al duties for preaching the Goſpel, but would not. li. de op. Monach. c. 5. where of it commeth, that the workes which we doe more then precepts, be called workes of Supererogation: and wherby it is alſo euident againſt the Proteſtants, that there be ſuch workes. See Optatus li. 6. cont. Parmen. how aptly he applyeth this parable to S. Paules counſel of virginitie (1. Cor. 7.) as to a worke of ſupererogation.

Fulke. 3. That which is beſtowed for the full recoueric of the wounded man, is a duetie of charitie, therefore commaunded. So is whatſoeuer we are able to doe, perteyning either to the perfect loue of God, or the loue of our neighbour as our ſelfe, is of duetie, though it be not expreſly named, but generally cõmanded, and it is ſinne to omit it. That which S. Auguſtine ſaith of S. Paul: Amplius erogabat, &c. He did beſtow more, when he went a warfare at Workes of ſupererogation.

his owne coſtes, is to be vnderſtood of the generall libertie, that al preachers haue, to liue of the Goſpel. Yet was it his duetie, in that ſpecial caſe, to forbeare that libertie, or any other thing that is lawful, that he ſhould not giue any hinderance to the Goſpel of Chriſt. 1. Cor. 9. 12. Therefore it had bene ſinne in him, to vſe that libertie to the hinderance of the Goſpel. So that it was no worke of ſupererogation, (as you terme it) but of duetie in that caſe, to forbeare it. Againe he forbeareth, that he ſhould not abuſe his power in the Goſpel. 1. Cor. 9. 18. If he abuſe his power in the Goſpel, he ſinneth, Ergo he forbeareth of duetie: for it is his duetie to auoid ſinne. What then, did ỹ other Apoſtles ſinne in not labouring as the idle Monkes obiected to S. Auguſtine? No, their caſe differed from his: as he ſheweth plainely in the ſame booke cap. 22. They vſed their libertie to no hinderance of the Goſpel: he could not vſe it, but with impediment of the Goſpel. Therefore works of ſupererogation are not proued by S. Pauls example. Neither by his counſel vnto Virginitie, which is not to be neglected where God hath giuen the gift, & it may ſerue to the aduancement of Gods glory, which euery one is bound to procure, to the vttermoſt of his ſtrength, Deu. 6. 5. Luk. 10. 27: though the ſpecial ſtate of Virginitie be not commanded generally, becauſe God hath not giuen the gift to al men generally. And ſo muſt Optatus be vnderſtood. S. Chryſoſtome interpreting this parable allegorically (as many of the fathers do,) yet acknowledgeth ỹ the gouernour of the Church can beſtow no more, then is conteined in the Goſpel. Nam cum, &c. For ſeeing nothing can be added to the two Teſtaments, neither may the Lawe of God receiue any increaſe or diminiſhing, what is it then, which the gouernour can beſtow more then he hath receiued? but that which is his owne duetie, in which hee is bound to endeuour, that he lay out that which is committed to him, that he hath receiued: &c. De eo in qui in: in Lat. ones ſermon. By Chryſoſtomes iudgement therefore in this place, he can do no workes of ſupererogation.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. X.

Rhem. 4. 21. To litle ones.) By this place euery vulgar artificer may not preſume that God hath reuealed al truth to him, and therfore refuſe to be taught of the learned, for Chriſt did not afterward endew fiſhers and vnlgar men nor any other with the gifts of wiſdom & tonges, without their induſtry, ſtudy, & teaching, though at the beginning of great prouidence he did it: that it might be cleere to the world, that al Nations were conuerted to him, not by perſuaſion of cunning Orators or ſubtil Diſputers, but by the plaine force of his grace & truth, which S. Auguſtine counteth greater then al other miracles. Further we are taught by this place, that the poore humble obedient childrē of the Church know by their faith the high myſteries of Chriſts Diuinitie, and his preſence in the B. Sacrament, and ſuch like: rather then Arius, Caluin, and other like proud Scribes and Phariſees. The humble vnlearned Catholike knoweth Chriſt better then the proud learned Heretike.

Fulke 4. The true childrē of the Church, whoſe faith is builded vpō the word of God, may learne out of ỹ holy Scriptures, the maner of Chriſts preſence in the B. Sacrament, & all other things needful to know: when Popiſh hypocrits with their faith implicite, know nothing neceſſary for their ſaluation. For it is ſufficient in Popery, to beleeue as the Church beleeueth, though they knowe not what the Popiſh Church beleeueth, nor vpon what warrant of Gods word. Ignorance. Faith implicite.

Rhem. 5. 28. This doe.) Not by faith only, but by keeping Gods commandements we obtaine life euerlaſting: not only by beleeuing, but by doing. The hereſikes ſay that it is impoſſible to keepe this commaundement of louing God with al our hart. But the Scriptures giue vs examples of diuers that haue kept and fulfilled it, as far as is requiſit in this life. 3 Reg. 14, 8. 2. Par. 15, 15. Pſ. 118, 10. Eccleſi 47, 9, 10. 4. Reg. 20, 3. 5. Luc. 1, 5. And if it were impoſſible to keepe it, and yet by Chriſt propoſed for the meane to obtaine life euerlaſting, he had mocked this Lawyer and others, and not taught them. The commandements not impoſſible to be kept.

Fulke 5. Chriſt was not asked, by what meanes a man might attaine to eternal life, but by what doing, or what kinde of workes, the kingdome of heauen were to be obtained: Therefore he mocketh not, but directly anſwereth to the queſtion, by fulfilling the Law: Which if any can performe in ſuch perfection, as Gods iuſtice doth require, he ſhalbe iuſtified by the workes of the Law, without the mercie of God in Chriſt. If he can not, he is vnder the curſe: and that is euery mans caſe, ſeeing none is iuſtified by the Law, but by faith in Chriſt, Gal. 3. But the Scriptures (you ſay) giue examples of diuers that haue kept and fulfilled it, as farre as it is requiſite in this life. And firſt of Dauid, of whom God teſtifieth that he kept his commaundement, and followed me with his whole heart. What impudent abuſing of the Scripture is this? Is not the fall of Dauid notorious? And doth he not in an hundred places of the Pſalmes, craue pardon for his ſinnes, and tranſgreſſions of the Lawe? Therefore he kept Gods commandements, but not perfectly, nor loued God with all his heart, might, ſtrength, according to the commandement, Deut. 6. though he walked after God with all his heart, that is vntainedly, & not as hypocrites and carnal men doe, that profeſſe Religion. The like is to be ſaid of the people in Aſa his dayes, which ſware with all their heart, that is, with full purpoſe to keepe their othe, and vnfained deſire to ſeeke the Lord: yet did they not fulfil the Lawe, but were ſinners, and were iuſtified freely by grace in Chriſt, as S. Paul affirmeth of all men without exception, Rom. 3. 23. As for the Prophet Pſal. 119. confeſſeth that he hath gone aſtray as a loſt ſheepe, and euen in the ſame verſe you quote, prayeth that he may not erre from Gods Commandements. Therefore that he ſought God with all his heart, is not to be taken for a perfect keeping of Gods Lawe, but for an earneſt and vnfained deſire of the ſpirit, againſt which (euen in the regenerate) the fleſh alwayes rebelleth, ſo that they can not doe what they deſire, Gal. 5. 17. Eccleſiaſticus doth not ſay, that Dauid loued God with all his heart, but from all his heart, that is, from the bottome of his heart, vnfeindedly: yet not perfectly. For who can ſay, my heart is cleane? I am pure from ſinne. Prou. 20 9. And Dauid confeſſeth his owne ſinnes euen from his conception, Pſal. 51. 7. The like is to be ſaid of Ezechias, who with a ſound heart walked before God in trueth, that is without diſſimulation or halting, as hypocrites doe, yet kept not the Lawe perfectly, ſo that hee could liue thereby, nor loued God with all his heart, might, ſoule, &c. Laſt of all Zachary and Elizabeth, walked in all the Commandements of God, yet fulfilled not the Lawe, and though their life was blameleſſe in the ſight of men, yet were they not able to ſtand before Gods Iuſtice, in whoſe ſight no man liuing ſhalbe righteous. Pſal 143. 2. Now where you haue a vaine euaſion, in theſe words, as much as is requiſite, &c. It is requiſite of euery one, that ſeeketh to be iuſtified by the Lawe, that he kept it perfectly without ſinne, elſe he is vnder the curſe, and cannot be iuſtified by the workes of the Lawe, Gal. 3. Iuſtification. Keeping of Gods Lawe.

Rhem. 6. 30. Halfe dead.) Here is ſignified man wounded very ſore in his vnderſtanding and free-will, and al other powers of ſoule and body, by the ſinne of Adam: but yet that neither vnderſtanding, nor free-will, nor the reſt, were extinguiſhed in mā or taken away. Conc. Arauſ. 2. c. 25. 20 1. Conc. Trid. Seſſ. 6. c. 1.

away. The Priest and Leuite, signifie the Law of Moyses: this Samaritane, is Christ the Priest of the new Testament: the oile and wine, his Sacraments: the host, the priest his ministers. Whereby is signified, that the Law could not recouer the spiritual life of mankind from the death of sinne, that is, iustifie man: but Christ only, who by his passion and the grace & vertue thereof ministred in & by his Sacraments, iustifieth, and increaseth the iustice of man, healing and aiding free-will to doe all good works. The parable of the wounded man, explicated.

Fulke 6. Against this vaine collection by allegorie, the Scripture is plaine, that we are all dead in sinne, by the sinne of Adam. Rom.5.12. Eph.2.1, 5. Col.2.13. The Councel Arausicanum, which you quote (belike to proue that the freedome of will is not lost in Adam) saith: It is so inclined by the sinne of the first man, and alienated, that no man after could loue God as he ought, or worke that which is good for Gods sake, except the grace and mercy of God, preuented him. And if by those wordes, you thinke there is any life left vnto it, cap.22. The Councel saith, No man hath any thing of his owne, but lyes and sinne. And cap. 21. Nature by Adam lost, by Christ is repaired. And whereas you seeme to leaue some life, iustice, and freedome of will in man, which by Christ is recouered, increased, healed and inabled. Thus we reade Cap.7. the Title of which is, That we are not apt to thinke any thing of our selues, as of our selues. If any man doe holde, that a man by the force of nature can thinke any good thing, which pertein.th and is expedient to eternall life, or that he can chuse either to be saued, that is, to consent to the preaching of the Gospell, without illumination and inspiration of the holy Ghost, which giueth to all men the sweetnes in consenting and beleeuing the truth, he is deceiued with an heretical spirit, not vnderstanding the voice of God, saying in the Gospel: Without me ye can doe nothing. And that of the Apostle, Not that we are apt of our selues to thinke any thing, as of our selues, but our sufficiencie is of God. And touching vnderstanding, the Apostle saith, The naturall man vnderstandeth not those things that be of the spirit of God, for they are foolishnes vnto him, neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. So that neither the will, nor the vnderstanding haue any heauenly life in them. Free will. 1.Cor.2.14.

Rhem.7. 42. Marie the best part.) Two notable examples, one of the life Actiue, in Martha: the other of the life Contemplatiue, in Marie: representing vnto vs, that in holy Church there should be always some to serue God in both these seuerall sorts. The life Contemplatiue is here preferred before the actiue, the religious of both sexes are of that more excellent state, and therefore our Protestants haue wholy abandoned the most of their common wealth, which the true Church neuer wanted. But to say truth, they haue neither Martins nor Maries, our Lord giue them grace to see their miserie. If ours were not answerable to their profession, or were degenerated, why haue they no new ones? If our Churches Votaries vowed vnlawfull things, Chastitie, Pouertie, Obedience, Pilgrimage: what other Votaries or lawfull vowes haue they? For, to offer voluntarily by vow (besides the keeping of Gods commandements, whereunto we are bound by precept and promise in our Baptisme) our soules, bodies, goods, or any other acceptable thing to God, is an acte of sacrificatiue worship belonging to God onely: and there was neuer true religion without such vowes and Votaries. If there be none in their whole Church that professe contemplation, or that vow any thing at all to God voluntarily, neither in their bodies nor in their goods: God and the world know they haue no Church nor religion at all. The Contemplatiue or Religious life, better then the Actiue and secular. Vowes and votaries.

Fulke. 7. God be praised, there be in our Church many, that haue chosen the best part with Mary, which all Christians ought to doe, euen that part which shall neuer be taken from them. There be also which haue chosen the contemplatiue life, which haue purposed to keepe virginitie or widowhod, which offer to God, as he hath inabled them, and as they see it for his glory, the freewill offering of their goods and labours. Not to merite or make God debter vnto them, but to testifie their zeale, and thankfulnesse towards God. Before whom they acknowledge, that when they haue done all they are commanded, (which is more then they can,) they are vnprofitable seruants: and therefore looke for reward by Gods onely mercie, according to his promise, and not according to their deserts. The true Church was many hundred yeeres without Monkes, Friers or Nonnes, & may be without such Votaries, as you meane, all wayes. And when the Church had Monkes, which were religious in deede, they were soone wearie of their hande labour, which was their profession, as appeareth by S. Augustines worke de vere Monachorum: and shortly degenerated into idlenes the mother of all vices, whereof grew such inconuenience, as was not to be suffered in any Christian common wealth: and therfore they are necessarily, and most iustly abolished. Good workes. Contemplatiue life. Merits. Votaries.

CHAP. XI.

He teacheth a forme of prayer, 5 and exhorteth to pray instantly, 11 assuring that so God will giue vs good things. 14 The Iewes blaspheming his casting out of Diuels, and asking for a miracle from heauen, 17 he defendeth his doings: 22 foretelling also the Diuels expulsion by himself of the world (that is the vocation of the Gentiles) 24 and his reentrie into their nation, 27 With their reprobation though he be of their flesh, 29 and also their final most worthy damnation. 37 Against the Pharisees and Scribes he crieth wo, as authors of the said reprobation now at hand.

29 When the people were gathered thicke together, he began to ſay, This is an euil nation: they ſeeke a ſigne, and there ſhall no ſigne be giuen them, but the ſigne of Ionas the Prophet. Matth.12.36 Ionas 2.1.

40 Fooles, did not he that made that on the outſide, make that alſo ỹ is on the inſide?

41 But yet [c] that ỹ remaineth, ‖ giue almes, and behold al things are cleane vnto you.

42 But wo to you Phariſees, becauſe you tithe minte and rewe and euery herbe: and paſſe ouer iudgement & the charitie of God. but theſe things you ought to haue done, and not to omit thoſe.

43 Wo to you Phariſees, becauſe you loue the firſt chaires in the ſynagogues, and ſalutations in the market place.

44 Wo to you, becauſe you are as monuments that appeare not, and men walking ouer, are not ware.

45 And one of the Lawyers anſwering ſaith to him, Maſter, in ſaying theſe things, thou ſpeakeſt to our reproche alſo.

46 But he ſaid, ¶ Wo to you Lawyers alſo: becauſe you lode men with burdens which they can not beare, and your ſelues touch not the packes ẇ one of your fingers.

47 Wo to you that ‡ build ỹ monuments of ỹ Prophets: and your fathers did kil them.

48 Surely you doe teſtifie ỹ you conſent to the workes of your fathers: becauſe they in deede did kil them, and you build their ſepulchres.

44 Woe vnto you Scribes and Phariſees hypocrites: for ye are as graues which appeare not, and the men that walke ouer them, are not ware of them.

45 Then anſwered one of the Lawyers, and ſaid vnto him, Maſter, thus ſaying, thou putteſt vs to rebuke alſo.

*46 And he ſaid, Woe vnto you alſo ye lawyers: for ye lade men with burdens grieuous to be borne, and ye your ſelues touch not the burdens with one of your fingers. Mat.23.4. act.15.10.

47 Woe vnto you, for ye build the ſepulchres of the Prophets, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truely ye beare witneſſe that ye alowe the deedes of your fathers: for they killed them, and ye build their ſepulchres.

49 Therefore ſaid the wiſedome of God I will ſend them Prophets and Apoſtles, and ſome of them they ſhall ſlay and perſecute:

50 That the blood of all the Prophets, which was ſhed from the foundation of the worlde, may be required of this generation,

52 Woe vnto you Lawyers, for ye haue taken away the key of knowledge: ye entred not in your ſelues, and them that came in, ye forbade.

53 When he thus ſpake vnto them, the Lawyers and the Phariſees began to vrge him vehemently, and to prouoke him to ſpeake many things:

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XI.

Rhem.3. 27 Blessed is the wombe.) Let vs also (saith Venerable Bede) lift vp our voice with the Catholike Church, of which this woman was a figure: let vs lift vp our harts among the people, and say to our Sauiour, Blessed be the wombe that bare thee, and the pappes which thou didst sucke. for blessed in deede is the mother which bare the King that ruleth heauen and earth for euer. Our B Ladie Beda vpon this place.

Fulke.3. Bedes wordes be these: Et nos igitur his contra Eutychem dictis extollamus vocem. And let vs with these wordes, lift vp our voice against Eutyches, which denied the trueth of Christs humane nature, after it was assumpted of his Godhead. Meaning that we haue a good argument, to proue the trueth of his humane nature in these wordes of the woman, which our Sauiour Christ doeth not denie, but sheweth a greater happines in them, that heare the word of God, and keepe it. The humanitie of Christ.

Rhem.4. 29 The signe of Ionas.) Of al miracles, his Resurrection, after he had been according to his body, in the graue, according to his soule, in Hel three daies, was the greatest, and most conuinceth the incredulous Iewes: and therefore a greater or more euident then that, he saith he wil not giue them. The signe of Ionas.

Fulke.4. Although our Sauiour Christ, by the vertue of his death, ouercame Hel and the Deuil: yet his soule which he committed vnto his fathers handes, was in Paradise, where hee promised the theefe should be with him. Luk.22.43. But that his soule was three daies, that is from the time of his death vntil his resurrection, in hell, it is contrarie to the opinion of many Papistes. Christes descending into Hell.

Rhem. 5. 41 Giue almes.) The great force of almes is here and in diuers places of holy write signified. In one place, they extinguish sinne: in an other, they redeeme sinnes: in an other, they deliuer from death: in an other, to them giuen or omitted, our iudgement to heauen or hel is attributed: and here they make cleane and satisfie for the Iewes former offenses. for (as S. Augustine saith c.70. Enchiridij) almes deedes profite not a man that hath a will to continew in his sinnes, but they are to be done for a propitiation to God of former offenses. Now how wel the Protestants like this doctrine so euidently set forth in Scripture, let the indifferent iudge, and how wel it agreeth with their onely faith. The force of almes. Eccles.3,33. Dan.4,24. Tob.4,12. 12.9. Mat.25.35. 42.

Fulke. 5. Almes is a worthy fruite of charitie, and therefore hath great commendation, in the Scriptures. But not to be a cause of saluation, as by your pretended places of holy write, you goe about to proue. First you bring Ecclesiasticus, which is no Canonicall Scripture, and yet you falsifie his words. For he sayth not, that almes extinguish sinne, but his wordes are after your owne translation Eleemosyna resistit peccatis, almes resisteth sinnes: after the Greeke. Almes shalbe cleere from sinnes. In the second place, your vulgar Latine translation is corrupt, for according to the originall tongue, in which Daniel did write, the text is: breake of thy sinnes with righteousnes, and thy iniquities with fauour towardes the afflicted. That is, as thou hast sinned much in iniustice and cruelkie, so now breake of that course of sinne, and take the contrarie way of iustice and humanitie. Your third place is, Tobie, which is no Canonical Scripture: where I marueile, that you adde not out of your Latine text, which is not in the Greeke, that almes deliuereth from all sinne. But where as Tobie saith, that almes deliuereth from death, it must either be vnderstoode, as it may agree with the Canonicall Scripture, or els it must be reiected, as the saying of a man, and not of God. The fourth place is of our iudgement, which shalbe according to our workes, which are the fruites and true effects of a liuely faith, by which the elect are discerned from the reprobate. Last of all, where you say, heare they make cleane and satisfie for the Iewes former offences, the text saith not so: but to them which giue almes of a true faith, all things are cleane with out any ceremonie of washing, such as the hypocrisie of the couetous Pharisees had inuented, for purification and clensing of Gods creatures. S. Augustine saith not, that Almes is done for a propitiation to God of former offences. But his wordes are: In melius quippe est vita mutanda, & per Eleemosynas de peccatis praeteritis est propitiandus Deus, non ad hoc emendus quemodocunque, &c. Our life must be changed into better, and by almes God is to be intreated for sinnes past, not to be bought after a sort, that we may alwayes committe them without punishment. Almes therefore are not a propitiation for our sinnes, which is only Christ Iesus. Iohn 2.2. But a fruite of true repentance, whereby God turneth vnto vs, when we with a true faith, that sheweth it selfe by such fruites, turne vnto him. For only the faith of Christ doeth make cleane, S. Augustine sayth, in Psalm.88. And that only faith doeth iustifie, See the fathers quoted chap.5. sect.8. of this Gospel. Almes doeth not merite saluation nor iustifie for sinnes Rhem.6. 46 Woe to you Lawyers.) These were Doctors of Moyses Law, otherwise called Scribes. Shal we therefore crie out against al Lawyers now, or ought the name of Lawyer be odious with vs, because of these naughtie Lawyers among the Iewes? much lesse ought the name of Priests to be odious (as Heretikes would haue it) because of the Iewes Priests that were so busie against our Sauiour. The Lawyers and Priests of the old Testament.

Fulke.6. The name of Priests is not odious with vs, because the Iewes Priests were naught, for we holde, that Christ is our onely high Priest, and that all Christian men and women, are Priests. But the wicked life and blasphemous heresies of Popish Priests, haue made them odious to all good men.

CHAP. XII.

He preacheth his Disciples against persecutions to come vpon them as their publishing of his doctrine. 13 With diuiding the brethren inheritance he will not medle, but exhorteth them against auarice, 22 and his Disciples (by this occasion) against solicitude so much as of necessaries, 32 yea counseling them to giue al in almes, 35 and to be readie at a knocke: 41 namely admonishing Peter and other Prelates to see to their charge: 49 and al, not to looke but for persecution. 54 The Iewes he reprehendeth for that they wil not see this time of grace, 58 Whereas it is so horrible to die without reconciliation.

AND when great multitudes ſtood about him, ſo that they trode one another, he began to ſay to his Diſciples, Take good heede of the leauen of the Phariſees, which is hypocriſie.

35 Let your ‡ loines be girded, and candles burning in your handes, 36 And you like to men expecting their lord, when he ſhall returne from the mariage: that when he doth come and knocke, forthwith they may open vnto him.

37 Bleſſed are thoſe ſeruants, whom whē the Lord commeth, he ſhall finde watching. Amen I ſay to you, that he wil gird himſelfe, and make them ſit downe, and paſſing will miniſter vnto them.

38 And if he come in the ſecond watch, and if in the third watch he come, and ſo find, bleſſed are thoſe ſeruants.

Mt.24.43. 39 *And this know ye, that if the houſeholder did know what houre the theefe would come, he would watch verily, and would not ſuffer his houſe to be broken vp.

40 Be you alſo ready: for at what houre you thinke not, the Sonne of man will come.

41 And Peter ſayd to him, Lord, doeſt thou ſpeake this parable to vs, or likewiſe to all?

42 And our Lord ſayd, Who (thinkeſt thou) is a faithfull ſteward and wiſe, whom the Lord appointeth ouer his familie, to giue them in ſeaſon their meaſure of wheate?

43 Bleſſed is that ſeruant, whom when the Lord commeth, he ſhall find ſo doing.

44 Verely I ſay to you, that ouer al things which he poſſeſſeth, he ſhal appoint him.

45 But if that ſeruant ſay in his hart, My lord is long a comming: and ſhall begin to ſtrike the ſeruants and handmaids, and eate and drinke, and be drunke:

47 And that ſeruant that knew the wil of his lord, and prepared not himſelfe, and did not according to his will: ſhall be beaten with many ſtripes.

48 But he that knew not, and did things worthie of ſtripes: ſhal be beaten with few. And euery one to whom much was giuen, much ſhall be required of him: & to whom they committed much, more will they demaund of him.

36 And ye your ſelues be like vnto men that waite for their lord, when he wil returne from the wedding, that when hee ſhall come and knocke, they may open vnto him immediatly.

37 Happy are thoſe ſeruants, whom the lord when he commeth, ſhall find waking: Verily I ſay vnto you, That he ſhall gird himſelfe, and make them to ſit downe to meate, and will come foorth, and miniſter vnto them.

8 And he anſwering ſaid vnto him, Lord, let it alone this yeere alſo, till I ſhall dig round about it, and dung it:

9 And if it beare fruite, thou mayeſt let it alone: and if it beare not, then after that thou ſhalt cut it downe.

10 And he was teaching in one of their Synagogues on the Sabboth dayes.

11 And behold, there was a woman which had a ſpirit of infirmitie eighteene yeeres, & was bowed together, and could in no wiſe lift vp her ſelfe.

12 When Ieſus ſaw her, he called her to him, and ſaid vnto her, Woman, thou art looſed from thy diſeaſe.

13 And he laid his handes on her, and immediately ſhe was made ſtraight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the ſynagogue anſwered with indignation, becauſe that Ieſus had healed on the Sabboth day, and ſaid vnto the people, There are ſixe dayes in which men ought to worke: in them therefore come, that ye may be healed, and not on the Sabboth day.

15 But the Lord anſwered him, and ſaid, Thou hypocrite, doeth not ech one of you on the Sabboth day looſe his oxe or his aſſe from the ſtall, and lead him to the water?

16 And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whome Satan hath bound loe eighteene yeeres, be looſed from this bond on the Sabboth day?

17 And when he ſaid theſe things, all his aduerſaries were aſhamed: and all the people reioyced for all the excellent deedes that were done by him.

13 And not many dayes after, when the yonger ſonne had gathered all that he had together, he tooke his iourney into a farre countrey, and there waſted his ſubſtance with riotous liuing.

14 And when he had ſpent all, there aroſe a great ſore famine in that countrie, and he began to be in neede.

15 And he went, and cleaued to one of the citizens of that country. And he ſent him into his farme to feede ſwine.

16 And he would faine haue filled his bellie of the huskes that the ſwine did eate: and no bodie gaue vnto him.

17 And returning to him ſelf he ſaid, How many of my fathers hirelings haue aboundance of bread: and I here periſh for famine?

18 I wil ariſe, and wil goe to my father, and ſay to him, Father, I haue ſinned againſt heauen and before thee:

19 I am not now worthie to be called thy ſonne: make me as one of thy hirelings.

20 And riſing vp he came to his father. And ‡ when he was yet farre of, his father ſaw him, and was moued with mercie, and running to him fel vpon his necke, and kiſſed him.

‡ Gods wonderful and tender mercie toward penitent ſinners.

21 And his ſonne ſaid to him, Father, I haue ſinned againſt heauen and before thee, I am not now worthy to be called thy ſonne.

22 And the father ſaid to his ſeruants, Quickely bring forth the firſt ſtole, and doe it on him, and put a ring vpon his hand, and ſhoes vpon his feete:

23 And bring ‖ the fatted calfe, and kil it, and let vs eate, and make merie:

24 Becauſe this my ſonne was dead, and is reuiued: was loſt, and is found. And they began to make merie.

25 But his elder ſonne was in the field. and when he came and drew nigh to the houſe, he heard muſicke and dauncing:

26 And he called one of his ſeruants, and asked what theſe things ſhould be.

27 And he ſaid to him, Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fatted calfe, becauſe he hath receiued him ſafe.

28 But he had indignation, and would not goe in. His father therfore going forth began to deſire him.

29 But he anſwering ſaid to his father, Behold, ſo many yeres doe I ſerue thee, and I neuer tranſgreſſed thy commaundement, and thou didſt neuer giue me a kidde to make merie with my friendes:

30 But after that thy ſonne, this that hath deuoured his ſubſtance with whoores, is come, thou haſt killed for him the fatted calfe.

31 But he ſaid to him, Sonne, thou art alwaies with me, and al my things are thine.

32 But

great dearth in that land, and he began to lacke.

15 And going, he ioyned him ſelfe to a citizen of that country: and he ſent him into his fields to feede ſwine.

16 And he would faine haue filled his bellie with the cods that the ſwine did eate: and no man gaue vnto him.

17 And when he came to him ſelfe, he ſayd, How many hired ſeruants of my fathers haue bread ynough and ſpare, and I periſh with hunger?

18 I will ariſe, and goe to my father, and wil ſay vnto him, Father, I haue ſinned againſt heauen, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthie to be called thy ſonne: make me as one of thy hyred ſeruants.

20 And he aroſe, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father ſawe him, and had compaſſion, and ranne, and fell on his necke, and all to kiſſed him.

21 And the ſonne ſaid vnto him, Father, I haue ſinned againſt heauen, and in thy ſight, and am no more worthy to be called thy ſonne.

22 But the father ſaid to his ſeruants, Bring foorth the beſt garment, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and ſhoes on his feete,

23 And bring hither that fat calfe, and kil it, and let vs eate, and be mery.

24 For this my ſonne was dead, and is aliue againe: he was loſt, and is found. And they began to be mery.

25 The elder brother was in the field: and when he came and drew nigh to the houſe, he heard minſtrelſie, and dawnſing,

26 And called one of his ſeruants, and asked what thoſe things meant.

27 And he ſaide vnto him, Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fat calfe, becauſe he hath receiued him ſafe and ſound.

28 And he was angry, and would not goe in: therefore came his father out, and entreated him.

29 He anſwering, ſaid to his father, Loe, theſe many yeeres doe I ſerue thee, neither brake I at any time thy commaundement, and yet thou neuer gaueſt me a kidde, that I might make mery with my friendes:

30 But as ſoone as this thy ſonne was come, which hath deuoured thy liuing with harlots, thou haſt for his pleaſure killed that fat Calfe.

31 And he ſaid vnto him, Sonne, thou art euer with me, and all that I haue is thine.

32 But it behoued vs to make merie and be glad, becauſe this thy brother was dead, and is reuiued, was loſt, and is found.

32 It was meete that we ſhould make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive againe: and was loſt, and is found.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XV.

Rhem. 1. 7. Then vpon ninety nine iuſt.) Neither God, nor the Saincts In heauen, nor men in earth do for al that eſteeme more of penitent ſinners, then they do of them that continew iuſt and godly: though by the ſolemnitie and preſent affection of ioy that man taketh and expreſſeth in ſuch alteration and new fallen good, is be here ſignified that the conuerſion of euery ſinner is exceding acceptable to God, and gineth his Saincts new cauſe of ioy and thankes giuing to God in another kinde then for the continuance of the iuſt.

Ioy in heauen for euery penitent.

Fulke. 1. Our Sauiour meaneth not, that there are any ſo iuſt, that they neede no repentance: For all haue ſinned. And there is not one iuſt. Rom. 3. 10. 23. But rather hypocrites, ſuch as the Phariſees were which thought they had no neede of repentance. As S. Auguſtine holdeth In Qu. Euang. lib. 2. c. 32. S. Ambroſe vpon this place interpreteth that one ſheepe, to be all that are ſaued by Chriſt. Quis illa grex vna eſt, non ſpecie &c. That ſheepe is one in kind, but not in particulars, for we are all one bodie, but many members. And therefore it is written: ye are the bodie of Chriſt, and members of his members. Therefore the ſonne of man came to ſaue that which was loſt: to wit, all. For as in Adam all dye, ſo in Chriſt all ſhal be quickened. The rich ſhepheard therefore, of whoſe flocke all we are but the hundreth part, hath innumerable flockes of Angels, Archangels, &c. You ſee therefore that by the iuſt which neede no repentance, S. Ambroſe vnderſtandeth not men, but Angels. Beda vnderſtandeth the iuſt, to be ſuch, as becauſe they haue not committed the greateſt ſinnes, are ſlow to good workes, and very ſecure. Theſe I ſuppoſe haue neede of repentance. Euthymius and Theophylacte agree with S. Ambroſe. Therefore there are no men that neede no repentance ſimply, but in compariſon of them that are wholy fallen from God, as open ſinners and excommunicate perſons.

Repentance neceſſary for all men.

Rhem. 2. 10. Before the Angels.) The Angels and other celeſtial ſpirits in heauen, do reioyce at euery ſinners conuerſion: they know then and haue care of vs, yea our hartes and inward repentance be open to them: how then can they not heare our praiers? And betwixt Angels and the bleſſed ſoules of Saincts there is no difference in this caſe, the one being as highly exalted as the other and as neere God, in whom and by whom only they ſee and know our affaires, as the other.

The Angels and Saincts know our harts Mat. 22, 30.

Fulke 2. Our hearts and inward repentance, are not knowen to the Angels, but by the fruites and true effects thereof. For God only knoweth the hearts of all the ſonnes of men, and their hartie repentance. 1. Reg. 8. 39. And although the elect, after the reſurrection, ſhall be like in glorie to the Angels, yet it followeth not, that they ſhall be like in all things, and much leſſe, that their ſoules now in heauen, be like the Angels: whoſe preſence and miniſterie God vſeth in the preſeruation of his choſen, in procuring the meanes of their conuerſion and ſaluation while they are in this world. And though they be as neere God in heauen, as the Angels yet it followeth not, that either the one or the other, ſee and know our affaires, otherwiſe then it pleaſeth God to reueale them. For that prophane ſpeculation, that God is like a glaſſe, in whom all things done in this world may be ſeene in heauen, is a vaine deuiſe of an idle braine, without all auctoritie of Scripture: yea contrary vnto it, which teacheth that God only ſearcheth the heart and ſecrete thoughts of man: which therefore are vnknowen to Angels and bleſſed ſpirites, except it pleaſe God, of ſpeciall diſpenſation, to reueale them. And if they did or might know all our affaires, as well as God, yet it followeth not, that we ſhould pray vnto them, hauing a commaundement and promiſe, to call vpon God, and to be heard for Chriſtes ſake: and neither commaundement, nor promiſe, nor example in the Scripture, of any godly perſon, that prayed vnto them.

The Angels and Saincts in heauen know not mens harts in earth.

Prayer to Saincts depreated.

Rhem. 3. 23. The fatted calfe.) This faſting and feſtiuitie (ſaith S. Auguſtine li. 2. qu. Euang. c. 33. to. 4.) are now celebrated throughout the whole world the Church being dilated and ſpred: for, that calfe in the body and bloud of our Lord is both offered to the Father, and alſo feedeth the whole houſe. And as the calfe ſignifieth the B. Sacrament of the body and bloud of Chriſt, ſo the firſt ſtole may ſignifie our innocencie reſtored in baptiſme, and the reſt, other graces and gifts giuen vs in the other Sacraments.

The B. Sacrament and Sacrifice of the Altar.

Fulke 3. S. Auguſtine meaneth the oblation of Chriſt vpon the croſſe to God the father, the remembrance whereof, is celebrated in the Lordes ſupper, as he declareth him ſelfe more plainly Octoginta trium Quæſtionum. Qu. 61. Ipſe eſt &c. He is our Prieſt for euer after the order of Melchiſedech, which offred himſelfe a ſacrifice for our ſinnes, and hath commaunded the ſimilitude of that ſacrifice to be celebrated in remembrance of his paſſion, ſo that we may ſee the ſame thing which Melchiſedech offred to God, now to be offred in the Church of Chriſt throughout all the world. Remember that Melchiſedech could not offer the naturall body of Chriſt, ſo many hundred yeares before it was conceiued and borne of the virgine Marie. Therefore that which S. Auguſtine ſayth is offred in the Church, is not the naturall bodie of Chriſt: but bread and wine, in remembrance of his paſſion, as a ſacrifice of thankes giuing.

He teacheth the riche to procure heauen with their riches. 14 And being therefore derided of the couetous Phariſees (who ſaw temporal riches promiſed in the letter of the Law) he ſheweth that now is come the preaching of the kingdom of God, howbeit the Law for al that in no iote ſhal be fruſtrat. 19 foretelling them alſo, that the couetous Iewes ſhal be denied of their father Abraham, when poore Lazarus (the penitent Gentil) ſhal reſt in his boſome.

AND he ſayd vnto his diſciples, There was a certaine riche man which had a ſteward, and the ſame was accuſed vnto him that he had waſted his goods.

3 And the bailife ſaide within him ſelfe, What ſhall I doe, becauſe my lord taketh away from me the bailiſhip? digge I am not able, to begge I am aſhamed.

4 I knowe what I will doe, that when I ſhall be remoued from the bailiſhip, they may receiue me into their houſes.

5 Therefore calling together euery one of his lordes detters, he ſaid to the firſt, howe much doeſt thou owe my lord?

6 But he ſaith, An hundred pipes of oile. And he ſaide to him, Take thy bill: and ſit downe, quickly write fiftie.

7 After that he ſaid to an other, But thou, howe much doeſt thou owe? Who ſaide, An hundreth quarters of wheate. He ſaide to him, Take thy bill, and write eightie.

8 And ‖ the lorde prayſed the bailife of iniquitie, becauſe he had done wiſely: for the children of this world are wiſer then the children of light in their generation.

‡Mammon (ſaith S. Hierom q. 6. ad Algaſ.) in the Syriake tõgue ſignifyeth riches. Mammon of iniquitie, becauſe they are often ill gotten, or ill beſtowed, or occaſion of euill, or at the leaſt worldly and falſe and not the true heauenly riches. Mat. 6, 24.

9 And I ſay to you, Make vnto you friendes of the ‡ mammon of iniquitie: that when you faile, ‖ they may receiue you into the eternall tabernacles.

10 He that is faithful in the leſte, is faithfull in the greater alſo: and he that is vniuſt in litle: is vniuſt in the greater alſo.

11 If then you haue not bene faithfull in the vniuſt mammon: with that which is the true who may credit you?

12 And if you haue not beene faithfull in other mens: that which is yours, who will giue you?

13 *No ſeruant can ſerue two maſters, for either he ſhall hate the one, and loue the other: or cleaue to one, and contemne the other. You can not ſerue God & mammon.

14 And the Phariſees which were couetous, heard all theſe things: and they derided him.

15 And he ſaide to them, You are they that iuſtifie your ſelues before men, but God knoweth your hartes, becauſe that which is high to men, is abomination before God.

4 I wote what to doe, that when I am put out of the ſtewardſhip, they may receiue me into their houſes.

5 So when he had called all his maſters detters together, he ſaide vnto the firſt, Howe much oweſt thou vnto my maſter?

6 And he ſaide, An hundred meaſures of oile. And he ſaid vnto him, Take thy bill, and ſit downe quickly, and write fiftie.

7 Then ſaide he to another, How much oweſt thou? And he ſaide, An hundred meaſures of wheate. He ſaid vnto him, Take thy bill, and write foure ſcore.

8 And the Lord cõmended the vniuſt Steward, becauſe he had done wiſely: for the children of this worlde are in their nation wiſer then the children of light.

9 And I ſay vnto you, Make you friends of the vnrighteous Mammon, that when ye ſhall haue neede, they may receiue you into the euerlaſting habitations.

10 He that is faithfull in that which is leaſt, is faithfull alſo in much: and he that is vnrighteous in the leaſt, is vnrighteous alſo in much.

11 So then, if ye haue not bene faithfull in the vnrighteous Mammon, who ſhall truſt you in the true treaſure?

The Goſpel vpon thurſday in the 2. weeke of Lent.

19 There was a certaine rich man, and he was clothed with purple and ſilke: and he fared euery day magnifically.

20 And there was a certaine begger called Lazarus, that lay at his gate full of ſores:

21 Deſiring to be filled of the crommes, that fell from the rich mans table, but the dogges alſo came, and licked his ſores.

22 And it came to paſſe that the begger died, and was caried ‖ of the Angels into ‖ Abrahams boſome. And the rich man alſo died: and he was buried in hell.

23 And lifting vp his eyes, when he was in torments, he ſawe Abraham a farre of, ‡ and Lazarus in his boſome:

24 And he crying ſaid, Father Abraham, haue mercie on me, and ſend Lazarus that he may dippe the tippe of his finger into water, for to coole my tongue, becauſe I am tormented in this flame.

‡ To be in continuall pleaſures, eaſe, wealth, peace, and proſperitie in this world, is perilous, and a ſigne of paines in the next. S. Hiero.

25 And Abraham ſaide to him, Sonne, remember ỳ thou didſt receiue ‡ good things in thy life time, and Lazarus likewiſe euill: but nowe he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 And beſide all theſe things, betweene vs and you there is fixed ‖ a great [c] chaos: that they which will paſſe from hence to you, may not, neither go from thence hither.

[c] χασμα a horrible diſtance.

27 And he ſaide, Then, father, I beſeech thee that thou wouldeſt ſend him vnto my fathers houſe, for I haue fiue brethren, 28 For to teſtifie vnto them, ‖ leſt they alſo come into this place of torments.

29 And Abraham ſaide to him, ‡ They haue Moyſes and the Prophets: let them heare them.

30 But he ſaid, No, father Abraham, but if ſome man ſhall goe frō the dead to them, they will doe penance.

31 And he ſaide to him, If they heare not Moyſes and the Prophets, neither if one ſhal riſe againe from ỳ dead, will they beleeue.

18 Whoſoeuer forſaketh his wife, and marieth another, committeth adulterie: and he that marieth her that is diuorced from her husband, committeth adulterie alſo. Mat.5.32. 1.cor.7.11.

19 There was a certaine rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine white, and fared very delitiouſly euery day.

20 And there was a certaine begger named Lazarus, which was laide at his gate full of ſores:

21 And deſiring to be refreſhed with the crummes which fell from the rich mans boorde, And no man gaue vnto him: but the dogges came and licked his ſores.

22 And it came to paſſe that the begger died, and was caried by the Angels into Abrahams boſome: the rich man alſo dyed, and was buried.

23 And being in hell in torments, when he had lifted vp his eyes, he ſeeth Abraham a farre off, and Lazarus in his boſome:

24 And he cryed and ſaide, Father Abraham, haue mercie on me, and ſende Lazarus, that he may dippe the tippe of his finger in water, and coole my tongue, for I am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham ſaide, Sonne, remember that thou in thy life time receiuedſt thy pleaſure, and likewiſe Lazarus paines, but nowe is he comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 Beſides all this, betweene vs and you there is a great gulfe ſtedfaſtly ſet, ſo that they which woulde goe from hence to you, cannot, neither haue they paſſage to vs that woulde come from thence.

27 Then he ſaid, I pray thee therefore father, that thou wouldeſt ſend him to my fathers houſe:

28 For I haue fiue brethren, that he may witneſſe vnto them, leſt they alſo come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham ſaieth vnto him, They haue Moſes and the Prophets, let them heare them.

30 And he ſaide, Nay, father Abraham, but if one come vnto them from the dead, they will repent.

31 He ſaid vnto him, If they heare not Moſes and the Prophets, neither will they beleeue, though one roſe from death.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XVI.

Rhem. 1. 23. And Lazarus in his boſome.) Lazarus in Abrahams boſome, and reſt: but both in hell, and not in the kingdome of heauen before Coriſt. Hiero. ep. 3. Epitaph. Nepot.

Fulke 1. S Hieroms wordes are theſe. Gratias tibi Chriſte ſaluator qui te Redemptore tuo Limbus patrum. We thy creatures giue thankes vnto thee, O Chriſt our Sauiour, that whileſt thou didſt die, thou ſlewest our ſo mightie aduerſarie. What was more miſerable then man before? which being throwen downe with the terrour of eternall death, receiued the ſenſe of liuing, to this ende onely, that he might periſh. For death reigned from Adam to Moſes, euen ouer them which had not ſinned after the likeneſſe of the tranſgreſſion of Adam. If Abraham, Iſaach, and Iacob were in hell, who was in the kingdome of heauen? If thy friendes were vnder the punishments of Adam offending, and they which had not sinned, were holde guiltie of other mens sinnes, what is to be thought of them which saide in their heartes, there is no God? which are corrupt and made abominable in their willes, which haue declined, being made vnprofitable together, there is not that doeth good, no not one. And if Lazarus be seene in the bosome of Abraham, in a place of rest, what like hath hell and the kingdome of Heauen? Before Christ, Abraham in hell, after Christ, the theefe in Paradise. And therefore as his resurrection, many bodies of them that slept, arose, and were seene in the heauenly Hierusalem. These wordes conteine a rethoricall amplification of the benefite of Christes death: out of which we can no more proue, that Abraham and Lazarus were in hell before Christ, then that they were damned. As those first wordes declare, what was more miserable then man? &c. And that he saith, Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob were in hell, he rather alludeth to the phrase of the vulgar Interpreter, who translateth Sheol, that signifieth the graue, by the worde Infernus, which concerneth the bodies, rather then the soules, as it appeareth by the last wordes, that many of them that slept arose at his resurrection. And yet I wil not excuse S. Hierome altogether from this opinion, that they which died before Christes death, went in soule to hell, by which he meaneth, that they had not so cleare light of heauenly felicitie, as after Christes resurrection: whereof there may be some doubt, but of Limbus Patrum deuised by the Papistes he knewe nothing, nor of Christes descent into it. S. Augustine Epist. 99. Euodio, denieth, that Abraham and Lazarus with the Patriarches were in hell, or that Abrahams bosome is any part of hell, saying, Ne ipse quidem inferos &c. I coulde neuer finde in the Scriptures, that hell is named for good. And if it be neuer read in the diuine authoritie, verily that bosome of Abraham (that is, an habitation of a certaine secrete rest) is not to be beleeued to be any part of hell, although euen in those very wordes of our great master, where he saieth that Abraham saide: Betweene you and vs there is a great Chaos established, I thinke it may sufficiently appeare, that the bosome of that so great felicitie, is not a certaine part, and as it were a member of hell. For what is that great Chaos but a great distance separating them farre asunder, which not onely is, but also is established betweene them, &c. To the same effect he writeth, De gen. ad lib. 12. Chap. 33.

Rhem. 2. 29. They haue Moyses and the Prophets.) Abraham had knowledge of things in earth which were not in his time, as that they had Moyses and the Prophetes lookes which he neuer sawe. August. de cura pro mor. c. 14.

Fulke. 2. He might knowe these thinges (sayth Augustine) by the reports of Lazarus: not when they were a doing by men aliue, lest it shall be false which the Prophet sayeth: Abraham knowe vs not. Therefore wee must confesse, that the dead knowe not what is done here, while it is a doing here, but afterward doe heare it, of them which by death goe from hence vnto them. Not all things in deede, but such things as they are suffered to declare, who also are suffered to remember those thinges which it behoueth them to heare, to whom they declare them. The dead also may heare some thing of the Angels which are present in those affaires, which are done here, euen so much as he to whom all things are subiect, doeth iudge that euery one of them ought to heare. Thus Augustine wandreth in his imaginations, howe the dead may knowe what is done among the liuing, where as he shoulde rather haue acknowledged with Chrysostome, that this is a parable, or with Ambrose, that it is a narration wherein many thinges are spoken parabolically, of which we must not grounde any doctrine not taught els where in the Scripture. As for example, you may as well say, that soules haue fingers and tongues, and that elementall water will quench hell fyre, as that Abraham knewe what bookes were written after his death. But our Sauiour Christes purpose is not so much to declare what was spoken to and fro, as what might be answered to the importunate and impudent affections of the damned spirit. And albeit ỹ the doctrine of the Church was comprehended in ỹ Scriptures, might be reuealed to Abraham after his death: yet it followeth not, that Abraham knewe all things, as you affirme the Sainctes doe in beholding the Maiestie of God: neither durst Augustine affirme, that they knewe any more, then it pleased God to let them haue vnderstanding of, eyther by dead mens report, or by relation of Angels, or by any meanes whatsoeuer.

The Sainctes departed know not our affaires.

Almes meritorious. Tob. 12. 9. Mat. 25. The Sainctes do pray for vs.

exceeding great merite alſo. See all this in theſe doctors following. Hiero.qu.6. ad Algaſ. to 3. Ambroſ. in Luc. Auguſt. ſer.35.de verb.Do.c.1.Gregor.moral.li.21.c.14.Auguſ.li.2.qu.Euang.qu.34.Chryſ.ho.33.ad po.Antioch. to 5.

Fulke.4. That almes(though greatly accepted of God) is meritorious, the Scripture neuer teacheth, nor that almes purgeth ſinne,or gayneth heauen,whereof ſee the notes vpō the 11.chapter of this Goſpel,Sect.5.The prayers of the poore are in deede procured by geuing of almes, if they be thankfull perſons vpon whom it is beſtowed, but no patronage in heauen. The Prophet Dauid,no doubt,was a good almes-man,yet he acknowledgeth no patrones in heauen,but God ỹ Lord: Whom haue I in heauen (ſaith he) but thee? Pſal.73.25.Neither doth the text ſay,the poore ſhall become patrones, but they may receiue you into the euerlaſting tabernacles, which is to be vnderſtood parabolically. Your almes ſhall be a teſtimonie of your charitie and liberalitie, which ſhall be euerlaſtingly rewarded,proceeding from true and liuely faith as our Sauiour Chriſt ſheweth,Math.25. Neither is it poſſible to gather a concluſion out of this place in due forme of ſyllogiſme, that the Sainctes departed do pray for the liuing,or that they may receiue their friendes & benefactors into their heauenly manſions, otherwiſe then by their teſtimonie, if in the iudgement of God, they ſhall be found faithfull. Finally, almes giuen to an hypocrite,in the name of Chriſt,of true faith and charitie,is as acceptable to God, as giuen to a holy perſon, and ſhall be as well rewarded.Seeing God hath not made vs iudges of mens ſynceritie, which haue neede, but commaunded vs to ſhewe neighbourhood to all that be in neceſſitie, eſpecially to thoſe that be of the houſehold of God,as farre as we can diſcerne them. Chryſoſtom. Hom.Ne ſcrutemur pauperes. But all theſe pointes neither concluded out of the text, nor warranted by any other Scriptures, let vs ſee howe you proue out of the doctors. Firſt, S. Hierom hath nothing ſounding to ſuch a purpoſe, except you meane thoſe wordes in the ende. Mihi iuxta &c. To me according to the former interpretation it ſeemeth, that we ought to make vs friendes of the vnrighteous Mammon, not any kinde of poore,but thoſe which may receiue vs into their houſes and eternall tabernacles,that when we haue giuen them ſmall things,we may receiue of them great things,and giuing another mans goods,we may receiue our owne, and ſowe in bleſſing, that wee may reape bleſſing: for he that ſoweth ſparingly, ſhall reape ſparingly. Theſe wordes declare his meaning ſufficiently, that we muſt make choiſe of the godly poore, as neere as we can,to whom the kingdome of heauen belongeth: and giue plentifully, that wee may receiue the reward plentifully. Here is neither patronage, nor prayer of Sainctes departed, nor merite of holy men. S. Ambroſe the next Doctor ſayeth no more but, Vt largiendo &c. That by geuing liberally to the poore, we may procure the fauour of the Angels, and the reſt of the Sainctes. Loe this Doctor nameth the Angels, which receiue no benefite by our almes, and all the Sainctes, as well rich as poore. For all the bleſſed ſpirites doe loue them that are beneficiall to the poore members of Chriſt their head. But of ſpeciall patronage, prayer, merite, authoritie to diſpoſe the heauenly manſions,&c. here is no mention. Perhaps S. Auguſtine will ſay more, becauſe he is quoted in two places: in the firſt he hath theſe wordes. The Goſpel hath admoniſhed vs to make friendes of the Mammon of iniquitie, that thoſe which make, they may receiue into eternall tabernacles, who are they that ſhall haue eternall tabernacles but the Sainctes of God? And who are they that ſhall be receiued of them into eternall tabernacles, but they which haue ſerued their neede, and thearefully adminiſtred vnto them that they lacked? Let vs remember therefore, that in the laſt iudgement, our Lorde will ſay to them, which ſhall ſtand at his right hand, I was hungrie, and ye gaue me to eate, and the reſt that ye knowe. And when they ſhall aske, when they haue done this duetie to him? he anſwereth, when ye did it to one of theſe my litle ones. Theſe Litle ones are they, which receiue into eternall tabernacles,&c. Hitherto we haue nothing of patronage, prayers, or merites of Sainctes. In the other place he ſayth, Iuſti &c. The Iuſt and the Sainctes, are ſignified in this place, which doe bring them into eternall tabernacles, which haue communicated earthly goods for their neceſſities, of whom alſo he ſayth, that if any man giue vnto any of them a cuppe of colde water, in the name of a diſciple, he ſhall not loſe his reward. In the former part of this ſaying, he rehearſeth the wordes of the text: in the latter he ſheweth the plaine and direct meaning, that no worke of charitie ſhewed toward Gods children, ſhall be vnrewarded. Chryſoſtome at laſt ſpeaketh of patronage,or pleading ſaying: Orators and Sophiſters, ſtand at the iudgement ſeates of men, pleading for them that ſuffer wrong, and often for them that doe wrong, but the acte of almes (ſaith he) ſtandeth at the tribunall ſeate of Chriſt, not onely pleading, but perſwading the iudge himſelfe, that he himſelfe doth pleade for the guiltie perſon, and gaue ſentence for him, and although he haue ſinned a thouſand times, he crowneth him, and proclaimeth him conqueroure: for he ſaith, giue almes and all ſhall be cleane. Here you ſee, he had occaſion in following of his compariſon, to haue ſaide: the Sainctes departed pleade for vs, pray for vs, merite for vs: yet that which he ſpeaketh of patronage, is of almes it ſelfe, yea principally of Chriſt him ſelfe, who is our onely mediatour and aduocate before God, who rewardeth them that comfort his members for his ſake, of his meere mercie and grace, not for the merite of their worke.Gregorie alſo,hath the name of patrones,but not according to your meaning,his words are theſe. Multum vero &c. It auaileth much to beate downe the pride of him that giueth, if when he giueth earthly things, he doe earneſtly weigh the words of our heauenly maſter,which ſaith,Make you friends of the Mammon of iniquitie, that where you faile,they may receiue you into eternal tabernacles: for if through their friendſhip,we attaine the eternal tabernacles,in giuing doubtles,we ought to conſider,that we rather offer gifts to patrons,then giue rewards to needy perſons.Hereof it is ſaid by Paul: Let your abundance ſupplie their neede,that their abundance may be a ſupply to your neede: namely,that we ſhould conſider diligently,that thoſe who we now ſee needy we ſhal one day ſee abounding,and we that are ſeene abounding,if we be negligent to giue,ſhal one day be needy.Therefore he that now giueth temporal aide to a poore man,in that he ſhal hereafter receiue of him eternal things,as I may ſo ſay,doth as it were till the earth for corne,which rendreth more plentifully that which ſhe hath receiued. It remaineth therefore,that pride neuer ariſe of our gift, ſeeing that of that which the rich man giueth to the poore,he doth it,that he be not poore for euer. Here is neither merites,nor prayers of Sainctes departed, but ỹ poore made,as it were patrones of ỹ rich,euen in this life,ỹ the rich ſhould not be proud of their liberalitie, becauſe they know, that except they be rich in good workes by relieuing the poore, they ſhalbe euerlaſtingly poore. Whereas if they make them friendes of their Mammon, they ſhall be ioyned in reward of eternall life, with the poore members of Chriſt, who accompteth done vnto him, whatſoeuer is beſtowed in releefe of them. So that eternall life is the free gift of God, by Ieſus Chriſt, vnto all them which by the fruites of good workes, declare that they take holde of it by a true and liuely faith.

18. And

Rhem.5. 18. And marrieth.) The good of Marriage through out al nations and men, is in iſſue and fidelitie of chaſtitie, but among the people of God is conſiſteth alſo in holines of Sacrament: Whereby it commeth to paſſe that it is a heinous crime to marry againe, though there be a diuorce made, ſo long as the parties liue. Aug.de bono coniug.c.24.to 6. See the Annotations vpon Marke 10,11. Rhem.7. 22. Abrahams Boſome.) *The Boſome of Abraham is the reſting place of al them that died in perfect ſtate of grace before Chriſtes time, heauen before being ſhut from men. Fulke.7. For as much as the death of Chriſt, was as effectual to redeeme them that liued before he ſuffered actually, as them that liue ſince: ſeeing in Gods ſight, our Sauiour Chriſt, is the Lambe that was ſlaine from the beginning of the world, we beleeue that the godly fathers were in heauen or Paradiſe, which is here called Abrahams Boſome, before the reſurrection of Chriſt, as well as after. For in as much as they were iuſtified by faith in his bloud, they receiued the ſame crowne & reward of righteouſnes that we doe, being iuſtified by the ſame meanes. And yet our Sauiour Chriſt was the firſt man that in his whole manhod entred into heauen, into the fulneſſe and perfection of glorie which is prepared for all Gods elect, at the generall reſurrection. Neuertheleſſe, the vertue of Chriſtes death opened heauen, to be a receptacle for the ſoules of the righteous from the beginning of the world. The ſpirit (ſaith Salomon) *returneth to God that gaue it. Eccleſ.*12.9. And we heard before, that Auguſtine denieth it to be a part of hel. Ep.99. But Zachary (you ſay) calleth it a lake without water. In deede Zachary nameth a lake or pitte without water, which is to vncomfortable a place to vnderſtand it of Abrahams Boſome, which the Prophet meaneth of the captiuitie of Babylon, from whence the Church was deliuered. Theodoret ſaith, it may be vnderſtood either of eternal death, or of the error of Idols. S.Hierom ſaith: The rich Glutton was in this lake. Therfore he vnderſtoode it not of Abrahams Boſome. Further you ſay, it is called of Eſay, a priſon: but that is as vnlike, that a place of happy and ioyfull reſt, (Chryſoſt.de Diuit.& Lazaro,) ſhould be called a priſon. Let vs ſee what the ancient fathers ſay to the matter. Firſt S.Hierom vnderſtandeth this priſon of the bonds of ſinnes and errors. So doeth Cyril in Eſay, *Lib.*4.*Or.*2. Yet Lib 3. he ſaith, that Chriſt went to preach to the ſpirits in hell, and appeared to them that were deteined in priſon, and deliuered them all from bonds, neceſſitie, paine and puniſhments. Therfore in neither of both places he vnderſtandeth Abrahams Boſome, by the priſon ſpoken of in Eſay. And if by this later expoſition he correct not his error in the former, yet by the later he ſheweth, that the text is not neceſſarily to be vnderſtood of any priſon after this life. As for ỹ name of Limbus patrum, is altogether vnknowen of the ancient doctors, which if it ſignifie (as you ſay) the brimme of hell, it cannot be farre from the place of puniſhment, as the text is plaine of Abrahams Boſome. And Chryſoſtome ſaith plainely, it is Paradiſe, againſt the conceite of them that imagine it to be hell, Paradiſus, &c. The boſome of Abraham, was the porremans Paradiſe. The rich man ſaw Abraham afarre off, and Lazarus in his boſome. But ſome man may ſay to me, is Paradiſe in hell? I ſay this, that the boſome of Abraham is the truth of Paradiſe,) ea I confeſſe it is the moſt holy Paradiſe. ex Luc.Hom.de Diuite. And Tertullian chargeth Marcion the heretike with this opinion, that the fathers of the old Teſtament had their place of refreſhing in hell, by this text of Abrahams Boſome. But he confuteth him euen by the ſame Scripture, ſaying, that Hell is one thing, Abrahams Boſome an other thing, where in not only the ſoules of the Iewes, but of the Gentiles alſo that are faithfull, ſhall haue reſt vntill the generall reſurrection, Lib.4.cont.Marcion. Whether the hell of the damned be called the lower hel, in reſpect of this manſion of the fathers, Auguſtine *in Pſ.*85. profeſſeth ignorance, and only doubteth. But *Ep.*99. he vtterly denieth Abrahams Boſome to be hell or any part of hell, becauſe Hell in the Scripture, is neuer taken for good. The ſame he ſaith, *de Gen.ad lit.lib.*12.*c.*33. *and cap.*34. where he proueth that Paradiſe is heauen, he ſaith, Quanto magis, &c. How much more then may the boſome of Abraham which is after this life, be called Paradiſe. But that there was ſuch a place whereunto our Sauiour Chriſt deſcended, ſpecially to deliuer the fathers that were in it, you quote a great nomber of doctors. Firſt Irenæus in the place quoted, hath neuer a word of the deſcending of Chriſt into hell, but of the effect of his life and death, to the ſaluation of all his members. His wordes are theſe: Qua propter, &c. Wherefore he gaue mirate to his diſciples, as they were ſitting, ſignifying them which ſate in the earth to whom he came to miniſter life. As Hieremie ſaith: The Lord the holy one of Iſrael, remembred his that were dead, which had ſlept before in the earth of defection, and came downe vnto them to preach ſaluation vnto them to ſaue them. And for this alſo his diſciples eyes were heauie when Chriſt came to his paſſion, and finding them ſleeping, firſt, hee let them alone, ſignifying the patience of God, in the ſleeping of men. But comming the ſecond time, he awaked them and rayſed them vp, ſignifying that his paſſion is the awaking of his diſciples that ſlept, for whom alſo he deſcended into the lower parts of the earth, The godly fathers in heauen, not in Limbus patrum.

to ſee that of the creature which was vnwrought, with thoſe eyes of which he ſaid to his diſciples: Many Prophets and iuſt deſired to ſee and heare, what you ſee and heare. For Chriſt came not for them only which beleeued in him, in the time of Tiberius the Emperour: neither for thoſe men onely which are now, ſuch the Father prouided, but for all men which from the beginning according to his power, in their generation both feared and loued God, and liued iuſtly & godly towards their neighbours, and deſired to ſee Chriſt, and to heare his voyce. Wherefore all ſuch in his ſecond comming he ſhall firſt awake out of ſleepe, and raiſe vp them as well as the reſt which ſhalbe iudged, & he ſhall place them in his kingdome. Theſe words I haue ſet downe at large, that you may ſee he ſpeaketh not of the ſuppoſed deſcent into hell, but of the vertue of his life, death, burial & reſurrection, which extendeth it ſelfe to all the elect of God, and ſhalbe made manifeſt at the ſecond comming of Chriſt. Euſebius ſaith: That the ramping Lion the deuil, after he had opened the wyde mouth of hell, coueted to haue deuoured the ſoule of our Sauiour, with other which came downe into hell, againſt which he prayed in the wordes of the Pſalme, Deliuer me from the mouth of the Lion. By which place it is rather prooued, that Chriſt did not deſcend into hell after his death, ſeeing he was ſaued from the mouth of the Lion, according to his prayer vttered by the Pſalmiſt: And ſomewhat before this place, he interpreteth the complaint of Chriſt that he was forſaken, when his body was on the Croſſe to be made in the middeſt of hellish torments, when he beheld himſelfe compaſſed about with all the deuils in hell, as it were a multitude of wilde beaſtes ready to deuoure him. Euſebius therefore hath much againſt you, but nothing for you. Much leſſe hath Gregorie Nazianzene in the place noted. For he ſaith no more but, Chriſt deſcended, that we might be exalted. Chryſoſtome the firſt of them that you haue named, ſaith that Chriſt deſcended into hell, and diſturbed them all, and deſtroyed that Caſtle filled with tumult and trouble: Which may be rightly vnderſtoode of the vertue of his death, deſtroying the power of hell, that it hath no force againſt thoſe whom he hath redeemed. But he addeth further, that although it was hell, yet it helde the holy ſoules and precious veſſels of Abraham, Iſaac and Iacob. In theſe wordes, either he taketh the word hell largely, for the ſtate of them that be dead, or els he is contrary to himſelfe in other places, which I haue cited before, Where he affirmeth Abrahams Boſome to be Paradiſe, and prayeth that hee and his people may be taken vp into Abrahams Boſome. Epiphanius againſt Tatiane the hereticke, that denied Adam to be ſaued, ſaith: For what cauſe deſcended Chriſt into hell? Howe after his ſuffering when hee had ſlept three dayes, did hee ariſe againe? And howe is it fulfilled that hee ſhould haue dominion ouer the dead and ouer the liuing, and of what liuing and dead, but of thoſe that haue neede of his helpe aboue and beneath? That Chriſtes deſcent into hell and his reſurrection was to Adams ſaluation, I ſee it prooued by theſe wordes, but that Adam was in hell, or that Chriſt deſcended after his death, this place ſaith nothing, but rather that Adam with the reſt of the fathers, was in heauen. For who are they that were aboue then? but Adam and the reſt. S. Ambroſe ſpeaketh of the force of Chriſtes death, which ouercame death and hell to the ſaluation of all Gods choſen: and not of the fetching of the fathers out of hel. For after hee hath ſhewed that the deuill by death reigned in the puniſhment of ſinners, vntill the comming of Chriſt: He addeth theſe wordes, Expers peccati, &c. Chriſt being voide of ſinne, when he went downe to the bottome of hell, breaking the lockes and gates of hell, after he had deſtroyed the dominion of death, hee called backe to life out of the iawes of the deuil, ſoules bound with ſinne, and this is written for a diuine triumphe, with eternall Characters, while hee ſaith, Death where is thy ſting, death where is thy victorie, which felicitie of health reſtored Paul conſidering, cryeth out, As by Adam death entred into this world, ſo by Chriſt ſaluation is reſtored to the world. In theſe wordes, is nothing to mainteine Limbus patrum, nor yet the Popiſh maner of Chriſtes deſcent into hell. S. Hierom hath the like meaning, and his wordes be theſe: By the blood of thy paſſion through thy clemencie, thou haſt deliuered thoſe which were holden bound in the priſon of hell, in which there is no mercie. Finally, after our Lord aroſe againe, thoſe that were holden with the bonde of the ſinnes of Adam, or as ſome will haue it, of accuſtomed error aroſe againe with him, and appeared in the holy Cittie. Theſe wordes declare, that he ſpeaketh of all that had deſerued hell, which by the death and reſurrection of Chriſt, were deliuered from hell. For that he meaneth not of Limbus patrum, (as I haue declared before) he affirmeth that the riche man clothed in purple, remained in this lake of hell, and obteined no refreſhing. But to them (ſaith hee) which were bounde, and were to be deliuered by the mercie of Chriſt, the ſpeach is directed. Be you turned, you that are bounde to the munition of hope: and the ſence is, You that are bounde and holden of cruel and terrible hell, which hope for the looſing of your bondes, at the comming of Chriſt, &c. S. Hierom therefore muſt either be vnderſtoode, to ſpeake allegorically, or els he ſhould moſt abſurdly place all the fathers in torments of hel with the rich Glutton. Auguſtine Epiſt. 99. as is before ſhewed, denieth that Abrahams Boſome is hell or any part thereof, but Paradiſe: yet he affirmeth that Chriſt deſcended into hell. But not into Abrahams Boſome, ſaying he hath not found, what benefite he beſtowed vpon thoſe iuſt, that were in Abrahams Boſome when he deſcended into hell, from whom he neuer departed according to the bleſſed preſence of his diuinitie. In the other place that you quote, S. Auguſtine affirmeth nothing, but conditionally: Si non abſurde credi videtur, &c. If it ſeemeth that it is not abſurdly thought, that the olde Saincts which helde the faith of Chriſt to come, were in places moſt farre off from the tormentes of the vngodly, but yet in hell vntill the blood of Chriſt and his deſcent into thoſe places deliuered them: truely from henceforth the good faithfull redeemed with that price alreadie ſhedde, know we not hell at all. You ſee he doeth not abſolutely affirme, but as an opinion, of ſome receiued, whereof hee himſelfe was not throughly perſwaded, and which in ſome places he holdeth not: as Epiſt. 99. De gen. ad liter. lib. 12. cap. 33. & 34. Paulinus in his Panegyricall Poeme, writeth ſome things Poetically of Chriſts conqueſt of hell, but directly of the Patriarches in hell, and Chriſtes deſcent vnto them, hee ſpeaketh not, and therefore is added to make vp a nomber: as moſt of the reſt are. Cyrillus hath theſe wordes: Quamque tempus, &c. And when now it was time that hee ſhoulde preache to the ſpirites in hell, (for he came to haue dominion as well of the liuing as of the dead) he ſuffered death for vs. And this ſuffering proper to our nature, he did vndergoe willingly, according to the fleſh: although as God he was life naturally: that hell being ſpoyled, and he made the firſt fruites of them that ſleepe, & the firſt begotten among the dead (as the Scriptures ſay) he might giue returne to life vnto our nature. Theſe are the words of Cyril, which compared with that he writeth vpon Eſay, doe come ſomething neere your purpoſe, to declare his opinion. Gregorie alſo affirmeth that Chriſt deſcending into hel, deliuered only them that beleeued in him, while they liued & led a godly life. Of ſo many doctors as be quoted, you ſee how few doe hold that Abrahams Boſome was in hell, or that the fathers were in hell before the comming of Chriſt. And of them that helde it, how ſome place them in reſt as Auguſtine and Chryſoſtome: ſome in paine, as Cyrill and Hierom, if he ſpeake of their ſtate. Hereby it appeareth, that this opinion in theſe ancient times of the Church, was neither generally receiued, nor conſtantly maintained: the ſame writer ſometimes being of contrary opinions, as Chryſoſtome: and ſometimes certaine, ſometimes doubtfull, as Auguſtine. Let the indifferent reader iudge therefore, whether you doe impudently affirme your Limbus patrum to be confeſſed and proued of al the ancient writers, or we denie it with Purgatorie, when neither of both is found in the Scriptures, and both by conſequence are contrary to the doctrine of the Scriptures. We may be bold, (I thinke) with modeſtie to ſay, that S. Auguſtine ſaid of a like forged place: Primum enim locum, &c. The firſt place, the faith of Catholikes by diuine auctoritie, hath beleeued to be the kingdome of heauen. The ſecond, hell, where all that forſake or receiue not the faith of Chriſt, ſhall feele eternall puniſhments. Tertium penitus ignoramus, immo nec eſſe in Scripturis ſanctis inuenimus. The third place we are vtterly ignorant of, yea, we finde in the holy Scriptures that it is not. Aug. Hypogroſt.

Rhem. 8. 26. A great chaos.) A great diſtance betwixt Abrahams boſome and the inferiour hel. Some iudge Purgatorie to be placed there, from whence (no doubt) Chriſt alſo deliuered ſome at his deſcending to hel. for, theſe in Abrahams boſome were not in paine: and S. Auguſtine ſaith the Scriptures be plaine that he tooke ſome out of the places of puniſhment, and yet none out of the hell of the damned. What other place then can that be but Purgatorie? Purgatorie. Aug. ep. 99.

Fulke 8. Thoſe that iudge Purgatorie to be placed in this great diſtance, are not worthy the naming. For none of the ancient fathers for 400. yeeres after Chriſt knew Purgatorie, or durſt affirme it. Neither can the Papiſts agree where to place it. Where you make it no doubt that Chriſt by his deſcending, deliuered ſome ſoules out of Purgatorie, there is not one of the ancient fathers that will take your part. Auguſtine whom you name, ſpeaketh not of Purgatorie, but of hell. Sed quæ euidentia, &c. But becauſe euident teſtimonies doe make mention of hell and ſorowes, no cauſe commeth to my minde, why our Sauiour ſhould be thought to haue come thither, but to ſaue them from the ſorowes thereof. But whether all whom he found in them, or ſom whom he iudged worthy of that benefite, I doe yet ſeeke, or am not certaine. Yet I doubt not but he was in hell, and performed this benefit to ſuch as were placed in the ſorowes thereof. Theſe be Auguſtines wordes: but you conclude hereof, that he tooke none out of the hell of the damned: Ergo out of Purgatorie. As though you would inforce Auguſtine to acknowledge your diuiſion of hels, which it is certeine he knew not: for if he had, he needed not to haue doubted, whether Chriſt tooke all or ſome from thence. And as for Purgatorie, he was neuer certeine of it, therefore he coulde not ſpeake ſo reſolutely of it, to ſay that he doubted not, but Chriſt ſaued ſome from the ſorowes of it.

Rhem. 9. 28. Leſt they alſo.) *If the damned had care of their friends alme how and for what cauſe ſoeuer, much more haue the Saincts and ſaued perſons. And if theſe in hel haue meanes to expreſſe their cogitations and deſires, and to be vnderſtood of Abraham ſo far diſtant both by place and condition much rather may the liuing pray to the Saincts and be heard of them: betwixt earth (that is to ſay) the Church militant and heauen, being continual paſſage of ſoules, and * Angels aſcending and deſcending by Iacobs ladder. Men muſt not for al that be curious to ſearch how the ſoules of the deceaſed expreſſe their minds, and be heard one of another, and ſo fall to blaſphemie, as Caluin doth, asking whether their eares be ſo long to heare ſo far of, and wickedly meaſuring al things by mortall mens corporal groſſe manner of vttering conceits one to another, which was not here done by this damned nor by Abraham, with corporal inſtruments of tongue, teeth, and eares: though for the better expreſſing of the damneds caſe, Chriſt vouchſaued to vtter it in termes agreeing to our capacitie.* Saincts doe heare our prayers and haue care of vs. Gen. 32. Caluins blaſphemie. Caluill. 3. Inſtit. c. 22. ſect. 24.

Fulke 9. There is no doubt but charitie remaineth with the Saincts in heauen, but it is ill proued by example of a damned ſpirit in hell. Againe, that loue which they haue, is not now carnal and ſpecial towards their friends in the fleſh, brethren, kinſfolkes and other, but ſpiritual and generall towarde all the elect of God, whom they loue as themſelues. An other concluſion is: If thoſe in hel haue meanes to expreſſe their deſires to Abraham: much rather may the liuing pray to the Saincts and be heard of them. I marueile you doe not inferre, if thoſe in hell haue ſuch charitable affections, much more the Saincts in heauen. But theſe paraboliceall ſpeaches proue no more, then the ende of the parable, namely, that they which in this life refuſe to credite the holy Scriptures, may not looke to be called by any extraordinary viſions or apparitions. And yet if you would inferre rightly, you ſhould make your Argument thus: If damned ſpirits to Saincts far of, can expreſſe their cogitations, much more may Saincts that dwel together vnderſtand one another. As for men liuing, haue no meanes but by audible voice to expreſſe their deſires, which can not aſcend ſo high as the Saincts in heauen, who alſo lacke the naturall inſtruments, whereby ſuch a voyce may be receiued. But you haue a conueyance, by the continuall paſſage of ſoules and Angels, which Auguſtine thinketh in deede, may giue intelligence of ſome things, but not of all things, but onely ſo much as it pleaſeth God that they ſhould knowe. Wherefore it were good firſt to know out of the Scriptures, whether it pleaſe God that Saincts ſhould know ſuch affaires of the liuing. And ſecondly, whether it is his pleaſure, that we ſhould direct our prayers to them. If the Scripture doe reueile neither the one nor the other, how ſhould we knowe what is Gods pleaſure? Yea, ſeeing we haue expreſſe commandement, to call vpon God by Ieſus Chriſt in all our neceſſities, with promiſe that we ſhalbe heard in any requeſt that is meete for vs to atteine: we can not call vpon Saincts without breach of Gods Commandement, and diſtruſt of his promiſe. Yea, ſeeing prayer is a ſacrifice, it is to be offered onely to God, and not to Saincts. They therefore blaſpheme God, which giue the glory which is proper to God vnto creatures, and not Caluine, which denieth that the voyce of our prayers vpon earth, can be heard of Saincts in heauen. As for the ſpeaches vttered by Abraham and the damned ſoule, you might as wel vnderſtand that they were parabolical rather then hiſtorical, as you acknowledge they were not vttered with corporal inſtruments. Prayer to Saincts. Pſal. 50. 1. Iohn 5. 14. Iohn 16. 23. Pſal. 141. 2. Slander.

CHAP. XVII.

So damnable it is to be auctour of a Schiſme, 3 that we muſt rather forgiue be it neuer ſo often. 5 We muſt be feruent in faith, 7 and humble withall, knowing that we are bound to God, and not he to vs. 8 The nine Ieues are vngratefull after that he hath cured their leproſie: but the ſome Samaritane (the one Catholike Church of the Gentiles) far otherwiſe. 20 The Phariſees aſking, when comm. th this kingdom of God (of whoſe approching they had now heard ſo much) he teacheth that God muſt reigne within vs: 22 and warneth vs after his Paſſion neuer to goe out of his Catholike Church for any new ſecret comming of Chriſt that Heretikes ſhal pretend, but onely to expect his ſecond comming in glory, 26 preparing our ſelues vnto it, becauſe it ſhal come vpō many vnprouided, 31 ſpecially through the perſecution of Antichriſt a little before it.

Mt.18,7. Mar.9,42. ‡Not of mere neceſſitie, for then it were no fault, but preſuppoſing the great wickedneſs of men, it is impoſſible but there ſhal be ſcandals and therefore it followeth, Woe to him by whom they come. Mt.18,21.

AND he ſaid to his Diſciples, It is impoſſible that ſcandals ſhould not come: but wo to him by whom they come.

2 It is more profitable for him, if a milſtone be put about his necke, and he be caſt into the ſea, then that he ſcandalize one of theſe litle ones.

3 Looke wel to your ſelues, * If thy brother ſinne againſt thee, rebuke him: and if he doe penance, forgiue him.

4 And if he ſinne againſt thee ſeuen times in a day and ſeuen times in a day be conuerted vnto thee, ſaying, It repenteth me, forgiue him.

5 And the Apoſtles ſaid to our Lord, Increaſe faith in vs.

Mat.17,20. 6 And our Lord ſaid, * If you had faith like to a muſtard ſeede, you might ſay to this mulberie tree, be thou rooted vp, and be tranſplanted into the ſea: and it would obey you.

The fourth part of this Goſpel, The comming of Chriſt into Ieurie towards his Paſſion.

8 And ſaith not to him, Make ready ſupper, and gird thy ſelfe, and ſerue me whiles I eate & drinke, and afterward thou ſhalt eate and drinke?

9 Doeth he giue that ſeruant thankes, for doing the things which he cōmanded him?

10 I trow not. So you alſo, when you ſhal haue done all things that are commaunded you, ſay, We are ‖ vnprofitable ſeruants: we haue done that which we ought to doe.

The Goſpel vpon the 13. Sunday after Pentecoſt.

11 And it came to paſſe, as he went vnto Hieruſalem, he paſſed through the middes of Samaria and Galilee.

12 And when he entred into a certaine towne, there mette him ten men that were lepers, who ſtoode a farre of:

13 And they lifted vp their voice, ſaying, IESVS maiſter, haue mercie on vs.

Leu.14,2. 14 Whome as he ſawe, he ſaide, Goe, * ſhewe your ſelues ‖ to the Prieſtes. And it came to paſſe, ‖ as they went, they were made cleane.

15 And one of them as he ſawe that he was made cleane: went backe with a loude voice magnifying God,

16 And he fell on his face before his feete, giuing thankes: and this was a Samaritane.

17 And

HE * ſaid vnto the diſciples, It can not be but offences will come, neuertheleſſe woe vnto him through whom they come. Mat 18.17. mark.9.42.

2 It were better for him that a milſtone were hanged about his necke, and he caſt into the ſea, then that he ſhould offend one, of theſe litle ones.

*3 Take heede to your ſelues: * If thy brother treſpaſſe againſt thee, rebuke him, and if hee repent, forgiue him.* Matt.18.21.

4 And though hee ſinne againſt thee ſeuen times in a day, and ſeuen times in a day turne againe to thee, ſaying, I repent, thou ſhalt forgiue him.

5 And the Apoſtles ſaid vnto the Lord, Increaſe our faith.

*6 * And the Lorde ſaid, If ye had faith as much as a graine of muſtard ſeede, ye ſhould ſay vnto this Sycamine tree, Be thou plucked vp by the roote, and be thou planted in the ſea, and it ſhould obey you.* Mat.17.20.

7 But which of you, hauing a ſeruant plowing, or feeding cattell, will ſay vnto him by and by when hee were come from the fielde, Goe and ſit downe at the table?

8 And wil not rather ſay vnto him, Dreſſe wherewith I may ſuppe, and girde vp thy ſelfe, and ſerue me, till I haue eaten and drunken: and afterward thou ſhalt eate and drinke?

9 Doeth hee thanke that ſeruant becauſe hee did the things that were commanded vnto him? I trowe not.

10 So likewiſe ye, when ye ſhall haue done all thoſe things which are commaunded you, ſay, We are vnprofitable ſeruants: wee haue done that which was our duetie to doe.

11 And ſo it was, as hee went to Hieruſalem, that he paſſed thorow the middes of Samaria and Galilee.

12 And as he entred into a certaine village, there met him teenne men that were lepers, which ſtoode a farre off, 13 And they put forth their voyces, and ſaid, Ieſus maſter, haue mercie on vs.

*14 When hee ſaw them, he ſaid vnto them, * Goe ſhewe your ſelues vnto the Prieſtes. And it came to paſſe, that as they went, they were cleanſed.* Leuit.14.2.

15 And one of them, when he ſawe that hee was healed, turned backe againe with a loude voyce, glorifying God,

16 And fell downe on his face at his feete, giuing him thankes: and the ſame was a Samaritane.

17 And

17 And IESVS answering saide, Were not ten made cleane? and where are ỹ nine?

18 There was not found that returned,& gaue glorie to God, but this stranger.

19 And he said to him, Arise, goe thy waies: because ‡ thy faith hath made thee safe.

20 And being asked of the Pharisees, When commeth the kingdome of God? he answered them and said, The kingdome of God commeth not with obseruation:

21 Neither shal they say, Loe here, or loe there. for loe ‡ the kingdome of God is within you.

22 And he said to his Disciples, The daies wil come when you shal desire to see one day of ỹ Sonne of man: and you shal not see.

23 *And they wil say to you, Loe here and loe there. ‡ Goe not, neither doe ye followe after.

24 For euen as the lightening that lighteneth from vnder heauen, vnto those partes that are vnder heauen, shineth: so shal the Sonne of man be in his day.

25 But first he must suffer many things and be reiected of this generation.

26 And as it came to passe in the *daies of Noe, so shal it be also in the dayes of the Sonne of man.

27 They did eate and drinke, they did marie wiues & were giuen to mariage euen vntil the day that Noe entred into the arke: and the floud came, and destroyed them al,

28 Likewise as it came to passe in the *daies of Lot: They did eate & drinke, bought and sould, planted, and builded:

29 And in the day that Lot went out from Sodome, it rained fire and brimstone from heauen, and destroyed them all:

30 According to these things it shalbe in the day that ỹ sonne of man shalbe reuealed.

31 In that houre he that shal be in the house-toppe, and his vessel in the house, let him not goe downe to take them vp: and he that is in the field, in like maner let him not returne backe.

33 Whosoeuer seeketh to saue his life, shal lose it: and whosoeuer doth lose the same, shal quicken it.

34 I say to you, in that night there shal be two in one bed: the one shal be taken, and the other shal be left:

19 And he said vnto him, Arise, goe thy way, thy faith hath made thee whole.

20 When he was demaunded of the Pharisees when the kingdome of God commeth, he answering them, said, The kingdome of God commeth not with obseruation.

21 Neither shall they say, Loe here, or loe there: for beholde, the kingdome of God is within you.

22 And he saide vnto the disciples, The dayes will come when ye shall desire to see one day of the Sonne of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 And they shall say to you, See here, see there: goe not after them, nor folowe them.

24 For as the lightning that lightneth out of the one part that is vnder heauen, shineth vnto the other part which is vnder heauen: so shal also the sonne of man be in his day:

30 Euen thus shall it be in the day when the sonne of man is reuealed.

31 At that daie ‖ he which shalbe on the house toppe, and his stuffe in the house, let him not come downe to take it out: and let not him that is in the fielde, turne backe againe likewise to the things that he left behinde. ‖ Or, if any man.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XVII.

Rhem. 1. 19 Thy faith.) And yet we ſee here it was not only faith, but alſo his thankefulnes and returning to giue glorie to God. Faith only.

Fulke. 1. We ſee, that he was whole before he gaue thankes, therefore faith onely made him whole, and that his thankes folowed his faith, as an vnſeparable fruite thereof, not as a cauſe of his healing.

Rhem. 2. 23 Goe not.) No man muſt runne out of the Church after Schiſmatikes to heare them preach Chriſt in corners, Chriſts doctrine being open in al the world, See annot. Mt. 24, 23.

Fulke. 2. No man muſt looke to ſee Chriſt his maker in the Popiſh eleuation, or proceſſion. For Chriſt ſhal not come into this world, ſo often as the Prieſts will conſecrate, but once in the end of the world, with maieſtie and glorie.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XVII.

Rhem. 3. 10 Vnprofitable ſeruants.) If our Sauiour had ſaid that the keeping of Gods commaundements had bene vnprofitable and not auailable to our ſelues, then might the Proteſtants haue truely argued thereby that our workes deſerue not heauen or any reward as Gods hand: but ſo he ſaid not, but that our ſeruice is to God vnprofitable, who calleth for it as duety, and not as a thing needful or profitable to him ſelf. And throgh here our Maiſter teach vs ſo humbly to conceiue of our owne doings toward him, yet him ſelf elſwhere calleth not his ſeruants vnprofitable when they haue done their labour, but ſpeaketh thus, Good and faithful ſeruant, becauſe thou wait faithful in a litle, I wil place thee ouer much: enter into the ioy of thy Lord. Yea of ſuch as ſerue him in the grace of the new Teſtament, he affirmeth that he wil not now name them ſeruants but frends, yea and take them for his owne children, and as his frends and ſonnes he cometh of vs and our workes towards heauen, though we in humilitie and truth muſt confeſſe alwaies that we be to him vnprofitable ſeruants. Yea and S. Paul ſaith plainly, that by cleanſing our ſelues from ſinful workes, we ſhal be profitable veſſels to our lord. 2. Tim. 2, 21. How we are vnprofitable and profitable ſeruants. Mt. 25. 21. Io. 15, 14.

Fulke. 3. A ſeruant by doing his duetie to his Maſter, deſerueth not ſo much as libertie, much leſſe to be his Maſters heyre, ergo the ſeruants of God, doing their duetie, deſerue not to be Gods heyres of the kingdome of heauen, but of his meare ſauour and grace, he giueth it them. Of which alſo he accepteth them not as ſeruants, but as friends, yea as ſonnes and heyres, and their ſeruice being not the thouſand part of their duetie, alſo he accepteth, and rewardeth of his mercie and not of their merite. Neither doeth S. Paule ſay, that by cleanſing our ſelues &c. But if a man ſhall cleanſe him ſelfe: he ſhalbe a profitable veſſel: becauſe the Lord wil acknowledge him as his owne, in whom this effect of his ſpirite worketh this cleanſing. For it is God that worketh in vs both the will, and to be able to doe, any ſuch thing according to his good pleaſure. Phil. 2. 13. Merite.

Rhem. 4. 14 To the prieſts.) This leproſie ſignifieth ſinne, which throgh God may and can heale without any mans meanes, yet he doth it not ordinarily but by the Prieſts miniſterie: therefore let no man deſpiſe Gods ordinance nor ſay that it is ynough to confeſſe to God throgh he neuer come at the prieſt. li. de viſit. infirm. apud Auguſt. Confeſſion to the Prieſt.

Fulke. 4. The leproſie was not healed by the Prieſt, but declared to be healed, ſo are ſinnes declared to be forgiuen by the Prieſt, and not properly forgiuen: Hierom in Math. 16. And where as you ſay, out of the auctor of the booke De viſit infirm. that a man muſt not deſpiſe Gods ordinance, it is true. But both your auctor and you, haue to proue auriculer confeſſion to a Prieſt, to be Gods ordinance. As you acknowledge that booke to be none of Auguſtines, ſo you ſhould haue done well to haue ſignified, as the trueth is, that the auctor was a man neither learned nor eloquent, and that thoſe bookes were moſt impudently aſcribed, to S. Auguſtine: but then your quotation of his auctoritie had bene nothing worth. Remiſſion of ſinnes.

Rhem. 5. 14 As they went.) A man may ſometimes be ſo contrite and penitent, that his ſinne is forgiuen before he come to the Prieſt, but then alſo he muſt notwithſtanding goe to the Prieſt, as theſe lepers did: ſpecially whereas we are neuer ſure how contrite we are, and becauſe there is no true contrition, but with deſire alſo of the Sacrament in time and place.

Fulke. 5. They went not to the Prieſt to be cleanſed, but that they might declare, that they were cleanſed. And therfore this collection, of going to the Prieſt to ſhrift, is vaine and ridiculous: being nothing els, but a beggerly petition of two principles, namely, that neceſſitie of ſhrift is Gods ordinance, and that there is a Sacrament of abſolution. Abſolution of a Prieſt. Confeſſion.

CHAP. XVIII.

The Church is taught to commit the reuenge of her perſecutions to God, and to pray inceſſantly, for he no doubt (though in the perſecution of Antichriſt few wil ſo thinke) wil at length come. 9 We muſt alſo pray with humilitie, becauſe we know not with the Phariſee if we be iuſt, but we know with the Publicane that we be ſinners. 15 He wil haue children to be brought to him, and al to be as children. 18 What is to be done to get life euerlaſting. 22 What alſo, to get perfection. 28 and what reward they ſhal haue that leaue al, yea or any part, for his ſake. 31 he foretelleth of his Paſſion moſt particularly, 33 and entring into Iericho, cureth one blinde man.

AND he ſpake alſo a parable to them that it behoueth ‡ alwayes to pray, and not to be wearie,

2 Saying, there was a certaine iudge in a certaine citie, which feared not God, and of man made no accompt.

AND he put forth a parable vnto them to this end, *that men ought * alwayes to pray,* Matt. 24. 28. and not to be wearie:

2 Saying, There was in a certaine citie a certaine Iudge, which feared not God, neither regarded man.

3 And 3 And

3 And there was a certaine widow in that citie: and ſhe came to him, ſaying, Reuenge me of mine aduerſarie.

4 And he would not of a long time. but afterward he ſaid within him ſelf, Although I feare not God, nor make accompt of man:

5 Yet becauſe this widow is importune vpon me, I wil reuenge her, leſt at the laſt ſhe come and defame me.

6 And our Lord ſaid, Heare what the iudge of iniquitie ſayeth.

7 And wil not God reuenge his elect that crie to him day and night: and wil he haue patience in them?

8 I ſay to you that he wil quickly reuenge them. But yet the Sonne of man comming, ‖ ſhal he finde trow you, faith in the earth?

The Goſpel vpon the 10. Sunday after Pentecoſt.

9 And he ſaid alſo to certaine that truſted in them ſelues as iuſt, and deſpiſed others, this Parable:

10 Two men went vp into the Temple to pray: the one a Phariſee, and the other a Publicane.

11 The Phariſee ſtanding, prayed thus with him ſelf: God, I giue thee thankes that I am not as the reſt of men, extorcioners, vniuſt, aduouterers, as alſo this Publicane.

‡ To take pride of faſting, tithing, or any good worke, is naught: though the workes them ſelues be very good.

12 ‡ I faſt twiſe in a weeke: I giue tithes of al that I poſſeſſe.

13 And the Publicane ſtanding a farre of would not ſo much as lift vp his eies toward heauen: but he ‡ knocked his breaſt, ſaying, God be merciful to me a ſinner.

14 I ſay to you, this man went downe into his houſe iuſtified more then he: becauſe euery one that exalteth him ſelf, ſhal be humbled: and he that humbleth him ſelf, ſhal be exalted.

Mt.19,13. Mr.10,13.

15 * And they brought vnto him infants alſo, that he might touch them. Which thing when the Diſciples ſaw, they rebuked them.

16 But IESVS calling them together, ſaid, Suffer children to come vnto me, and forbid them not, for the kingdom of heauen is for ſuch.

17 Amen I ſay to you, Whoſoeuer receiueth not the kingdom of God ‡ as a childe, ſhal not enter into it.

Mt.19,16. Mr.10,17.

18 * And a certaine Prince asked him, ſaying, Good maiſter, by doing what, ſhal I poſſeſſe euerlaſting life?

19 And IESVS ſaid to him, Why doeſt ‡ call me good? None is good but only God.

Exod.20,13.

20 Thou knoweſt the commaundemēts: Thou ſhalt not kil, Thou ſhalt not commit aduoutrie, Thou ſhalt not beare falſe witnes, Thou ſhalt

3 And there was a certaine widowe in the ſame citie, and ſhe came vnto him, ſaying, ‖ Auenge me of mine aduerſarie:

‖ Or, do me iuſtice againſt mine aduerſarie.

4 And he would not for a while. But afterward he ſaid within himſelfe, Though I feare not God, nor care for man,

5 Yet becauſe this widowe much troubleth me, I will auenge her, leaſt ſhe come at the laſt, and make me weary.

6 And the Lord ſayd, Heare what the vnrighteous Iudge ſaith.

7 And ſhal not God auenge his elect, which crie day and night vnto him, yea, though he deferre them?

8 I tell you that he wil auenge them, and that quickly. Neuertheleſſe, when the Sonne of man commeth, ſhal he finde faith on the earth?

9 And he tolde this parable vnto certaine which truſted in themſelues that they were righteous, and deſpiſed other:

10 Two men went vp into the Temple to pray, the one a Phariſee, and the other a Publicane.

11 The Phariſee ſtoode and prayed thus with himſelfe, God, I thanke thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, vniuſt, adulterers, or as this Publicane, 12 I faſt twiſe in the weeke, I giue tithe of al that I poſſeſſe.

13 And the Publicane ſtanding a farre off, would not lift vp his eyes to heauen: but ſmote vpon his breaſt, ſaying, God be merciful to me a ſinner.

14 I tell you, this man departed home to his houſe iuſtified rather then the other: * For euery one that exalteth him ſelfe, ſhalbe brought lowe: and he that humbleth him ſelfe, ſhall be exalted.

Mar.23.12. luke 14.11.

15 They brought vnto him alſo infants, that he ſhould touch them: when his diſciples ſawe, they rebuked them.

16 But Ieſus, when he had called them vnto him, ſaid, Suffer litle children to come vnto me, and forbid them not: for vnto ſuch belongeth the kingdome of God.

17 Verily I ſay vnto you, Whoſoeuer ſhal not receiue the kingdome of God as a litle childe, ſhal in no wiſe enter therein.

18 And a certaine ruler asked him, ſaying, Good maſter, what ought I to doe to poſſeſſe eternall life?

19 * Ieſus ſaid vnto him, Why calleſt thou me good? None is good, ſaue God onely.

Matt. 19.16.

20 Thou knoweſt the commandements, Doe not commit adulterie, Doe not kill, Doe not ſteale, Doe not beare falſe witneſſe, Honour thy father

Exod.20.13.

ſhalt not ſteale, Honour thy father and mother.

21 Who ſaid, Al theſe things haue I kept from my youth.

22 Which IESVS hearing, ſaid to him, Yet one thing thou lackeſt: ‡ Sel al that euer thou haſt, and giue to the poore, and thou ſhalt haue treaſure in heauen: and come, folowe me.

23 He hearing theſe things, was ſtroken ſad: becauſe he was very riche.

24 And IESVS ſeeing him ſtroken ſad, ſaid, How hardly ſhal they that haue money enter into the kingdome of God?

25 For it is eaſier for a camel to paſſe through the eie of a nedle, then for a riche man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they that heard, ſaid, And who can be ſaued?

27 He ſaid to them, The things that are impoſsible with mē, are poſſible with God.

28 And Peter ſaid, Loe, we haue left al things, and haue folowed thee.

29 Who ſaid to them, Amen I ſay to you, There is no man that hath left houſe, or parents, or brethren, or ‡ wife, or children for the kingdom of God,

30 And ſhal not receiue much more in this time, and in the world to come ‡ life euerlaſting.

The Goſpel vpon the Sunday of Quinquageſime. Mt.20,17. Mr.10,31.

31 * And IESVS tooke the twelue, and ſaid to them, Behold we goe vp to Hieruſalem, and al things ſhal be conſummat which were written by the Prophets of the ſonne of man.

32 For he ſhal be deliuered to the Gentiles, and ſhal be mocked, and ſcourged, and ſpit vpon:

33 And after they haue ſcourged him, they wil kil him, and the third day he ſhal riſe againe.

34 And they vnderſtood none of theſe things and this word was hid from them, & they vnderſtood not ỹ things that were ſaid.

35 And it came to paſſe, when he drew nigh to Iericho, a certaine blind man ſate by the way, begging.

36 And when he heard the multitude paſſing by, he asked what this ſhould be.

37 And they told him that IESVS of Nazareth paſſed by.

38 And he cried ſaying, IESVS ſonne of Dauid, haue mercy vpon me.

39 And they that went before, rebuked him, that he ſhould hold his peace. But he cried much more, Sonne of Dauid haue mercie vpon me.

40 And

thy father and thy mother.

21 And he ſaid, All theſe haue I kept from my youth vp.

22 When Ieſus heard that, hee ſaide vnto him, Yet lackeſt thou one thing: Sell all that thou haſt, and diſtribute vnto the poore, and thou ſhalt haue treaſure in heauen, and come, folowe me,

23 When he heard this, he was very ſorie: for he was very riche.

24 When Ieſus ſawe that he was very ſorie, he ſaid, How hardly ſhal they that haue money, enter into the kingdome of God?

25 For it is eaſier for a Camel to goe thorowe a needles eye, then for a rich man to enter into the kingdome of God.

26 And they that heard it, ſaide, And who then can be ſaued?

27 And he ſaid, The things which are vnpoſsible with men, are poſsible with God.

28 Then Peter ſaid, Loe, we haue forſaken all, and followed thee. Matt.19.27. mar.10.28.

29 He ſaid vnto them, Verily I ſay vnto you, there is no man that hath forſaken houſe, either parents, either brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdome of Gods ſake, 30 Which ſhall not receiue manifolde more in this world, and in the world to come life euerlaſting.

*31 * Ieſus tooke vnto him the twelue, and ſaid vnto them, Beholde, we goe vp to Hieruſalem, and all things ſhal be fulfilled to the ſonne of man that are written by the Prophets.* Matt.20.17. mar.10.32.

32 For he ſhall be deliuered vnto the Gentiles, and ſhall be mocked, and ſpitefully entreated, and ſpitted on:

33 And when they haue ſcourged him, they wil put him to death, and the third day he ſhal riſe.

34 And they vnderſtoode none of all theſe things: and this ſaying was hid from them, ſo that they perceiued not the things which were ſpoken.

*35 * And it came to paſſe, that as hee was come nigh vnto Iericho, a certaine blinde man ſate by the wayes ſide, begging.* Matt.20.29. mar.10.46.

36 And when he heard the people paſſe by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they ſaid vnto him, that Ieſus of Nazareth paſſeth by.

38 And he cried, ſaying, Ieſu, thou ſonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me.

39 And they which went before, rebuked him, that he ſhould hold his peace: but he cried ſo much the more, Thou ſonne of Dauid, haue mercie on me.

40 And

40 And IESVS ſtanding, commaunded him to be brought vnto him. And when he was come neere, he asked him, 41 Saying, What wilt thou that I doe to thee? but he ſayd, Lord, that I may ſee.

42 And IESVS ſayd to him, Do thou ſee, thy faith hath made thee whole.

43 And forthwith he ſaw, and followed him, magnifying God. And all the people as they ſaw it, gaue prayſe to God.

40 And Ieſus ſtaying, commaunded him to be brought vnto him: and when he was come neere, he asked him, 41 Saying, What wilt thou that I ſhall doe vnto thee? And he ſayd, Lord, that I may receiue my ſight.

42 And Ieſus ſayd vnto him, Receiue thy ſight, thy faith hath ſaued thee.

43 And immediatly he receiued his ſight, and folowed him, glorifying God: & all the people when they ſaw it, gaue praiſe vnto God.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XVIII.

Rhem. 1. 1 Alwayes.) We ſhould pray alwayes by faith, hope and charitie, and by working the things that be acceptable to God: though ſpeciall times of vocall prayers in the Canonicall houres be aſſigned for the ſtirring of vs vp to God through externall ſignes of deuotion.

Fulke. 1. We ſhould pray alwayes, not in voyce, but in mind lifted vp to God: as for popiſh canonicall houres, be of ſuperſtition, rather then true deuotion. For all times and places, are allowed for vocall prayer, as you terme it. Superſtitious prayer.

Rhem. 2. 13 Knocked his breaſt.) So doe the prieſts and people at the holy Altar knocke their breaſts, and ſay with the humble Publicane, Deus propitius. Auguſt. pſ. 31. conc. 3.

Fulke. 2. Not as the popiſh prieſts and people knocke and kneele to the idole of the maſſe cake. S. Auguſtine hath neither ſuch words, nor ſuch meaning.

Rhem. 3. 17 As a child.) In matters of faith and religion we muſt be as humble and obedient to the Catholike Church as yong children to their parents.

Fulke. 3. We muſt not be children in vnderſtanding. 1. Cor. 14. 20. which is the marke you ſhoote at, for you would haue men as ready to beleeue, whatſoeuer you tell them, is the doctrine of the church, as children are ready to beleeue euery fable. Ignorance. Credulitie.

Rhem. 4. 20 The commandements.) Not faith only but alſo keeping the commandements purchaſe life euerlaſting. See annot. Mat. 19, 16.

Fulke. 4. Keeping of Gods commandements alone, doth purchaſe life euerlaſting, if a man can keepe them perfectly. But if he once breake one commandement, he hath purchaſed the curſe of God. See alſo Marke 12. ſect. 1.

Rhem. 5. 22 Sell all that euer.) This is not a commaundement or precept, but counſell: which the religious doe folow. See Annot. Mat. 19.

Fulke 5. This was a commaundement to that perſon, but neither commaundement nor counſell to all Chriſtians: neither is it obſerued of popiſh hypocrites, which ſell not all to giue to the poore, but to their friends or cloiſters. Commandement. Counſell.

Rhem. 6. 29 Wife or children.) The Apoſtles among other things left their wiues alſo, as S. Hierome noteth out of this place. li. 1. adu. Ioui.

Fulke. 6. That the Apoſtles left not their wiues, See Matth. 8. ſect. 3.

Rhem. 7. 30 Life euerlaſting.) Life euerlaſting the reward for leauing or looſing willingly our goods for Chriſtes ſake.

Fulke. 7. Life euerlaſting, is the free gift of God in Ieſus Chriſt, Rom. 6. 23. Although God giueth it to them that forſake all things for Chriſt, not as a reward of merite, but as a gift of mercy. Merite.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XVIII.

Rhem. 8. 8 Shall he find faith?) The Luciferians and Donatiſts vſed this place to excuſe their fall from the Church, as our Aduerſaries now doe, ſaying that it was decayed in faith when they forſooke it. To whom we anſwer as S. Hierome and S. Auguſtine anſwered them, that Chriſt ſaith not that there ſhould be no faith left in earth: but by this maner of ſpeach inſinuateth, that at the later day in the great perſecution of Antichriſt faith ſhould be more rare, and the faithfull among ſo many wicked not ſo notorious: ſpecially that perfect faith containing deuotion, truſt, and affection toward God, which our Maiſter ſo praiſed in certaine vpon whom he wrought miracles, and by force whereof mountaines might be moued, which is rare euen when the Church floriſheth moſt. The Church erreth not in faith. Hier. cont. Lucif. c. 6. Aug. de vnit. Ec. c. 15. & de verb. Do. Ser. 16.

Fulke. 8. We ſay not, that the Church euer decaied or ſhall decay in faith: although the Church may erre in matters of doctrine, yet not to leaue the faith in the foundation. But by your owne confeſſion, vnder the tyranny of Antichriſt, faith ſhall be rare, and therefore the faithfull few, and not ſo notorious, among ſo many wicked. Such we ſay was the ſtate of the Church vnder the tyranny of the Pope, which is Antichriſt. Slander.

In Iericho he lodgeth in the houſe of Zacheus a Publicane, and againſt the murmuring Iewes openeth the reaſons of his ſo doing. 11 He ſheweth, that the laſt day ſhould not be yet, 15 and what then in the iudgement he will doe both to vs of his Church as well good as bad, 27 and alſo to the reprobate Iewes. 29 Being now come to the place of his Paſſion, he entreth (weeping and foretelling the deſtruction of it and Hieruſalem) with triumph as their Chriſt. 45 He ſheweth his zeale for the houſe of God, and teacheth therein euery day. 47 The rulers would deſtroy him, but for feare of the people.

The Goſpel vpon the Dedication of a Church.

AND entring in, he walked through Iericho.

2 And behold a man named Zachæus: and this was a Prince of the Publicans, and he rich.

3 And he ſought to ſee IESVS what he was, and he could not for the multitude, becauſe he was litle of ſtature.

4 And running before, he ‖ went vp into a ſycomore tree that he might ſee him: becauſe he was to paſſe by it.

5 And when he was come to the place, IESVS looking vp, ſaw him, and ſaid to him, Zachæus. Zachæus, come downe in haſt: becauſe this day I muſt abide in thy houſe.

6 And he in haſt came downe, and receiued him reioycing.

7 And when all ſaw it, they murmured, ſaying that he turned in, to a man that was a ſinner.

8 But Zachæus ſtanding, ſayd to our Lord, Behold the halfe of my goods, Lord, I giue to the poore: and if I haue defrauded any man of any thing, ‖ I reſtore fourefold.

9 IESVS ſaid to him, That this day ſaluation is made to this houſe: becauſe that he alſo is the ſonne of Abraham.

Mt.18,12. 10 *For the Sonne of man is come to ſeeke and to ſaue that which was loſt.

The Goſpel for a confeſſor that is not a Biſhop, and namely for S. Lewis the king of France. Auguſt. 25. Mt.25,14. 12 He ſayd therefore, *A certaine noble man went into a farre countrey to take to himſelfe a kingdome, and to returne.

13 And calling his ten ſeruants, he gaue them ten pounds, and ſayd to them, Occupie till I come.

14 And his citizens hated him: and they ſent a legacie after him, ſaying, We will not haue this man reigne ouer vs.

15 And it came to paſſe after he returned, hauing receiued his kingdome: and he commaunded his ſeruaunts to be called, to whom he gaue the money: that he might know how much euery man had gained by occupying.

16 And the firſt came, ſaying, Lord, thy pound hath gotten ten pounds.

17 And he ſaid to him, Well fare thee good ſeruant, becauſe thou haſt bene faithfull in a litle, thou ſhalt haue power ouer ‡ten cities.

18 And

AND Ieſus entred in, and went thorow Iericho.

2 And behold, there was a man named Zacheus, which was the chiefe among the Publicanes, and was rich alſo:

3 And he ſought meanes to ſee Ieſus what he ſhould be, and could not for the preaſe, becauſe he was litle of ſtature.

4 And he ranne before, and climed vp into a wilde figge tree, to ſee him: for hee was to come that way.

5 And when Ieſus came to the place, he looked vp and ſaw him, and ſayd vnto him, Zache, come downe at once: for to day I muſt abide at thy houſe.

6 And he came downe haſtily, and receiued him ioyfully.

7 And when they all ſaw it, they murmured, ſaying that he was gone in to tary with a man that is a ſinner.

8 And Zacheus ſtood foorth, and ſaid vnto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the halfe of my goods I giue to the poore, and if I haue taken from any man by forged †cauillation, I reſtore him foure fold. †Or, falſe accuſation.

9 Ieſus ſaid vnto him, This day is ſaluation come to this houſe: becauſe that he is alſo the child of Abraham.

*10 For the ſonne of man is come to ſeeke, and to ſaue that which was loſt.

11 And as they heard theſe things, he added, and ſpake a parable, becauſe he was nigh to Hieruſalem, and becauſe they thought that the kingdome of God ſhould ſhortly appeare.

*12 He ſayd therefore, A certaine noble man went into a farre countrey, to receiue for himſelfe a kingdome, and to come againe. Matt.18 11. Matt.25.14.

13 And when he had called his ten ſeruants, he deliuered them ten †pieces of money, ſaying vnto them, Occupie till I come. †Or, pounds.

14 But his citizens hated him, and ſent a meſſage after him, ſaying, We will not haue this man to reigne ouer vs.

15 And it came to paſſe, that when he had returned, receiuing his kingdome, then hee commaunded theſe ſeruants to be called vnto him, to whom hee had giuen the money, that hee might know how much euery man had gained in occupying.

16 Then came the firſt, ſaying, Lord, thy piece hath gained ten pieces.

17 And he ſayd vnto him, Well, thou good ſeruaunt: becauſe thou haſt bene faithfull in a very litle thing, haue thou authoritie ouer ten cities.

18 And

18 And the ſecond came, ſaying, Lord, thy pound hath made fiue poundes.

19 And he ſayd to him, And be thou ouer fiue cities.

20 And an other came, ſaying, Lord, loe here thy pound, which I haue had laied vp in a napkin.

21 For I feared thee, becauſe thou art an auſtère man: thou takeſt vp that thou didſt not ſet downe, and thou reapeſt that which thou didſt not ſow.

22 He ſaith to him, By thine own mouth I iudge thee, naughtie ſeruant. Thou didſt know that I am an auſtère man, taking vp that I ſet not downe, and reaping that which I ſowed not:

See annotations Matth. 17, 19, &c.

23 And why didſt thou not giue my money to the banke, and I comming might certes with vſurie haue exacted it?

24 And he ſaid to them that ſtoode by, Take the pound away from him, and giue it to him that hath the ten pounds.

25 And they ſaid to him, Lord, he hath ten pounds.

26 But I ſay to you, that to euery one that hath ſhall be giuen: and from him that hath not, that alſo which he hath ſhall be taken from him.

27 But as for thoſe mine enemies that would not haue me reigne ouer them, bring them hither: and kill them before me.

28 And hauing ſaid theſe things, he went before aſcending to Hieruſalem.

31 And if any man aske you, Why looſe you him? You ſhall ſay thus to him, becauſe our Lord needeth his ſeruice.

32 And they that were ſent, went their wayes, and found as he ſayd to them, the colt ſtanding.

33 And when they looſed the colt, the owners thereof ſaid to them, Why looſe you the colt.

34 But they ſaid, Becauſe our Lord hath need of him.

35 And they brought him to IESVS. And caſting their garments vpon the colt, they ſet IESVS thereupon.

36 And

18 And the ſecond came, ſaying, Lord, thy piece hath encreaſed fiue pieces.

19 And to the ſame he ſayd, Be thou alſo ruler ouer fiue cities.

20 And another came, ſaying, Lord, behold, here is thy piece, which I haue layed vp in a napkin:

21 For I feared thee, becauſe thou art a ſtraite man: thou takeſt vp that thou layedſt not downe, and reapeſt that thou diddeſt not ſowe.

22 Then he ſaith vnto him, Of thine owne mouth will I iudge thee, thou euill ſeruaunt: Kneweſt thou that I am a ſtraite man, taking vp that I laied not dowrne, and reaping that I did not ſowe:

23 And wherefore gaueſt not thou my mony into the banke, and at my comming I might haue required mine owne with vantage?

24 And hee ſaid vnto them that ſtoode by, Take from him that piece, and giue it to him that hath ten pieces.

25 And they ſayd vnto him, Lord, he hath ten pieces.

*26 For I ſay vnto you, * That vnto euery one which hath, ſhalbe giuen: and from him that hath not, ſhalbe taken away euen that he hath.* Matt.13.12. and 25.29. mark.4.25. luk.8.18.

27 Moreouer, thoſe mine enemies which would not that I ſhould reigne ouer them, bring hither, and ſlay them before me.

28 And when he had thus ſpoken, hee went forward, aſcending vp to Hieruſalem.

*29 * And it came to paſſe, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethanie, beſides the mount which is called Oliuet, he ſent two of his diſciples,* Matt.21.1. mark.11.1.

31 And if any man aske you, Why do ye looſe him? Thus ſhall ye ſay vnto him, Becauſe the Lord hath need of him.

32 They that were ſent, went their way, and found euen as he had ſayd vnto them.

33 And as they were a looſing the Colt, the owners thereof ſayd vnto them, Why looſe ye the Colt?

34 And they ſayd, For the Lord hath neede of him.

*35 * And they brought him to Ieſus: & their garments being caſt on the Colt, they ſet Ieſus thereon.* Matt.21.7. iohn 12.14.

36 And as he went, they ſpred their garments vnderneath in the way.

37 And when he approched now to the deſcent of mount-Oliuet, all the multitudes

38 Saying, Bleſſed is he that commeth king in the name of our Lord, peace in heauen, and glory on high.

39 And certaine Phariſees of the multitudes ſayd to him, Maiſter, rebuke thy diſciples.

40 To whom he ſayd, I ſay to you, That if theſe hold their peace, the ſtones ſhall cry.

41 And as he drew neere, ſeeing the citie, he wept vpon it, ſaying,

42 Becauſe if thou alſo hadſt knowen, and that in this thy day, the things that pertaine to thy peace: but now they are hid from thine eyes.

43 For ‡the dayes ſhall come vpon thee: and thy enemies ſhall compaſſe thee with a trench, and incloſe thee about, and ſtraiten thee on euery ſide,

44 And beate thee flat to the ground, and thy children that are in thee, and they ſhall not leaue in thee a ſtone vpon a ſtone: becauſe thou haſt not knowen the time of thy viſitation.

45 *And entring into the temple, he begā to caſt out the ſellers therin & the buiers, 46 Saying to them, It is written, That my houſe is the houſe of prayer. But you haue made it a denne of theeues.

47 And he was teaching daily in the temple. And the chiefe Prieſts & the Scribes and the Princes of the people ſought to deſtroy him:

48 And they found not what to doe to him. For all the people was ſuſpenſe hearing him.

36 And as he went, they ſpred their clothes in the way.

37 And when he was now come nigh to the going downe of the mount Oliuet, the whole multitude of the diſciples began reioycing to prayſe God with a lowd voyce, for all the miracles that they had ſeene, 38 Saying, Bleſſed be the king that commeth in the name of the Lord, peace in heauen, and glory in the higheſt.

39 And ſome of the Phariſees of the company ſayd vnto him, Maiſter, rebuke thy diſciples.

40 He anſwering, ſayd vnto them, I tell you, that if theſe would hold their peace, then ſhal the ſtones cry immediatly.

41 And when he was come neere, he beheld the citie, and wept on it,

*42 * Saying, If thou hadſt knowen thoſe things which* belong vnto thy peace, euen in this thy day: but now are they hid from thine eyes. Mat.24.1. mark.13.1.

43 For the dayes ſhall come vpon thee, that thine enemies alſo ſhall caſt a banke about thee, and compaſſe thee round, and keepe thee in on euery ſide,

44 And make thee euen with the ground, & thy children which are in thee: and they ſhall not leaue in thee one ſtone vpon another, becauſe thou knoweſt not the time of thy viſitation.

*45 * And he went into the temple, and began to caſt out them that ſold therein, and them that bought,* Mat.21.12. mark.11.11.

*46 * Saying vnto them, It is written, My houſe is the houſe of prayer: but ye haue made it a denne of theeues.* Eſa.56.7. ierem.7.11.

47 And he taught daily in the temple. But the high prieſts and the Scribes, and the chiefe of the people went about to deſtroy him, 48 And could not finde what to doe: for all the people did hang of him, when they heard him.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. XIX.

Rhem. 1. 17 Ten cities.) Marke here againſt the aduerſaries, that the rewards of theſe two good ſeruants be diuers and vnequall, according to the diuerſitie or inequalitie of their gaines, that is, their merites, and yet one receiueth the peny (Mt. 20,9.) as well as the other, that is, heauen or life euerlaſting.

Fulke. 1. The diuerſitie of the rewards we acknowledge, which are according to the diuerſitie of his gifts. For of his mercy he crowneth his giftes, not our merites. Auguſt. in Pſal. 70. conc. 1. Otherwiſe euery child may conceiue, that the gayne of ten pounds, doth not deſerue the gouernment of ten cities. Merite.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XIX.

Rhem. 2. 4 Went vp.) Not onely inward deuotion of faith and charitie towards Chriſt Iesu, but external offices of ſeeing, following, touching, receiuing, harbouring him, are recommended to vs in this example: euen ſo our manifold exteriour deuotion towards his Sacraments, Saincts and ſeruants, be gratefull: ſpecially the endeuour of good people not only to be preſent at Maſſe or in the Church, but to be neere the B. Sacrament, and to ſee it with all reuerence and deuotion according to the order of the Church, much more to receiue it into the houſe of their body. Externall deuotion.

Externall

Fulke. 2. Externall offices done to Chriſtes perſon by thoſe that beleeued in him, were acceptable to him, otherwiſe not. Herod deſired to ſee Chriſt, the multitude followed him, and thronged him, which after were ready to crie Crucifie him. The Phariſees diuers times interteined him, Iudas kiſſed him. But whereas you ſay, the externall offices of deuotion, &c. are recommended to vs for example: we know he hath recommended the poore afflicted for his ſake to be releeued, but not to be honored in all reſpects as his perſon was, of them who acknowledged him to be the ſonne of the liuing God. As for his ſacraments and ſaincts, require no ſuch externall offices, neither are they acceptable to him or his ſaincts. As for the preaſing of ſuperſtitious papiſts, to be neere the idoll of the maſſe, and to ſee it held vp or caried about, contrary to the inſtitution of the bleſſed ſacrament, hath no colour of defence by example of Zacheus who deſired to ſee Chriſt, no although Chriſt were as verely to be ſeene in the ſacrament, as he was in the way, ſeeing this ſacrament was ordeined to be eaten and drunken, not to be gaſed and looked vpon. Superſtition.

Rhem. 3. 8. I reſtore foure fold.) That which we giue of our owne, is almes and ſatisfaction for our ſinnes: but that which we reſtore of il gotten goods by Extortion, Vſurie, Simonie, Bribrie, Theft, or otherwiſe, that is called here Reſtoring. And it is of ducty and not of free almes, and muſt be rendred not to whom we liſt, but to the parties anoyed if it be poſſible, otherwiſe it muſt be beſtowed vpon the poore, or other good vſes, according to the aduiſe of our ſuperiour and ſuch as haue charge of our ſoules. But that he yelded foure fold, that was more then he was bound, but very ſatisfactorie for his former ſinnes alſo. And herewith we may note, that it is not the giuing of a peny, grote, or crowne, of a riche mans ſuperfluitie, that is ſo much recommended to ſinners for redeeming their faultes: but this large beſtowing vpon Chriſt, to ſell al and giue it in almes, to giue the moytie of our goodes, to render foure times ſo much for that which is wrongfully gotten, that extinguiſheth ſinnes. The poore widowes braſſe peny was very grateful, becauſe it was al or much of that ſhe had: but the riche mans pound of his ſuperfluitie, though it be good, yet is not hing ſo grateful. Reſtitution. Satisfaction.

Fulke. 3. Almes and all other deedes of charitie, are a duety of thankfulneſſe for ſinnes forgiuen, no ſatisfaction, as is manifeſt by the parable of the ſeruant, that ought tenne thouſand talents: Matth. 6. 18. But in your diſcourſe of reſtitution, you open a great myſterie of iniquitie, whereby the Ieſuites, Seminaries, and other broodes of treaſon and impietie are mainteined, & not of the popes meere liberalitie. For while you teach reſtitution to be neceſſary (which all good men doe acknowledge) you haue found out a caſe wherby infinite maſſes of monie may be brought to the popes diſpoſition, and ſuch as be factours vnder him. For if the parties iniuried, be not knowne, dead, or otherwiſe not to be ſatisfied, you determine, that the goods ill gotten, muſt be beſtowed on the poore, or vpon good vſes, and that is not amiſſe. But you will not truſt the conſcience of the wrong doer, to beſtow it as he liſt, but according to the aduiſe of your ſuperiour, which is the pope and his clergie, which haue cure of ſoules. So that while you challenge to the Pope and your ſelues, the diſpoſition of goods gotten wrongfully, you take vpon you an office farre woorſſe then Iudas exerciſed, and by this meanes, ill gotten goods are woorſſe beſtowed, to maintcine treaſons, hereſies, and trecherie, and if need be, open warres againſt Chriſtian princes. But why I pray you, if the Extortioner, Vſurer, Simoniake, Briber &c. haue the conſcience to reſtore where he can not to the parties iniuried, which ought firſt to be regarded, may he not beſtow it vprightly and ſincerely vpon the poore, or other good vſes? Or if he lacke aduiſe, why may he not take it of godly and wiſe men, though they haue not the charge of his ſoule, and though the Pope neuer heare of it? But whereas Zacheus reſtored foure folde, it was not for ſatisfaction of his ſinnes, but a fruite of his true repentance, whereby he declared, that the iniurie he had done to any man, diſpleaſed him ſo much, that he accounted it no better then theft, and therfore was content to reſtore, as if he had beene conuicted of theft. Therefore, where you come in with large beſtowing vpon Chriſt of all, or a moitie, or foure fold reſtitution, deſpiſing the rich mans penie, groate, or crowne, you plead well for Corban, and yet you are content to play ſmall game, and to take euen the poore widdowes mite, if ſhe haue no more, or not much more to giue, not contemning the rich mans pound. But why did not Chriſt challenge the diſpoſition of this foure folde reſtitution, that Iudas might haue had the fingering of it? Or by what right may Chriſtes good vicar challenge that Chriſt did not? At leſt wiſe, if Chriſt could not intend it, why did he not commit the diſpoſition of it to Perer, as his deputie in thoſe weighttie caſes of conſcience, reſerued to his owne iuriſdiction? we know that liberall almes of a cheerefull giuer pleaſeth God, as a fruite of faith, and ſhall haue great reward. He is blinde that can not ſee, as well in this place, as in diuers other, how vnder colour of merit, ſatisfaction, extinguiſhing of ſinne, and laſt of all, of reſtitution, you ſeeke not only to deuoure poore widowes houſes, but to be Lords of rich vſurers and oppreſſors goods. The pope chalengeth the diſpoſition of good ill gotte.

22 Is it lawful for vs to giue tribute to Cæſar, or no?

23 But conſidering their guile, he ſaid to them, Why tempt you me?

Paul vſeth ſo, as the aduerſaries owne Engliſh Teſtaments do teſtifie, reading thus Heb.10.* Of how much ſorer puniſhment ſhal he be worthie, which &c. *and it muſt needes ſo ſignifie, becauſe men for ſinnes are not only counted, but are in deede worthie puniſhment, as themſelues do graunt. Fulke.2. The ſcriptures neuer affirme, that good men by their works, merits, or deſerts, are worthy of heauen: but only by the grace of God in Chriſt Ieſus. In whom they are accepted as worthie. And that mans works, done by Chriſtes grace, doe condignely or worthely deſerue eternall ioy, it is contrary to the opinion of the beſt of the ſchole men, who vpon the ſaying of S. Paule Rom.8. The ſufferings of this life, are not worthie or condigne &c. inuented the diſtinction of Congruum and Condignum. But to examine your texts of ſcripture, which you bring to prooue your new poperie. The firſt being no canonicall ſcripture, muſt either be vnderſtood according to the perpetuall doctrine of the canonicall ſcripture, or els be reiected. By faith therefore, which is tried in temptation, they were found worthy, & not of the merit of their works. And though he that loueth his father more then Chriſt, is not worthy of him, yet it followeth not, that he which loueth Chriſt more then his father, is worthy of Chriſt. For our ſinnes doe properly deſerue Gods wrath, but our good workes, becauſe they are not perfect, nor ours, but Gods gifts in vs, deſerue not to vs Gods fauor & grace, which is freely giuen. Thirdly S. Paule prayeth that the Coloſſions may walke worthie of God, according to his acceptation, not according to the merit of their good works in this life, but that at the length, they may be made worthy in Chriſt their redeemer, by whom they obteine remiſſion of their ſinnes. Fourthly, Chriſt ſheweth not what the faithfull are by the merit of their workes, but by acceptation of his grace, through his merits: therefore they are not called worthy, as Chriſt is called worthy Apoc.5.12. for it is ſaid before expreſly, verſ.4. that none was found worthy to open the booke, and to read it: But the words you cite, be Apoc.4.11. and are ſpoken of the Godhead himſelfe. Behold into what horrible blaſphemy you runne, while you mainteine the merit of mans workes (though done by the grace of Chriſt) to make men as woorthy of the ioyes of heauen by them: as God is of glory, power, and maieſtie of his owne nature. And whereas you ſay it is all one, to be counted woorthie, and to be woorthie in deed by the Greeke, it is falſe. For though in one of our Engliſh tranſlations it be once ſo tranſlated, peraduenture the word (counted) being omitted through ouerſight, yet the wicked are not vniuſt onely by imputation, but by merit of ſinne and vnrighteouſneſſe that is inherent: whereas the righteous are not perfectlie iuſt, by merit of iuſtice inherent, but by imputation of the righteouſneſſe of Chriſt through faith. Neither are we ſo ignorant of the ſcripture, but that we know the dignitie of Gods grace, whereby not onelie we are accepted,but alſo our labours rewarded,but altogether of the grace of God, and not of the merite of our works,which are not made worthy of reward,(for then they ſhould be perfect,) but in the merites & worthines of Chriſt,are compted worthy of eternall life.

Rhem. 3. 36. Equal to Angels.) Saincts of our kinde,now in their ſoules,and after their reſurrection in body and ſoule together,ſhal be in al things equal to Angels: and for degree of bliſſe,many Saincts of greater merite ſhal be aboue diuers Angels: as S Iohn Baptiſt,the Apoſtles,and others,and our B.Lady aboue al the orders of holy ſpirits in dignitie and bliſſe. and no marueil,our nature by Chriſt being ſo highly exalted aboue al Angels. The dignitie of Saincts.

Fulke 3. Our Sauiour ſayth not,that the Saincts are now, but after the reſurrection they ſhall be equall to the Angels.Neither ſayth he,in all things,but in that,they ſhall haue no neede or vſe of mariage. That any Saincts,as the B.Virgine Marie,Iohn Baptiſt,the Apoſtles, ſhall be aboue all Angels in dignitie, the Scripture doth not teach,therefore it is preſumptuouſly,and blindly,though neuer ſo boldly,affirmed. The Saincts departed not like the Angels in all points.

30 When they ſhoote forth their buddes, ye beholding, know of your owne ſelues that ſommer is then nigh at hand.

31 So likewiſe ye, when ye ſee theſe things come to paſſe, be ye ſure that the kingdom of God is nigh.

32 Verily I ſay vnto you, this generation ſhal in no wiſe paſſe, till all be fulfilled.

33 Heauen

33 Heauen and earth ſhal paſſe: but my wordes ſhal not paſſe.

34 And looke wel to your ſelues, leſt perhaps your harts be ouercharged with ſurfetting and drunkenneſſe & cares of this life: and that day come vpon you ſodenly.

35 For as a ſnare ſhal it come vpon al that ſit vpon the face of al the earth.

36 Watch therfore, praying at al times, that you may be c accounted worthie to eſcape al theſe things that are to come, and to ſtand before the Sonne of man.

37 And the daies he was teaching in the temple: but the nightes going forth, he abode in the ‡ mount that is called Oliuet.

38 And al the people in the morning went vnto him in the temple to heare him.

33 Heauen & earth ſhal paſſe, but my words ſhal in no wiſe paſſe.

34 Take heede to your ſelues, leſt at any time your hearts be ouercome with ſurfe:ting, and drunkenneſſe, and cares of this life, and ſo that day come vpon you vnawares.

35 For as a ſnare ſhall it come on al them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 Watch ye therefore, at all times praying, that ye may be accompted worthie to eſcape all theſe things that ſhal come, and that ye may ſtand before the ſonne of man.

37 In the day time he was teaching in the temple, and at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called Oliuet.

38 And all the people came earely in the morning to him in the Temple, for to heare him.

*Iudas doth ſell him to the Iewes. 7 After the old Paſchal, 19 he giueth to his diſciples the bread of life in a myſtical *ſacrifice of his body and blood, for an euerlaſting commemoration of his Paſſion. 21 He couertly admoniſheth the traitour. 24 Againſt their ambitious contention he ſheweth them that the maioritie of any among them in this world is for their ſeruice, as his owne alſo was: 28 and how he wil exalt them al in the world to come: 31 foretelling Peter the ſingular priuilege of his faith neuer failing, 33 and his three negations: 35 and how they ſhal al now be put to their ſhifts. 39 And that night, after his praier with ſweating of blood, 47 he is taken of the Iewes men, Iudas being their captaine: yet ſhewing them both by miracle and word, that they could doe nothing vnto him but by his owne permiſſion. 54 Then in the cheefe Prieſtes houſe he is thrife denied of Peter, 63 ſhamefully abuſed of his keepers, 66 and in the morning impiouſly condemned of their Counſel, for confeſſing him ſelf to be the Sonne of God.

29 And I diſpoſe to you, as my father diſpoſed to me, a kingdome:

THVRSDAY night. Mat.26,36. Mar.14,32. Io.18,1.

39 *And going forth he went according to his cuſtome into mount Oliuet. And his Diſciples alſo folowed him.

40 And when he was come to the place, he ſaide to them, Pray, leſt ye enter into tentation.

41 And he was pulled away from them a ſtones caſt: and kneeling he prayed, 42 Saying, Father, if thou wilt, transferre this chalice from me. But yet not my wil, but thine be done.

43 And there appeared to him an Angel from heauen, ſtrengthening him. And being in an agonie, he prayed the longer.

44 And his ſweat became as droppes of blood trikling downe vpon the earth.

45 And when he was riſen vp from prayer, and was come to his Diſciples, he founde them ſleeping for penſifenes.

46 And

teſt among you ſhall be as the yonger, and he that is chiefe, ſhall be as he that doeth miniſter.

27 For whether is greater, he that ſitteth at meate, or he that ſerueth? Is not he that ſitteth at meate? But I am among you as hee that miniſtreth.

28 Ye are they which haue continually bidden with me in my temptations.

29 And I appoint vnto you a kingdome, as my father hath appointed vnto me,

*30 That ye may eate and drinke at my table in my kingdome, * and ſit on ſeates, iudging the twelue tribes of Iſrael.* Mat.19.28.

*31 And the Lord ſaide, Simon, Simon, beholde, Satan hath earneſtly deſired to ſift you, as it were wheate: 1.Pet.5.8.

32 But I haue prayed for thee, that thy faith ſhoulde not faile, and when thou art conuerted, ſtrength thy brethren.

33 And he ſaid vnto him, Lord, I am ready to goe with thee both into priſon, and to death.

*34 And he ſaide, I tell thee Peter, the Cocke ſhall in no wiſe crowe this day, before that thou ſhalt thriſe denie that thou kneweſt me. Mat.26.34. mar.14.30. iohn 13.38.

*35 And he ſaid vnto them, When I ſent you without wallet, and ſcrip, and ſhoes, lacked ye any thing? And they ſaid, No. Mat.10.9.

36 Then ſaid he vnto them, But nowe he that hath a wallet, let him take it vp, and likewiſe his ſcrippe: and he that hath none, let him ſell his coate, and buy a ſworde.

*37 For I ſay vnto you, that yet the ſame which is written muſt be performed in me, which is, * Euen among the wicked was he reputed: For thoſe things which are written of me, haue an ende.* Eſa.53.12.

38 And they ſaid, Lord, beholde, here are two ſwordes. And he ſaid vnto them, It is ynough.

*39 * And he came out, and went as he was wont to mount Oliuet, and his Diſciples folowed him.* Mat.26.36. mar.14.32.

*40 * And when he came to the place, he ſaid vnto them, Pray, leſt ye fall into temptation.* Mat.26.41. mar.14.38.

41 And he was pulled away from them about a ſtones caſt, and kneeled downe, and prayed, 42 Saying, Father, if thou wilt, remoue this cup from me, neuertheleſſe, not my will, but thine be done.

43 And there appeared an Angel vnto him from heauen, comforting him.

44 And he was in an agonie, and he prayed more earneſtly, and his ſweate was like droppes of blood, trickling downe to the ground.

45 And when he roſe vp from prayer, and was come to his diſciples, he found them ſleeping for heauineſſe.

46 And he ſaid to them, Why ſleepe you? ariſe, pray, leſt you enter into tentation.

47 As he was yet ſpeaking, beholde a multitude: and he that was called Iudas, one of the Twelue, went before them, and approched to IESVS, for to kiſſe him.

48 And IESVS ſaide to him, Iudas with a kiſſe doeſt thou betray the ſonne of man?

49 And they that were about him, ſeeing what would be, ſaide to him, Lord, ſhall we ſtrike with the ſword?

50 And one of them ſmote the ſeruant of the high Prieſt: and cut of his right eare.

51 But IESVS anſwering, ſaide, Suffer ye thus farre. And when he had touched his eare, he healed him.

52 And IESVS ſaide to them that were come vnto him, the chiefe Prieſtes, and magiſtrates of the temple, and auncients, As it were to a theefe are you come foorth with ſwordes and clubbes?

53 When I was dayly with you in the temple, you did not lay handes vpon me, but this is your houre, and the power of darknes.

54 And apprehending him, they led him to the high Prieſts houſe: but Peter folowed a farre of.

55 And a fire being kindled in ỹ middes of the court, and they ſitting about it, Peter was in the middes of them.

56 Whom when a certaine wench ſawe ſitting at the light, and had behelde him, ſhe ſaid, This fellowe alſo was with him.

57 But he denied him, ſaying, Woman, I knowe him not.

58 And after a while an other man ſeeing him, ſaide, And thou art of them. But Peter ſaid, O man I am not.

59 And after the ſpace as it were of one houre, a certaine other man affirmed, ſaying, Verely this fellowe alſo was with him, for he is alſo a Galilæan.

60 And Peter ſaide, Man I knowe not what thou ſayeſt. And incontinent as hee was yet ſpeaking, the cocke crewe.

61 And our Lord turning looked on Peter. And Peter remembred the worde of our Lord, as he had ſaide, That before the cocke crow, thou ſhalt thriſe deny me.

62 And Peter going forth a doores, wept bitterly.

63 And the men that helde him, mocked him, beating him.

64 And they did blindfold him, & ſmote his face. And they asked him ſaying, Prophecie, who is it that ſmote thee?

65 And

46 And ſaid vnto them, Why ſlepe ye? Riſe, and pray, leſt ye fall into temptation.

47 While he yet ſpake, beholde, *there came a companie, and he that was called Iudas, one of the twelue, went before them, and preaſſed nigh vnto Ieſus, to kiſſe him. Mat.26.47. mar.14.43. iohn 18.3.

48 But Ieſus ſaide vnto him, Iudas, betrayeſt thou the ſonne of man with a kiſſe?

49 When they which were about him, ſawe what would folowe, they ſaid vnto him, Lord, ſhall we ſmite with ſword?

50 And one of them ſmote the ſeruant of the high Prieſt, and tooke away his right eare.

51 Ieſus anſwered, and ſaide, Suffer ye thus farre foorth. And when he touched his eare, he healed him.

52 Then Ieſus ſaid vnto the high Prieſts and †rulers of the temple, and the elders which were come to him, Be ye come out as vnto a thiefe, with ſwordes and ſtaues? †Or, captaines.

53 When I was dayly with you in the temple, ye ſtretched forth no hands againſt me: But this is euen your very houre, and the power of darkeneſſe.

*54 Then tooke they him, and led him, and brought him to the high Prieſtes houſe, and Peter folowed a farre off. Mat.26.57. mar.14.53. iohn 18.24.

*55 * And when they had kindled a fire in the middes of the hall, and were ſet downe together, Peter alſo ſate downe among them.* Mat.26.69. mar.14.66. iohn 18.16.

56 But when a certaine wenche beheld him as he ſate by the fire, and earneſtly looked vpon him, ſhe ſaide, This ſame felowe was alſo with him.

57 And he denied him, ſaying, Woman, I knowe him not.

58 And after a while another ſawe him, and ſaide, Thou art alſo of them. And Peter ſaide, Man, I am not.

59 And about the ſpace of an houre after, an other affirmed, ſaying, Verily this felowe was with him alſo: for he is of Galilee.

60 And Peter ſaide, Man, I wote not what thou ſayeſt. And immediatly while he yet ſpake, the Cocke crewe.

*61 And the Lorde turned backe, and looked vpon Peter: and Peter remembred the word of the Lorde, howe he had ſaide vnto him, * Before the Cocke crowe, thou ſhalt denie me thriſe.* Mat.26.34. iohn 30.31.

62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

63 And the men that held Ieſus, mocked him, and ſmote him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they ſtrooke him on the face, and asked him, ſaying, Areede, who is it that ſmote thee?

65 And

65 And blaſpheming many other things they ſaid againſt him.

66 And when it was day, there aſſembled the auncients of the people & cheefe Prieſts and Scribes, and they brought him into their councel, ſaying,

67 If thou be Chriſt tell vs. And he ſaide to them, If I tel you, you wil not beleeue me:

68 If alſo I aske, you will not anſwere me, nor dimiſſe me.

69 But from hence forth ỹ Sonne of man ſhalbe ſitting on the right hand of the power of God.

70 And they all ſaide, Art thou then the ſonne of God? Who ſaid, You ſay that I am.

71 But they ſaide, What neede we teſtimonie any further? For our ſelues haue heard of his owne mouth.

65 And many other thinges blaſphemouſly ſpake they againſt him. Mat.27.1. mar.15.1. iohn 18.28.

*66 And as ſoone as it was day, the elders of the people, and the high Prieſtes, and the Scribes came together, and led him into their councell, ſaying,

67 Art thou very Chriſt? Tell vs. And he ſaid vnto them, If I tell you, you will not beleeue in any wiſe.

68 And if I aske you, you will not in any wiſe anſwere me, nor let me goe.

69 Hereafter ſhall the ſonne of man ſit on the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then ſaid they al, Art thou then the ſonne of God? He ſaid, Ye ſay that I am.

71 And they ſaide, What neede we any further witneſſe? For we our ſelues haue heard of his owne mouth.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. XXII.

Rhem. 1. 20. THIS IS THE CHALICE.) The Greeke is here ſo plaine, that there was very blood in the chalice, ſhed for vs, that Beza ſaith it is a corruption in the Greeke. See the Annota. vpon this place.

Fulke 1. The Greeke maketh nothing for very blood in the chalice, but ſpeaketh of the blood of Chriſt, ſhed vpon the Croſſe: for in the chalice it was not ſhed, but the cuppe is the newe Teſtament, in the blood of Chriſt, ſhed vpon the Croſſe, for the redemption of the world. Real preſence.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXII.

Rhem. 2. 15. With deſire I haue deſired.) This great deſire he had to eate this Paſchal lambe, was not for it ſelfe, which he had celebrated many yeeres before: but becauſe he meant immediatly after the Paſchal of the Law was ſacrificed and eaten, to inſtitute the other newe Paſchal in the oblation and eating of his owne body, by which the olde Paſchal ſhould ende and be fulfilled, and in which the olde Teſtament and Lawe ceaſing, the Kingdome of God (which is the ſtate of the newe Teſtament and of his Church) ſhould begin. For, the very paſſage from the olde Lawe to the newe was in this one ſupper. The olde Paſchal ceaſeth, and a newe is inſtituted.

Fulke. 2. Chriſt our paſchal Lambe, was ſacrificed on the Croſſe, where he was ſlaine for vs, 1.Cor.5.7. A ſacrament and memoriall of which oblation, he inſtituted in his laſt ſupper. The Sacrament no ſacrifice propitiatorie.

Rhem. 3. 17. Taking the chalice.) This chalice according to the very euidence of the text it ſelfe alſo, is not the ſecond part of the Holy Sacrament, but that ſolemne cuppe of wine which belonged as a libamente to the offering and eating of the Paſchal Lambe. Which being a figure ſpecially of the holy Chalice, was there drunken by our Sauiour, and giuen to the Apoſtles alſo, with declaration that it ſhould be the laſt cuppe of the Lawe, not to be drunken any more, till it ſhould be drunken newe in the kingdome of God, that is to ſay, in the celebration of the B. Sacrament of his blood of the new Teſtament. And by this place it ſeemeth very like that the wordes in S. Matthewe. I will not drinke of the fruite of the vine &c. were pertayning to this cup of the olde Lawe, and not to the Holy Sacrament, though they be there by repetition or recapitulation ſpoken after the holy Chalice. Two cuppes or chalices at Chriſtes laſt ſupper. Mat.26.29.

Fulke. 3. Whether there were two cuppes diuided, or one onely whereof S. Luke ſpeaketh here by anticipation, certaine it is, by S. Matthewe and S. Marke, and the conſent of all the auncient writers, that thoſe wordes, I will not drinke of the fruite of the vine, were ſpoken of the cup of the newe Teſtament. And although they were not, yet you could not ſo auoid the fruit of the vine: for according to your owne expoſition, he did drinke the fruite of the vine nowe in the kingdome of God, which is the celebration of the B. Sacrament of his blood in the newe Teſtament. Tranſubſtantiation.

Rhem. 4. 19. This is my body.) Although ſenſe tell thee it is bread, yet it is the body, according to his wordes. let faith confirme thee, iudge not by by ſenſe, after the wordes of our Lord let no doubt riſe in thy mind. Cyril. Myſt. 4. Of the veritie of fleſh and blood there is left no place to doubt: by the profeſſion of our Lorde him ſelfe and by our faith it is fleſh and blood in deede. Is not this trueth? To them be it vntrue, which denie IESVS CHRIST to be true God. Hilar. Lib. 8. de Trinit. The reall preſence.

Fulke. 4. As the bread of the Euchariſt, after the inuocation of the Holy Ghoſt, is no more common bread, but is the body of Chriſt, ſo alſo this holy ointment, is no more bare ointment, nor (if a man had rather ſo cal it) cõmon ointment, after it is conſecrated, but it is the gratious gift of Chriſt, which through the comming of the holy Ghoſt to it, by his diuinitie hath power to worke, Cyril. Myſt. 3. As the ointment is the grace or gift of Chriſt, ſo the ſacrament is the body of Chriſt by his iudgement, nor any other tranſubſtantiation in the one, then in the other. Of the veritie of Chriſtes fleſh and blood, we doubt not: neither do we doubt, But that the ſame being eaten and drunken, do bring to paſſe, that both Chriſt is in vs, and we in Chriſt: which words becauſe you denie the ſenſe of them, you haue gelded out of S. Hilaries ſaying: which declare that he ſpeaketh of a ſpirituall maner of eating, as he ſayeth before: We doe truely vnder a myſterie, receiue the fleſh of his body, and thereby wee ſhall be one, becauſe the father is in him, and he in vs. Real preſence. Chriſt ſacrificed his body and blood in Sacrament at his ſupper.

Rhem. 5. The ſacrifice of the Altar. 19. Which is giuen.) *As the former worde is make and proue his body preſent, ſo theſe wordes plainely ſignifie, that it is preſent, as giuen, offered or ſacrificed for vs: and being vttered in the * preſent tence, it ſignifieth not onely that it ſhould afterward be giuen or offred on the Croſſe, but that it was then alſo in the Sacrament giuen & offred for vs. Where-*

The Sacrifice of the Altar. Cyril.Alex. anathem.11.

Fulke.5. The former wordes proue no preſence, but myſticall and ſacramentall, yet that Chriſt is truely receiued of the faithfull. The worde of the preſent temps, which is giuen, ſignifieth, that the body of Chriſt was then giuen to be offered on the Croſſe, and not in the Sacrament. For Chriſt offered him ſelfe but once, like as he dyed but once, and by one oblation found eternall redemption, and made perfect for euer thoſe that are ſanctified. Hebre.7. 27.cap.9.12.25.26.28.cap.10.10.12.14. Againſt theſe plaine teſtimonies of the Scripture, what blaſphemie is it to ſay, he offered him ſelfe twiſe, dyed twiſe, ſhedde his blood in ſacrifice twiſe? yea to ſet vp a continuall repetition of that ſacrifice which was ſingular, becauſe once offered it was ſufficient, which none coulde offer but him ſelfe, who is an eternall Prieſt voide of ſinne, immortall, and which he offered by his eternall ſpirite, Hebr.7.24.26.27.28.cap.9.14. And therefore the holy Fathers of the Primitiue Church, doe not call the celebration of the Lordes Supper a ſacrifice in that ſenſe, you ſay, but becauſe a ſpirituall ſacrifice of thankes giuing is offered therein: and vnproperly, becauſe it is a memorie of the onely ſacrifice of Chriſt offered on the Croſſe. Not one of them ſaith it is a ſacrifice propitiatorie, or that Chriſt offered him ſelfe twiſe, or died twiſe for vs. No not Gregory Nyſſen, whom you place in the firſt ranke, becauſe he ſeemeth to ſay moſt for you: for his ſcope is to proue, that Chriſt ſuffered death of his owne will, not by neceſſitie of nature, or malice of his enemies, and therefore he ſayth: He taried not for the neceſſitie that hung ouer him of Iudas treaſon, nor the violence of the Iewes, as theeues, nor the vniuſt ſentence of Pilate, that their malice ſhoulde be the beginning and cauſe of the common ſaluation of men: but preuented it by his owne purpoſe, and by a ſecrete kinde of ſacrifice, which coulde not be ſeene of men, he offereth himſelfe a ſacrifice for vs, and ſacrificeth an oblation, being both the Prieſt and the Lambe of God, which taketh away the ſinne of the worlde. When did he performe that? when he gaue to his Diſciples being gathered together, his body to be eaten, and his blood to be drunken, then he openly declared, that the ſacrifice of the Lambe was already finiſhed. For the body of a ſacrifice is not meete to be eaten if it be liuing: wherefore when he gaue his body to be eaten, and his blood to be drunken vnto his Diſciples, his body was already offered by a ſecrete and inuiſible meanes, as is pleaſed the power of him, that worketh the myſterie. And his life was in them in whom the ſame power layed it downe, and together with the diuine vertue that was ioyned with it, was in that region of the heart. Therefore if any man will beginne to meaſure the time from thence, when the ſacrifice was made to God by that great high Prieſt, which by a meane that could not be expreſſed in words, nor ſeene with eyes, offered as it were a Lambe, he ſhall not depart from the trueth. Theſe words of Nyſſen declare, that Chriſt in purpoſe of his death, offered him ſelfe to God, before he was ſlaine of the Iewes: not that he inſtituted a ſacrifice to be offered of others: ſignifying, that the actuall oblation of him ſelfe on the Croſſe, was the execution of that he purpoſed before, and not of the malice of his enemies, as it was a ſacrifice. Alſo he ſheweth, that this myſticall ſacrifice in purpoſe and will, was offered by him ſelfe, and coulde be offered by none other, no more then the execution thereof by his actuall death. Therefore, though in ſhewe of his wordes, you dreame of great ayde, yet in ſubſtance of matter he helpeth you nothing at all: but if he be well marked, maketh much againſt you. Leo in neither of both the ſermons, calleth the Lordes Supper a ſacrifice, but ſpeaketh of the onely ſacrifice of Chriſt, offered on the Croſſe. In the former he ſayth, that Ieſus being certaine of his purpoſe, and voide of feare in the worke of his fathers diſpoſition finiſhed the old Teſtament, and did erect a newe Paſchal: For when his Diſciples ſate downe with him to eate the myſticall Supper, while in Caiphas hall, they were treating how Chriſt might be ſlaine: he ordeyning the ſacrament of his body and blood, did teache what maner of ſacrifice ſhoulde be offered, not remouing from this myſterie the very traytour. The ſacrament of his body & blood did ſhew, ỹ his body & blood ſhould be ỹ ſacrifice, which he ſhould offer. For eating this bread, & drinking this cup, we ſhew ỹ Lords death, wherein his body & blood was ſacrificed. If you aske of Leo where, and when this ſacrifice was offred, in the next ſermon he telleth you: Chriſt our Paſchal (as the Apoſtle ſayeth) was offered, who offering him ſelfe a newe and true ſacrifice of reconciliation to his father, was crucified, not in the temple, the reuerence whereof nowe was ended, nor within the compaſſe of the Citie, which was to be deſtroyed for the merite of the wickedneſſe thereof, but abroade and without the tentes: that the myſterie of the olde ſacrifices ceaſing, a newe ſacrifice ſhoulde be layde on a newe altar, and the Croſſe of Chriſt ſhoulde not be the altar of the temple, but of the worlde: of the ſame ſacrifice he ſpeaketh in the apoſtrophe vnto Chriſt. Nowe alſo, the varietie of carnall ſacrifices ceaſing, that one oblation of thy body and blood, fulfilleth the differences of all ſacrifices: for thou art the true Lambe of God, which takeſt away the ſinnes of the worlde, and and doeſt ſo performe all myſteries in thy ſelfe, that as there is one ſacrifice for all oblations, ſo there is one kingdome of all nations. Theſe wordes of Leo, as euery man may ſee, perteyne to the death of Chriſt, which fulfilled the difference of all ſacrifices: which thing, if it had beene done by a ſacrifice in the Supper, the ſacrifice of his death had beene needeleſſe. Heſychius calleth the Lordes Supper a ſacrifice, by alluſion vnto the olde ſacrifices, and as it is a memorie of the onely true ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, ſaying: Aaron and his ſonnes, doe rightly eate it: for except Chriſt entreated by the mouth of the Prieſtes, doe come himſelfe, and ſanctifie the Supper, and dedicate thoſe things which are done, they are by no meanes made the Lordes ſacrifice. The ſame myſterie he ſayeth a little before, to be both bread and fleſh. And lib.1. he ſayeth, that the Croſſe did make the fleſh of Chriſt, which was meant to be eaten before his paſſion: for who deſired to eate the fleſh of God dead after his paſſion. For if he had not beene crucified, wee ſhoulde not eate the ſacrifice of his body. But nowe we eate that meate, receiuing the remembrance of his paſſion. Theſe places of Heſychius, doe open his meaning ſufficiently, in what ſenſe he calleth the B. Sacrament a ſacrifice. Gregorie liued in a corrupt time, more then 600. yeeres after Chriſt, yet that he meaneth not ſacrifice properly, but figuratiuely, it appeareth in the latter place by you quoted moſt plainely.

Real preſence.

Sacrifice of the Maſſe.

But

But it is neceſſary, when we doe theſe things, that we ſlay our ſelues in contrition of heart vnto God: for we which doe celebrate the myſteries of our Lords paſſion, ought to follow that we doe. Therefore it ſhall then be truely a ſacrifice to God for vs, when we haue made our ſelues a ſacrifice. See you not that it is a ſpiritual ſacrifice, as the ſacrifice of our ſelues?

Cyrillus, though not ſo ancient as the biſhop of Hieruſalem, whoſe title the Booke of Myſtagogie doth cary, yet doeth expreſly call it a ſpiritual ſacrifice. Dionyſius calleth it often ἱερουργίαν, a ſacrifice or holy worke: yet by many words declareth, that he meaneth a ſacrifice of praiſe and thankeſgiuing for the death of Chriſt, whereof the Sacrament is a memoriall. How ſhould the diuine imitation (ſaith he) be otherwiſe performed in vs? if the remembrance of the moſt holy workes of God, were not alwayes renued with praiſes and ſacrifices of the Prieſts. For this we doe, (as the Scripture ſaith) in the remembrance of him. In Ignatius is nothing but the name of ſacrifice, which ſheweth not what kinde of ſacrifice, and therefore if we ſhould admit that Epiſtle as authenticall, it is nothing to the purpoſe, to or fro. But Iuſtinus doeth moſt expreſly ſay, it is a ſacrifice of thankeſgiuing, and that Chriſtians haue none other ſacrifice &c. For I my ſelfe doe affirme, that prayers and thankeſgiuing (made by worthy perſons) are the onely perfect and acceptable ſacrifices to God. For theſe are the only ſacrifices that Chriſtians haue receiued to make, ſo be put in minde by their dry and moyſt nouriſhment, of the paſſion which God the Sonne of God, is recorded to haue ſuffered for them. Where is now the ſacrifice Propitiatorie of the body and blood of Chriſt? Likewiſe Irenæus (ſpeaking of the celebration of the Lords Supper,) calleth it an oblation which the Church in all the world doth offer to God, euen to him which giueth vs nouriſhment, the firſt fruites of his gifts in the newe Teſtament, according to the prophecie of Malachie. Which afterward cap. 33. he interpreteth to be the prayers of Saincts. And cap. 34 he ſaith: We offer vnto him not as to one that hath need, but giuing thankes for his gift, and ſanctifying the creature. Tertullian in neither of both the places hath any more then the name of ſacrifice, whereby he meaneth the publike prayers and thankeſgiuing of the Chriſtians We ſacrifice (ſaith he) for the Emperours health, but to our God and his, & as God hath commanded, with pure prayer. Ad ſcapul. Likewiſe the prophecie of Malachie, he interpreteth of ſpiritual ſacrifices. Aduerſus Iudæos: namely ſetting forth of Gods glory, bleſſing, praiſe and hymnes, Aduerſus Marc. lib. 3. and ſimple prayer out of a pure conſcience. Lib. 4. Other ſacrifices then theſe? Tertullian neuer knew. Cyprian in his Epiſtle to Cæcilius, declareth ſufficiently that the ſacrifice whereof he ſpeaketh, is only a memorial of thankeſgiuing for the paſſion of Chriſt. Becauſe (ſaith he) we make mention of his paſſion, in all ſacrifices (for the ſacrifice which we offer, is the paſſion of our Lord) we ought to doe nothing but that which he did. The celebration of the Supper therefore is a ſacrifice, as it is the Paſſion of Chriſt, namely, a thankefull memoriall of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes Paſſion.

Euſebius is as plaine as is poſſible for the ſacrifice of praiſe and thankeſgiuing, prayers and memoriall of Chriſtes one ſacrifice offered on the Croſſe. τὴν θυσίαν, &c. A memory of this ſacrifice we haue receiued to celebrate, at the table by the ſignes of his body, and of his healthfull blood, according to the diuine lawes of the new Teſtament. Againe he concludeth the whole matter of ſacrifice in theſe words, We offer ſacrifice and incenſe, when we celebrate the memory of that great ſacrifice according to the myſteries deliuered concerning it. And offering to God for our ſaluation, thankeſgiuing by deuout hymnes and prayers: and when we ſacrifice our ſelues vnto him wholy, and to his word, the high Prieſt leaning on him with body and ſoule? What can be plainer againſt your blaſphemous ſacrifice? Nazianzen onely nameth the oblation of vnbloody ſacrifice, by which we are vnited to Chriſt, & made partakers of his Paſsiõ and diuinitie, meaning doubtleſſe the memoriall of that ſacrifice. For the Propitiatorie ſacrifice of the body of Chriſt, for the redemption of ỹ world, he calleth: The ſacrifice that cãnot be ſacrificed, or the vnofferable ſacrifice. In ſanct. paſch. Or. 4. And the Sacrament it ſelfe, he calleth, The figures of ſaluation. Ad imper. Iraſt. Chryſoſtome (as other ancient fathers doe) diuers times calleth the Sacrament, a ſacrifice: but in one place hee expoundeth his meaning ſo plainly, as no man but he that is ouercome with impudencie, would wrangle any longer about that terme. For reſoluing that doubt, how Chriſt is ſaid to be offred dayly, whom the Apoſtle to the Hebrewes, teacheth to haue offered himſelfe but once, he concludeth in theſe wordes, This which we doe, is done in remembrance of that which was done. For doe this (ſaith he) in remembrance of me: we offer not another ſacrifice, as the high Prieſt, but the ſame alway: but rather we worke the remembrance of a ſacrifice. In ep. ad Heb. Hom. 17. Ambroſe in the former place, ſaith: Therefore hauing in remembrance his moſt glorious Paſsion and reſurrection from the dead, and aſcenſion into heauen, we offer vnto thee this vndefiled ſacrifice, this reaſonable ſacrifice, this vnbloodie ſacrifice, this holy bread and cuppe of eternal life. And in the firſt Chapter of that ſame booke, he ſaith: This reaſonable oblation, is the figure of the body & blood of Chriſt, meaning, a holy ſigne for memory of Chriſt offered on the Croſſe. In the ſecond place which you quote, he ſaith: Before, a Lambe was offered, nowe Chriſt is offered, hee is offered as a man, as receiuing Paſsion, and hee offereth himſelfe as Prieſt, that he may renue our ſinnes: but here in an image, there in trueth, where he maketh interceſſion for vs, as an aduocate with the Father. Marke that Chriſt is not offered here in trueth, but in an image or ſimilitude: and ỹ he is not offred by the Prieſt, but by himſelfe as he was on the croſſe, ſeeing the Sacrament is an image and repreſentation of that ſacrtfice, not a ſacrifice in trueth,

Hierom alſo diuers times vſeth the name of ſacrifice, but his meaning was none other, then of the reſt of the fathers in that time. Chriſt (ſaith he) offered in the figure of his blood, wine and not water. Againe he calleth the inſtitution of the Sacrament. The myſterie which he expreſſed for a figure of his paſsion, and of proouing the trueth of his body. Here is not a ſacrifice propitiatorie of the body and blood of Chriſt, but bread and wine offered in a figure of his body and blood, and of his Paſſion. Auguſtine likewiſe calleth it a ſacrifice, but not in that ſenſe you ſay. For thus he writeth of it: Chriſt is our Prieſt for euer according to the order of Melchiſedech, which offered himſelfe a ſacrifice for our ſinnes, & hath commended the ſimilitude of that ſacrifice to be celebrated in the remembrance of his Paſsion, that the ſame thing which Melchiſedech offered to God, nowe we ſee to be offered in the Church of Chriſt throughout the whole world. Octog. trium. quæſt. q. 61. Now chuſe whether you wil ſay, that Melchiſedech offred praiſe & thankeſgiuing, or bread and wine. For the naturall body of Chriſt he did not offer. But the ſame that Melchiſedech offered, the Church doth offer, a ſimilitude of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death. Againe he ſaith, This is the ſacrifice of the Chriſtians, we being many, are one body: which alſo the Church frequenteth in the Sacrament of the altar known vnto the faithful, where it is ſhewed vnto her, that in the ſame oblation which ſhe offereth, ſhe her ſelfe is offered. De ciuitate Dei. lib. 20. cap. 6. Againe, ſpeaking of the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, he ſaith, He himſelfe is the Prieſt that offereth, he himſelfe is the oblation, of which thing he would the dayly ſacrifice of the Church to be a ſacrament, ſeeing he is the head of his owne body, and ſhe is the body of the ſame head. As well ſhe by him, as he by her accuſtomed to be offered Cap.20.

And moſt plainely againſt Fauſtus the Manichee. li.20. cap.21. Sed quid agam, &c. But what ſhall I doe, and when ſhall I make manifeſt to ſo great blindnes of the heretikes, what force that hath which is ſong in the Pſalmes. The ſacrifice of praiſe ſhall glorifie me, and there is the way where I will ſhewe my ſauing health: The fleſh and blood of this ſacrifice before the comming of Chriſt, was promiſed by ſacrifices of ſimilitudes: in the Paſſion of Chriſt, it was giuen by the truethe it ſelfe: after the aſcenſion of Chriſt, it is celebrated by the Sacrament of remembrance. Much more hath Auguſtine in other places, but this is ſufficient to declare, in what ſenſe hee calleth the celebration of the Lords Supper a ſacrifice. Fulgentius alſo which followed him much in doctrine, thereof thus writeth. Firmiſſimè tene, &c. Holde this moſt ſtedfaſtly, and doubt nothing that God the onely begotten Sonne, the word, being made fleſh, offered him ſelfe for vs, a ſacrifice and oblation of ſweete ſauoure to God: to whome with the Father and the holy Ghoſt, by the Patriarches, Prophetes and Prieſtes, in the time of the olde Teſtament beaſtes were ſacrificed: and to whom now that is in the time of the new Teſtament, with the Father and the holy Ghoſt with whom he is one God, the holy Catholike Church ceaſeth not to offer the ſacrifice of bread and wine in faith and loue. For in thoſe carnall ſacrifices there was a figuring of the fleſh of Chriſt, which he himſelfe being without ſinne, was to offer for our ſinnes, and of that blood which he was to ſhedde for the remiſſion of our ſinnes. But in this ſacrifice there is thankeſgiuing and commemoracions of the fleſh of Chriſt, which hee offered for vs, and of the blood which the ſame God ſhed for vs. Marke that Chriſt is not offered to God his father, but the ſacrifice of bread and wine to Chriſt, with the Father and the holy Ghoſt, for thankeſgiuing and remembrance of the death of Chriſt. Your next quotation of all the Greekes vpon the 9.to the Hebrewes. For Chryſoſtomes iudgement you haue it before, that the oblation of the Church is rather a remembrance of a ſacrifice, then a ſacrifice properly.

Theophylact folowing him, in Hebr.10. ſaith: Heare ariſeth a queſtion, whether we alſo doe offer vnbloody ſacrifices? I anſwere, we do offer: for we keepe a remembrance of the Lordes death, and it is one, not many ſacrifices, ſeeing he was offered but once. For we offer the ſame Chriſt alwayes, or rather we keepe a memory of that oblation, wherein he offered himſelfe, as though it were doone now. Theſe wordes are manifeſt, that it is called a ſacrifice figuratiuely, and vnproperly, which is rather a memorial of the ſacrifice offered by Chriſt himſelfe.

Oecumenius with all the Greekes, out of whome he hath gathered his Commenterie: hath in a maner the very ſame wordes: And ſaith further, that Gregory in his Dialogues ſaith, that the myſteries which nowe are done and practiſed, are exemplares of greater myſteries: Meaning redemption purchaſed by the death and Paſſion of Chriſt. Primaſius alſo agreeing with Chryſoſtome, and the other Greeke interpreters, anſwereth to the ſame obiection, whether our Prieſtes doe not dayly offer ſacrifice? Truely (ſaith he) they offer, but in the remembrance of his death: and becauſe we ſinne dayly, and haue needs dayly to be cleanſed, becauſe we can doe no more, hee hath giuen vs this Sacrament of his body and blood, that as his Paſſion was the redemption and abſolution of the worlde: ſo this oblation might be reconciliation and ſatiſfaction to all that offer in true faith, and haue good intention. Againe hee ſaith, Iſtud, &c. This is not repeated for the infirmitie thereof, becauſe it could not giue perfect health, but in remembrance of the Paſſion of Chriſt, as he himſelfe ſaid, Doe this in remembrance of me.

His meaning therefore is, that our faith being confirmed by this Sacrament of the body and blood of Chriſt, applyeth the benefite of Chriſtes Paſſion to the forgiuenes of our dayly offences, and therefore is not properly a ſacrifice, nor a repetition of the ſacrifice of Chriſt, but a celebration of the remembrance of Chriſtes death according to Chriſtes owne inſtitution. In which there is no one word that ſoundeth toward the ſetting vp of a ſacrifice: though the celebration of the Supper was commonly called ſo.

The Council of Nice.1. nameth oblation and offering in diuers Canons, but in none other ſence, then the fathers before cited.

The Council of Epheſus, in the Epiſtle to Neſtorius vſe more wordes, and therefore doe more plainely expreſſe their meaning. Annunciantes enim, &c. For ſhewing the death of the onely begotten Sonne of God, that is of Ieſus Chriſt according to the Scriptures, and likewiſe confeſſing his reſurrection, and aſcenſion into heauen, we celebrate in the Churches, the vnbloodie ſeruice of the ſacrifice, ſo also we come to the myſticall bleſſings, and are ſanctified, being made partakers of the holy body and precious blood of Chriſt the redeemer of vs all, &c. It were hard to gather a ſacrifice Propitiatorie of theſe wordes, which ſhewe howe the ſeruice of the ſacrifice is celebrated, namely, by preaching of the Lords death, reſurrection and aſcenſion, and participation of the holy Sacrament of the very body and blood of the Sonne of God.

The Council of Conſtantinople the 6. Cap. 32. nameth the vnbloody ſacrifice, as the celebration of the Communion was commonly called, whereby was meant, that it was not properly a ſacrifice, nor a ſacrifice propitiatorie for ſinne, ſeeing without ſhedding of blood, there is no remiſſion of ſinne, Hebr.9.22. And alſo it findeth fault with them, which alledging Chryſoſtomes auctoritie, in his expoſition of S. Matthewes Goſpel, offred wine onely in the holy Table, and did not mingle water with it. By the oblation of wine, we may ſee they were farre from a Propitiatorie ſacrifice of the body and blood of Chriſt.

The ſecond Council of Nice, though it were a collection of an idolatrous and vnlearned company of Greekiſh Prelates, gathered to ſerue the idolatrous humour of Irene the wicked Empreſſe, yet approuing that counterfeit Epiſtle of Athanaſius, wherein mention is made of blood that flowed out of an Image of Chriſt, that was crucified at Berytus: They allowe alſo theſe wordes of it. This is that blood of our Lorde, which is ſaide to be found among many men, neither muſt true Catholikes thinke otherwiſe, then that which is written of vs, as thoughe any part of the fleſh and blood of Chriſt, might be found in the world, but that which is dayly made ſpiritually in the altar by the hands of the Prieſt. So that although againſt the Council of Epheſus, they ſpeake groſſely of the preſence of Chriſt in the Sacrament, yet they meane not carnally, as the wordes doe ſounde, but as appeareth by theſe wordes of the Epiſtle, they meane that the fleſh and blood of Chriſt is preſent ſpiritually.

As for the Councils of Laterane, Conſtance, Florens and Trent, being late chapters of hereticall and blaſphemous Papiſts, they are not to be alledged in any controuerſie betweene vs, ſeeing they were gathered by heretikes, eſpecially and purpoſely againſt the faith of the Catholike Church.

19. Doe this

Rhem.6. 19. Doe this.) In theſe wordes the holy Sacrament of Order is inſtituted, becauſe power and commiſſion to doe the principall act and worke of Prieſthod, is giuen to the Apoſtles: that is, to doe that which Chriſt then did concerning his body: which was, to make and offer his body as a ſacrifice for vs and for all that haue needs of Sacrifice, and to giue it to be eaten as Chriſtes body ſacrificed, to al faithful. For as the Paſchal lambe was firſt ſacrificed, and then eaten: ſo was his body: and thus to doe he here giueth commiſſion and authoritie to the Apoſtles, and to al Prieſts which be their ſucceſſors in this matter. Dionyſ.cæl.Hierar.c.3.Iren.li.4,c.32.Cypr.ep.ad Cæcil. Chryſ. hom.17. in ep.ad Hebr. Ambroſin Pſ.38.& in c.10. ad Hebr.

The Apoſtles are made Prieſts, and the Sacrament of holy Orders inſtituted.

Fulke 6. In theſe wordes auctoritie and commaundement is giuen to the Church, to celebrate the myſterie of the Lords Supper: but the ſpecial calling, ordeining, and appointing of the Apoſtles and their ſucceſſors, to be miniſters of the Church was after his reſurrection: as appeareth Matth.28. Mark.16. Luke 24. But moſt expreſly Iohn 20. But to make his body, or to offer it in ſacrifice, there is no auctoritie giuen by theſe wordes, for Chriſt inſtituted a Sacrament, not a ſacrifice, of his body and blood. For the faithfull being made perfect, by the only oblation of Chriſt offered by himſelfe on the Croſſe, neede none other ſacrifice, but a memoriall and Sacrament thereof, to confirme their faith in the remiſſion of ſinnes, purchaſed by his ſacrifice. And although the Paſchal Lambe was ſlaine before it was eaten, yet Chriſt did inſtitute the Sacrament of his body and blood, before he was ſlaine, neuertheleſſe to be continued as a perpetual memorial of his death. As the Sacrament of the Paſchal Lambe was inſtituted before the deliuerance of the people out of Egypt, yet to be a perpetual remembrance of that deliuerance, which figured the ſpiritual deliuerance of all the Church, from the tyrannie of Sathan and the power of hell. Now where as you quote diuers ancient fathers, to proue that Chriſt by theſe wordes, gaue commiſſion and auctoritie to the Apoſtles and to all Prieſts that be their ſucceſſors, to ſacrifice his body. Concerning the firſt, Dyonyſ.cæl.Hierarch.cap.3. hath no word of any ſuch matter, And to goe further with you, not in all his workes. Ireneus ſaith, that Chriſt giuing counſel to his diſciples, to offer vnto God the firſt fruites of his creatures, not as though he had neede, but that they themſelues ſhould be neither vnfruitfull, nor vnthankefull: he tooke that bread which is of the creature, and giuing thankes, ſaid: This is my body. And the cuppe likewiſe, which is of that creature that is with vs, hee confeſſed to be his blood, and taught the new oblation of the newe Teſtament, which the Church receiuing from the Apoſtles, offereth to God in all the world, to him which giueth nouriſhment vnto vs, the firſt fruites of his gifts in the new Teſtament, whereof in the 12. Prophets, Malachy did foreſhew, &c. This prophecie of the ſacrifice, afterward he doeth expound of prayers, thankeſgiuing, praiſes and workes of charitie, Cap.33.& 34. His words declare, that in his time, bread and wine was offred to God, that is, dedicated to the holy vſe of the Sacrament, whereby thankeſgiuing, prayers and praiſes, were offered to God, and charitie among Chriſtians confirmed.

Sacrifice of the Maſſe, and Popiſh ſacrificing Prieſthod.

Cyprian in that Epiſtle to Cæcilius, contendeth earneſtly for wine to be offered in the cuppe, as Chriſt did inſtitute the Sacrament in wine and not in water. But by the oblation and ſacrifice, he meaneth none otherwiſe then Ireneus doeth, and as we haue ſhewed in the Section next before: not a ſacrifice of his naturall body and blood. I would haue thee know (ſaith he) that we are admoniſhed that in offering the cuppe, the Lords tradition be obſerued, and that nothing els be done, but that our Lord did firſt for vs. That the Cuppe which is offered in remembrance of him, be offred mixt with wine. For when Chriſt ſaith, I am the true vine, the blood of Chriſt verely is not water but wine. Neither can the blood of him by whom we are redeemed and quickened, ſeeme to be in the Cuppe, when to the cuppe is wanting wine, by which the blood of Chriſt is ſhewed, which is ſet foorth by the Sacrament, and teſtimonie of all the Scriptures. The Cuppe, the wine, the bread, is offered in remembrance of Chriſt, not his body and blood properly ſacrificed or offered. Chryſoſtome Hom.17 in Ep.ad Heb. as we haue declared before, ſaith, it is rather a memory of a ſacrifice, then a ſacrifice indeed, which ỹ Church offereth. An exemplar of that which was offred once, and offred into the holy of holies. Ambroſ.pſ.38. ſaith, Let vs Prieſts follow him as we may, and offer a ſacrifice for the people, &c. But in cap.10.ad Heb. he hath the very words that Chryſoſtome writeth vpon the ſame text: anſwering the obiection how the Church offereth a ſacrifice, when the ſacrifice of Chriſt once offered, was ſufficient. Hoc autem quod nos facimus, &c. This that we doe, is done in remembrance of that which hath bene done. For doe you this (ſaith he) in the remembrance of me, we offer not an other ſacrifice as the high Prieſt, but the ſame alwayes, but rather we worke the remembrance of a ſacrifice. But of this matter, more in the next Section.

Rhem.7. 19. For a commemoration.) This Sacrifice and Sacrament it to be done perpetually in the Church for the commemoration of Chriſt, ſpecially of his Paſſion: that is to ſay, that it may be a liuely repreſentation, exemplar, and forme of his Sacrifice vpon the croſſe. Of which one oblation on the croſſe, not only all other ſacrifices of the Lawe were figures, but this alſo: though this in a more high, high, myſtical, and marueilous ſort then any other. for in them Chriſtes death was ſignified as by reſemblance and ſimilitudes of external creatures and bodies of brute beaſtes. but in this of the new Teſtament, his body viſibly ſacrificed on the croſſe, in and by the ſelfe ſame body ſacrificed and immolated in Sacrament and vnder the ſhapes of bread and wine, is moſt neerely and perfectly reſembled: and therefore this is moſt properly commemoratiue, as moſt neerely expreſſing the very condition, nature, efficacie, ſort, and ſubſtance of that on the croſſe. For which the holy fathers call it the very ſelfe ſame ſacrifice (though in other maner) which was done on the croſſe: as it is the ſelfe ſame thing, that is offered in the Sacrament, and on the croſſe. Whereby you may ſee the peruerſitie of the Proteſtants or their ignorance, that thinke it therefore not to be Chriſtes body, becauſe it is a memorie of his body or a figure of his body vpon the croſſe: nor to be a true ſacrifice, becauſe it is a commemoratiue ſacrifice. for as the thing that more liuely, neerely, and truely reſembleth or repreſenteth, is a better figure then that which ſhadoweth it a farre off: ſo this his body in the Sacrament is more perfectly a figure of Chriſts body and ſacrifice, then any other. Chriſt himſelfe the Sonne of God is a figure and diuracter of his fathers perſon, being yet of the ſelfe ſame ſubſtance. and Chriſts body tranſfigured on the holy Mount, was a figure and reſemblance of his perſon glorified in heauen, euen ſo is his body in the Sacrament to a faithfull man that knoweth by his beliefe grounded on Chriſtes owne worde, that in the one forme is his body, in the other his blond, the moſt perfect repreſentation of his death that can be. As for the ſacrifice, it is no leſſe a true Sacrifice, becauſe it is commemoratiue of Chriſtes Paſſion: then thoſe of the old Teſtament were the leſſe true, becauſe they were prefiguratiue. for that is the condition annexed to al Sacrifice of euery Law, to repreſent Chriſts paſſion.

A commemoratiue ſacrifice is a true ſacrifice, no leſſe then the prefiguratiue ſacrifices were true ſacrifices.

The

Fulke. 7. The text and the auncient doctours are ſo plaine in this caſe, that you are conſtrained to confeſſe, that this Sacrament is a liuely repreſentation, exemplar and forme, and alſo a figure of Chriſtes ſacrifice vpon the Croſſe. But it is ſo a figure of that ſacrifice (you ſay) that it is the ſelfe ſame body ſacrificed and immolated in the Sacrament: vnder the ſhapes of bread and wine. This ſaith none of the auncient fathers, which ſay, it is an exemplar, a commemoration, a figure of that ſacrifice, no not Chryſoſtome and Ambroſe, whome you quote, but as I haue ſet downe their wordes before. It is ſo the ſame ſacrifice, that it is rather a remembrance of a ſacrifice, then a ſacrifice in deede, or properly. But here you accuſe our peruerſitie or ignorance, that thinke it therefore not to be Chriſtes body, becauſe it is a memory or figure of his body. For to be a figure of a thing, and yet the thing it ſelfe, you ſay, in the margent repugneth not. Your ignorance (although it be great) I will not here accuſe, but your impudence, that ſhame not to ſay, that to be a Relatiue, and the correlatiue of the ſame at the ſame time, and in the ſame reſpect, repugneth not. I thinke Sorbone it ſelfe, woulde hiſſe out this monſtrous abſurditie: For you may as well ſay, that Iſaac to be Iacobs father, and Iacobs ſonne alſo, repugneth not. Real preſence.

But you haue examples to demonſtrate the matter, that a thing may be a figure of it ſelfe. Firſt you ſay, Chriſt the Sonne of God, is a figure and Character of his fathers perſonne, being yet of the ſelfe ſame ſubſtance. If you had bene well ſerked when you were laddes for giuing the Correlatiue to his Relatiue, you woulde haue ſaid, thus: The Sonne of God is a figure or Character of his Fathers perſonne, yet bee is the ſelfe ſame perſonne that his Father is. And if you will abide by this concluſion, your example may ſerue to proue: That this is a figure of Chriſtes body and ſacrifice, yet is it alſo the ſelfe ſame body and ſacrifice. But if you dare not affirme ſo much, leſt you ſhould fall into flatte Sabellianiſme, what peruerſitie ſhall I ſay, or ignorance, or impudence is it, to frame your example, ſo, as it is nothing like to the matter which it is brought to demonſtrate? Your ſecond example is, Chriſtes body transfigured in the holy Mount, was a figure and reſemblance of his perſon glorified in heauen. Why ſay you not of his body glorifyed in heauen: that the relaiion may be right and proper? But becauſe you ſeeke to runne away vnder a myſte of doubtfull wordes. But who will graunt vnto you, that Chriſtes body there transfigured, was a figure of his body glorified, when not his body, but the glorious ſhape which then he tooke vpon him, was a figure or a part of his diuine and heauenly glory, wherewith he is nowe inueſted in heauen. For his face nowe ſhineth not as the Sunne, but tenne thouſande times more bright then the Sunne, his body is not nowe couered with garments white as light, but ſhineth moſt gloriouſly as the body of the Sonne of God.

A thirde example you haue, That the Sacrifice is no leſſe a true ſacrifice, becauſe it is commemoratiue of Chriſtes Paſſion, then thoſe of the olde Teſtament were leſſe true becauſe they were prefiguratiue of the ſame. In deede it wanteth nothing but Chriſtes inſtitution, but that it might be a true ſacrifice. For if the Sacrament had bene ordeined by Chriſt to be a ſacrifice commemoratiue, as they were to be ſacrifices prefiguratiue, it had bene as true a ſacrifice as they: and yet being commemoratiue, as it is, though not a ſacrifice, it coulde not haue bene the ſame thing whereof it is cõmemoratiue, no more then thoſe ſacrifices were the ſame ſacrifice, or thing, whereof they were prefiguratiue.

Rhem. 8. 20. The new Teſtament in my bloud.) Moyſes tooke the bloud of the firſt ſacrifice that was made after the giuing of the Lawe Exod. 24. and with bloud confirmed the couenant and compact betwixt God and his people, and ſo dedicated the old Teſtament, which without bloud (ſaith S. Paul) was not dedicated. Moyſes put that bleud alſo into a ſtanding peece, and ſprinkled al the people &c. with the ſame, and ſaid theſe formal wordes, This is the bloud of the couenant, &c. or (as it is read in S. Paul) of the Teſtament which God hath deliuered vnto you. Vnto al which, Chriſt in his action about the ſecond part of this his ſacrifice, in euery of the Euangeliſts moſt cleerely alludeth, expreſſing that the new Teſtament is begonne and dedicated in his bloud in the Chalice, no leſſe then the old was dedicated, begonne, and ratified in that bloud of calues conteined in the goblet of Moyſes. with which his owne bloud bee ſprinkled inwardly his Apoſtles as the firſt fruites of the new Teſtament, imitating the wordes of Moyſes, and ſaying, This is the Chalice the new Teſtament &c: Which the other Euangeliſts ſpake more plainely, This is my bloud of the new Teſtament. By al which it is moſt certaine, that Chriſtes bloud in the Chalice, is the bloud of Sacrifice, and that in this ſacrifice of the altar conſiſteth the external religion and proper ſeruice of the newe Teſtament, no leſſe then the ſouereine worſhip of God in the old Lawe did conſiſt in the ſacrifices of the ſame. For though Chriſtes ſacrifice on the Croſſe and his bleud ſhed for vs there, be the generall price, redemption, and ſatisfaction for vs all, and is the laſt and perfecteſt ſealing or confirmation of the new Law and Teſtament: yet the ſeruice and Sacrifice which the people of the new Teſtament might reſort vnto, could not be that violent action of the Croſſe, but this on the Altar, which by Chriſtes owne appointment is and ſhal be the eternal office of the new Teſtament, and the continual application of al the benefites of his Paſſion vnto vs. Heb. 9. Both teſtaments dedicated in bloud. Verſe 20. The external religion of the new Teſtament principally in the ſacrifice of the altar.

Fulke 8. The Apoſtle to the Hebrewes cap. 9. doeth moſt plainely declare, the figure of the ſprinkling of blood by Moſes, Exodus 24. to be accompliſhed in the ſacrifice of Chriſtes death, and bloodſhedding once offered vpon the Croſſe: whereof the Sacrament is a memoriall, and no ſacrifice. Therefore it is a moſt wilfull peruerting of the ſenſe of the holy Ghoſt, to drawe thoſe wordes of Chriſt, (This Cuppe is the newe Teſtament in my blood) to a ſecond ſacrifice. And whereas you ſay, he alludeth vnto the wordes of Moſes, Exodus 24. it is more like, that he alludeth to the wordes of Moſes vſed about the inſtitution of Circumciſion and the Paſchal Lambe, Geneſis 17. Exodus 12. which were Sacraments as this is. The difference you make of the ſtanding peece or goblet of Moſes (as you call it,) and the Chalice of Chriſt, is ridiculous. By which you would make fooles beleeue, that Chriſt vſed not a common cuppe or potte, vſual to be drunke in at meate, but a conſecrated Chalice, ſuch as you occupie at Maſſe. Where as the Greeke word vſed by all the three Euangeliſts, and Sainct Paule, ſignifieth none other but an vſuall drinking cuppe or potte, whether you will call it a ſtanding peece, boule, goblet or Chalice. Wherefore your concluſions are ſuch, as you are accuſtomed to make, either vpon none, or vpon falſe premiſſes, or vpon true premiſſes moſt abſurdly and brutiſhly inferred, as in this place. The Cuppe is the newe Teſtament in Chriſtes blood: Ergo, Chriſtes blood in the Chalice, is the blood of Sacrifice. Where as by true Logike, it followeth after this maner that all the Papiſtes in Chalice or cuppe.

the worlde are not able to auoyde. The cuppe is the Newe Teſtament in Chriſtes blood. The naturall blood of Chriſt, is not the New Teſtament in Chriſtes blood. Therefore the cuppe is not the naturall blood of Chriſt, which was ſacrificed on the croſſe, but a ſacrament and holy memoriall thereof. In the celebration whereof, a part of Chriſtian religion doeth conſiſt, as in the celebration of baptiſme. And by theſe Sacraments, in that they be ſeales of faith, the benefites of Chriſtes Paſſion are applied vnto vs, through the working of the holy Ghoſt, but not by ſacrificing againe the bodie and blood of Chriſt. Yet doeth not the ſoueraigne worſhip of God in the New Teſtament, conſiſt principally in any externall religion, ſeruice, or ſacrifice, offred by any mortall creature, but as our Sauiour Chriſt ſaith expreſſely, in ſpirite and trueth. Ioan. 4. 23.

20 Which ſhalbe ſhed.) It is much to be obſerued that the relatiue, Which, in theſe wordes is not gouerned or ruled (as ſome would perhaps thinke) of the nowne blood, but of the word chalice. which is moſt plaine by the Greeke. Which taketh away al cauillations and ſhifts from the Proteſtants, both againſt the real preſence and the true Sacrificing. For it ſheweth euidently, that the blond as the contents of the chalice, or as in the chalice, is ſhed for vs (for ſo the Greeke readeth in the preſent tenſe) and not onely as vpon the croſſe. And therefore as it followeth thereof inuincibly, that it is no bare figure, but his bleud in deede, ſo it enſueth neceſſarily, that it is a Sacrifice, and propitiatorie, becauſe the chalice (that is the Bloud contained in the ſame) is ſhed for our ſinnes. For al that know the maner of the Scriptures ſpeaches, knowe alſo that this, Bloud to be ſhed for ſinne, is to be ſacrificed for propitiation or for pardon of ſinnes. And this text proueth al this ſo plainely, that [a] Beza turneth him ſelf roundly vpon the Holy Euangeliſt, charging him with Solaciſme or falſe Greeke, orels that the wordes (which yet he confeſſeth to be in al copies Greeke and Latin) are thruſt into the text out of ſome other place: which he rather ſtandeth vpon then that S. Luke ſhould ſpeake incongruouſly in ſo plaine a matter. And therefore he ſaith plainely that is can not be truely ſaid neither of the chalice it ſelf nor of the contents thereof: which is in deede to giue the lie to the bleſſed Euangeliſt, or to denie this to be Scripture. So cleere is the Scripture for vs, ſo miſerable ſlights and ſhifts is falſehod put vnto, God be thanked.

The chalice ſhed for vs, must needes ſignifie the bloud therein, not wine, and the ſame ſacrificed.

Fulke. 9.

The relatiue, (which) in the Greeke, as wel as in the Latine, is gouerned of the nowne blood, and not of the word chalice. For the relatiue muſt according to true Grammer, be referred to that, which went next before it in conſtruction and compoſition, which is the name blood, and not the worde Chalice. The Greeke, (as it is now read in deede) following the Hebrew phraſe, which is vſuall in the holy Scripture of the New Teſtament, goeth ſomewhat from the common phraſe of the Greeke tongue, but of S. Baſil was read, without all controuerſie, according to the common Greeke conſtruction. And therefore all your trifling of the real preſence, and true ſacrificing, is nothing but vaine and vnlearned inſultation. For no ancient writer, for a thouſand yeeres after Chriſt, or more, euer obſerued any ſuch matter, out of this text. And therefore, where as you ſay, that Beza turneth him ſelfe roundly vpon the holy Euangeliſt, charging him with Solaciſme or falſe Greeke: without all conſcience and honeſtie you ſlaunder him moſt impudently. For he nameth not ſolaciſme, or falſe Greeke, but Solæcophanes, which is an appearance of incongruitie, where there is none in deede. Except you would be taken for ſuch ignorant aſſes, that you knowe not the difference, of Solaciſmus and Solæcophanes, your malicious ſlaunder can haue none excuſe. In deede, he ſaith, that theſe wordes might be added to the text, out of the other Euangeliſts, as in diuers other places both he and other haue obſerued, by conference of copies and teſtimonie of the auncient fathers: yet he ſtandeth not vpon this coniecture, but that either the auncient reading was, as S. Baſile witneſſeth, or els, that it is an hebraiſme in the ſame ſence, where of I haue ſhewed like examples out of the Scripture in my defence againſt Gregorie Martine. cap. 1 ſect. 37. 38. 39. And where he ſayeth, it can not be truely ſayd, neither of the chalice it ſelfe, nor of the content thereof, that it was ſhed for vs: you affirme, it is to giue the lie to the bleſſed Euangeliſt, or to denie this to be Scripture. But I pray you, conſider, vpon what ground you charge him with ſuch open blaſphemie. Doe you hold in deede, that the chalice (in proper ſpeech) was, or could be ſhed for vs? Nay, the contents you will ſay. Wel there is one figure granted. And for the contents, ſhall we not beleeue the word of Chriſt, which ſayeth this cup is the New Teſtament? Yes doubtleſſe. Why then it followeth, that the Newe Teſtament is the contents of the cuppe. Was the Newe Teſtament ſhed for vs, or could it be ſhed for vs? No verely. Therefore Beza without giuing the lie to the holy Euangeliſt, might ſay, that it can not be ſayd in proper maner of ſpeaking either of the cuppe, or of the contents thereof, that it was ſhed for vs. And yet acknowledge, thoſe wordes to be Scripture, being referred to the nounc, blood, which was in deede ſhed for vs on the croſſe: So miſerable be your ſlights, and ſhifts of falſehode, forged vpon impudent lies, and malicious ſlaunders, groſſe ignorance, and vnlearned collections. God be praiſed, who daily maketh your folly and madneſſe, more and more manifeſt to all men.

24 Contention.) The Apoſtles perceiuing Chriſts departure from them and his kingdome to be neere, as infirme men and not yet endewed with the ſpirite of God, began to haue emulation and cogitations of Superioritie one ouer another: which our Maiſter repreſſeth in them by exhortation to humilitie and by his owne example, that being their Lord, yet ſo louely ſerued them: not forbidding Maioritie or Superioritie in them, but pride, tyrannie, and contempt of their inferiours.

Which is to ſay, that Peter is that man whom he would make Superiour ouer them and the whole Church. Whereby we may learne that it was thought fit in the prouidence of God, that he who ſhould be the head of the Church, ſhould haue a ſpeciall priuilege by Chriſtes praier and promes, neuer to faile in faith, and that none other either Apoſtle, Biſhop, or prieſt may challenge any ſuch ſingular or ſpecial prerogatiue either of his Office or perſon, otherwiſe then ioyning in faith with Peter and by holding of him. ciall care of Peter, that the ſtate of al the reſt might be more ſure, if the head were inuincible: God ſo diſpenſing the aid of his grace, that the aſſurance and ſtrength which Chriſt gaue to Peter, might redound by Peter to the reſt of the Apoſtles. S. Auguſtine alſo: Chriſt praying for Peter, prayed for the reſt, becauſe in the Paſtor and Prelate the people is corrected or commended. And S. Ambroſe writeth, that Peter after his temptation was made Paſtor of the Church, becauſe it was ſaid to him, Thou being conuerted, confirme thy brethren. Neither was this the priuilege of S. Peters perſon, but of his Office, that he ſhould not faile in faith but euer confirme al other in their faith. For the Church, for whoſe ſake that priuilege was thought neceſſarie in Peter the Head thereof, was to be preſerued no leſſe afterward, then in the Apoſtles time. Wherevpon al the Fathers apply this priuilege of not failing and of confirming other in faith, to the Romane Church and Peters ſucceſſors in the ſame. To which (ſaith S. Cypr. ep.) infidelity or falſe faith cannot come. And S. Bernard ſaith writing to Innocentius Pope, againſt Abailardus the Heretike, we muſt referre to your Apoſtleſhip al the ſcandals and perils which may fall, in matter of faith ſpecially. For there the defect of faith muſt be holpen, where faith can not faile. For to what other See was it euer ſaid, I haue prayed for thee Peter, that thy faith do not faile? So ſay the Fathers, not meaning that none of Peters ſeate can erre in perſon, vnderſtanding, priuate doctrine or writings, but that they can not nor ſhal not euer iudicially conclude or giue definitiue ſentence for falſhod or hereſie againſt the Catholike faith, in their Conſiſtories, Courtes, Councels, decrees, deliberations or conſultations kept for decision and determination of ſuch controuerſies, doubts, or queſtions of faith as ſhalbe propoſed vnto them: becauſe Chriſtes prayer and promes proteCteth them therein for confirmation of their brethren. And no maruel that our Maſter would haue his victrix Conſiſtorie and Seat infallible, ſeeing euen in the old Law the high Prieſthod and Chaire of Moyſes wanted not great priuilege in this caſe, though nothing like the Churches and Peters prerogatiue. But in both, any man of ſenſe may ſee the difference betwene the perſon, and the Office, as wel in doctrine as life. Liberius in perſecution might yeld, Marcellinus for feare might commit Idolatrie, Honorius might fall to Hereſie, and more then al this, ſome Iudas might creepe into the Office: and yet al this without preiudice of the Office and Seate, in which (ſaith S. Auguſtine) our Lord hath ſet the doctrine of truth. Caiphas by priuilege of his Office prophecied right of Chriſt, but according to his owne knowledge and faith, knewe not Chriſt. The Euangeliſts and other penners of holy writ, for the execution of that function had the aſſiſtance of God, and ſo far could not poſſibly erre: but that Luke, Marke, Salomon or the reſt might not erre in other their priuate writings, that we ſay not. It was not the perſonal wiſdom, vertue, learning, or faith of Chriſts Vicars, that made S. Bernard ſeeke to Innocentius the third: S. Auguſtine and the B. ſhops of Afrike to Innocentius the firſt, and to Celeſtinus ep. 90. 92 95: S. Chryſoſtome to the ſaid Innocentius: S. Baſil to the Pope in his time ep. 52. S. Hierom to Damaſus ep. 57. 58. to. 2. but it was the prerogatiue of their Office and higher degree of Vocation, and Chriſts ordinance, that would haue al Apoſtles and Paſtors in the world, for their confirmation in faith and Eccleſiaſtical regiment, depend on Peter. The lacke of knowledge and humble acceptation of which Gods prouidence, that is, that one is not honoured and obeyed of al the brotherhod, is the cauſe of al Schiſmes and Hereſies, ſaith S. Cyprian. A point of ſuch importance, that al the Twelue being in Apoſtleſhip like, Chriſt would yet for the better keeping of vnitie and truth, haue one to be head of them al, that a head being once appointed, occaſion of Schiſme might be taken away, ſaith S. Fulke. 11. Our Sauiour Chriſt, by theſe wordes giueth no ſuperioritie to Peter, but foreſheweth his infirmitie, greater then of the reſt, in reſpect whereof, he had neede of a ſpeciall prayer to vpholde him, that his fayth ſhould not fayle in that great temptation: Admoniſhing him, what his duetie was, after hee had experience of his owne frayeltie, and of the comfort of Gods grace, to ſtrengthen his brethren, by aſſurance of Gods mercie, whereof he had ſo great triall in him ſelfe. And as concerning the Popes ſupremacie, or prerogatiue, not to erre, (I ſay, as in the like collections of the Papiſts) All the Logicians that are, or euer were, can not rightly conclude in due forme of Syllogiſme, either the one or the other, out of the wordes of this text. Which is ſufficient to confute all the large diſcourſe that followeth. Neuertheleſſe, I will examine all the arguments, as they lie in order. Firſt he calleth Peter by name twiſe, not to put them out of doubt, that he is their ſuperior, but to admoniſh him ſeriouſly, in what danger hee ſpecially, and the reſt generally, were through ỹ malice of Sathan, and their owne weakenes, which was not yet knowen vnto them. And leſt the eleuen Apoſtles (ſaith Bede) ſhould glorie, or attribute vnto their owne ſtrength, that they almoſt alone, among ſo many thouſand Iewes ſhould be ſaid to haue continued with the Lord in temptations, he ſheweth, that they alſo, if they had not bene proteCted by the aide of the Lord, aſſiſting them, might haue bene broken in peeces with the reſt, through the ſame ſtorm or tempeſt. Neither doeth any of the ancient fathers, for 500. yeeres after Chriſt gather out of this place Peters ſuperioritie or prerogatiue of not erring: and although they had done ſo, yet their collection ſhould haue had no ground out of ỹ wordes of the text. Secondly, you ſay he prayed ſpecially for Peter, to this end that his faith ſhould neuer faile, and that he being once conuerted, ſhould after that for euer confirme, eſtabliſh, & vphold the reſt in their faith. But the trueth is, he prayed ſpecially for Peter, becauſe Peter ſpecially, & through his greater preſumption, was in danger of greater temptation: that in ſo grieuous a fall, he ſhould not through weakenes of faith, fall away, for that ſignifieth the word ἐκλείπειν: but be conuerted, and become an example of Gods mercie, to all penitent ſinners. As I (ſaith Bede ſpeaking in the perſon of Chriſt) haue by prayers proteCted thy faith, leſt by temptation of Sathan it ſhould haue fayled. So thou alſo remember, to lift vp and comfort thy weake brethren, by example of thy repentance, leſt peraduenture they ſhould diſpaire of pardon. In theſe words therfore, is taught the duetie of Peter, and of euery Chriſtian man, that hath taſted of Gods protection in temptation: to vſe his example & experience, to ỹ comfort of others, no prerogatiue granted, that Peter fr6 hence forth ſhal neuer erre, nor any that ſucceedeth in his chaire at Rome, wherof here is no mention in the world. Neither was Peter euer after this, appointed to cõfirme, eſtabliſh, or vphold the reſt of ỹ Apoſtles in their faith otherwiſe, thé a fellow member, of charitie to comfort them, in this preſent danger, or in any like. And as for the confirmation, eſtabliſhing, or vpholding of ỹ reſt of ỹ Apoſtles in ỹ trueth of the Goſpel, they receiued it of ỹ ſpirit of Chriſt, equally with Peter and not of the prerogatiue of Peters chaire. Yea when Peter walked not a right according to ỹ truth of the Goſpel, in a contention being ſtirred vp, by Cerinthus the heretike (as Epiphanius teſtifieth) at Antioche in his owne See, he was reprehended openly by Paule, & ſo his faith, which began to wauer, was confirmed by an other Apoſtle as ỹ faith of ỹ reſt at another time was by him. Therefore Peter, by theſe words, was not made ſuperiour, ouer the reſt of the Apoſtles, and the whole church: neither had any ſingular priuilege, by Chriſtes praier & promiſe, that his faith ſhould neuer faile. Chriſt praieth for al his Apoſtles, that God would ſanctifie them them in his trueth, Yea for all that ſhould beleeue in him through their preaching, yet hath not euery true Chriſtian, ſuch a priuilege, but that he may erre from the true faith, though not finally vnto condemnation. Further, where you ſay that none other Apoſtle, Biſhop, or Prieſt, may challenge any ſuch prerogatiue, either of his office or perſon, other wiſe, then ioyning in faith with Peter, and by holding of him: In part it is true. For neither Peter, nor any other man hath any ſuch prerogatiue, as you ſurmiſe. But Paule the Apoſtle, neither ioyning with Peter, nor holding of Peter, was bold to reprehend Peter, Barnabas and other, vpon aſſurance of the trueth of the Goſpel, which he had learned by reuelation, according to the Scripture, and to conuince him of error and diſſimulation, before all men. That he ioyned not with Peter, in their error, it is manifeſt by his reprehenſion. That, he held not of Peter, he declareth as plainely: ſaying, that he was an Apoſtle of Chriſt, neither of men nor by men. Gal.1.1.&12. but by Ieſus Chriſt immediatly, as the reſt of the Apoſtles were. The Scripture therefore, nothing fauouring this falſe gloſe, you come to the Doctors: and firſt to Leo, him ſelfe a Biſhop of Rome, and a great maintainer of the dignitie of his ſee, therefore ſomewhat partiall in this caſe, and reiected in the generall counceil of Chalcedon, for the ſupremacie which he laboured to eſtabliſh. But what ſaith Leo? Verely his words doe not a litle extoll Peters dignitie, yet not ſo much, as you would beare vs in hand, by your falſe tranſlation. The wordes of Leo be theſe. Pro fide Petri propriè ſupplicatur, tanquam aliorum ſtatus, certior ſit futurus, ſi mens Principis victa non fuerit. In Petro ergo omnium fortitudo munitur, & diuinæ gratiæ ita ordinatur auxilium, vt firmitas quæ per Chriſtum Petro tribuitur, per Petrum Apoſtolis conferatur. Prayer is made ſpecially for the faith of Peter, as though the ſtate of the other ſhould be no more certaine, if the minde of the principal, were not to be ouercome. In Peter therefore, the ſtrength of all is defended, and the aide of Gods grace is ſo ordered, that the ſtedfaſtnes, which by Chriſt is giuen to Peter, by Peter ſhou'd be conferred to the Apoſtles. In theſe words Peter is neither called the head, nor ſaid to be inuincible. But if we ſhal further aske of Leo, how this ſtedfaſtnes is conferred by Peter, to the reſt of the Apoſtles and to the whole Church, he wil not anſwere, by his ſucceſſor the Pope: but Confirmantes cohortationibus ſuis, & pro nobis orare non ceſſans, vt nulla tentatione ſuperemur. Confirming vs by his exhortations, and not ceaſing to pray for vs, that we be not ouercome by any temptation. And this he ſaith not only for him ſelfe, as Pope & Peters ſucceſſor, but for all the people of God, and ſpecially for the Citizens of Rome, where Peter ſate and died, as in the wordes following it is manifeſt. Therefore Leo out of theſe wordes of Chriſt, gathereth no ſuch ſuperioritie or prerogatiue of the Pope, in not erring, as you would enforce out of him, but without any warrant of his wordes, or meaning.

Rom.1. Gal.1.12.

Next followeth Auguſtine lib.Q.Nouell.Q.75. an auctor worthie to auouch ſuch a matter. Namely, a counterfect Auguſtine, for a falſe interpretation, which no man but more then beaſtly impudent, wil aſcribe vnto S. Auguſtine the auncient father, whom neither in wordes, nor matter this writer doeth any thing reſemble, but rather writeth many things directly againſt S. Auguſtine. And yet he is falſified both in wordes and ſenſe: for theſe are his wordes. Pro Petro rogabat, & pro Iacobo, & Ioanne non rogabat, vt cæteros taceam? Manifeſtum eſt in Petro omnes contineri. Quia & in alio loco dicit, Ego pro his rogo quos mihi dediſti pater, & volo vt vbi ego ſum, & ipſi ſint mecum. He prayed for Peter, and did he not pray for Iames and Iohn, that I ſpeake not of the reſt? It is manifeſt, that in Peter all are contained. Becauſe he ſaieth in an other place, I pray for them father, whome thou haſt giuen vnto me, and I will that where I am, they alſo be with me. Theſe wordes (if the auctoritie of the writer were any thing worth,) are againſt the prerogatiue of Peter, ſhewing that the prayer of Chriſt, extended to all the Apoſtles as well as to Peter. But the circumſtance of the text is plaine that it was ſpecially for Peter, in reſpect of his greater infirmitie and danger.

Thirdly, S Ambroſe is brought in, writing (but no place noted where,) leſt your falſification and falſe collection might more eaſily be eſpied. But by likelyhood you meane. Enar in pſ.43. where he hath theſe words. Cogitur autem aduerſarius, &c. The aduerſarie is compelled to tempt the holy ones of the Lord, to his owne loſſe. For while he tempteth them, he maketh them better, that he which is tempted, may inſtruct others, who ſeemed weake to his owne ſelfe. Finally Peter is ſet ouer the Church, after he hath bene tempted of the Deuil. And therefore our Lord ſignifieth before hand, what thing that is, that afterward he choſe him a paſtor of the Lords flocke. For to him he ſayd: But thou after thou be conuerted, confirme thy brethren. Therefore the holy Apoſtle Peter, was conuerted to his amendment, or to become good corne, and was ſifted as wheate, that with the Sainctes of the Lord, he might be one bread which ſhould be nouriſhment vnto vs. For while we read the Actes of Peter, and know the precepts of Peter, he is made vnto vs a nouriſhment vnto eternal life and ſaluation. Heare is Peter made an example of the profite, that the Sainctes reape by temptation, but no priuilege of ſupremacie or prerogatiue, of not erring, aſcribed either to his perſon, or office, or ſucceſſion. But you argue that the Church was to be preſerued, no leſſe afterward, then in the Apoſtles time, therefore the priuilege was granted to the office in ſucceſſion, and not to the perſon of Peter. Thankes be to God, the Churches preſeruation is otherwiſe prouided for by Chriſt the onely true head thereof, and needeth not the Popes ſupremacie, or infallibilitie, as is manifeſt by the Scripture. Epheſ.4.11.12.13. &c. This argument therefore, conſiſteth of two vile ſophiſmes. The one a beggerly petition of the whole controuerſie, that Peter had ſuch a priuilege and prerogatiue, as can not euer be proued out of the holy Scriptures: the other a falſe aſſignation of that to be cauſe, which is no cauſe at all of the Churches preſeruation. Yet you are not aſhamed to ſay, Hereupon all the fathers applie this priuiledge of not falling, and of confirming other in faith, to the Romane Church and Peters ſucceſſors in the ſame. And yet you are not able to bring any one of the ancient and authentical fathers, that liued within foure or fiue hundred yeeres after Chriſt, that either acknowledgeth ſuch a priuilege of the Romiſh Church, or of the Biſhops thereof, or that gather any ſuch thing out of this text. Cyprian ſaith: To the Romanes, whoſe faith by commendation of the Apoſtle is praiſed (perfidia) falſehode or falſe dealing can haue no acceſſe. He ſpeaketh againſt the impudencie of certaine heretikes, that being driuen out of Africa, ſought intertainement at Rome, which the godly Church there, would not conſent vnto. Cypriane therefore ſpeaketh not of the Romanes abſolutely, but thoſe whoſe faith was praiſed by the Apoſtle, from which faith, if they ſwarued, (as they confeſſe themſelues,) it ſhould be to their greater ſhame Ep.31. Againe hee ſpeaketh not of error in faith, but of falſe dealing, and neglect of diſcipline. For if Cyprian had bene perſwaded ſwaded, that the Church and Biſhop of Rome could not erre, he would neuer haue ſo openly diſſented from them as he did in the queſtion of rebaptizing of them, that were baptized by heretikes, in which hee with the councell of Africa, did openly oppoſe him ſelfe, againſt Stephanus Biſhop of Rome, and the Church of Rome alſo, as many other Biſhoppes of the Eaſt Church did, declaring thereby that the Biſhop of Romes auctoritie, in thoſe times was not acknowledged, nor his priuilege of not fayling in faith, once heard of. And as for this preſent text, of Chriſtes prayer for Peter, it is ſo farre of, that Cypriane could gather any prerogatiue of the Biſhop of Rome out of it, that he doeth extend it generally, to all the members of Chriſt: Yea he prayed ſo earneſtly for vs (ſayth he) that we read in another place: And the Lord ſayd to Peter: beholde Sathan hath deſired to toſſe you, as wheate: but I haue prayed for thee, leſt thy faith ſhould faile. If then he laboureth, and watcheth and prayeth for vs, and our offences, how much more ought we to be earneſt in prayer, and to pray, and firſt of all to intreate our Lord him ſelfe, then by him to ſatisfie God the father. Epiſt. 8. Againe he writeth: Our Lord prayed, and hee prayed not for him ſelfe, for what ſhould hee entreate for him ſelfe being innocent: but for our offences, as hee himſelfe declareth, when he ſaith to Peter: Beholde Sathan hath deſired to toſſe you as wheate, but I haue prayed for thee, leſt thy fayth ſhould fayle. Cyprian ad Pomp. Formiſtan. ad Cyprianum cont. epiſtolam Stephani

This is Cyprians iudgement vpon this text, which proueth, that hee acknowledged no ſuch priuilege or prerogatiue, as is now a dayes pretended. As for Bernard, who liued almoſt a thouſand yeeres after Cyprian, when Antichriſt had openly inuaded the tyrannie, it is no maruell, though hee were deceiued, to yeeld to ſuch a prerogatiue, as none of the auncient fathers of the primitiue Church, would euer acknowledge. As for the diſtinction, that the Pope may erre perſonally, but not iudicially, or definitiuely, is vaine, ſeeing neither of both partes, can be proued out of the Scriptures. Neither had the high Prieſthode, or Moyſes chayre any ſuch priuilege, in reſpect of their office, that the high Prieſt coulde not erre: ſeeing, the contrarie is manifeſt in the Scripture. Vria the high Prieſt, did ſet vp an Idolatrous altar, in the Lordes Temple, and did offer ſacrifice vpon it. 2. Reg. 16. Eliaſhib, through ignorance of Gods Lawe, contracted affinitie with Tobia the Ammonite, and made him a great chamber in the houſe of the Lord. Nechem. 13.4. Caiphas was a Sadducee, and condemned Chriſt. But admitting your diſtinction, it is to be proued, that Biſhops of Rome haue erred iudicially and definitiuely. Liberius erred not perſonally, but iudicially and definitiuely, when he ſubſcribed to the Arrians, as teſtifieth Athanaſius, Ad ſolitariè vitam agentes, Hieronym. in Catalogo, Damaſus in pontificali. Honorius did not onely fall into hereſie, but alſo in a decretall Epiſtle, did publiſh and confirme the ſame, as was proued in the councell of Conſtantinople the ſixte where he was condemned for an heretike. Cum his vero ſimul. &c. With theſe alſo (ſayeth the councell) we haue forſeene to bee caſt out of the holy Catholike Church of God, and to bee accurſed, Honorius, which had bene Pope of olde Rome, becauſe we finde by his writings, which hee made to Sergius, that in all things hee followed his minde, and confirmed wicked doctrines Conſt. 6. Act. 13. Likewiſe Leo 2. in his Epiſtle to Conſtantinus approuing the ſixt generall councell, writeth thus. Likewiſe wee accurſe the inuentors of this newe error. Theodorus Biſhop of Faran, Cyrus of Alexandria, Sergius, Pyrrhus, Paulus, Petrus, ſucceſſors of the Church of Conſtantinople rather then prelates. And alſo Honorius, which did not lighten this Apoſtolike Church, with the doctrine of Apoſtolike tradition, but by prophane treaſon, endeuored to ſubuert the immaculate fayth. S. Auguſtine alſo citeth the decretall Epiſtle of Innocentius to the Biſhoppes of Numidia, wherein he holdeth, that to receiue the Communion, it is neceſſarie for infants. Cont. duas Ep. Pel. ad Bonifac. lib. 2. c. 4. Aud ſayeth of him expreſſely. Qui denique paruulos definiuit, who defined that litle children, cannot haue life in them, except they eate the fleſh of the Sonne of man. Thus did Innocentius erre definitiuely in a matter confeſſed by the Papiſts them ſelues to be an error, that the Communion is neceſſarie for infants: which was a common error in S. Auguſtines time, holden of all the Church, for any thing that we can read to the contrarie. And it is a monſtrous lie to report, that S. Auguſtine ſayeth: That in the office, or ſeate of the Pope, our Lord hath ſet forth the doctrine of trueth. For writing againſt the ſchiſme of the Donatiſtes, he ſpeaketh of the chayre of vnitie, not of Poperie. Our heauenly maſter (ſayth he) hath forewarned this thing (meaning Schiſme or diſſention) ſo greatly to be auoyded, that of euill gouernours he aſſigneth the people, that the chaire of holſome doctrine ſhould not be forſaken of them, in which euen euill men, are compelled to ſpeake good thinges. For they are not their maſters which ſpeake them, but Gods, who hath placed the doctrine of trueth in the chayre of vnitie. Wherefore he being true and the trueth is ſelfe, of gouernours doing there owne euill things, and ſpeaking the good things of God, ſayth: Do ye thoſe things which they ſay, but doe not thoſe things which they doe, for they ſay and doe not. All men ſee, that here is nothing in the world, for the prerogatiue of the Popes chayre that he can not erre: but that vnitie is not to be broken for the euill maners of the teachers, ſo long as they teach the trueth. When you proue, that the Pope for his publike, iudiciall and definitiue writings, hath as good warrant, as Luke, Marke, Salomon, had for their Goſpels, the Prouerbes, Eccleſiaſtes, and Canticles, we will admit their caſe to bee like. But while the world ſtandeth you ſhall neuer proue the beſt of the Popes writings, to bee equall with the Canonicall Scripture. For in any mens writings, although there be the like trueth, yet is there not equall auctoritie as S. Auguſtine ſayeth. That S. Auguſtine and the Biſhoppes of Africa, did write to Innocentius and Cæleſtinus, Biſhoppes of Rome, it was not for that they aſcribed this pretenſed prerogatiue, either to their perſons or to their office, and ſeate, but as good Catholike Biſhops, haue alwayes vſed to conferre one with an other, when any queſtion hath ariſen in the Church, to require their mutual conſent in the trueth, and againſt hereſies, as in thoſe three Epiſtles quoted, which were written to Innocentius, of their proceeding againſt the Pelagianes it appeareth: But when the Biſhoppes of Rome, would haue vſurped auctoritie ouer the Churches of Africa, by collour of a counterfaite Canon of the councell of Nice, they were not regarded either in reſpect of their perſons, or their office and ſeate. Conc. Aphric. cap. 105. Yea they count it an abſurd thing that any man ſhould beleeue, that God could inſpire any one man, with the iuſtice of examination, and did denie the ſame, to innumerable Prieſts, gathered together in councell, as they were, to cut of appeales vnto the ſee of Rome. Epiſt. ad Celeſt. Neither doeth Chryſoſtome, in his Epiſtles to Innocentius, acknowledge any ſuch Cont. Iul. lib. 2. cap. 2.

prerogatiue or priuilege of the ſee of Rome, but as one Chriſtian friend to an other, being himſelfe in baniſhment, deſireth his furtherance for the benefit of the Church, ſhewing how iniuriouſly he had bene delt with all. S. Baſill alſo in purpoſing to write to the biſhop of Rome for his Counſell, concerning the affaires of the Church, and touching the Councell of Ariminum, doeth but practiſe that care of all Churches, which in the ſame epiſtle he commendeth in Athanaſius, without aſcribing any ſuperioritie or prerogatiue to the Biſhop of Rome. If Hieronyme being a prieſt of the Church of Rome, doth once or twiſe aske counſell of Damaſus his proper biſhop and dioceſſan: what great meruaile is it? or what priuiledge or prerogatiue of the See doth he acknowledge? which confeſſeth that Liberius ſubſcribed to the Arrians. And yet in diuers epiſtles Damaſus asketh counſell of Hierome in many queſtions, as Hierome did of him in one, about the vſe of the terme Hypoſtaſis for vnities ſake.

Cyprian in the place quoted, ſpeaketh not of the biſhop of Romes prerogatiue, but of obedience to be giuen to euery biſhop in his owne dioceſſe, and namely to himſelfe, againſt the timorouſneſſe of Cornelius biſhop of Rome, who was mooued by the threatning bragges of one Fœliciſſimus, a wicked ſchiſmatike, excommunicated by Cyprian and other biſhops of Affrica, to yeeld ſome thing vnto him. Whereupon Cyprian ſheweth, what inconuenience would enſue, if he did not continue conſtant, in reiecting him and his proud hereticall company, after their cauſe hath bene once iudged by their proper biſhop, in the prouince where their offences were well knowen. And therefore writing againſt their gadding to the See of Rome: he ſaieth, Quæ autem cauſa, &c. And what cauſe had they, to come and to bring tidings of a falſe Biſhop, made againſt the true Biſhops? For either they are pleaſed with that they haue done, and continue ſtill in their wickednesse, or if they be diſpleaſed and goe from it, they know whither they ſhould returne. For ſeeing it is decreed of vs all, and it is alſo meete and right, that euery mans cauſe ſhould be heard there, where the crime was committed, and a portion of the flocke is aſcribed to euery paſtour, which euery one ſhould rule and gouerne, as he that is to giue accompt of his doing to the Lord: verily they ouer whom wee haue gouernment, ought not to rouue about, nor by their craftie and deceitfull raſhneſſe, to ſet at variance the concord of biſhops agreeing together. But there to pleade their cauſe, where they may haue both accuſers and witneſſes of their crime: vnleſſe to a few deſperate and loſt perſons, the auctoritie of the Biſhops placed in Affrica, ſeeme to be laſſe, which haue already iudged of them, and with the grauitie of their iudgement, haue condemned their conſcience bound with many ſnares or cordes of offences. Their cauſe is already heard and knowen, ſentence is already giuen of them, neither is it meete, that the cenſure of Prieſts ſhould be reprehended, through lightneſſe of a mooueable and inconſtant mind.

This writeth Cyprian of Fortunatus and his complices, that being condemned in Affrica, ſought reſtitution at Rome, as though the auctoritie of the biſhops of Affrica had bene leſſe then the auctoritie of the biſhops of Rome and Italy, which Cyprian would neuer acknowledge for his time, though heretikes by ſuch gadding about, neuer ceaſed to moleſt him. The wordes of Hierome are theſe. At dicis, &c. But thou wilt ſay, the Church is founded vpon Peter, although in an other place, the ſame thing is done vpon all the Apoſtles, and they all doe receiue the keyes of the kingdome of heauen, and the ſtrength of the Church is eſtabliſhed equally vpon them: yet for this cauſe one is choſen among the twelue, that the head being appointed, the occaſion of ſchiſme might be taken away. By which wordes Hierome meaneth, that Peter was chiefe of the Apoſtles in order, to auoyd diſſention, not in auctoritie or prerogatiue of not erring. And els where he acknowledgeth euery biſhop to bee of equall authoritie, with the biſhop of Rome as in his epiſtle to Euagrius, reaſoning againſt a cuſtome of the Church of Rome. Nec alterâ, &c. Neither is the Church of the citie of Rome to be eſteemed one, and the Church of the whole world an other, both Fraunce and Britaine, and Affrica and Perſia, and the Eaſt, and India, and all barbarous nations, adore one Chriſt, obſerue one rule of truth. If auctoritie be ſought, the world is greater then one citie. Whereſoeuer a biſhop be, either at Rome or at Eugubium, either at Conſtantinople or at Rhegium, either at Alexandria, or at Tanis, he is of the ſame worthineſſe, of the ſame prieſthood. Power of riches, and baſeneſſe of pouertie, make not a Biſhop higher or lower. But they are all ſucceſſors of the Apoſtles.

CHAP. XXIII.

The Iewes accuſe him to Pilate the Gentil: 4 Who ſeeking earneſtly to deliuer him, ſpecially after that Herode ſent him backe, 17 they not onely preferre the murderer Barabbas, but alſo crie, CRVCIFIGE. 26 In the way to Caluarie he foretelleth the women that lamented vpon him, the horrible deſtruction of their Hieruſalem. 32 vpon the croſſe he is betweene two theeues, 35 ſcorned of the Iewes, 36 of the ſouldiers, 39 and of one of the theeues, 40 but euen there confeſſed of the other theefe, 44 And after his death (becauſe of the great miracles concurring) alſo of the Centurion, 48 yea and of the whole multitude. 50 and finally he is buried honorably.

GOOD FRIDAY. Mt.27,1.11. Mr.15,1. Io.18,27.

AND all the multitude of them riſing vp, led him to Pilate.

2 And they began to accuſe him, ſaying, We haue found this man ſubuerting our nation, and prohibiting to giue tributes to Cæſar, and ſaying that he is Chriſt the king.

3 And Pilate asked him ſaying, Art thou the king of the Iewes? But he anſwering ſaid,

AND the whole multitude of them aroſe, and led him vnto Pilate.

*2 And they began to accuſe him, ſaying, We found this fellow peruerting the people, * and forbidding to giue tribute to Cæſar, ſaying that he is Chriſt a king.* Matt. 22. 21. mar. 12. 17.

*3 * And Pilate asked him, ſaying, Art thou the king of the Iewes? He anſwered him, & ſaid,* Matt. 27. 11. mar. 15. 2. iohn 18. 33.

ſaid, Thou ſayeſt.

4 And Pilate ſayd to the chiefe Prieſts and multitudes, I find no cauſe in this man.

5 But they were more earneſt, ſaying, He ſtirreth the people teaching through out all Iewrie, beginning from Galilee euen hither.

6 But Pilate hearing Galilee, asked if the man were of Galilee.

7 And when he vnderſtood that he was of Herods iuriſdiction, he ſent him backe to Herode, who was alſo himſelfe at Hieruſalem in thoſe dayes.

8 And Herod ſeeing IESVS, was very glad, for he was deſirous of a long time to ſee him, for becauſe he heard many things of him: & he hoped to ſee ſome ſigne wrought by him.

9 And he asked him in many words. But he anſwered him nothing.

10 And there ſtood the chiefe Prieſts and the Scribes conſtantly accuſing him.

11 And Herod with his armie ſet him at naught: and he mocked him, putting on him a white garment, and ſent him backe to Pilate.

12 And Herod and Pilate were made friends that day. for before they were enemies one to another.

13 And Pilate calling together the cheefe Prieſts and magiſtrates, and the people.

14 Said to them, You haue preſented vnto me this man, as auerting the people, and behold I examining him before you, haue found no cauſe in this man of thoſe things wherein you accuſe him.

15 No, nor Herod neither. for I ſent you to him, and behold, nothing worthy of death is done to him.

16 I will chaſten him therfore & dimiſſe him.

17 And he of neceſſitie had to releaſe vnto them vpon the feaſt day, one.

18 But the whole multitude together cried out, ſaying, Diſpatch him, and releaſe vs Barabbas.

19 Who was for a certain ſedition made in the citie and murder, caſt into priſon.

20 And Pilate againe ſpake to them, deſirous to releaſe IESVS.

21 But they cried againe, ſaying, Crucifie, crucifie him.

22 And he the third time ſaid to them, Why, what euil hath this man done? I find no cauſe of death in him. I will correct him therefore and let him goe.

23 But they were inſtant with loud voices requiring Thou ſayeſt it.

4 Then ſayd Pilate to the high Prieſts, and to the people, I find no fault in this man.

5 And they were the more fierce, ſaying, He moueth the people, teaching throughout all Iurie and began at Galilee, euen to this place.

6 When Pilate heard mention of Galilee, he asked whether the man were of Galilee.

7 And as ſoone as he knew that he belonged vnto Herods iuriſdiction, he ſent him to Herod, which was alſo at Hieruſalem at that time.

8 And when Herode ſawe Ieſus, he was exceeding glad, for he was deſirous to ſee him of a long ſeaſon, becauſe he had heard many things of him, and he truſted to haue ſeene ſome miracle done by him.

9 Then he queſtioned with him in many words, but he anſwered him nothing.

10 The high Prieſts and Scribes ſtood forth, and accuſed him ſtraitly.

11 And Herode with his men of warre deſpiſed him, and when he had mocked him, he arayed him in white clothing, and ſent him againe to Pilate.

*12 And the ſame day Pilate and Herode were made friends together, for before they were at variance betweene themſelues. Matt. 27. 23. mark. 15. 14. iohn 18. 38.

13 And Pilate, when he had called together the high Prieſts, and the rulers, and the people,

14 Said vnto them, Ye haue brought this man vnto me, as one that peruerteth the people, & behold, I hauing examined him before you, haue found no fault in this man, of thoſe things whereof ye accuſe him,

15 No, nor yet Herode: for I ſent you to him, and loe, nothing woorthie of death is done to him.

16 I will therefore chaſten him, and let him looſe.

17 For of neceſſitie he muſt haue let one looſe vnto them at the feaſt.

18 And all the people cried aloud, ſaying, Away with him, and deliuer to vs Barabbas, 19 Which for a certaine inſurrection made in the citie, and for murder, was caſt in priſon.

20 Pilate therefore ſpake againe to them, willing to let Ieſus looſe.

21 But they cried, ſaying, Crucifie him, crucifie him.

22 He ſayd vnto them the third time, What euill hath hee done? I haue found no cauſe of death in him, I will therefore chaſten him, and let him goe.

23 And they were inſtant with loude voyces, requiring requiring that he might be crucified. And their voyces preuailed.

24 And Pilate adiudged their petition to be done.

25 And he releaſed vnto them him that for murder and ſedition had bene caſt into priſon, whom they demaunded: but IESVS he deliuered to their pleaſure,

26 And when they led him, they tooke one Simon of Cyréne comming from the countrey: and they laid the croſſe vpon him to carie after IESVS.

27 And there folowed him a great multitude of people, and of women which bewailed and lamented him.

28 But IESVS turning to them, ſayd, Daughters of Hieruſalem, weepe not vpon me, but weepe vpon your ſelues, and vpon your children.

29 For behold the dayes ſhall come, wherein they will ſay, Bleſſed are the barren, & the wombes that haue not borne, and the pappes that haue not giuen ſucke.

Oſ.10,8. 30 Then ſhall they beginne to ſay to the mountaines, Fall vpon vs: and to the hilles, Couer vs.

31 For if in the greene wood they doe theſe things, in the dry what ſhall be done?

32 And there were led alſo other two malefactours with him to be executed.

33 And after they came to the place which is called Caluarie, there they crucified him: and the theeues, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

34 And IESVS ſaid, Father, forgiue them, for they know not what they doe. But they deuiding his garments, did caſt lots.

‖Beholding. 35 And the people ſtood‖ expecting, & the princes with them derided him, ſaying, Others he hath ſaued, let him ſaue himſelfe, if this be Chriſt, the elect of God.

36 And the ſouldiers alſo mocked him comming to him, & offering him vineger, 37 Saying, If thou be the king of the Iewes, ſaue thy ſelfe.

38 And there was alſo a ſuperſcription written ouer him in Greeke and Latine, and Hebrew letters: THIS IS THE KING OF THE IEWES.

39 And one of thoſe theeues that were hanged, blaſphemed him, ſaying, If thou be Chriſt, ſaue thy ſelfe, and vs.

40 But the other anſwering, rebuked him, ſaying, Neither doeſt thou feare God, where as thou art in the ſame damnation?

41 And we in deed iuſtly, for we receiue worthie requiring that he might be crucified: and the voyces of them, & of the high Prieſts preuailed.

24 And Pilate gaue ſentence that it ſhould be as they required.

25 And he let looſe vnto them, him that for inſurrection and murder was caſt into priſon, whom they had deſired, and he deliuered Ieſus to their will.

*26 * And as they led him away, they caught one Simon of Cyrene, comming out of the field, and on him laid they the croſſe, that he might beare it after Ieſus.* Matt.27.32. mark.15.21.

27 And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which alſo bewayled and lamented him.

28 But Ieſus turning backe vnto them, ſayd, Ye daughters of Hieruſalem, weepe not for me, but weepe for your ſelues, and for your children.

29 For behold, the dayes are comming, in the which they ſhall ſay, Happy are the barren, and the wombes that neuer bare, and the paps which neuer gaue ſucke.

35 And the people ſtood, beholding, and the rulers mocked him with them, ſaying, He ſaued other men, let him ſaue himſelfe, if he be very Chriſt the choſen of God.

36 The ſouldiers alſo mocked him, comming to him, and offering him vineger, 37 And ſaying, If thou be the king of Iewes, ſaue thy ſelfe.

38 And a ſuperſcription was written ouer him, with letters of Greeke, and Latine, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE IEWES.

39 And one of the euill doers, which were hanged, railed on him, ſaying, If thou be Chriſt, ſaue thy ſelfe and vs.

40 But the other anſwering, rebuked him, ſaying, Feareſt thou not God, ſeeing thou art in the ſame damnation?

41 And we truely are righteouſly puniſhed,

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. XXIII.

Rhem. 34 Forgiue them.) A perfect example of charitie in our Sauiour praying for his crucifiers, which the firſt martyr S. Steuen did follow, Act.7: & the praiers of both were heard: Chriſts praier taking effect in the Centurion & others, Steuens in Paul.

Rhem.1. 43 In Paradiſe.) Thou maiſt not hereupon differre thy conuerſion or amendment, preſuming of grace at the laſt houre of thy life, nor looke to haue ſalnation by faith and confeſſion of Chriſt without good workes, nor to goe ſtraight to heauen without ſatisfaction, penance, or puniſhment for thy former ſinnes and life ill ſpent, nor challenge ſecuritie and certaine knowledge of thy ſalnation. For this good theeues caſe is not common, but a rare example of mercy and prerogatiue, but for the firſt point, learne onely not to deſpaire, though thou haſt bene ill to the laſt moments of thy life. for the ſecond, that faith, hope and and charitie, repentance, and good will be ſufficient, and good workes not required, where for want of time and opportunitie they cannot be had. For the third, that Chriſt gaue to that happy man for his zelous confeſſion of him and reprehending his fellow, not only remiſſion of his ſinnes, but alſo by extraordinarie grace, a pardon of al penance and ſatisfaction due either in this life or the next for the ſame. euen as the holy Church by his example and commiſſion giueth pardons alſo to ſome of her zelous children, of al puniſhment due for their offenſes, and ſuch goe ſtraight to heauen. Laſtly, that euery one hath not a reuelation of his ſaluation as this man had, and therfore can not be ſo ſure as he was. Pardon of due penance and ſatisfaction.

Fulke. 1. No man ought to differre conuerſion, but to repent as ſoone as he is ealled, as this theefe did, for God giueth not the grace of repentance, according to the will of man, but according to his owne pleaſure and purpoſe. Neither muſt any man looke to obteine ſaluation, by faith which is voyd of good workes. For ſueh was not the fayth of this penitent theefe, but fruitfull of good workes, as the place and time could ſuffer. But to goe ſtreight to heauen, without ſatisfaction or puniſhment for his former ſinnes, euery Chriſtian man may be aſſured, not onely by this example, but alſo by manifeſt teſtimonies of ſcripture, if he dye in the Lord, Apoc. 14.13. Iohn 17.24. 1.Cor. 5.1. Iohn 5.24. &c. And as for ſatisfaction and puniſhment for our former ſinnes, is not found in the ſcripture, but is contrary to the generall doctrine of remiſſion of ſinnes by the free grace and mercie of God. For thereby euery one that truely beleeueth and confeſſeth Chriſt, may challenge as certeine knowledge of his ſaluation, by the generall promiſes of God in the ſcriptures, as the theefe by theſe ſpeciall wordes of Chriſt vttered vnto him. Neither was this good theefe ſaued by any other meanes, then all Chriſtians are ſaued, namely, by the free mercy of God in Ieſus Chriſt apprehended by faith: Wherefore we ſhould learne, not onely not to diſpaire, but to beleeue ſtedfaſtly, that if we doe truely repent as this theefe did, we ſhall as certeinly receiue pardon for our ſinnes, at what time ſoeuer it be, as God promiſeth by Ezechiel 18.21. For God will not reiect an humble and contrite heart, Pſal. 51.19. Secondly that true fayth is neuer void of good workes, as repentance, loue of God and our neighbour, hatred of ſinne, confeſſion, and other externall workes, as time and opportunitie may ſerue. Thirdly, that Chriſt gaue remiſſion of ſinnes freely, and not of merit for zeale or reprehenſion of his fellow, but of his meere mercie and grace, by which he gaue him fayth and repentance: as he doeth to all that are conuerted to him. So the miniſters of the Church ought to aſſure penitent ſinners of forgiueneſſe and the kingdome of heauen, without any ſatisfaction or puniſhment for ſatisfaction, which is neuer required on their part in the holy ſcriptures. Neither haue they any commiſſion to require it of any of Gods elect, or to delay the reward of any for whom Chriſt hath ſatisfied to his father, as he hath for all that are redeemed by him. Laſt of all, euery man that by faith applieth vnto himſelfe the generall promiſes of God, may be as ſure of ſaluation, as he was. For they are as true of euery one in ſingular, as they are of all in generall. And this theefe was iuſtified on the croſſe (ſaith S. Auguſtine) by that conſummation and brewitie (which the Apoſtle Rom. 10. maketh generall to all men) who hauing all other members of his bodie faſtened on the croſſe, and hauing theſe two ſole, beleeued with his heart to righteouſneſſe, and confeſſed with his mouth to ſaluation, and immediately obteined to heare This day thou ſhalt be with me in Paradiſe. Ad Simplicia lib. 1. q. 2. Likewiſe Ambroſe ſaith: It is a moſt excellent example to deſire conuerſion, that pardon is ſo ſoone granted to the theefe, & that grace is more plentifull then his prayer: for our Lord doth alwayes grant more then is aſked. In Luc. cap. 23. The like comfort for all penitent ſinners, is gathered out of this example, by Cyprian De can. Dom. num. 7. And Chryſoſtome in Gen. Hom. 55. and in a maner by all the ancient fathers. Therefore the papiſts doe wickedly goe about to make it almoſt ſingular and extraordinarie. A liuely faith. Satisfaction. Purgatorie. Certeintie of ſaluation.

Rhem. 55. Wherein neuer.) As in the wombe of MARIE none was conceiued before nor after him, ſo in this monument none was laid before nor after him: which prerogatiue (no doubt) was of Gods prouidence, this Ioſeph no leſſe abſteining afterward to be buried in it, then the other Ioſeph from copulation with the mother of our Lord. S. Auguſtine.

Rhem. 2. 55. Saw the monument.) Theſe good women of great deuotion obſerued the Sepulchre for the honour of the holy bodie. Whereupon the deuotion of faithful folke watching and viſiting on Good-Friday and Eaſter euc the ſepulcher made in euery Church for memorie of our Lords burial, is exceding good and godly, ſpecially the B. Sacrament for more ſignification ſake being preſent in the ſame Sepulcher. Viſiting of the Sepulcher, or Sepulchres.

Fulke. 2. The cauſe of the womens marking the place of Chriſtes buriall, is expreſſed in the text, whereunto the popiſh maner of watching the idoll of the ſepulchre in their churches hath no reſemblance, and therefore is nothing els but groſſe ſuperſtition, and mockerie of the myſteries of our faith, whereof the buriall of Chriſt is one. The impietie is ſo much the greater, when the ſacrament, ordeined to be receiued, to aſſure vs of life, is laid in the graue, as though it were a dead body. Or if be cauſe it was ordeined to be a remembrance of Chriſt, they may doe with it what they will, to ſignifie the actions and paſſions of Chriſtes bodie, why doe they not likewiſe baptiſe it, binde it, ſcourge it, crowne it with thornes, and naile it to a croſſe, as well as they burie it, and raiſe it out of the ſepulchre. Watching of the ſepulchre.

Deuout women not finding his body in the Sepulcher, 4 Angels tel them that he is riſen according to his owne prediction: 9 yet the Apoſtles will not beleue it. 12 but neither Peter findeth his body there. 13 He walketh with two Diſciples, declaring al this vnto them out of the Scriptures, and is knowen of them by breaking of bread. 36 The ſame day he appeareth to the Eleuen and others being together, is felt of them, & eateth with them. finally teaching them out of the Scriptures not onely of his Paſſion and Reſurrection, 47 but alſo of his Catholike Church, 49 he promiſeth the Holy Ghoſt to confirme them. 50 and ſo aſcendeth into heauen.

26 Ought not Chriſt to haue ſuffred theſe things, and ſo to enter into his glorie?

27 And beginning from Moyſes & al the Prophets, he did interpret to them in al the ſcriptures the things that were concerning him.

Bleſſing with the ſigne of the croſſe.

Fulke.5. Seeing the Scripture doth not expreſſe,in what forme Chriſt lifted vp his hands, it is great preſumption to affirme,that it was in the ſimilitude of the croſſe.Neither is it any thing like,becauſe Iacob layed his hands ouerthwart,or a croſſe vpō his nephews heads,ẏ Chriſt did ſo,ſeeing here was not the like cauſe:For Iacob laied his hands after ẏ forme,becauſe ẏ yonger ſon which ſhould be the greater,was placed at his left hand,&ẏ elder at his right hand.Neither was the ſigne or figure of the croſſe in any eſtimation with the Apoſtles, or the faithfull in their time.Valentinus the Heretike,was the firſt that made any great accompt of it, as teſtifieth *Ireneus lib.*1.*cap.*1.Tertullian in deede,reckneth ſigning with the croſſe to be an olde tradition,which yet it is no more certaine to haue been vſed by the Apoſtles, then other like ceremonies which he there nameth, as the taſting of milke and honie by them that were baptized, and the abſtinence from waſhing for a weeke after baptiſme,oblations for byrth daies,and ſuch other long ſince aboliſhed, which they ſhould not haue beene, if they had beene ordained by the Apoſtles,as neceſſarie for Chriſtian religion. The like may be ſaid of Baſiles teſtimonie.S.Auguſtine in the place noted, ſpeaketh not of the ſigne of the croſſe, which Chriſt neuer commaunded to be ſet on mens forheads,but of the ſeale or marke wherewith the true worſhippers of Chriſt are marked,Apoc.7 in their forheads,to ſignifie that they ſhould not be aſhamed to cōfeſſe the reproch of Chriſt, which is the glorie of the Chriſtians.Finally,when you aske what forme a Chriſtian man can vſe to bleſſe him ſelfe,rather then the ſigne of the croſſe?I would firſt know,how a Chriſtian man can bleſſe him ſelf,ſeeing the Apoſtle ſaith,it is without all controuerſie that the leſſer is bleſſed of the greater or better.Heb.7.7. The ſigne of the croſſe,or croſſing.

Secondly,that the ſigne of the croſſe is dedicated in the death of Chriſt, rather then the ſignes of other things that were likewiſe inſtruments of his paſſion.

Thirdly,how it is a conuenient memoriall of Chriſtes death,which is not ordeined of Chriſt, nor taught by his Apoſtles to be ſuch.

But you ſay howſoeuer it be,that Biſhops & Prieſts do bleſſe with an external ſigne,no man can reprehend,being warranted by Chriſts owne example & action: As though euery action of Chriſt, were an example for vs to follow.But admitting this to be an example,& action to be followed,popiſh Biſhops and Prieſtes are iuſtly to be reprehended, becauſe they are not content with that externall action of Chriſt, which they read in the holy Scripture, of Impoſition or liſting vp of handes,but they will vſe an other, whereof they haue no warrant in the Scriptures,which it is not like that Chriſt at any time did vſe.

THE ARGVMENT OF S. IOHNS GOSPEL.

S. Iohns Gospel may be divided into foure partes.

The first part is of the actes of Christ before his solemne manifestation of him selfe, while Iohn Baptist was yet baptizing: Chap.1.2.3.4.

The second, of his Actes in Iurie (hauing now begonne his solemne manifestation in Galilee, Mat.4,12.) the second Easter or Paschе of his preaching: Chap.5. For of the first paschе, we had in the first part, Chap.2,13: And the paschе of * the Iewes was at hand. And that feast whereof we haue in this second part, chap.5,1: After this there was a festiual day of * the Iewes, is thought of good Authors, to be the feast of Paschе. Iren.li.2.c.39.

* This speach very common in this Gospel, as appeareth by the places here marked, declareth that he writeth to the Gentils.

The third part is, of his Actes in Galilee, and in Iurie, about the third Paschе, and after it: cap.6, to the 12. For so we haue chap 6,4: And Paschе the festiual day of * the Iewes was at hand.

The fourth part is of the fourth paschе (which we haue in the end of the chap.11,55: And the paschе of * the Iewes was at hand) that is to say, of the Holy weeke of his Passion in Hierusalem: chap.12. vnto the end of the booke.

By which diuision it is manifest, that the intent of this Euangelist writing after the other three, was, to omit the Actes of Christ in Galilee, because the other three had written them at large: and to report his Actes done in Iurie, which they had omitted.

And this he doth, because Iurie with Hierusalem and the Temple, being the principal parte of the Countrey, there abode the principal of the Iewes, both for authoritie, and also for learning in the law or knowledge of the Scriptures. and therfore that was the place, where our Lord IESVS finding in the Head it selfe and in the leaders of the rest, such wilful obstinacie and desperate resistance, as the Prophets had foretold, did by this occasion, much more plainely then in Galilee, both say and proue, at sundry times, euen euery yere of his preaching, him selfe to be the CHRIST that had bene so long promised vnto them, and expected of them: and the same CHRIST to be not only a man, as they imagined, but also the naturall, consubstantial, and eeternall Sonne of God the Father, who now had sent him. Therfore these were the wordes and deedes that serued best the purpose of this Euangelist, being, to shew the glorie and excellencie of this person IESVS, that thereby the Gentils might see, how worthily Hierusalem and the Iewes were reprobated, who had refused yea and crucified such an one: and how wel and to their owne saluation themselues might doe, to receiue him and to beleeue in him For this to Io.20,31. haue bene his purpose, him selfe declareth in the end, saying: These are written, that you may beleeue that IESVS is CHRIST the Sonne of God: and that beleeuing, you may haue life in his name.

Hier.in Catal. And hereupon it is, that S. Hierome writeth thus in his life: Iohn the Apostle, [a] whom IESVS loued very much, the [b] sonne of Zebedee, [b] the brother of Iames the Apostle [c] whom Herod after our Lords Passion beheaded, last of al wrote the Gospel, at the request of the Bishops of Asia, against Cerinthus, and other Heretikes, and specially against the assertion of the Ebionites then rising, who say that Christ was not before MARIE. Whereupon also he was compelled to vtter his Diuine Natiuitie. Of his three Epistles, and of his Apocalypse, shal be said in their owne places.

a Io.13,23. b Mat.4,21. c Act.12,2.

It followeth in S. Hierome, that In the Second persecution vnder Domitian, fourtene yeres after the persecution of Nero he was exiled into the ile Patmos. But after that Domitian was slaine, and his actes for his passing cruelnie repealed by the Senate: vnder Nerua the Emperour he returned to Ephesus, and there continuing vnto the time of Traiane the Emperour, he founded and gouerned al the Churches of Asia. and worne with old age, he died the threescore and eighth yere after the Passion of our Lord, and was buried besides the same citie.

Whose excellencie the same holy Doctor thus briefly describeth.

c Io.21,7.

IOHN the Apostle, one of our Lords Disciples, who was the yongest among the Apostles, and whom the faith of Christ found a virgin, remained a virgin, and therefore is [a] more loued of our Lord, and [a] lieth vpon the breast of IESVS: and that which Peter durst not aske, [a] he desireth him to aske: and after the resurrection, when Marie Magdalen had reported that our Lord was risen againe, both of them ranne to the Sepulchre, [b] but he came thither first: and when they were in the ship and fished in the lake of Genezareth, IESVS stood on the shore, neither did the Apostles know whom they saw: [c] onely the virgin knoweth the virgin, and saith to Peter, It is our Lord. This Iohn was both an Apostle, and Euangelist, and Prophet: an Apostle, because he wrote to the Churches as a Maister: an Euangelist, because he compiled a booke of the Gospel, which (except Matthew) none other of the twelue Apostles did: a Prophet, for he saw in the ile Patmos, where he was banished by Domitian the Emperour for the testimonie of our Lord, the Apocalypse, conteining infinite mysteries of things to come. Tertullian also reporteth, that at Rome being cast into a barrel of hote boiling oile, he came forth more pure and fresher or liuelier, then he went in. yea and his Gospel it self much differeth from the rest. Matthew beginneth to write as of a man: Marke of the prophecie of Malachie and Esay. Luke of the Priesthod of Zachrie: the first hath the face of a man, because of the genealogie: the second the face of a lion, for the voice of one crying in the desert: the third the face of a calfe, because of the Priesthod. But Iohn as an Eagle flieth to the things on high, and mounteth to the Father him self, saying: In the beginning was the WORD, and the WORD was with God, and God was the WORD. Thus far S. Hierome.

Rhem. 1. Vpon this Gospel there are the famous commentaries of S. Augustine called Tractatus in Euang. Ioan. to. 9. and twelue bookes of S. Cyrils commentaries.

THE HOLY GOSPEL OF IESV CHRIST ACCORDING TO IOHN.

CHAP. I.

The 1. part: THE ACTES of Christ before his manifestation, whiles John Baptist was yet baptizing.

The preface of the Euangelist, commending Christ (as being God the Sonne Incarnate) to the Gentils, and setting out the blindnes of the Iewes in not receiuing him. 19 Then, the testimonies of Iohn Baptist, first to the solemne legacie of the Iewes: 29 secondly, when he saw IESVS come to him: 35 thirdly, to his owne Disciples also, putting them ouer from himselfe to IESVS Who made it plainer to them that he is Christ, 40 and so began he also to haue Disciples.

7 This man came for testimonie: to giue testimonie of the light, that al might beleeue through him.

8 He was not the light, but to giue testimonie of the light.

9 It was the true light, which lighteneth euery man that commeth into this world.

10 He was in the world, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.

11 He came into his owne, and his owne receiued him not.

12 But as many as receiued him, ‖ he gaue them power to be made the sonnes of God, to those that beleeue in his name.

48 Nathanael ſaith vnto him, Whence knoweſt thou me? Ieſus anſwered, and ſaide vnto him, Before that Philip called thee, being vnder the figge tree, I ſaw thee.

49 Nathanael anſwered, and ſaith vnto him, Rabbi, thou art euen the very ſonne of God, thou art the king of Iſrael.

50 Ieſus anſwered, and ſaide vnto him, Becauſe I ſaid vnto thee, I ſaw thee vnder the figge tree, thou †beleeueſt: thou ſhalt ſee greater things then theſe. †Or, beleeueſt thou?

51 And he ſaith vnto him, Verily, verily I ſay vnto you, hereafter ſhall ye ſee heauen open, and the angels of God aſcending and deſcending vpon the Sonne of man.

MARGINALL NOTES. CHAP. I.

Rhem. 1. 26. I baptize in water.) He doth often here ſignifie the great difference of his baptiſme and of Chriſtes, as of his perſon and Chriſtes. See Annot. Mat. 3.

Fulke 1. Iohn acknowledgeth, that he is onely a miniſter of the externall action and element, and that Chriſt is the auctor and giuer of the ſpirituall grace: other difference he ſheweth not. Iohn baptiſt.

Rhem.2. 42. Cephas, which is interpreted.) Cephas in Syriake, and Peter in Greeke, in Engliſh, Rocke. See Mat.16,18.

Fulke.2. Cephas ſignifyeth any ſtone, ſuch as Peter was one, appointed to be one of the twelue foundation ſtones of the Church. ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. 1.

Rhem. 1. Was the word.) The ſecond perſon in Trinitie which is the naturall, onely, and eternal Sonne of God the Father, is called the WORD: not as the holy Scriptures or ſpeaches of the Prophets and Apoſtles (written and ſpoken by Gods commaundement for the vttering of his diuine will towards man) be called his worde, but in a more diuine, eminent, and ineffable ſort, to expreſſe vnto vs in a ſort, by a terme agreeable to our capacitie, that the Sonne of God ſo is, and ſo from euerlaſting is borne of God the Father, as our prime concept (which is our internall and mentall word) is and iſſueth out of our intelligence and mind. This WORD then, Sonne, or ſecond Perſon in the holy Trinitie, was and had his being then already, when other creatures (of what ſort ſo euer) had but their beginning, and therefore can not be a creature, as many Hereſikes before the writing of this Goſpel thought, and as the Arrians after taught. And this firſt ſentence of the Goſpel not onely the faithfull, but the Platonikes did ſo admire (as S. Auguſtine writeth) that they wiſhed it to be written in gold. How God the Sonne is called the WORD. Auguſt.de Ciu. Dei.lib.10.c.29. The Platonikes.

Rhem.3. 1. With God.) Becauſe a man might ſay, If the WORD were before any thing was created, where or howe could he be? the Euangeliſt preuenting that carnal concept, ſaith firſt, that he was with God, whoſe being dependeth not vpon time, place, ſpace, or any other creatures, all which were made by him. Secondly, he giueth vs to vnderſtand, that the WORD hath his proper ſubſiſtence or perſonalitie diſtinct from God the Father, whereby Sabellius the old Heretike is refuted. Thirdly, here is inſinuated the order of theſe two perſons, one towards the other, ſo writte, that the Sonne is with and of the Father, and not the Father of the Sonne. Fourthly, you may confute here the blaſphemie of Caluin, holding the ſeconde Perſon to be God, not as of God the Father, but as of him ſelfe. And yet ſuch are the bookes that our youth nowe reade commonly in England, and that by commaundement. The WORD coeternall with the Father, & distinct in perſon, and of the Father. Caluin.inſt.li.1. c.13.ſect.23. and 25.

Fulke.3. An horrible ſlander of Caluine, who teacheth none otherwiſe of the Godhead of Chriſt, then the Papiſtes themſelues. Affirming that he is God, of God the father, in reſpect of perſon as the ſonne, yet very God, of one and the ſame Godhead that the father is God, which is not multiplied by communication of generation, but is one and moſt ſingular in all the three perſons. Which moſt true and perpetuall doctrine of the Church, he hath mainteyned in his writings, againſt the Arrians, Sabellians, and Turheites of our age, while the auctors of this ſlander take their eaſe, and neuer once oppoſed them ſelues againſt them. Slander.

Rhem.4. 1. God was the Word.) Leſt any man vpon the premiſſes, which ſet forth the relation and diſtinction of the ſecond Perſon from the firſt, might thinke that the Father onely were God, the Euangeliſt expreſly teacheth, the WORD to be God. for though the wordes ſeeme to lie otherwiſe (becauſe we haue of purpoſe followed the elegancie which the Euangeliſt him ſelfe obſerued in placing them ſo, and therefore they ſtand ſo both in Greeke and Latine) yet in deede the conſtruction is thus, The WORD was God, and as (in his firſt Epiſtle the ſame Apoſtle writeth) true God: leſt any might ſay (as the Arians did) that he was God in deede, but not truely and naturally, but by common adoption or calling, as good men in the Church be called the ſonnes of God. We haue wonderfull wrangling and peruerſation the Arians vſed to auoide the euidence of this place, we ſee in S. Auguſtine lib.3.de Doct.Chriſt.cap.2. euen ſuch as the Proteſtants vſe, to auoide the like wordes, This is my body, concerning the B. Sacrament. The WORD true God by nature. 1.Ioh.5.20. The Proteſtants are like the wrangling Arians.

Fulke.4. The Proteſtants are nothing like the Arians, for they acknowledge the wordes of Chriſt to be true, in ſuch ſenſe as he ſpake them, and as the ancient fathers of the Church did take them, and expound them, for many hundred yeeres after Chriſt, as in places conuenient is proued: ſee the notes vpon Mat 26. Mar.14. Luk.22. Slander.

Rhem. 3. By him.) Againe, by this he ſignifieth the eternitie, diuinitie, omnipotencie, and equalitie of the WORD or Sonne, with God the Father, becauſe by him all things were created. all things he ſayth, both viſible of this worlde: and inuiſible, as Angels and all ſpirituall creatures. Whereupon it is euident alſo, that him ſelfe is no creature, being the creator of all: neither is ſinne of his creation, being a defect of a thing, rather then a thing it ſelfe, and therefore neither of nor by him. The WORD not a creature but the creator.

Rhem.5. 12. He gaue them power.) Free-will to receiue or acknowledge Chriſt, and power giuen to men, if they will, to be made by Chriſt the ſonnes of God: but not forced or drawen thereunto by any neceſſitie. Free-will.

Fulke.5. Men haue no freedome of will, to accept the grace of God offred, vntill they be by grace preuented. And although they be not forced or drawen by neceſſitie, yet they are by ỹ grace of God made willing, which by nature were altogether vnwilling. The word which they haue here tranſlated power, ſignifieth dignitie, or auctoritie, which is giuen onely of Gods grace (as the words of the text are manifeſt) to them that receiue Chriſt by faith: which is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but is the gift of God. Eph.2.8. Rom.9.16. By this power (ſaith Cyrillus vpõ this place) he vnderſtandeth adoption and grace, afterwarde moſt fitly he inferred: that they are borne of God, that he might ſhewe the greatneſſe of grace, which ioyneth together ſtrangers from God, and maketh them the ſonnes of God, and of loue giueth freely the nobilitie of the Lord to his ſeruants. Free-will.

Rhem.6. 14. The Word made fleſh.) This is the high and diuine teſtimonie of Chriſtes incarnation, and that he vouchſafed to become man. for the acknowledging of which inexplicable benefite and giuing humble thankes for the ſame, all Chriſtian people in the world by tradition of the Fathers proſtrate them ſelues or kneele downe, when they heare it ſung or ſaid at the holy Maſſe, either in this Goſpel: or in the Creede by theſe wordes, ET HOMO FACTVS EST. Humble kneeling at the ſolemne words of Chriſtes incarnation.

Fulke.6. Blind deuotion of ignorant Papiſtes, who vnderſtand not the wordes, much leſſe the myſterie expreſſed in theſe wordes, Verbum caro factum eſt, or Homo factus eſt, at which they kneele (as you ſay) although I ſuppoſe it is not generally obſerued of all Papiſtes. Superſtition.

Rhem. 18. No man hath ſeene.) Neuer man in this mortalitie ſawe God in the very ſhape and naturall forme of the diuine eſſence, but men ſee him onely in the ſhape of viſible creatures, in or by which it pleaſeth him to ſhew him ſelfe vnto many diuerſly in this world: but neuer in ſuch ſort as when he ſhewed him ſelfe in the perſon of the ſonne of God, being made truely man and conuerſing with men. Howe mortall men ſee God.

32. The Spirit.) Here is an euident teſtimonie of the third Perſon in Trinitie, which is the Holy Ghoſt: ſo that in this one Chapter we ſpeake expreſly againſt all Hereſikes, Iewes, and Pagans, ſet forth the truethe of the Churches doctrine concerning the whole Trinitie. The B. Trinitie.

42. Looking

Rhem.7. 42. Looking vpon him.) This beholding of Simon, inſinuateth Chriſtes deſignement and preferring of him to be the chiefe Apoſtle, the Rocke of the Church, and his Vicar. and therefore vpon that Diuine prouidence and inſtitution he accordingly changeth his name, calling him for Simon, Cephas, which is a Syriake word, as much to ſay as Rocke or ſtone. And S. Paul commonly calleth him by his name Cephas, whereas other both Greekes and Latines call him altogether by the Greke word, Peter, which ſignifieth the ſelfe ſame thing. Whereof S. Cyril ſayth, that our Sauiour by foretelling that his name ſhould no more now be Simon, but Peter, did by the word it ſelfe aptly ſignifie, that on him, as on a rocke and ſtone moſt firme, he would build his Church.

Peter by his new name deſigned to be Rocke of the Church.

Cephas. Petrus. Li.2.c.12 in Ioan.

Fulke.7. A wretched concluſion: Chriſt looked vpon Peter, ergo he appointed and preferred him to be chiefe Apoſtle, the rocke of his Church, and his Vicar. The addition of his name Cephas, proueth, that he was appointed to be a ſtone, whereon the Church ſhould be builded, but not a ſingular or the onely rocke thereof, no more then the addition, of Boanerges proueth that Iames and Iohn were the only children of thunder, or that Barnabas was the only ſonne of Conſolation. Neither was the name of Simon changed, for he was ſtill called Simon, by our Sauiour Chriſt, Math.16.17. chap.17.25. Luke 22.31. and Iohn 21.15. and by Iames Act.15.14. That Chriſt builded his Church vpon Peter, as vpon a rocke, and moſt firme ſtone (as Cyrillus ſayth) it is no controuerſie, ſeeing he built it ioyntly vpon the foundation of all the Apoſtles: and the faith and doctrine of Peter, which was the fauth and doctrine of all the Apoſtles, is the rocke, whereupon the Church is builded, and not the perſon of Peter, as the ſame Cyrill teſtifyeth, Dialog. de Trinit. lib.4. in Eſai lib.4.

Peters prerogatiue.

CHAP. II.

Rhem.1. At the requeſt of his mother he worketh his firſt miracle, turning water into wine at a mariage in Galilee, although the time of his manifeſtation be not yet come. 12 Then in Hieruſalem at Paſche, being but one, and yet obſcure, he throweth out of the Temple moſt miraculouſly all the marchants. 18 And being yet of the blind Iewes asked a ſigne, he ſignifieth ſo long before, that they ſhould kill him, but he will riſe againe the third day. 23 Which alſo preſently they would do, but that he knowing their falſe hartes (though many beleeue in him) will not tarie among them.

Fulke.1 The virgine Marie maketh no expreſſe requeſt vnto our Sauiour Chriſt, to worke any miracle, and if ſhe did, yet he did nothing at her requeſt, but according to his owne wiſdome and good will.

The Goſpel vpon the 2. Sunday after the Epiphanie.

AND the third day there was a mariage made in Cana of Galilee: and the mother of IESVS was there.

2 And ‖ IESVS alſo was called, and his Diſciples to the mariage.

3 And the wine failing, the mother of IESVS ſayth to him, ‖ They haue no wine.

4 And IESVS ſaith to her, What is to me and thee woman? my houre cõmeth not yet.

5 His mother ſaith to ỹ miniſters, ‖ Whatſoeuer he ſhall ſay to you, doe ye.

6 And there were ſet there ſixe waterpottes of ſtone, according to the purification of the Iewes, holding euery one two or three meaſures.

7 IESVS ſaith to them, Fill the waterpottes with water. And they filled them vp to the toppe.

8 And IESVS ſaith to them, Draw nowe, and carie to the chiefe ſteward. And they caried it.

9 And after the chiefe ſteward taſted the ‡ water made wine, and knewe not whence it was, but the miniſters knewe that had drawne the water: the chiefe ſteward calleth the bridegrome,

10 And ſaith to him, Euery man firſt ſetteth the good wine: and when they haue wel drunke, then that which is worſe. But thou haſt kept the good wine vntill nowe.

11 This beginning of miracles did IESVS in Cana of Galilee: and he manifeſted his glorie, and his Diſciples beleeued in him.

3 And when they wanted wine, the mother of Ieſus ſaith vnto him, They haue no wine.

4 Ieſus ſaith vnto her, Woman, what haue I to doe with thee? mine houre is not yet come.

5 His mother ſaith vnto the † miniſters, †Or, ſeruants. Whatſoeuer he ſaith vnto you, doe it.

7 Ieſus ſaith vnto them, Fill the water pottes with water. And they filled them vp to the brimme.

8 And he ſaith vnto them, Draw out nowe, and beare vnto the gouernour of the feaſt. And they bare it.

9 When the ruler of the feaſt haſt taſted the water that was made wine (and knew not whence it was, but the miniſters which drewe the water knewe) the gouernour of the feaſt calleth the bridegrome,

10 And ſaith vnto him, Euery man at the beginning doeth ſet foorth good wine, and when the gheſtes haue well dronke, then that which is worſe: but thou haſt kept the good wine vntill nowe.

11 This beginning of miracles did Ieſus in Cana of Galilee, and ſhewed his glorie: and his diſciples beleeued on him.

12 After this he went downe to Capernaum, and his mother, and his brethren, and and his Diſciples: and there they remained not many dayes.

The Goſpel vpon Munday in the fourth weeke of Lent.

13 And the Paſche of the Iewes was at hand, and IESVS went vp to Hieruſalem:

14 And he found in the temple them that ſolde oxen and ſheepe and doues, and the bankers ſitting.

15 And when hee had made as it were a whip of litle coardes, he ‖ caſt them all out of the temple, the ſheepe alſo and the oxen, and the money of the bankers he powred out, and the tables he ouerthrewe.

16 And to them that ſold doues, he ſaid, Take away theſe things hence, and make not ỹ houſe of my father, a houſe of marchādiſe.

17 And his diſciples remembred that it is Pſa.68,10. written, The zeale of thy houſe hath eaten me.

18 The Iewes therefore anſwered and ſaid to him, What ſigne doeſt thou ſhew vs, that thou doeſt theſe things?

19 IESVS anſwered and ſaide to them, Mat.26,61. 27,40. *Diſſolue this temple, and in three dayes I will rayſe it.

20 The Iewes therefore ſaide, In fourtie and ſixe yeres was this temple built, and wilt thou raiſe it in three dayes?

21 But he ſpake of ỹ temple of his body.

22 Therefore when he was riſen againe from the dead, his diſciples remembred, that he ſaid this, and they beleeued the Scripture and the word that IESVS did ſay.

23 And whē he was at Hieruſalem in the Paſche, vpon ỹ feſtiuall day, many beleeued in his name, ſeeing his ſignes which he did.

his Diſciples, and there continued not many dayes.

13 And the Iewes Paſſeouer was at hand, and Ieſus went vp to Hieruſalem,

14 And found ſitting in the Temple thoſe that ſold oxen, and ſheepe, and doues, and changers of money.

15 And when hee had made as it were a ſcourge of ſmall cordes, he drowe them all out of the Temple, with the ſheepe and oxen, and powred out the changers money, and ouerthrewe the tables:

16 And ſaide vnto them that ſolde doues, Haue theſe things hence, & make not my fathers houſe an houſe of marchandiſe.

17 And his diſciples remembred that it was written, * The zeale of thine houſe hath euen Pſal.69.10. eaten me.

18 Then anſwered the Iewes, and ſaide vnto him, What token ſheweſt thou vnto vs, ſeeing that thou doeſt theſe things?

19 Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, *Mar.26.61. and 27.40. mar.14.58. and 15.29. Deſtroy this Temple, and in three dayes I will reare it vp.

20 Then ſaid the Iewes, Fourtie and ſixe yeres was this Temple a building, and wilt thou reare it vp in three dayes?

21 But he ſpake of the Temple of his body.

22 When therefore he was riſen from death, his diſciples remembred that he thus had ſaide: and they beleeued the Scripture, and the wordes which Ieſus had ſaid.

23 When he was in Hieruſalem at the Paſſeouer, in the feaſt day, many beleeued on his name, when they ſawe his miracles which he did.

24 But Ieſus did not commit him ſelfe vnto them, becauſe he knewe all men,

25 And needed not that any ſhould teſtifie of man: for he knewe what was in man.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 2. 9. Water made wine.) He that ſeeth water turned into wine, needeth not diſpute or doubt howe Chriſt changed bread into his body.

Fulke. 2. He that ſeeth water turned into wine, and ſeeth that by all ſenſes, it is iudged ſo to be, hath neede to knowe, howe bread is turned into the naturall body of Chriſt, contrary to the iudgement of all his ſenſes. When the Scripture neuer mentioneth any ſuch conuerſion: yea when it is certaine by the Scriptures, that the body of Chriſt neuer leeſeth the eſſentiall properties of a body, he hath neede to knowe, howe the body of Chriſt can be vnder ſuch a ſhape, wherein it hath no eſſentiall properties of a naturall organicall body. Tranſubſtantiation.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. II.

Rhem. 3. 2. IESVS alſo was called.) By his vouchſauing to come with his to the Mariage, he approueth the cuſtome of the Faithful in meeting at honeſt feſtes and recreations for maintenance of loue, peace, & amitie among themſelues: he reproueth the hereſie of Tatian, Marcion, and ſuch like condemning wedlocke: Laſtly (as S. Cyrill ſaith) he ſanctifieth and bleſſeth the Mariage of the Faithfull in the new Teſtament, making it a new creature in him, and diſcharging it of the manifold maledictions and diſorders wherein it was before. By which benediction the often diuorces, remariages, & pluralities of wines, and the womens ſeruile ſubiection and imparitie in that caſe, be redreſſed and reduced to the primitiue inſtitution, and ſo Chriſtian mariage made a Sacrament. See S. Aug. de nupt. & concup. li. 1. c. 10. & 21. li. 1. de aduk. coning. c. 8. Chriſt with his preſence honoureth and approueth mariage. Cyrill. in 2. Ioe. c. 22.

Fulke. 3. The only preſence of Chriſt at ỹ mariage, is not ſufficient to make it a Sacrament, as Baptiſme & the Lords Supper are ſacraments. But his word of inſtitution, muſt come to the outward element, that it may be made a ſacrament: as Auguſtine teacheth expreſly Tract. 70. in Ioan. de Cataclyſmo c. 3. S. Auguſtine in the places by you quoted, nameth mariage a ſacrament, as he doth many other things: but not a ſacrament of the new Teſtament, ỹ inſtitution whereof, he acknowledgeth to haue bin before mans fall, de nup. & con. li. 1. c. 21. the ſame teacheth the maſter of the ſentence, lib. 4. diſt. 2. Mariage no ſacrament.

3. They

Rhem. 4. 3. They haue no wine.) Our Lady many waies vnderſtood that now the time approched of manifeſting himſelf to the world by miracles and preaching, and nothing doubted but that hee would now begin at her requeſt. Whereby we learne that Chriſt ordinarily giueth not his graces, but humbly asked and requeſted thereunto, and that his mothers interceſſion is more then vulgarly effectual, and that he denieth her nothing. Our Ladies intercession.

Fulke 4. Whether the bleſſed Virgin knew the time of the manifeſtation of Chriſt, it is not certaine: but it is moſt certaine that Chriſt knewe his owne time better then ſhe, and therefore had no neede to be admoniſhed by her. Although the words doe import no requeſt, but only ſignifie that the wine failed. Whereby ſhe might meane, that ſhe did modeſtly referre it to his pleaſure, whether hee would ſupply the want of the wine by ſome godly exhortation, or by working a miracle. If ſhe were perſwaded that he would beginne his miracles at her requeſt (as you are bolde without all warrant to affirme,) ſhe was much deceiued: for he would not yelde to her motion, whatſoeuer her meaning was. Therefore this place nothing fauoureth her interceſſion to Chriſt, and much leſſe our prayers to her. The intercession of the B. Virgin.

Rhem. 5. 4. What is to me and thee?) Becauſe this ſpeach is ſubiect to diuers ſenſes, we keepe the wordes of our text, leſt by turning it into any Engliſh phraſe, we might ſtraiten the holy Ghoſts intention to ſome certaine ſenſe either not intended, or not only intended, and ſo take away the doubt and indifferencie from the reader, whereof (in holy Scripture ſpecially) al Tranſlatours muſt beware. Chriſt then may meane here, What is that, woman, to me and thee being but ſtrangers, that they want wine? as ſome interpret it, or (which is the more proper vſe of that kinde of ſpeach in holy write) what haue I to doe with thee? that is, why ſhould I haue reſpect to thy deſire in this caſe? In matters touching my charge, and the commiſſion of my father for preaching, working miracles, and other graces, I muſt not be tied to fleſh and blood. Which was not a reprehenſion of our Lady, or ſignification that hee would not heare her in this or other things pertaining to Gods glory or the good of men, for the euent ſheweth the contrary, but it was a leſſon to the company that heard it, & namely to his Diſciples, that reſpect of kinred ſhould not draw them to doe any thing againſt reaſon, or to be the principal motion why they doe their duties, but Gods glorie. Translators of holy Scriptures.

Fulke 5. The phraſe is no more ſubiect to diuers ſenſes here, then Matth. 8. 29. where the only ſenſe is, What haue we to doe with thee, Ieſus thou Sonne of God. Therefore your later interpretation is right, Chriſt had nothing to doe with his mother, nor ſhe with him, in matters pertaining to his office, and commiſſion of his Father. And therefore his wordes were a reprehenſion of her intermedling, with that ſhe had nothing to doe. For we may not ſo excuſe her, that we accuſe our Sauiour Chriſt, who did not reprehend her vniuſtly, but as ſhe deſerued, though not onely for her owne cauſe, but for inſtruction to others, who might take offence by her interpellation, to thinke that he was in matters of his office, ſubiect to his mother, which he vtterly denieth: and therefore doth nothing at her requeſt, but as he himſelfe ſaw it expedient. Chryſoſtome vpon this place, Hom. 20. thinketh that ſhe was tickled with vaine glory and ambition, as alſo when ſhe ſent to ſpeake vnto him, when hee was preaching. Matth. 12. 4. Which although it be not gathered out of the text neceſſarily, yet it ſheweth that the Virgin Marie (in his iudgement) was not voyde of ſinne, nor ſo reputed of the ancient fathers. The B. Virgine not free from ſinne.

Rhem. 6. 5. Whatſoeuer he ſhal ſay.) By this you ſee, our Lady by her diuine prudence and entiere familiaritie and acquaintance with al his maner of ſpeaches, knewe it was no checke to her, but a doctrine to others: and that ſhe had no repulſe, though he ſeemed to ſay his time was not yet come to worke miracles: not doubting but he would begin a litle before his ordinary time for her ſake, as S. Cyril thinketh he did: and therefore ſhe admoniſheth the waiters to marke wel, and to execute whatſoeuer Chriſt ſhould bid them doe. Our Lady doubteth not but Chriſt will graunt her petition. li. 2. in Ioa. 23.

Fulke 6. It cannot be proued by theſe wordes, that ſhe tooke not the reprehenſion of Chriſt, to pertaine vnto her: but rather the contrary, ſeeing that now ſhe requireth perfect obedience to be giuen to his word, no longer taking vpon her to admoniſh him. Where you ſay, our Lady by her diuine prudence, &c. the ſpeach is inſolent, and can not be excuſed of blaſphemie, whatſoeuer your meaning is. For though ſhe were endued with ſingular wiſdome of Gods ſpirit, yet it cannot be rightly called her diuine prudence. Further, where you ſay that ſhe doubteth not, but Chriſt will graunt her petition, you ſpeake beſide the booke, ſeeing the Goſpel maketh no mention of any petition, neither could ſhe haue faith or certaine perſwaſion of a miracle, ſeeing he had not onely not promiſed any ſuch thing, but alſo ſharpely rebuked her, for offering to intermedle in ſuch matters, as did not appertaine vnto her. Againe, what wilfull blindneſſe is this? that you wil not acknowledge that Chriſt ſaid directly and expreſly, his time was not come, but that ſhe had no repulſe though he ſeemed to ſay, his time was not come. Shall we beleeue you, or the Euangeliſt? which reporteth that he ſaide, my time is not yet come. Finally, where you ſay, ſhe doubted not but he would begin a litle before his ordinary time for her ſake, as S. Cyril thinketh he did, it is monſtrous preſumption to aſcribe ſuch perſwaſions to the bleſſed Virgin, wherein ſhe ſhould haue grieuouſly offended: if being before admoniſhed that he had nothing to doe with her in ſuch matters, and that his time was not yet come: contrary to his expreſſe word, ſhe ſhould haue conceiued ſuch preſumptuous perſwaſions as you aſcribe vnto her. Neither doth Cyrillus thinke (as you ſay) neither can any ſuch thought be gathered out of the words of that chapter. He ſheweth (ſaith Cyrillus) how great honour is due to parents, when ſtraightway he for his mother, commeth to the act, which as much as was in him, he had differred for a ſhort time. Theſe words of Cyril declare, that he taried the full time which in his diuine wiſdome he ſaw to be moſt expedient for working this miracle. The Virgine Mary iuſtly reprehended.

Rhem. 7. 15. Caſt them out) By this chaſtiſing corporally the defilers and abuſers of the Temple, he doth not onely ſhewe his power, that being but one poore man he could by force execute his pleaſure vpon ſo many ſturdy fellowes: but alſo his ſouereine authoritie ouer al offenders, and that not vpon their ſoules onely, as by excommunication and ſpiritual penalties, but ſo far as is requiſite for the execution of ſpiritual iuriſdiction, vpon their bodies and goods alſo. That the Spiritualtie may learne how far and in what caſes, for inſt zeale of Chriſts Church, they may vſe and exerciſe both ſpiritually and temporally their forces and faculties againſt offenders, ſpecially againſt the prophaners of Gods Church, according to the Apoſtles alluſion, 1. Cor. 3. If any defile the Temple of God, him wil God deſtroy. Profaners of Gods Church are to be puniſhed in ſoul and body by the Spiritual power.

Fulke 7. Chriſt as King and high Prieſt, yea very God, had all auctoritie to puniſh offenders, in ſoule, body & goods: but the miniſters of the Church his ſeruants by this example, may not take vpon them temporall puniſhment of men, in body and goods at their pleaſure: whereby you inſinuate the Antichriſtian power, which the Pope would vſurpe, not onely to excommunicate Princes, but alſo to procure conſpiracies againſt their liues, to murther The tyrannie of Antichriſt.

murther them, and to depriue them of their kingdoms and dignities, contrary to the manifeſt Scriptures, and the iudgement of all the godly fathers of the Primitiue Church. For it is manifeſt that Chriſt in this place, vſeth his diuine auctoritie, as he declareth by raiſing vp ỹ temple of his body, after it was by them put to death. Cyril in Ioan. lib. 2. cap. 32. Chryſoſt. in Ioan. hom. 22. None but Antichriſt therefore, that boaſteth himſelfe as God, will preſume to doe, that which Chriſt here did by the ſame warrant that he did it. The ciuil auctoritie of Magiſtrates, is otherwiſe ſufficiently eſtabliſhed euer mens bodies and goods.

Rhem. 8. 24. IESVS committed not himſelfe.) S. Auguſtine at plieth this their firſt faith and beleefe in Chriſt, ſidenly reſted vpon the admiration of his wonders, but yet not fully formed or eſtabliſhed in them, vnto the faith of Nouices or Catechumens in the Church: and Chriſts not committing his Perſon to them as yet, to the Churches like warineſſe and wiſedom, in not opening nor giuing to them our Lord in the B. Sacrament, becauſe al were not to be truſted with that high point without full trial of their faith. Tract. 25 Io. 11. The B. Sacrament is not to be giuen to nouices or younglings in faith.

Fulke 8. Howſoeuer this doctrine be grounded vpon the text, the Papiſts practiſe commonly againſt it, who giue the Sacrament commonly to them that were neuer inſtructed in the myſteries of Chriſtian religion, if they once come to yeeres of diſcretion, although they know neither the Lords prayer, tenne Commandements, articles of faith, or any thing els neceſſary to ſaluation: except it be to pronounce the words ill fauouredly, in a tongue whereof they haue none vnderſtanding. Ignorance in the Popiſh Church.

CHAP. III.

Rhem. 1. He teacheth Nicodemus, that to come to the kingdom of God, Baptiſme is neceſſary, as being our Regeneration. 10 Which point Nicodemus as then not vnderſtanding, 11 he ſheweth that they muſt beleeue him, and what good cauſe there is for them ſo to doe. 23. After this he alſo baptizeth, & Iohn likewiſe at the ſame time. 25 Whereupon a queſtion being moued, Whether Baptiſme is better, 25 Iohn anſwereth it by ſaying, that he is ſo far inferiour to Chriſt, as a mere man to God moſt high.

Fulke. 1. Spiritual baptiſme with the holy Ghoſt, is neceſſary to ſaluation, as our regeneration: whereof the outward baptiſme is a ſeale, not to be neglected where it may be had according to Gods inſtitution. The neceſſitie of Baptiſme.

The Goſpel vpon Holy Roode day, Maij 3.

AND there was a man of the Phariſees, named Nicodemus, a prince of ỹ Iewes.

2 This man came to IESVS by night, and ſaid to him, Rabbi, we know ỹ thou art come from God a maiſter, for no man can do theſe ſignes which thou doeſt, vnles God be ẅ him.

3 IESVS anſwered, & ſaid to him, Amen, Amen I ſay to thee, Vnles a man be borne againe, he can not ſee the kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus ſaid to him, How can a man be borne, when he is olde? can he enter into his mothers wombe againe and be borne?

5 IESVS anſwered, Amen, Amen I ſay to thee, Vnles a man be ‖ borne againe of water and the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is borne of the fleſh, is fleſh: and that which is borne of the ſpirit, is ſpirit.

7 Marueil not, that I ſaide to thee, You muſt be borne againe.

‡ We follow rather S. Auguſt. and thoſe ancient fathers, which moſt commonly vnderſtand this place of the holy Ghoſt, and not of the wind: although both ſenſes be good.

8 The ſpirit breatheth where ‡ he will: and thou heareſt his voice, but thou knoweſt not whence he commeth & whither he goeth: ſo is euery one that is borne of the Spirit.

9 Nicodemus anſwered, and ſaid to him, How can theſe things be done?

10 IESVS anſwered, & ſaid to him, Thou art a maiſter in Iſrael, and art thou ignorant of theſe things?

11 Amen, Amen I ſay to thee, that we ſpeake that which we know, and that which we haue ſeen we teſtifie, and our teſtimonie you receiue not.

12 If I haue ſpoken to you earthly things, and you beleeue not: how if I ſhal ſpeake to you heauenly things, wil you beleeue?

13 And

THere was a man of the Phariſees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Iewes:

2 The ſame came to Ieſus by night, and ſaide vnto him, Rabbi, wee knowe that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can doe theſe miracles that thou doſt, except God be with him.

3 Ieſus anſwered, and ſaide vnto him, Verily, verily I ſay vnto thee, except a man bee borne from aboue, he can not ſee the kingdome of God.

4 Nicodemus ſaith vnto him, How can a man be borne when he is olde? can he enter the ſecond time into his mothers wombe, and be borne?

5 Ieſus anſwered, Verily, verily I ſay vnto thee, except a man be borne of water and of the ſpirit, hee can not enter into the kingdome of God.

6 That which is borne of the fleſh, is fleſh, and that which is borne of the ſpirit, is ſpirit.

7 Marueile not thou that I ſaide vnto thee, Ye muſt be borne from aboue.

8 The winde bloweth where it luſteth, and thou heareſt the ſounde thereof, but canſt not tell whence it commeth, and whither it goeth: So is euery one that is borne of the ſpirit.

9 Nicodemus anſwered, and ſaide vnto him, How can theſe things be?

10 Ieſus anſwered, and ſaide vnto him, Art thou a maſter of Iſrael, and knoweſt not theſe things?

11 Verily, verily I ſay vnto thee, We ſpeake that we doe knowe, & teſtifie that we haue ſeene: and ye receiue not our witneſſe.

12 If I haue tolde you earthly things, and yee beleeue not: how ſhal ye beleeue if I tell you of heauenly things?

13 And

13 And no man hath aſcended into heauen, but he that deſcended from heauen, the Sonne of man which is in heauen.

Nu.21.9. 14 And as *Moyſes exalted the ſerpent in the deſert, ſo muſt ỹ Sõne of man be exalted:

15 That euery one which beleeueth in him, periſh not, but may haue life euerlaſting.

The Goſpel vpon Munday in the whitſonwecke. 16 For ſo God loued the worlde, that he gaue his onely-begotten ſonne: that euery one that beleeueth in him, periſh not, but may haue life euerlaſting.

17 For God ſent not his ſonne into the world, to iudge the world, but that the world may be ſaued by him.

18 He ỹ beleeueth in him, is not iudged. but he that doeth not beleeue, ‖ is already iudged: becauſe he hath not beleeued in the name of the only-begotten ſonne of God.

19 And this is the iudgement: becauſe the light is come into the worlde, and men haue loued the darkeneſſe rather then the light: for their workes were euil.

20 For euery one that doeth il, hateth the light, and commeth not to the light, that his workes may not be controuled.

21 But he that doeth veritie, commeth to the light, that his workes may be made manifeſt, becauſe they were done in God.

22 After theſe things IESVS came and his Diſciples into the countrie of Iewrie: and there he abode with them, and baptized.

23 And Iohn alſo was baptizing in Ænon beſide Salim: becauſe there was much water there, & they came, & were baptized.

24 For Iohn was not yet caſt into priſon.

25 And there roſe a queſtion of Iohns diſciples ẅ the Iewes concerning purification.

26 And they came to Iohn, and ſaide to him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyonde Iordan, to whom *thou didſt giue teſtimonie, Io.1.19. behold he baptizeth, and al come to him.

17 For God ſent not his ſonne into the worlde to cõdemne the world: but that the world through him might be ſaued.

18 He that beleeueth on him, is not condemned: but he that beleeueth not, is condemned already, becauſe he hath not beleeued in the name of the onely begotten ſonne of God.

*19 * And this is the cõdemnation, that light is come into the world, & men loued darknes rather then light: becauſe their deedes were euil. Iohn 1.4.

20 For euery one that euill doeth, hateth the light, neither cõmeth to the light, leaſt his deedes ſhould be reproued.

21 But he that doeth trueth, commeth to the light, that his deedes may be made manifeſt, that they are wrought in God.

29 He that hath the bride, is the bridegrome: but the friende of the bridegrome, which ſtandeth and heareth him, reioyceth greatly becauſe of the bridegromes voyce: This my ioy therefore is fulfilled.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. III.

Rhem.2. 5. Borne againe of water.) As no man can enter into this world nor haue his life and being in the ſame except he be borne of his carnal parents: no more can a man enter into the life and ſtate of grace which is in Chriſt, or attaine to life euerlaſting, vnles he be borne anẽ baptized of water and the Holy Ghoſt. Whereby we ſee firſt, this Sacrament to be called our regeneration or ſecond birth, in reſpect of our natural and carnal which was before. Secondly, that this Sacrament conſiſteth of an external element of water, and internal vertue of the Holy Spirit: wherein it excelleth Iohns Baptiſme, which had the external element, but not the ſpiritual grace. Thirdly, that no mã can enter into the kingdom of God, nor into the felowſhip of Holy Church, without it. Whereby the Pelagians and Caluinists be condemned, that promiſe life euerlaſting to yong children that die without Baptiſme, and al other that thinke onely faith to ſerue, or the external element of water ſuperfluous or not neceſſarie: our Sauiours wordes being plaine and general. Though in this caſe, God which hath not bound his grace, in reſpect of his owne freedome, to any Sacrament, may and doth accept them as baptized, which either are martyred before they could be baptized, or els depart this life with vow and deſire to haue that Sacrament, but by ſome remedileſſe neceſſitie could not obtaine it. Laſtly, it is proued that this Sacrament giueth grace ex opere operato, that is, of the worke it ſelf (which al Proteſtants denie) becauſe it ſo breedeth our ſpiritual life in God, as our carnal birth giueth the life of the world.* Baptiſme in water neceſſary to ſalution. *Auguſt. hæreſ.88. Baptiſme in two caſes not neceſſarie, but otherwiſe ſupplied.

Fulke 2. It is not neceſſarie in this place by water to vnderſtand materiall water, but rather the purifying grace of Chriſt, as in the 4.Chap.ver.11. wherof the waſhing with water in baptiſme, is an outward ſigne or ſeale, which alſo is termed fire, Matth.3.11. The water therefore in Baptiſme is not our regeneration properly, but a Sacrament and ſeale thereof. Secondly, where you ſay, that Iohns Baptiſme had not the ſpiritual grace, it is falſe, for it had remiſſion of ſinnes ioyned vnto it, Mark.1.4. although not of the miniſterie of Iohn, but of Chriſt the fountaine of all grace. The neceſſitie of Baptiſme. Iohns baptiſme

Thirdly, where you ſay, No man can enter into the kingdome of heauen, without externall Baptiſme, you teach the contrary your ſelfe ſoone after, ſaying, that in two caſes, it is not neceſſarie.

Fourthly, you ſlander Caluine, to match him with the Pelagians, which promiſed eternall life to all infants, without Baptiſme, in reſpect of their innocencie, denying Originall ſinne. Whereas Caluine holdeth all infants vnder the ſentence of eternal damnation for the guilt of Original ſinne, yet excepteth the elect who are borne againe by the Spirit of God, although the Sacrament of Baptiſme be ſometime lacking, not through their default, but becauſe they are preuented by death. In which caſe it is otherwiſe ſupplied, as in your two caſes. Slander.

Fifthly, you ſlander Caluine and vs, whom you charge to thinke, that only faith doth ſo ſerue, that the external element of water is ſuperfluous or not neceſſary when it may be had according to Chriſts inſtitution. For in ſome caſes you confeſſe it not neceſſary. And in deed the words of our ſauiour Chriſt, are not properly of ỳ external Sacrament, more then Ioh.6. of the other Sacrament. Except you eat the fleſh of the Sonne of man & drinke his blood, you haue no life in you. Whereas al infants are excluded frõ that Sacrament, and conſequently ſhould be excluded from life, if the words were meant of the outward Sacrament. And the fathers of the ancient Church, which thought Baptiſme was neceſſary, did likewiſe thinke the Communion to be as neceſſary for infants as Auguſtine, Innocentius biſhop of Rome, and all the Church of their time, for any thing that we can gather by their writings. Finally, when the worde of water in this text, ſignifieth the purifying grace of Chriſt, rather then the outward element of Baptiſme, here can be no Argument drawne out of this place, that Sacraments conferre grace of the worke wrought, but according to the diſpenſation of Gods ſpirit, which worketh according to his owne pleaſure, as in this Chapter, verſ.8. and 1.*Cor.*12. Slander. Worke wrought.

Rhem. 18. Is iudged already.) He that beleeueth in Chriſt with faith which worketh by charitie (as the Apoſtle ſpeaketh) ſhall not be cõdemned at the Later day nor at the houre of his death. But the Infidel, he be Iew, Pagan, or Heretike is already (if he die in his incredulitie) by his own proſſion & ſentence condemned, & ſhal not come to iudgement either particular or generall, to be diſcuſſed according to his workes of mercie done or omitted. In which ſenſe S. Paul ſaith that the obſtinate Heretike is condemned by his owne iudgement, pronuncing in himſelf of his owne free will, the ſentence both of Chriſt, and of the Church. Gal.5.6. Euery infidel, and namely heretikes, are iudged already. Tit.3.11.

Rhem.3. 31. He that commeth from aboue.) As though he ſhould ſay, No marual that men reſort to Chriſt ſo firſt & make leſſe account of me. For, his baptiſme and his preaching and his perſon came from heauen immediatly. He bringeth al from the very boſome, mouth, & ſubſtance of God his Father. whatſoeuer is in me, it but a litle drop of his grace. His ſpirit and graces are aboue al meaſures or mens gifts, euen according to his Manhood: and al power temporal and ſpiritual, the kingdom and the Prieſthod, and al ſouerainti in heauen and earth are beſtowed vpon him as he is man alſo. The excellencie of Chriſtes power and graces.

Fulke 3. The doctrine and Baptiſme of Iohn was from heauen, though there was infinite difference betweene the miniſterie of Iohn, and the Maieſtie of Chriſt. Iohns baptiſme.

CHAP.

CHAP. IIII.

Rhem. 1. Leauing Iewrie becauſe of the Phariſees, in the way to Galilee he talketh with a Samaritane woman, telling her that he wil giue water of euerlaſting life, 16 ſhewing himſelf to know mens ſecrets, 19 preferring the Iewes religion before the Samaritanes, but ours (the Chriſtian Catholike religion) before them both. 25 and vttering vnto her that he is Chriſt. 28 Which by her teſtimonie and his preaching very many Samaritanes doe beleeue: he in the meane time f retelling his Diſciples, of the harueſt he wil ſend them in to. 45 The Galileans alſo receiue him, where againe he worketh his ſecond miracle.

Fulke. 1. Poperie is not the Catholike Chriſtian Religion which Chriſt preferreth, ſeeing it conſiſteth as much as the Iewiſh or heathniſh, in external obſeruation and ceremonies not inſtituted of God, but deuiſed by men, to ouer ſhadowe the light of the Goſpel, therefore worſhippeth God in vaine, not according to his word, in ſpirit and trueth. Mat. 15. 9. Col. 2. 22. 23.

Poperie is not Catholike Chriſtian religion.

WHen IESVS therefore vnderſtoode ỹ the Phariſees heard ỹ IESVS maketh mo Diſciples, and baptizeth, then Iohn,

2 (Howbeit ‡ IESVS did not baptize, but his Diſciples)

3 He left Iewrie, and went againe into Galilee.

4 And hee had of neceſſitie to paſſe through Samaria.

The Goſpel vpon Friday in ỹ third weeke in Lent. Gen. 48, 2.

5 He commeth therefore into a citie of Samaria which is called Sichar: * beſide the maner that Iacob gaue to Ioſeph his ſonne.

6 And there was there the fountaine of Iacob. IESVS therefore wearied of his iourney, ſate ſo vpon the fountaine. It was about the ſixt houre.

‡ This woman is a figure of ỹ Church, not yet iuſtified, but now to be iuſtified. Aug. tract. 15. in Io.

7 There commeth ‡ a woman of Samaria to draw water, IESVS ſaith to her, Giue me to drinke.

8 For his Diſciples were gone into the citie, to bie meates.

9 Therefore that Samaritane woman ſaith to him, How doeſt thou being a Iewe, aske of me to drinke, which am a Samaritane woman? For the Iewes ‡ do not communicate with the Samaritanes.

There were many other cauſes why the faithful Iewes could not abide the Samaritans, bu: their preciſe abſtayning from their companie & converſation, was their Schiſmatical Temple & ſeruice in mount Garizim.

10 IESVS anſwered, and ſaid to her, If thou didſt know the gift of God, & who he is that ſaith vnto thee, Giue me to drinke: thou perhaps wouldeſt haue asked of him, and he would haue giuen thee c liuing water.

c He ſpeaketh of his baptizing in the holy Ghoſt. See Io. c. 7. 39.

11 The woman ſaith to him, Sir, neither haſt thou wherein to draw, and the wel is deepe: whence haſt thou the liuing water?

12 Art thou greater then our father Iacob, who gaue vs the wel, & him ſelf dranke of it, and his children, and his cattel?

13 IESVS anſwered, and ſaid to her, Euery one that drinketh of this water, ſhal thirſt againe: but he that ſhal drinke of the water that I wil giue him, ſhal not thirſt for euer, 14 But the water that I wil giue him, ſhal become in him a fountaine of water ſpringing vp vnto life euerlaſting.

15 The woman ſaith to him, Lord giue me this water, that I may no9 thirſt, nor come hither to draw.

After that the Lord knewe how the Phariſees had heard that Ieſus made and baptized mo diſciples then Iohn,

2 (Though that Ieſus him ſelfe baptized not, but his diſciples:)

3 Hee left Iewrie, and departed againe into Galilee.

4 For it was ſo that he muſt needes go thorowe Samaria.

*5 Then commeth he to a citie of Samaria, which is called Sychar, neere to the poſſeſſion * that Iacob gaue to his ſonne Ioſeph.* Gen. 33. 19. & 48. 22. ioſ. 24. 32.

6 And there was Iacobs well. Ieſus then being wearie of his iourney, ſate thus on the wel: and it was about the ſixth houre.

7 And there commeth a woman of Samaria to drawe water: Ieſus ſaith vnto her, Giue me drinke.

8 For his diſciples were gone away vnto the the towne to buy meate.

9 Then ſayeth the woman of Samaria vnto him, Howe is it that thou, being a Iewe, askeſt drinke of mee, which am a woman of Samaria? For the Iewes meddle not with the Samaritanes.

10 Ieſus anſwered, and ſayde vnto her, If thou kneweſt the gift of God, and who it is that ſayth to thee, Giue mee drinke: thou wouldeſt haue asked of him, and he would haue giuen thee water of life.

11 The woman ſayeth vnto him, Syr, thou haſt nothing to drawe with, and the well is deepe: from whence then haſt thou that water of life?

22 Art thou greater then our father Iacob, which gaue vs the well, and hee him ſelfe dranke thereof, and his children, and his cattell?

13 Ieſus anſwered, and ſayde vnto her, Whoſoeuer drinketh of this water, ſhall thirſt againe:

14 But whoſoeuer drinketh of the water that I ſhall giue him, ſhall neuer be more a thirſt: but the water that I ſhall giue him, ſhall be in him a well of water ſpringing vp into euerlaſting life.

15 The woman ſaith vnto him, Syr, giue me of that water, that I thirſt not, neither come hither to drawe.

16 IESVS ſaith to her, Goe, call thy huſband, and come hither.

17 The woman anſwered and ſaid, I haue no husband. IESVS ſaith to her, Thou haſt ſaid wel, that I haue no husband.

18 For thou haſt had fiue husbands: and he whom thou now haſt, is not thy husband, this thou haſt ſaid truely.

19 The woman ſaith to him, Lord, I perceiue that thou art a Prophet.

20 ¶ Our fathers adored in this mountaine, and you ſay, *that at Hieruſalem is the place where men muſt adore.

Deu.12,6. Pſal.121,13.

21 IESVS ſaith to her, Woman beleeue me, that the houre ſhal come, when you ſhal neither in this mountaine, nor in Hieruſalem adore the Father.

22 *You adore that you know not: we adore that we know, for ſaluatiō is of ỹ Iewes.

4.Reg.17,28 36.

23 But the houre commeth, and now it is, when thet rue adorers ſhal adore the Father ¶ in ſpirit and veritie. for the Father alſo ſeeketh ſuch, to adore him.

24 God is a ſpirit, and they that adore him, muſt adore in ſpirit and veritie.

25 The woman ſaith to him, I know that MESSIAS commeth, (which is called CHRIST): therefore when he commeth, he wil ſhew vs al things.

26 IESVS ſaith to her, I am he, that ſpeake with thee.

27 And incontinent his Diſciples came: and they marueiled that he talked with a woman. No man for al that ſaid, What ſeekeſt thou, or why talkeſt thou with her?

28 The woman therefore left her waterpot: and ſhe went into the citie, and ſaith to thoſe men,

29 Come, and ſee a man that hath tolde me al things whatſoeuer I haue done. Is not he CHRIST?

30 They went forth therefore out of the citie, and came to him.

31 In the meane time the Diſciples deſired him, ſaying, Rabbi eate.

32 But he ſaid to him, I haue meate to eate which you know not.

33 The Diſciples therefore ſaid one to an other, Hath any mā brought him for to eate?

34 IESVS ſaith to them, My meate is to doe the wil of hum that ſent me, to perfite his worke.

35 Doe not you ſay that yet there are foure moneths, and harueſt cōmeth? Behold I ſay to you, lift vp your eies, and ſee the coūtries, that they are white already to harueſt.

36 And

16 Ieſus ſayth vnto her, Goe, call thy huſband, and come hither.

17 The woman anſwered, and ſaid vnto him, I haue no huſband. Ieſus ſaid vnto her, Thou haſt wel ſaid, I haue no huſband.

18 For thou haſt had fiue huſbands: and he whom thou now haſt, is not thy huſband: In that ſaydeſt thou truely.

19 The woman ſayeth vnto him, Syr, I perceiue that thou art a Prophet.

20 Our fathers worſhipped in this mountaine, and ye ſay that in Hieruſalem is the place where men ought to worſhip.* Deut.12.6.

21 Ieſus ſaith vnto her, Woman, beleeue me, the houre commeth, when ye ſhall neither in this mountaine, nor yet at Hieruſalem worſhip the father.

*22 Ye worſhip ye wote not what, we knowe what we worſhip: for ſaluation commeth of the Iewes. 4.Reg.17.29

23 But the houre commeth, and now is, when the true worſhippers ſhal worſhip the father in ſpirit, and in trueth: for ſuch the father alſo requireth to worſhip him.

*24 * God is a ſpirite, and they that worſhip him, muſt worſhip him in ſpirite, and in the trueth.* 2.Cor.3.17.

25 The woman ſayth, vnto him, I wote that Meſſias commeth which is called Chriſt: When he is come, he wil tell vs all things.

26 Ieſus ſaith vnto her, I that ſpeake vnto thee, am he.

27 And immediatly came his diſciples, and marueiled that he talked with the woman: Yet no man ſaid, What ſeekeſt thou, or, Why talkeſt thou with her?

28 The woman then left her water pot, and went her way into the citie, and ſayth to the men,

29 Come, ſee a man which told me al things that euer I did: Is not he that Chriſt?

30 Then they went out of the citie, and came vnto him.

31 In the meane while his diſciples prayed him, ſaying, Maſter, eate.

32 He ſaid vnto them, I haue meate to eate that ye wote not of.

33 Therfore ſaid the diſciples one to another, Hath any man brought him ought to eate?

34 Ieſus ſayth vnto them, My meate is that I doe the will of him that ſent me, and finiſh his worke.

38 I haue sent you to reape that which you laboured not: others haue laboured, and you haue entred into their labours.

39 And of that citie many beleeued in him of the Samaritans, for the word of the ‡ woman giuing testimonie, that he told me al things whatsoeuer I haue done.

40 Therefore when the Samaritans were come to him, they desired him that he would tarie there. And he taried there two daies.

41 And many moe beleeued for his owne word.

42 And they said to the woman, That now not for thy saying doe we beleeue: for our selues haue heard, and doe know that this is the Sauiour of the world in deede.

43 And after the two daies he departed thence: and went into Galilee.

45 Therefore * when he was come into Galilee, the Galilæans receiued him, whereas they had seen al things that he had done at Hierusalem in the festiual day: for them selues also came to the festiual day.

46 He came againe therfore into Cana of Galilee, * Where he made water wine. And there was a certaine lord whose sonne was sicke at Capharnaum.

47 He hauing heard that IESVS came from Iewrie into Galilee, went to him, and desired him that he would come downe and heale his sonne, for he began to die.

48 IESVS therefore said to him, Vnlesse you see signes & wonders, you beleeue not.

49 The lord saith to him, Lord, come downe before that my sonne die.

50 IESVS saith to him, Goe, thy sonne liueth. The man beleeued ỹ word that IESVS said to him, and went.

51 And as he was now going downe, his seruants met him: and they brought word, saying, That his sonne liued.

MARGINAL NOTES. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem.2. 2 Ieſus did not baptize.) He did not baptize ordinarily, yet that he baptized his Apoſtles, S. Auguſtine thinketh is very probable, ep.108.

Fulke.2. S. Auguſtine thinketh the Apoſtles were baptized by Chriſt him ſelfe, rather then by Iohn, but without auctoritie of the Scripture, and contrarie to this expreſſe text. And therefore we muſt rather admit that which he ſaith in the ſame Epiſtle, reconciling this text with that of Iohn 3.22. That he baptized with the preſence of his maieſtie, but he baptized not with his owne hands. For the Sacrament of baptiſme was his but the miniſterie of baptizing, perteined to his diſciples. Againe, he baptized not by him ſelfe, but by his diſciples. And Tract.15.in Ioan. he affirmeth, that Chriſt baptized in ſpirite, as he doeth continually, not in body. Chryſoſt alſo in Ioan.3.22. hath theſe wordes. The Euangeliſt ſheweth afterward, that Ieſus him ſelfe baptized not, but his diſciples, whereupon it is manifeſt, that in this place alſo it is ſo to be vnderſtood. In Ioan. Hom.28 and vpon this text he ſaith: He himſelfe did not baptize, but the meſſengers did ſo report, when they would ſtirre vp the hearers to hatred of him: Hom.30. Cyrillus alſo vpon the former text, ſaith: Chriſt baptized by his diſciples. In Io. lib.2.cap.57. Euthymius vpon that place Io.3.22. readeth in the plural number. They baptized, and not he, for the Euangeliſt ſaith afterward, that Ieſus him ſelfe baptized not, but his diſciples. Againe he ſaith, ſome copies haue He baptized, which is vnderſtoode that he did not by him ſelfe, but by his diſciples. Bede alſo following S. Auguſtine, ſayth vpon this text: Ieſus did both baptize and not baptize. He him ſelfe baptized becauſe he him ſelfe cleanſed, he him ſelfe baptized not, becauſe hee did not him ſelfe dippe in water. Theophylact in Io.3.22. ſaith: When thou heareſt that he baptized, thinke not that he baptized by him ſelfe, but by his diſciples, for that worke of the diſciples, the Euangeliſt referreth to their maſter. Therefore the conſent of ſo manie fathers is to be preferred, before the bare coniecture of one father, and that againſt the expreſſe words of ỹ text.

Chriſt baptized not with water.

Rhem.3. 39 Woman giuing.) This woman myſtically being the Church, it is here ſignified, that they which as the firſt beleeue becauſe the Church teacheth ſo, afterward be much confirmed, finding it in the Scripture alſo, and by other inſtructions.

Fulke.3. They which beleeue becauſe the Church teacheth ſo, muſt afterward much rather beleeue, when they heare Chriſt him ſelfe, teach in the holie Scriptures.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. IIII.

Rhem.4. 20 Our Fathers adored.) By adoration is meant deing of ſacrifice, for other offices of Religion might be done in any place. The Samaritanes to defend their adoring in Garizim, pretended their worſhipping there to be more ancient then the Iewes in Hieruſalem, referring it to Iacob: whereas in deede that Patriarch adoring there before the Temple was appointed, or the Law giuen, made nothing for their Schiſme: which was begone by Manaſſes a fugitiue Prieſt, only to holde his vnlawful wiſe thereby, and to obtaine Superioritie, in Schiſme: which he could not doe in the vnitie of his brethren: long after the Temple of Hieruſalem, from which the reuolt was made. Therefore Chriſt giueth ſentence for the Iewes and the Temple of Hieruſalem, affirming that they had a good ground thereof, but the Samaritanes none at all.

The Schiſmatical temple contendeth againſt the true Temple.

Ioſephus alſo recordeth how the Samaritanes demaunded of Alexander the Great, the like priuileges, and immunities as he had graunted to the high Prieſt and Temple of Hieruſalem, pretending their Temple to be as great and as worthie, & themſelues to be Iewes as the other, and to worſhip the ſame God. but their Schiſmatical hypocriſie was eaſely ſpied and diſmiſſed with nothing. An other time the Iewes and Samaritanes (as the ſame writer teſtifieth) made a great ſtirre in Alexandria about the truth and antiquitie of the Schiſmatical temple and ſeruice in Garizim and the other true Temple of Salomon: inſo much that the matter was put to arbitrement by Ptolomeus the kings commaundement, onely to trie whether of the two was firſt. And the Schiſmatikes (as their cuſtome is) per ſaltum can make their Church or ſeruice as old as they liſt, referring it to the Patriarkes, as our Schiſmatikes do now to Chriſt and the Apoſtles. But when the trial was made, onely ſtory of Ieruſalem did inuincibly proue by continuall ſucceſſion of their Prieſts, and by the iuſt rote of the time when the Schiſmatikes went out from them, that theirs was the lawful, and the other the falſe temple and falſe adoration. and ſo it was iudged, and the Samaritanes put to ſilence. Afterward the ſaid Schiſmatikes (which is lightly the end of al Schiſmes) reuolted quite from the Iewes religion, and dedicated their temple in Garizim to Iupiter Olympius, as Caluins ſupper and his bread and wine is like at length to come to the ſacrifice of Ceres and Bacchus.

The true Temple premaileth. Ioſeph. lib. 13. antiq.c.6.

The true Temple is proued by continual ſucceſſion

Fulke.4. By adoration, is meant worſhipping of God generally, as the word plainely ſignifieth, and not offring of ſacrifice only, or chiefely. Neither could any office of Religion, be done, acceptably to God in any other place, by them that did not communicate with the arke and Temple at Ieruſalem. Which was not preferred in reſpect of antiquitie or ſucceſſion only, but becauſe it had the word of God in manie places of the Scriptures. Whereas the Sciſmaticall Temple, was directly contrarie to the holy Scriptures. Neither had the true Temple at Hieruſalem continuall ſucceſſion in the true worſhip of God, for it was diuers times prophaned, and the worſhip of God cleane taken from it, as in the daies of Achaz 2.Reg.16. and in the time of Manaſſes 2.Reg.21. Then was it laid waſt and deſtroyed, by the ſpace of 70. yeeres and was not after that fully builded in 46.yeres Ioan.3. After that reſtitution it was diuers times prophaned and polluted with Idolatrie, as in the tyrannie of Antiochus, when it was dedicated to Iupiter Olympius. 2.Macc.6. and at other times. Therefore the auctoritie of the Scripture, was the only ſufficient warant thereof, as it is of true Religion at this daie. The Lord reuenge your blaſphemie againſt his holy ſupper, which is celebrated by our Church, according to that we haue receiued of the Lord him ſelfe in the Goſpel, wherein you can ſhew no ground for your Popiſh Maſſe.

23 In Spirit and veritie.) Our Sauiour foretelleth her that the end and ceasing of their ſacrifice and adoration in both the Temples ſhould ſhortly be, and euen then was begun to be fulfilled: inſtructing her in three things concerning that point. firſt, that the true Sacrifice ſhould be tied no more to that one place or nation, but that true adoratiõ ſhould be through out all Nations according to the Prophecie of Malachie. Secondly, that the groſſe and carnal adoration by the fleſh and blood of beaſtes, and other external terrene creatures, not hauing in them grace, ſpirit, and life, ſhould be taken away, and an other ſacrifice ſucceed, which ſhould be in it ſelf inuiſible, celeſtial, diuine, full of life, Spirit, & grace: and thirdly, that this adoration and ſacrifice ſhould be the veritie it ſelfe, whereof all the former ſacrifices and hoſtes were but ſhadowes and figures. Mal. 1, 11. and he calleth that here ſpirit and truth, which in the firſt Chapter is called grace and truth. Io. 1, 17. All which is no more but a prophecie and deſcription of the Sacrifice of the faithfull Gentils in the body and blood of Chriſt: not that it is not by externall meanes giuen to vs (for otherwiſe we being men conſiſting of fleſh and blood could not be capable thereof) but that it is ſpirit and life in it ſelfe, being the fleſh of the WORD of God. And if a man enlarge the word of Adoration, (which here as is ſayd, ſignifieth properly the worſhip of God by ſacrifice) to all the Sacraments of the new Law, they al likewiſe be ſpirit and grace, the holy Ghoſt working inuiſibly and internally vpon our ſoules by euery one of them, whereupon our Baptiſme, is water and the Holy Ghoſt: our Penance, the word of abſolution and the holy Ghoſt: our Confirmation, oyle and the Holy Ghoſt by impoſition of handes: finally all the adoration of the Catholike Church, is properly ſpirituall, though certaine externall creatures for our natures, ſtate and neceſſitie, be ioyned thereunto. Take heed therefore thou gather not of Chriſts words, that Chriſtian men ſhould haue no vſe of external office towards God: for that would take away all ſacrifice, Sacraments, prayers, Churches and ſocietie of men in his Seruice.

Chriſtian adoration through out all nations in euery place, in ſpirit & veritie: that is, in the Sacraments and ſeruice of the new law, full of ſpirit & grace: in the veritie of things before prefigured, ſpecially the true ſacrifice of Chriſts body and bloud.

Fulke 5.

The ſpirituall ſacrifice prophecied by Malachy, is interpreted by all ancient writers that ſpeake of it, to be prayers and thankſgiuing, and not the oblation of the naturall body of Chriſt, but the ſacrifice of thankſgiuing, offered in the celebration thereof. Irenæus lib. 4. cap. 34. Iuſtinus dial. cum Tryphon. Tertull. aduer. Iudæos, & contra Marc. lib. 3. Cypr. lib. 1 aduer. Iudæos, Num. 16. Chryſoſt. in Pſ. 93. & 95. Hier. in Zach. lib. 2. cap. 8. in Malach. cap. 1. Cyrill. in Ioan. l. 2. cap. 91. Aug. aduerſus Iudæos, cap. 9. Theodoret in Malach. 1. who alleageth this very text, & Paul 1. Tim. 8. for prayer. S. Auguſtine alſo, applieth it to ſpirituall and inward prayer. Tract. 15. Chryſoſtome to the ſpirituall ſacrifice of our ſelues, required of the Apoſtle, Rom. 12. In Ioan. Ho. 32. Cyrill vnderſtandeth by ſpirit, ſpirituall worſhip, and the rule of life according to the doctrine of the goſpell, which is acceptable to God the father. In Ioan. lib. 2. c. 93. Origen to the ſame effect vnderſtandeth worſhip proceeding from them, which hauing the earneſt of the ſpirite, walke according to the ſpirit. In Ioan. Tom. 14. Euthymius expoundeth it, for prayers, praiſes, and thankſgiuing, and the ſacrifice of right conſeſſe. Theophylact for worſhipping of God in mind and ſoule. So that the whole conſent of the ancient fathers, beſide the euidence of the text, is contrary to this popiſh interpretation, whereby ſpirit and truth is referred to the groſſe counterfect ſacrifice of the maſſe. Finally, though ſome externall elements, as water, bread, and wine by the ſcripture are required vnto the ſeruice of God, in reſpect of our infirmitie, yet the true worſhip of God euen in the vſe of theſe, as of any other external rite allowed by the ſcripture, is in ſpirit & trueth, not in body and ſhadow.

‡ By our latin text and the Greeke, this miraculous pond was in or vpon Probatura, that is, a place where the ſheepe to be ſacrificed, were kepte. But by other latin copies, S Hierome, & ſome Greeke fathers, Probatica is the very pond it ſelfe: ſo called, becauſe the ſheepe of ſacrifice were there waſhed.

3 In theſe lay a great multitude of ſicke perſons, of blind, lame, withered, expecting the ſtirring of the water.

4 And an Angel of our Lord deſcended at a certaine time into the pond: and the water was ſtirred. And he that had gone downe firſt into the pond after the ſtirring of the water, was made whole of whatſoeuer infirmitie he was holden.

5 And there was a certaine man there that had bene eight and thirtie yeeres in his infirmitie.

4 For an angel went downe at a certaine ſeaſon into the poole, and troubled the water: Whoſoeuer then firſt after the troubling of the water ſtepped in, was made whole of what ſoeuer diſeaſe he had.

5 And a certaine man was there, which had bene diſeaſed thirtie and eight yeeres.

8 IESVS ſaith to him, Ariſe, take vp thy bed, and walke.

9 And foorthwith he was made whole: and he tooke vp his bed, and walked. And it was the Sabboth that day.

10 The Iewes therefore ſaid to him that was healed, It is the Sabboth, thou maiſt not take vp thy bed.

11 He anſwered them, He that made me whole, he ſaid to me, Take vp thy bed, and walke.

12 They asked him therefore, What is that man that ſayd to thee, Take vp thy bed, and walke?

13 But he that was made whole, knew not who it was. For IESVS ſhrunke aſide from the multitude ſtanding in the place.

14 Afterward IESVS findeth him in the temple, and ſaid to him, Behold, thou art made whole: ‖ ſinne no more, leaſt ſome worſe thing chance to thee.

15 That man went his way, and told the Iewes that it was IESVS that made him whole.

16 Thereupon the Iewes perſecuted IESVS, becauſe he did theſe things on the Sabboth.

17 But IESVS anſwered them, My father worketh vntil now: and I doe worke.

18 Thereupon therfore the Iewes ſought the more to kill him: becauſe he did not only breake the Sabboth, but alſo he ſaid God was his father, making himſelfe æquall to God.

19 IESVS therefore anſwered, and ſayd to them, Amen, Amen I ſay to you, The Sonne cannot doe any thing of himſelf, but that which he ſeeth the Father doing. For what things ſoeuer he doth, theſe the Sonne alſo doth in like maner.

20 For the Father loueth the Sonne, and ſheweth him all things that himſelfe doeth, and greater workes then theſe will he ſhew him, that you may marueile.

13 And he that was healed, wiſt not who it was: for Ieſus had gotten himſelfe away, becauſe that there was preaſe of people in that place.

14 Afterward Ieſus findeth him in the Temple, and ſayd vnto him, Beholde, thou art made whole: ſinne no more, leaſt a worſe thing come vnto thee.

15 The man departed, and told the Iewes that it was Ieſus which had made him whole.

16 And therefore did the Iewes perſecute Ieſus, and ſought the meanes to ſlay him, becauſe he had done theſe things on the Sabboth day.

17 Ieſus anſwered them, My father worketh hitherto, and I worke.

18 Therefore the Iewes ſought the more to kill him, not only becauſe he had broken the Sabboth, but ſayd alſo, that God was his father, and making himſelfe equal with God.

19 Then anſwered Ieſus, and ſaid vnto them, Verily, verily I ſay vnto you, The ſonne can doe nothing of himſelfe, but that he ſeeth the father doe: for whatſoeuer he doeth, that alſo doeth the ſonne likewiſe.

20 For the father loueth the ſonne, and ſheweth him all things that he himſelfe doeth: and he will ſhew him greater workes then theſe, becauſe ye ſhould maruaile.

Rhem. 1. 29 Done good things.) Not faith onely, but good and ill deedes ſhall be counted, and accordingly rewarded at the day of iudgement.

Fulke. 1. Good workes which proceed from none but a iuſtified man, doe prooue that a man is iuſtified before God, by faith without workes. Iuſtification by faith.

Rhem. 2. 39 Scriptures.) Catholikes ſearch the Scriptures, and finde there, Peters and his ſucceſſors Primacie, the real preſence, the Prieſts power to forgiue ſinnes, iuſtification by faith and good works, Virginitie preferred before matrimonie, breach of the vow of continencie damnable, voluntarie pouertie, Penance, almes, and good deedes meritorious, diuers rewards in heauen according to diuers merites, and ſuch like.

Fulke. 2. Papiſts cannot find one iote of poperie allowed, either by expreſſe wordes of the Scripture, or by neceſſarie concluſion out of the ſame, and therefore by their will, would not haue the Scriptures ſearched by the common people. Popery not to be proued out of the Scriptures.

The Pope is that great Antichriſt, which was propheſied to ſit in the temple of God, that is, in the viſible Church, and to deceiue the greateſt part of them that profeſſe Chriſtianitie, although the Iewes which are out of the viſible Church, doe not receiue him, 2. Theſ. 2. ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. V.

Rhem. 4. 2 A pond.) This is as great a wonder and worke as was in the old Lawe, yet neuer recorded in the Scripture before: the conditions and circumſtances of the ſame much to be diſtinctly weighed againſt the Miſcreants of this time for many cauſes. Firſt, that God without derogation to his honour, yea to the great commendation of it, doth giue vertue of miracles, and cure to water, or other creatures. Secondly, that he giueth ſuch vertues to theſe creatures ſpecially which be by vſe and occupying in ſacred functions or otherwiſe, as it were ſanctified: for this pond was it wherein the carcaſſes of sheepe (therfore called Probatica) & other beaſts to be ſacrificed, were firſt waſhed, to which being always red (as S. Hierom ſaith) with the blood of hoſtes, this force was giuē, for the cōmendation of the ſacrifices of the Law there offred. How much more may we acknowledge ſuch workes of God miraculouſly done in or about the Sacrifice or Sacraments of the new Teſtament, which faithleſſe men wholy reiect and condemne for fables, becauſe they know not the Scriptures nor the power of God. Thirdly, that this operation was giuen at one time more then an other, and rather on great feſtiuall dayes then other vulgar times (for this was the feaſt of Paſche or of Pentecoſt) as daies more ſanctified, and when the people made greater concourſe: which ſheweth that we ſhould not wonder to ſee great miracles done at the Memories and feaſts of Martyrs or other great Feſtiuities, more then at other places and times. Fourthly, that the Angels or ſome ſpeciall Saincts are Preſidents or Patrones of ſuch places of miracle, and workers alſo vnder God of the effects that there extraordinarily be done. which ought to make Chriſtians leſſe doubt, that the force of diuers waters in the world is iuſtly attributed by our forefathers and good ſtories to the prayers and preſence of Saincts, which profane incredulous men referre only to nature, vntruly pretending that God is more glorified by the workes of nature, which be of his ordinarie prouidence, then by the graces of Miracle giuen to his Saincts or Angels by his extraordinarie prouidence. Fifthly, that miracles be not wrought on men by their faythe only and as well by their preſence in ſpirit as in body, or vpon the parties deſire or deuotion onely, according to the Heretikes pretext that God is a like preſent by his power and grace to euery man and place: and therfore that men need not to go from their owne houſes or countries to ſeeke holines or health as the places of Chriſts or his Saincts birth, death, or moſt: for none could haue benefite of this water but he that could touch it, and be in it corporally, and at that iuſt time when the water was in motion by the Angell. Yea

1 Vertue of miracles giuen to creatures.

2 The ſame giuen ſpecially to ſanctified creatures.

3 Miracles done at one time more then at an other, ſpecially in greater ſolemnities.

4 Angels and Saincts patrones & workers in places of miracles.

5 Miracles in certain places, and wrought vpō them that corporally viſite the ſame. See S. Auguſtine ep. 137.

*Yea ſixtly, we may conſider that in ſuch caſes to make the matter more marueilous, rare, & more earneſtly to be ſought for, and to ſignifie to vs that God hath al ſuch extraordinary operations in his owne will & commandement, without al rules of our reaſons and queſtioning thereon, none could be healed but that perſon who firſt could get into the pond after the Angel came and ſtirred the ſame. Seuenthly, that theſe graces of corporal cures giuen to this water, . prefigure the like force of the Sacrament of Baptiſme for the cure of ſoules, though we neede not ſeeke the correſpondence thereof to the figure in euery point. Laſtly, Chriſt by his power of excellencie and prerogatiue could and did heale this poore man that could get no body to help him into the water, becauſe he earneſtly and long deſired the remedie by God appointed, but was excluded by neceſſitie: as our Lord ſaueth al ſuch as die without Baptiſme, if they in their owne perſons earneſtly intended, deſired, and ſought for the ſame.

6 Al reaſoning in theſe matters muſt yeld to Gods pleaſure.
7 This water is a figure of baptiſme.
8 Chriſt extraordinarily healeth and ſaueth without creatures.

Fulke.4. All miracles that God did from the beginning, are not recorded in the ſcripture, but ſo manie as are neceſſarie for the confirmation of the Church in faith to attaine eternall life. And now concerning your obſeruations, I ſay it is not prooued by this place, that God giueth vertue of miracles and cure to water, for then it ſhould haue beene a like medicinable at all times. Secondlie, the text calleth not the pond probatica, but ſaith, that at or neere probatica, which was the ſheepe gate, there was a pond called Bethelda, Neh. 3.1. & 32. And albeit the ſheepe appointed for ſacrifice were waſhed therein for commendation of the ſacrifices (which is not prooued) yet we may not conclude, that therefore miracles are wrought about the ſacraments of the new teſtament, otherwiſe then we read in the ſcripture of the gifts of the holy ghoſt, beſtowed on them that were baptiſed. For the ſacraments haue ſufficient credit of the word of Chriſt, and neede not daily to be confirmed by miracles. Thirdly, the text doth not teach that this miracle was wrought on feſtiual daies, but at a certeine time when it pleaſed God. As for the miracles done at the memories and feaſts of ſaincts, when we ſee them, and haue examined them by the ſcriptures, we will admit them. Fourthly, it is not proued that angels, much leſſe ſpeciall ſaincts, are patrons or workers of miracles, in certaine places. For who can ſay that one angell was alwaies appointed ouer this pond? and though he were, yet it followeth not, that God vſeth the miniſterie of mens ſoules to ſuch purpoſes. As for the force of diuers waters, ſuperſtitiouſly attributed to the prayers or preſence of ſaincts, which both ſtories & experience ſheweth to be naturall, hath no ground out of this place. Fiftlie, pilgrimage is ſtill idolatrous gadding about, for any warrant it hath out of this place, except the papiſts firſt can prooue that any ſuch miracles are wrought at ſuch places, as the ſcripture teſtifieth of this: ſecondly, if any falſe miracles be there wrought to mainteine idolatrie and falſe worſhipping of God, contrarie to the ſcriptures, they are to be condemned with the workers of them. Auguſt De vnitat. Eccl. cap.16 Sixtly, we grant that mans reaſon in miracles knowne to be done by him, muſt yeld to Gods pleaſure. Seuenthly, whether this pond were a figure of baptiſme, we will not contend. Eightly, if vpon ſo weake a collection, you can promiſe ſaluation without baptiſme, to men that deſire it and cannot haue it, much rather you might acknowledge the ſame grace of Chriſt to perteine to infants, which are excluded from baptiſme by neceſſitie, without any fault of theirs, if they apperteine to Gods election.

Rhem.5. 14. Sinne no more.) We may gather hereby that this mans long infirmitie was for puniſhment of his ſinnes, and that men often attribute their ſickneſs to other naturall defects, and ſeeke for remedies of the world in vaine, when the ſinne for which it was ſent, remaineth, or is not repented of: and therfore that in al infirmities men ſhould firſt turne to God and goe to their Ghoſtly father, and then call for the worldly Phyſitions afterward.

Sinne the cauſe of ſickneſs and infirmities.

Fulke.5. God is our ghoſtly father, to whom we muſt goe by repentance for releaſe of his fatherly correction, & not to any popiſh prieſt.

Rhem.6. 34. I receiue not.) Our Maiſter meaneth that mans teſtimonie is not neceſſarie to him, nor that the truth of his Diuinitie dependeth on worldly witneſſes or mens commendations: though to vs ſuch teſtimonies be agreable and neceſſarie, and ſo for our inſtruction he vouchſaued to take the teſtimonies of Iohn the Baptiſt and Moyſes and the Prophets: and departing out of this world, to ſend forth al his Apoſtles, and in them al Biſhops and Lawful Paſtors to be his witneſſes from Hieruſalem to the ends of the world.

Fulke 6. The teſtimonies of Iohn, Moſes, and the prophets, are not the teſtimonies of men, but of God, ſpeaking by men. So of his apoſtles, biſhops, and paſtors, teſtifying of him out of the ſcriptures, which are the word of God, and not of man.

Rhem.7. 39. Search the Scriptures.) He reprehendeth the Iewes, that reading daily the Scriptures and acknowledging that in them they ſhoulde finde life and ſaluation, they yet looked ouer them ſo ſuperficially that they could not finde therein him to be CHRIST their king, Lord, life, and Sauiour. For the ſpecial maiſters and Scribes of the Iewes then, were like vnto our Heretikes now, who be euer talking and turning and ſhuffling the Scriptures, but are of all men moſt ignorant in the deepe knowledge thereof. And therfore our Maiſter referreth them not to the reading only or learning them without booke, or hauing the ſentences thereof gloriouſly painted or written in their Temple, houſes, or coates: but to the deepe ſearche of the meaning and myſteries of the Scriptures, which are not ſo eaſily to be ſeen in the letter.

Neither Iewes nor Heretikes finde y truth, becauſe they ſearche not the Scriptures deepely, but read ſuperficially.

Fulke.7. We confeſſe, that the ſcriptures are not only to be read, written, or painted on walles, but diligently to be ſearched, and deepely to be ſtudied, in which we know eternall life is to be found, without all addition of popiſh doctrine which is not to be found in holy ſcriptures.

The 3. part. HIS ACTES in Galilee, & in Iewrie, about the third Paſche and after.

AFTER

The Goſpel vpon Midlent Sunday.

AFTER theſe things IESVS went beyond the ſea of Galilee, which is of Tiberias:

Mt.14,13. Mar.6,32. Lu.9,10.

2 And a great multitude folowed him, becauſe they ſaw the ſignes which he did vpon thoſe that were ſicke.

3 IESVS therfore went vp into the moũtaine, and there he ſate with his Diſciples.

4 And the Paſche was at hand, the feſtiual day of the Iewes.

5 When IESVS therfore had lifted vp his eies, & ſaw that a very great multitude commeth to him, he ſaith to Philippe, Whence ſhal we bie bread: that theſe may eate?

6 And this he ſaid, tempting him. for him ſelf knew what he would doe?

7 Philippe anſwered him, Two hundred penie worth of bread is not ſufficient for them, that euery man may take a litle peece.

8 One of his Diſciples, Andrew the brother of Simon Peter, ſaith to him,

9 There is a boy here that hath fiue barley loaues, & two fiſhes: but what are theſe among ſo many?

10 IESVS therfore ſaith, Make the men to ſit downe. And there was much graſſe in the place. The men therfore ſate downe, in number about fiue thouſand.

Mt.14,23. Mr.6,46.

11 IESVS therfore tooke the loaues: and when he had giuen thankes, he diſtributed to them that ſate. in like maner alſo of the fiſhes as much as they would.

12 And after they were filled, he ſaid to his Diſciples, Gather the fragments that are remaining, leſt they be loſt.

13 They gathered therfore, and filled twelue baskets with fragments of the fiue barley loaues, which remained to them that had eaten.

14 Thoſe men therfore when they had ſeen what a ſigne IESVS had done, ſaid, That this is the Prophet in deede that is to come into the world.

15 IESVS therfore when he knew that they would come to take him, and make him king, * he fled againe into the mountaine him ſelf alone.

16 And when euen was come, his Diſciples went downe to the ſea.

17 And when they were gone vp into the ſhippe, they came beyond the ſea into Capharnáum. and now it was darke, and IESVS was not come vnto them.

18 And the ſea aroſe, by reaſon of a great winde that blew.

After theſe things, Ieſus went his way ouer the ſea of Galilee, which is the ſea of Tiberias:

2 And a great multitude followed him, becauſe they ſaw his miracles which he did on them that were diſeaſed.

3 And Ieſus went vp into a mountaine, and there he ſate with his diſciples.

*4 And the Paſſeouer, * a feaſt of the Iewes, was nigh.*

Leuit.23,2. deut.16,1.

*5 * When Ieſus then lift vp his eies, and ſaw a great companie come vnto him, he ſaith vnto Philip, Whence ſhall we buy bread, that theſe may eate?*

Matt.14.16. mar.6.38. luke 9.13.

6 (This he ſaid to prooue him: for he himſelfe knew what he would doe.)

7 Philip anſwered him, Two hundred peny worth of bread are not ſufficient for them, that euery man may take a little.

8 One of his diſciples, Andrew, Simon Peters brother, ſaith vnto him,

9 There is a litle lad here, which hath fiue barley loaues, and two fiſhes: but what are they among ſo many?

10 And Ieſus ſaid, Make the people ſit downe. There was much graſſe in the place. So the men ſate downe, in number about fiue thouſand.

11 And Ieſus tooke the bread, and when he had giuen thanks, he diſtributed to the diſciples, and the diſciples to them that were ſet downe, & likewiſe of the fiſhes, as much as they would.

12 When they were filled, he ſaid vnto his diſciples, Gather vp the broken meate that remaineth, that nothing be loſt.

13 And they gathered it together, and filled twelue baskets with the broken meat of the fiue barley loaues, which broken meat remained vnto them that had eaten.

14 Then thoſe men, when they had ſeene the miracle that Ieſus did, ſaid, This is of a trueth the ſame Prophet that ſhoulde come into the world.

15 When Ieſus therefore perceiued that they would come and take him vp by force, to make him king, he departed againe into a mountaine himſelfe alone.

*16 * And when euen was now come, his diſciples went downe vnto the ſea,*

Matt. 14 25. mar.6.47.

17 And gate vp into a ſhip, and went ouer the ſea towards Capernaum: and it was now darke, and Ieſus was not come to them.

18 And the ſea aroſe with a great winde that blew.

19 So when they had rowed about fiue and twentie

fiue and twentie or thirtie furlonges, they ſee IESVS walking vpon the ſea, and to draw nigh to the ſhippe, and they feared.

20 But he ſaith to them, It is I, feare not.

21 They would therfore haue taken him into the ſhippe: and forthwith the ſhippe was at the land to which they went.

22 The next day, the multitude that ſtood beyond the ſea, ſaw that there was no other boate there but one, and that IESVS had not entred into the boate with his Diſciples, but that his Diſciples only were departed:

23 But other boates came in from Tiberias beſide the place where they had eaten the bread, our Lord ‡ giuing thankes.

‡ Theſe wordes do plainly import, that the giuing thankes was an effectual bleſſing of the bread and working the multiplication thereof.

24 When therfore the multitude ſaw that IESVS was not there, nor his Diſciples, they went vp into the boates, and came to Capharnaum ſeeking IESVS.

25 And when they had found him beyond the ſea, they ſaid to him, Rabbi, when cameſt thou hither?

26 IESVS anſwered them, & ſaid, Amen, amen I ſay to you, you ſeeke me not becauſe you haue ſeene ſignes, but becauſe you did eate of the loaues, and were filled.

27 ‖ Worke not the meate that periſheth, but that endureth vnto life euerlaſting, which the Sonne of man wil giue you. For him the Father, God, hath ſigned, 28 They ſaid therfore vnto him, What ſhal we doe that we may worke the workes of God?

29 IESVS anſwered, and ſaid to them, This is the worke of God, that you beleeue in him whom he hath ſent.

30 They ſaid therfore to him, What ſigne therfore doeſt thou, that we may ſee, & may beleeue thee? what workeſt thou?

32 IESVS therfore ſaid to them, ‡ Amen, amen I ſay to you, Moyſes gaue you not the bread from heauen, but my Father giueth you ‖ the true bread from heauen.

33 For the bread of God it is that deſcendeth from heauen, and giueth life to the world.

34 They ſaid therfore vnto him, Lord, giue vs alwaies this bread.

twentie, or thirtie furlongs, they ſaw Ieſus walking on the ſea, and drawing nigh vnto the ſhip: and they were afraid.

20 But he ſaith vnto them, It is I, be not afraid.

21 And they would haue receiued him into the ſhip, and immediately the ſhip was at the Land whither they went.

22 The day following, when the people which ſtood on the other ſide of the ſea, ſaw that there was none other ſhip there, ſaue that one whereinto his diſciples were entred, and that Ieſus went not in with his diſciples into the ſhip, but that his diſciples were gone away alone:

23 Howbeit, there came other ſhips from Tiberias, nigh vnto the place where they did eate bread, after that the Lord had giue thanks.

24 When the people therefore ſaw that Ieſus was not there, neither his diſciples, they alſo tooke ſhipping, and came to Capernaum, ſeeking for Ieſus.

25 And when they had found him on the other ſide of the ſea, they ſaid vnto him, Rabbi, when cameſt thou hither?

26 Ieſus anſwered them, and ſaid, Verily, verily I ſay vnto you, Ye ſeeke me, not becauſe ye ſaw the miracles, but becauſe ye did eate of the loaues, and were filled.

27 Labour not for the meat which periſheth, but for that meat which endureth vnto euerlaſting life, which meat *the ſonne of man ſhall giue vnto you: * for him hath God the father ſealed.* Mat.3.17. and 17.5. iohn 1.32.

32 Then Ieſus ſaid vnto them, Verily, verily I ſay vnto you, Moſes gaue you not that bread from heauen, but my father giueth you the true bread from heauen.

33 For the bread of God, is he which commeth downe from heauen, and giueth life vnto the world.

34 Then ſaid they vnto him, Lord, euermore giue vs this bread.

43 Ieſus anſwered, and ſaid vnto them, Murmure not among your ſelues.

44 No man can come to me, except the father, which hath ſent me, draw him: and I will raiſe him vp at the laſt day.

45 It is written in the Prophets, * And they ſhalbe all taught of God. Euery man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the father, commeth vnto me, Eſai.54.13. iere.31.33.

46 Not that any man hath ſeene the father, * ſaue he which is of God, the ſame hath ſeene the father. Matt.11.27.

47 Verilie, verilie I ſay vnto you, He that putteth his truſt in me, hath euerlaſting life.

48 I am that bread of life.

49 Your fathers did eate * Manna in the wilderneſſe, and are dead. Exo.16.15.

50 This is that bread which commeth downe from heauen, that if any man eate thereof, he ſhould not die.

51 I am that liuing bread, which came down from heauen. If any man eate of this bread, he ſhall liue for euer, and the bread that I will giue, is my fleſh, which I will giue for the life of the worlde.

52 The Iewes therefore ſtroue amongſt themſelues, ſaying, How can this fellow giue vs that fleſh of his to eate?

53 Then Ieſus ſaid vnto them, Verilie, verilie I ſay vnto you, Except ye eate the fleſh of the ſonne of man and drinke his blood, ye haue no life in you.

54 * Who ſo eateth my fleſh, and drinketh my blood, 1.Cor.11.27.

The Gospel vpon CORPVS CHRISTI day.

55 For my flesh is ‖ meate in deede: and my bloud is drinke in deede.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my bloud, abideth in me, and I in him.

58 This is the bread that came downe from heauen. Not as your fathers did eate Manna, and died. ‖ He that eateth this bread, shal liue for euer.

59 These things he said teaching in the Synagogue, in Capharnáum.

60 Many therfore of his disciples hearing it, said, this saying is hard, & who cā heare it?

61 But IESVS knowing with him self that his Disciples murmured at this, he said to them, Doth this scandalize you?

66 After this many of his disciples ‖ went backe: and now they walked not with him.

67 IESVS therfore said to the Twelue, What, wil you also depart?

71 And he meant Iudas Iscariot, Simons sonne: for this same was to betray him, whereas he was one of the Twelue.

58 This is that bread which came downe from heauen: not as your fathers did eate Manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread, shall liue euer.

59 These things said he in the Synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 Many therfore of his disciples when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying, who can abide the hearing of it?

61 When Iesus knewe in him selfe that his Disciples murmured at it, he saide vnto them, Doth this offend you?

*62 What and if ye shall see the sonne of man ascend * vp thither where he was before?* Iohn 3.13.

63 It is the spirite that quickeneth, the flesh profiteth nothing: The wordes that I speake vnto you, are spirit and life.

64 But there are some of you that beleeue not. For Iesus knew frō the beginning, which they were that beleeued not, & who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore said I vnto you, that no man can come vnto me, except it were giuen vnto him of my father.

66 From that time many of his disciples went backe, and walked no more with him.

67 Then said Iesus vnto the twelue, Will ye also goe away?

68 Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we goe? Thou hast the words of eternall life:

*69 * And we beleeue and are sure that thou art that Christ, the sonne of the liuing God.* Mat.16.16.

70 Iesus answered them, Haue not I chosen you twelue, and one of you is a deuil?

71 He spake of Iudas Iscariot the sonne of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelue.

ANNOTATIONS. CHAP. VI.

Rhem.1. 27. Worke not the meate) By their greedy seeking after him for meate of the body, he taketh occasion to draw them to the desire of a more excellent foode which he had to giue them, & so by litle to open vnto them the great meate & mysterie of the B. Sacrament: which (as he prouith) did not only far passe their ordinary bread or his marueilous multiplied loaues, but Manna it self, which they thought came from heauen, and so much wondered at it.

Fulke 1. The Sacrament (saith S. Augustine) is of some receiued vnto destruction: but the matter it self, wherof it is a Sacrament, is receiued of euery man to life, & no man to destruction, whosoeuer shal be partaker of it. In Ioan. Tr. 26. Therefore these wordes of Christ, are not of the Sacrament, but of the matter of the Sacrament, which is his flesh & bloud, to be eaten spiritually by faith, whereof also S. Augustine sayth: Why preparest thou thy teeth and belly? Beleeue, and thou hast eaten it. Tr. 25.

Wicked men receiue not the body & bloud of Christ.

Rhem.2. 32. The true bread.) Though the person of Christ incarnate, euen out of the Sacrament also, be meant vnder the Metaphores of bread and drinke from heauen: & our beleefe in him, be signified by eating & feeding: yet the causes why they should be recommended vnto vs in such termes, were, that he was to be eaten & drunken in deed in the formes of bread & wine: for the which cause his body on the crosse is called his bread * his bread: & his bloud shed on the crosse, * the bloud of the grape: no doubt because the same body and bloud were in Holy Sacrament to be eaten & drunken. In which speaches, either of Christs person generally, or peculiarly of the same as in the B. Sacrament, the true bread is not taken properly & specially for that substance which is of corne, & called with vs bread: but generally for food or meate, & therfore is ioyned with it highly a terme signifying a more excellent sort of sustenance: as, the true bread, the bread of heauen, the bread of life, Sacrament after consecration: not onely for that it was made of bread, but because it is bread more truely, and by more excellent property and calling, then that which ordinarily is named bread.

Why Christ is called bread: and beleeuing, eating.

What signifieth, The true bread.

The B. Sacrament called bread.

Ierem.11.19. Gen.49,11. Lu.24,35. Act.2,42.20,7 1.Cor.10.

Fulke. 2. The true bread here signifieth, the true foode of eternall life. But thereof it followeth not, that the sacramentall bread, is called bread in the Scripture in the same sense, as though it were not materiall bread made of corne after consecration, but only spirituall foode. For seeing it was materiall bread, before consecration, there is no word of Scripture, to proue, that it is not so still. But contrariwise, the cup is called the fruite of the vine, after consecration, which is wine, saith Chrysost. in Mat. Hom. 83. Therefore, the bread is likewise bread made of corne, and so S. Cyprian sayth it is. Lib. 1. Ep. 6. Magno. As for the doctrine of Transubstantiation, was not heard of in the Church, for more then six hundred yeeres after Christ. See Annot. in Matth. 26. sect. 8. The places of Ier. 11. and Gen. 49. though of some ancient writers, they be referred to Christ, yet if they be rightly considered, pertaine not vnto him. The former is, of the aduersaries of Ieremie, who conspired to famish him in prison, and said, Let vs destroy him with wood in steed of bread. The other place is, of the abundance of wine, that should grow in the land of the tribe of Iuda. But if we follow the old writers exposition, they make nothing for transubstantiation.

Transubstantiation.

Rhem. 3. 44. Draw him.) The Father draweth vs and teacheth vs to come to his Sonne, and to beleeue these high and hard mysteries of his incarnation and of feeding vs with his owne substance in the Sacrament: not compelling or violently forcing any against their wil or without any respect of their consent, as Heretikes pretend: but by the sweete internal motions and persuasions of his grace and spirit he wholy maketh vs of our owne wil and liking to consent to the same.

Aug. cont. duas Ep. Pelag. li. 1. c. 19. & Ser. 2. de verb. Ap. c. 2

God draweth vs without free wil.

Fulke 3. Without force or violence, of vnwilling he maketh vs willing, by changing our will to embrace Christ gladly, and otherwise we neuer taught. Yet our will by corruption of nature, is bond to sinne, and not free.

Slander. Free will.

Rhem. 4. 49. Manna, and died.) The Heretikes holding the fathers of the old Testament to haue eaten of the same meate, and to haue had as good Sacraments as we, be here refuted: Christ putting a plaine difference in the very substance thereof, and in the graces and effects much more as large. Manna was onely a figure of the B Sacrament, though a very excellent figure thereof for many causes. It came in a sort from heauen, our Sacraments more: it was made by God miraculously, our Sacrament more: it was to be eaten for the time of their peregrination, our Sacrament more: it was to euery man what he liked best, our Sacrament more: a litle thereof serued and sufficed as wel as much, our Sacrament more: it was reserued for such daies as it could not be gathered, and our Sacrament much more: it was kept for a memorial in the arke of the Testament, our Sacrament much more: the discontented and incredulous murmured and gabsaid it, as our Sacrament much more: it sustained their bodies in the desert, our Sacrament both body and soule much more.

The manifold preeminences of the B. Sacrament aboue Manna.

Fulke 4. They that did eate Manna, as corporall foode onely, and not as spirituall meate by faith, died both body & soule, as they that eate the blessed Sacrament vnworthily. But they that did eate Manna by faith, worthily, did eate the flesh of Christ spiritually, and dranke his bloud spiritually, for they dranke of the spirituall rocke which folowed them, and that rocke was Christ. 1. Cor. 10, 4. Where the Apostle saith expresly, that our Fathers were all baptized, and did al eate the same spirituall meate, that we doe, and all dranke the same spirituall cup, for they dranke of the rocke, which was Christ, as we doe. So doth S. Augustine vnderstand the place, saying: Quicunq; in Manna, &c. Whosoeuer vnderstoode Christ in Manna, did eate the same spirituall meate which we doe. But whosoeuer sought, onely to fill their bellies of Manna, which were the fathers of the vnfaithfull, they haue eaten and are dead. So also the same drinke. For the rocke was Christ. They dranke therefore the same drinke that we doe, but spirituall drinke, that is, which was receiued by faith, yea which was dronke in with the body. De vtilitate Paenitent. cap. 1. Christ therefore putteth no difference betweene the spirituall substance of Manna, and his flesh and bloud: but betweene the corporall foode, which being receiued into the bellie, and not into the hart by faith, had no power of eternall life in it. And Manna was not a figure of the Sacrament, but of the bodie and bloud of Christ, which is the heauenly or spirituall matter of the Sacrament. For all that receiue the Sacrament, doe die naturally, as all they that did eate Manna, and as many as receiue it vnworthily, deserue also to die spiritually, as they did that receiued Manna vnworthily. The comparison you make, because it speaketh confusely of the Sacrament, and of the matter of the Sacrament, and hath also many obscure applications, had need to be more plainely set downe, before we can admit it, or wholly reiect it. Specially, you must declare, how the Sacrament is to euery man, what he liketh best. Item whether the arke in which it is reserued, for a perpetuall memoriall, be the Pixe. Item whether there be any daies, in which it can not be receaued, as of the Saboth day, and such like.

The Fathers of the old Testament did eate the body of Christ as we doe spiritually.

Rhem. 5. 55. How can this man?) It came not to their minde that nothing was impossible to God, that wickedly sayd, How can this man giue vs his flesh? but we may make great profite of their sinne, beleeuing the Mysteries, and taking a lesson, neuer to say or once thinke, How? for it is a Iewish word and worthy all punishment. so saith S. Cyril li. 4. c. 13. in Io. Neuertheless if one asked onely for desire to learne in humility, as our Lady did touching her hauing a childe in her virginitie, then he must take the Angels answer to her, That it is of the Holy Ghost. so saith S. Damascene li. 4. c. 14.

In the B. Sacrament. How is a Iewish word.

Fulke 5. The Iewish (how) was not of enquiring the maner, as the virgin Maries, (how,) but of denying, & not beleeuing the matter. Therefore sayth Cyrillus in the next chap. lib. 4. cap. 14. in Ioan. Oportebat igitur fidei primam &c. It had beene meete therefore first, that they had set the rootes of faith in their mind, and then to haue enquired those things, which are to be enquired. But they before they beleeued, enquired out of season. For this cause our Lord did not expound, how that thing might be brought to passe, but exhorteth that it be sought by faith. So to his disciples which beleeued, he gaue peeces of bread, saying: Take ye, and eate ye, this is my body. Likewise he gaue the cup about and said: drinke ye all of this, This is the cup of my bloud, which shal be shed for many, vnto remission of sinnes. Thou seest plainely, that to them which enquire without faith, he hath not expounded the maner of the mysterie: but to them which beleeued, although they enquired not, he hath set it forth. By this place it is euident, that beleeuing Christs wordes to be true, we may enquire in what sense they are true, and after what maner, spiritually, or corporally, the flesh of Christ is to be eaten, and his bloud dronken. Also, in that Christ gaue peeces of bread, we are taught, that it is not by transubstantiation, but after a spiritual maner, that the flesh of Christ is to be receiued: namely by faith, thorough the mightie working of the holy Ghost, not onely in the Sacrament, but also without it.

Faith. Transubstantiation.

Rhem. 6. 53. Vnles you eate.) Christ commending the Sacrament of the faithful vnto vs, said, Except you eate, &c. you can not haue life in you. So the life saith of life, and to him that thinketh the life to be a lier, this meate

Ser.6.de ieiun. 7.mens. meate ſhal be death and not life to him. Auguſt. Ser.2.de verb. Ap.c.1. And S. Leo thus, Becauſe our Lord ſaith, except you eate &c. let vs ſo communicate that we nothing doubt of the truth of Chriſtes body & bloud: for that is receiued with mouth, which is beleeued in hart and they anſwer Amen in vaine, that diſpute againſt that which they receiue. The real preſence.

Fulke 6. This place proueth inuincibly, that the fleſh of Chriſt is truly eaten without the Sacrament, therefore ſpiritually, aſwell without it, as in it. For els all that die without participation of the Sacrament, ſhould be void of eternall life. Concerning the place of Auguſtine: he declareth in the ſame ſermon, the maner of the eating of Chriſts fleſh, and drinking his bloud to be ſpirituall. Tunc autem &c. Then ſhall this be, that is, the body and bloud of Chriſt ſhall be life to euery one, if that which is taken in the Sacrament viſibly, be eaten ſpiritually in the truth it ſelfe. The wordes of Leo be againſt the Eutychian Heretikes, which did not beleeue the truth of the body of Chriſt, and therefore could not rightly receiue the Sacrament of his body and bloud, when they did not beleeue, that he had a very true body and bloud. The fleſh of Chriſt is eaten ſpiritually, not corporally.

Rhem.7. 53. And drinke.) This the Proteſtants alleage for the neceſſitie of receiuing in both kindes: but in reſpect of them ſelues (who lightly hold al this chapter to pertaine nothing to the Sacramental receiuing, but to ſpiritual feeding on Chriſt by faith onely) it can make nothing for one kinde or other. And in reſpect of vs Catholikes, who beleeue Chriſts whole perſon both humanitie and Diuinitie, both fleſh and bloud to be in either forme, and to be wholy receiued no leſſe in the firſt, then in the ſecond or in both, this place commaundeth nothing for both the kindes. Receiuing in both kindes not neceſſarie.

Fulke 7. Although theſe wordes are not proper of the Sacrament, but of the matter of the Sacrament, yet the argument is good to proue the neceſſitie of drinking, as wel as of eating, ſeeing Chriſt hath giuen the viſible Sacrament of both. And it is ſtrong againſt the Papiſtes, who vnderſtand it onely of the Sacrament. For although by their fond conceite of concomitance, they holde the bloud to be in the body, yet they doe not drinke it according as Chriſt requireth, who addeth not that word ſuperfluouſly, but to expreſſe, that his fleſh and bloud is a perfect nouriſhment, which conſiſteth (as Iuſtinus ſayth) as well of drie as of moiſt nouriſhments, to be eaten and dronken. Communion in one kind. Dial cum Tryphon.

Rhem.8. 53. You ſhal not haue life.) Though the Catholikes teach theſe wordes to be ſpoken of the Sacrament, yet they meane not (no more then our Sauiour here doth) to exclude al from ſaluation, that receiue not actually and Sacramentally vnder one or both kindes. For then children that die after they be baptized and neuer receiued Sacramentally, ſhould periſh: which to hold, were heretical. Neither did S. Auguſtine meane, applying theſe wordes to infants alſo, that they could not be ſaued without receiuing ſacramentally, as not onely the Heretikes, but Eraſmus did vnlearnedly miſtake him: but his ſenſe is that they were by the right of their Baptiſme ioyned to Chriſts body Myſtical, and thereby ſpiritually partakers of the other Sacrament alſo of Chriſts body and bloud. As al Catholike men that be in priſon, ioyning with the Church of God in hart and deſire to receiue and be partakers with the Church of this Sacrament, and thoſe ſpecially that deuoutly heare Maſſe and adore in preſence the body and bloud of Chriſt, ioyning in hart with the Prieſt, al theſe receiue life and fruite of the Sacrament, though at euery time they receiue not ſacramentally in one or both kindes. And although in the Primitiue Church the holy Sacrament in the ſecond kind were often giuen euen to infants to ſanctifie them, yet (as the holy Counſel hath declared) it was neuer miniſtred vnto them with opinion that they could not be ſaued without it. and therfore the Heretikes do vniuſtely charge the Church and the Fathers with that errour. The Sacramental receiuing of Chriſts body, not alwaies neceſſarie to ſaluation. The true meaning of S. Auguſtins wordes touching infants receiuing of the B. Sacrament. Conc. Trid. Seſ. 21.c.4. Li.1.de pecc. mer.& remiſ. 20.

Fulke.8. This is monſtrous impudencie, to grant the premiſſes, and to deny the concluſion. For if theſe wordes be proper to the Sacrament, it followeth of neceſſitie, by theſe wordes, that whoſoeuer doth not eate and drinke the Sacrament, is excluded from life. Contrariwiſe, if whoſoeuer receiueth not the Sacrament, be not excluded from life, then theſe wordes are not proper of the Sacrament, and ſacramentall eating and drinking of the fleſh and bloud of Chriſt. But further (you ſay) S. Auguſtine applying theſe wordes to infants, did not meane, that they could not be ſaued, without receiuing ſacramentally: as the Heretikes and Eraſmus did vnlearnedly miſtake him. To ſay nothing of vs, whome you compt Heretikes, (as Heretiks haue alwayes compted true Catholikes,) Eraſmus had more learning then all the rable of Rhemiſts, and had read as much of the ancient Fathers, as all the Prelates in the Chapter of Trent, that haue inuented a new meaning of Auguſtine, which can neuer be gathered out of his wordes, but is directly contrarie to the ſame. The wordes of Auguſtine, euen in the place by you quoted, are theſe. Dominum audiamus (inquam) non quidem hoc de Sacramento lauacri dicentem, ſed de Sacramento ſanctæ menſæ ſuæ, quo nemo rite niſi baptizatus accedit. Niſi manducaueritis &c. I ſay, let vs heare our Lord, not ſpeaking this of the Sacrament of Baptiſme, but of the Sacraments of his holy Table, whither no man rightly commeth, but he that is baptized. Except you ſhal eate my fleſh, and drinke my bloud, you ſhal haue no life in you. What ſeeke we any further? What can they anſwer to this, except ſtubbornes wil bend their ſtriuing ſinewes againſt the conſtancie of truth? Or is there any body that will dare to ſay this alſo, that this ſentence pertaineth not to litle children, and that they may haue life in them without the participation of this body and bloud, becauſe he ſayth not, he that ſhall not eate, as of baptiſme, he that ſhall not be borne againe, but ſayth, if you ſhall not eate, as it were ſpeaking to them which could heare and vnderſtand, which in deede litle children can not doe? But he that ſayth this, doth not marke, that except this ſentence doe binde all men, that they can not haue life without the body and bloud of the ſonne of man, the elder age alſo in vaine taketh care for it. Slander. The anciene Church with the B. of Rome erred.

What can be more plaine, then that S. Auguſtine meaneth here, as he ſpeaketh, of the Sacrament and ſacramentall receiuing at the holy Table, and that this Sacrament of the Lordes body (in his opinion) was as neceſſary for infants, as the other of Baptiſme: neither is there any one word, to inſinuate your pretended ſenſe, in al that Chapter, or in any other place, where he ſpeaketh to the ſame effect, as in the 24. Chapter of the ſame Booke. Optimè punici Chriſtiani &c. The Chriſtians of Africa, doe very well call Baptiſme it ſelfe, nothing els but ſaluation, and the Sacrament of the body of Chriſt, nothing els but life, wherevpon? but (as I thinke) of an ancient and Apoſtolike tradition, which they holde, as a thing engraffed into the Church of Chriſt, that no man without Baptiſme and participation of the Lordes table, can come, not onely to the kingdome of God, but neither to ſaluation nor eternall life. And a litle after: What other thing alſo doe they, which call the Sacrament of the Lordes Table, life, but that which is ſayde, I am the breade of life, which came downe from heauen, and the breade which I will giue, is my flesh for the life of the world, and except you eate the flesh of the sonne of man, and drinke his bloud, you shal not haue life in you. If then so many, and so great diuine testimonies, doe agree, neither saluation, nor life eternal, is to be hoped for, to any man, without baptisme and the bodie and bloud of our Lord, in vaine it is promised to litle children without these. Moreouer, if nothing but sinnes doe separate a man from saluation and eternal life, nothing is loosed in litle children, by these Sacraments, but the guiltines of sinne.

Innocentius bishop of Rome, was of the same opinion, as is manifest in his Epistle to the Bishops of Numidia, cited by S Augustine Cont. duas ep. Pel. lib. 2. cap. 4. & lib. 4. c. 4. cont. Iul. lib. 1. cap. 2. Ep. 106. Bonifacio cont. Pelag. Hyperaspist. li. 5. Ep. 23. Bonifac. where he writeth of ỹ Sacrament giuen to an infant: which custom you confesse, yet was it erroneous, because this Sacrament ought not to be receiued, but of them ỹ examine them selues, which infants can not doe. 1. Cor. 11. 28. And therefore your popish chapter of Trent, although it were true, that the fathers held not opinion of the necessitie of this sacrament for infants, (as the contrary is manifest,) yet can not excuse the Church and Fathers of that time, from a grosse errour, if they only thought it was lawfull to giue the Communion to infantes.

Rhem. 9. Cyril. li. 4. c. 14, 15.

54. I wil raise him.) As the Sonne liueth by the Father, euen so do we liue by his flesh, saith S. Hilarie. li. 8. de Trin. And S. Cyril againe thus, Though by nature of our flesh we be corruptible, yet by participation of life we are reformed to the propertie of life. For not only our soules were to be lifted vp by the holy Ghost to life euerlasting, but this rude grosse terrestrial body of ours is to be reduced to immortalitie, by touching, tasting, and eating this agreeable food of Christes body. And when Christ saith, I wil raise him vp, he meaneth that this body which he eateth, shal raise him. Our flesh (saith Tertullian) eateth the body and bloud of Christ, that the soule may also be fatted, therfore they shal both haue one reward at the Resurrection. And S. Irenaeus, How do they affirme that our bodies be not capable of life euerlasting, which is nourished by the body and bloud of our Lord? Either let them change their opinion, or els cease to offer the Eucharist. S. Gregorie Nyssene also saith, That liuely body entering into our body, changeth it and maketh it like and immortal.

The effects of the B. Sacrament both in our body and soule. Tertul. de resurr. carnis, cap. 7 Li. 4. c. 34. Nyss in vit. eateb. magn.

Fulke 9.

By participation of the flesh and bloud of Christ, which is the matter of the Sacrament, we are made partakers of eternal life both of body & soule, whereof the Sacrament is a liuely seale, and certaine assurance. But without the Sacrament also, we may eate the body and drinke the bloud of Christ spiritually by faith, the holy Ghost in vnspeakeable manner feeding vs therewith, as he doth infants, which are not to be receiued to the Lordes table. And this is the true sense of all the Doctors wordes alleadged in this section, which we acknowledge, except where they thought the Sacrament to be necessarie for infants also.

Rhem. 10

55. Meate in deede.) Manna, was not the true meate: nor the water of the rocke, the drinke indeede: for they did but driue away death or famine for a time and for this life. But the holy Body of Christ is the true food nourishing to life euerlasting, and his bloud the true drinke that driueth death away vtterly, for they be not the body and bloud of a mere man, but of him that being ioyned to life is made life: and therfore are we the body & members of Christ, because by this benediction of the mysterie we receiue the sonne of God himselfe. So sayeth S. Cyril, lib. 4. c. 16. in Io.

The B. Sacrament is the true Manna & water of the rocke.

Fulke 10.

This saying of Cyril, is true of Manna and the water taken for corporall foode only: but as they were the Sacraments of the body and bloud of Christ, they were the same spirituall meate and drinke that we receiue, as testifieth Augustine cited before, sect. 4.

Rhem. 11 Conc. Trid. Sess. 21. c. 1.

58. He that eateth this bread.) By this place the holy Councel proueth that for the grace and effect of the Sacrament, which is the life of the soule, there is no difference whether a man receiue both kindes or one, because our Sauiour who before attributed life to the eating and drinking of his body and bloud, doth here also affirme the same effect, which is life euerlasting, to come of eating only vnder one forme. Therfore the Heretikes be seditious calumniators that would make the people beleeue, the Catholike Church and Priests to haue defrauded them of the grace and benefite of one of the kindes in the Sacrament. Yet is it they that haue defrauded the world, by taking away both the real substance of Christ, and the grace from one kinde and both kindes, and from all other Sacraments. The Church doth onely (by the wisedom of Gods Spirit and by institution of Christ and his Apostles, according to time and place, for Gods most honour, the reuerence of the Sacrament, and the edification thereby) dispose of the manner and order, how the People shal receiue, and al other ciuile matters, Which him self (saith S. Augustine) did not take order for, that he might commit that to the Apostles, by whom he was to dispose his Churchs affaires. though both he and the Apostles and the Fathers of the Primitiue Church haue left vs example of receiuing vnder one kind. Christ at Emmaus, The Apostles Act. 2, 04 The primitiue Church in giuing the bloud onely to children, Cypr. li. de lapsis, nu. 10. in reserning most commonly the body onely, Tertul. li. 2. ad vxo. nu. 4. Cypr. li de lapsis, nu. 10 in housseling the sicke therewith, Euseb. The whole grace & effect thereof in one kinde. & therefore the people not defrauded. Receiuing in one or both kindes, indifferent, according to the holy Churches appointment. Authoritie of Scriptures and the Primitiue Church for receiuing in one kinde.

Ep. 118. c. 6. ad Ian. Luc. 24. 35.

If hereby the Church being warranted and in the ruling of such things fully taught by Gods spirit, as wel for the reteyning of certain heresies, that Christ God and man was not whole and al in euery part of the Sacrament, as specially for that the Christian people being now enlarged, and the communicants often so many at once, that neither so much wine could be consecrated, nor without manifold accidents of spilling or abusing be receiued (where of the Protestants haue no regard, because it is but common wine which they occupie, but the Church knowing it to be Christs owne bloud, must haue al heedful regard) therfore I say she hath decreed and for some hundreth yeres past in vse, that the Priest saying Masse, shoulde receiue both consecrate and also receiue both kindes, because he must expresse liuely the Passion of Christ, and the separation of his bloud from his bodie in the same, and for to imitate the whole action and institution as wel in sacrificing as receiuing, as to whom properly it was said, Do this, for that was spoken onely to such as haue power thereby to offer and consecrate. But the Laymen, and the Clergie also when they do not execute or say Masse them selues, should receiue in one kinde, being thereby in lesse partakers of Christs whole person and grace, then if they receiued both. For (as S. Paul saith) He that eateth the hostes, is partaker of the altar. He that eateth, saith he: for though there were drinke offrings or libaments ioyned lightly to euery sacrifice, yet it was ynough to eate onely of one kinde, for to be partaker of the whole.

The causes of the Churches practise and ordinance concerning one kinde. The Priests that say Masse, must receiue both kindes. Lu. 22, 19. 1. Cor. 11. 1. Cor. 10, 18.

Fulke 11. Contrarie to the expresse commaundement of Christ in the institution of the supper, The chapter of Trent vainely vainely goeth about to proue out of this place, which ſpeaketh not of the ſacrament, but of the matter of the ſacrament, that the one halfe of the ſacrament is not neceſſarie. Albeit, ſeeing that eating and drinking is ſo often ioyned in this Chapter, they might well knowe, that drinking is here to be vnderſtood, though it be not expreſſed, and that by eating of this bread, is meant a ful participation of Chriſt, which is both meate & drinke vnto vs. And that Chriſt by this bread, meaneth not the ſacrament in forme of bread (as they call it) is manifeſt by this argument. Whoſoeuer eateth this bread, ſhall liue for euer, but whoſoeuer eateth the ſacrament, ſhall not liue for euer: therefore whoſoeuer eateth the ſacrament, eateth not this bread. Againe the wordes are generall, both of Prieſtes and people, whereupon you may as well conclude, that the Prieſt needs not conſecrated, but in one kind of bread, as ỹ the receiuing in one kinde is ſufficient. Neither doth S. Auguſtine ſay, that the Church hath auctoritie to alter Chriſtes inſtitution, but to diſpoſe of circumſtances which are accidentall, as of time, place, and ſuch like, which pertaine not to the ſubſtance of Chriſtes inſtitution. Nowe for receiuing in both kindes, hee tooke as good order as coulde be, both inſtituting the ſacrament in both kindes, and giuing expreſſe commaundement, that al ſhould drinke of it. But thou art not aſhamed to ſay, that both Chriſt and his Apoſtles, beſide the ancient fathers of the primitiue Church, left you example of receiuing vnder one kind. For Chriſtes example you quote Luke 24.35. But in expounding the ſame text, you dare not affirme it to be the ſacrament, and if it were, you might thereof proue, that Chriſt did cõſecrate in one kind alſo, which you hold to be an abſurditie.

Communion in one kinde.

Auctoritie of the Church.

Secondly, if it were the ſacrament, (as ſome of the fathers hold) Chriſoſtome telleth you, that he vſed wine at the ſame table, in Math. Hom. 83. vpon his promiſe to drinke the fruite of the vine anewe in the kingdome of God. For his Apoſtles, you note Act. 2.42. where either you muſt graunt ỹ figure ſynecdoche, that is, that the part is named for the whole, or els you muſt ſay, that the Apoſtles who brake the bread to them, did alſo conſecrate in bread onely: for it is not ſaid: They continued in receiuing of bread, but in breaking. But it is moſt like, that the Euangeliſt meaneth, of their mutuall feaſtes of loue, which more at large is expreſſed verſ. 46. which after the Hebrue or Syrian language, were by ſynecdoche, called breaking of bread. That the primitiue Church gaue the blood onely to children, you quote Cyprian de Lapſis Nu. 10. where mention is of the cup giuen to a child, but no worde to proue, that the cup onely was giuen, except you will ſay that the blood only was giuen to old folkes, as well as to children. For the wordes are, Vbi vero, &c. But when the ſolemnities being fulfilled, the Deacon begonne to offer the cuppe to them that were preſent, and the firſt receiuing it, her place was come. Next is Tertullian, for reſeruing the body onely, lib. 2. ad vxorem: where mention is made of a ſuperſtitious cuſtome, that women had to reſerue the ſacrament, and receiue it daily before other meate: but nothing to proue, that they reſerued not the one kinde as well as the other. The like I ſay to the place of Cyprian, where a woman kept the ſacrament in her cheſt, which he calleth, Sanctum Domini, the holy ſacrament of the Lord: Why ſhould we not vnderſtand both kindes as well as one? although if a ſuperſtitious cuſtome of one kinde onely were proued, what lawfull practiſe can be proued? the reſeruation was vnlawfull, and if it were in one kinde, it was more vnlawfull. That the ſicke perſon was houſelled in one kinde, it is contrary to that which Euſebius hath, if you doe vnderſtand it. The Prieſt being ſicke, ſo that he coulde not come to Serapion that ſent for him, gaue to the boy his meſſenger, a litle of the Euchariſtie, and teaching him howe to vſe it for the ſicke mans eaſe that was readie to die, bade him wet it, and drop it into the old mans mouth: wherby it appeareth, he gaue him of both kinds, & ỹ child did, ἐπέῤῥαξεν ὁ παῖς τῷ αἵματι τὸν ἄνθρωπον. The boy did moyſten it, and withall, did poure into his mouth: and after he had ſwallowed a litle, he gaue vp the ghoſt: but if he had giuen him onely of the cuppe, what needed theſe two verbes to expreſſe the deliuerie thereof. In that fragment of the Epiſtle of Baſil to Caeſarea Patricia, there is no word to proue, that the Eremites receiued the communion in one kind, or reſerued it in one kind onely. The cauſes of your practiſe proceede of Antichriſtian pride, in that you will ſeeme wiſer then Chriſt, who inſtituted the ſacrament in both kindes, then the Apoſtles and fathers of the primitiue Church, who gaue it in both kindes, and yet knewe what belonged to the reuerent vſe of the ſacrament, better then you. And for ỹ ſame cauſe that you ſay, the Prieſt muſt conſecrate in both kindes, the people alſo ought to receiue in both kindes. For they in eating and drinking, ought to ſhew the Lords death, & the ſeparation of his blood from his body, or his blood ſhedding, vntill he come. 1. Cor. 11.26. But it is a fine reaſon that you gather of S. Pauls wordes, 1. Cor. 10.18. They that eate of the ſacrifices, are partakers of the altar, therefore it was ynough to eate onely of one kinde, to be partakers of the whole. But who will graunt you this concluſion? or that it was lawfull to abſteine from the drinke offrings, becauſe by eating, they were made partakers of the altar? They were made partakers of the altar, which tooke no benefite thereof, although they obſerued the whole inſtitution of God, much leſſe ſpirituall benefite ſhould they obteyne, that brake the ordinance of God, and were partakers but of one kind only.

Reſeruation of the ſacramentall bread and wine.

Rhem. 12 62. If you ſhall ſee.) Our Sauiour ſeemeth to inſinuate, that ſuch as beleeue not his wordes touching the holy Sacrament, and thinke it impoſſible for him to giue his Body to be eaten in ſo many places at once, being yet in earth, ſhould be much more ſcandalized and tempted after they ſaw or knewe him to be aſcended into heauen. Which is proued true in the Capharnaites of this time, whoſe principall reaſon againſt Chriſtes preſence in the Sacrament is, that he is aſcended into heauen: yea, who are ſo bold as to expound this ſame ſentence for them ſelues thus, It is not thus body or fleſh I will giue you, for that I will carie with me to heauen. Whereby if they meant only that the condition & qualities of his body in heauen ſhould be other then in the Sacrament, it were tolerable: for S. Auguſtine ſpeaketh ſometime in that ſenſe. but to denie the ſubſtance of the body to be the ſame, that is wicked.

Chriſt inſinuateth that faithles men ſhall not beleeue his preſence in the B. Sacrament, becauſe he is aſcended.

Fulke. 12 This inſinuation, is your owne imagination, without ground of the text, or teſtimonie of auncient fathers. Chriſt by theſe words doth remoue the offence, which they tooke of his baſe condition in the fleſh, and therefore could not ſee his diuine power, whereby he was able to giue his fleſh and blood to be eaten, and drunken, which his diuine power was manifeſted in his glorious aſcenſion. And yet the aſcenſion of his body from the earth, and placing thereof in heauen, is a ſufficient argument to proue, that he giueth not his fleſh and blood to be receiued after a bodily maner, in what ſhape or forme ſoeuer diſguiſed, but after an heauenly, diuine, and ſpirituall maner, by the vnſpeakable working of the holy Ghoſt. Which vniteth his natural body and blood to vs, though diſtant as farre from vs in place, as heauen is from earth: ſo that we are truely made fleſh of his flesh, and bone of his bone, and liuely members of his mystical body: not onely in this sacrament, but also in baptisme, and by spirituall communication through faith, by which Christ dwelleth in our hearts. Gal.3.27. Eph.3.17. And S. Augustine doeth rightly vse the argument of Christes ascension, to proue that Christ giueth not his body, as carnally present in the sacrament, but to be receyued spiritually by faith. August. in Io. Tract.27.30.31. and specially Tract.50. he sayeth of his naturall body: Ascendit in cælum, & non est hic. He ascended into heauen, and he is not here: with much more to that effect, See Math.26.Sect.4.

Rhem.13 63. The flesh profiteth nothing.) If this speach were spoken in the sense of the Sacramentaries, it would take away Christes Incarnation, manhood, and death, no lesse then his corporall presence in the Sacrament. for if his flesh were not profitable, all these things were vaine. Therefore CHRIST denieth not his owne flesh to be profitable, but that their grosse and carnall conceiuing of his wordes, of his flesh, and of the maner of eating the same, was vnprofitable. Which is plaine by the sentence following, where he warneth them, that his wordes be spirit and life, of high Mysticall meaning, and not vulgarly and grosly to be taken, as they tooke them. And it is the vse of the Scripture to call mans naturall sense, reason, and carnall reasoning or not reaching supernaturall truethe, flesh or blood. as, Flesh and blood reuealed not this to thee, &c. Matth.16.

This carnalitie then of theirs, stoode in two pointes specially: first, that they imagined that he would kill him selfe, and cut and mangle his flesh into partes, and so giue it them raw or rost to be eaten among them. Which could not be meant, saith S. Augustine: for that had conteined an heinous and barbarous fact, and therefore they might and should haue beene assured, that hee would commaunde no such thing: but some other sweete sense to be of his heard, mysticall, or figuratiue wordes, and to be fulfilled in a Sacrament, mysterie, and a marueilous diuine sort, otherwise then they could comprehend. Secondly, they did erre touching his flesh, in that they tooke it to be the flesh of a meere man, and of a dead man also, when it should come to be eaten: of which kinde of flesh Christ here pronounceth, that it profiteth nothing. Whereupon S. Cyril saith, This body is not of Peter or Paul, or any other like, but of Christ IESVS who is ỹ life it selfe: and therefore this Body giueth life, the very fulnesse of the Diuinitie dwelling in it. And the holy Councell of Ephesus in the 11. Anathematisme expounded also by the said S. Cyril: The Eucharist is not the body of any common person, (for the flesh of a common man could not quicken) but of the WORD it selfe. But the Heretike Nestorius dissolueth the vertue of this mysterie, holding mans flesh onely to be in the Eucharist. Thus there. And S. Ignatius cited of Theodoret, and many other Fathers haue the like. Whereby wee may see that it commeth of the Diuinitie and Spirit (without which Christes flesh cannot be) that this Sacrament giueth life.

The Capharnaites grosse vnderstanding of Christes flesh to be giuen or eaten. And howe his flesh doth profite, and not profite. August. de Doctr. Chr. li.3.c.13. Christes flesh giueth life because it is the flesh of God and man. Lib.4 c.23. in Io. Ignatius apud Theodor. dial.3 verse 64.

Fulke.13 The flesh of Christ separated from his diuine and quickening spirite whereof it hath power of life (as the Caparnaites did imagine it) profiteth nothing. But being vnited to his diuine spirite, according to the sayings of Hilarie, Cyril, and the rest that are here cited, it is not onely profitable, but also necessarie for our saluation, in his incarnation, sacrifice, and feeding of vs therewith, either in the sacrament, or without it. Neither doe we teache otherwise. But the Papistes holde this errour of the Caparnaites, of his flesh separated from the quickening vertue and power that it hath of the worde vnited to it, when they teache, that the body and blood of Christ, may be verily and truely, and not onely sacramentally eaten and drunken of the wicked, to whom it giueth no life, contrary to the expresse wordes of Christ, so often repeated in this Chapter, and the consent of the auncient fathers. Hoc est ergo manducare &c. This is therefore (sayth S. Augustine) to eate that meate, and to drinke that drinke, for a man to abide in Christ, and to haue Christ abiding in him. And by this, he that abideth not in Christ, and in whom Christ abideth not, out of doubt he neither eateth his flesh, nor drinketh his blood spiritually, though carnally and visibly, he presse with his teeth, the Sacrament of the body and blood of Christ: but rather he eateth and drinketh the Sacrament of so great a thing to his condemnation. Tract.26. in Ioan. Againe, of wicked men he saith, It is not to be said, that they eate the body of Christ, because they are not to be counted among the members of Christ. And that I speake not of other thinges, they cannot be both the members of Christ, and the members of an harlot. Finally, he him selfe saying, he that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, abideth in me, and I in him, sheweth what it is, not onely in sacrament or sacramentally, but in very deede, to eate the body of Christ, and to drinke his blood. de Ciuit Lib.21.Cap.21. In declaring in what pointes the carnalitie of the Capernaites consisted, you confesse with S. Augustine de doct. Christ. lib.3.cap.16. that these wordes of Christ: Except you eate the flesh of the sonne of man &c. be figuratiue. Wherein then standeth the figure, in the wordes flesh and blood, or in the wordes eating and drinking? Verily our Sauiour Christ doeth so plainely affirme, the bread which he will giue to be his flesh, which he will giue for the life of the worlde, that we must needes vnderstand his body crucified, and his blood shedde for vs, or his humanitie sacrificed for vs: then it remaineth, that the figure be in eating and drinking, and so the whole question is of the maner of eating and drinking which is eyther literall and without figure, (as Papistes take it) receiuing into the mouth and body, or els spirituall and figuratiue, (as S. Augustine there teacheth) by communicating with the passion of Christ, and by sweete and profitable recording, that his flesh was crucified and wounded for vs. Which communication by faith and the working of Gods spirite, is the eating and drinking of his very body and blood, eyther in the sacrament or without it, and which giueth eternall life to all that receiue the body and blood of Christ, eyther in the Sacrament or without it.

Slander.

The wicked doe not eate and drinke the body & blood of Christ.

The very body and blood of Christ are receiued spiritually.

Rhem.14 64. That beleeue not.) It Is lacke of faith, you see here, that causeth men to sturre against this high truethe of the Sacrament: as also it may be learned here, that it is the great and mercifull gift of God that men doe against their senses and carnal reasons, beleeue and submit themselues to the humble acknowledging of this Mysterie: lastly, that it may well "by Christs intimation of Iudas, be gathered, that he specially spurned against our Maisters speaches of the holy Sacrament.

Iudas ỹ chiefe of them that beleeue not ỹ reall presence.

Fulke.14 It is want of faith in the Papistes, that they thinke our Sauiour Christ cannot giue vs his flesh and blood, to be eaten and drunken of vs, except it be receiued with the mouth into ỹ body, and to beleeue that which they beleeue contrary to the worde of God (though it be neuer so contrary to sense,) it is no true faith, but a false perswasion of lies. Finally, though Iudas did not beleeue the doctrine of Christ, yet it is not like that hee shewed any outward token of vnbeleefe, seeing it is said, that the twelue continued with him.

Popish infidelitie.

Rhem.15 66. Went backe.) It can be no maruell to vs nowe that so many reuolt from the Church, by offence or scandall vniustly taken at Christes body and blood in the Sacrament, seeing many of his Disciples that sawe his wonderfull life, doctrine, and miracles, forsooke Christ him selfe, vpon the speache and promes of the same Sacrament. for the mysterie of it is so
